WICKERSHAM TO EXPLAIN

Attorney General May Be Called on to Give Papers to the House.

Accused of Purposely Delaying Action Too Long in Alaskan Case.

Washington, July 15.—Attorney General Wickersham is to be called on to explain to the house why action in certain Alaskan cases was delayed until after the statute of limitations had spoiled the government's case, if the decision reached by the house committee on judiciary is acted upon favorably.

The decision is in line with charges made by Delegate James Wickersham of Alaska against the attorney general. Delegate Wickersham introduced a resolution of inquiry in the house some time ago, and this has been favorably acted upon by the committee to which it was referred, after secret consideration of the charges made.

Statute Became Operative.

Attorney General Wickersham is accused of deliberately permitting the statute of limitations to run against agents of the Alaska syndicate who defrauded the government through perjury to the extent of $50,000. The resolution would call upon the attorney general to furnish the house with all documents, affidavits and testimony in his possession relating to an affidavit submitted to him more than a year ago and sworn to by H. J. Douglas, former auditor of the Alaska syndicate, in 1908.

The attorney general declines to discuss the action of the committee. His friends intimate that the charges are

FEUD MURDER IN PENNSYLVANIA

Posse Is Searching for Slayer of Old-Time Enemy.

McConnellsburg, Pa., July 15.—William Lockard, who lives in the mountains of Fulton county, twelve miles from here, shot and killed J. Kell Foster near New Granada last night and today a posse is searching for him. The Lockard and Foster families have long carried on a feud and both men are said to have threatened each other and as a result to have gone heavily armed.

JOHN W. GATES HAS BAD NIGHT

Financier Rallies With Dawn But Shows No Real Gain.

Paris, July 15.—John W. Gates had a bad night, but rallied this morning and at noon his condition was about the same as it has been generally for two or three days.

Mrs. Gates and her son, Charles G. Gates, are constantly at the bedside or in an adjoining room. Both are quite exhausted by their anxious watch.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Gates was said to be somewhat better. His physicians are watching the heart action, which varies from 82 to 99 and when irregular responds readily to stimulants. Dr. J. Russell Ryan of London, who will arrive here tonight, will remain over Sunday in frequent consultation with Dr. Gros and the other attending physicians.

MAY QUARANTINE GIRL FOR LIFE

Typhoid Carrier Is Responsible for Three Deaths and Fifty Cases.

Chicago, July 15.—Miss Rose Boersma, known as the typhoid girl, who is being guarded by a city detective on a dairy farm south of Chicago, may be quarantined for life, according to health department officials.

Although enjoying perfect health, she is said to be a carrier of the disease germs and directly responsible for three deaths and fifty cases of fever in the south division of the city. She has been under quarantine for more than a month.

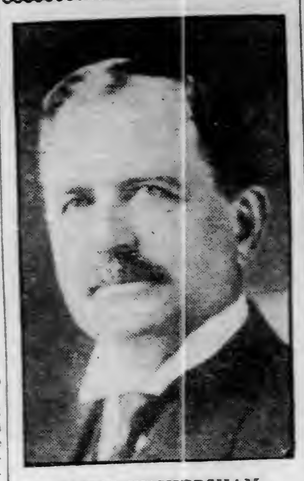

SAYS HE SOLD HER "ROPES" FOR CIGARS

Girl Sues Broker From Whom She Bought Cigar Stand.

Chicago, July 15.—Miss Millie Stuber, the new proprietor of a cigar stand in the lobby of the Board of Trade, has had the broker who sold her the business arrested on a charge of obtaining money by means of a confidence game.

She charges that somebody substituted "ropes," "torches," and "nickel movements" for the boxes alleged to be filled with clear Havana goods just before she took possession of the stand, and that her business has been ruined as a result.

Story of Photographs Taken Before Art Was Known Pulls $1,000.

Woman and Convict Involved in Maze of Columbus Scandal.

Columbus, Ohio, July 15.—"The lady or the convict," which of them painted the pictures?

Has a legislature the right to pay $250 each for copies of faded "photographs" of former governors who reigned before photography was invented?

Were the portraits really old and faded, and why was the commission given a woman wholly unheard of as a painter, either of portraits or of houses?

The last tempest to rise and rage in the teapot of the statehouse rotunda is in the nature of an art scandal, in which every one denies the statement of every one else, also his own. Those principally involved are George Long, secretary to the governor; Mrs. E. J. Hollingsworth, former drawing teacher in the Dayton schools and now employed at $40 a month in the state library, and Henry Weidenbach, the pardoned ex-convict, who retouched the "art treasures" in the capitol.

Gave Her $1,000.

Mrs. Hollingsworth is said to have painted the copies of portraits of Governors Kirker, Lucas, Shannon and Corwin. For this work the last general assembly voted her $1,000. That is one-half the price usually paid painters for making original portraits from life.

On the other hand, many people about the statehouse openly charge that ex-Convict Weidenbach painted the copies.

The necessity for copying the pictures at all is also denied by some who have investigated. They say the four portraits in question were stored in the basement. When Weidenbach cleaned and renovated them photographs were taken of them, which show that they were in remarkably good condition.

An "art guide" to the state house.

RAISE RATES ON ATLANTIC

Steamship Companies Say Higher Wages Make It Necessary.

London, July 15.—The trans-Atlantic steamship lines embraced in the Atlantic conference have decided to increase the saloon and second cabin passenger rates for both eastbound and westbound traffic by $2.50, the advance to take effect on Monday next. The steerage rates will not be changed.

May Raise Freight Rates.

Liverpool, July 15.—A number of the steamship companies involved in the recent shipping strike today decided to advance the passenger rates to the United States and Canada by from $1.25 to $2.50 in order to offset the increase in wages which they were obliged to grant the strikers. It is possible that there will be some increase in freight rates.

WOMAN AND TWO DAUGHTERS DEAD

Bodies Are Found in Bedroom Filled With Gas.

New York, July 15.—Julia Cali and two daughters, Angelina and Anna, aged 16 and 17, were found dead on the floor of their bedroom in Brooklyn, suffocated by gas. The police have not settled whether their deaths were accidental or a case of double murder and suicide. All the windows were shut and the gas was flowing from an open lighting jet.

"ENEMIES" ON BOTH COASTS

New York and San Francisco Are to Be Attacked From Sea.

Defenses of Each City Will Be Tested in Maneuvers.

New York, July 15.—Naval militia began embarking today all along the North Atlantic coast for the coming attack on New York harbor and its defenses. The purpose of the maneuvers next week is to ascertain the strength of New York's "back door." Seventeen of the biggest battleships ever gathered here on a war footing will try to reach the city through Long Island sound, and the battle for the preservation of the metropolis will be fought in Gardiner's bay, at the eastern end of Long Island.

The battleships Ohio, Mississippi and Maine today took aboard the amateur sailors from this state, who will participate in the attack.

Militia on Defensive.

The city will be defended by most of the naval militia details in their own ships, backed by a swarm of torpedo boats, submarines and an aeroplane.

Participating in the maneuvers are the naval organizations of New York, Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, South Carolina and the District of Columbia.

The maneuvers in these waters will last until the amateur sailors go home, on July 22, when the warships will go to Provincetown for the regular summer practice.

Will Try to Land.

San Francisco, Cal., July 15.—Nine companies of coast artillery, reserves of the state of California encamped at the Presidio today, preparatory to taking part in maneuvers with the regulars next week when a naval force will attempt to run the blockade of batteries and forts that defend San Francisco, and land a force inside the Golden Gate.

BEDE DEFINES AN INSURGENT

Also Predicts Taft's Nomination and Re-Election to Presidency.

St. Paul, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The difference between an insurgent and a progressive has been determined. J. Adam Bede of Pine City solved the problem. Here is what he said:

"An insurgent is a progressive who has not been vaccinated. He's got to have a little of the taming virus injected before he stops insurging and strikes a sensible gait."

Mr. Bede is traveling and lecturing. He said while in St. Paul that he believed President Taft's renomination and re-election are assured, although Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin may instruct their delegates for La Follette.

MARS FALLS; WILL NOT DIE

Famous American Aviator Has Serious Tumble at Erie.

Accident Follows His Subscription for Kreamer's Family.

Erie, Pa., July 15.—J. C. ("Bud") Mars, the aviator hurt in a fall with his aeroplane yesterday, will recover and will be able to leave the hospital in about ten days.

This announcement was made by the attending physicians after further examination of the injured man today. Mars' injuries are not nearly so severe as at first reported. He has a slight fracture of the skull, which is not serious, but no other bones are broken, and beyond a slight hemorrhage of the lungs, which was stopped this morning, there are no internal injuries apparent.

Because of the accident to Mars' machine the aviation meet has been called off. It was being held under the auspices of a local newspaper.

Mars lost control of his air ma-

AVIATOR NEARLY KILLED BY FALL

J. C. (BUD) MARS.

Mars has many daring aerial feats to his credit and in one respect his record is unique. He is the first American aviator, if not the only one of any nationality, to have made what was practically a globe-encircling tour. Mars left San Francisco in December, and returned to New York last month, laden with trophies and a log book of over 250 successful flights. On one occasion he had a royal passenger—the king of Siam—on a twelve-mile flight. If Mars' accident at Erie terminates in death, his will be the seventy-fifth life known to have been lost by aviation accidents since the first was recorded in the death of Lieut. Thomas Selfridge, U. S. A., Sept. 17, 1908.

ON WAY TO ST. PETERSBURG POST

CURTIS GUILD AND WIFE.

New York, July 15.—Curtis Guild and his wife have sa[illegible] for London. Mr. Guild is on his way to St. Petersburg to fill the post of ambassador. He has a difficult problem before him in the protest which has been raised against the failure of Russia to recognize the rights of Jewish United States citizens to enter Russia as freely as Christians.

LITTLE GIRL IS "BAD MAN"

Twelve-Year-Old Tries to Rob Bank in Ohio Town.

Pokes Revolver at Cashier and Tells Him to Give Her Money.

Akron, Ohio, July 15.—Pretty little 12-year-old Edna Peebles, who tried to rob the Falls Savings Bank at Cuyahoga Falls, did the job between getting the meals for her family. She had been used to rigging up her playmates as Wild West citizens, and so, her imagination fired by something she had seen at a moving picture show, she thought of the bank when she found that she needed money at home.

Her mother an invalid, and her father not being employed regularly, the girl figured out what she thought would be the best method of replenishing the family supply of money.

The tiny girl who was bold enough to try to rob the Cuyahoga Falls bank in broad daylight, by poking a revolver into the cashier's face and ordering him to "cash up," looked little more than a babe as she stood in the parlor of the Akron county jail, a prisoner. She came down the stairs with her finger in her mouth.

Likes Being In Jail.

Edna says she likes being in jail. When she was taken there the matron discovered she was wearing a suit of boy's clothing under her dress. The trousers were rolled up, since Edna's skirts came only to her knees. She had planned to get possession of the money in the bank's vaults, then to discard her own garments and escape in the guise of a man.

Nineteen-year-old Carl Peebles, the

PROBE GRAND JURY "LEAK"

Sensational Allegations Made in Connection With Oleo Indictments.

Judge Landis Will Hear Two Charges Answered Next Monday.

Chicago, July 15.—What federal officers declare is the greatest conspiracy to violate the secrecy of the grand jury room ever known to the federal court in this city is being investigated under directions from Judge K. M. Landis, in connection with the recent indictments on charges of defrauding the government in the oleomargarine cases.

Simmered down to simplest form, the charges state that two of the men interested in the conduct of the grand jury—Henry Coyne, an internal revenue officer, and Martin Dahl of Maywood, a member of the grand jury—were in a conspiracy by which the twenty-six men indicted knew of the action against them long before it was even reported to the judge.

Searching Investigation.

Following the indictment by the federal grand jury of twenty-three men prominently connected with the oleomargarine industry and three internal revenue inspectors, Judge K. M. Landis began a searching investigation into a leak in the grand jury room.

This investigation follows a special report handed in by the jury to the effect that secrets of the jury room had been revealed to outsiders, and that improper use had been made of the information.

Judge Landis called before him Martin Dahl of Maywood, a member

ASK FOR FEDERAL MINT AT SEATTLE

Spokane Men Also Want Gold and Silver Coinage Resumed.

Spokane, Wash., July 15.—At a meeting of the Mining Men's Club of Spokane yesterday the following resolution was adopted:

"We recommend that congress direct the secretary of the treasury to establish a mint at Seattle, Wash., for the coinage of gold and silver; that the mints at Denver and San Francisco be ordered to resume coinage of both metals, and that all demands for the coins of either and both metals in the district lying west of the Mississippi be filled from one or the other of the mints herein named; transportation charges to be paid by the federal government and charged against the mint from which shipment was made."

The placing of lead and zinc and their products upon the reciprocal free list was also favored.

DR. D. F. DUMAS BUYS BULLDOG

Cass Lake Mayor Denies Any Relations With "Sandy" Young.

Bemidji, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. D. F. Dumas, mayor of Cass Lake and held on charges brought by Assistant State Fire Marshal Samuel Fullerton in an attempt to connect him with a proposed robbery and burning of the Puposky postoffice, was here yesterday to buy a bull dog, and incidentally confer with his attorney, Marshall A. Spooner.

Dr. Dumas preferred to talk about his new dog, a fancy, full blooded animal. The Cass Lake mayor purchased a collar and chain from the hardware man who testified at the doctor's preliminary examination that he had sold Dr. Dumas a revolver. At the depot, with his dog in tow, Dr. Dumas said:

"There isn't a thing that I can say. I don't know this man "Sandy" Young, arrested for burning the Blackduck building and I don't see how he can possibly say anything that would in any way incriminate me."

DENEEN ON STAND AGAIN

Says He Read First Copy of White's Confession of Bribery.

Tells of Veto Action That Cost the Jackpot $30,000.

Washington, July 15.—Governor Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, who figured in the Lorimer senatorial fight, again testified today before the senate Lorimer committee. It was the third day of Mr. Deneen's occupancy of the witness stand, and it was expected that he would conclude before adjournment. The hearing opened with a discussion of the alignment of the factions in Illinois politics in connection with the senatorial contest.

Mr. Hanecy suggested that none of the followers of Chauncey Depew or John R. Thompson voted for Lorimer until after a senatorial conference held in the governor's office. Mr. Deneen replied that the purpose of that meeting was to prevent their followers from voting for Lorimer.

Suggested By Kelley.

Governor Deneen said that before the publication of the alleged White confession, Editor Kelley of the Chicago Tribune suggested to him that a special session of the legislature be convoked to consider the Lorimer case. The witness said that probably after the publication he tentatively wrote a message proposing a special session. At a consultation with his advisers, however, the conclusion was reached that the investigating committee probably would consist of the men who were guilty and the special session was not called.

Governor Deneen told of being in the office of the Tribune the night the White story was printed. He said he read probably the first copy printed, and walked out with it hidden in his vest. He explained that he had been warned that everyone leaving the building that night would be searched.

Guessed At White's Meaning.

White's reference to the $30,000 loss to the corruption "jackpot" because of the governor's vetoing "one" bill was taken up. Governor Deneen said that he had examined his vetoes and "guessed" White was referring to the

SHOWS SENATORS HIS FINE HORSES

Watson of West Virginia Entertains Party of Colleagues.

Fairmont, W. Va., July 15.—Six United States senators, colleagues of Senator Clarence W. Watson, will be his week end guests, arriving here today, and remaining until Sunday night. Arranged in their honor is an exhibition of the famous Watson show horses, which will be given during the afternoon, while in the evening a banquet will be served on the lawn of the Watson home. Fairmont farms, to which the Democratic members of the West Virginia legislators are invited.

Senator Watson accompanied by Senators Chamberlain, Overman, Johnson, Bailey, Kern and Taylor, is expected to arrive about noon. To meet the distinguished guests and to witness the horses, the general public is invited to the farms from 3 until 6 o'clock. The entire stable of horses will be shown in events similar to those in which they won blue ribbons in all the big horse shows of this country and Europe.

Mrs. C. W. Watson, who has won many plaudits as a woman whip, will handle the ribbons in several of the events. The management of the farm announces a program that will extend over two hours.

SHOOTS AGENT OF BLACK HAND

Pennsylvania Man Opens Fire at Signal to Pay $2,000.

Jeanette, Pa., July 15.—Upon the signal of the "Black Hand" to turn money over to its agent, George Labarto, a wholesale fruit merchant, shot and killed Vencl Ceciliano, an Italian barber, here today, and immediately thereafter eight letters from the "Black Hand" demanding money of Labarto upon pain of death were turned over to the police by Mrs. Labarto.

Early today Ceciliano entered Labarto's store, and stood lighting a stogie, when Labarto opened fire with an automatic revolver from the rear of the establishment. The lighting of the stogie was the signal for Labarto to pay Ceciliano $2,000. This signal was explained to Labarto in a letter he received after his barns were burned down and several horses destroyed.

The first shot struck Ceciliano in the face and he fell to the floor. Three more shots struck him in the breast and legs. The fifth shot carried away a little finger on a hand of Labarto's daughter, who stood in line of the firing.

Ceciliano was taken to a hospital, where he died, and Labarto has escaped.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

CONTINUE AT OLD PARK

No Games Will Be Played on the Point This Year.

Sox Will Return for Long Series—Betting Must Stop.

The Duluth White Sox will return home Monday and open here with the La Crosse team. Both the Sox and the Outcasts have been playing good ball of late, although losing a majority of their games. They both have braced and some good baseball is expected during the series starting Monday afternoon.

All of the games during the balance of the season will be played at Athletic park, as the new grounds on Park Point will not be ready during the present season.

According to the announcement of the management, all betting will be stopped in the grandstand during the games at home during the remainder of the season, as well as all rough talk and rough remarks to the members of the teams. Order will be enforced and any fan not acting the part of a gentleman will be ejected from the stand.

While Winona has a good lead at the present time, local officials believe that the race will tighten and for the rest of the schedule will be close between Winona, Superior, Duluth, Eau Claire and La Crosse.

The Outcasts have been strengthened and are at the present time playing good ball.

The Sox will be home for about twenty games and are expected to boost their percentage during the home stay.

DREYFUSS WANTS STAR BATTERY

Pittsburg Latest to Enter the Bidding for O'Toole and Kelly.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 15.—Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburg National league baseball club, is the latest bidder for O'Toole and Kelly, the star battery of the St. Paul American Association team. Dreyfuss today telephoned to Ray Meehan, business manager of the St. Paul club, not to close up any deal until he can send a man here to put in an offer for the two players.

This makes five clubs bidding for the services of the two men. Scouts from both Chicago big league clubs and Cleveland will watch the coveted players in action this afternoon. The St. Louis National league management is ready to pay $16,500 for the pair and it is reported that President Charles Murphy of the Cubs will raise this bid to $20,000.

350 HORSES READY FOR KALAMAZOO MEET.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 15.—Recreation park is crowded with over 350 horses, and horsemen are flocking into the city in anticipation of the grand circuit meeting here next week. The Indianapolis contingent arrived early today, there being a train of twenty cars.

DECLARES MURDER WAS COLD-BLOODED

Polk County Attorney Scores Simpson in Outlining State Case.

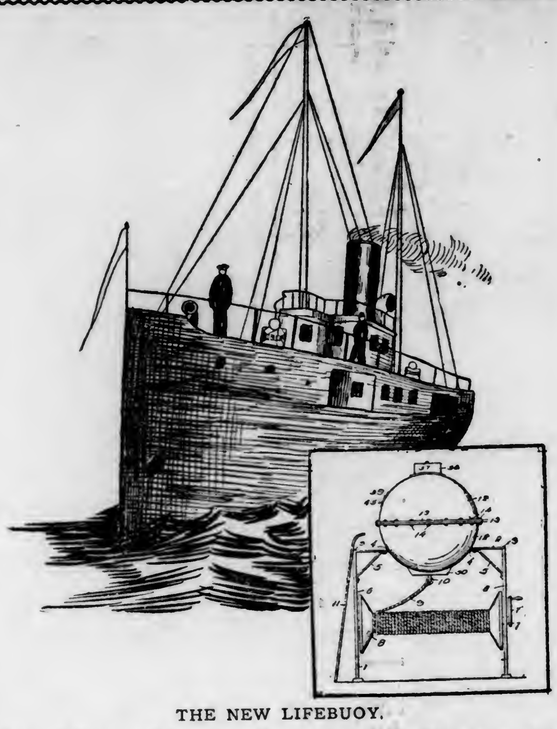

Crookston, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Just before noon today the jury in the Sivert Simpson murder case was completed, the last three men accepted being J. Tofsley of Hammond, George Rose of Euclid, and Henry Steeg of Crookston, who were secured from the third special venire summoned.

County Attorney Hagen began outlining the case for the state, contending that the murder of Theodore Nelson by Simpson, in the latter's home, was one of the most cold blooded in the history of the Northwest and that Simpson had full knowledge that Nelson had gone upstairs to get Mrs. Simpson to prepare a lunch prior to the shooting.

MARINE NEWS

LAKEWOOD MAN HAS LIFE BUOY THAT IS ATTRACTING ATTENTION

THE NEW LIFEBUOY.

Frederick Woods, a farmer who lives near Lakewood, this county, has invented a lifesaving buoy that has attracted the attention of vessel and marine men.

The lifebuoy is spherical in form. An 8-foot buoy has a capacity of four tons and seating facilities for thirty passengers. It does not have to be launched. When it is perceived that a vessel is about to sink, the passengers can enter the buoy, and when the vessel goes down the buoy will float with its human load.

There is an attachment by which fresh air can be supplied for the passengers. The air also helps in keeping the craft afloat. The tube extending from the top of the buoy can be used to support a light or other distress signal. A water chamber is provided for drinking water and there is room for a large amount of provisions to be stored.

The buoy is of metallic construction and can withstand the roughest weather. It can be carried on the deck of a ship or other convenient portion of a vessel. By means of its air chambers, its two casings and the weights at the bottom, it will not roll over and turn its passengers upside down.

Marine men and construction engineers who have examined it declare it to be mechanically correct. It is probable that experiments to determine its availability on lake boats and ocean carriers will be conducted in the near future.

FAIR WEEK'S RECORD FOR THE ORE DOCKS.

Ore shipments from the local port were heavy during the past twenty-four hours, twenty-one big freighters having left for the Lower Lakes, carrying almost 150,000 tons of ore.

During the week about 116 boats carrying over 812,000 tons of ore departed from this port, a record which is considered pretty good for this season when shipping is so quiet. Most of this was from the Allouez dock in Superior.

FLED FROM POOR FARM

Crippled Immigrant Feared He Would Be Sent Back to Russia.

Strange Disease in His Heel Prevents Him Earning Living.

When William Luvineo learned that efforts would be made to have him sent back to Russia, his native land, he made his escape yesterday afternoon from the poor farm, where he was receiving free care.

Luvineo appealed to the county for assistance some time ago on account of his poor physical condition. When he appeared before the commissioner he was hardly able to walk and was in a serious crippled condition. He was taken to the poor farm and placed under the care of the physician there, who diagnosed his case as an enlargement of the calcis, or heel bone.

Attention of the immigration department was called to his case yesterday, and the officers of this department were preparing to have a warrant for his arrest made in order to comply with the laws of that department. However, before this was done, word came from the poor farm that he had made good his escape.

Now the poor farm authorities are looking for him, and if he is located, his case will be taken up by the immigration officials with the view of sending him back to Russia, for he is now in such condition that he cannot work and would be a public charge.

Lighting Talks

NUMBER 37 DULUTH, JULY 15, 1911

Wisdom, or Folly?

It is a commonplace axiom that the ordinary man learns only from his own experience, but a wise man learns from the experience of others.

And this holds true of cities also, as well as of individual men.

Right now, before plunging into the folly of building a Municipal Electric plant that could not benefit either the City or any considerable number of its citizens, this City of Duluth has the opportunity of learning wisdom from the experience of other cities—not one or two cities only, but a majority of all the cities and important towns in the country which today own and operate municipal electric plants.

For several weeks we have been gathering statistics of the cost of city lighting by municipal plants; and these figures, mark you, are NOT taken from a flamboyant speech by some irresponsible politician a thousand miles or more from any of the cities named, but in every case have been obtained direct from the Municipal plant itself.

Here, then, for each city named, are the number of arc lamps maintained by the municipal plant and that plant's own figures on the cost to the city of each lamp per year:

City—	Population.	Number of Arc Lamps.	Cost per Lamp per Year.
Alameda, Cal	23,500	190	$78.00
Alexandria, Minn	3,100	12	75.00
Alpena, Mich	12,700	104	69.12
Anderson, Ind	24,500	285	60.00
Argenta, Ark	11,200	68	75.00
Ashtabula, Ohio	18,500	135	60.00
Austin, Minn	7,000	114	48.00
Austin, Texas	30,000	230	72.50
Batavia, N. Y.	12,000	95	60.00
Bay City, Mich	45,000	471	55.00

In every large city a part at least of the distribution lines for Electric lighting have to go underground, and this alone would make the cost much greater than in such small towns as Alexandria and Austin, Minn., but we have included in our alphabetical list all the municipal plants which were willing to give us this information on cost. That alphabetical list will be continued in the next Lighting Talk.

Meanwhile, in scanning the above figures, remember that the Duluth-Edison Electric Company offers to light Duluth at the EXTREMELY LOW price of $45 a year for each arc light. Further, we will give this City FREE every year the contract may run $1,500 worth of Electric Light for public buildings, improved parks, and an Electric sign on the Aerial Bridge.

And this offer is not made at the expense of our customers, but includes a substantial reduction in the shape of free lamp renewals to every lighting customer.

Don't miss the next Lighting Talk, in next Tuesday's Herald.

CHARMS OF MUSIC UNDER FIRE.

London Globe: "Leigh, Costin and myself," said Maj. P. H. Fawcett, R. E., in describing some exciting incidents of the exploration of the course of the River Heath in Bolivia, carried out last year by a party of which he was the head, "were some distance ahead of the leading canoe, the other having fallen behind owing to the difficulties of threading the labyrinth of snags.

"On rounding a turn on the river we saw about a mile ahead a collection of newly made palm huts on the point of a large sandbank, and at the same moment heard an uproar of barking dogs, shouting men and screaming women and children, emphatic testimony to their appreciation of their civilized neighbors. We immediately endeavored to reach the huts before they had disappeared.

"Opposite the sandbank was a red earth cliff, cut out by the river, and some twenty feet to thirty feet in height, extending the whole length of the sandbank. Against this cliff and on the sand were tied up fifteen large canoes and various rafts, known as balsas. With South American savages it is foolish to show any hesitation, so passing directly under the high bank we landed opposite the huts.

"There was no sign of a savage—only barking dogs. As the second canoe came up, however, an arrow struck it, passing completely through about an inch and a quarter of wood, succeeded immediately by more arrows and by fire from shotguns, which latter had probably been stolen at different times from the rubber pickers on the Madre de Dios and Tambopata. How some one was not hit it is difficult to understand.

"Seeing that reprisals were out of the question, Maj. Fawcett, trusting in the proverbial influence of music, told one of the party to strike up a tune on the accordion, which, though considered under some circumstances a somewhat deadly instrument must have been a new experience to savages. The rain of arrows, however, did not abate. In time the savages showed themselves ready to parley and the party landed and were assisted up the cliff. After an interview with the chief lasting about half an hour, according to Major Fawcett, the party returned to the bank, with the chief's son wearing my hat and all of us the best of friends. We were not molested by Guarayos again throughout the river, although there was evidence of an extensive population."

CAN STILL LEARN FROM HIS FATHER

C. N. Ziegler ("Zig"), of the Kelley Hardware company, claims to have some kind of a reputation as a fisherman, but he has to "take his hat off" to his father.

Thursday evening "Zig" called to his "dad," "Let's go fishing tomorrow and I'll show you how to get some trout." The father was willing and with Al Ribenack of the Lenox hotel and Mr. Rinkel of the Winchester Arms company they went down below Carlton in an automobile. Whether "Zig" knows how to get fish or not, it must be conceded that he knows more than one stream and lake which abound in the speckled beauties. Arriving at the fishing grounds everybody immediately proceeded to "get busy," and "Zig" was not the last man to get his line in the stream. But when he came back in the evening he had a surprise waiting for him. He had but four trout, and they weren't anything to "brag" about. His father had fourteen and more than half of them were more than fifteen inches in length. Since yesterday "Zig" has been keeping very quiet. His father, E. B. Ziegler, is spending the summer with him and his daughter.

Dollar Dinner Will Be Given By Newly Organized Progressive League.

W. I. Nolan and Congressman Lenroot Are Also on the Program.

The recently organized Progressive Republican league of Duluth will hold a dollar dinner at the Spalding next Tuesday evening at 6:30. Invitations are being sent to as many interested in the progressive Republican cause as can be reached and a big gathering is expected.

A good list of speakers has been obtained for the occasion. James Manahan of St. Paul, who prosecuted the suit on behalf of George S. Loftus against the Pullman Car company, will be one of the speakers. W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis, a representative in the legislature and some humorist, is also down on the program, and Congressman I. L. Lenroot of Superior is also expected. An effort is being made to obtain Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth, but his acceptance has not yet been received.

JAMES MANAHAN.

Frank T. McNally will act as toastmaster at the banquet and he, with I. K. Lewis and C. R. Magney, is making the arrangement. The Progressive Republican league is a strong body and many who have not yet officially entered the fold are expected to be present. It is also expected that a number of members of the State Bar association, who will be here for the annual meeting, will attend the banquet.

10c will buy a permit to smoke a Palma Leo, clear Havana cigar.

FIRST OF HERALD FREE CONCERTS

Third Regiment Band Will Be Heard at Lincoln Park.

A splendid program has been prepared for the Herald band concert which will be given tomorrow, weather permitting, at Lincoln park by the Third Regiment band.

This is the first appearance by the band since its triumphant return from Camp Lakeview and Minneapolis, where it won the first prize as the best band in Minnesota. Bandmaster Jens Flaaten has arranged a delightful program which will appeal strongly to everybody and the afternoon ought to be most enjoyable. Extra car service has been promised by Manager Warren of the Duluth Street Railway company so that the crowds will have no trouble getting to and from the park.

The location for the concert is one of the best in the city. The whole family can go and enjoy it. The children will welcome a romp in this pretty park and it is a most comfortable and cool place to rest while listening to the inspiring strains of the music.

The hours set for the program are from 3 to 5 o'clock and the music will be of the best.

This park can be reached by taking the West Duluth cars to Twenty-fifth avenue west and walking up three blocks or by taking the West Third street cars direct to the park.

"IT'S COOL IN DULUTH," "IT'S HOT IN NEW YORK."

"It's cool in Duluth."

This is the slogan that has been adopted by many Duthians, and among them is Leon Solomon, a local merchant. The slogan is stamped on all his mail, and is placed in a conspicuous manner on every envelope.

That the motto is attracting attention is evidenced by the fact that business men of other cities are replying to it. Return mail to Mr. Solomon from the Central Hat company of New York today, bore the words, typewritten over the front of the envelope:

"It's hot in New York City."

SAFE DEPOSIT BOX LOOTED

Mrs. Margaret Klock Armour Robbed of $142,000 By Employe.

Money Spent on Flashy Gewgaws and Cheap Art Works.

Kansas City, Mo., July 15.—Mrs. Margaret Klock Armour, widow of Simeon B. Armour, the packer, filed suit in the circuit court here for $142,000 against Miss Harriett Byington, to cover peculations alleged to have been made by Miss Byington while serving as companion and housekeeper to Mrs. Armour.

The first intimation the public received concerning peculations against Mrs. Armour came about three months ago, when the Star published a story saying that $50,000 in bonds and securities had disappeared from Mrs. Armour's safety deposit box at the New England National bank of this city.

Had Safety Deposit Key.

The fact that the majority of the business of Mrs. Armour's household was conducted by Mrs. Armour's companion, nurse and housekeeper, and the fact that this companion held the keys to Mrs. Armour's safety deposit box, was mentioned, but the name of the companion was kept secret.

Mrs. Armour refused to believe any charges of dishonesty against Miss Byington. Meanwhile new discoveries increased the amount of missing securities until the Armour attorneys stated it at $150,000.

Under pressure brought to bear by friends of Mrs. Armour, and despite the expressed confidence of her employer, Miss Byington, several days after the discovery of the peculations, confessed that during the three years she had been in Mrs. Armour's employ she had from time to time extracted securities from the safety deposit box and sold them to brokers on the pretense that she was doing it for Mrs. Armour, who "desired the money for private charities."

Cache in Dog Kennel.

Miss Byington then directed investigators to a dog kennel at the Armour home, where about $25,000 of the securities were found buried in a corner. She promised to restore the remainder.

It developed that thousands of dollars had been spent by Miss Byington for fine jewelery and for works of art, for which she had paid fabulous prices, in some cases apparently with the use of little judgment.

From storage houses in this city, under Miss Byington's directions, Mrs. Armour's representatives recovered $10,000 worth of jeweiry bought from one firm in the course of eighteen months, $8,000 worth of Oriental rugs and $4,000 worth of mezzo tints purchased from a local art dealer, whose shop she had frequented a great deal. Other gewgaws and flashy art works were found in Miss Byington's apartments at the Armour home.

Refused to Believe Charge.

Miss Byington came to Kansas City from Rochester, N. Y., and entered Mrs. Armour's employ about three years ago.

Mrs. Armour is 76 years old. Gradually she came to lean more and more upon her companion, until eventually she gave her a large part in the control of the financial management of her household. When told by her attorneys of the disappearance of securities, Mrs. Armour refused to take any action against Miss Byington, and for weeks afterward kept her in her employ.

The amount named in the suit—$142,000—is stated to cover the entire amount of alleged peculations, including the bonds and the value of property returned.

STANDING UP FOR WILEY

Druggists of Minnesota Do Not Want to See Him Removed.

Send Letter of Protest to President Asking for His Retention.

The members of the Northwestern branch of the American Pharmaceutical association do not want Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture of the United States, removed from office.

At their meeting recently held in Duluth in connection with the meeting of the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association, resolutions were adopted against removing Dr. Wiley from office. The resolutions will be sent to President Taft, Dr. Wiley and the varous drug journals.

Dr. Wiley is accused of hiring an expert chemist at more salary than the law allows. The law alows $11 per day and it is claimed that Dr. Wiley hired an expert with the understanding that the $1,600 yearly would be used at the rate of $20 a day for laboratory work and $50 per day for court work.

The resolutions follow:

"To his excellency, the president of the United States:

"Whereas, It has come to our notice through the public press that there is a movement on foot to secure the removal of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist, bureau of chemistry, of the department of agriculture, and

"Whereas, We the pharmacists of the Northwest believe that the charges brought are insufficient to warrant his removal, and

"Whereas, In our opinion Dr. Wiley has adopted a most efficient means for the conservation of public health, and

"Whereas, We have the utmost confidence in Dr. Wiley's integrity"

Therefore be it resolved that we believe that his removal would be unwarranted.

We therefore humbly request and pray that this resolution be given consideration.

Signed. W. A. FROST,
President, St. Paul, Minn.

RIPARIAN RIGHTS FIXED

Judge Morris Defines Rights of Property Owners on River.

Norton Not Cut Off From Channel By Change in Course.

A decree in an equity case of unusual importance and interest was entered yesterday afternoon by Judge Page Morris of the United States circuit court. It involves the ownership of lands on St. Louis river abutting government waters, including riparian rights.

The case which called forth the decree is that of George W. Norton, as executor and trustee of the estate of George W. Norton, deceased against Robert B. Whiteside, E. P. Alexander and Andrew J. Tallas. It has been before the court for many months, and now that the court has filed a decision, it is understood that an appeal will be made to the United States supreme court.

The island in the St. Louis bay, known as Big Island, or Clough's Island, is owned by Mr. Whiteside, except for a few acres which belonged to Alexander.

Prior to 1902, the war department had a channel in the river some distance north of Clough's Island. This channel formed the boundary line between the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin, and placed the island in Wisconsin. In 1902 the war department had completed operations started in 1899 for a new channel, which was made south of the old one, but between Clough's Island and the mainland. Mr. Whiteside claimed riparian rights to the old channel, and Mr. Norton claimed them to the new. Judge Morris sustains Norton's claim.

It appears that as a result of the improvements made by the war department, that material was taken from the harbor basin, and deposited in the water between the main land, which was owned by the Norton estate, and the new channel. In the meantime the defendant Tallas constructed a house upon this made land, and he claimed possession of it. The land thus made has never been surveyed, and Judge Morris does not pass upon the ownership of it, and states that the plaintiff, Norton, will have to take it before the court on the basis of facts, and not as an equity case.

The case being one of equity, the evidence was heard by Henry F. Greene, and the report submitted to the court on Sept. 3, 1910. 1st January it was taken up before Judge Morris, and the hearing then lasted nine days.

Notice of an appeal has already been made.

J. L. Washburn appeared on behalf of Norton, while Alfred Jaques and L. C. Harris represented Whiteside. J. B. Richards appeared for Tallas and Wilson G. Crosby was the attorney for Alexander.

ISLANDS ARE INCREASING

Fears as to Sea's Ravages on the British Coasts Allayed.

Forty-Eight Thousand Acres Added in Thirty-Five Years.

London, July 15.—Fears as to the ravages of the sea on the coasts of Britain have been allayed by the report of the royal commission on coast erosion, which shows that, instead of gradually disappearing beneath the water, the British Islands are annually increasing in area.

"On the whole," say the commissioners in their report, "we think that, while some localities have suffered seriously from the encroachment of the sea, from a national point of view the extent of erosion need not be considered alarming."

Actual figures prove that in the past thirty-five years no less than 48,000 acres have been added to the national area, while during the same period no more than 6,640 acres have been washed away. The places which have suffered most have been the east coasts of England and Ireland, but measures have been adopted which will prevent the loss in those localities from being so great in the future.

Inartistic Stamps.

The blurred and inartistic appearance of the new postage stamps issued on the occasion of the coronation of King George has given rise to very heated discussion. Both among the public and in artistic circles dissatisfaction is expressed at the complete lack of resemblance in the portrait of His Majesty printed on the stamps. It has been suggested that a fresh issue should be designed with a new portrait of the king, and the subject is to be debated in the House of Commons. Meantime, the stamps are being withheld from circulation until the stock of old issues become exhausted.

Gets a Sinecure.

Lord Colebrooke has just been appointed to one of those many snug billets in the king's household that are reserved exclusively for peers. He has been made captain of His Majesty's Honorable Corps of Gentlemen-at-arms at a salary of $5,000 a year. He will have a very easy time of it earning his pay. The corps, which was founded in 1509, is mustered only on great ceremonial occasions when men in gorgeous uniforms are needed to provide picturesque effects at big court functions. It was long ago relieved of all responsibility for the safekeeping of His Majesty's sacred person which was the principal purpose for which it was created. Scotland Yard detectives, who never appear in gorgeous uniforms and seek above all things to render themselves inconspicuous, now look after that.

The members of the corps are all army officers of good family who have done something to distinguish themselves. But by one of those singular anomalies which seem to govern the bestowal of exalted ornamental jobs in England, it is not deemed essential that the commander of the corps should even ever have been a soldier. He need know nothing about military drill and discipline. The two essential qualifications are that he should be a peer and of the same political persuasion as the party in power. For all the best paying soft snaps in the king's household are regarded as part of the spoils of victory at the polls and are at the disposal of the prime minister.

King Only Approves.

The king simply approves of the appointments. According to the official announcements by which the public are made acquainted with these appointments he is always "pleased to approve," but, as a matter of fact, he must approve, whether he is pleased or not. And when there is a change of government all the high-salaried heads of departments in the king's household are given the sack and have to clear out of Buckingham palace to make way for another batch of peers who are the political adherents of the new prime minister. But these high salaried appointees have very little to do with the running of things at Buckingham palace. That is done by the permanent members of the palace staff who have no chance whatever of being promoted to the best paying posts. For the most part, those who fill the latter are simply required to put in an appearance on state occasions, don gorgeous raiment, and look as solemn and imposing as they know how.

Made a Peer in 1906.

Lord Colebrooke was only made a peer in 1906, when a barony was bestowed upon him. But being a liberal, and the liberals being in power, his elevation to the peerage put him in the running for a court billet, and he was soon afterwards appointed a lord-in-waiting, a position which he held until his promotion to the better paying office which Lord Denman vacated to become governor-general of the Australian commonwealth. There are seven lords-in-waiting. They are paid $3,500 a year each. But only one has to be on duty at a time. Each of them in turn "waits" for a fortnight, and then is allowed twelve weeks off. But, although it seems extremely probable that the political powers of the peers will be greatly curtailed ere long, there is no indication of the existence of any widespread desire to deprive them of those exalted, exceedingly well paid, and for the most part, purely ceremonial offices of which they now enjoy a monopoly. It appears to be generally recognized that when it comes to filling an ornamental role a peer is likely to do it better than anybody else.

HOKE SMITH DECLINES TERRELL'S RESIGNATION.

Atlanta, Ga., July 15.—Governor Hoke Smith has received the resignation of Senator J. M. Terrell, who had announced that he would not return to the United States senate as one of Georgia's representatives. The governor declined to accept the resignation and requested the senator to continue in the senate at least during the present session of the legislature. Senator Terrell also mailed a copy of his resignation to the president of the United States.

Governor Smith a few days ago was elected United States senator by the legislature, and one of his opponents was Mr. Terrell.

In declining to accept the resignation, Governor Smith refers to precedents established in the United States senate and points out the case of Senator Purcell of South Dakota, who continued to serve for several months after the selection of Senator Gronna, who was at the time a member of the house.

REV. MATHIEU MADE BISHOP OF REGINA.

Winnipeg, Man., July 15.—It is announced here that Rev. O. E. Mathieu, superior of Quebec seminary, Quebec, has been appointed by Pope Pius X. as bishop of the Regina diocese, embracing Southern Saskatchewan.

HONORS FOR GEN. DIAZ

Former President of Mexico Given Brilliant Receptions in Paris.

Greatly Affected By Demonstrations of Welcome at Spanish Ports.

Paris, July 15.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz has received many official honors in Paris. Among the Latin American residents of the capital his presence has been the occasion of a series of brilliant receptions and feats. The former president of Mexico was received by President Fallieres at the Elysee and later the president paid a return visit to the Mexican. Senora Diaz and Mme. Fallieres also exchanged visits.

Several hitherto unchronicled incidents of the long voyage on the German steamship Ypiranga from Mexico, have been told by fellow passengers as interesting side-lights on the aged soldier's personality. Gen. Diaz mingled freely with all and talked on a variety of subjects. Outspoken thoughts of bitterness at his revolting fellow-countrymen formed the least place in these talks so eagerly indulged by fellow travelers, anxious to get a close-to-hand view of the man accredited with the building up of modern Mexico.

The great topic of interest to Gen. Diaz was the old world, whose shores he was approaching for the first time in his life. He wanted to know all about the nations of Europe, and especially of France and of Paris. He recounted often his experiences with the troops of Napoleon III, to help the Maximilian campaign when he was made prisoner by the French officers, who treated him, however, with the greatest courtesy, more, indeed, as a friend.

He was greatly affected by the demonstrations of welcome at the Spanish ports. Unlike the times later when he was officially greeted in England and France, he was more at home there—for those about spoke his own Spanish tongue. At Santander boat-loads of enthusiastic visitors brought him masses of beautiful flowers. The president was literally buried under floral pieces, made up from the finest beds of Spanish gardens. Somebody estimated these flowers as worth at least $2,000.

The day after leaving Santander Gen. Diaz saw the purser. "Purser," he said, "I think we'd better throw those flowers overboard now. It was very nice to have given them to me, but I have no use for them." On the way back to his cabin he said to a friend: "After all, flowers are all humbug. It would have been better to have spent the money on the poor."

At Havre as he was about to land Gen. Diaz said:

"I am going into a vast country, whose languages I do not know. Alas, I fear I am too old to learn." Then, with a gleam in his eyes and a straightening of his shoulders, he added: "But Europe has much to interest me; I am sure I shall be happy here."

After French Savings.

The financiers of New York and Berlin are in active rivalry for opportunities to invest French savings which amount to more than $1,000,000,000 yearly. German diplomacy has sought for ten years to list government bonds on the Paris exchange, but the French government has steadfastly refused their admission. French 3 per cents sell at 96 while imperial German 3 per cents are usually at about 85. The German government desires to avail itself of the French market for an enormous number of municipal, state and imperial issues, thus releasing German savings for investment in industrial and commercial undertakings.

Berlin bankers have been borrowing great sums from Paris regularly through Swiss houses, but up to the present the French government will not allow German securities of any sort to be openly listed on the Paris bourse. New York has been able this year to make its first official entry on the floor of the Paris stock exchange, where three different American stocks are now admitted. The probability is that some twenty other companies will receive within the next twelve months official recognition.

Probably the Last.

The great international aviation contest just ended probably will be the last for this year, as the public has been shocked by the recent fatalities. These deaths have caused much discussion, not only in parliament, but in technical quarters regarding the impropriety of offering prizes of from $40,000 to $50,000 and thus attracting daring experimenters, who are inadequately trained and using machines which have been subject to no authoritative test or examination.

The effort to reduce weight by lightly constructed motors was the probable cause of the burning to death of Princetau and Landron by bursting gasoline tanks. Monsieur Ernest Archdeacon of the Aero Club of France, advocates an official examination of aeroplane motors as the only means of preventing too light construction.

JEWISH PRIVATE EXAMINED AGAIN

Is Given New Chance to Win Commission in the Army.

Washington, July 15.—Private Frank Bloom of the Fifteenth Cavalry, the young Jewish soldier whose attempt to gain an army commission resulted in a public reprimand by President Taft of Col. Garrard, commandant at Fort Myer, Va., on account of an alleged race prejudice, has been given another examination. It will be several weeks, however, before it will be known whether young Bloom was successful. "Lack of aptitude," which means general appearance, soldierly aspect and pleasing address, is said to have been responsible for Bloom's failure upon the former examination. So far as his studies were concerned, his showing was satisfactory.

ATWOOD LANDS ON WHITE HOUSE GROUNDS.

Washington, July 15.—Harry N. Atwood, the Boston aviator, in his aeroplane called on President Taft yesterday at the White House. He was introduced to the president by Acting Secretary of War Oliver, and Mr. Taft, on behalf of the Aero club of Washington, presented him with a medal for his flight from Boston to Washington.

The feat of making a safe landing in the White House grounds is considered remarkable by aviation experts, for not only is the space on which he landed narrow, but the density of the trees offers such difficulties that other aviators have "balked" at the idea.

After the presentation of the medal, Atwood made a remarkable ascension through the sprays of the White House fountain and flew to the polo fields in Potomac park. The machine was left there for the night, guarded by a detail of police.

RETAIL TRADE AFFECTED BY HEAT

New York, July 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of trade today says:

Prevalence of high temperatures throughout the country has adversely affected business, notably in retail lines.

In response to the broader demand for finished materials the steel mills are rapidly resuming operations, having taken less time than usual for repairs and inventories. Plants in the Pittsburg district are working fully up to the June rate, while the leading interest is running at slightly over 67 per cent of its steel ingot capacity.

A more favorable showing than had been expected was disclosed in the unfilled tonnage report of the steel corporation, orders on hand during June increasing 246,871 tons, whereas in the two months immediately preceding there was a combined falling of fully 324,000 tons. Only a moderate accumulation of pig iron has been reported and it is believed the output of merchant furnaces is now below consumptive requirements. Two additional stacks have been blown in at the south. Activity in the structural division is temporarily more pronounced in the west than in the east, but almost 30,000 tons have been taken here within the past fortnight. Numerous orders for railroad equipment are in sight, but delay is noted in making awards.

Buyers are still hesitating about placing forward orders in drygoods. Prices are generally well maintained, exceptions being noted in some gray cloths. Jobbers have extensive plans for merchandising special sales during the coming week, when many of the largest buyers will be in the east to attend important meetings. Curtailment of mill operations is still very large in all textiles. Dress goods agents will open their new lines about the 20th or 25th inst. The best trade reported in men's wear is on wool suitings of a fancy description. Yarns show an easy tendency.

Movement of footwear gradually increases.

Buyers are more numerous in the New England market, but caution continues to be displayed in all transactions. Retail trade, however, continues to show improvement. Pronounced strength still rules throughout the leather market, with special firmness in sole leather. Trade is not active and business is reduced by the slowing down of shoe factories and by excessive heat. Except for a slight weakness in England, all European markets are strong.

PLAIN HINT FOR BANKERS.

Directors Must Direct or Bank Be Treated as Unsafe.

Washington, July 15.—Directors of national banks who fail to hold meetings frequently and who give other evidences of a lack of personal interest in the affairs of their banks, will hereafter find a national bank examiner overhauling their institution at least four times a year.

Orders have been issued to all national bank examiners to request banks in their districts to hold directors' meetings at least once a month, to maintain a discount committee, an examining committee and to adopt a permanent system of approving loans and discounts. Those which refuse will be examined at least quarterly, a procedure adopted with banks which are considered unsafe.

ONE PEACE PLAN COMPLETE.

Japanese Will Lecture at Minnesota and Other Universities.

New York, July 15.—The custodians of the $10,000,000 Carnegie peace foundation announce a campaign of popular education to establish friendly relations between the United States and Japan. The division of intercourse and education has arranged an exchange "to give to each people better knowledge of the other and to help build up a public opinion in both countries that will resist all attempts to arouse antagonism."

Under this plan Dr. Inazo Nitobi, president of the first higher college of Tokio and one of Japan's foremost educators, will be brought here early in October. He will spend about six weeks each at Brown university, Columbia, Johns Hopkins and the Universities of Virginia, Illinois and Minnesota, lecturing on Japanese history and current problems. The following year a "distinguished American" will be sent to Japan for a similar service.

The plan is to make this exchange permanent, representatives of each country visiting the other on alternate years. The committee says that the Japanese government has heartily approved the undertaking.

INSURANCE HEADS VISIT ZENITH CITY.

J. M. Diment of Owatonna, Minn., and E. W. Randall of St. Paul, representing the committee on investments of the grand lodge of the A. O. U. W., visited here all day Thursday, making a careful study of local conditions.

The lodge has made large investments here in the last six months and intends to increase its holdings.

E. W. Randall is president of the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company, which company is represented here by John F. Shea, and also has invested heavily in Duluth. Both expressed themselves as highly pleased with local conditions.

NINETY-NINE REASONS FOR HENWOOD RETRIAL.

Denver, Colo., July 15.—Ninety-nine reasons, including charges of bias against Judge Greeley W. GAS BLOWS UP PART OF OKLAHOMA FARM.

Tulsa, Okla., July 15.—A gas explosion on the David Shipman farm seven miles south of here yesterday tore up earth for twenty acres, injured one man seriously, killed five horses and demolished a large amount of valuable machinery.

The explosion was preceded by a rumbling noise resembling an earthquake. There was a mighty concussion and then the earth gave way. Charles Reed, a rig builder, jumped from a height of forty feet and was badly hurt. The horses were a considerable distance from the place where the explosion first broke, but before they had time to get away the earth broke under them and the gas burst forth. The animals were thrown a great distance.

It is thought that gas gathered near the top of an oil well being dug on the land to such an extent as to force open the sixty feet of overlying earth.

"I LOVE HIM," HER EXCUSE

Girl With Whom William Nichols Eloped Would Die for Him.

Man Has Daughter Older Than Girl He Called His Wife.

"I love him," said Claret Hofer yesterday afternoon in the woman's department at police headquarters when asked why she had accompanied William Nichols to the Pacific coast and return

The two were arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Irvine at the instance of the federal authorities, after having been traced half way across the continent and back, by a United States secret service agent attached to the department of justice. They are being held under the federal white slave law.

The Hofer girl is but 17 years of age, while Nichols is 40 years old, with a daughter 4 years older than she is. They have been traveling steadily for a month as man and wife, it is claimed, although Nichols has another wife at his home in Minneapolis. The girl said that they had left just a month ago yesterday. Because of her age Nichols is amenable to the federal statutes.

Miss Hofer is unusually pretty. She appears to be more than 17 years of age. Above the average height, with flashing dark eyes and regular features and becomingly clad in a black picture hat and a pretty gown, she attracted unusual attention when she was brought into the police station yesterday afternoon by her alleged husband.

She appeared to take the situation philosophically, although she does not seem to be unusually sophisticated or experienced.

"Are you married to this man with whom you were taken to the police station?" she was asked.

"Why, yes, we're married," she answered. "But we were not married by any minister or judge. We were just married."

"Do you love him?"

"With all my heart and soul," she readily replied. "I love him; I love him. I would almost die for him. I think more of him than anybody in the world."

Miss Hofer was arraigned in police court this morning on a statutory charge. She entered a plea of guilty, but disposition of the case was adjourned until Monday. Bail was fixed at $50.

Nichols was arraigned in the federal court before Commissioner Pressnell this morning. He asked for a preliminary hearing, which was set for 3 o'clock this afternoon.

chine during a flight and crashed from a height of several hundred feet to the ground. The heavy biplane dropped on top of him.

Wife Suffering Shock.

The aviator's wife witnessed the accident and is in a serious condition on account of the shock. Mars had made one successful flight earlier in the afternoon.

Several thousand spectators were watching Mars while he was circling the field. Suddenly the machine made a dip downward and Mars was seen to jerk at something in an effort to regain control. It was a futile attempt, and an instant later the biplane struck the ground. The machine was completely wrecked and Mars lay under it.

The amazed spectators stood still for a moment. There was a scream, and Mrs. Mars, the bird-man's wife, rushed toward the wrecked machine. Before she reached her husband's side, however, she was overcome with grief and was carried from the field.

Saw Kreamer Fall.

Chicago, July 15.—Mars left here late Thursday night for Erie, after having witnessed the fall of D. A. Kreamer, who met death while trying for a pilot's license. The sight of Kreamer's accident, while not unnerving Mars, seemed to weigh heavily upon him.

"Another life given up to cope with the air," he said, "and it has taught us nothing. No one ever will know what was the exact cause of the accident. Every condition seemed favorable, and still he fell."

Still speaking of Kreamer's fall, and apparently almost with an intuition of coming harm, he added:

"Now that he is gone, we must remember his family. I for one will be glad to chip in to start a fund that should be swelled to $10,000 for his children."

Following this, Mars started a fund, contributing an amount for the relief of Kreamer's family.

"corporation bill," revising the corporation laws of the state.

The governor said he vetoed it because it allowed a "barbershop to incorporate and buy a railroad." The witness said a large number of the leading lawyers of the state had seen him in behalf of the bill.

"Did Mr. Bancroft, general counsel of the International Harvester company, see you about not vetoing the bill?" asked Mr. Hanecy.

"I do not recall whether he called before or after the bill was passed."

The witness added that he did not know whether Bancroft favored the feature of the bill which was objectionable to Deneen.

Illinois Politics Aired.

Nearly every phase of Illinois politics was entered into by Attorney Hanecy in cross-examining the witness during his six-hour siege yesterday. The testimony constitutes a history of political alignments in Illinois from the time Mr. Deneen was first elected state's attorney for Cook county. Mr. Hanecy tried to show that it was Deneen who organized the legislature during his term as governor, and not Lorimer, but Mr. Deneen was certain that he himself did not dictate the chairmen of committees and that Lorimer had attended a conference "somewhere" wherein it was agreed to have the minority Republicans and Democrats organize the house which voted for Lorimer.

Deneen Man's Action.

Mr. Hanecy sought to show that if fifteen Deneen men had voted for Hopkins on the first day's balloting for senator, Hopkins would have been elected. Mr. Deneen was not willing to say that all these fifteen were full-fledged Deneen men.

"Hopkins received 61 votes in the house," declared Mr. Hanecy, "and these 15 more would make 76, and that would have been enough to have elected him, would it not—for you say he had a majority in the senate?"

"Well, 61 and 15 make 76," responded Mr. Deneen. "That far you are correct. Your addition is correct, but your conclusion is wrong. He would have been elected had the sixty-one not changed their votes, but they would have changed."

Mr. Hanecy read from Mr. Deneen's testimony Thursday in which he said his friends retarded Hopkins' election until the gubernatorial election contest was settled, and asked if the witness had these fifteen men in mind when he so testified.

Mr. Deneen said he had in mind Senator Jones, Representatives Hull and Brady and others interested in his reforms.

Could Not Recall.

Mr. Deneen could not recall exactly when his friends first discussed the question of postponing the election of Hopkins, but said it was some time after the balloting for senator had begun.

"I didn't have a stop-clock, a diary or a phonograph," declared Mr. Deneen when pressed for a more definite answer.

The witness explained that all that was done to postpone Hopkins' election was to have about 10 men vote for Foss. On the last ballot, he said, they returned to Hopkins.

of the grand jury, and Henry Coyne, internal revenue officer, and ordered them to be prepared Monday to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court in having betrayed their trust.

The indicted revenue officers are accused of having accepted bribes from oleo manufacturers, while the men connected with the industry are accused of conspiracy to defraud the government out of the tax of 10 cents per pound placed on their product.

Were Given Tip.

Immediately after the indictments were returned the grand jury presented a special report to Judge Landis to the effect that through a leak in the grand jury room the indicted men knew of their indictment ten days ago.

Judge Landis at once began a searching investigation into this, and uncovered what government officials believe to be the greatest conspiracy to learn the secrets of the grand jury in the history of the federal court in Chicago.

Two of the men alleged to be implicated in the "leak" were ordered by Judge Landis to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court. They are Henry Coyne, an internal revenue officer, and Martin Dahl of Maywood, a member of the grand jury.

Practically all of the men indicted appeared in the United States district clerk's office and gave bonds.

LITTLE GIRL IS "BAD MAN"

girl's best friend and faithful brother, is filled with his admiration at his little sister's daring.

"Gee!" he exploded in the jail parlor, "she's got more nerve than I have! Why, her fingers couldn't have pulled the trigger if the revolver had been loaded."

"The little one armed to the teeth, was not an easy proposition to conquer," said the marshall who arrested her. "She put up a good fight and tried to cover me with the gun. I caught her wrist, then threw her back over my arm and wrenched the revolver away from her."

Edna's father, Henry Peebles, saloon porter, is being held for non-support and neglect of the little girl.

Blames Her Father.

"Do you know this is your fault? You are largely to blame for what this child has done now," cried Prosecuting Attorney Frank Rockwell, in his talk with the man.

Mrs. Lillian Peebles, the mother, is an invalid, and Edna has been housekeeper-in-chief for her and her two brothers, Carl and John, in her home, 399 Bryan street.

Mrs. Peebles, lying in a darkened room, shaking with palsy and sick with fever, told of the companionship between herself and the child.

"She would talk to me like an older person," she said, and she knew so much and was such a dear companion for me that I can't sleep, haing her away. Do you think I'll get her back today?"

Edna had been teasing for new clothes. "I wouldn't be homely if I had nice dresses," she had said, fluffing her pretty brown hair about her face.

The authorities may find a more suitable home for the little girl.

edited and issued by Mrs. Hollingsworth, copies of which are in the possession of officers of the state, contains reproductions of these photographs and comments upon the remarkable state of preservation of these pictures.

During all the work of renovating and cleaning the paintings in the state house, Mrs. Hollingsworth was with Mr. Weidenbach almost constantly and seemed deeply interested in his work.

Then came the announcement that the portraits mentioned above could not be renovated. This occurred after pictures had been taken showing them in excellent shape after renovation.

"Enlarged Photographs."

Mrs. Hollingsworth gave the reason. She said the portrait painters had fooled the state. They had painted no portraits, but had enlarged old photographs of the four governors in question and had touched them over with oil. She volunteered to copy the "old and faded" works of art on the chance that the general assembly would approve the work and pay for it.

This was done. On the last day of the session Secretary Long had $1,000 added to the unauthorized deficiency appropriation bill and it was passed. That $1,000 went to Mrs. Hollingsworth, the voucher having been cashed last Friday.

But some cruel person consulted an encyclopedia and found that the photographic plate was not invented until 1851. Thomas Kirker was governor in 1807. Lucas took office in 1833. Wilson Shannon in 1839 and Thomas Corwin in 1841.

So there could have been no photographs of those men, especially since it was later than 1880 before the first photographic plates were made sufficiently large to have covered the canvas of the four portraits.

Denies Her Statement.

Yet State Auditor Fullington has a typewritten signed statement given him by Mrs. Hollingsworth when she cashed her voucher for $1,000, which says that the four portraits could not have been restored because they had originally been photographs.

Mr. Long corroborated this, and when reminded of the fact that photography was unheard of in those days, he said he had taken Mrs. Hollingsworth's word for it.

Mrs. Hollingsworth has now denied again her typewritten statement, and says that the portraits couldn't have been restored because they were painted on paper.

Art critics in Columbus charge openly this could not have been true. They say Mrs. Hollingsworth's art guide was wholly the work of ex-Convict Weidenbach. They also know his work, which is most excellent as an artist, and say he painted the four copies which bear Mrs. Hollingsworth's name. He did such wonderful work in restoring the paintings about the statehouse that he gained a pardon and has since secured the work of cleaning and restoring the real works of art which were damaged by the recent fire at the Albany capitol.

Where Are the Originals?

The originals of the four governors which are supposed to have been "photographs," have disappeared.

Mrs. Hollingsworth knows nothing about them, and some frugal brethren have raised a hullaballoo because they are listed in her "Art Guide" at $500 each and may have been stolen. They (the frugal brethren) cry that this means the state has been "done" out of $1,000 worth of "art treasures" and has paid out $1,000 for new work, which is almost worthless.

Secretary Long says he ordered the work done because the chain of portraits would have been incomplete. This might have been true of three of the governors, but there are two other excellent portraits of Thomas Corwin in the statehouse besides the "photograph" that has faded and had to be copied before it "disappeared" entirely.

old and that a certain phase of them still is under investigation. They declined to indicate just what this phase was.

Copy of Affidavit.

Delegate Wickersham startled the committee when, in executive session, he produced a copy of an affidavit relating to an alleged criminal act committed by Capt. D. H. Jarvis of the Alaska syndicate, and formerly prominent in the government revenue cutter service, who committed suicide on June 22, the day following the introduction of the Wickersham resolution calling for production of the papers in the case, and by John Bullock of the John J. Sesner Coal company of Nome.

Through connivance of these men, it was charged that the government was defrauded on coal contracts and that evidence to that effect was permitted to remain unacted upon in the attorney general's office for more than a year, until the statute of limitations expired, last May.

Photograph of Letter.

Delegate Wickersham furnished the committee with photographic copies of a letter of an attorney for the Alaska syndicate to D. H. Jarvis admitting the expenditure of money to control government witnesses in the Pasey murder trial in 1908, wherein an agent of the Alaska syndicate was accused of murdering laborers employed by rival interests during the construction of a railroad in Alaska.

A photograph of an expense account for $1,133.40 of M. B. Morrissey, employed by the syndicate, it is claimed, to entertain government witnesses for jurymen in that connection, also was submitted to the committee. This evidence, Delegate Wickersham declared, also is in the possession of the attorney general.

Delegate Wickersham urged on the judiciary committee the Douglas affidavit involving the representatives of the Northwestern Commercial company, one of the Alaska syndicate concerns, and the Sesner Coal company.

Defrauded by Perjury.

"On May 24, 1910," he said, "I sent to Attorney General Wickersham a copy of the affidavit, calling his attention to the fact that the government had been defrauded of $50,000 by perjury and a combination of these two corporations in the sale of coal to the government for military posts in Alaska. I asked him to make an investigation and prosecute those people for the crime committed in that transaction.

"I received a letter of acknowledgement in May 23, 1910, and we had further correspondence, and on June 13, 1911, more than a year later, I received a letter from the attorney general stating that the statute of limitations had expired."

"I read the last letter," continued Delegate Wickersham, "to show that the attorney general now says that the statute of limitations has run against the prosecution of these men who committed perjury and defrauded the government. They submitted false affidavits to the government and committed fraud in April and May, 1908, and the statute of limitations did not expire until May, 1911. I sent all the evidence to the attorney general a year before and he failed and refused to prosecute these people for robbing the treasury, and he permitted the statute of limitations to run in their favor.

Accuses Attorney General.

"I want the committee to have all the facts so that it may know whether the attorney general has deliberately shielded these people from prosecution for crime or not. It is fair to him and me. I say that he has."

"Did you send the attorney general evidence enough and indicate where witnesses could be found to win an indictment?" asked Representative Webb of North Carolina.

"Undoubtedly," replied the territorial delegate, "and I furnished him with evidence of other crimes. The Alaska syndicate is an organized crime."

"What do you mean by the Alaska syndicate?" Chairman Clayton inquired.

"I refer to the Alaska syndicate composed of J. Pierpont Morgan, the Guggenheim brothers, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Jacob H. Schiff and Graces."

"Who do you mean by the Guggenheim brothers?" asked Representative Norris of Nebraska.

"Senator Simon Guggenheim and his six brothers."

"Who is Graves?" asked Representative Graham of Illinois.

"He represents Close Brothers, the English syndicate and other English capitalists."

Jarvis Is Dead.

"Captain Jarvis," added the delegate, "was the confidential agent of Morgan in charge of the syndicate interests in Seattle. He committed suicide immediately following the introduction of this resolution you are now considering. He knew that this resolution would bring out the facts."

The Douglas affidavit charges that when the war department advertised for bids for coal to supply the Alaska military posts, Jarvis, treasurer of the Northwestern company, and John H. Bullock of the Sesner Coal company, a rival of the syndicate, agreed to submit bids which would insure the award of the contract to one company or the other, there being no other competitor; agreed on certain lighterage charges, and fixed upon a division of the profits. The Sesner company got the contract to furnish 4,000 tons of coal at $28 a ton, a price which Douglas claimed was nearly twice too high, and the profits were divided, Douglas himself entering $6,700 from the Sesner company on the books of the Northwestern company as the latter's share of the profits.

Made False Affidavits.

Both Bullock and Jarvis, Douglas swears, made false affidavits to the government that no one but the company which each represented had any interest in the contract.

The evidence submitted indicating an attempt to control government witnesses, is a fac simile copy of a letter written by John A. Carson, counsel for the Alaska syndicate, to Capt. Jarvis under Seattle date, May 6.

The resolution asking the attorney general for documents in the Jarvis-Bullock matter will be reported to the house early next week.

Jarvis Had Hero Medal.

Seattle, Wash., July 15.—H. K. Douglas, former auditor of the Alaska syndicate, and the late Capt. D. H. Jarvis, whom he has accused, were generally considered to represent opposing interests in the syndicate.

Jarvis, a former officer in the revenue service, where he won a medal for heroism, was introduced to J. P. Morgan by Theodore Roosevelt and was regarded as Morgan's representative. Douglas was lined up with the Guggenheim interests, and the two clashed frequently.

Following a railroad men's fight in Keystone canyon and the trial of two of the syndicate's men on the charge of murder, Douglas charged Jarvis with improper use of money in connection with the trial. Douglas later left the company, from some pressure, but took with him to New York photographic copies of alleged vouchers for expenditures in the trials and other documents unfavorable to Jarvis.

The Guggenheim interests waxed strong in the syndicate, and Jarvis was pushed down from complete management to the treasurship of the Northwestern Fisheries company, a subsidiary concern. He planned to resign from this, but it was sold to the Booth Fisheries interests of Chicago and Jarvis was made president and put in charge of the Booth interests in the Northwest.

When Jarvis committed suicide at his club, June 22, he left a note saying "tired and worn out." At that time his salary was $15,000 a year, and his personal fortune was estimated at $400,000.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:28 and it will set at 8 o'clock giving fifteen hours and thirty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A low pressure condition has developed to the northward of Lake Superior. This in connection with the disturbance centered over the extreme Southwest, has caused showers over Manitoba, Northern North Dakota, Southeastern Lake region, St. Lawrence Valley, Gulf and South Atlantic states and scattered parts of Iowa and Nebraska during the last twenty-four hours. Hot weather prevails in the Central Valley, the West and South. At the Head of the Lakes fair weather is indicated for the ensuing thirty-six hours."

TWENTY-MILE WALK WEEKLY

Rev. Allen Clark, 70 Years Old, Finds Sunday a Strenuous Day.

Walks From West Duluth to Fond du Lac and Return.

Rev. Allen Clark, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, West Duluth, and 70 years old, walks more than twenty miles every Sunday in order to keep his preaching appointments at his charges at West Duluth, New Duluth and Fond du Lac.

Rev. Mr. Clark lives in West Duluth. His Sunday routine is to preach at Plymouth church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street at 10 o'clock, walk 10 miles to a church at Fond du Lac, preach there, walk six miles back to New Duluth, where services are held at 6 p. m. and winding up by walking home after church is out at New Duluth, which is usually at 9 p. m.

Pastor Clark is not a walker from choice and would willingly ride if there were any train accommodations suitable. As it is, however, he cannot get a train from West Duluth after the morning service in time for the afternoon service at Fond du Lac and the train schedule in returning does not suit itself to his convenience.

Mr. Clark in spite of his advanced years is an enthusiastic church worker and his accomplishments in covering his territory are considered remarkable.

MASS MEETING ON Y. M. C. A. PROSPECT

Interest in Branch for West Duluth Will Be Revived.

A mass meeting, which is calculated to arouse new interest in the proposition of a branch Y. M. C. A. at West Duluth, may be called in the near future and a committee appointed to push the matter actively.

The West Duluth W. C. T. U. and the local branch of the Ministerial association intend to work hard to bring about definite results on the project this summer.

Several donations toward the project have been offered, and two lots, bought three years ago by the W. C. T. U. will be used as a building site, when matters materialize.

Last year the proposition was taken up, but was dropped, or at least no progress was made at the time. Three years ago, when the site for a branch building was bought, the movement was started, but at that time it was postponed owing to requests made by the directors of the central association.

It is believed that West Duluth could support a $25,000 building and that a membership of 300 could be established. There is no place of its kind in West Duluth now, where boys can enjoy healthy exercise under proper supervision.

NO "THREAT," SAYS DENEEN

Governor Denies Story About Shurtleff and the Speakership.

Washington, July 15.—Touching on the election of Shurtleff as speaker in the legislature which elected Mr. Lorimer, Mr. Heney, of counsel for Lorimer, asked Governor Deenen of Illinois, a witness in the Lorimer hearing, if he had not said in the presence of J. W. Ford, Jr., and Representative D. D. Browneback that he "would defeat Shurtleff if it was necessary to use all the patronage to do it."

"I never did," replied the governor.

He added that Ford claimed that in one conversation Deneen was using all the patronage to that purpose.

Governor Deneen denied that he had said to Representative Charles Durfee, when Durfee announced to him that he was going to leave Hopkins for Lorimer, that Lorimer would be elected and that the election would be satisfactory to him.

Tried to Control Durfee.

"I tried to prevent Durfee voting for Lorimer," said the governor," and suggested to him that I probably would have to call a special session of the legislature in the fall to pass on waterway matters, and in the meantime the senatorial candidates would fight the matter out before the people."

Conversations Governor Deneen had with Frank B. Noyes, then publisher of the Chicago Record Herald, were gone into. The witness denied that Noyes had said to him that "Lorimer was the only Republican who could take or consistently have the office of senator by Democratic votes."

He also denied that Noyes had told him "that if an attempt was made by Lorimer to elect Shurtleff senator, every vote the newspapers could control would be thrown to Hopkins and Hopkins would be elected."

No Newspaper Control.

"I do not recollect any such conversation, and do not recall any conversation in which he claimed that he could control any votes in the legislature," added Governor Deneen.

When the committee adjourned for lunch Mr. Hanecy said he hoped to finish his cross-examinattion in about an hour.

A graduated income tax; a workingmen's compensation act; a stringent corrupt practices act; a law providing for the control of water powers as a public utility; completion of the forest reserce and dozen acts relating to the subject of conservation; "home rule" law for all cities and an annual appropriation of $350,000 for state aid for highway improvement.

WICKERSHAM MAKES REPLY

Says He Is Not Through With Alaskan Cases Yet.

Ex-Secretary Dickinson Also Said to Have Known of Fraud.

Washington, July 15.—Attorney General Wickersham today made an informal reply to the charge of Chief Delegate Wickersham that he had allowed the statute of limitation to expire in certain Alaska criminal cases without taking action. He said:

"I have not given a definite opinion that the statute of limitations has expired in all of these cases. It is not improbable that criminal action may be taken. This matter is still under investigation, in so far as it relates to the alleged combination of bidders in the coal proportion. The Hazey case, however, I think is barred by the statute. I will continue my investigation of the others. It has been under way for some time and has never been discontinued."

Says Dickinson Knew.

Delegate Wickersham of Alaska today declared that Former Secretary of War Dickinson had been furnished with the same evidence concerning Alaskan frauds that was furnished to Attorney General Wickersham in May, 1910, and that he never acknowledged receipt of the documents. He had this statement placed in the records of the hearings of the judiciary committee.

Coupled with it was the further statement that Delegate Wickersham submitted to the attorney general, more than a year ago, evidence of an alleged bribing of a United States district attorney by the Katalla company, one of the organizations in the Alaska syndicate.

"I have evidence," declared Delegate Wickersham, "that $3,000 was used to bribe a deputy district attorney. That is the kind of matter I have been vainly trying to get this government to investigate and prosecute."

THE END IN SIGHT.

The country is very much obliged to the heat, exhaustion, a belated sense of shame or whatever it is that is responsible for the most welcome fact that the senate has agreed on dates for voting on the several pending measures, and that adjournment and rest are in sight.

The senate will vote next Saturday on Canadian reciprocity, and it will pass it without amendment. That does away with the need of returning it to the house, so it will go directly to the president, who will sign it promptly and thus complete the noblest piece of work of his administration.

The senate votes on the wool revision bill July 27, the farmers' free list bill Aug. 1, congressional reapportionment Aug. 3 and the statehood bill Aug. 7. Adjournment, it is expected, will follow immediately after the vote on statehood, unless some of these measures should be passed with amendments involving delay in conference.

Whether the senate will pass any, all or none of these other measures it is hard to say. There will be a fight on all of them. If the so-called "progressives" are in good faith, they will join with the Democrats to pass the wool bill and the farmers' free list bill. The latter is a complete answer to their charge that reciprocity takes the tariff off everything the farmer sells and leaves it on everything he buys. The former is a long step toward that real tariff revision which the progressives lately professed to favor ardently.

But the things of chief interest are that reciprocity will pass and that adjournment is in sight.

ANOTHER PHASE OF IT.

J. Ogden Armour says that this country is no longer producing beef enough for its own needs, and that this has been the condition for some time. Yet the beef trust has been exporting beef, paying ocean freights on it and selling it in Europe cheaper than it does here.

When this country hasn't enough beef to go around, and every pound exported tends to increase the price of what remains, what sort of a public service is it that consists in exporting beef needed right here and selling it abroad at prices lower than are charged here? Isn't it, in fact, a crime?

THE TAX ON FOOD.

J. Ogden Armour, returning from Europe, told the reporters that though there is a large European demand for American beef, it will be necessary to go to South America to fill it, because this county is no longer producing any more beef than it is able to consume.

Nor is it, apparently, producing as much as it needs. That will not be the case until it is possible for the average family to eat all the beef it wants and needs, and that isn't possible with prices anywhere near where they are now.

Europe, doubtless, will get all the beef it needs from South America.

But what about American consumers?

Against South American beef, or any kind of beef except that produced here, there is a tariff duty. If this is a protective duty it is absurd, because freight rates are protection enough if the beef industry needs any protection, which it most decidedly does not.

If it is a revenue duty it is infamous, because it is wicked to tax the people's food when there are thousands underfed and many more thousands unable to indulge themselves freely in good beef.

No more of a case than the Armour interview establishes is needed to prove that the tariff should be removed from meats. It is needless as protection and it is wicked as a tax.

When the growth of this country so far outstrips the production of food that the domestic supply is inadequate, every reason of justice and fair play demands that the tariff bars shall be thrown down and free admission offered to the food products of the world. Nothing can more certainly destroy the whole system of protection than the maintenance of duties on food products when there is no demand for them whatever except from the masters of the food supply who wish to keep out foreign competition while wringing unjust profits from the necessities of the people.

The system of protection devised by Hamilton and distorted into oppression by the Republican party in the McKinley, Dingley and Aldrich tariff bills, is wrecking itself by its iniquities and its absurdities. If it falls to the ground completely it will be the doing of its own advocates far more than that of its opponents. Theoretical opponents of protection have thundered for years, but their arguments fell on deaf ears. The downfall of high protection, which is coming as surely as tomorrow comes, will be due to the abuses committed by its advocates and beneficiaries.

One of the grossest of these abuses is retaining the tariff tax on the necessities of the people when the reason for it, if there ever was a reason, has disappeared, and the only thing that keeps it is the power of the beneficiaries it has made rich and strong.

When this country cannot produce enough meat to feed itself it is folly of the rankest kind to maintain tariff duties against meat products.

Mr. Armour proposes that American packers go to Argentina for their cattle. Probably he would like to see cattle put on the free list so the packers won't have to pay anything to bring them in, and prepared meats protected so that he will not have to compete with meat packers in other lands. But that is a long way from what the people want and should have.

THE DOWNFALL OF THE REPUBLIC.

The Republic totters to its fall! The end is near, and presently the bright star of free government, which blazed in the heavens for a century and more after Yorktown, will lose its brilliance and tumble ignominiously into darkest depths.

We know this is going to happen because the New York Sun has proved it with an acrostic. It has discovered a group of tendencies in the public life of the nation today which it arranges cleverly, so that the first letters of each line, read in order, spell these fateful words: "DEATH TO THE REPUBLIC."

Probably it is too late to save the Republic. A glance at the tendencies that so affright the Sun makes it clear that it is too late, because there is nothing surer than that most of these tendencies have come to stay and to work themselves out to their final end, whatever hosts of annihilation and disaster hover about that fearsome end. Here is the acrostic:

Direct primaries; direct election.
Employers' liability up to the handle.
Abolition of the executive veto everywhere.
Tenure of office determined by plebiscite.
Haphazard laws enacted at the street corner.

Theoretical democracy made actual and absolute.
Oregon and Oklahoma methods for every state.

The referendum substituted for the Constitution.
Hysterical reform directed by the Open Mouth.
Eight per cent vote starts a statute.

Real self-government, as in France in '89.
Elective officers removable at any time.
Public and private utilities on the same basis.
Unpopular judges subject always to recall.
Business, big and little, under political management.
Laws good until repealed by railway train canvass.
Initiative, referendum and recall, including the judiciary.
Commission rule in city, state and nation.

Here are eighteen separate tendencies which are conspiring to undermine the palladium of our liberties and to tear down the bulwark of the same. Of the eighteen, thirteen can be grouped under one head: direct control by the people of legislation and the public service. Of the remaining five that relating to commission government is practically under that head also; employers' liability is simply giving the man who makes wealth a decent show against the man who takes wealth; "real self-government as in France in 89" is a general grouping of the whole bundle of tendencies, except that it is libel to compare the self-governing capacity of the American people with that of the French of '89, who had just thrown off in a mighty convulsion the rule of monarchy and aristocracy that had smothered them in ignorance for generations; and the regulation of business in the public interests, which is the only alternative to the old tendency of shackling the public for the benefit of big business.

If the tendency toward real democracy, real self-government, and direct control by the people of legislation and the public service, means the downfall of the Republic, then the Repulbic is indeed doomed.

And if the Republic could endure only by keeping back these developments, then the Republic is a poor, unworthy thing that it will be well to end as speedily as possible.

DOCTORS, REAL AND BOGUS.

Though ordinarily there isn't the slightest difficulty in getting people to accept the honorary degrees bestowed every year by institutions of learnings, save in the notable exception of that premier of Australia who refused Oxford degrees because he said he didn't have the education to go with them, the bestowal of these honors is often a good deal of a joke. Most beneficiaries of these attentions lack the sense of humor which saved the plain, democratic Australian.

The University of Michigan this year provided a novelty, and gave real meaning to this bestowal of honors which are usually deserved but often fail to fit because the beneficiaries are not doctors of anything, their honorary titles to the contrary notwithstanding. Realizing the value of preventive medicine and hygiene, Michigan has established courses for the benefit of those who would promote public health scientifically in public or private positions, and has provided for degrees of master and doctor of public health. The first degree of doctor of health has been conferred on Dr. Evans, former health commissioner of Chicago, and it is well bestowed.

People used to laugh at the Chinese, who do everything upside down and who, it is said, have a practice of paying their doctors for keeping them well and stopping their pay when illness comes. People laughed merely because this method is in such sharp contrast with our way of paying our doctors only when we are sick, thus making it to their financial interest to have us sick. It is a contrast, indeed, but the laugh really is on the other side, for the Chinese way is a pretty good way.

But there isn't so much laughing about that sort of thing now as there used to be. There is a wider realization that after all, the best thing medical men can do is to teach us how to keep well. After we get sick because of our ignorance or negligence, they can help nature restore us, but their drugs do not do us much good and the best of them are ceasing to use drugs a great deal.

There is a wide field for prophylactic medicine, both in its relation to the public health and in its relation to private health. Michigan in seeking to provide men to fill this field is performing a valuable public service.

Also, the policy of bestowing honorary degrees that have meaning, as this one has, is founded in common sense. Giving the degree of doctor of laws to a man who got his schooling on the fly when he was a boy, but who has nevertheless achieved something that makes it proper to honor him, is well meant enough, but it will not stand analysis.

Says the Chicago Record-Herald: "Why not establish degrees of master and doctor of applied sociology, masters and doctors of applied ethics, masters and doctors of public service and administration? Persons who deserve recognition deserve real recognition, not the privilege of participating in a solemn farce or idle ceremony."

Why not, indeed? Then the honors bestowed by universities will mean something. It is not only ridiculous to make a doctor of laws out of a man who, though he has achieved something really worth while, has been to school only a few days in all his life, but it is unjust to those who by hard application and long study have perfected themselves in learning so that they really deserve these degrees which the college universities are scattering broadcast.

PROGRESSING INTO THE DITCH.

Many people believed that when Dolliver died the progressive Republican cause lost its brains and its heart. Now it appears that it lost not only these things, but its conscience as well.

Never has a movement that promised so well fallen so far in so short a time. A year ago there was strong reason for believing that the insurgents would either get control of the Republican party or form the nucleus of a new party containing the progressive elements of both the old parties. Now there is nobody who looks forward to anything so improbable. The "insurgents" have insurged once too often, and by convincing the public that they are playing politics instead of serving the people wholeheartedly and without personal designs, they appear to have committed political suicide.

Some current comments will indicate the drift of opinion: The New York Tribune says that "even the senate galleries tittered" when Senator Cummins criticised President Taft's Indianapolis speech as "inconsistent," so soon after Cummins had been shown up as advocating reciprocity a few years ago though he is opposing it now.

Says the New Haven Journal-Courier: "The reckless manner in which they have dissipated the fine reputation they had acquired is pitiful."

The Baltimore Sun says that they "have been making a losing fight because they have failed to live up to their professions, have sacrificed principle to political expediency and on the reciprocity questions have proved more reactionary than the reactionaries themselves."

Says the St. Louis Republic: "The whole course of obstruction pursued is doctrinaire, academic to a degree; it suggests the spirals of small politics, rather than the right lines of true statesmanship."

The Providence Journal adds: "As a vital force either in their party or in the country the insurgents have failed utterly to demonstrate their value."

The Toledo Blade says that "the country is fast learning the hollowness of the gentlemen."

The New York Evening Post says: "These men who are now so busy splitting hairs and refining and making exceptions and planning and making cute little tactical campaigns—can these be the magnificent champions who entered the senate to make an end of corner politics as well as of corruption, to slay the 'interests' in the meshes of their own wicked devices? The insurgents were Ishmael; nothing was to be sacred to them—senatorial courtesy, precedent, good taste; they would smite and spare not. Where are the Berserkers and Dervishes of yesterday? Today they hem and haw and make explanations and bring up distinctions quite after the fashion of the 'interests'."

It isn't a laughing matter, this precipitous downfall of a promising movement in American life. It is a pity, a very great pity. Not only is a promising movement proved hollow, but promising political careers are wrecked. Worse still, by making a mockery of their fine pretensions, the so-called "progressives" have turned into contemptible cant the very battle cries about which the people seemed ready to rally. In this way they have accomplished a harm greater even than the good they promised so short a while ago.

COMMENDABLE MERCY.

We don't know much about the personal character of Angelina Neapolitano, the Italian woman who was sentenced to death for the murder of her husband at the Sault, but we are heartily glad the Ontario government has decided not to hang her. Whether those are right who say she killed her husband because he forced her to lead a life of shame, or those who say she killed him because he objected to her evil conduct, makes no difference. Hanging is barbarous at best. Minnesota has redeemed herself from barbarity by abolishing it, and it will never return to this state.

The Neapolitano case is a pretty good example of the atrocity of capital punishment. The fact that the condemned woman was about to become a mother made no difference in her offense, whatever it was, but it did show what society is doing when it takes human life.

A POOR EXCUSE.

Commenting on The Herald's criticism of the action of the legislature in repealing the laws requiring purchasers of state lands to meet certain requirements as to cultivation and settlement, the St. Paul Dispatch quotes an unnamed state officer as saying that "these provisions of the law in the past have only been perfunctorily complied with." Are we to understand that the officers whose duty it was to see that these provisions were rigidly enforced offer as an excuse for their approval of their repeal the fact that they did not do their duty? If that is the reason they urged the passage of the law repealing these wholesome provisions it looks like a very poor one. At any rate, it has nothing to do with the fact that these provisions were wholesome because they tended to keep state lands from going into the hands of speculators, nor does it affect the fact that the legislature should at its earliest opportunity do what it can to remedy the blunder of the last session

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

HANGING TO IT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I read with much interest the interview in The Herald tonight with George N. Lyman of Minneapolis, in which he pointed out some of Duluth's faults. It reminded me of something that I am afraid I have been allowing readers of the Open Court to forget for a few days—the idea of getting the national summer capital established in Duluth. Why doesn't somebody do something about this, Mr. Editor? Why doesn't somebody with some influence and position say: "Let's go after it?" I don't for the life of me understand the lethargy that seems to have fallen on the city in this matter. This session of congress is going to adjourn pretty soon, but there will be another next winter, and if we don't look out some other city will be grabbing after the honor and advantages that go with the summer capital location. Doesn't Duluth want the summer capital here? If not why not? I can't imagine a single detrimental feature to such an acquisition, and I can think of two or three distinct advantages. Can't you? Then why doesn't somebody get busy? The proposition strikes me as having the nature of an investment with sure returns, for if we didn't get it we wouldn't have to pay a great deal, and if we did get it we'd be a long ay the gainers. Once more, why doesn't somebody get busy?

C. PREVIOUS LETTERS.
Duluth, July 14

A LETTER HOME.

Like to come to see you, daddy, and perhaps I will some day.
Like to come back East to visit, but I wouldn't care to stay.
Glad you're doing well and happy, glad you like your country best.
But for me I always hunger for the freedom of the West.
There's a wholesomeness about it that
I never could explain;
Once you breathe this air you love it,
and you long for it again.
There's a tie you can't discern in the splendor of the sky,
It's just home to you forever and I can't tell you just why.

It's so big, and broad, and boundless,
and its heaven is so blue,
And the metal of its people always rings so clear and true;
And its billowed acres quiver like the shudder of the sea,
And its waves roll rich and golden upon the shore to me.
Why, your farm and all the others that we used to think so fine,
Wouldn't lump 'em all together—make a corner lot in mine.
And your red clover pasture, with its gate of fence rails barred,
Why, it wouldn't make a grass plot in our district schoolhouse yard

Not a foot has touched its prairies but is longing to return;
Not an eye has seen the sunset of its Western heavens burn,
But looks back in hungry yearning, with the memory growd dim
And the zephyr of its prairies breathes
the cadence of a hymn,
That is sweet and full of promise as the "Beulah Land" we knew.
When we used to sit together in the queer old-fashioned pew;
And at eventide, the glory of the sun and sky and sod
Bids me bow my head in homage and in gratitude to God.

Yes, I love you, daddy, love you with a heart that's true as steel,
But there's something in Dakota makes you live, breathe and feel;
Makes you bigger, broader, better;
makes you kulwork the world of toil.
Makes you free as are her prairies, and as noble as her soil.
Makes you kindly as a man is, makes you manly as a king.
There's something in the grandeur of the season's sweep and swing
That casts off the fretting fetters of your East and makes you blest.
With the vigor of the prairies, with the freedom of the West.

—James W. Foley, in Bismarck Tribune.

Taft Beating Insurgents.

Springfield Republican: The president is slowly gaining ground. He is more popular than he was a year ago. The country thinks better of him. He did not whimper about the terrific thrashing his party and administration received in the November elections; on the contrary, he has displayed since then a surer-footed leadership than before. His reciprocity campaign has been masterly, and all indications point to its success. And he will get the credit of it, even if the Democrats made success possible. The president has made excellent supreme court appointments, and he has strengthened his cabinet. Out of the Mexican disturbance he emerged with prestige increased: The country liked it because he did not plunge into war for the sake either of national honor or of civilization. His international arbitration policy has delighted lovers of peace the world over. And there have been the supreme court decisions destroying the two most odious trusts in the United States—what are they but triumphs of a sort for the Taft administration? It is very clear that Mr. Pinchot, Mr. Garfield, Mr. Bourne and even Mr. La Follette will be found supporting Mr. Taft in 1912 for reelection. There will be nothing else for them to do. The president is beating them, to use his distinguished predecessor's historic phrase, "to a frazzle."

A Source of Danger and Expense.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Commissioner Quezon, who represents the Filipino people at Washington, addressed a Democratic meeting in New York on the Fourth, making an urgent appeal for independence for the islands. He permitted his ardor to run away with his judgment when he attempted to draw a parallel between the relative position of the United States and the Philippines in 1911 and the relative position of England and the American colonies just previous to the Revolutionary war. Such a comparison will not bear close analysis.

On another point, however, the commissioner is right beyond question. He says that the Philippines have been, are still and will continue to be, a source of weakness and expense to the nation which took them as one of the prizes of an unwise war.

If America could have seen further, or had taken time to think more deeply, she would never have accepted sovereignty over this great Eastern empire. In wealth and human lives, she has paid heavily for the mistake of keeping the islands. In spite of all an enlightened statecraft can do, this constant drain of resource promises to continue indefinitely.

The weakest point in the national armor is the Philippines. There would be no "yellow peril," so far as this country is concerned, did we not possess them.

At the earliest moment compatible with national honor and justice to the Filipinos themselves, the United States should surrender her hold upon the islands. Quezon wants an immediate promise from congress that the Filipinos will be given their independence on some certain date. The administration replies that the Filipinos will be given independence as soon as they show the requisite qualities of education and self-control. But even this indefinite pledge lacks the binding formality of a congressional declaration.

Congress might well make such a declaration. The Filipinos are entitled to that further definite incentive to progress.

"Lamb" Defined by a Bear.

Cincinnati Enquirer: "James R. Keene, at a celebration in Cedarhurst," said a New York broker, "once gave, in a dozen words, the Wall street definition of a lamb.

"'A lamb,' said Mr. Keene, 'is one who invests first and investigates afterward.'"

THREE-CENT FARES.

A Way They Have.

Litchfield Independent: The Minnesota railroads went back to 3-cent fare July 1. Of course, as heretofore, they will discriminate in favor of certain interests by selling 2,000-mile books at $40 flat, or 2 cents per mile, a rate that the court says is confiscatory. They will put the screws on the general public at the straight 3-cent rate. Freight rates have also been jumped 10 to 30 per cent.

It's Hard to Submit.

Albert Lea Standard: The railroads are now more than ever a law unto themselves, for, backed by federal judges, who seem to suit the big interests, they override the legislature and state courts and impose an additional holdup of 3-cent passenger fare and of 25 per cent increase in freight rates, and challenge the people to help themselves if they can. And, with a subservient and truckling governor and supine railroad commission the people—until the next election, are helpless and must endure the great robbery that is being committed and the despotism that rules the state, with the best grace the character of the wrong and their increasing resentment will permit.

Railroad Piracy.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The railroads are giving the laugh to Judge Sanborn, who said that the railroads could not carry passengers for 2 cents a mile, by selling mileage books good for 2,000 miles for $40. The big firms who send out traveling men will only pay 2 cents, while the folk who do not travel for a living will continue to pay 3 cents. Oh! you railroad Captain Kids!

How Do You Like It.

Red Wing Free Press: Under the new railroad regulations, created by Judge Sanborn, and which went into effect July 1st, the rich may now ride on the railroads for 2 cents a mile, the middle class for 2½ cents, while the poor must pay 3 cents a mile. That is, those who can afford to pay out the money for a 2,000-mileage book at the time get the 2-cent rate, and those who can stand to pay for a 1,000-mile coupon book are given a 2½-cent rate, while those who can only pay as they go must pay 3 cents a mile. How do you like it, you people who vote away your rights and your power at every election?

One Bright Spot.

Virginia Virginian: If you don't like to pay a 3-cent per mile fare in Minnesota, walk to Duluth and then take the Missabe or Iron Range for Virginia. This is a mighty good place to live.

Not Seeking Friends.

Carlton Vidette: The 3-cent railway fare went into effect in Minnesota last Saturday. Many had lived in hopes that the railroads would not actually enforce this rate, or that it would be abrogated by them. The fact that the passenger receipts have been more prolific with the 2-cent rate than they formerly were with the 3-cent rate would make it appear that the companies might not be losing money by at least compromising the rate at say 2½ cents, and at the same time they would give the traveling public a far more friendly feeling toward the powerful corporations.

It's Not Visible.

Mankato Free Press: "Judge Sanborn's decision is to the effect that the poor man who wants to travel a few miles must pay the railroad 3 cents, but the rich man who wishes to travel a thousand miles or more may do so at 2 cents a mile," says the Fairmont Sentinel. Is there any justice in that sort of thing?

Knew What They Were Doing.

Warroad Plaindealer: If a time had been set by the railroad companies for that rate case decision it would have been exactly the time it was given out. The legislature had just adjourned and would not be in regular session again for nearly two years; political matters receive scant attention in an "off year" and all conditions were certainly at the most favorable point for pulling off a stunt of that kind.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Adjustable Maxims.

Cincinnati Times-Star: James J. Corbett found one of his friends in the throes of thought the other day. The friend was contemplating giving up a fat salaried position to take an independent chance. Whenever he thought of the profits ahead if he made good as a business man he glowed like an oil lamp. Whenever he thought of resigning that sure envelope at the end of the week he became solid ice to the midriff.

"When I first began boxing in California," said Corbett, "my father used to lecture me. 'Stick to the job in the bank, Jimmie, b'y,' said he. 'It's the fine salary you do be getting there, and as long as you live you can kape that fine job at the desk. Remember, a rolling stone gathers no moss.'

"'But I kept on fighting,' Corbett said. "And father kept on panning me. Finally I fought with John L. Sullivan and you know what happened. When I got home I carelessly peeled a thousand dollar bill off a roll as big as a cabbage and tossed it over to dad.

"'Just a little pipe money for you, father,' I said. 'Part of what I made in my last fight.' Father's grin began at the corners and kept on expanding. His eyes twinkled.

"'Ah, Jimmy, b'y,' said he, 'it's the roving bee that gets the honey.'"

The Busy Man.

Chicago Post: Mr. James Jimsoe bounced out of bed at 6:30 a. m.

He raised Cain because the rest of the family were not up.

He scolded the children for not dressing rapidly. He asserted in loud and peevish tones that he had to have his breakfast on the dot, that he had important business at his office, and wanted to know how in the name of Samuel Hill he was going to get to his office on time if the family did not get up and dress and eat breakfast.

He rushed through his breakfast, reading the paper with one eye and looking for the butter with the other.

He raced to the train, and caught the last platform as it was pulling out.

All the way to town he fumed about the way things and people tried to combine to hinder him.

On the way from the station to his office he stopped at a cigar store and shook fifteen games of dice for cigars, succeeding in winning a dollar's worth for $3.75, and putting in three-quarters of an hour at it.

This is the age of hustle.

They Had No Warning.

Harper's Magazine: Two young employes of a florist in Philadelphia, who are supposed to be variously employed in the rear of the establishment while the boss looks after things in the front, were recently startled by the appearance of the "old man" while they were engrossed in a game of checkers.

The proprietor was justly indignant. "How is it," he demanded, "that I hardly ever find you fellows at work when I come out here?"

"I know," volunteered one of the youths; "it's on account of those rubber heels you insist on wearing."

Reason to Be Apprehensive.

Ohio State Journal: What makes most of our statesmen regard Governor Woodrow Wilson as a dangerous man is that the radical professor apparently really means it when he advocates placing the country's interests above the party's.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Pursuit of Happiness.

Our fathers used to read the Declaration of Independence on Independence day. No Fourth of July celebration was quite complete unless some stout-lunged orator declaimed before the holiday crowd those words of Thomas Jefferson that called a nation into being. We have largely dropped the custom, though the old document is familiar to thousands of school children throughout the land. Probably most young Americans could repeat some part of it from memory.

There are the fine sounding words about the inalienable rights of men as being "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." The last clause sets one thinking. Men, of course, have a right to pursue happiness. But it's another thing to catch it. Even if they pursue it through all the years there is no assurance that they shall ever hunt down the quarry. If they set out deliberately to overtake it they may find it always just eludes their grasp.

The strange thing about happiness is that it very rarely comes to us when we seek it directly. It is rather an indirect result of a good and useful life. Have you ever remarked that the happiest people are those who think very little about anything save doing the day's work the best they can? They are not trying to be happy first of all, but to be faithful. And somehow happiness comes, even though they have not expected it. Did you ever know a day in which you had some troublesome duty to perform, some irritating question to decide to be crowned with joy at its close? You had not pursued happiness at all; you had gone out of the way where happiness is supposed to be found; but, behold, you were happy.

When we make fun the one end and aim of life we have engaged in a sorry business. Some one asked the French youth what he did in the world and he replied, "Ja m'amuse"—I amuse myself. All he had found was the recipe for final disgust both with himself and with the world. An Oriental king once tried the experiment of pursuing happiness. He said to all around him, "Go to now, I am going to be happy." Let Solomon tell of his own success.

"I made me great works, I made me gardens and orchards; I got me servants and maidens; I gathered me also silver and gold; I got me men singers and women singers, and whatsoever mine eyes desired I kept not from them." Here were all the ingredients of happiness, properly mixed. This favored gentleman must have been known through all the country for the exuberance of his spirits and the contagion of his smile. Not a bit of it. Hear his own testimony, "I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought and on the labor that I had labored to do and, behold, all was vanity and vexation of spirit."

The truth is that we spend most of our time in this world trying, like Solomon, to get the things we want, only to find that we don't want them. An apple woman in the park watched enviously the rich people riding by in their carriages. A lady who had noticed her unhappy countenance resolved to give her a day of real happiness. She took her home, dressed her in fine clothes and sent her driving in the victoria. But when she came back the shadow of disappointment still rested on the apple woman's face. "If I could only have seen myself ride by," she said.

How are you going to find happiness? Not by working for it consciously and directly. Not by diligent search or the multiplying of forms of entertainment. Joy is a wary sprite and eludes those who make a "dead set" for her. She comes to those who have ceased to strive mainly for the good time and are intent on living well and working faithfully. She would rather be a section hand trudging gratefully home after an honest day's work than a rich and useless loafer chasing one novelty after another to relieve the acute boredom of living.

THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Detroit Free Press: "Is it hot enough for you?" he said with a sickly smile.

"No, my dear friend," was the prompt reply. "It is not yet hot enough for me. If you look closely you will observe that I am still wearing ear muffs, arctic overshoes and a paper vest to avoid getting pneumonia."

Puck: The rhinoceros surveyed the world complacently.

"After all, I set the pace, in a manner of speaking," quoth he.

Whereat the other beasts burst out laughing.

"Well, it's a fact, where would civilization be if it were not for men with hides like mine?"

Browning's Magazine: "And do the woods skirt your farm?"

"Yes. Rather narrow, though. Sort of hobble skirt it."

Baltimore American: "I've been warning Clara Skeggs about allowing her husband to play so much baseball. Now, it's made her a widow."

"What are you talking about? Nothing's the matter with Skeggs."

"I tell you it's finished him. I saw myself in the paper where Bill Skeggs was playing a game and died on the base."

Exchange: "You observe," remarked the host, who was showing his distinguished foreign visitors around Newport, "that we Americans devote ourselves to pleasure regardless of expense."

"I'd hardly put it that way," retorted the witty foreigner. "Rather you devote yourselves to expense regardless of pleasure."

Judge: Mrs. Dwigg—Do you put alcohol on your windows to give them that polish?

Mrs. Swigg—No; I just breathes on 'em.

New York Sun: Stella—Did you give the bride a shower?

Bella—Well, all her friends threw cold water on the bridegroom.

Pittsburg Post: "These hanging gardens of Babylon are said to have been 300 feet in the air."

"Why did the king put them so high?"

"Perhaps the neighboring kings kept chickens."

It is understood that the city owns certain property which may be donated for railway uses. If this is done, the Missabe people propose that the city be given $375,000 in stock of the Terminal company. They also desire that dividends be restricted to 5 per cent, all over that to go toward keeping the road in condition and redeeming the bonds.

OCCUPANT OR SENATOR?

By SAVOYARD.

Some speculation is indulged in as to the motive of the Hon. Joseph W. Bailey when he procured the utterance by the United States senate of the address of a Mr. Haywood to the people of North Carolina relative to his resignation of his seat in the senate many years ago. Mr. Haywood, sooner than vote for or against the "free trade tariff of 1846," as James G. Blaine calls it, resigned from the senate. As I gather, he would have voted with the adversaries of the measure had it not been that his party associates in the senate were practically unanimous in their support of it. The Democratic president favored the bill and it was the work of a Democratic secretary of treasury, one of the greatest masters of the science of political economy our country has produced, even Robert J. Walker.

This address of Mr. Haywood is a stump speech against the Walker tariff, which, as I understand, Mr. Bailey regards as the very butt-cut of tariff excellence thus far practised by the American congress. Hence we cannot suspect that Mr. Bailey would have it made a senate document for that. It is an argument, false in theory and falser in prophecy, in favor of "moderate protection," whatever that is, and Mr. Bailey protests that he is opposed to protection of all sorts, so that he could not have insisted upon its publication for its economic philosophies.

Mr. Haywood resigned because he found himself at discord with his party on a paramount issue, and there was no string to his resignation. Lately Mr. Bailey "resigned"—with a string—because he was at discord with his party associates in the senate on a question that nobody but himself cared a rap about. Therefore we may assume that Mr. Bailey had this thing printed as a precedent for — perhaps vindication of—his flamboyant "resignation" of last March.

That brings that historic episode on deck again, and I trust that I shall be pardoned if I shall make effort to tell what impression it made on me, an onlooker in our Vienna. I intend to be courteous. I shall certainly be plain, as follows, viz.:

The first thing a greenhorn newspaper chap is taught when he gets to this town is to call the United States senate "the most dignified legislative body in the world," and to speak of the United States supreme court as "the most august judicial tribunal on earth." But it is greatly to be feared that the senate is losing some of its dignity. Unquestionably it allows a certain conspicuous character to trifle with it, if, indeed, he does not bring it into public contempt. I allude to Mr. Joseph W. Bailey, who, common report saith, resigned his seat in that body last March, though he is yet allowed to minister at its deliberations and weigh in its divisions.

Last March Mr. Bailey, then a senator, sent to the vice president a paper which that official suppressed, though the instant he received it it became a public document and the property of the United States senate. At the same time Mr. Bailey sent by wire this message to the governor of Texas: "Have this date tendered my resignation as senator from Texas to take effect immediately." Thus the senator attempted to resign. I think he succeeded. Certainly he ought to be lawyer enough to know how to resign.

We are told that the vice president was "visibly agitated," that he called a senator to the chair, resigned to him the gavel, sought Mr. Bailey, threw his arms around him and besought him to reconsider. Then there were gathered in conventicle with the vice president such senators as Root, Lodge, Hale and Burrows, all of whom were overcome with grief because of this awful calamity that had befallen the country in the loss of the services of this great man. Mr. Sherman "wrastled" with the governor of Texas in this fashion:

"Washington, March 4—Hon. O. B. Colquitt, governor of Texas, Austin, Tex.—I understand that Senator Bailey has telegraphed you that he has tendered his resignation. I have not laid it before the senate, and I express the general wish of both Democrats and Republicans in that body asking you to take the same course. His service is too valuable to our country to be lost, if that can be avoided, and there is no distinction of party in the universal feeling of the senate.

"J. S. SHERMAN,
"Vice President."

I know nothing in history that rivals the pathos of this extraordinary incident, and the only thing in letters, so far as my limited readings go, that equals it, is Shakespeare's account of the tender of the crown to Richard III by Buckingham. The late Edward W. Carmack held a certain prominent man's friendship as a liability and not an asset, and there are Democrats of the very first water who would not feel complimented by the dismay that penetrated the ranks of the standpat senators when the awful tidings came that Bailey had resigned. The scene was the most audacious comedy in the entire history of American politics. It would take Swift and Pope composite to adequately tell the tale.

But the party of Great Moral Ideas—and of Predatory Wealth—emerged from the Slough of Despond when the Texas Achilles came out of the sulks, withdrew his resignation, and armed for another sham fight against "the Interests."

The gloom from the face of the heavens retired;
The winds ceased to murmur, the thunders expired.

And there was joy unconfined among the scullions and the turnspits in the kitchen of the fat-fryer.

That is a fair history of this extraordinary transaction as the newspapers record it and as the public understands it. Here is another case. On the 28th day of February, 1870, the Hon. Jacob S. Golladay sent this epistle to James G. Blaine, then speaker of the Forty-first congress:

"Sir: I enclose you a letter herewith tendering my resignation to the governor of Kentucky as a member of congress from the Third district."

Here is the letter to the governor of his state:

"Dear Sir: I herewith tender you my resignation as a member of congress from the Third district."

Governor Stevenson indignantly refused to accept the resignation and demanded that Golladay clear himself of charges alleged against him. No suppression here.

Like Bailey, Golladay withdrew his resignation and strenuously sought to remain a member of congress. There was considerable debate over it—the late James B. Beck championing the course of his colleagues, and insisting that the resignation had not been consummated. But it was held otherwise and Mr. Golladay had to go. I believe the governor of Texas declined to accept the resignation of Senator Bailey.

As for the power and duty of the governor in such case I shall take the liberty to appropriate a thought of old Ben Butler in the Golladay case and hypothecate it herein: Suppose the president of the United States was a Democrat and resolved on a grand octopus chase for which he required a great legal luminary as head of the department of justice. Now it is possible that if subjected to a rigid and remorseless application of the "third degree" the torture might extort from Mr. Bailey the confession that he is not only the best lawyer in America, but that he is the best lawyer in the world. All right, Mr. Bailey is selected by the president for attorney general and sends his resignation as senator to the governor of Texas. But suppose the governor of Texas refused to accept it? Horrible thought! We would miss the greatest show on earth—an octopus chase a la Bailey.

And it is just as absurd to say that a senator may withdraw a resignation as to hold that a governor may refuse to accept it. The Golladay case and the Bailey case are practically identical in fact and absolutely identical in principle.

I knew Jake Golladay well. I was one of his constituents and spent hours in his society. He was a curiosity—a man of showy parts and little understanding. On the stump he was chain-lightning and magnificent as a declaimer. Unfortunately he was a hopeless demagogue, as eloquent as he was shallow. But for the episode in his career of which the resignation of his seat in congress was the culmination, he would have been senator, and his power at home firmly established. He was accused of selling a West Point cadetship; but nobody believed he profited a cent by the transaction. The general opinion was that he allowed a friend, whose son had failed in the examination for admission to the academy, to sell the privilege, and it was bought by a man of Ithaca, N. Y. Had Golladay discovered the manhood to tell the whole truth about it, I doubt little that he would have been returned to congress.

Jake Golladay was an honest man. Conclusive proof of this is found in the fact that he entered public life wealthy and left it insolvent. Instead of waxing rich in congress, he grew poor, and that at a time when the lobby was brazen and flagitious, and corruption walked in darkness and pollution wasted at noonday. He was a proud and a brave man, and he would sooner have endured penury, indigence and want a lifetime than to have become infamous in his own esteem for one moment of time, though he reaped millions as the bribe. That was Jake Golladay.

The main difference in the Golladay case and the Bailey case is this: Golladay notified the governor of Kentucky by mail, and Bailey warned the governor of Texas by wire. There is tradition for it that Nevada came into this glorious Union of ours upon a telegraphic dispatch. If a soverign state can come in by wire, why not a federal senator go out by wire? Here is a job for your casuist.

Another difference is that in the Golladay case the record is preserved; in the Bailey case part of it, at least, was suppressed. But honest and brave men look only to the facts, and the sole issue here is: Did Bailey resign? If he did, he is an occupant of the senate, and not a member, and the senates of Clay, Calhoun and Webster, the senates of James M. Mason, Stephen A. Douglas, Jefferson Davis, John J. Crittenden and William Pitt Fessenden would have scrutinized with lynx eyes the episode and ascertain if the rule in the Golladay case maintains.

But the matter is easy of settlement if Mr. Bailey will announce from his seat in the chamber upon his honor as a man and upon his dignity as a senator, that he did not resign.

FINDING JOBS FOR EDUCATED WOMEN

College Graduates Attack Economic Problem—Intercollegiate Bureau of Occupations—New Work to Start in Fall.

By CANDACE THURBER.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

"The economic paradox that confronts women in general," writes Mrs. George Haven Putnam, "is especially uncompromising for the lady. In defiance of the axiom that he who works, eats, the lady who works has less to eat than the lady who does not." In spite of this discouraging outlook, a new organization is to enter the field of practical economics in September to help women who want to work at professions other than teaching, to find the work that wants them.

This does not pretend to be a new and original scheme. It is one of those ideas that the air and the newspapers are full of in terms of the "jobless man, and the manless job," but there are certain aspects of this project that are different from anything that has been tried before. It is the first time that graduates of the women's colleges of a certain locality have made common cause in a plan to help all specially equipped women whether they do, or do not, hold college degrees.

Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Radcliffe, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley are the alumnae associations whose representatives, so far, make up the board of directors of the new bureau. They will employ a paid secretary and assistants. The objects of the bureau will be:

1. To secure employment for college and other specially equipped women.

2. To investigate and do all in its power to increase their efficiency in occupations.

3. To establish close connections with the colleges, especially in advising and informing undergraduates concerning occupations.

4. To insure, in every way, a free, wise, choice of occupation.

The bureau will charge a small fee, the amount of which has not yet been determined, and a percentage of the first month's salary. It aims, in time, to become self supporting. It will differ from any of the agencies at present in existence in New York under private ownership, as any money which it may eventually earn will be turned back to extend the work of the bureau.

Although calls for teachers will be filled when they come, the bureau will confine its main emphasis and effort upon work other than teaching, as it is considered that the teacher's agencies, already in the field are doing efficient work. The Bureau of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union will not be open for the registration of graduates of high schools, as the vocation committees of the public schools are already caring for them. The women who are not college graduates whose registration will be accepted are architects, lawyers, bacteriologists, doctors, nurses, graduates of schools of music or design, trained journalists, secretaries, socially gifted women who are willing to become companions, and women whose experience would equip them for executive positions, institutional management or welfare work. An effort will be made to obtain part time work for those who have a portion of their time occupied.

Arrangements for close co-operation have been made with all of the college appointment bureaus, the Boston bureau and the agencies of the Young Women's Christian association.

That the need for such a bureau is generally felt is shown by the fact that once started, the scheme seemed to move of its own momentum. Groups of graduates in each of the colleges had been tumbled out, unbacked and unprepared, into the labor market. They had felt the bewilderment of the new alumae who wants to do something but does not know exactly what and had found themselves thrust either into teaching, because that was the only form of occupation with which there was any existing machinery to connect them; or else they had to waste several years in finding out what they did want to do and how to go at it. There were married women who were working because they wanted to, and those who were working because they had to; and there were others who were not salary earners themselves, who were, nevertheless, interested in the difficulties of those who were. In short, the founders of the bureau saw that they would have a support behind them which was representative of all of the strong and helpful types of the college graduate.

The chairman of the board of directors is Mary Abby Van Kleeck, who, while conducting investigations on women's work, came to the conclusion that the position of the college gradate in the world of paid work was chaotic.

In most of the women's colleges there exist appointment bureaus that do what they can in finding work for their own graduates, but as most of the colleges are not situated in large cities, they have difficulty in investigating the calls they receive. Moreover, few of the alumnae who have experience register with them. These bureaus will find the co-operation of a New York office a great help.

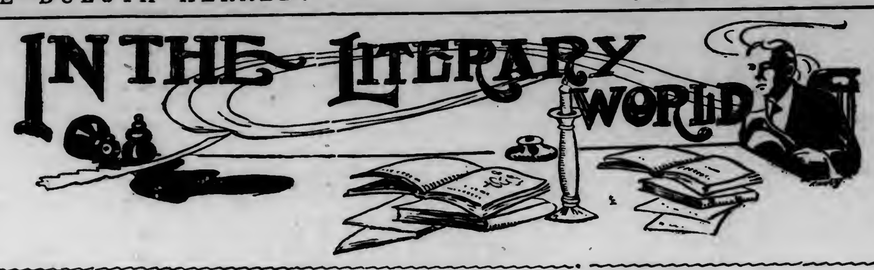

It is therefore as an outpost of the colleges, aiming to help in directing the energy which the colleges have done so much to stimulate, that this bureau is founded. It is a significant thing that not only in New York, but all over the United States, women are waking up to a realization of the amateur way they have gone about peddling their wares. While this New York bureau is only an experiment station, it is hoped that, in time, there will be a chain of bureaus in all of the large cities, conducted by the alumnae of the colleges, for the benefit of all women who have trained themselves for any specific line of work.

THE CRUISE OF THE SNARK. By Jack London. New York: The Macmillan company. Boxed, $2 net.

Somehow, it seems exactly like Jack London to conceive the deliciously mad idea of cruising around the world on a cockleshell called the Snark. It seems like him, too, to plan a boat costing $9,000 and then to spend $30,000 building her, only to find that he had been cheated by practically every person furnishing labor or materials. That the crazy craft should have been wrecked before its crazy cruise was half done, seems to fit into the piece. And it is still more like Jack London that after it was all over he should write a corking book about it, a book with an entertaining vigor of expression which nobody familiar with London will need to be told about, and with a vivid coloring that makes every page of it fascinating. Every lover of redblooded literature and of the romance of adventurous travel will enjoy it.

THE PRICE. By Gertle de S. Wentworth-James. New York: Mitchell Kennerley. $1.35 net.

The heroine of this story, a social climber with much more of an appeal than such characters usually have, was comfortably married to a man with money enough to indulge her in her aspirations, when she discovered, or was led to believe that she had discovered, that her husband's wife was living and that she had no legal existence in his life. The price she paid for smothering this secret is what the title refers to, and it included not only buying up the real wife but falling tragically in love with an amateur aviator. The author has made the most of a rather slender thread of plot which does not hang together any too well, since there seems no obvious connection between her illicit love and "the price" she paid for keeping the position she was willing to sacrifice to be with the man she loved.

THE GARDEN OF THE SUN. By Capt. T. J. Powers, U. S. A. Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1.20 net.

If "The Garden of the Sun" ever is read by a Democratic congressman there will be a red hot investigation of the army, the occupancy of the Philippines and military gentlemen who love and are loved by other gentlemen's wives. The captain does not weary his readers with the details of military government nor the glory of gory combat. He has a story to tell and he wastes no time about it.

Right off the bat the hero, Capt. Ballard, while after bloodthirsty savages, swims out with his men to a yacht and chases a bunch of pirates away. This happens in the first two pages. In the next two he meets Mrs. Bennett, wife of the yacht's owner. As he leaves the yacht he feels that he loves for the first time.

Ballard gets back to town from hazing Filipinos. Guess who's there. You're right. It's Mrs. Bennett, with her sister, Kitty Bouton, and Mrs. Bennett's husband, who is always asking people, regardless of sex, to have a drink. Kitty falls in love with Lieut. Condon and then into his arms. At a ball attended by the military set one learns that Old Man Bennett is usually "three sheets in the wind." He makes love to various ladies and his wife refuses to have anything to do with him although she does not eject him from the yacht. She fears scandal.

Capt. Ballard and Mrs. Bennett get plenty of opportunity to tell each other how their souls are panting for their mates. The first time they come to close quarters is when they are in swimming. Bennett loves his wife, too. Ballard and he finally decide that the best man will win. There will be no unwritten law, no police reporters, no headlines. Ballard takes Bennett on an expedition against some piratical Filipinos and Bennett saves Ballard's life. They shake hands. But remember, no odds and let the best man win.

Old Man Bennett didn't have a chance for his white alley. His wife was onto his curves, in the language of the sports editor; but Ballard was a new-comer and he had speed and twisters to burn. He was a baffling proposition and she fell for him. Recurring to a proper style for this department of reason and light, she found that she was "ravished by the turbulent melody of love," and then some. Still she was only a woman and when she saw Mrs. Payton, wife of a lieutenant, making love to her captain she was sufficiently peeved to turn a cold but beautiful shoulder to the brave military hero. He was caught at midnight with his arms around the lovely Payton but the reader knew that she had led him into this agreeable but compromising attitude and that he was spurning her when the colonel of the regiment and Mrs. Payton's husband happened along with a spot light.

Mrs. Payton sees that the doughty captain will not take her conventionally or unconventionally so she confesses in the presence of Mrs. Bennett that the captain is a brave man and true and that he repulsed her love. Mrs. Bennett promptly grabs the captain again and the curtain is rung down to soft music as the beauteous lady sobs out her joy on the captain's uniform.

There are various other mixed up love affairs that strain connubial ties but somehow all are mysteriously settled by the time the story closes. Old Man Bennett appears with a nifty little dancer. She is traveling with a pug who has a giant Chinaman for a servant. The pug tells Bennett for trying to steal his girl. The Chinaman stands guard over the girl and the consciousless Bennett so his master can escape. The girl heaves a lighted lamp at the Celestial, and jumps out of the window and shins down a tree. The Chinaman follows but his weight breaks the limb and he falls, almost hitting a soldier who arrests him after knocking him into insensibility. The house has caught fire but Bennett is rescued. Bennett kills himself as he sees that his life has been a failure and that his wife has a right to snatch happiness, it being within her grasp.

There is more but the reader can find it out for himself. We have other work to do.

THE CROSS OF HONOUR. By Mary Openshaw. Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1.27 net.

Some day when this department receives a book of fiction or historical romance that does not ring in the French triangle plot or a variation it will get a bang-up show notice with red headlines and green illustrations. There is no need for excitement, however, because "The Cross of Honour" does not belong to the categorical exception. It deals with the love story of Napoleon. Of course the woman who wrote the book couldn't help what the emperor did, so perhaps she cannot be blamed for what happened in the 340 pages.

After jockeying for a start the author gets into the swing of her story. It is fairly well written and readable. On the title page is a line, "The Battle Is to the Strong," which shows at the start that the Countess Walewska has no chance. Napoleon comes to Poland on his way to bitter victory over the Russians and the burning of Moscow. Madame Walewska is the young wife of an old Polish noble who watches out for himself, but is careless about his wife. She sees Napoleon, and the emperor falls in love with her.

Little Walewska repulses him because she is a respectable married woman with a reputation. The Polish patriots try to prevail on her to accept the emperor's advances so he will free Poland from Russia's influences. She tells 'em where to "get off," but the poison is distilled into her heart. She finally goes to Napoleon and becomes his mistress because she has come to love the image which she has set up in her heart with the label of Napoleon on it.

Before this comes about there is the very deuce to pay. A pretender to the French throne rattles around in his little sphere for a while and then dies. A cousin of the little Walewska loves her and when he finds that the emperor has the inside track he puts a bullet into himself and died. There are a few adventures that are meant to be exciting and there is enough swearing and muttering of asides in "that dear language" to warrant the suggestion that the reader should provide himself with a menu card or some handy French lexicon before tackling "The Cross of Honour."

FINDS EVERY 30TH WOMAN A TEACHER

CHANCELLOR

In an "open letter to one who is just beginning to teach" which William Estabrook Chancellor has appended to his new book, "Class Teaching and Management," he makes the interesting statement that "of American women one in one hundred is now teaching school, and one in thirty has taught school. Of those who leave the work, one in every two marries." In "Class Teaching and Management' Dr. Chancellor does not lay stress on the question of sex; for it is his belief that in America nearly all teachers are essentially of the same temperament whether they are men or women. Dr. Chancellor gained his intimate knowledge of school conditions and needs as superintendent of schools in the District of Columbia, superintendent of schools, union city district, Norwalk, Conn., and president of education, summer sessions, Northwestern university. 'Class Teaching and Management' is a book designed for reading circles, normal schools, colleges, and for all who are interested in educational work. Dr. Chancellor has delivered numerous lectures before the teachers of Virginia, and for a session was in charge of the summer school, University of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio.

"The Life and Letters of Moses Coit Tyler," late professor of American history at Cornell, which was to have been published by Doubleday, Page & Co., this summer, has been postponed until fall, when it will be brought out. The book was written and compiled by Tyler's daughter, Jessica Tyler Austen.

He has been a newspaper man—successively on the Atlantic Journal, the Boston Post, the Hearst papers in New York, the New York Herald, the Richmond Leader and the Boston American—and general manager of the George Fawcett stock companies in Baltimore. Now he lives at Scituate, Mass., where he runs a farm (on which the only thing he can raise is an umbrella) and a motor boat, The Dippy, which goes only when it gets darned good and ready.

George Bronson Howard has just completed the dramatization of his latest book, "An Enemy to Society" which is to be brought out in the early fall by Doubleday, Page & Co. Arrangements for the enactment of the play have been completed and it will probably be seen before the winter.

Among the Magazines.

The first story in the August number of Short Stories is the new translation of Dumas' "The Red Rose," a brilliant romance of the French revolution. It is one of Dumas' earlier works, entirely unknown to the English-speaking public. Then, "The Admirable John," first of the three Ellis Parker Butler stories, appears in this number. The author of "Pigs Is Pigs" is bound to succeed when he sets out to make one laugh. The second of the "Adventures of Emily Giles" series, "Miss Devereau's Diamonds," presents this girl detective with a puzzling problem, puzzling from start to finish. The number has also another of the new O. Henry stories, "The Transformation of Martin Burney;" a joyful story of Jay Junction, by W. B. Kerr, entitled "That Doggoned Duel;" one of Nalbro Bartley's switchboard series; and good stories also by Frank Condon, J. Wainwright Evans, Arthur S. Roche, Hapsburg Liebe and others.

Leroy Scott contributes a clever satirical novelette to the August number of the Smart Set. The title is "Mrs. De Peyster's Idea," and the story tells of the pitiful straits to which one of the leading figures in New York's Four Hundred is reduced through the curtailment of her income due to a period of financial depression. Richard Le Gallienne seeks to refute, in an essay on "Modern Aids to Romance," the current theory that the "good old romantic days," are gone forever. Never, he says, were the conditions so favorable to romance as today, and he points out many things in present day life to prove his contention. This is written in Mr. Le Gallienne's choicest vein, and presents really a good logical argument. Anne Warner tells in "Iron Bars" the story of the influence that a father's prison sentence had on a little boy and how it colored his life. Mabel Wood Martin, in "The Woman in the Picture," describes the jealousy of a man's second wife for her dead predecessor. Henry Sydnor Harrison, in "Cousin Fred of the Leisure Classes," tells a really funny story of the efforts of one man to get another a job. Other good stories in this issue are "A Lesson in Mechanics," a summer idyl of a man, a girl and a motor boat, by Berton Braley; "The Road Actress," a story of stage life, by Adele Luehrman; "The New Commissioner," a woman-in-politics story, by James Alvin; "Mrs. Bart's Bridge Debts," by W. Carey Wonderly; "The Man's Other Wife," by Roxann White; and "Barney McNab," by Sampson Rourk.

In The Survey for July is an article on Syrians in the United States which aims to acquaint Americans more fully with the needs and spirit of the great company of these new Phoenicians within our own threshold. Owing to the foreign outlook of the missionary movement we are at present more familiar with the conditions of the Syrians in Asia than we are with the lives of those here at home. Louise Seymour Houghton, under the auspices of the Carnegie institution, has gathered at first hand from men and women both in Syria and in this country a wealth of material for a sympathetic interpretation of a new race migration. "Fire Waste," by Powell Evans, who is chairman of fire prevention and insurance committees of the National Association of Manufacturers, presents conclusions on this subject based on experience as a merchant, manufacturer, and engineer. Don D. Lescohier, in the "Risks of the Ore-Diggers," tells a story of graphic interest about industrial accidents in an employment which has its seat in the rural and wild districts of Minnesota, which is the only state that keeps a complete record of its trade accidents. "The Discoveries of Columbus" tells the story of an interesting awakening in this bustling Ohio city to festering evils that had long been overlooked. The issue also contains a very complete report of the National Conference of Charities and Correction recently held in Boston.

In the issue of Harper's Weekly for July 8 appears a remarkable article by Sydney Brooks in which the intentions of Mr. Roosevelt concerning his possible future candidacy for the presidency are for the first time made public. Other articles in this number are: "New York Revisited," by "An Englishman;" "An Ottoman Leap-year Girl," by Charles Johnston; "Folk-Dances for Health," by William Inglis; "Golfing With Father Neptune," by William Edmund Cooke. Many other articles, with fiction, humor, and the usual editorials, go to make up this interesting number.

The sensation of a friend returning from a trip, or dropping his suit-case for a chat between trains comes with the National Magazine, for the editor keeps "on the move." This month it is Alabama, first in the alphabetical roll-call of states, and first in natural charms. The editor and his party covered every county in Alabama, and have made a breezy, home-folks' story, concisely setting forth the wonderful recent developments in this historic old state. "A Peep at Parliament in Session," being a sketch prepared from the editor's recent visit to the house of commons contains compact information, timely comments and first-hand knowledge of British policies and politics. A characteristic sketch of perhaps the world's greatest business executive, Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, is aptly entitled "The Lure of Work." A delightful sketch on the famous residence of the British prime ministers, "No. 10 Downing Street," is contributed by Oscar Frichet, illustrated with excellent caricatures. Matrimonial Deductions of a Bachelor Governor" gives the humorous observations of Governor Albert Waller Gilchrist of Florida. A liberal instalment of William Hodge's fascinating serial, "The Guest of Honor" is printed, and the fiction for the month is calculated especially to please the summer reader.

The August St. Nicholas is a sports and outdoors number, with sketches on tennis, baseball, and model aeroplane building and flying, besides new chapters of those wholesome outdoors stories: Ralph Henry Barbour's "Teammates," Katherine Carleton's "Dorothy the Motor Girl," Frederick Orin Bartlett's "The Forest Castaways," and E. Lovell Coombs's "Young Crusoes of the Sky." E. Willis Scott has much of interest to tell young readers about "Nine Points of Tennis," and illustrations from photographs give helpful hints for correct positions and grip, "follow-throughs," etc. C. H. Claudy's fifth paper in "The Battle of Baseball" series discusses defense and pitcher and catcher; and the author of "The Boys' Book of Model Aeroplanes," has further fascinating directions on how to build and fly model aeroplanes of 1911, and gives a full description of "the famous Flemming Williams model." There is a jolly story of boating and boyish bravery, "The Cockswain," by Leslie W. Quirk, author of "Baby Elton, Quarterback." Mr. Quirk is to have a new book of sport this fall, "Freshman Dorn, Pitcher."

ON THE IRON RANGES

HOT ELECTION IN PROGRESS

Virginia Takes Deep Interest in Choice of School Board Members.

Possibility of Socialists Polling Large Vote Complicates Situation.

Virginia, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the school election on this afternoon, interest has crystallized into voting. A large early vote is being cast. For the first time the names of Carl R. Johnson and C. E. Hendrick were printed yesterday upon the same ticket and a fight is being made for both candidates.

A strong contest is being put up for Mitchell Stewart and Mrs. Jane Cook, though many of Mr. Stewart's supporters are also for Mr. Hendrick. The campaign has been the cleanest waged here in years. It is impossible to forecast the result, but those who are in the hottest part of the campaign profess to believe that the three leading candidates will be Mitchell C. Stewart, Carl R. Johnson, C. E. Hendrick, not all, however, believing the order will be the same. A great many believe Johnson and Hendrick will lead and a good many say that Hendrick and Stewart will lead. The Socialists have been conducting a very active campaign and claim they will poll 500 votes. If they do, some slates will be smashed. A year ago the total vote in the school election was about 2,000 and this year the total is likely to be fully as large, but with the leading candidates in a much closer race than last year.

Election at Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual election of Independent School District No. 40 will be held this evening in the high school building. Matters to be voted on are the election of officers for the coming fiscal year; their renumeration; the length of the school term, whether nine months or ten.

Eveleth Election Quiet.

Eveleth, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school election to be held tonight is not attracting much attention. Two school directors for three-year terms are to be elected to succeed Directors Dr. C. W. Moore and George F. Dormer, whose one-year terms expire this month. The old directors are candidates for re-election and, as they have made good records and no opposition has appeared to their candidacies, it is expected that they will easily be re-elected.

Three Hibbing Candidates.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Up to noon today about eighty votes had been cast in the school election which thus far has been the quietest in years. So far there is no opposition to the re-election of the three present members who are candidates for election: G. H. Thompson, president of the board; C. L. Holtzlander, clerk, candidates for the three-year term and T. J. Ryan, county commissioner candidate for two years.

It is rumored that during the afternoon opposition candidates will develop, which might inject ginger into the campaign.

MAKING PROGRESS ON NEW BUILDINGS

Grand Rapids Is Scene of Considerable Building Activity These Days.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is considerable building activity here this summer and good progress is being made on the several structures. John Hofer, who has the contract for building the new steel water tank, had the old affair dismantled, having blown it down last Thursday, as told in The Herald, and is working on the foundation for the new tank.

Contractor Arscott has the excavating for the new paper mill well under way. The excavation, which has to go down twenty feet on the deep side is now down about fifteen feet. Dirt is being hauled out at the rate of between thirty and forty yards per hour. It is expected that the excavation will be completed in two weeks. Mr. Arscott has sixteen men and six teams employed.

To Be Large Building.

The building will be a big affair, as a few of the details show, the main boiler room will be 92½ by 41. To the north of this will be the fuel room, which will be 25 by 92½, while to the east will be the engine room, 54 by 41. The base, or foundation, for the smokestack will be twenty-six feet square, and the smokestack, which will have a six-foot flue and will be of concrete, will be 175 feet high above the base. From the boiler room to the basement of the mill there will be a 10-foot tunnel, allowing easy access to the mill from the boiler room. The fuel room will be built so that a car loaded with coal can be run right into the room and unload into the basement, which will be about twenty feet deep. Overhead will be the elevator and machinery of automatic stoker, which will take the coal from the fuel room and feed it automatically to the fireplaces of the boilers.

St. Joseph's Church.

On St. Joseph's church much progress is being made. The rafters are up and the roof, excepting the singles, is on. The brick work on the tower has been delayed for a short time owing to a lack of face brick. Some of this material has been secured, however, and the work will go ahead. It is expected that the church will be ready for occupancy in October. A force of a dozen men is employed.

The concrete base, or wall, of the courthouse retaining wall, which is being done by C. R. McLean of Duluth, was completed Wednesday. On this job there now remains only the laying of the drain, tiling behind the wall, the filling in, the water settling of the fill and the rip-rapping. This work will be started at once. About sixteen men are employed on this job.

KINSELLA HAS BEEN SUSPENDED

Governor Temporarily Removes Him and Appoints Duluthian to Hear Case.

St. Paul, Minn., July 15.—Governor Eberhart has ordered the suspension of John Kinsella, county attorney of Lake county, pending the investigation of charges made against him by Hans Otterlee, chairman of the board of county commissioners. Marion Douglas of Duluth was appointed commissioner to take testimony to submit to the governor in the matter of permanent removal of Kinsella from office.

A few days ago the county commissioners reported to Attorney General Simpson that Kinsella had been indicted on seven counts by the grand jury of Lake county in connection with the distribution of two circulars during the last session of the legislature. The county board asked Mr. Simpson to start proceedings for Kinsella's removal, but Mr. Simpson decided that some one would have to make charges of malfeasance in office.

What Otterlee Charges.

The complaint which was filed by Otterlee through the attorney general's office yesterday alleges that Kinsella has wilfully and wrongfully refused and neglected to advise the county board as to its duties and rights in matters which the county board submitted to him for his opinion. Several specific instances are cited. Kinsella never was admitted to the bar.

Kinsella is a Socialist and was elected county attorney last November. He came into public notice last winter when he distributed a circular among the members of the legislature, excoriating Attorney General Simpson and Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, for not taking his view and giving the aid he wanted in getting certain improvements in the water and sewer systems at Two Harbors.

There is no provision in the state Constitution preventing the election of a county attorney who is not admitted to the bar.

WILL BUILD LINE IN FIVE MONTHS

Backers of Range Interurban System Are Pleased With Outlook.

Virginia, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.) — Attorney Oscar Mitchell of Duluth, accompanied by fifteen Eastern capitalists interested in financing the proposed new interurban street railway line on the range were here Friday and, with A. B. Coates, examined the proposed right-of-way in the city and at other points. The company went over the entire proposed right-of-way, being on the range several days. They expressed themselves as greatly pleased with conditions and asserted that they would at once take steps for the financing of the line and its construction. The engineer in charge of the construction department stated that he could complete the line within five months, but it will be another month before actual work can begin; however, it is expected that considerable of the construction work will be accomplished this fall.

The line will connect Virginia, Eveleth, Gilbert, Hibbing, Buhl, Chisholm and Mountain Iron. It will be thirty-six miles long and will be the most modern electric line that can be constructed. Virginia will be the headquarters for the company and it is expected that the central power station will be located in this city.

Grand Rapids Assessors Show That Federal Count Was Off.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The census of this village just completed by Assessor Charles Millaney, employed by the council to take an accurate count of the inhabitants shows a population of 2,600.

The figures returned by the federal census enumerator last year did not prove satisfactory to the people of Grand Rapids, many being convinced that the total, 2,210, did not include the entire population of the village, with the result that Assessor Millaney was authorized to go ahead and take another census. The work has just been completed and a report was made to the village council this week.

REGISTER AND CASH STOLEN

Buhl Burglars Get $250 Money Holder and $225 in Cash.

St. Louis Hotel Saloon Burglarized During Early Hours of Friday.

Buhl, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was some class to the work of the burglars who visited the St. Louis hotel and saloon of Johnson Bros., here early this morning. They took not only the cash register valued at $250 from the saloon, but walked off with the $225 in cash left in the money receptacle. There does not appear to be any clue.

The men who turned the trick are believed to have left town as some strangers were seen driving rapidly from the village about 2:30 a. m., and the supposition is they made good their escape before the burglary became known. They are supposed to have gained entrance to the place between 1 and 2 a. m., finding ingress easy because the proprietors claim the help failed to properly lock up the saloon part of the establishment of the hotel whence the register and money were taken.

Telephone messages have been sent to other range towns and to Duluth warning the police to be on the lookout for the burglars or any one trying to dispose of a cash register.

The latter team have now won two games of the series of five which is to end with Sunday afternoon's contest. Miserable and inexcusable fielding on the part of the locals was mainly responsible for their defeat.

This afternoon the two teams will play their fourth game, weather permitting. Williams will be in the box for Hibbing and Pangburn for the colored lads. Tomorrow's game will end the series.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Cummins Makes Prediction.

Washington, July 15.—Senator Cummins of Iowa, insurgent, after adjournment yesterday expressed conviction despite the program there would be general tariff revision before the close. He based his belief on the fact that the Democrats and insurgents would stand together and force amendments to the free list bill, adding wool, sugar, steel, cotton, etc., to that measure.

"At least we shall have legislative revision before we adjourn he said. I do not know what the president will do, but we will give him a chance to speak for himself."

Bailey May Quit Senate.

Because of variance between his views and the views of some of his Democratic colleagues on tariff legislation, Senator Bailey of Texas is said to be thinking of asking to be relieved from duty on the finance committee, for a time at least. He declined to say whether he would resign from the committee. He has been suffering from an inflamed eye, which he fears might prevent his being able to give sufficient attention to tariff legislation.

Kenyon Wants Fines Abolished.

Senator Kenyon made an argument before the senate committee on interstate commerce in support of his bill amending the interstate commerce law so as to eliminate the provision permitting the punishment of offenders by fine. As the law stands, it allows either fines or imprisonment. The Iowa senator said it was impossible to get some courts to impose prison sentences so long as there is an alternative, and he contended that no other punishment is effective in preventing violations of the law. Mr. Kenyon also urged favorable action on the portions of the bill forfeiting patents used in the formation of trusts, and forbidding interstate corporations from owning the stock of other corporations of a similar character.

Veterans' Jobs to Hold.

The senate passed a resolution putting Union veterans in its employ upon a civil service status, to be retained permanently so long as their services are satisfactory.

MINER HAS INVENTION

Employe in Range Mines Has Perfected New Explosive.

Company Is Organized in Duluth to Manufacture the Product.

A factory for the manufacture on a large scale of a new kind of an explosive to take the place of dynamite, will soon be established in Duluth. The company has been incorporated and the capital stock has been placed at $250,000. The articles were filed with the register of deeds this morning. Mrs. I. C. Buell, a local attorney, represents the firm.

Dynamite is said to have many faults that are overcome in the new explosive. Dynamite makes so much smoke and leaves so much gas that the miners lose much time in getting back to their work, it is said.

The use of the new powder, it is claimed, will do away with this delay as it leaves no smoke and no gas. Several of the powder companies have tried out Bettanin's invention and it is said that they speak highly of it.

Bettanin is a common miner and has done his experimenting at odd times while employed in mines on the range.

The incorporators are: George Boskovich, Capt. J. H. Lanyon, William A. Kethtel and Frank Suech. All are Duluth men.

A factory will be established and the manufacture of the new powder begun at once, it is stated.

The company has been incorporated under the name of "The National Dynamite Company of America."

FREEDOM ON HABEAS CORPUS

Commitment Papers for Chisholm Man Not Just Grounds for Imprisonment.

Otto Leinon secured his liberty from the county jail this morning on habeas corpus proceedings brought against Sheriff Meining by his attorney.

He claimed that he was imprisoned without just grounds and that the commitment did not show a cause of action against him. Judge Dancer sustained the argument of the attorney and Leinon was allowed his freedom.

Leinon was sent to Duluth from Chisholm some time ago by the justice of the peace at that place to serve a 60-day sentence for attempting to defraud Julius Bernstein, a merchant at Chisholm of $63.86 by means of a check.

The crime for which Leinon was imprisoned is not very clear as the papers from the village do not state exactly what the nature of it was. They simply state that he attempted to defraud and sentenced him to a jail term.

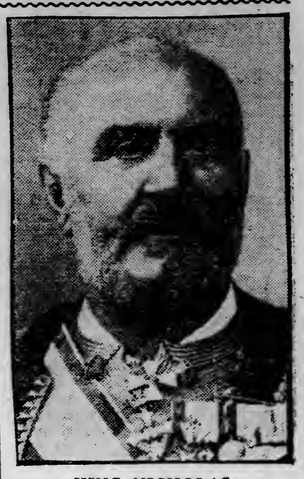

Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene admitted in court that the charge was not very clear. He could not throw a great deal of light on the matter which took place in Chisholm and Judge Dancer allowed him his freedom.

OBSTACLE TO WALSH'S PAROLE IS REMOVED.

Chicago, July 15.—The last indictment pending against John R. Walsh, former Chicago banker, now serving a term in Fort Leavenworth penitentiary, was quashed yesterday by United States District Judge Landis. This removes the chief obstacle in the way of parole of the former banker. The parole board will meet in Fort Leavenworth in September and it is said the Walsh case will be the first to be considered.

OLD KING HAS TROUBLE WITH HIS NEIGHBORS

KING NICHOLAS
Of Montenegro.

London, July 15.—The king of Montenegro will be 70 years old this year. He has occupied the throne for forty-one years. His family has ruled over Montenegro since 1697. Recently Montenegro has been much stirred up by raids into Albania made by the Turks. King Nicholas has put troops on the border to subdue the Turks. Montenegro has an army of between 50,000 and 60,000, on paper, but its actual strength is about 30,000. These are all militia troops, each household contributing one man.

They Come Hundreds of Miles to See Him DR. REA AT DULUTH, MINN.,

ST. LOUIS HOTEL, SATURDAY, JULY 22nd,

From 9 a. m. Until 6 p. m.

WILL GIVE FREE TREATMENT THIS TRIP ONLY.

The success of Dr. Rea is attributed to his special study of specialism. Dr. Rea, student, philanthropist and man of wide reputation, having given his entire time and practice to a line of special diseases, which enables him from long experience in handling these troubles to certainly come forward as a master specialist. His faculty for mastering disease, his ability to diagnose, and his plan of treatment are not to be excelled by few other physicians. Dr. Rea, although a young man in life, a plain man, and one who is used to the ups and downs of life, puts himself on a level with his patients, and does not profess or pretend to practice the old plan or fashion, which is to look wise and say nothing. He knows disease; he knows how to explain the symptoms of disease, and the spot where located, and most of all he knows from experience, from what he has done in the past, he can certainly do for others in the future. It is said by Dr. Rea's friends that he can diagnose a disease of any patient without asking them a single question; that being the case, he is not likely to doctor them for the wrong ailment; he will not take any incurable disease and lead the patients to believe that he can cure them when there is really no hope for them. His business is large and he has plenty to do, even, at times, more than he can do, without taking incurable diseases and deceiving his patients. Dr. Rea is a graduate from one of the best English universities, as well as being a graduate from two of the best schools in America. He has practiced his profession in some of the principal hospitals in this country. His specialty comprises that class of diseases which the ordinary home doctor fails to cure. His practice is mostly among the plain, hard-working people, who are unable to come to his city office for treatment; he is reasonable in his charges, and very lenient with those who are unable to pay. He is charitable, and it is said has never been known to refuse to treat a patient who is worthy and in need. A number of important cases that we hereby take the liberty to publish, which might be of interest to some who wish to know more of Dr. Rea's great work.

Anton Simonson, girl, Wahpeton, N. D. Cured of chronic catarrh and discharging ears.

Mrs. Michael Murphy, Emmetsburg, Iowa. Cured of chronic blood disease, that other doctors had all failed to cure, even after years of experimenting with her.

Oscar Morks, 609 W. Superior St., Duluth, Minn. Cured of chronic dyspepsia, bowel troubles.

Wm. F. Myer, Dexter, Minn. Cured of chronic stomach and bowel troubles by Dr. Rea's Cascarine treatment.

Oscar Halstein, Fargo, N. D. Cured of consumption. Mr. Halstein had doctored with a number of other doctors before treating with Dr. Rea.

Mike Curren, Minto, N. D. Says Dr. Rea's treatment worked wonders on him; after taking it a short time felt better than he had for years.

Mrs. G. W. Varco, Austin, Minn. Cured of a large cancer of the breast without cutting or without the plaster. Cured with Dr. Rea's new plan of treatment, which is one of the grandest discoveries the world has ever known for completely curing cancer, so that it never returns again.

A. C. Meyer, Ormsby, Minn. Cured of bad cancer of the lip in two treatments. Cured by the injection plan.

Mrs. N. F. Johnson, Morton, N. D. Cured of nervous prostration and epilepsy, after all other treatments had failed.

Mrs. Martha Murphy, St. Cloud, Minn. Says Dr. Rea saved my life. He was the doctor who knew where to look for disease, where to find it and to cure it after it was found.

A. Fullwhiler, Round Lake, Minn. Cured of chronic Bright's Disease.

Edgar Putman, Weaver, Minn. Cured of a bad case of eczema of the skin.

Mrs. H. C. Dorman, Miniski, Minn. Cured of bad case of protruding piles.

Mrs. B. A. Moore, near Grantsburg, Wis. Cured of floating kidney that had almost taken her life.

Mrs. Christ Wethal, 3821 Halifax St., West Duluth, Minn., cured of cross eyes in five minutes.

Mrs. Alexander Swanson, Oakes, N. D., cured of bad cancer of the face. Had had it cut out and came back. Three of Dr. Rea's injection treatments cured her.

S. M. Moore, Gladstone, N. D., writes: "Dr. Rea, you cured my son over a year ago. I have another sick boy, and want you to doctor him."

Fred L. Dicker, Gilby, N. D., cured of disease of the kidney. Was very bad. A few months' treatment completely cured him.

Mrs. Maurice Miller, Beaver, Minn., cured of epilipsy.

Mrs. N. C. Olson, East Grand Forks, Minn., cured of big knee, varicose vein and rheumatism.

O. H. Larson, Bue, N. D., cured of chronic rheumatism.

Miss Emma Geving, McIntosh, Minn., cured of consumption.

W. H. Nulph, Wyndmere, N. D., cured of cancer of the face in two treatments.

Martha Wilheim, Rt. No. 5, Minneapolis, Minn., cured of long standing epilepsy.

Joe McGowan, St. Anthony Park, Minn., cured of gall stones of the liver. Doctors said he would die. Dr. Rea cured him in three months.

Charles Grondysee, Slayton, Minn., cured of consumption by Dr. Doran with Dr. Rea's celebrated cure for consumption.

Mrs. Nels Carlson, Buffalo, Minn., cured of large cancer of the breast. Cured by the hypodermic injection plan discovered by Dr. Rea. There is no failing with this treatment.

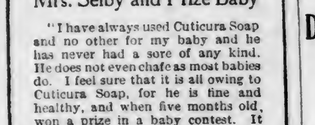

Dr. Rea has arranged to give free treatment to all who call on him this July visit to Duluth. Dr. Rea has set aside one month each year whereby he treats anyone who calls on him at his appointed visit without a professional fee charge, making only a charge for medicines used in the treatment of patients until cured.

Mrs. Selby and Prize Baby

"I have always used Cuticura Soap and no other for my baby and he has never had a sore of any kind. He does not even chafe as most babies do. I feel sure that it is all owing to Cuticura Soap, for he is fine and healthy, and when five months old, won a prize in a baby contest. It makes my heart ache to go into so many homes and see a sweet-faced baby with the whole top of its head a solid mass of scurf, caused by poor soap. I always recommend Cuticura, and nine times out of ten, the next time I see the mother she says, 'Oh! I am so glad you told me of Cuticura.'" (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redondo Beach, Calif., Jan. 15, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet will be sent, post-free, on application to "Cuticura," Dept. S, Boston.

ROAD RACE AT LATER DATE

Duluth-Hibbing Run Will Probably Take Place in September.

Poor Condition of Roads Makes It Impossible at This Time.

The postponement of the Duluth-Hibbing auto race, which was planned for Sunday, was very disappointing to a number of enthusiastic motorists who had planned to enter.

The condition of the roads at this time made the run almost an impossibility and it was postponed at the request of those who had been over the road.

Last year the Miller Trunk road was in good shape and both Duluth and range motorists made some good time records over it. This year filling and grading have spoiled it for the time being. Work will be continued at once and it is safe to say that the race for the prize of $100 will be run some time during the month of September.

The county commissioners were taken over the road Monday and they have promised to get it in good repair as soon as possible. The farmers who have the contracts have placed red clay on a number of places and it makes the going extremely rough.

A number of autoists had planned on entering the race and as they had spent some time in getting their cars in shape for the run they are disappointed, to say the least.

They have been promised that the race will be run later in the esason and that helps some. E. J. Filiatrault took the commissioners over the road Monday and they agreed that it is at the present time in poor shape.

As soon as the improvements can be made, the date of the race will be announced.

LONG GRIND AT BRIGHTON

Twenty-Four-Hour Auto Race at the Beach in August.

Interest in automobiling racing circles is now centered in the twenty-four hour race to be held at the Brighton beach motordome, Aug. 4 and 5, under the direction of E. A. Moross, formerly director of contests at the Inianapolis motor speedway. The twice around the clock performance will start at 8:45 p. m. Friday evening, so that the finish will be made fairly early Saturday evening. It is expected, according to information from the promoters, that fifteen cars will be entered, piloted by some of the most famous drivers in the automobile world.

Rich stakes have been hung up to tempt the pilots into the long grind. The winner of the event will receive a cash pirze of $1,000. Cash prizes will be offered to the finishers, including the fifth, the total amount that will go to the winners being $2,500. In addition to this amount $100 will be awarded to the driver finishing first in his class. The race is open to non-stock cars of class E, in divisions 2, 3, 4 and 5.

PUNCTURELESS AUTO TIRE IS ANNOUNCED BY EDISON.

New York, July 15.—On the day the announcement was made that George Westinghouse had perfected an air spring for use on automobiles, by the use of which the pneumatic tire may be discarded, there also came the announcement that under the supervision of Edison, there has been perfected an automobile pneumatic tire which is regarded as immune from any puncture. It is practically indestructible until the rubber itself wears out.

BOB BURMAN, SPEED KING

Holds More Records Than Any Other Driver in the World.

Fast Time Made in Blitzen Benz, Barney Oldfield's Old Car.

Bob Burman again demonstrated his right to the title of "world speed king" when he made a mile in 43.72 seconds at the Independence day race on the mile circular dirt track of the Brighton Beach motordrome. This remarkable time of Burman's beats the old world's record for circular dirt tracks, which was made by De Palma in a Fiat at Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 17, 1910.

With this new mark Burman is the holder of more world's speed records than any one driver in the world. He has traveled faster than any man on any course, hanging up new records for the mile, kilometer and two miles on the Daytonia, Fla., course, in official record trials, April 23. Driving the "Blitzen" Benz at the rate of 144.73 miles an hour, Burman broke the records held by Oldfield. Burman used the same car and drove over the same course as Oldfield.

Not content with holding the world's records for straight-away courses, Burman, in record trials at the Indianapolis motor speedway, May 29, captured the world's speedway marks for the mile, kilometer, half mile and quarter mile. He also established a world's record for driving at night, making 82 miles an hour on the Long Island motor parkway.

Burman's record for the mile on the circular dirt track was made on a treacherous course. The Benz car flew around the course, skidding from fence to fence thrilling the thousands of spectators, very few of whom suspected that he would be able to establish a world's record under such conditions.

All of Burman's world's records have been made with the 200-horse power "Blitzen" Benz. Practically all of the old records were made by Oldfield in 1910, in the same car and upon the same courses.

GOVERNMENT CO-OPERATES

United States Office Sends Representatives on Practical Road Inspection Tour.

Touring Club of America Is Always Working for Better Roads.

The interest of the United States government in everything relating to highway improvement will be shown in a unique manner, when within the next fortnight the office of public roads will co-operate with the Touring Club of America in a practical road inspection tour. This will be the first time in the history of automobiling in this country in which a motoring organization will have the active aid of the government in effective work for road improvement. This tour will start from Washington with Richmond as the objective point, the trip being made by one of the touring club's official cars.

The United States office of public roads will be represented by Assistant Director Paul D. Sargent, formerly state highway commissioner of Maine; P. St. Julian Wilson, state highway commissioner of Virginia; J. E. Pennybacker, secretary American Association for Highway Improvement; Col. Henry MacNair, editor of the official Automobile Blue Book; and Frederick H. Elliott, secretary of the Touring Club of America.

The main object of the trip is to study highway conditions between Washington and the capital of Virginia. At various points State Highway Commissioner Wilson and Assistant Director Sargent will meet the local authorities and offer suggestions for road maintenance so that by the latter part of October the highways may be in the best possible condition for motor travel. In this month a caravan of automobile tourists from many Northern cities will travel to Richmond to attend the first American Road congress to be held in that city under the auspices of the American Association for Highway Improvement, with the co-operation of the Touring Club of America.

The touring club will have charge of the organization of tours throughout the United States to Richmond, and is taking early action to interest the highway officials, not only in Virginia, but other states with a view to having the roads in much better condition in the fall.

WORK CAUSES EYESTRAIN.

Why Do Defects and Overwork Cause Eyestrain, and Why Do Accurately or Properly Fitted Glasses Overcome the Strain?

To understand why optical defects produce eyestrain, it becomes necessary that one should thoroughly know the anatomy and physiology of the eye.

Twenty-five of the forty-eight states have obtained through hard fighting independent boards of optometry examiners, thoroughly competent to decide if a candidate is qualified in the science of fitting glasses and to give him a certificate as a "registered optometrist."

In 1887, or twenty-four years ago, when A. L. Norberg of Duluth, Minn., first started in the optical business, these conditions did not prevail, and the country was overrun with street peddlers and traveling fakirs selling what to innocent people had the appearance of being spectacles and eyeglasses, and charged great big prices for them.

In 1901, when the state law took effect in Minnesota, he was the first one in Duluth to go before the state board of examiners and pass a satisfactory examination, to which his certificate from this board bears evidence to this day. Mr. Norberg is also a member of the Minnesota State Association of Optometrists to further the interest of optometry and optometrists in Minnesota.

During his long experience as an optometrist, Mr. Norberg has found that "hyperopia" (or far sight) is a real and most important defect of the eye and a serious menace to health, and it may be regarded as a paramount cause for "cataract," glaucoma, iritis and all other intraocular defects.

The fitting of glasses is an exact science when done by an efficient operator, and but little excuse can be given if done otherwise. However, when fitting glasses to an "asthenopic" patient, the strength of the lenses rests upon the good judgment of the operator to produce most comfort for the patient.

The "asthenopia" above referred to is that coming from overworked emmetropic eyes, namely, bookkeepers, stenographers, readers, and all who strain the eyes at close and confined work, and thousands of school children. Mr. Norberg does not mean to infer that "myopia" (or near sight) and "astigmatism" do not have their retributive train of evils, but they appear less frequently, and when discovered in time, perfect vision may be restored, if an expert operator is consulted.

A. L. Norberg, the optometrist and optician, may be consulted at his parlor, room 110 Oak Hall building, Duluth, Minn. Consultation free.

LORDS MAY YIELD ON VETO BILL

Interesting Situation That Now Exists in English Politics.

London, July 15.—British politics at the present bears a peculiarly interesting aspect. Nobody doubts that the veto bill will become a law. Lord Lansdowne himself spoke on that assumption in the last debates in the house of lords. The only question is whether the lords will carry their opposition to the extent of forcing a wholesale creation of peers.

Generally such a policy is regarded as suicidal, because when the veto bill is passed the house of lords would still retain effective power in delaying legislation which would be entirely lost if the creation of peers established a permanent Liberal majority. Hence it is the almost universal opinion that the lords will yield at the last moment.

Unionists Splitting Up.

The fate of the Unionist party itself, however, is more engrossing than the fate of the veto bill. After three successive defeats at the polls, the party appears to be torn by internal dissension, and from present appearances a situation exists which is likely to end in an attempt to dethrone A. J. Balfour from the leadership. A large section of the party has expressed itself as wearied by Mr. Balfour's vacillation and sees no hope for the party unless a stronger leader can be found. This discontented section places hopes for the future on Austin Chamberlain.

Climax Is Reached.

Apparently matters have now reached a climax. So many conflicting counsels have been given on how to deal with the veto crisis that the Unionist organ, the Saturday Review, boldly calls for a caucus of the party to ascertain where it stands. The Spectator, representing the moderate Unionists, reminds its readers that many Liberals wish nothing better than the degradation of the house of lords, which would follow the wholesale creation of peers, and earnestly appeals to the "no surrender" party to cease bluffing, which can only result in loss of dignity and prestige.

VISITS KOOCHICHING.

State Inspector of the Consolidated Schools Looks Over Field.

International Falls, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Shelland, county superintendent of schools, spent several strenuous days showing E. M. Phillips, inspector of consolidated schools, over the county. It was done for the purpose of getting his recommendations as to what consolidations could be made to advantage at this time, and as the result of the same, Chairman Durrin of the county school board and Miss Shelland have gone down river to locate consolidated schools for Loman and Birchdale. The plan is to consolidate the school districts of the county, so far as possible, in order to improve them by the state aid such a move will secure. Larger and better buildings will be the result, they will secured annual appropriations from the state, and manual training and other advanced and modern work will result.

It has become known, the dispatch adds, that Lord Camoys soon will visit the Shermans at their Newport residence.

ANGLO-JAP PACT FIXED

Obstacle to Arbitration Treaty Is Removed By the Action.

Change Removes One Possibility of War for United States.

London, July 15.—The Anglo-Japanese alliance has been modified to exclude the United States from Great Britain's possible enemies, and the life of the alliance has been extended nearly six years by the new version of the treaty which Sir Edward Grey, the British secretary of foreign affair, and Count Kato, Japanese ambassador at London, signed yesterday. The original agreement, which was signed Aug. 12, 1905, included eight articles and a preamble. The only practical difference between the old and new version is embodied in Article 4, which reads:

"Should either high contracting party conclude a treaty of general arbitration with a third power, it is agreed that nothing in this agreement shall entail upon such contracting party an obligation to go to war with the power with which the treaty is in force."

Objects Stated As Before.

The objects of the alliance are set forth as in the previous draft. These include the consolidation and maintenance of general peace in the regions of Eastern Asia and India, the preservation of the territorial rights of the contracting parties in the regions of Eastern Asia and India and the defense of their special interests in those regions.

Although it had been expected that the revision would be speedily arranged, the changes made coincide with public expectations, and the greatest satisfaction is felt that the distasteful possibility of Great Britain being drawn into a conflict betwen Japan and the United States no longer exists.

Taft Not Surprised.

Washington, July 15.—This government, on receipt of the news that there had been modification of the British-Japanese alliance treaty, expressed the greatest satisfaction, for it is generally considered that this modification has removed the last obstacle to the confirmation of the proposed arbitration treaty between this nation and Great Britain.

President Taft, when advised of the action expressed no surprise, but showed plainly his satisfaction. He indicated that his previous advices had assured him that the two countries would agree to such a modification. The state department is equally pleased, as it clears the way to the adoption of the arbitration treaty by the senate.

Announced In Tokio.

Tokio, July 15.—Announcement of the treaty of alliance between Great Britain and Japan was made here today and the text of the treaty made public. It provides for a term of ten years from date, thus adding six years to the existence of the alliance which according to the treaty of 1906 was to expire in 1915.

The Arabian Nights.

The genii sat in his rocking chair,
And he winked his upper eye,
While Aladdin rubbed the lamp so rare,
For another wish to try.
"What would you have, celestial son?"
Quoth the genii. "Shall it be
A castle on the snowy Alps,
A palace o'er the sea?"
"No; if you please," Aladdin cried,
"A thing I've wished for years—
A hammock by a cool lakeside,
And golden grain belt beers."

THIRTY-TWO PASSENGERS GO DOWN WITH STEAMER.

New York, July 15.—A dispatch from Port Limon, Costa Rica, reports that thirty-two passengers and several members of the crew of the steamer Irma were drowned or crushed to death when the vessel was sunk in a collision during a storm in the estuary of the San Juan river. The colliding steamship is given as the Diamante and the news is said to have reached Port Limon from Bluefields.

Most of the passengers of the Irma were below when the collision occurred, because of the heavy weather, and to this fact, the dispatch says, is due the heavy loss of life. The Diamante, it is stated, was damaged, but kept afloat.

No investigation conducted by a special committee of congress in recent years has behind it such a multitude of reasons for its existence as has the investigation now going on before a special committee of the house of representatives with respect to the American Sugar Refining company, familiarly known as the "Sugar Trust," and some of the largest independent concerns engaged in the same line of business. The purpose of the investigation may be summarized as follows:

To ascertain whether or not a monopoly in restraint of trade exists in the sugar business either as to production, manufacture or distribution.

To ascertain whether or not officials of the American Sugar Refining company have been guilty of criminal acts in the conduct of its business.

If so, whether they have been punished for such acts and, if not, why not.

To ascertain the extent of the frauds committed by the American Sugar Refining company in the avoidance of the payment of customs dues, for which frauds the company has already made restitution to the government in an amount in excess of $2,000,000.

To fix the origin of these frauds and the responsibility, both personal and political, which exists for their long continuation.

To lay the groundwork for a Democratic revision of the sugar schedule in the Payne tariff law.

To carry out the purpose of the Democratic house of representatives in this investigation, a special committee of the house, consisting of nine members, was created by the house on May 16. This committee consists of Representatives Thomas W. Hardwick, Georgia, chairman; Finis J. Garrett, Tennessee; William Sulzer, New York; H. M. Jacoway, Arkansas, and John E. Raker, California, Democrats; George R. Malby, New York; Joseph W. Fordney, Michigan; E. H. Madison, Kansas, and Asher C. Hinds, Maine, Republicans.

The Committee's Youthful Chairman.

Representative Hardwick, the chairman, is the youngest member of the committee in point of years, but one of the oldest in political experiences. He is only 38 years old and looks considerably younger. He first went to the Georgia legislature, where he served two terms, and he is now serving his fourth term in the house. During all of this time, however, he has been in the thick of a continuous and bitter contest between the various factions of Georgia Democracy. He is a follower of Hoke Smith, who was secretary of the interior in the second Cleveland administration and was recently re-elected governor of Georgia. To be a lieutenant of Mr. Smith or anybody else in Georgia politics means that a man must have as many bitter political enemies as he has ardent friends.

In last fall's contest for re-election, he went through what is considered to be one of the most bitter political fights ever seen in Georgia. Among Mr. Hardwick's most ardent political enemies is Tom Watson, the former leader of the Populist party, who has returned to the Democratic fold as a free lance. The feeling between Watson and Hardwick became personally intense last fall.

Aside from Mr. Hardwick's master passion for politics, his greatest hobby is a sort of political sideline. Ever since he has been in congress he has delivered a speech in almost every session proposing the repeal of the Fourteenth amendment to the Constitution which enfranchised the negroes. He believes the "experiment" of permitting the negro to vote has proved a failure. In a recent speech in the house, he said:

"Amalgamation being impossible so long as there is a single drop of blood in the veins of a single Southern white man, it follows that there can be neither social nor political equality between the races; that so long as they live together there must be the positions of superior and inferior, and that the white race will demand and take the superior position is beyond controversy. Six thousand years of history proclaim his right to do it. Superior mental and moral force assert it. Justice and equity unite in confirming his title to it in this land that his adventurous ancestors discovered and conquered from its savage inhabitants, wrested from foreign tyranny and which they have founded and preserved."

Mr. Hardwick throughout his congressional career, and despite his youth, has always been a serious-minded member of the house. In stature he is undersized, which only gives emphasis to his boyish cast of countenance. Nevertheless, he is conducting the sugar inquiry along dignified lines and has been of material assistance in getting unwilling witnesses to tell the committee all there is to know about the American Sugar Refining company. Mr. Hardwick comes from a wholly non-producing sugar section of the country, and it is for that reason, among others, that he was selected to introduce the resolution of inquiry and to head the investigating committee.

The Bowery's Picturesque Representative.

One of the most picturesque figures in all congress is William Sulzer of New York, who is taking a prominent part in the sugar investigation. It would not be fair to Mr. Sulzer to say that his principal fame is his facial likeness of Henry Clay, for Mr. Sulzer is the possessor of personal charms and accomplishments, some of which might have added luster even to Henry Clay's fame. However, Mr. Sulzer's resemblance to the "compromise" statesman of Kentucky is so marked as to bring down upon him much humorous comment. It has even been said in this connection that the New York statesman's principal concern in life is the perfection and perpetuation of this likeness. Certain it is that Mr. Sulzer's noticeable forelock grows a little bit more Clayish every day, and through study or otherwise, genuine Clay furrows are rapidly assuming deep seated permanency in the Sulzer brow and about the Sulzer mouth.

Mr. Sulzer represents the Bowery district of New York. His penchant is for the erection of monuments to dead heroes and great events. His dignified mien, even when "sassing" the speaker, suggests an ambition to be a senator. Mr. Sulzer is probably the most bold dresser in the house. He usually wears a suit of clothes tailored out of vividly checked or mottled materials, and his coat is always possessed of long, statesmanlike tails. He has a predilection for cravats of the puff variety, highly colored, and his shirt bosom is always of an exquisite hue. His stickpin and rings are set with large green stones; his hair and face are reddish. Altogether, it is not a difficult matter to find Mr. Sulzer, even in a crowd.

While Sulzer looks like an Irishman and is sometimes referred to by those who do not know him and who forget what his name sounds like, as "that Irishman Sulzer," he has not a drop of Irish blood in his veins. Nevertheless, some of his best experiences have had an Irishman at the bottom of them.

One story Mr. Sulzer took a lot of delight in telling on himself concerned an Irishman who asked him for a drink of whisky. After partaking of Mr. Sulzer's bounty, he remarked:

"Begorra, but that's good. When you go to the wicked place may I be there to give you a cup of cold water."

There is a good deal of sentiment about Sulzer and no man would go farther to do a favor for a friend. A few years ago he received an invitation to attend the wedding of a daughter of one of his constituents, an Irishman of the name of Michael Mullett. Mullett was wounded in the Civil war and when home on a furlough was captured by some bounty pirates and shipped under another name on a naval receiving ship, where he was compelled to serve in the navy, finally receiving an honorable discharge at the end of the war. In the meantime, he was listed as a deserter from his company in the army and the fact eventually became known to him a short time before the wedding, causing him a great deal of worry. Sulzer heard about it and resolved upon a unique wedding gift. Unknown to Mullett, he passed a bill through congress correcting Mullett's military record so as to remove the blot upon it. This Mr. Sulzer presented to the daughter on her wedding day to the great joy of both herself and her father.

On his feet, Mr. Sulzer is a handy man with the English language. He can talk about anything and is always entertaining. He is noted for his courteous retorts which, nevertheless, possess a sting. Once, when Representative Mann of Chicago, the present minority leader, sarcastically remarked to Mr. Sulzer that a speech Sulzer had made was so good he (Mann) "would like to hear it again," Mr. Sulzer replied:

"It never hurts an old song to sing it twice."

Mr. Sulzer was married three years ago and the event created no little furore in the house, where he is very popular on both sides of the chamber. The event was somewhat notable in Mr. Sulzer's career as he reached the age of 45 years and his friends had about worn themselves out arguing with him that his brilliant career was being wasted upon himself alone. Mr. Sulzer and his wife are inseparable after the closing of each day's session of the house.

The Man Who Cleaned Up Dodge City.

Edmond H. Madison of Kansas, a progressive Republican and one of the original Republican insurgents against Cannon rule in the house, is the only member of the sugar investigating committee who has had recent experience in an investigation of similar caliber, he having been a member of the famous Ballinger-Pinchot committee. That investigation served to indicate the absolute independence of Mr. Madison. He was the only Republican member who found against Mr. Ballinger and he drew his own report which, for logic and common sense, compared favorably with the reports of the majority Republicans and the minority Democrats, each of which was prepared by a number of legal minds.

Mr. Madison's entire training in life has been of a legal and political nature. As soon as he had passed his bar examination, which was soon after he attained his majority, he was elected county attorney of Ford county, Kan., of which Dodge City, "the toughest town in the West," is the county seat. The liquor laws of the county and state had for many years been a joke and Dodge City was a typical wild West community. It was the gathering place for cowboys for miles around after pay day. Mr. Madison, with all the zeal of his youth, started in to clean up the neighborhood. After a long drawn out fight, he had the mayor removed and sent a number of the roughest element, which was in the habit of "shooting up the town," to jail, but not before he had been repeatedly "beaten up" by friends of the "influential citizens" he had dealt with according to law, and his life often threatened.

Before he became a lawyer, Mr. Madison taught school in a small country schoolhouse in Kansas. One of the families living along the road where his school was located was named Murdock, and the pride of the family was the present Representative Victor Murdock, one of the most rampant insurgents in congress. Murdock was then 13 years old and Mr. Madison says that Victor was just as red-headed and freckled then as he is now. For some reason or other, Murdock did not attend Madison's school, and the latter has frequently expressed regret that he did not have an opportunity to give Victor a good "whaling" occasionally and so be in a position now to claim credit for part of the mental accomplishments which Mr. Murdock frequently exhibits in the house.

After his experience as county attorney, Mr. Madison served as judge on the circuit bench of his state, and there he made a fine record. Among his colleagues in Washington he is familiarly known as "Judge."

The Greatest Living Parliamentarian.

Asher C. Hinds of Maine, another Republican member of the committee, was the parliamentary clerk of the house of representatives from 1894 until March 4 last. Although considered by many the ablest parliamentarian in this or any other country, you could not get Mr. Hinds to admit at the point of a gun that his ability in this direction is even a tenth as great as that given him by those who seek to praise him. He is beyond question one of the most modest men in public life today and puts in more time "hiding his light under a bushel" than any other member of the house. As an illustration, Mr. Hinds has taken absolutely no advantage of the fact that he is a member of the Republican minority in the present house to pass the Democratic rules. A majority of his very few appearances on the rules have been in the nature of impartial remarks with a view to setting the house straight on a tangled parliamentary situation.

Mr. Hinds was brought to Washington by Thomas B. Reed as his assistant private secretary. When Amos L. Allen, Mr. Reed's secretary, was elected a member of the house, Mr. Reed promoted Hinds to the job of parliamentary clerk, expressing at the same time his own misgivings as to whether Hinds could make good or not. He kept Hinds at work studying rules both night and day and even by the time Mr. Reed retired as speaker in 1896, although Mr. Reed himself was perhaps the most skilled parliamentarian who ever sat in the speaker's chair, Hinds was able to take care of himself in arguments with Reed over points of order which were carried on in an undertone on the speaker's rostrum. Mr. Hinds always likes to tell the story of Mr. Reed's conversation with a new member as illustrating the fact that a little knowledge of the house rules is one of the most dangerous accomplishments of a new member of congress. This new member came to Reed and said:

"Mr. Reed, what do you think is the best thing for a new man to do? What lines should be take?"

"A knowledge of the rules of the house is very useful," replied Mr. Reed.

"Oh, I understand that," said the new member. "Ever since I have been elected I have been studying the rules of the house and I understand them perfectly."

"You are fortunate," responded Mr. Reed. "I have been studying these rules for twenty years and do not understand them yet."

Although Mr. Hinds has compiled eight volumes of precedents on the house rules and has analyzed them backwards and forwards, day in and day out, and has as retentive a memory as belongs to a man of his brains, he still subscribes to the dictum of Mr. Reed.

Hinds is a big man physically and mentally. He is a careful student and, although his training has been that of a newspaper man and parliamentary clerk, he possesses the judicial temperament to an unusual degree. It is a notorious fact that Former Speaker Cannon was one of the least versed men in parliamentary law who ever sat in the speaker's chair, hence much of the responsibility for the conduct of the house under the rules of the house fell upon Mr. Hinds during the eight years of Mr. Cannon's regime. During the most turbulent events, particularly of the last two years of Mr. Cannon's speakership, Mr. Hinds achieved a reputation for great coolness and self-possession.

The Committee's Fighting Member.

John E. Raker of California, a Democratic member of the committee, who is serving his first term in the house, could aptly be termed the committee's fighting member; his main characteristic is his predilection for a fight not necessarily physical, but legal. In Modoc county, California, Mr. Raker is known as the "fighting judge" because of the many fierce legal battles in which he has taken part and the militant spirit which he has shown in conducting his side of them. One of the principal cases in which Mr. Raker participated was the famous Modoc county lynching case. In 1901, twenty-one prominent farmers of Modoc county captured and lynched five men believed to be involved in horse stealing. Mr. Raker appeared as the lynchers' attorney when they were arraigned before the court and for five long months the legal battle for their lives was waged. During the conduct of the trial, Mr. Raker's fighting spirit occasionally got the better of him and he was many times reprimanded by the court and once sent to jail for contempt.

As a result of his tenacity, however, the entire twenty-one defendants were acquitted.

It is said that Mr. Raker came to Washington intent on becoming chairman of the house committee on public lands, an honor which is not accorded to first-termers. No sooner was the election over which made him a member of this congress than Mr. Raker packed up and moved to Washington and began an exhaustive study of legislative procedure in congress. While he failed of his ambition to become chairman of the house committee, he succeeded in piling coals on fire upon the head of his predecessor, Representative Englebright of California. Whatever Englebright tried to accomplish in the way of appointments and legislative procedure for the district, Mr. Raker succeeded fairly well in heading off. The result was the growth of considerable personal hostility between the two.

Two Ardent Cannon Admirers.

Joseph W. Fordney of Michigan, is a practical lumberman and on the committee is understood to represent as far as may be the interests of the beet sugar producers of the state of Michigan. Mr. Fordney is a rough and ready fighter whenever the interests of his constituents are affected. When the Payne tariff bill was under consideration he made a hard fight for a high duty on lumber and did his utmost in a general way for the highest protective duties offered.

Throughout his career in the house Mr. Fordney has been an ardent admirer of Former Speaker Cannon and his protective leanings. Mr. Fordney fought the Cuban reciprocity bill because of sugar and he opposed free trade with the Philippines for the same reason until convinced that the interests of his state would not especially suffer. Of more recent date he has joined with Mr. Cannon in fighting Canadian reciprocity. The climax of Mr. Fordney's admiration for Mr. Cannon was reached in his congressional convention prior to the last Republican national convention. So eager was Mr. Fordney to elect Cannon presidential delegate to the big convention that he held his own convention before the call was issued for such conventions by the Republican national committee. When the final test in the national convention came, Mr. Cannon got one vote from Michigan, and that came from the Fordney district.

George R. Malby, Republican of New York, is one of the most experienced legislators in congress, having been a member of the New York assembly for five years, speaker one term, and a member of the state senate for twelve years after that. He served in the New York legislature when the "old guard" of the state was securely in the saddle and his name was mentioned from time to time in connection with legislative matters considered by the New York legislative investigating committee of 1910.

In Washington, Mr. Malby has been a steadfast supporter of the Cannon organization. He is a standpatter from the ground up and has been a potent factor in suggesting ways and means before congress. He is one of those congressmen who has had absolutely no sympathy whatever with Republican insurgency either in Washington or in New York state. Legislatively, his principal service has been on the appropriations committee of the house, to which Mr. Cannon appointed Mr. Malby when he came to Washington with the sixtieth congress. Mr. Malby is a man who says little; he rarely ever makes a public speech in the house. His district borders on the boundary line between Canada and the United States, and he has been an active opponent of Canadian reciprocity in consequence.

H. M. Jacoway is a first term Democrat member of the house from the Fifth Arkansas district. Like Asher C. Hinds, he was secretary to his predecessor, Representative Reed, before succeeding to the latter in the house. Mr. Jacoway is also recognized as one of the most valuable congressional secretaries at the capitol and bids fair to make an equally enviable reputation as a member of the house. When he came to Washington, he found in the cabinet of President Taft, Jacob M. Dickinson of Tennessee, secretary of war, who had been one of his instructors in law at Vanderbilt university. Mr. Jacoway was secretary of the Dawes commission which investigated affairs in the Indian Territory during the second Cleveland administration; he had then barely attained his majority. He also served two terms as prosecuting attorney of Dardanelle, Yell county, Ark. Notwithstanding the noisy community from which he comes, Mr. Jacoway is disposed to be somewhat modest and retiring in manner.

The Poet of the Committee.

And last, but not least, there is Representative Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee, who has been through four sessions of the house, taught country school before he became a lawyer, and once upon a time displayed such a decided weakness for writing poetry that his fame as a producer of verse extended beyond the limits of his congressional district until it covered his native state of Tennessee like the dew, one result being that when he first came to congress his colleagues on the Tennessee delegation lost no time in calling the attention of the house to Mr. Garrett's metrical accomplishments. Today, should you quiz Mr. Garrett about his poetry, he will protest that he reformed long ago. Nonetheless, when he was asked recently for a sample of his poetry for publication, he unhesitatingly handed over the following:

A June Night.

A murk of cloud, half rifted here and there,
spreads over all,
Veiling the stars which show but dimly through its dusky folds;
The soft air stirs as gently as the breathing of an infant slumbering,
Bearing the while upon its lazy wings the grass scent and the odor of the rose
And fragrant breath of the magnolia's bloom and the jasmine's sensuous, rich perfume,
All mingled with the dank earth smell which follows in the wake of June time showers.
From out damp grasses and quick-growing weed beds rise the fireflies
To blink and glimmer through the mists of night;
The frogs croak from the late replenished streams and pools;
The cricket sings right blithely; the self-conscious katydid from its resting place
On quivering twig, 'neath dripping leaf, calls forth its name in hurried way
As though it feared that some might pass ere learning it was there;
The smaller insects, each in its God-given way, uplift a voice to swell the evening chorus;
The silly candle-fly leaves shade and safety to dally round the flaming lamp
Until its wings are scorched; then helpless falls to die.
Poor foolish fly, to be thus lured by glare and glitter!
How many men thy prototypes have been!
A cowbell tinkles through the darkness with irregular stroke;
Across the bridge the carriage of some late traveler rumbles;
Up the long grade, with labored cough, the locomotive toils,
Then hastens on until its regular puff is in the distance lost;
And suddenly above them all, and sweeter far than all, but blending with them all,
Rings out Sir Mocker's roundelay as he begins his evening song.
"All commonplace?" 'Tis true. A surface view presents nor sight nor sound
Which stirs the spirit unto mighty thoughts or great desires.
But is it, after all, so trite and uneventful?
Is there not in the very calm and quietude, in the unisonance of nature's night sounds
A tender calling unto the gentler sympathies of men?
A calling unto which an answer must be made? A mystic cord thrown out
To bind out the heart and mind more closely up to nature's breast
And lead us nearer, nearer unto God?
Its very harmony a poem, ungraspable in full, but sweet withal,
And tender, too, and restful in the calm which it inspires?

INCREASE IN OUTPUT OF BUTTE DISTRICT IN JUNE

Butte & Superior Again Figuring on Erection of Concentrator.

North Butte's Report Next Week Expected to Be Gratifying.

Butte, Mont., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The official figures of the Washoe and Great Falls smelters for the month of June show that the production was 21,850,00 pounds as compared with 21,700,000 pounds in the month of May. The increase in the production for the past month of 150,000 pounds was largely du to the Tuolumne shipping more ore than in May, which made the production of that company in the vicinity of 600,000 pounds as compared with 500,000 pounds in May, while the North Butte also ran a little over the average of 2,000,000 pounds for many months past. Of the production of 21,850,000 pounds the Washoe smelter at Anaconda turned out 16,700,000 pounds of copper and the Great Falls smelter 5,150,000 pounds. All the ore of the North Butte and the Tuolumne companies goes to the Washoe smelter. The mines of the Anaconda company practically remained the same as in May as to production. The East Butte company produced about 1,100,000 pounds, so that the total production of this district for June was 22,950,000 tons.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior company is again considering the question of the erection of a concentrator on the company's ground, near the mine. It is contended that the building of a mill to treat the ore would considerably lessen the expenses, in that the freight on the 350 to 400 tons of ore now hauled daily to Basin for treatment would be saved. It is stated that the company is in a position to go ahead with the construction as it is earning about $35,000 a month, and in addition it has a treasury balance after meeting all bills from the money received from Hayden, Stone & Co., from the bond sale. When the company had this matter under consideration more than one year ago the plans were prepared and practically all arrangements made for the material, so that when once a decision is arrived at little time will be lost in putting the building up. However, before a definite decision is made, it is stated that President Wolvin will come to this city and make an inspection of the property and consult with local interests on the matter.

Ryan Well Satisfied.

John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper company, spent the first week of this month in Great Falls looking over the improvements which have been made to the smelter since his last visit. He has expressed himself as well satisfied with the manner in which the plant is operated and the working of the economies which have been introduced. Mr. Ryan also devoted considerable of his time to the other interests which he has in Great Falls.

Berlin To Be Dissolved.

Some time ago the North Butte company purchased the Berlin company claim and as the stockholders in the Berlin were without property application was recently made to the court for permission to dissolve. The order has been made and John D. Pope, manager of the North Butte company, W. D. Thornton, stockholder of the Berlin company and also president of the Greene-Cananea company, and Harry Holp, also a stockholder of the Berlin company, named to act as trustees in the dissolution proceedings. The Berlin claim is now one of the North Butte's most valuable assets.

Tuolumne.

The Tuolumne company has declared the regular dividend of 15 cents, payable on August 15. "We can very easily take care of this rate of dividend and meet all obligations without impairing the treasury to any extent," said President Hickey recently, "but with the market conditions as they are at present it would be folly to attempt to increase the rate as some think we would be justified in doing. The market looks good for an improvement, and it would not surprise me to see the surplus largely wiped out and 13-cent copper in the next few months, but we will wait until that time arrives before we increase the dividend. We are increasing our ore reserves every day and shipping about 200 tons daily besides, and when the new equipment is in place we will be in a position to ship at least 500 tons a day to the Washoe smelter." Some parts of the new surface plant have already arrived, but it is not believed that the equipment will be in position and ready to be operated much before the middle or latter end of August. It will be installed without a delay of more than three days in mining operations.

Iron Mountain.

The Iron Mountain Tunnel Mining company which is owned by W. Q. Ranaft and others of Boston and other cities of the East, promises to develop into a profitable zinc property. In the course of new development work, in addition to a large amount of silver lead ore, there has been opened up a zinc body of much promise. The officials of the company are very much elated over the future of the property, especially in view of some very profitable returns received from the East Helena smelter on ore shipped.

Radersburg Mines.

There is a great deal of activity in the Radersburg district, due to the excellent showing being made by properties which have entered the producing class and getting fine returns on the shipments. In the Black Friday mine another body was opened on the 700-foot level about three feet wide and assays shows $300 to the ton in gold. In the Mohawk mine, which adjoins the Black Friday four feet of ore has been opened up running $20 to the ton. The Keating company is mining on a shoot 400 feet long and an average width of three feet. Operations are being carried on on the 600-foot level and it is stated that there the best ore is to be found. The company is sending out three cars a day for treatment. The Ohio-Keating is shipping about three cars of ore each week. There are a dozen other properties operating, and all are being equipped with electric plants.

Chinese Investigator.

F. H. T. Chen, the supervisor of mining and smelting for the Chinese government, has completed a very thorough examination of the manner of handling and treating ore at the Washoe smelter and has gone to Tooele to inspect the plant of the International Smelting & Refining company. He proposes to visit every mining center in this country before returning to his native land. In making his examination of the different plants he takes elaborate notes on the various processes the ore is put through and possessing a very fine English education he is quick to understand. He says that the information he is gathering is to be used for carrying on copper mining on an extensive scale in China and that he expects some day his country will play an important part in the production of copper.

Placer Mining.

The revival of placer mining is progressing at a wonderful rate in different sections of this state this summer. In the Ruby valley the Conrey company has four dredges at work. The company is digging an immense amount of earth every day and getting good returns. In California gulch, in the locality of Alder gulch, which was the scene of extensive placer mining years ago, the first clean-up of the season, has brought to light one nugget weighing 100 ounces and another twelve ounces. Owing to the presence of some white quartz it is impossible at present to state their weight in gold, but experienced gold miners say that the value is at least $1,200. The discovery of these nuggets along with a large quantity of fine gold in the first clean-up, has created quite a little excitement and has been the cause of many people abandoning their occupations and taking up ground in the locality.

East Butte.

When the new furnace is installed at the East Butte smelter it is estimated that the company will be in a position to produce 2,000,000 pounds of copper a month. This new furnace which will make three, will be finished in the course of the next three months and possibly sooner as all the material is now on the ground. While it is not the intention of the company to run the smelter to its full capacity under present copper market conditions, there will possibly be some slight increase as the company has a very large amount of ore blocked out. In the improvements now being made at the smelter the company expects to be in a position to reduce costs considerably.

North Butte.

The next quarterly report of the North Butte company is due on July 22, and it is expected that it will turn out to be one of the most gratifying ever made to the stockholders. The ore now being shipped to the smelter is said to average 3 per cent copper, but only sufficient is being shipped to maintain a production around 2,000,000 pounds per month. The ore reserves are now very large and are being increased every day.

SUCCESS MINE TO PUT ON MORE MEN

Wallace Property Is to Be Operated on Larger Scale.

Spokane, Wash., July 15.—Reports come from Wallace, Idaho, that the Success mine will be operated on an extensive scale hereafter. Ten cars of concentrates were shipped a week ago, and it is reported the ore now in sight is sufficient to assure regular dividends at 60-day intervals. A disbursement of 1 cent a share was made at the annual meeting a few months ago, and it is given out that another dividend of 1 cent, or $15,000, will be declared at the next meeting of the directors. The company has improved the crushing and saving equipment in its mill and the output is greatly increased.

Plans have been completed by the Coeur d'Alene Development company for an active season on the Silver King mine in Government gulch, in the Coeur d'Alene district. Robert Sterling, who has charge of the work, reports that the main tunnel has been retimbered and the cutoff tunnel is to be the main working exit. The company was successful recently in opposing the efforts of the Stewart company to condemn its tunnel, which runs along the Stewart property lines.

Bunker Hill & Sulivan Mining & Concentrating company, operating properties of the same name at Wardner, Idaho, disbursed $65,400 as a dividend for July, making a total of $12,832,650 to date. The mine produced approximately 70,000,000 pounds of lead and 1,245,000 ounces of silver in 1911. A shaft has been sunk and levels opened to a depth of 1,200 feet below the lowest tunnel level, developing the vein more than 3,000 feet on its dip, beneath the apex, as the dip of the vein nearly conforms to the bedding planes of the formation. It is believed that much greater depth can be obtained before the vein will have passed out of the Rivett and Burke quartzite, in which occur all the rich ore bodies of the district.

ACTIVITY AT SONORA MINES

The Greene-Cananea Resumes Operations at the Henriette Mine.

Cananea, Mex., July 15.—The smelter and mines of the Greene-Cananea Copper company have been operating steadily during the month now brought to a close. During this month the Henriette mine, which was shut down about a year ago, resumed operations. A force of about 150 men is now employed at the property. An electric hoist has been installed. At the smelter the plant has been operating steadily and the number of furnaces in operation was six on an average. The output for June will compare favorably with that of May.

The Calumet & Sonora of the Cananea Mining company will soon be actively engaged in operating its Catalina mine, work upon which was resumed recently. It is expected that the mill will be operating steadily in a short time, when electricity will be used as power. The electrical plan is almost in readiness.

The Silver Seals property, located in the Nacozari neighborhood, recently made a carload shipment of ore which netted the company $3,500. There is enough ore in sight to warrant three shipments of one car each monthly. A. J. Warner, a director in the Calumet & Sonora company, was recently at the property and reports that everything is looking nicely. C. B. Bell is in charge of the operations.

Electricity is now the motive power for the Tigre mines and mill. The first electricity was transmitted over the line on June 25. Since that time the property has been using the new power. The power is generated at the Copper Queen power house in Douglas, Ariz., and transmitted to the property over a line seventy-two miles in length. This is the only line of its nature in use in this portion of Mexico.

STRIKE IS IMPORTANT

More Rich Copper Ground Is Found By Mayflower Company.

Hancock Makes Good Recovery From Rock Sent to Mill.

Houghton, Mich., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mayflower Mining company has made a strike of rich copper ground in the horizon of the so-called St. Louis lode. The disclosure duplicates the fine showing obtained in the No. 11 drill hole and is a most important development. The St. Louis lode lies in the approximate horizon of the Baltic lode. Whether or not it is a continuation of that famous bed cannot be definitely determined from data in hand, and it will require work of years to show its proper relation, but whatever its identity it promises well. Drill borings have yielded excellent showings in the cores extracted from varying depths and at several points on the St. Louis and Mayflower properties.

Algomah.

The Algomah Mining company continues to open copper ore in the exploratory shaft sunk in what is expected to prove an extension of the Lake lode. A total distance of 1,500 feet has been driven in this formation all in rather low grade ore though not without possibilities, judging from the character of that displayed on the dump. A change from ore to native copper is anticipated at greater depth. No work has been done below the 104-foot level. There is but a trace of native copper at this depth. Exploratory work elsewhere is confined to diamond drilling. The fifth hole has just been stopped at a depth of about 2,300 feet and Hole No. 6 started to the northeast and distant about 600 feet.

Quincy.

The Quincy Mining company is giving full time and attention to the development of the Pewabic-Quincy lode in the Pontiac tract acquired some years ago from the Arcadian Copper company. A considerable amount of development work has been accomplished in the comparatively few years that this property has been in the possession of the Quincy. This has been possible through the extension of the north laterals of the Mesnard shaft workings. The Pontiac shaft, through which this ground will eventually be wrought, has attained a depth of about 1,500 feet, and at 2,200 feet will connect with the first of several Mesnard drifts. The character of the ground opened is in every way similar to that obtaining in the higher laterals of the several adjoining shafts on this formation—generally poor above 2,000 feet, but improving materially with added depth. The south end of the mine is nearing exhaustion and that territory tributary to the No. 7 shaft will probably become so within another ten years. The north end, however, is only just coming in and but two-thirds of all that territory embraced by the Pontiac, Mesnard and Section 14 has been made productive. This tract is nearly twice the size of the original holdings of the company on the Quincy-Pewabic lode.

La Salle.

The La Salle Copper company is centering all activity in development work in the Tecumseh tract. Two shafts are sinking steadily, the first is down over 2,000 feet and the second is approaching 1,500 feet in depth. Both shafts are opening copper ground of rather poor quality with the exception of occasional stretches like those at the moment showing on the twelfth and thirteenth levels in No. 2 shaft and in several spots on various levels in the deeper No. 1 shaft. The La Salle of today is a mere specimen mine, prolific in copper crystals and small nuggets of silver. The more desirable stamp rock is conspicuous for its absence. Production has declined to less than fifty tons rock daily and promises soon to cease altogether. The most encouraging feature at the La Salle is the growing betterment in copper content as greater depth is attained.

Hancock.

The Hancock Consolidated Mining company reports a copper recovery of 19.45 pounds fine copper per ton of rock milled during June. The average recovery for May was 19.27 pounds. The July extraction is not expected to show less, and for the first period was considerably better than the average noted. No selection is being made, but on the other hand only first-class ground is being stoped, thus lowering the proportion of poor ground extracted in the course of drifting. A recovery of fifteen pounds copper per ton of rock mined is altogether probable during the life of the mine and no recovery greatly in excess of this figure is anticipated for any considerable period of time. The production is being milled in the Centennial-Allouez stamp mills. The company some time ago purchased a mill site, but is delaying the erection of its own mill of which in fact it stands in no immediate need. The mill site also is of questionable capacity, being limited as to sand room for the tailing dump, and in all probability will be put to other uses. A new mill site may be acquired from among many on the shores of Lake Superior, five or six miles distant, and this will likely be done. Operations in the mine continue centered in development work in the No. 3 lode and in shaft sinking. Drifting is in progress in the several levels from the twelfth to the eighteenth, inclusive. The shaft is around 2,300 feet deep and again sinking steadily to intersect and develop the underlay of the Quincy-Pewabic lode, which has proven so productive in the lands of the Quincy Mining company adjoining. The company is employing a force of about 200 men in and about the mine.

SIWASH CREEK FORGES AHEAD

Swarming With Prospectors and Experiencing Its First Boom.

Seattle, Wash., July 15.—Steamboat Mountain got a setback last week and Siwash Creek, near Yale, forged ahead. They are contiguous camps and are well filled with prospectors. Values have petered out in the original Greenwalt Stevens discovery from which so much was expected. In fact, gold is found only in the float from the ledge where pay is good, but in the vein values run too low to pay. However, this is true of discovery alone, and many new things more promising have been found. The Steamboat country is mineralized, and the zone of mineralization begins in the Mount Baker district south of the American boundary and extends northeast to the head of the Similkameen. Porphyry dykes, from which veins and veinlets of hard quartz protrude, are the characteristics of the section. Above timber line, where the softer porphyry has eroded, leaving the hard quartz standing intact, this characteristic is most marked.

On Siwash creek a new strike was made on the Godfrey claims below the forks and another on the north fork above the Mount Baker and Yale mill. Lewis Stenger has been investigating the Mount Baker and Yale dyke, where it goes into the North mountain and has established the existence of a great zone of free milling ore, distributed not in lenses, as on the south side, but with rather marked uniformity throughout the dyke.

The Marvel mill has started on ore from the great exposure of the Ward. All of these claims about the forks are located to cover the great main dyke of the creek. The Godfrey and Roderick and the new Reynsbeck strike alone are on veins in the slate, which is the country formation.

Siwash is swarming with prospectors and is experiencing its only boom, though it has produced more or less for half a century.

CHURN DRILLING AT THE LIVE OAK

Meeting With Uniform Success That Has Attended Company's Operations.

Globe, Ariz., July 15. — The Live Oak has five churn drills working on the property and they are meeting with the uniform success that has characterized the operations of this company since the first drill began boring in April, 1911.

The new shaft, generally referred to as No. 2, is considerably below 400 feet in depth. McIver Bros. & Ross, who are sinking the shaft under contract, are keeping up the record-breaking pace that broke the world's record for a month's work recently, although the greater depth and moisture of the shaft as it deepens makes it impossible to equal the pace at which they are sinking formerly.

Shaft No. 1 is 445 feet in depth, at which level the work preliminary to the "blocking out" that will honeycomb the ore body with drifts, crosscuts and raises, is in progress.

Considerable work is in progress on the surface in the way of improvements. Work has begun on the office building that is to be erected near the original headquarters, the various points of operation on the property have been connected with the office by telephone, oil burners have taken the place of the former fire boxes beneath the boilers in the power plant, and various other improvements are under way.

MORE GOLD IN THE PLACERS

Increased Production From This Source in Colorado Expected.

Denver, Colo., July 15.—Although the discovery of gold bearing placers was the cause of the first rush of fortune seekers to the Pike's Peak country, and although the placers of Colorado have been the scene of profitable mining for more than half a century, recent developments promise a great revival of placer mining and a largely increased production from this source. In the recently issued report of the state bureau of mines the prediction is made that there will be a development of dredging in Colorado comparable to the development that has added so much to the gold output of California. At present extensive dredging operations are in progress in Summit county, and from Summit county come reports of discoveries similar to those that started crowds of prospectors into the hills in the early days. In the old Tarryall district of Summit county, where fortunes were taken from the beds of the streams in 1860, some exceedingly rich gravel has been opened on placer ground belonging to Bon L., I. B. and John Look, Denver merchants who for several years have been developing lode claims in the same vicinity. By driving a tunnel they have cut into what appears to be a channel long since abandoned by the stream, and in this channel they have encountered gravel that yields quantities of small nugets and fine gold in every pan washed. Not enough work has been done yet to give any accurate idea of the width of the old channel or the depth to bed rock. The Look brothers own only 3½ acres of placer ground, but say that they would not sell it for $50,000.

Before the strike on the Look ground had become known to others, Harry E. Burlew of Denver had secured for $13,000 an option on 141 acres adjoining from George A. Montag, by whom it had been owned for a long time. Burlew immediately sold a two-thirds interest in the Montag ground for the price he paid for the whole tract, and preparations have been made for working it with modern machinery. The Miller placer of 160 acres just below the Montag placer is reported sold to Daniel Giles for $24,000. The owners of the Reiling dredge, which is operating on a placer near Breckenridge, have leased the old Peabody placer, which lies on the creek near the Miller ground. The Peabody placer is credited with a production of $6,000,000.

The dredges working on the watersheds of the Blue and the Swan river in Summit county made a production of $660,000 in the season of 1910, it is reported. Of this amount $350,000 is credited to the Swan river plant, $210,000 to the Reiling and $100,000 to the Reliance. The gravel handled by the Swan river plant runs from 25 to 45 cents a yard and the expense is 4.7 cents a yard.

The Wellington Mines company, operating near Breckenridge in Summit county, has just paid a dividend of $50,000, the second of this year. The management expects to make another disbursement before the end of the year.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Never Has Production of Gold Ore Been as High.

Deadwood, S. D., July 15.—Never in the history of the Black Hills has the production of gold ore been as high as at the present time, and with a continuance of the present rate through the remaining six months the annual output for 1911 will far exceed any previous figure. The local United States assay office during the last quarter has received over $1,750,000 in bullion and other companies are planning to send their output to it within a few weeks. The addition of the Homestake bullion, the increase in size and value of the Wasp bullion and the Golden Reward increase, together with some new shipments, some from the Southern Hills, have caused the higher figures.

Preparations are being made by the officers of the Lucky Strike company to develop their property on Box Elder creek more extensively. The shaft is to be sunk an additional 300 feet and the ore vein which shows at the present 300-foot level is to be developed at depth. This body has been prospected, but not much opened up. It carries a fair grade gold value. The company has a 30-stamp mill on the ground.

Near Bear Butte, at a point about four miles from Galena, John McGoffin has just made what is believed to be an important strike on sulphide of silver. He owns the ground which years ago was a heavy producer of high-grade ores and has done some work in the last few years in other portions of the property. A small vein that outcropped on the surface was opened up and is now developing into a large vertical from which samples of ore assay high, some running 105 ounces in silver and some lead. The property is located near the new Osterman smelter, which will be of particular benefit in that locality.

The Trojan mine, near Portland, which was put out of commission by a fire that destroyed its ore bins, tramway and hoist house, has resumed work with temporary structures which are now being made permanent, and its new mill goes into commission this week. This mill was formerly on the property of the American Eagle Mining company and is a 200-ton cyanide plant that can't be enlarged. The company is now shipping much of its ore to Denver and some to the Lundberg, Dorr & Wilson mill at Terry, but expects to be able to treat the largest part in its own plant from now on.

O'BRIENITES LOSE AGAIN

Dauss Beats Duluth in Second Game By 3 to 1 Score.

Walliser's Triple and Hargrove's Single Are Only Hits Scored.

Winona, Minn., July 15.—Winona won the second game of the present series from the White Sox, the score being 3 to 1. Dauss was opposed to Blancke and cleverly outpitched the Duluth slabman all the way through. An even dozen of the visiting batsmen fell victims to the puzzling slants of Dauss and he was steady throughout. Walliser's triple and a single by Hargrove scored the one run for Duluth. The score:

WILD PITCHES GIVE GAME TO COLUMBUS.

Louisville, Ky., July 15.—Three wild pitches by Higginbotham yesterday gave Columbus enough runs to defeat Louisville in the last game of the series. The ex-major leaguer was also batted hard while Packard allowed but three scattered hits. Fast double plays and a one-handed catch by Hayden featured the game. President Chivington was here yesterday and stated that Catcher "Tubby" Spencer still belonged to St. Paul, as he had not been released by that club. It was erroneously reported that Spencer had been awarded to Louisville. Score:

RUBE WADDELL WINS ANOTHER FOR MILLERS.

Kansas City, Mo., July 15.—Minneapolis took the second game of the series here yesterday from Kansas City, 8 to 4. Waddell kept his hits well scattered and was effective with men on bases. Minneapolis hit consistently. Clymer was put out of the game for disputing one of Bierhalter's strike decisions. Score:

TOLEDO DROPS HARD-FOUGHT GAME IN TENTH.

Toledo, Ohio, July 15.—After twice tieing the score by successful batting rallies, coupled with errors, Toledo dropped the second extra inning game of the series to Indianapolis in the tenth inning, 7 to 6. Houser's scratch single, a wild pitch and Getz's pop back of second produced the winning run. Score:

EXCITING GAME IS WON BY BREWERS.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 15.—The home club won an exciting game from St. Paul yesterday afternoon, 3 to 1. McGlynn pitched steady ball until the ninth when he passed a man and was hit safely three times. Beaumont was put into the game to bat for Gehring with the bags full and two out, but he fouled to Clark. Gehring pitched well but the fielding back of him was unsteady. Score:

Detroit, Mich., July 15.—George Mullin who has been out of the game for several weeks, owing to an operation on his nose, returned yesterday and pitched fine ball, allowing Detroit to make a clean sweep of its four-game series with Philadelphia. Coombs lacked effectiveness at critical times and half of Detroit's runs were due to a bad throw by Strunk in the third inning. Hartsel finished the game in left field. Bush's fielding featured. AMATEUR TEAMS CLASH SUNDAY

Two Games Will Be Played Between Strong Nines.

Tomorrow afternoon at Athletic Park the Duluth baseball fans will have a chance to witness two of the fastest games seen on the local diamond this season. The first game will be between the strong Twin Ports Clothing company team of Duluth and the Gophers of Two Harbors. The Harbor team is looked upon as one of the fastest baseball aggregations in Northeastern Minnesota. The Twin Ports having met and defeated some of the fastest teams in the Northwest, the game promises to be one of the best games seen in Duluth thus far this season. Griffin and Lambert will do the battery work for Two Harbors and Westholm and Olin will probably be seen for the Duluth clothiers.

The second game will take place immediately after the Twin Ports-Two Harbors game. The Union Clothing company team of Proctor, formerly the Proctor All-Stars, which has not met defeat this season, will clash with the fast City Dye works team of Superior. Nelson and Johnson will do the battery work for the Superior team and Kliske will be on the mound for the Proctor clothiers and Bulner will do the receiving. The first game will be called at 2 o'clock and the second at 3:45.

GO TO WINNIPEG.

Tennis Players From Canadian Town Capture Tennis Trophies.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Leistikow of Winnipeg, formerly of Grafton, N. D., wrested from E. S. Read, also of Winnipeg, possession of the Trafford Jayne trophy in the Red River valley singles in the North Dakota Tennis tournament in this city yesterday afternoon. The trophy was won last year by Read, the first season it had been put back in play by Mr. Jayne of Minneapolis, he having gained possession of it by three consecutive victories when it was put up by the association. The cup is valued at $500.

Leistikow gained his right to play Read by defeating H. G. Mayes of Winnipeg on the day previous, but his victory in the manner he gained it, over Read, was not entirely expected. Out of the five sets, he won three love sets, while Read took two sets, 6-3 and 6-4. Leistikow took the first and the last two sets, playing splendid net tennis and exhibiting more of the smashing game than did Read, who is one of the most deliberate players ever seen on the local courts.

Not only did the big cup go to Winnipeg, but the championship in the open doubles also went to representatives of that city. Leistikow and Mayes defeating Elton and Willson of Grand Forks.

Results of the other events follow: Silver doubles—Sunberg and Blatherwick defeated Russ and Phelps, 6-3, 6-4 and 6-0.

Consolidation singles—H. L. Willson defaulted to Theodore Elton.

Mixed doubles—Leistikow and Miss Beede defaulted to Mayes and Miss Linwell.

Handicap singles — Wilkerson defeated Baird.

SPORTING WRITER IS ASSAULTED

Love, of Kansas City Team Fined $100 By Manager and Arrested.

Kansas City, Mo., July 15.—John Love, left fielder for the Kansas City American association baseball team, was fined $100 yesterday for attacking Edward Cochrane, sporting editor of the Kansas City Journal, just before the game with Minneapolis. The fine was imposed by Daniel Shay, manager of the team.

Love took exception to articles written by Cochrane and attacked him at the ball park, knocking him down and beating him severely until a policeman interfered. Cochrane had a warrant sworn out for Love charging him with disturbing the peace. His case will come up in municipal court today.

MINNESOTA CLUB TO ROW AT NATIONAL

New York, July 15.—The New York Athletic club has a senior eight in the championship races to be held during the latter part of the month on Saratoga lake, under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. Great interest is manifest in the series, which will have an overwhelming list of the fastest oarsmen in the United States and Canada.

Fred R. Fortmeyer, secretary of the association, announced that John O'Neill of Halifax, N. S., the winner of the singles in 1909, will compete in this year's event. O'Neill did not start last year in the races on the Potomac.

It is expected that Fred Shepard will put up a good fight for the honors if he settles down to a systematic course of training for the event, and is the only one in local circles to make O'Neill show his best pace. O'Neill is credited with being the best single sculler of a generation, not excluding Ten Eyck and Greer.

The Minnesota Boat club of St. Paul will have two crews in the regatta, a senior eight and a four. J. D. Denegre, the secretary of the club, anticipates a good showing by his mates when they line up against the pick of the Eastern contingent.

INVESTIGATES CHARGES AGAINST UMPIRE HAYES.

Louisville, Ky., July 15.—Thomas M. Chivington, president of the American association, was here today investigating charges made by spectators that Umpire Hayes had used vile language to them during a game last Wednesday. After hearing Hayes' side of the case, the questioning of several sporting writers, Mr. Chivington announced he would give out a statement regarding the matter later.

In regard to the claim the Louisville club had made on the services of "Tubby" Spencer, Mr. Chivington announced that Spencer still was a member of the St. Paul club and that the Louisville club would have to arrange with St. Paul for the catcher. Mr. Chivington left for Chicago tonight.

REGULATIONS FOR REGATTA

United States Customs Officer Will Enforce Government Rules Next Week.

Will Direct Movements of Boats on Course During the Races.

No vessel of any description will be permitted to pass up or down the course during the progress of a race in such a manner as to endanger oarsmen or passengers on yachts or other craft, whether observers or participants in the regatta. This does not apply to official boats, however.

Upon special permission from the United States officers in charge, vessels may pass over the course immediately before or after a race, at a speed not to exceed five miles an hour.

A succession of sharp, short whistles from a United States vessel patrolling the course shall serve as a signal to stop. Pilots of vessels shall stop when directed to do so, to insure the safety of passengers.

The above regulations will be enforced, subject to the discretion of the United States officer in charge, so as not to obstruct unnecessarily the navigation of vessels of the merchant marine.

The foregoing regulations have been received at the local customs office from Washington. Any part of them which seems necessary for the safety of all, will be enforced.

The midsummer water carnival brings with it some semblance of danger as there will be many boats on the water. As all will want positions of vantage so as to give passengers a good view, the scene of the regatta will each day and evening be patrolled by an officer from the local customs house, whose duty it will be to regulate traffic so that the celebration may be made safe for all.

The secretary of commerce and labor is authorized to make regulations to promote the safety of life on navigable waters during regattas and marine parades.

The foregoing regulations were sent out from Washington by Benjamin S. Cable, acting secretary.

JACK JOHNSON MAY SAIL FOR AUSTRALIA.

London, July 15.—Jack Johnson will probably not return to the United States to keep the theatrical dates he recently contracted to fill, unless he should again change his mind. He stated today that he plans to accompany Hugh McIntosh to Australia following his season in the music halls here, and will probably harvest a goodly lemon crop in the antipodes.

The report that Johnson had already agreed to meet Sam Langford in Sydney on Dec. 26 next, was positively denied, however, by the big black. He insisted that he would not meet the Boston tar baby any time unless the purse was made right, and Sam would bet $10,000 on the side.

Johnson is having too good a time here at present to bother much about fighting, although he will pick up some easy money in Dublin next month.

SPORTING NOTES

"Big Ed" Walsh is pitching regular championship ball for the Chicago White Sox.

The Grand Rapids team of the Central league has been transferred to Newark, Ohio.

It is said that the Cubs are trying to buy Downey from the Cincinnati club.

Catcher Nunamaker of the Boston Red Sox is out of the game with a badly split finger.

Owen Bush of the Detroit Tigers is likely to lead both major leagues in the number of runs scored during this season.

Farmer Burns, who brought Frank Gotch to the front as a wrestler, has organized a baseball team and will tour the Western states.

Manager Jimmy McAleer will pick an all-star team to oppose the Naps in Cleveland in a benefit game for the family of Addie Joss.

Mr. Franceto Sanguineta Pezalo, otherwise "Ping" Bodie, continues to clout the ball and play a good game in the field for the White Sox.

The National league race is a 120-horse power "dingsnorter." Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Pittsburg are nicely bunched and running strong.

If Vin Campbell can get in condition he will be a great help to the Pittsburg team. Vin showed lots of class with the Pirates last season.

Playing with a tail-end team doesn't seem to bother Bill Sweeney of the Boston Rustlers. Bill is in the game all the time and fighting until the last man is out.

"King" Cole of the Cubs has shaved the top of his head to keep the hair from falling out. And he used to be a barber and sell punk restorative stuff to his customers.

What a difference in the two St. Louis teams this season. The Cardinals are right on the job, while the Browns are down so low that they have nearly dropped out of the American league standing.

DAD CLARKE WAS ONE OF GAME'S RICHEST CARDS

W. H. (Dad) Clarke, once one of the star pitchers of the National league, who heard the final decision in the game of life a few weeks ago when the Great Umpire called him at a Lorain, Ohio, hospital, where he had been an inmate for some time, suffering from a paralytic shock, was one of the characters of the game, as well as one of the best twirlers in the league in 1895.

In Clarke, Jouett Meekin and Amos Rusie the New York team had a trio of pitchers the equal of any in the country.

During the war between the National league and the Brotherhood Clarke was eagerly sought by teams in both leagues, but the Omaha, Neb., club, where he was playing at the time, would not give him up.

With Charles Nichols, who was the star with the local National league team for several years, and Phil Knell, who was with the Philadelphia Players league team in 1890, and Clarke as boxmen, the Omaha team landed the Western league pennant in 1889. Clarke at the time was the most valuable man of the trio, having officiated in fifty-two games in which he sustained but few defeats, says the Traveler.

He remained in Omaha until 1893, when he was transferred to Erie of the Eastern league. His work there was so satisfactory that New York purchased his release.

In 1894 he made his big league debut with New York, pitching in three games, two of which he lost. It wasn't an auspicious entry for a minor league star, but Dad was game and didn't give the losses much thought.

Baffled the Trailers.

The next season he was a marvel in the box. His success, however, was chiefly against the second division teams. These aggregations were fairly hypnotized by Dad. He succeeded in winning 18 out of the 32 games he twirled in.

In 1896 he pitched 43 games, 18 of which he won. He fell off badly in 1897, getting but three opportunities to pitch.

At the conclusion of the season of 1897 New York gave him his release. From there he went to Chicago, where he officiated in but one game. About this time his arm went back on him and he became a drifter.

Clarke was a heady fellow and he joshed many a star and pulled many a clever trick off during his career.

When Fred Tenney of the local Rustlers first broke into the major league company he ran against Dad, who then was pitching in Gotham. Fred had just graduated from Brown university and had a fine crop of hair such as is worn by college players. Clarke tipped his teammates that he would have some fun with Tenney before the game was over.

"Say, there!" yelled "Dad," as the ex-Brown man walked to the bench, "you college-bred guy, why don't yer cut that hair off and look nice?"

Tenney turned quickly around to Clarke and, taking hold of the latter's collar, exclaimed after stowing a piece of tobacco under his tongue:

"If you are talking to me, you cheap duck, I'll take you under the grand stand after the game and make you look like a bag of salt!"

That was too much for Clarke, who was never known to fight anybody, and as Tenney walked off, "Dad," after recovering his breath, growled:

"College bred, eh? Why, that fellow never went to night school."

Golf Ambitions.

In 1897 Dad made the hit of his life in New York. He caught the golf fever and purchased all the paraphernalia. Dad in the garb of a Highlander was a sight to behold as he roamed over the Polo grounds in a gorgeous plaid and with a caddy who was equally as boisterous in dress as his master.

It was Dad's ambition to break into society circles in Manhattan Island, and he deemed it necessary to first become proficient as a golf player before he advanced toward the elite of Fifth avenue.

While Dad was learning to play golf in 1897 he contracted a bad cold on the Polo links. It was due to chasing the ball in his bare feet, during his early morning stunts. Some one had told Dad that it would better his batting eye to include the Kneipe cure with his exercises. Dad did, and the heavy cold resulted. A physician was called and Dad told him what he had done.

The medico thumped his chest in the customary manner of medical men and then remarked:

"Mr. Clarke, if you aren't careful this cold will become serious. It is on your lungs now."

Dad was thunderstruck, but he regained his composure just as quickly, and then came back in his jovial way:

"Why, what do you mean, Doc?—that my wind pads are on the bum?"

The way in which Dad doped out his own condition brought a smile to the doctor's face, and at the same time the players who were present couldn't repress their mirth. A loud laugh followed that sent some distance in cheering Dad up.

Futile Curve.

This same year he was credited with having invented a new raise ball. But Dad could not make good with it, only in practice. He would start the sphere whirling as if it were going to drop, but there wasn't enough of anything on it to deceive the batter. It was the opinion of many of his fellow-players that he injured his arm trying to perfect the delivery.

Once Dad took a trip to New Orleans. He looked the city over and declared that it was the queerest place he ever saw. He talked about the place often and told many a funny story about the town. One which he recently told follows:

"Several years ago, when I was a rube in a one-night stand ball team, I paid a visit to the Crescent City. The citizens kept telling me they were proud of their leading cemetery which used to be a race track. I was rather struck on it myself. It covers more ground than Herman Long used to when chasing flies.

"That graveyard in New Orleans is looked upon as one of the most interesting spots in the town. Abner Powell, then captain of the New Orleans team, showed me all over it and told me how the race horses ran over the very ground that was transformed into a city of the dead. Somehow, the place reminded me of my sporty days on the race track. 'Abner,' said I to Abner Powell, 'this place certainly recalls a race track—you're next to so many dead ones when you're here.'"

Knew the Answer.

During his career, Dad was with a manager who had a bug on lectures and theories. One day that manager called the members of the aggregation together in the club dressing room and catechised one player after the other on certain conditions and plays that came up during a game. Finally he came to Dad.

"Now, Mr. Clarke, you understand what I am trying to get at," said the manager. "I do," said Dad in his quiet way. "Well, if you were pitching and there were two out, three men on bases and three balls and two strikes on the man at the bat, who was a terrific hitter, what would you do?"

Dad hesitated before replying. He was debating with himself whether or not a fine would ensue the answer to the hypothetical question that had been put up to him.

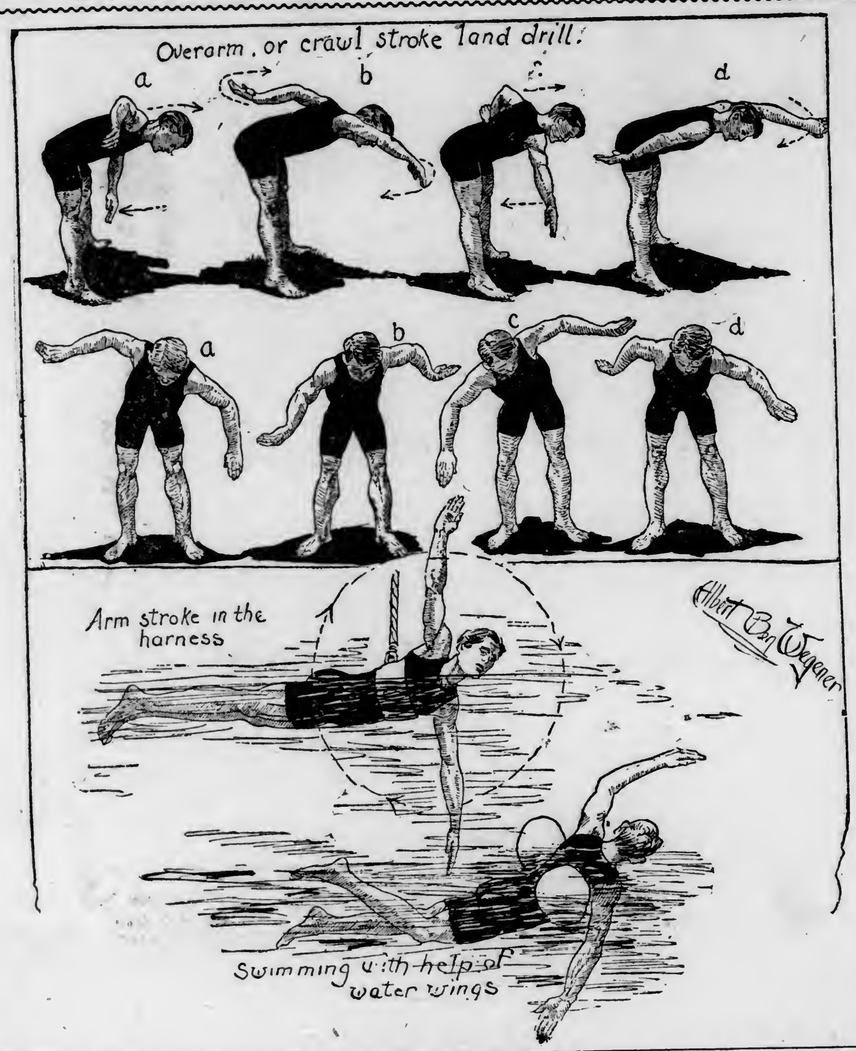

"What would I do?" said Dad, repeating the question. "Well, in that case, I think I'd have a rush of hair to the head."

That was the last meeting of the players, for the manager turned on his heel at the reply and walked out of the club quarters heartily disgusted at Clarke's behavior. The players' faces were wreathed in smiles, while Dad was as sober as a judge who had a capital case to decide.

HOW TO LEARN TO SWIM

Some Simple Instructions for Beginners in a Very Necessary Art, By Albert B. Wegener, Physical Director of Y. M. C. A.

We are now at the time of year when everyone desires outdoor recreation.

Swimming is not merely a recreation, but a necessity. A prominent business man of Duluth told the writer that he considered it the duty of every parent to teach his children to swim as much as anything else, but not having the time and patience to teach his timid son he had to seek the held of a professional director. At first the boy was so frightened that he could not be induced to let go the edge of the tank even with a belt and rope attachment about his waist. In a month's time he could swim with ease. That parent did his duty even though he could not teach the boy himself.

Swimming ought to be an obligatory subject in the public schools. No normal child should be allowed to pass through the grammar or grade schools without learning this most useful art.

A public swimming pool is needed for this purpose, but if the school board would take this matter up it could make satisfactory arrangements with the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

This would not only be more valuable than the few calisthenic exercises they are now taught, but be more enjoyable to the pupils.

Every boy and girl wants to become a duck at this season of the year.

There is no one exercise that is so beneficial from the health standpoint as swimming. It is the best tonic known.

But I need not waste any time trying to convince the normal person that swimming is both healthy and useful. The thing that he is most concerned about is how to learn to swim?

What shall I do on the start? How shall I move my arms and legs? How shall I hold my head? How shall I breathe? etc.

Although a person may be said to be able to swim if he can keep afloat and paddle about a little in any old fashion, yet he cannot claim to know the art of swimming unless he can swim one or more of the standard strokes.

Where Help Is Needed.

Here is where many need help. Anyone coming from the East or South is surprised at the few who can swim at all and of the fewer still who can swim a well recognized stroke. The awkward double kick that so many have is a surprise to a newcomer. I often wonder if some one with more enthusiasm than knowledge has not been trying to teach them to swim like a frog.

If there is one thing to refrain from doing it is not to try to swim like a frog. The frog swims with a backward kick with both legs that is both jerky and awkward.

The Strokes.

The standard strokes are:

1. The alternate overarm stroke.
2. The crawl stroke.
3. The breast stroke.
4. The side stroke.
5. The trudgeon stroke.
6. The back stroke.

The easiest stroke to learn as far as the

THE PERCY PAPERS
No. 2.
Being Some Modern Sport Fables By Bruce

PERCY AND CLARENCE WEAKSISTER were deadly rivals in the heated game of love.

Sweet love bubbled in the chest of Perse like a geyser showing off for a lot of Yellowstone park visitors, and though Percy wore eyeglasses as thick as the glass in a show case, the love light beat its way through them and wired gurgling messages and mutely bore witness that Perse had been beaned by one of Cupid's high fast ones.

All of the members of the Rah Rah Athletic club were very heavy for the slants that came from the deep brown Tungsten headlights that glowed from the fair and open face of Madeline Mulveeney. Give Venus those arms that poets have poeted about and all practical men deplored the loss of, and Madeline Mulveeney could start at scratch with her in any figure race and breeze under the wire looking over her shapely shoulder.

Madge has thrice the conventional wealth of raven locks, and continuing along the line of material assets it might be said that even if Pa Mulveeney started in life with a canthook in one hand and a package of Peerless in the other, he owned two lumber companies, was the final shriek at the meeting of the forces of several banks, and no one ever thought of saying a word if he ate with his knife and held a dialogue with the consomme.

Perse was one of these cold creatures you sometimes see left in the automobile to play with the pomeranian while mamma goes in to have a spool of thread sent out to the house by special delivery. He had a haughty look and the post no bills sign was pasted across his face. His lane of goodfellowship had had a gate nailed across it and grass had grown knee high. He was hard to approach for his drawbridge was always closed. His smile was about as healthy as an overripe banana that had been run over by a seven-passenger Packard. It was squashy, like the fallen fruit.

This Madeline charm display wasn't strong for fudge and fidos. She was the kind of a girl who could go out in the big dewy and delicious morning and play a set of tennis against any healthy masculine who had the price of a flannel suit, after that she might go riding on the geegees and later in the day try her hand at golf. In the evening at the dance, partners would be so thick around her that a simple minded stranger might be pardoned for believing someone was telling a story with three fast breaks.

Percy'n Problem.

This is what Percy and Clarence Weaksister, seized upon as an excuse to be sentimental, mopey, and to do a general catch-as-catch can wrestling match with the spring poets and her photograph that they had cut out of the evening paper.

Percy really never had an idea. He would chase one around the ring of consecutive thought for a couple of rounds, would spar for an opening, back it into a corner and swing, only to find that the idea had sidestepped or ducked and had escaped injury.

Clarence Weaksister was of the same general type and to boot had nervous distraction and the asthma.

If Madeline Mulveeney had been a man she would have been captain of the football team and licked all the policemen that were assigned to campus duty. She had a constitution like Tom Sharkey's, only hers was more cultivated and Tom had been allowed to run wild. She was very dafydil about this athletic thing, and when the rah rah active members won cups and meadals for strong-limbed endeavor, Miss Madge was in an automobile shouting ain't he grand stuff.

All of which raised the greenatis germatis of envy in the narrow gauge systems of Percy and Clarence Weaksister. Breaking a slender cane, which he was able, in his lavender gloved hands, Perse gritted his gold filled and bissed one of those child Harold speeches from the back seat of mamma's tonneau. Fortunately no one heard him and the sun shone on and the day was beautiful.

Clarence Weaksister, the sly rascal, through blue smoked glasses watched the bronzed brutes run their heads off, with a jealousy so strong that it turned three handsprings and a double flip-flop, also saw handsome Madge Mulveeney do the big whoop act and clasp in a combination of muscular enthusiasm and higher ethical movement, her hands stitched in neatly in swell suedes.

One time Percy had met the swell hit of the Mulveeney mansion and the next day had asked some of the gang if her father was in the ice business. He had a perfect right for thinking thusly, and yet faint hope sicked on by Percy's ego, which he led around on a chain and fed frequently on false promises and feminine looks that were intended for someone else, crawled to its feet at the count of nine and whispered in Percy's ear to go in and play one of those dashing devil parts.

Overlooking for the time being that dashing Madeline forgot for the once and several times to recognize either Percy or Clarence Weaksister at the semi-annual ball of the Rah Rah club, and leaving Percy to sit sadly playing hide and seek with a grouch on one of the Louie the quinze chairs out in the cloakroom, we must also pass over briefly the period when Perse was told by the bronze brute who danced six dances with Miss Mulveeney, that Clarence Wealsister was rapping his rep at the batting average of .478, suggesting that Perse challenge Clarence to oppose him at the next amateur bouts of the Rah Rah club.

Trained Faithfully.

Cutting across the lawn of idle description we must for the sake of avoiding pathos and also in an endeavor to save space, only briefly state that Perse trained faithfully for two weeks with a rough and uncouth person, who before becoming a pal of John Barleycorn, used to really accept money for beating human beings. This guy recognized in Perse a meal ticket and therefore told falsehoods to Percy regarding his punch and other attributes, sticking Perse for pin money to spear a drink after each playful romp with the pillows.

Like Joe's place on the square, and yet in many ways unlike it, the Rah Rah gymnasium was crowded on the night of the amateur bouts, for be it told that subscribers of the village blue book considered it quite the thing to assemble at the bouts as the athletes wore sleeveless shirts and white duck trousers and parted their names in the middle.

Therefore when they called for Percy and Clarence Weaksister and Perse was dragged through the ropes, scouting for composure and sending wireless messages for confidence, it might have been one of them ere coincidences or a little practical joke of fate that Madeline Mulveeney, dressed in everything but the cook stove and a sweet picture hat, sat two rows back with the younger sister of the bronze brute.

Pale but determined, Clarence Weaksister entered the arena. His knees trembled and his countenance played tag from hectic flushes to pasty paleness. But Clarence Weaksister had a foxy guy for a second, and he called Clarence Weaksister's attention to Percy. Thus, in a small way, was confidence cagged and brought over to Clarence Weaksister's corner. For frozen-faced misery Percy had the Sphinx looking like Eva Tanguay singing "I Don't Care."

They put on the boxing gloves and Percy made the first bad break by trying to scoop some water from the bottom of the pail to cool his steaming brow. The bell rang and both boys tried to shake hands with the referee, merely to receive one pleasant smile in the midst of doom.

After shaking hands both Percy and Clarence Weaksister got as far away from each other as possible, for though there was love's bitter malice doing a dress parade before their glowering orbs, fear had spurs on and was riding furiously on the heroic hobbies of the two trailers.

They feinted and went through enough Delsarte and calisthenics to make any young lady at the head of an aspiring gardengarten class smile an approbation. Not a blow was struck and everything was perfectly lovely until some rude person in the back of the hall yelled, with raucous voice and intense earnestness, that when the Willies went the entertainment might proceed uninterrupted.

In all kindness the referee, who was on speaking acquaintance with both of the boy's mothers, stopped the exercises and announced that the debate had been called a draw. It might be entirely safe, but it was reported that Madeline Mulveeney remarked that the Rah Rah club was sure putting on some punk shows of late. Commenting further on the innermost thoughts of this athletic young lady, who was strong enough to carry without stooping about 15,000 tons of admiration and warm regard, it might be stated that she also said that homecroft idea and serving tea to ladies in a dry goods store were occupations open to aspiring young men who were suffering from excess of animal spirits.

Percy took a vacation and tried to forget the vacant stare of beautiful Madeline Mulveeney when she sighted Perse tacking her way. Clarence Weaksister went out to father's farm and hypnotized some country maidens with some big league drawing room chatter. Father decided Percy ought to go to work after all his excitement, and placed him in charge of the overall department of his factory. Because Perse came to work in father's auto, the girls looked upon him as a hero.

All of which goes to show that it is a poor and neglected frump indeed who can't search out some spot where he can shake hands every hour with his self-conceit and wear a hole in the back of his Norfolk by patting himself on the back.

PING BODIE GREATEST SENSATION OF GAME

New York, July 15.—Old Roman Comiskey certainly landed a live wire when he signed France to Sanguineta Pazola—no, don't crowd, men; give him air—for the gentleman is none other than Ping Bodie. For the first time since Chicago has had a berth in the American league the team is possessed of a real slugging outfielder.

Bodie punched out thirty home runs for the San Francisco club in the Pacific Coast league, last season and scouts from every big league team were on his trail. But Comiskey's gumshoe artist beat 'em all to it. Then the other scouts began to claim that Bodie wouldn't do in fast company; said that he was a mighty walloper when he connected, but that against first-class twirling he would be an awful boob.

Bodie in those days took mighty swings at the pill. It was a case of a home run or a whiff. But Hugh Duffy took the young man aside and instructed him in the art of chopping his stroke. And the result is that Bodie is hitting just as hard as ever and much more often.

Today he is one of the most dreaded batters in the American league. Russell Ford, the Yankees' great spitball twirler, is one of Bodie's best boosters.

"Bodie connected with my spitball in New York one day when it broke a yard," said Ford, "while I have made such great batsmen as Collins and Cobb miss ones that were not half as deceptive. Bodie is one of the most natural batters I ever pitched to. He is a student, besides, for he is always trying to outguess the pitcher."

Bodie got away to a flying start with the White Sox and has never shown any sign of falling off in his work. He played his first big league game on April 27, and in four times up he cracked out a double, a triple and two singles, which is sure going some for a starter

The Bodie of today is a sure hitter, and he will not do the fan many times this year if he sticks to his present form at the plate.

Ping is built like an egg, but this fact, taken seriously, in one way accounts for his accurate knowledge of the ball's flight. His eyes, when he is in position at the plate, are nearly on a level with the pitched ball, and he can therefore follow its fluctuations readily.

Gibson Girl Walk.

Bodie has a regular Gibson girl walk, very much like that of Lewis, the former Brooklyn shortstop, but when he arrives at the batter's box he digs a hole to plant his feet in and having done this, gradually telescopes himself, and, with waving willow, awaits the pellet.

His ability as a clouter owes itself to the muscular development of the man. His shoulders, chest and biceps are Herculean—he looks like the back of a hack as he stands at the plate. Ping is a very modest young man, and when any one speaks about his development he says it's fat.

Although Bodie is a most happy go-lucky chap off the diamond, he growls and fumes all the time he is at the plate, very much as Bid Ed Delehanty used to. Ford jokingly says that Bodie's eyes shoot fire while he is waiting for the ball to be served.

And Bodie's batting is not his only assets, either. He is one grand fielder. He rides with the batter and usually is in the right spot after the ball. He has studied all the famous batters and knows where each and every clouter has a tendency to hit. This is one of the things that goes to make a player famous.

Being fast of foot, Bodie can cover any amount of ground either forward or backward, and has made many sensational one-hand spears while going full speed with the ball this season. Outside of Cobb, he can go back for a drive further than any man in the league.

And what a whip Bodie has! He can peg from a deep field right to the plate on a dead line and can throw the ball from any angle. He is very fast in getting away, and never has to wind up for the longest peg.

On the bases he is an exceptionally fast man for one so heavy, for Ping probably tips the beam around the 190 mark, although rather short of stature. He hasn't perfected the knack of getting the jump on the pitcher yet, but Duffy, a great base runner himself, is sure to impart his own knowledge to Ping before the season is over.

But Bodie is not the only outfielder of class that the White Sox possess this season. "Come-Back" Jimmy Callahan and Matty McIntyre are playing grand ball. It is this great trio that are keeping the Windy City team up in the race.

Did Jennings Err?

For once it looks as though Hughy Jennings made a fatal mistake when he let McIntyre drift from the Detroit pasture. McIntyre is clouting well over the .300 mark and fielding his position in grand fashion.

Callahan has upset all the dope by making good after a six-year lay-off. Although a grand ball player when he quit organized ball to manage a semi-professional team in Chicago, critics figured that he would do a "Jeffries." But never in his long career on the diamond has Callahan played such ball as he has this season.

He started off hitting around the .350 point, and hasnever shown any signs of dropping down. And he is one of the heaviest clouters in the business. Doubles, triples and homers are almost as common with him as lone base smites.

While Jimmy's arm is not as good as it was ten or a dozen years ago, his throwing hasn't cost the White Sox a single run so far this season. As a fielder, there are none better. He can cover almost any amount of ground, and is equally as clever on shortstop spears as on soarers. He judges a ball's flight perfectly.

In Bodie, McIntyre and Callahan, Comiskey has about the cleverest outfield in the American league, although many will claim that Crawford, Cobb and Jones are a better combination. At any rate, it is a toss up between them right now.

Connie Mack has a clever garden, too, in Lord, Murphy and Oldring, and so has Boston in Speaker, Lewis and Hooper. Also Hal Chase has three swell fielders in Cree, Daniels and Wolters.

But the fact that the White Sox formerly were supposed to be very weak outside the infield, makes the Windy City aggregation look all the better. The two rejuvenated veterans and an early developed youngster have fairly set the baseball world on fire..

WORK OF BRESNAHAN KEEPS CARDINALS UP

(BY W. S. FARNSWORTH.)

New York, July 15.—Roger F. Bresnahan, behemoth of St. Louis, Mo., and surrounding country! That title is richly deserved by the man who is considered the most expensive human baseball chattel of all times. Roger Patrick is at present being idolized and lionized by St. Louis fandom, and any one who can wedge his way into the heart of the Missouri sport fraternity, the like of which there is not, from a critical standpoint, has earned his spurs.

Roger Patrick Bresnahan, be it known, is manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. For years the team has been in the mire in the National league standing, and until last year it was looked upon by all strong teams as being in the league for the sole purpose of increasing their percentage. The Cardinals, ever despised by their stronger sisters, appear to have reached the tether of their stepping-stone proclivities, and are in the slashing race this year with hands, feet and whole anatomy.

This narrative deals with Roger P. Bresnahan, and I have picked out the superb showing of the Cardinals as a means of serving to show why Roger should be eulogized.

Third Year With Team.

The splendid work of the Cardinals is due mainly to Bresnahan—both to his personality and his ability as a baseball general. Before Roger took hold of the "Show Me" crowd, St. Louis was a habitual occupant of the cellar position in the National league. It is a well-known fact that it takes several years to whip a championship team into line. Bresnahan has had hold of the St. Louisans for two whole years. This is Roger's third year as manager. During the first two years of Bresnahan's regime, the Cardinals fared rather poorly, though not as badly as in previous years. Bresnahan lacked the material, and the shrewdest manager in the world can do nothing with a team of crude players. And he formed a nucleus of this trio, and built his team around them. He picked up new players right along, until now he has about the youngest aggregation of pastimers in the game.

Toward the close of last season, the mould had been cast. The team played harmoniously and showed a fine spurt at the windup. But still, experts persisted in placing the Cardinals among the basement occupants in the National organization of this year. Their calculations have been rudely upset, as the records will attest. The Cardinals boast a percentage of over .500, the first time in many years that they have been up so high in the rating at this stage of the race.

Credit Due Bresnahan.

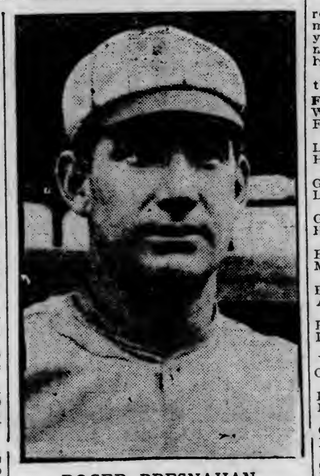

All credit is due Bresnahan for making the National league race a five-team affair. He is one of the few players that have branched out as successful managers. Bresnahan is still very much in the game and his heavy stick work and brain work have reaped their just rewards. Bresnahan is a brainy, aggressive and scrappy player. He is a keen student of the game, besides being versatile at the bat and on the bases. Bresnahan has succeeded so well that there is talk that he will become owner of the club before another year.

Bresnahan will ever be looked upon as one of the greatest catchers in the game. He helped bring a couple of league banners and a world's championship to New York while a member of the Giants. In 1907, when the Giants were going bad and it was alleged that McGraw was not particularly anxious about the welfare of his team, Bresnahan was reported as about to become manager of the Giants. This report created quite a stir in baseball circles for a time. The rumor that he was to become a manager looked good to Bresnahan and from that time on he yearned to manage a ball club. His ambition was realized on Dec. 12, 1908, when he was shipped to St. Louis in a gigantic triple deal in which St. Louis, New York and Cincinnati were involved. Bresnahan went to St. Louis in return for Catcher Schlei, Outfielder Murray and Pitcher Raymond. Schlei was acquired by the Cardinals from the Cincinnati club in exchange for Pitchers Karger and Lush. Bresnahan also received a block of stock before assuming the managerial reins, and he was signed up for three years for $25,000. Bresnahan's contract expires at the end of this season. What Roger intends to do when his time is up, no one knows. But it is certain he can have anything he wants so long as it is within reason.

The late Stanley Robinson, owner of the Cardinals, thought so much of Bresnahan that at the outset of the 1909 season he insured the star catcher-manager for a term of five years on a $50,000 policy. The tax was $1,300 per annum.

Bresnahan went along swimmingly for half of the 1909 season and then things began to happen to him. His team was shot to pieces and they offered but feeble resistance in their games. In October the St. Louis fans displayed open dislike for Bresnahan and not a few recommended his removal. It was alleged that he abused his players. Not only that but it was said that he snubbed friends and well-wishers. But Bresnahan has lived down this animosity of the Caradinals' fans until now they actually worship him.

In June, 1907, Bresnahan was almost

fatally injured by a pitched ball. Andy Coakley, now with the Yankees, delivered the wild throw and the ball struck Bresnahan behind the left ear. He was rendered unconscious instantly. He was carried to the club house and when he was revived he gasped for a priest. A pastor of a nearby church administered extreme unction and then the catcher was hurried to a Cincinnati hospital. For days he hovered between life and death. His magnificent physique carried him through safely. For weeks Bresnahan was gun shy and backed away from the plate. But he overcame this fault in a short while and now stands as close to the pan as common sense will allow.

Bresnahan was born in Ireland June 14, 1880, and came to this country at an early age. He played baseball while attending school. In 1897 he secured an engagement with the Washington National league team. He was re-engaged the following season and in 1899 he joined the Minneapolis Western league team. In 1900 he played with the Chicago Nationals, Manager McGraw, then with Baltimore, picked up Roger the following year. Bresnahan was engaged as pitcher, but in an emergency he was placed behind the bat. That was the end of Bresnahan as a pitcher. He performed so well as a backstop that he was retained to occupy that position until lately. McGraw brought Bresnahan to the Giants with him and remained here until the mammoth swap which sent him to the Mound City and opened a path for him to become one of the best managers in the game.

FIRST ROUND IS FINISHED
Good Progress Is Being Made in Boat Club Tennis Tourney.
Dinwiddie Is the First Player to Reach the "Eights."

The preliminary round in the tennis tournament at the Duluth Boat club has been played off and a number of games in the first round are being played daily.

The event is getting down now to where the games will be close and hard fought. Most of the games in the preliminary and first rounds were won by large scores.

The players now left in the tournament are the older and more experienced men. Many of the contests from now until the finish of the tournament will provide good amusement for those who like to watch a good tennis game.

The semi finals will probably be reached next week. There is always much interest in the final games each year and spectators turn out in large numbers for them. Only three matches have been played in the doubles.

The standing of the players showing the results of the first round, follows:

HOODOO FOLLOWS McALEER AND 'GRIF'

There is nothing so unenviable in baseball as the management of a losing ball team, while there is no honor too great to bestow on the man fortunate enough to have a ball team leading the league, says George Rice in the Chicago Journal. Hughie Jennings, Frank Chance, Connie Mack and John McGraw have been lionized in their cities because they have brought home the honors with their teams, but the manager of the tail-end team is shunned and avoided by the same class of people that would honor the successful ones.

There are two men in major league baseball today that have suffered all kinds of torture for years because they have been unable to land any pennant and their days are fast drawing to an end, unless they can show something this year. Jimmy McAleer, the manager of the Washington Senators, is now being persecuted because he has been unable to produce a winning combination for Washington, and Clarke Griffith is undergoing the same kind of treatment in Cincinnati, because his leadership of the Reds has been a failure.

Can't Turn Out Winners.

Both of these men have had long and useful careers on the diamond as players, but they have never been successes as managers for some reason or other. All these men would have to do to win favor with the fans in their cities would be to get a first division team, but that seems out of the reach of either of them. Both of them are getting the second opportunities to make good as managers, and both of them are falling down because of a combination of circumstances over which they have no power.

Judgment in running their teams may have something to do with the failure of the Senators and the Reds, but Griffith and McAleer are not to blame because they cannot get winning players. No team that has a star is willing to part with him. Last fall Griffith made one of the biggest trades that was ever made in baseball when he traded Lobert, Paskert, Beebe and Rowan to Philadelphia for Grant, Bates, McQuillen and Moren, but the trade has been the biggest knock that Griffith ever has made in his career, because all of the men he traded to the Phillies have made good, while the men he got in return have been unable to bolster up his team.

Lobert was unable to play good ball in Cincinnati for some unknown reasons, but he is burning up the grass around third for the Phillies this year, and Paskert is making records for himself every few days in the outfield. The atmosphere in Cincinnati is not conducive to good ball playing, for the same thing happened to players that were traded by that team before. In Cincinnati they are unable to play, but as soon as they get away they are wonders. Steinfeldt was an example of that when he came to the Cubs six years ago.

Overall was another man that could not pitch for the Reds, but after he came to the Chicago team he developed into a star. These conditions prevailed before Griff took the job as manager of the Reds, so he is not the hoodoo.

In Washington these conditions seem to be much the same. For twenty-three years the Senators have been playing just about the same class of ball that they are at present, and Jimmy McAleer is not the reason, because he has not been there that long. Last year the Senators played better ball than they have played for years and finished out of last place and are still able to keep out of the last ditch, but life is being made about as unpleasant for Jimmy as it is possible to be made because he has not been able to land his team up at the top of the second division.

Willing to Spend Money.

Both clubs are willing to spend money lavishly if they have a chance to get players that will help them. One reason that Washington and Cincinnati are not winners is that they have no developing plant. Most of the successful g league clubs have arrangements with minor league clubs where young players are sent for a little more seasoning every spring if they are not quite ready for fast company.

OLD MAN COURTNEY A MASTER OF MEN

New York, July 15.—Whenever a genius springs up, no matter what the line, people immediately busy themselves analyzing his character, searching out the qualities which are the "reasons why" in his success. Being studied and analyzed in this way, it is doubtful is there is a man who is more closely studied by a multitude of admirers than Charles Courtney, the famous old rowing coach of Cornell. "The old man" has been watched and watched since he first became the real twenty-one years ago, and no one has been quite able to say just what quality it is that he possesses which makes him such a perfect master of men, such a remarkable teacher of this art.

As regards the first-named quality, the concensus of opinion is that the unusual power lies in Mr. Courtney's eyes. No one who ever meets Mr. Courtney forgets that piercing look which seems to make an open book of every face and mind it comes in contact with. After being under his tutelage a day or so it would be an unobservant student of the art of rowing who would not know that to tell the "old man" anything but the whole and unadulterated truth would be as futile as telling it to oneself. It is almost the religious creed of the boys that nothing escapes the "old man" and consequently they are careful that nothing happens which they care to conceal from him.

Perfect Judge of Men.

It is safe to say that in any field into which Mr. Courtney might have been attracted he would have been as successful as he has been as a rowing coach. The excellent qualities which make him a natural commander and leader would have been as applicable on the Cayuga inlet.

To begin with, Mr. Courtney is a perfect judge of men. He knows absolutely how to get the best work out of them, by keeping them anxious all the time, but at the same time hopeful. His superior judgment has been illustrated time and again, when people have wondered at the sudden upheavals in his crews, only to see his judgment indorsed by better crews and better records. A man trying for one of the Cornell boats is never sure of his place "till the gun goes off," and it is this fact that keeps the candidates working hard up to the last minute and keeps them on the anxious bench continually.

Just as the men in the first boats are dropped unceremoniously upon the least show of indifference to work, so are the men in the other crews rewarded for faithful and deserving work. It is far from an uncommon thing to see an oarsman shifted directly from the third or fourth crew into the first in a day. During the season, at some time or other, every man gets a chance to show what he can do "in fast company," and if he makes good he holds his seat—as long as he keeps on making good.

It is these methods that keep every man under Mr. Courtney's instruction working his hardest, those in the first boats on account of the fact that they realize that the least slackening of pace is liable to be disastrous, and those below in the hope of attracting the "old man's" attention to their good points, which they know will be recognized if they are deserving of recognition.

Word Is Law With Crews.

Cornell oarsmen also have implicit confidence in Mr. Courtney's fairness in dealing with them. They know that the personal element does not enter with him. He has never been known to show the slightest partiality to any one trying for the coveted places in his crews. And furthermore, any infraction of rules will bring about the dropping of an oarsman regardless of the position the man in question holds, or of the probable injurious consequences to the chance of victory. Nothing better illustrates this fact than the speedy dismissal of four of the freshman crew who were careless enough to partake of the product of an Ithaca confectionery. They committed an infraction of the training table rules. Their loss would have disabled the 1911 crew materially, and with the Poughkeepsie regatta so near at hand it would have been difficult to whip the eight into winning form, but the "old man," when he heard of their breach of orders, forgot everything but his orders, which had been broken. The fact that Cornell might lose the freshman race, and thus have a break in the string of victories of the last two years, was never considered. With discipline of this sort, Mr. Courtney's rules are seldom broken.

Although it is business "from the word go" down at the boathouse, and when the men are working on the machines in the winter, Mr. Courtney comes into contact with his charges socially much more than the average coach. His house is always open to them and there is seldom an evening when one or two cannot be found there, engaged in conversation with the "old man," which may relate to any subject imaginable, but seldom to rowing.

If there is any one topic which occupies the time to the exclusion of others, it is fishing. The "old man" is an ardent lover of the pastime and has been known to give the boys a rest at Easter time, toward the end of the vacation, if they are all rowing well and he has heard that the trout are running well somewhere up the lake.

Young at 63 Years of Age.

He is the busiest entertaining his pupils, however, in the fall. Before two days of the college year have elapsed every member of the squad will have called on the "old man" to inquire about his health, and perhaps to hear a word or two about prospects. Last fall the men were unusually solicitous, because Mr. Courtney had been quite ill during the summer, but they found him in the best of health, as he is today. His 63 years seem to be no burden; in fact, one would never regard him as an old man at all, and the only thing old about him is the name he has been given by those who know him. Intellectually, he is the equal of any man half his age, and when it comes to an exchange of wit, the man has never come into the crewroom who could beat him. And many have undertaken the task.

Mr. Courtney's magnetism, his charming personality and his attractiveness away from the inlet, as well as his wonderful capabilities when busy there, have served to make him idolized by every one in the vicinity who has ever known him or even heard his name.

MARQUETTE FIGHTING COLLEGE BLACKLIST

Milwaukee, Wis., July 15.—Despite the fact that Marquette university of Milwaukee, the big Jesuit university, is on the blacklist of the athletic authorities of the Big Eight conference, the football manager is securing dates for games next fall and has already arranged six of the schedule of nine games. He finds the boycott still effective, but the season will not be without important schedules despite the hostile influence of the authorities of Chicago and Wisconsin especially.

The conference has succeeded in preventing the University of Denver from coming East. Marquette went West last year and played Denver, but the protests were so strong that Denver was unable to fight the combination.

It appears that the Rocky Mountain conference, as a result of Big Eight intereference, has a decided aversion to allowing one of its most respected members to come East and invade the domain of the famous beer city aggregation. This conference kicked up a rumpus last fall when Marquette invaded the West, but the Denver officials were set, and much though they hated to do it, they were forced to stand by and see their champions hold the muchly-touted squad from the North to a tie.

Denver was to come East in 1911 and, as a matter of course, Marquette was to be played. This was definitely settled and all that was necessary was to sign the papers. Just at this juncture the conference decided to play the villain in the little drama and forbade its erring and wayward member to sign the papers. Six or seven games in its own neighborhood looked better than one 1,000 or more miles away, and with the ultimatum and prospect of facing a hostile conference in 1912, the Denver officials took the only wise course open to them and assured the Milwaukee people that much as they desired to, "unavoidable circumstances" intervened, and the papers were not signed.

Manager O'Connor then turned his attention to South Dakota and was in a fair way to round up the woolly Westerners for a game in Milwaukee. This announcement was made and the game appeared to be an assured matter, but again those ever present seemingly unsurmountable "unavoidable circumstances" intervened, and negotiations were dropped without much further ado.

With the loss of these two, O'Connor got busy again and landed Wabash university. This time negotiations were carried on "subrosa." Those "circumstances" did not get on the job. The little Giants will be here for Marquette's first game on Oct. 21.

Coach Juneau will be in charge of the sports at Marquette again in 1912. There was a persistent rumor current among the undergraduate body that the cherry monitor would make his departure either for Wisconsin or Nebraska, but he is still here, and here he will stay. Juneau has put sports at Marquette on a high plane and his loss would be a severe blow to athletics in general.

The schedule thus far announced is as follows:

October 7—Carroll at Waukesha.
October 14—St. John's at Milwaukee.
October 21—Wabash at Milwaukee.
October 28—DePau at Chicago.
November 4—Open.
November 18—Open.
November 25—Loyola at Milwaukee.
November 30—Notre Dame at Milwaukee.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Society

C. HERBERT SMITH.

MISS MARIE AGATIN.

RALPH ERROLLE.

MRS. RALPH ERROLLE.

MISS THELMA GILMORE.

PHILIP GORDON BROWN.

JAMES McLENNAN.

ONE of the most important society events of the season will be "Jappyland" the tuneful and artistic oriental opera, which will be put on by local talent at the Orpheum theater, July 27 and 28 for the benefit of the Children's Home under the direction of the American Amusement company of New York with E. H. Coates personally supervising. Nearly 300 members of Duluth society will have parts in this beautiful and alluring production and the rehearsals are bringing the various numbers up to the professional standard.

The stage will present a cherry blossom grove with wisteria gardens in the distance and with the gorgeous costuming multi-colored lights, electrical fountains and other brilliant scenic investiture will present a scene truly beautiful.

The cast has been filled with the finest talent of the city augumented with two professional singers who have received the highest praises.

Ralph Errolle of New York will sing the leading tenor role, that of "Carl Neville, ensign of the American navy" and Miss Thelma Gilmore of New York will take the prima donna role, that of "Sang-Foy, an American heiress in Japanese disguise."

Mr. Errolle is a tenor of some note having created the leading tenor part in "The Spring Maid" which played in New York all last season. He is under a four years' contract with Andreas Dippel of New York and next season will create the feature part in a new big light opera under Henry W. Savage. The season after next he will sing the following operas in Chicago, New York and Boston under the Metropolitan syndicate: "Riggetto," "Lo Boheme," "La Tosca," "Madam Butterfly," "La Traviata," "Pagliacci," "Cavaleria Rustincana," "Aida," "Lucia."

Mr. Errolle, who in private life is R. Errolle Smith is spending his vacation here with his wife at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Clark of 2417 East Second street. Mrs. Smith was Miss Marie Clark, well known in the younger social and musical circles of this city.

Miss Thelma Gilmore has a pure lyric soprano voice which is beautifully capable of singing the prima donna role. She has been with a number of the best opera companies singing leading roles for a number of years. Miss Gilmore sang in "The Strollers," "The Top of the World," and was with Henry W. Savage for over three years, leaving him to take up this work with Mr. Coates of putting on these operas. She has received the highest praise in Eastern and Southern cities for her work.

Local Singers.

Philip Gordon Brown is to take the part of the Emperor, "Sho-Gun" and his splendid voice fits the part to perfection. He carries one of the heaviest roles in the opera. Mrs. Ralph Errolle will sing the part of "Dorothy" an up to date New York girl and the rest of the cast will be taken by capable people.

The play which has a light plot running through it, is filled with brilliant little specialties in which well trained choruses lead by able soloists wil keep "something doing" from the rise to the fal of the curtain.

Some of the specialties which are exceptionally pretty are the Spanish number, a Spanish love dance full of Spanish dash and abandon, in which twelve senoritas will execute a scintillating fandango to the accompaniment of tambourines and castanets. The costumes are typical and are colorful in the extreme.

The yatching party will sing several numbers but probably their "piece de resistance" and one to appeal most strongly will be the "Under the Honeymoon Chorus," sung and danced by eight couples of prominent society folk, costumed de regueur of the period of Louis XVI.

The Parasol Dance in which the solo part will be sung by Miss Frances Burns is a fascinating skit in which six girls in a symphony of black and white will appear "on the sea shore" with lace parasols and sing "Underneath a Parasol."

The "Red Red Rose" number danced by six well trained couples of young folks will be one of the prettiest numbers with its stately minuet movements and charming girls.

The "Delia" chorus which will be led by Miss Barbara Rupley is a rollicking Southern darkey dance number and the chorus in brilliant costumes will dance a vigorous number reminiscent of the Sunny South.

The "Girls, Girls, Girls" chorus will be a pretty little flirtation number consisting of a chorus of six girls.

The chorus of Geisha maids which is really the sustaining chorus throughout the opera is made up of about fifty maids who will appear in the gorgeous national costume of Japan. Among the girls in this chorus are: Misses Myrtle Farrell, Marie Elstorl, Vera Boonson, Margaret Hoyt, Virginia Woolen, Gertrude Bradt, Myrtle Hobbs, Helen Evered, Gertrude Final, Alexandria Van Bergen, Majorie Willard, Ethel V. Rothschild, Grace Grant, Mildred Miller, Marjorie Baillie, Mabel Baillie, Eunice Whipple, Pauline Alford, Louise Fatterson, Elda E. Luzon, Marguerite McDonald, Dorothy G. Gibson, Marion E. Ingalls, Bertha S. Johnson, Merna B. Newell, Katherine Hodgdon, Helen Dryer, Dorothy McDonald.

There will be a pretty little fairy chorus lead by Miss Marie Agatin and another pretty number will be a dance duet by Miss Agatin and J. A. McLennan. Both of these people are well known for their ability in affairs of this kind, Miss Agatin having won much praise on former appearances.

The grand finale with its snap and military finish will bring to a most fitting close one of the most spectacular operatic extravaganzas ever seen in Duluth, even on the professional stage.

American Woman Appeared as Juliet at Coronation Ball

The Cry of the "Kiddies"

What the Masonic Fraternity Is Doing to Prevent Infant Mortality and Cure Infant Deformities.

MISS THIELE.

A large life insurance company which during its existence has paid to policy holders almost, if not quite, a billion dollars, makes the statement officially that "the improvement in the general death rate is due largely to a reduction in infant mortality and to greater efficiency in prolonging the lives of the feeble and delicate."

The placing of infant mortality at the head of the causes should give the Scottish Rite Masons of Duluth encouragement in their work for humanity and satisfy them as to the wisdom of their choice of endeavor in which to engage to secure the greatest results.

That Duluth is no exception to the other places on the map is evidenced by the fact that the Consistory nurse has over thirty-three infants under her care and this within two months since the scheme materialized into practical effort, with all the ignorance and misinformation, prejudice and bigotry, pride and indifference to overcome. Quietly, unobtrusively and without brass band accompaniment Miss Thiele came, saw, conquered; has organized her work while attending to the details, and has placed at the disposal of the poorest home the active services of a skilful person, better than which the millionaire could not command.

The result has been, so far, very satisfactory, and by confining her efforts within the well defined boundaries of infant welfare there has been no friction which has not easily been overcome, everything has been thoroughly mastered and the results will be permanent. While the prominent feature of the work is the prevention of unnecessary deaths among infants, there is the great idea of the avoidance of malformation of those who get through the infant period. It is acknowledged by physicians that one-half of the blind babies are in that condition from easily preventable causes; that fully one-half of the permanent deformities, other than blindness, could have been readily avoided if proper care had been extended during the soft, almost plastic, period of infancy. Can anyone place a value on the services which would prevent a blind man or a cripple from being a burden to his parents or the public and and a curse to himself? That is another of the aims of infant welfare.

Educating Parents.

Another feature of the work is the education of the mother prior to and after the birth of the child. To establish that Miss Thiele arranges for a meeting in some neighborhood to which those interested are invited, a reception with a color scheme is decided on, and there is pink tea, blue ice cream and chocolate cake, after which a few scenes from the opera of the "Tower of Babel" are rehearsed to give the reception a touch of realism, then such instruction is given as the circumstances demand. Actual demonstrations are given in the proper manner of handling and caring for the infant.

The preparation of foods, the administration to the infant, the modification to be made to suit the condition of the child, the meaning of the cries of the infant and all those endless matters which the mother ignorant of the great concern of her life should be best instructed in, are taught.

Should the family be unable to afford those articles which are indispensible in such cases, loans of them are made to those needing them and after the need is past they are taken back and kept for another time wherever possible. Incidentally, while it is intended to stick closely to the one feature, infant welfare, there are many ways in which the trained nurse can be of benefit to the rest of the family, and many articles of clothing, bedding and household necessities are placed where they are really needed and at the time they are wanted.

It is the fundamental idea of infant welfare that nature's food is by all odds, the very best to use and every effort is made to have that impressed on the minds of mothers and secure their co-operation in the interest of their charges. With the cool summer weather and many good dairies the milk supply is not thought to be a question to which Duluthians will have to give much prominence, but should occasion demand and the dairy standard and inspection fall behind, every necessary effort will be made to secure a supply of the substitute of cow's milk, and let the people know where the dangerous dairies are, so they can be avoided. The infant mortality among babies maternally nursed is comparatively nothing compared with that of the poor unfortunates who have to depend on the bottle, especially during the hot months, with Duluthians probably between July 1 and Sept. 1, and even here it is a wise precaution to sterilize the milk for the baby.

Miss Thiele does not believe that in her work the office is very necessary, hence her office hours are very brief, between 11 and noon, when she is in, but messages will be taken at the office and she will get them when she gets a chance to attend to them. The office is that known as the secretary's, in the Masonic temple, on the Second street level and those who call will find a charming, enthusiastic young woman, full of good nature, sympathy and tact.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

SRONZALEY QUARTET.

Matinee Musical Will Bring Famous Organization Here.

THE Sronzaley String quartet has been engaged by the Matinee Musicale club to give one of its artists' concerts during the coming season. These concerts are always of the best and this quartet is one of the best in the country, having gained great popularity in the East and in St. Paul and Minneapolis where it has played. According to the opinion of Philip Hale of Boston, a noted musical critic, this quartet plays with even more finish of style than the world-wide known Kneisel quartet.

The date set for this concert is Jan. 31, 1912 and in their playing the members of the club are looking forward to a great treat. One other concert has been arranged and the contracts will be signed soon. The third concert is under consideration.

The board of the Matinee Musicale has the greater part of its preparatory work for next year accomplished. Committees have been appointed and the program for the year is being planned.

A WEALTH OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Nothing equals an aureole of beautiful hair as a frame for a pretty face. Without a background of nice hair a really pretty face frequently becomes plain and, with it, unattractive features assume life and beauty.

Every woman can increase her natural charm by using Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide makes hair beautiful. The dandruff germ saps the vitality of the hair. Herpicide kills this germ and prevents the hair from falling out, giving it a snap and luster, a soft, silky fluffiness which can be acquired in no other way.

Your druggist will sell you a one-dollar size bottle under an absolute guarantee.

Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

On account of several of the local societies suspending services for the month of July or August, the local union has decided to discontinue the publication of the notices until the first Sunday in September, when they will again be resumed.

It is an item of interest to all Christian Endeavorers to know that at the time of the Atlantic City convention just closed, reports were read which showed the Christian Endeavor society had achieved the increase which they pledged at the St. Paul international convention in 1909. In the two years just passed new Christian Endeavor societies to the number of 10,000 have been formed, and new Christian Endeavor members numbering several thousand more than 1,000,000 have been taken in. This showing is merely another instance of the power of the movement and the missionary spirit in the hearts of the young people composing the society.

ONCE A REPORTER; NOW A KING OF FINANCE

FRANK A. VANDERLIP.

New York, July 15.—Frank A. Vanderlip, the president of the National City bank, was a Chicago newspaper reporter only a few years ago. Then he became private secretary to the secretary of the treasury, assistant of the secretary of the treasury and finally vice president of the National City bank. He is to be one of the great financial kings of the world if the National City company just organized under his control should carry out the policies for which it is supposed to have been organized. The National City bank has absorbed many other banking institutions and has bought into the stock of others. Men in control of the National City bank are directors in the Hanover National bank, the Riggs' National Bank of Washington, and other banking institutions in Omaha, Kansas City, Seattle, Newport, etc. Now it has organized the National City company, whose stock of $10,000,000 is to be distributed to the stockholders of the National City bank. Its affairs are to be under the control of three trustees who are to be officers of the National City bank. The trustees for the first year are James Stillman, Frank A. Vanderlip and S. S. Palmer. It is forbidden to national banks to own stock in other banks directly, but through the National City company the National City bank may control many other financial institutions, and in this way the National City bank may control a chain of banks covering the entire country.

POINTED.

Reggy—Yes, although it is blooming monotonous, I turn in every night at 9 o'clock sharp.

Peggy—How do you manage it?

Reggy—Manage what?

Peggy—Why, to turn in sharp after being so dull.

A FLARE-BACK.

She—At times the ocean reminds me of you, Johnny.

He—Ah—so grand, eh?

She—No. Only at low tide when it's all going out and nothing coming in.

How It Affects Them.

A LAWYER who sat in his office chair,
Engaged in a case to be fought;
Struck hard at a fly and thus did exclaim:
"This weather's most legally hot!"

A banker reclined on his office couch,
And thought of the bonds he had bought;
And he ordered a fizz, and said as he sipped:
"This summer's financially hot."

A doctor came in from his daily rounds,
And with him some weather he brought;
And he took off his coat and hung up his hat,
And said "'twas medicinally hot."

A lady she sat in her gilded salon,
And of thinks she hadn't a naught;
Except for to fan, and lisp as she fanned:
"It strikes me unconsciously hot."

A man who wasn't afraid to speak out,
And cared not a copper if caught;
Wiped the sweat from his brow and feelingly yelled:
"Oh, Moses, it's I I I I and its's hot.

HIS JOY RIDE.

Hodge—There goes Henpeck in his machine. Where is he going in such a hurry?

Podge—Joy riding.

Hodge—Joy riding?

Podge—Yes, he is going to take his wife to the station and she is going to be gone two weeks.

IN SEASON.

"I'm fearfully lazy all of a sudden."

"Hookworm?"

"No. Fishworm."

HE MISSED SOMETHING.

THE man who had been telling his friends for months and months how glad he would be to get out into the country for two or three weeks, had put in a day and a night at a quiet farmhouse when he astonished his host by saying that he guessed he would go back to town!

"But have you any cause for complaint?" was asked.

"Not against you. This seems to be a very nice place."

"Then it's business that calls you back?"

"Well, no. You see, I miss something! All day yesterday there were no fire alarms, no murders, no one run over, no arrests. Last night there was no whooping, no theatres, no picture shows, no dances, no hoodlums. No daily paper this morning to read of a suicide or double murder."

"And you must have such things?" asked the farmer.

"Why, man alive, this is a cemetery! The watermelon peddlers don't yell—there isn't a saloon within five miles—there isn't a child to be kidnapped or a tenement to be blown up. Let me go back where I can take comfort, and the matter of health be durned."

Yes, I've thrown him overboard.

Not Up-to-date.

FATHER," said Johnny, "you told me awhile ago that I ought to be well posted in the history of my country and in that of others."

"Yes, my son."

"Yesterday I looked through the history of England and found it way behind the times."

"Indeed! Why I can scarcely credit that!"

"And today I found the same fault with America. Neither had a word of a great event."

"You must have read carelessly."

"No, I was very particular."

"But what was it?"

"About Papke knocking out the British champion middleweight and thereby becoming champion of the world!"

The father had to agree that history was not up to date.

Earthquake Taxes.

I WAS in Mexico when the June earthquake took place," said an American who has an interest in a mine down there, "and I was out on the road in an auto. For a few seconds I imagined all sorts of things, and the way the ground shook and heaved and that old auto stood up on its hind legs was truly bewildering. It ran into a soft bank of earth and stood still, and though things clattered and clashed around us no one was hurt. We were close to the cottage of a peasant, and he and his wife came running out and fell on their knees to pray. When the dust had settled the man came up to me to say:

"'It is an earthquake, is it not, Senor?'"

"'It is.'"

"'But it is passed?'"

"'I think so.'"

"'But they will tax us for it, of course. Nothing can escape taxes!'"

"And I had been in the country long enough to know that his fears were not altogether groundless. When you tax a grade, a coffin and a headstone, you are getting pretty near to taxing the people for earthquakes."

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE LYCEUM

Because, without a doubt, there is no one on earth but would enjoy spending a million dollars, "Brewster's Millions," in which the audience spends three hilarious hours of sloshing around in money, has proved one of the greatest successes of recent years. Manager Forbes has chosen this delightful comedy for the fourth week of his local engagement, and, it is expected the play will prove the most popular of the bills thus far presented.

"Brewster's Millions" is on the order of the farce comedy. The play was made from George Barr McCutcheon's novel of the same name, and contrary to the general result of such efforts, the play has proved more popular than the novel.

The play tells the story of Montgomery Brewster, whose uncle leaves him $7,000,000, on condition that he spend the million his grandfather bequeathed him within a year. "Monty," as he is known to his friends, accepts the condition and starts in to get rid of the million. During the three acts of the play he spends money as one breathes the Lake Superior air. His purpose is not known to his friends, who do all in their power to save him from his reckless self.

Montgomery tries all of the tried and tested ways of losing money legitimately. He produces the comic opera of a friend and features an unknown chorus girl in the piece. The opera succeeds and the chorus girl becomes a real star and both insist upon returning the money advanced. He bets on the races, choosing the horses which apparently haven't the ghost of a chance and the horses prance in first. He buys stocks that have no other support, even the engravers of said stock having lost faith, and they turn out to be a fine investment. He supports tottering banks to have them re-establish themselves and repay him. He buys automobiles and gives dinners and cotillions with prodigal favors and buys a yacht and takes his friends on a round-the-world cruise.

And the scene on the yacht has proved one of the most interesting and spectacular of theatrical scenes for many seasons. Mr. Forbes is promising a most elaborate setting for the yacht scene with the blue waters of the Mediterranean glancing by in the moonlight. In spite of all his good or bad luck Monty succeeds in spending the million. At the close of the play he gathers the girl he loves to his arms secure in her affection and a paltry $7,000,000 to keep her and himself from want.

Every human being loves to spend money. To the majority of people the opportunity of lavishly spending without stint is not given in this life and so "Brewster's Millions" supplies vicariously the longing that nearly every one has. This is probably what the psychologists would ascribe as the success of the play. To the average mind it is just a happy play filled with joy and fun and a delightful evening's pastime.

The first performance of Brewster's Millions" will be given Monday evening and the play will be continued every evening next week with the usual Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

Tonight and tomorrow afternoon the night the concluding performances of "Arizona" will be given. This play of Western life has proved very popular all of the week and large audiences have witnessed the fine performance which Mr. Forbes and his players are presenting.

Mrs. Fiske's summer tour in "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," the play in which she is to appear at the Lyceum on Aug. 5, is much more comprehensive geographically than it is chronologically. Embraced in the itinerary are Des Moines, Sioux City, Omaha, Lincoln, St. Joseph, Topeka, Wichita, Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, Ogden, Leadville, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Monterey, San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, Portland, Seattle, Victoria, Vancouver, Tacoma, Aberdeen, North Yakima, Spokane, Butte, Great Falls, Billings, Fargo, Winnipeg and Duluth. The only week stand is San Francisco, and the only weeks' stands Denver, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle. The length of the tour is nine weeks and the territory has been telescoped to bring it within that limit since Mrs. Fiske, strange as it may seem, desires a few weeks' rest before beginning rehearsals of her new plays for next season.

"Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" is so different from any other play in which Mrs. Fiske has ever been seen that it seems almost an anomaly, since the sole purpose of the play and of the characterization is to amuse, and that it does most merrily.

AT THE EMPRESS

Beginning with the Sunday matinee, the patrons of the Empress will be offered one of the best bills of vaudeville of the summer season. The main attraction for the week will be the La Vine Cimeron trio, who present a satirical creation on physical culture entitled "Imagination," which depicts in a most laughable manner the experiences of a physical culture crank. These artists bring forth riotous laughter from every source and everyone wonders what they are going to do next. Their laughable antics and eccentric acrobatics keep their audience in an uproar and cause much wonderment. The scene represents the interior of a physical culture emporium. An attendant receives the prospective students and proceeds to illustrate the course of exercise one must practice to be benefited by physical culture. The students follow the instructor closely and laughs follow in quick succession as they go through their various stunts. They also sing and dance during the action of the satire, which gives it a delightful blend. Oliver La Vine of this trio is one of America's foremost pantomime comedians. He has also been identified with leading pantomime companies abroad. This act is intended for laughing purposes only and holds the position of being the laughing hit of the summer season for it has scored triumphantly everywhere.

Willard Hutchinson, whose name alone awakens pleasant memories as the leading juvenile comedian with "Piff Paff Puff," will be seen in a society playlet entitled "A Leap Year Leap." There is humor in every syllable of this little farce, as well as in the work of Mr. Hutchinson. Mr. Hutchinson is a clever young actor, reared in the legitimate and he has only recently turned his attention to vaudeville. He has preserved a quiet manner and clean-cut characterization, even as the flip young dandy who calls upon a damsel and shies at popping the question. The playlet tells an interesting story in a dainty manner. Mr. Hutchinson portrays his role gracefully and with admirable restraint, keeping in the spirit of the playlet. He is aided by Miss Rosamond Harrison, who is the charming country girl, full of bright wit and not afraid to match it with any one. These talented players and the pretty playlet are a combination that is hard to beat and should win the approval of the theatergoers next week.

An attraction that will be pleasing to the children especially is Kluting's animal circus. It has always been the aim of booking managers of the Sullivan & Considine circuit to give the youngsters a particular pleasure now and then, and next week will be one long to be remembered by the children, for it is seldom that anything so interesting and instructive as this troupe of wonderfully trained animals is offered for their amusement. The science of training dogs is very difficult, but in the case of cats, pigeons and rabbits, which comprise this minature circus, it is even more difficult. These animals are proverbially indolent and ease-loving and it is extremely difficult to teach them. However, with infinite pains and the patience of Job, Prof. Kluting has accomplished wonders with his animals and has taught them to perform feats that border on the marvelous. In fact, it is said, that the performance of his dogs is a viritable paradox, and everyone, a fancier of dogs or otherwise, will take keen delight in this exhibition.

Those who retain pleasant memories of that delightful vocal combination, the Empire City quartet, will be delighted in the announcement of the appearance of Harry Mayo, who will be remembered for his resonaut and sympathetic basso voice. Upon the dissolution of the famous quartet Mr. Mayo remained in vaudeville and for his specialty renders popular song hits in an incomparable manner. Mr. Mayo's reputation rests largely on the possession of one of the deepest basso voices ever heard in this city, but in addiion to this, he is an actor of rare ability. It will also be a source of great delight when it is learned that Mr. Mayo will sing some of the songs made popular by the Empire City quartet on their last Western trip. This offering is one that should appeal to all lovers of good music and Mr. Mayo will no doubt be accorded a warm reception during his engagement at the Empress.

The constant clamor for genuine novelty, newness and something unique, has been the source of bringing to the Empress next week as the added attraction the four Solis brothers, who manipulate with marvelous rapidity and soulful melody the newest creation in musical instruments, the collossal marimbaphone. Instruments similar to this have been seen before, but this one is the only one of its kind in the world. It was constructed by Mauro H. Solis and is conceded to be a most wonderful achievement in instrumental construction. The marimbaphone resembles a xylophone in many ways and has a similar keyboard but the tones that are produced from this instrument make the xylophone sound like a back number harpischord, and the beauty of it is that these artists know how to get real music out of it. Their repertoire embraces popular and classic selections, but principally the latter, although not too classic, but just the right combination of the two.

The moving pictures will be up to usual standard. A matinee is given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either telephone. A special school children's matinee is given every Saturday at 2:30. All scholars under 14 years of age are admitted for 5 cents. Special attention is paid to the comfort and entertainment of ladies and children at all times.

ROLLER RINK WILL REOPEN

Tomorrow afternoon the big Duluth Auditorium roller skating rink will have a grand opening.

Decorated gaily in Japanese design, fitted out with two huge electric fans and equipped with the wonder sciopticon, that throws beautiful and picturesque electrical color effects, its huge floor space entirely resurfaced, the big rink will offer to its hundreds of patrons improved facilities for the enjoyment of a pastime that is rapidly becoming immensely popular in Duluth. Roller skating is having a revival of interest all over the country. Here in Duluth skating has never been so popular. Indeed, so popular has roller skating become that the management of the Auditorium has found it advisable to increase the skate room facilities and add to the number of skates.

A surprise will await those who enter the big structure tomorrow afternoon. Decorations have been hung from the roof and the walls have been prettily adorned. The big building has been cleaned from the floor to the roof and will present a spick and span appearance for the reopening.

The grand march will be the feature of the afternoon and evening programs.

"BOOKING A SHOW"

How the Theatrical Managers Solve the Intricate Details of Arranging a Tour.

Should one have occasion to travel to any point requiring an all-night journey, one will naturally spend much time and thought on the details.

If that predicament exists in the passage from one city to another of a single person what would surely happen if one were called upon to plan the tours of twenty-five organizations?

The idea would floor the ordinary person, but when you met Charles A. Miller, the booking manager of the William A. Brady office, you come into direct relation with a man whose mind is an actual storehouse of timetables and traffic conditions. Without digging into complicated series of railroad guides he will tell what is the most convenient train to take in making a trip say between Albany, Ga., and Columbus, Ga. Should you feel uncertain regarding the best manner of handling a party from Kingston, N. Y., to Amsterdam, N. Y., and Mr. Miller is about, just ask him and he will gladly straighten the tangle out for you. Mr. Miller revels in the time cards of the railroads and is so expert in his knowledge of railroad conditions in the country that he is paid a very attractive sum annually by William A. Brady, the famous producing theatrical manager, to arrange the tours of the many theatrical companies that are sent from the Atlantic to the Pacific under Mr. Brady's management.

At the present moment there are not more than six men in the entire country who are able to arrange or "book," as the theatrical term implies, four complete tours of four companies playing the same play, so that each shall play in cities and towns that no other company appears in, and yet be so handled that the minimum of cost shall be incurred. Of that half dozen, Mr. Miller is considered the most expert. Thirty years in the business end of the theater have given him the expert and intimate knowledge he possesses and it is not only cities that is imbedded in Mr. Miller's marvelous memory, but the names of the theaters and managers as well. There are twelve hundred theaters in the United States and to merely remember the names of the managers of that many playhouses would tax the concentrated remembering power of almost any one.

The Details of Booking.

Possibly you have wondered at times at the complexities that must exist in the business management of theatrical organizations, but when the direction of the tours is placed in the hands of Mr. Miller, Mr. Brady is content to leave the remainder of the work in Mr. Miller's hands. For example, at a consultation, Mr. Brady will say, "I want to send out two companies in 'Mother' next season. One is to play the one stands in the East and the other company is to go to the coast. Have the pany is to go to the coast. Have the coast show open in Minneapolis fair week and the Eastern show opens Labor day in Boston." With that as the basis of the work in hand, Mr. Miller will outline a tentative tour allowing for intricate railroad movements, choosing good towns for Saturdays and placing the companies at the most strategic points during the entire tour. With that tour outlined to his satisfaction, Mr. Miller will start for the booking offices where the dates of all the theaters in the country are kept and he will soon learn what condition the "time" of the theater is in. He may find that he cannot get Duluth for Oct. 10 because some other company has the date and he will then have to resort to some calculating, for whatever changes he makes to one section of the tour will affect his entire route, and he does not care to make many changes. He may have to detour through a section to bring that company in Duluth at the next best available date, and gradually he effects an arrangement which satisfies him and is in accord with the dates of the booking office. The actual work of booking the attraction is ended for the time being and he returns to the office to draw up the contracts which are made for each individual engagement. These contracts are sent to the booking office which acts as the agent for the theaters throughout the land. The office in turn sends the contracts for each town to the manager of the theater in that town, who signs and returns the contract to the booking office, and the office in turn sees that Mr. Miller gets his copy of the contract. When the contracts come in the route book in the office of Mr. Miller is filled out and each contract is verified and bundled in readiness for the advance agent who is to represent the company on tour.

During the regular season every advance agent, who is to be referred to in the future as "agent," is under the careful supervision of Mr. Miller and a more just and kind-hearted chief can not be found in the theatrical world to which every Brady agent will testify gladly. Should the theater in which the company is to play in Walla Walla, Wash., be damaged and the route be affected it will be Mr. Miller, who will instruct the agent where he is to "fill" that date and what changes have been made in his tour that enable him to play the date. Mr. Miller will protect the agent by ordering the material he will need in the newest town to "bill" or advertise the company, and generally take a fatherly interest in him.

Many of the younger members of the business are wont to look to Mr. Miller as they would to a patriarch who has seen troubles of many kinds and who still maintains his faith in the goodness of men because his experiences have not soured him. At the holiday periods he is the recipient of many presents from the "boys" who are sure their interests are being zealously guarded by Mr. Miller while they are away on the "road."

Back in the old days, Mr. Miller managed the leading theater in Columbus, Ohio. According to the haphazard methods of "booking" attractions then in vogue, companies dealt directly with the local managers instead of being represented in New York as they are today. In the usual course of business, Mr. Miller received word from an actor named William A. Brady that he wanted to play "After Dark," a very popular melodrama, in Columbus for two performances. Mr. Miller happened to have the date open as Mr. Brady desired and he made an arrangement with him to play that piece in Columbus, but before he signed the contract Mr. Miller warned Mr. Brady that he was overstaying his limit in playing two days. But Mr. Brady could not see the matter in that way and insisted upon the two days, so Columbus saw Mr. Brady twice, in "After Dark." When the first night's engagement ended the receipts were in four figures but the second night's business indicated that Mr. Miller was right. The business dropped to about one-fifth of the amount played to on the first night. Today, Mr. Miller is the booking manager for Mr. Brady, the old friendship that started in a business way in Columbus many years ago, being in force at the current moment.

SELLING TIES IN THE STREET.

Here were two street men in the same block selling neckties from pushcarts. Each had a solid cartload of neckties and all were of the same kind, though of many colors. But while their stocks were just alike these two pushcart men had very different methods of inviting custom, says the New York Sun.

One had his stock trimly arranged in the original boxes. His stock completely covered the pushcart from end to end and from side to side and overlapping; the open boxes ranged along close together in long rows, making with the varied colors of the various ties a striking display. It might have seemed that this was the only way to show them to the best advantage with the highest power of attraction.

The necktie man with his pushcart against the curb twenty feet further along had his stock all out of the boxes and piled loosely in a big mound that all but covered the cart. The colors of this mound were kaleidoscopic and the mixture of the ties was as complete as would have been that of the jackstraws in a dozen bundles dropped in a head all at once.

It may be that each of these necktie venders had found by experience that the method he followed was the best, but to an outsider it seemed as if the two methods might more likely reveal the personal characteristics of the sellers. One was a man of an orderly, precise habit who liked to see his stock arranged symmetrically. The other was a man more on the slapdash order, who went in for effect in anotherway.

And what was the actual drawing power of these two methods? Well, the outsider has no knowledge as to which stock would attract the greater number of customers in the long run, but he knows how the two stocks struck him and what he actually saw. It seemed to him that he would feel a little shy about pulling and hauling over the ties arranged in the boxes of the primly arranged stock, while he would feel quite free and easy about the other stock to do as he pleased; and as matter of fact there was at this time nobody even looking at the systematically arranged stocks, while at the other cart there was a man pawing the stock over and now and then pulling out a tie and holding it out to see how it looked. Evidently he enjoyed this freedom of inspection; and he looked like a man who was interested in the ties and who intended to buy.

THE POPULAR DANCES.

London Globe: The position taken up by the dancers gave the name to the "quadrille," which is literal French for "a little square;" while "country dance" has no connection with rustic gymnastics, but is simply a corruption of the French contre danse, which has reference to the position of the couples opposite to each other during the dance.

The "lancers" derived its name from the fact that this variation of the quadrille was originally improvised by a company of lancers for their own amusement while seated in their saddles. The "polka" is a Polish dance, and its name comes from the Bohemian word "pulka," meaning half, and refers to the half step which occurs in this lively measure, of which the more graceful "schottische" is a variation; both names, like that of the national dance of Poland, the "mazourka," being native terms.

The short steps peculiar to the old time favorite—the "minuet"—gave the dance its name, the Latin for "small" being "minutus." The "waltz," again, owes its name to its characteristic movement, the German "waltzen"—meaning to revolve—expressing the circling motion of the dancers.

The "Roger de Coverley" is named after its originator, while the less familiar dance known as the "tarantella" is so called because its vigorous movements were supposed to be a certain antidote to the poison of a noxious spider at Taranto in Italy, where the dance is highly popular.

The evolutions of the dancer sufficiently explain the term "reel," "jig" is from the French "gigue" and "breakdown" is a term from across the Atlantic, and refers to the final rout before the breakup of a free and easy dancing party.

Every year dancing takes place in the parish church of Musgrave in Westmoreland in connection with the ancient rite of rushbearing. On May day twelve young maidens of Brough, approved by the vicar, assemble at 10 o'clock in the morning at the foot of Brough Bridge decorated with flowers and fresh garlands on their heads. Accompanied by a band they proceed through the fields to Musgrave, the band playing and the rushbearers dancing.

The girls are led up the north aisle of the church and hang their garlands at the side, there to remain until the following year. The Gospel is read by the vicar, prayers are offered and psalms sung, after which the clerk and vicar retire. A space is then cleared near the altar and a fiddle produced. Dancing now commences, and continues until the afternoon.

Dancing is frequently seen in Continental churches. During the Corpus Christi octave a ballet is performed every evening before the high altar of Seville—cathedral by boys wearing plumed hats and the dress of pages of the time of Philip III.

THE MEGILLAH.

American Hebrew: Purim has developed into a festival of many aspects in modern Jewish life. It is the time when the rich remember the poor, when friends remember one another, when children learn that religion has its processional and amusing aspects and when the position of Jews in the dispersion is seen to be typified in the Biblical narrative.

But perhaps the most characteristic feature of the festival is the reading of the Megillah both in the home and in the synagogue service. The narrative thus read or told is one of the most striking and most effective stories of the world, even regarded as a story. It records the ups and downs of interesting persons and appeals thus to what Stevenson calls the aleatory instincts of mankind.

It is well known that servant girls are especially pleased to read the dime novel which tells of the rise in fortune of one of their own class, who marries a marquis or a millionaire, according to the locale of the story. So too, we all care to read of the rise in fortunes of a deserving young man who becomes the right hand of a great merchant or a prince.

A similar interest attaches to the careers of Esther and Mordecai in the narrative of the Megillah, of which we can never get tired. The book of Esther has of course another interest for us. It records a crisis in the career of the Jewish people and tells how this was averted by the self-sacrifice of the Jewish maiden raised to the dignity of queen, and of her relative who became vizier, or its equivalent.

Times have so far changed that great events of this kind are not likely to be influenced so closely by single personalities, but Jews at least have always looked forward to some such helper as Mordecai. Every one who knew the late Dr. Herzl recognized in him just such a type of man, who could speak his mind in the presence of kings on behalf of his people. And there may come a time when even the czar or the king of Roumania may have to defend himself in presence of some representative Jew.

Thus the book of Esther besides being an interesting story in itself has roots deep in Jewish feeling and Jewish history and it gives something of the glow of romance to the festival.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

Listened to Wife, Saved By Neal Treatment

A MICHIGAN MAN ESCAPED DRINK'S BONDAGE.

A Superior Neal Institute Graduate Writes a Cheerful Letter of Appreciation.

When the Superior Neal Institute was opened and dedicated to the saving of victims of the drink habit, it so happened that the first case of excessive drinking discussed was that of a man up in Michigan. The man himself didn't realize that he was a subject of grave concern to all who knew him and held him dear. He didn't know that he had crossed drink's danger line. There was nothing strange in that. Few excessive drinkers ever realize their plight. The persuasion of those nearest to him, however, overcame his own dissenting views about taking the Neal Treatment and down from his Michigan home he came.

The story of the results of his three-day stay at The Neal Institute is best told in his own letter of grateful appreciation which has just been received.

Prefacing his message with the words "To my friend" and naming the doctor in charge, he writes:

"Well, sir, I am home again, all right and feeling fine, thanks to you and The Neal Treatment. You and your assistants were very kind and attentive to me while with you and I can't thank you too much. I at first thought I would not go, but my wife and daughters wanted me to. So I did. Now I am very glad. You see the doctrine of a man stopping of his own accord doesn't always go. I have 'the drink' all out of me now and I am satisfied and don't want it any more. My daughters feel grateful to you and will always remember you with a kindly feeling. My wife is more than happy and says 'Thanks to you.' If you see any of the contractors and dentists who were with me at The Neal Institute, tell them to 'stick to it,' and keep away from old alcohol."

This Michigan man's case is not unusual. Hundreds of bright business men whose faculties were dulled through drink's influence "break away" from liquor for good every month through the Neal Treatment, which in three short days transforms craving desire and resistless appetite into aversion for all alcoholic drink. The Superior Neal Institute is one of over three score such grand institutes in American, Canadian and Australian cities.

The Neal Treatment is ethical—a vegetable remedy taken internally, administered by regular physicians and with positively no hypodermic injections. It is tonic in its effects, restores

INCOME TAX IS JUST

Says Governor McGovern in Approving Wisconsin Act.

Madison, Wis., July 15.—Governor McGovern has signed the income tax bill and attached a lengthy memorandum which, in part, follows:

"There has been so much misconception concerning this measure that in signing it I feel justified in making a brief statement in the hope of correcting false impressions and of directing attention from insignificant details to the main provision of the bill.

"To begin with, it should be understood that practically every penny of revenue raised by this bill over and above the cost of administration will go to support local government. It will be spent to pave streets, build roads and bridges, maintain hospitals and jails, provide fire and police protection, and support the courts for those who pay the tax.

"By the terms of this law 10 per cent of the revenue raised under it will go to the state, 20 per cent to the county and 70 per cent to the town, city or village in which it is collected. But the entire expense of the administration will be borne by the state.

Attractions have been engaged that are more elaborate than in former years, and one of the features will be a race between a Wright biplane, driven by Frank Coffyn, and the Grand Forks aeroplane, driven by Thomas McGoey.

MRS. NEAPOLITANA FAINTS.

Condemned Woman Overjoyed at Good News From Ottawa.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The glad tidings from Ottawa that her sentence of death had been commuted proved too much for the nerves of Mrs. Angelina Neopolitana when notified in the jail here yesterday afternoon and she fainted. She was making clothing for her expected child when the news came.

As soon as the jailor and matron had revived her she went into ecstasies. "I not be hanged; I not be hanged," she fairly screamed in broken English, as she realized the true worth of the information she had received.

Then falling to her knees she grasped the matron's skirt and kissed it while tears streamed from her eyes.

Mrs. Neopolitana killed her husband on April 16 last under unusual circumstances. She alleged at her trial which quickly followed the commission of the crime, that her husband was on the point of forcing her to lead an immoral life for his financial benefit, when, to protect her name and the honor of four children, she killed him.

She was convicted, despite her plea of justification and was sentenced to be hanged on Aug. 9 next, about twelve days after she expected to become a mother for the fifth time.

Much pressure was exerted on the Ottawa government to prevent the execution of the woman.

Take Off the Fat Where It Shows

Most women suffer much humiliation and inconvenience, especially during the hot summer months, because of great quantities of fat, so located that, no matter how they dress, everybody sees that they are abnormal. This is the season and the day of the slender figure, and fat women are simply not tolerated either in business or social affairs. Women may not know it, but men when they see a fat woman pass them on the street make all manner of sympathetic remarks about her. They do not mean to be unkind or to seem unmanly, but it is natural for a man to dislike fat on a woman. Where fat shows the most there is where it must be removed, and as quickly as possible. Hot weather dresses seem to be made for the fat woman's misery and the slender woman's delight. They expose all the charms of woman and her ugliness as well. Exercise and diet will not remove fat. This has been proved. The famous Marmola prescription which has met with such phenomenal success and has so many of our society women as its sponsors, is now being sold in tablet form to meet the demand of the public for this style of treatment. These little tablets go into your system just like food. They stop the stomach and digestive apparatus from producing fat and reduce the fat upon the body at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. They are harmless in hot as well as cool weather and can be carried in your purse and taken even after you have indulged in a hearty meal away from home. They are sold at all drug stores at 75 cents a case, or if you prefer you may write the Marmola Company, 491 Farmers Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

WEEKLY SURVEY OF REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENTS

Duluth's Progress and the Pessimistic Citizen--Record Price for Remote Acreage—Conventions of Real Estate Men—Summer Quiet in the Market.

CONSIDERABLE comment was caused by the friendly criticism made by George N. Lyman of Minneapolis, which was published in The Herald last evening. Mr. Lyman did not give his views with the idea of "knocking" the city, as many outsiders would, who are forever pushing for their own towns, but he gave them, thinking that attention might be called to some of the drawbacks with which the city is contending.

Real estate men say that there are a large number of business men and prominent citizens in this city who have not visited the site of the steel plant since work started there and that many of these leading men of Duluth are still doubting Thomases, and take little stock in what the corporation is doing for the city.

Furthermore, they say that many of these men have unconsciously fallen into the habit of expressing pessimistic views as to the progress of Duluth, and its future business success. Almost invariably the strangers and visitors are more enthusiastic boomers than some of the residents.

SINCE the visit here of the university regents, those who question the value of the St. Louis county land, have been silenced in the main. There are still some citizens of Duluth who express views in a pessimistic way without regard as to what weight they may have should a stranger hear them. Their competency to judge the value of agricultural lands might be questioned, for practically all of them have been devoted to a business far remote from that of farming, but they sweepingly express their ideas of the worthlessness of lands about the city, in spite of the fact that on every hand they can see some of the finest exhibits of farm produce ever put before the public.

However, the people who are buying the lands about the city seem fully satisfied, and every year are turning out produce which other counties of this state cannot equal, and which are selling at prices that are netting the farmer good profit upon his investment and labor.

A NEW price for agricultural lands was set this week when C. F. Colman purchased 160 acres of land from Mary C. Ewing, for $32,000. This is the biggest price that has ever been paid for acreage land in the vicinity of the purchase, and shows that there is a big demand for tracts. People with small incomes are investing their money every month in lands about the city, are clearing tracts, building small homes and devoting their spare time to gardening. Not only are the wage-earners interested in small farms, but there are many professional and business men who have tracts under cultivation and enjoying the fruits of their evening's recreation. They not only enjoy this work in nature's field, but they are reaping much benefit, for the produce of their gardens is of the highest and best quality.

TWO BIG conventions of interest to real estate men were scheduled for this month. One has just been finished, that of the National Building Managers' association, held in Cleveland, at which Duluth was represented by only two men, Whitney Wall and Building Inspector S. M. Kielley. From reports coming from Cleveland, the convention was a big success, and those who attended it were well repaid for their trip. The other convention will open next Monday in Denver, and last all week. It is the annual meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, which promises to be the biggest of its kind ever held by the association. Several Duluthians will attend.

THE midsummer dullness was more in evidence this week than ever, for few reports of sales were made, and not many negotiations are on at the present time. Inquiries are steadily coming in, but prominent dealers say that the number does not equal that of last year at this season. While the depression in the general market may have considerable influence upon the real estate market, yet it is the belief that the dullness is more due to the fact that this is the vacation time for most people, and they do not care to be troubled with making purchases.

NEW PRESIDENT OF STATE LABOR FEDERATION IN CITY

E. G. HALL.

E. G. Hall, president of the State Federation of Labor, elected at the recent convention at Mankato, is in the city today.

Mr. Hall, who lives in Minneapolis, is in Duluth for the purpose of planning with Secretary W. E. McEwen the work for the next three months. He arrived in the city this morning.

Mr. Hall succeeded George B. Howley as president of the state federation. This is his first visit to Duluth since his election.

Mr. Hall states that labor conditions throughout the state are good. For the next three months he expects to put in a good deal of his time with the organizations at Brainerd, Crookston and Mankato.

The new president states that it is his intention to get acquainted with the members of all the labor organizations in the state. He is going to inquire fully into all the details of the work being done by each organization that he may know their needs.

He has been traveling much of the time since he was elected and this will be continued until he has visited all the organizations. During the winter months he expects to put in several weeks in Duluth.

After talking over with Secretary McEwen the work for the next three months, Mr. Hall returned to Minneapolis. He came to Duluth from Brainerd, where he had been doing some work.

WEST END NEWS

TO BEAUTIFY WEST END

Many Improvements Under Way West of Point of Rocks.

Paving of West Fifth Street Biggest Job of Year.

The agitation of the West end civic organizations for better streets and a more attractive West end is meeting with results.

Monday the board of public works will let several contracts for improvements on West end streets, the principal job being the West Fifth street job. This thoroughfare will be graded, curbed and guttered between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth avenues west. When the bids were opened Friday, Hugh Steele, contractor, had the lowest bid at $41,141.20, and will probably be awarded the contract.

The improvement of West Fifth street has long been desired, and will be rushed to an early completion. The specifications call for either stone or cement gutters. On the grading and surfacing of Third alley from Twenty-third to Twenty-fourth avenues west, the bids submitted to the board yesterday called for various kinds of work. Hugh Steele was low at $630 on gravel surfacing and cement gutter work, and George R. King was low on crushed rock surfacing and rough stone gutters at $545.60 and also on macadam surfacing with cement curb and gutters at $1,211.60. These bids will all be checked over carefully before the contract is let Monday.

Other improvements along this line will also be made during the coming year. Many streets and avenues, more especially avenues, west of Twenty-first, need to be leveled and graded. After a heavy rain several of the thoroughfares are impassable and resemble a cow path with ravines on both sides. Property owners have begun to realize that streets in such condition tend to keep property values down, and that such thoroughfares do not add to the attractiveness of the West end.

In Oneota an improvement which is now being rushed is the construction of a trunk sewer in Forty-first avenue west. It is planned to have it ready for connection with the new Merritt school building at the opening of the fall school term. The board of public works has advertised for bids for the sewer on Fifth street running from Thirty-ninth to Forty-first street, which will connect the Forty-first avenue sewer with the trunk.

Several new sidewalks have also been ordered in the West end by the council. They will be laid along the north side of Michigan street from Thirty-first to Thirty-second avenues west, on the north side of West Fourth street between Forty-first and Forty-second avenues west, and on the north side of Eleventh street from Piedmont to Twenty-second avenues west.

The water main extension to supply the hillside district will soon be started, according to promises which have been made by the water board to the West End Hillside Improvement club, which held a meeting last evening at the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. The work will be commenced as soon as the pipes arrive. A 10-inch main will connect the main at Thirteenth avenue west and Fifth street with the extension. It will run northwest to Seventh street and west on Seventh to Twentieth avenue. From there it will run up Piedmont avenue to Tenth street and Twenty-third avenue, where the school is located. From this point 6-inch pipes will be laid to Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth streets and west to Twenty-fourth avenue. The work will not be completed until next year.

West enders are much interested in the improvement of the city dock at Twenty-first avenue west. At the meeting of the board of public works yesterday C. R. McLean submitted a bid of $1,008.40, the lowest of several, and he will probably be awarded the contract Monday. The specifications call for the extension of the pier for seventy-five feet, making it possible for good-sized boats to land there. As it is now, the dock is practically useless, as it is with difficulty that the excursion boats get in and out of the slip. The improvement is one much desired by West end people, who will save a trip down town when they can board a boat at the Twenty-first avenue dock.

Free Band Concert.

If the weather is fair tomorrow, a large crowd is expected at Lincoln Park to listen to the free band concert, which will be given under the auspices of The Herald by the Third Regiment band. The free concerts last year proved very popular with West end people, who turned out enmasse, whenever the concerts were held at Lincoln Park.

DEDICATE NEW CHURCH

Prominent Catholic Clergymen Will Attend St. Clement's Services.

Bishop McGolrick Will Bless Edifice—Banquet and Parade.

Further details for the dedication ceremonies of the new $60,000 St. Clement's Catholic church, tomorrow, have been completed.

Pontifical high mass will be sung by Rt. Rev. Patrick R. Heffron, bishop of Winona, at 10:30 a. m. at the church. Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. The clergy who will assist at the altar are Reverend Fathers Augustine, Eugene, Wilfrid, Raymond and Hyacinth. Thirty-two altar boys will assist in the sanctuary.

A parade will be held in the afternoon in which the Catholic societies of the Duluth and Superior will take part. The line of march will form at 2:30 at the courthouse and will move to the church.

At the church at 3 o'clock, the Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth, will deliver the dedicatory sermon, after first blessing the church both from the exterior and interior. In this ceremony he will be assisted by the local and visiting clergy. At the conclusion of the afternoon service a banquet for the clergy, the building committee, the contractors and other invited guests will be held in the basement chapel. There will be several addresses made. Covers will be laid for sixty.

The church has been prettily decorated for the occasion with evergreens and other adornments. In the banquet room in the basement, the Duluth Edison Electric company has furnished an elaborate time pretty table display of colored incandescent lights.

The new communion railing arrived this morning and was installed in the church. All the furnishings are now complete.

West End Briefs.

Mrs. S. Olesen of 320 North Nineteenth avenue west returned today from a two weeks' visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Patterson of Minong, Wis.

Mrs. K Madsen of 1715 West First street entertained yesterday afternoon at her home in honor of her birthday, games and music being the feature of the occasion. Refreshments were served, covers being laid for about twenty-five.

Mrs. Heisler and daughter, Mrs. Tate of Minneapolis, former West end residents, are visiting in the western end of the city for a few days.

Mrs. Peter Olson of 806 North Twenty-third avenue west has as her guest, Mrs. Andrew Olson of Los Angeles. Next week, both will leave for Alta, Minn., on a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Simonson are expected to return tomorrow from a trip to Grand Marais, Minn.

No funeral arrangements have been made as yet for Mrs. Andrew Carlson, aged 22 of 926 Garfield avenue, who died Thursday at St. Luke's hospital. Her husband, who was at Isle Royale at the time of her death has been notified and is expected to arrive in the West end tomorrow. The funeral will probably be held Monday.

Helmer Johnson of Sioux Falls, S. D., a former West end resident, is spending a few days in the western end of the city, the guest of friends and relatives.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two men by the name of Kelly and Craft, transients, were struck at Michigan, N. D., last night by the Oriental Limited train of the Great Northern. Both men apparently were seated on the edge of ties and for some reason failed to notice the approaching train.

Kelly died instantly and Craft was rushed to Devils Lake, where he died at 1:30 this morning.

Southern Bank Examiner.

Washington, July 15.—William T. Marfield of Knoxville, Tenn., was today appointed a national bank examiner and assigned to the district of Mississippi and Western Tennessee.

WIPED OUT BY FLAMES

Manager of Porcupine Mines Hears of Fire While Visiting Here.

Herbert Poirier Tells of Conditions in Flame Swept District.

Herbert Poirer, who is here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Camille Poirier of 2128 East Second street, has received a message announcing that the surface workings of the Vipond mine of the Porcupine Gold Mines company, of which he is manager, were wiped out in the recent fires in that district, but that no lives were lost at that property.

Mr. Poirier came to the United States to contract for a ten-stamp mill which is to be installed on the property. There was a one-stamp mill in operation and other machinery valued at about $26,000, while the buildings were worth about $4,000. Mr. Poirier will visit the mine and determine the extent of the loss, after which he will go to New York, where the head office of the company is located, and contract for new machinery.

Mr. Poirer left the mine July 1 and at that time there were a few small fires burning, but no blaze that threatened seriously. About six or eight weeks ago, the Hollinger property was destroyed by fire which spread from the forest, entailing a loss of about $150,000, but the fire causing that loss had been extinguished.

"There are prospectors all through that district and the probability is that they were none too careful with their camp fires," said Mr. Poirier today. "The ground is covered with heavy moss and a fire may burn along under the moss for weeks without being noticed to any extent. The winds through the district are something terrific, coming from the northeast, and a heavy wind would find many small fires running along under the moss and fan them into conflagration proportions."

"There has been no lumbering through the district and the forest is in a virgin state, which gives much food for flames. There are a few big pine trees scattered through the district, but most of the timber is spruce, cottonwood, jack pine and poplar, comparatively small trees. We had a clearing around our property of sixty acres, and the towns and camps all had clearings, but no efforts by men could prevent a big fire driven by a high wind from jumping the clearings.

"They have a forest ranger system in the district, but it is not as efficient as it might be. The rangers have little authority and must enter court proceedings to enforce their warnings. Their control over careless campers is thus weakened, while they do not exercise the authority shown by United States forest rangers in compelling men to fight fires.

"The Dome property had a stamp mill recently completed at a cost of about $125,000 and that was wiped out. The other properties also had expensive machinery and the property loss will be heavy. The buildings in the district were, of course, frame structures and the loss in that direction will not be great.

"I notice in the list of dead the name of Bob Weiss, manager of the West Dome property, which is owned by Augustus Heinze. Mr. Weiss was well known through the mining districts of the West. He was a man weighing about 460 pounds and was a conspicuous figure wherever he appeared. He was an interesting, likeable character and had many friends in different mining camps throughout the country."

10c will buy a permit to smoke a Palma Leo, clear Havana cigar.

ONE MAN DIES IN BATTLE CREEK FIRE

Another Man Is Missing and Property Loss Is $15,000.

Battle Creek, Mich., July 15.—One dead, one missing and a property loss of $15,000 was the toll of an early morning blaze today in the business district. The Harley Hamlin livery was destroyed and the Richtmyer bakery, the Munford & Gustke furniture store, the Southton grocery and the Powers block, containing the circuit court rooms, were damaged.

Leo Hunt, aged 26, was burned to death while sleeping in the Hamlin livery office and the police have been unable to locate Hamlin, who usually slept in the barn. Eighteen horses were burned to death.

VICTIM OF THE FOURTH DIES

Eight-Year-Old Boy at Williamstown, Mich., Succumbs to Tetanus.

Lansing, Mich., July 15.—Bert Perkins, aged 8 years, died today at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Perkins, in Williamstown from tetanus, the result of being wounded in the hand with a blank cartridge on the Fourth of July.

SURVIVOR OF CREW OF MONITOR DIES.

Sawtelle, Cal., July 15.—Michael Mooney, said to be one of the two survivors of the crew which manned the Monitor, when it fought and vanquished the Confederate steamer Merrimac, died here last night at the National Soldiers' home. On the last anniversary of the battle, Mooney sent a letter recalling the events of the day to the other survivor, who lives in Philadelphia. Among his papers was found a complete list of the vessel's officers and men, including his own name as a stoker.

Plaintiff Wins Option Suit.

Bemidji, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the case of Carl Hoffron vs. M. G. Foley, both of this city, Judge McClenahan has decided in favor of the plaintiff. The point at issue was to enforce the specific performance of an option contract on eighty acres adjoining the Heffron tract on the west side of this city. Mr. Heffron values the court decision at between $2,000 and $3,000.

ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST POPULAR MEN

A SYRIAN QUARTER WATER CARRIER.

New York, July 15.—During the recent hot weather in this city most of the most intense suffering was experienced in the quarters of the city occupied by foreigners. Among the Syrians, however, there were some enterprising men who filled huge, queer-shaped tankards with water and went about peddling it at a trifling sum per glass. Men, women and children patronized these water carriers, and some of them picked up nice little sums out of the hot wave.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES CONGRATULATED ON FIRST REPORT

Secretary Courtenay Dinwiddie of the Associated Charities is in receipt of several letters of congratulations on "Six Months of Team Work," the review in pamphlet form which was published recently on the work of the Duluth society for the first six months of its existence.

The pamphlet was sent to the heads of other charitable organizations that they might have a chance to see what is being done in Duluth. This is a courtesy that is a common practice between the societies of the different cities. The work being done in one place is of much help to those in other places as many new ideas are usually contained in the reports.

Hugh F. Fox of New York, president of the New Jersey Board of Children's Guardians and editor of a charity and correction paper speaks very highly of the report submitted by the secretary of the local organization.

Miss Helene Ingram, superintendent of Relief Association of New York, which is maintained for the improvement of the condition of the poor, in a personal letter of congratulation states that the Duluth society is apparently doing a great deal of good.

E. T. Lies of Minneapolis, general secretary of the Minneapolis Associated Charities of the Mill City writes a letter of congratulation to Secretary Dinwiddie as does Perry N. Hiser of the Peoria, Ill., Associated Charities.

COPPERS STEADY; TRADING LIGHT

Values Mark Time in Dull Market—Crops Are a Factor.

The copper market today was dull and steady. The undertone was firm. Considering the unfavorable crop reports which were issued by two crop experts the marked acted well. The metal situation is unchanged. The general news was featureless. The bulk of the trading was an evening up process that did not turn values out of the rut in which they have stagnated for several days.

Amalgamated sold at $68.75, Butte Coalition at $18.50, Ojibway at $6, Calumet & Arizona at $58, $58.50 and $58, Giroux $6.37½ and $6.43¾, North Butte at $32.50, $32.62½ and $32.50.

There were no sales on the local exchange.

During June the production at Greene-Cananea amounted to 3,462,000 pounds of copper, 102,606 ounces of silver and 509 ounces of gold. Copper production fell off materially as is shown from the high figures of May, when slightly in excess of 4,000,000 pounds were produced. The low production for June, however, has no significance as it is more or less of an evening up of process.

Cananea's nominal production at the present time is around 43,000,000 pounds per annum, while the ultimate capacity of the present reduction plants is in the neighborhood of 80,000,000 pounds of copper, which would indicate operations being carried on at a little over 50 per cent capacity. As the concentrator but part of the plant is in commission, while at the smelter several blast furnaces are held in reserve, with the new reverberatories giving additional supply. During June, everything went along as usual at the reduction plants. At the mines, no new discoveries of importance were made, but particularly at the Sierra de Cobre, development continued to show improvement.

The report previously received, stating that the cost of producing copper at Cananea had been reduced to slightly under 9c per pound, is a matter of great importance to Cananea stockholders. In the making of this cost some exceptionally favorable conditions existed, while on the other hand certain others tended to produce a higher cost than normal. In view of this the management is reticent about making any statement concerning this cost until it has been thoroughly demonstrated over a longer period of time. A 9c cost at Cananea represents a large decrease over last year's operations when the total cost was 11.2c per pound, of which construction amounted to nearly 1½c. This last named worked is now practically completed.

Based on a 43,000,000 pounds per annum production a 9c cost and copper at 12¾c per pound, Cananea's earning would be approximately 65c per share. Based on the ultimate capacity of the reduction plants, this figure would be increased to $1.20 per share.

Very soon the Magma and Arthur mills of the Utah Copper company will be completed, giving the company a capacity of 20,000 tons of ore daily, or the annual milling yearly by all the Lake Superior mines together, and twice the amount of ore mined by all the properties in Butte.

No less an authority than Henry Krumb, the mining engineer who has been identified with most of the porphyry successes, prophesies that for the next fifteen years, and possibly for many years thereafter, the Utah Copper company will be able to produce 150,000,000 pounds copper annually mined, milled, smelted, refined and sold at a cost of not over 7½c F. O. B. New York.

A year ago last spring when Lake Copper was advanced marketwise from a few dollars a share to $94, every little development at the property was published and magnified, and every time a new level was cut from $10 to $20 was added to the price of the shares. Nowadays comparatively little is heard of underground developments at the Lake property, and the eighth level was recently opened without affecting the price of the shares $1, although the eighth level was found as rich as any of the upper levels, and drifting so far has disclosed the same copper richness as above. The Lake lode has now been opened up to May 1, by 12,000 feet of drifts, of which nearly 8,000 feet or two-thirds, was accomplished during the past year, or since the excitement in the stock in the spring of 1910 subsided.

The fifth level south, and the fourth and sixth levels north, are richer than anything disclosed on the first three levels, to say nothing of the seventh and eighth level developments. Besides this the company has $350,000 cash in its treasury.

Lake Copper is now selling "enthusiasm," which accounts for the difference of over $50 per share in the price of the stock, nothwithstanding that developments of the past year justify a relately higher intrinsic price than any at which the stock ever sold.

Lake Copper has already proved that it will make a mine, and developments now indicate that it will make a large and rich one.

FORMER PRINCESS IS NOW A QUEEN

QUEEN OF BULGARIA.

The queen of Bulgaria was a princess of Reuss Kostritz, one of the smaller principalities of Germany. She married King Ferdinand when he was only a prince, but shortly after Bulgaria declared herself free and he was proclaimed king. His first wife was the daughter of the duke of Parma, and there are four children of that union, who now have Queen Eleonore for a step-mother.

PIONEERS TO HOLD PICNIC

Annual Outing of Old Settlers' Association at Superior Next Wednesday.

Gathering to Be Held at Billings Park — Two Harbors Invited.

The annual picnic of the Old Settlers' Association of the Head of Lake Superior will be held on Wednesday, July 19, at Billings Park, Superior.

All old settlers, their families and friends have been invited to attend. It is expected that all who can conveniently do so will, as on former occasions, bring well filled baskets.

The contents of the baskets may be served in the pavilion or here and there in the shady nooks in the park as the guests may select, upon tables and seats available for the purpose.

Billings park has city water and sanitary conveniences and is situated on St. Louis bay immediately south of the Gitchinadji club and golf grounds and about directly opposite West Duluth. It can be reached by small boats and light launches, but the channel is not deep enough for the regular ferries. The park is accessible to automobiles over well paved streets, via Tower avenue and Twenty-first street.

The best way, however, to go to the park is by street car on the Billings Park line, which furnishes a 20-minute service all day to and from the park. Passengers from Duluth and Superior are transferred to this line without extra charge. The time from any part of Duluth or Superior to Billings Park by street car ranges from thirty to fifty minutes.

People should reach the park not later than 11:30 a. m. to take part in the festivities.

There will be few formalities, beyond short introductory remarks by the president of the society, and possibly three or four 10-minute talks by old settlers in the way of early reminiscences and anecdotes. Sociability among the members will be the rule, and it is expected there will be a large attendance and an enjoyable outing. The Old Settlers' Association of Two Harbors has been invited to attend.

TOOK HIM IN.

Chicago News: "I did hope," said Mrs. Curfew, indignantly, "that one morning would pass without any agents coming to the door, but here you are, with your valise full of sample nutmeg graters or eggbeaters. I declare there's no peace in this world for a poor hard-working woman, and there won't be until the supreme court passes a law that will put all agents in jail.

"My daughter's coming in from the country this evening, to spend a couple of days with me, and I'm trying to get the house fixed up so she won't be ashamed of it, for she moves in high society, being a graduate of a female seminary, although at the present time she's teaching school for $40 a month and boarding with a family of the name of Sparks, and while they do their best to please her Mr. Sparks has certain ways and customs which are annoying to a lady with a fashionable education.

"He drinks his coffee from a saucer and persists in singing 'The Old Oaken Bucket' to the tune of 'The Star Spangled Banner,' and when he has finished eating at the table he always fills his mouth with fine-cut chewing tobacco. But it can be said to his credit that he is terribly set against agents, ever since a stranger came to his house one day in the summer and talked a long rigmarole about the germs in well water which cause typhoid fever and spinal meningitis and lumpy jaw and I don't know what else. The stranger had some sort of fluid that was compounded, he said, by the royal chemist at Berlin, and if you poured a pint of the fluid into a well the germs would all be killed, and the water would be so pure and wholesome that any one drinking it would never be sick, and would live forever, unless somebody shot him, or a brick fell on him, or something like that.

"Mr. Sparks wasn't feeling well at the time, and somebody had told him that the water on the place was bad, and so he bought a gallon or two of the mixture, which cost like everything, the agent saying that it had over forty ingredients, and then I suppose the royal chemist had to have his rake-off, as well as the agent, for that's always the way. Mr. Sparks poured a quart of it into the well, the agent telling him he mustn't use the water for an hour afterward, that being, of course, to give the agent time to get out of range of the family shotgun, for agents are shy, and I don't doubt that if you sold me a fire extinguisher you'd act the same way, fearing that it would explode and set the house afire before you got round the corner.

"Well, what was I saying, anyhow? Oh, yes. Mr. Sparks waited an hour before using the water and then he drank a good big cupful, and my daughter says his contortions were something frightful to witness, and the language he used was simply ridiculous for the father of a family.

"That water tasted as though there was an alum mine at the bottom of the well, and Mr. Sparks' face was so puckered up that all his features were drawn together, and when he tried to pick his teeth he found he was prodding his ear, and he had to open his mouth with a glove stretcher when he wanted to take a chew of tobacco, and it was a week before his ears slid back to their proper places and his eyes got far enough apart to let him use his spectacles. And the worst of it is that the water is just as bad now as it was when the stuff was first put into it, and Mr. Sparks has to carry water from a well a mile away, and my daughter says it's most distressing to be compelled to listen to his remarks at such times.

"I can sympathize with Mr. Sparks, for I have suffered at the hands of agents, so that whenever I see one at the door I feel like a martyr; so you can see for yourself that I have no use for your patent ironing board that may be converted into a calf weaner by pressing a knob just back of the rinky-doodle."

"I am not an agent," said the stranger; "I just stopped to tell you that your cow seems to be choking to death back of the house."

BULL NEWS IN REPORTS

Estimates on Spring Wheat Crop Cause Shorts to Run to Cover.

Market Was Oversold—Southwest Weak—Hedging Sales Heavy.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 15.—Wheat worked upward today after a decline from the opening. The rally started shortly before noon when shorts covered and some buying was occasioned on account of two bullish crop reports. July wheat gained 1c to 98½c. September advanced ½c to 96½c bid. Cash wheat was 2c over September. September durum advanced ½c. Oats lost ⅞c to 46¼c. Rye was unchanged. Corn declined ⅝c to 65¼c. Barley was not quoted.

Linseed was lifeless. July lost 1c to $2.05 bid. September was unchanged at $2.05 bid and October was unchanged at $1.97 bid. Cash was on a parity with July. Reports from North Dakota indicate an improvement in the condition of the crop.

Foreign linseed quotations were lower. Antwerp Plata July-August closed at $2.12⅛, ⅝c off; Buenos Ayres July lost ¼c to $2.02⅜, and London-Calcutta closed at $2.31⅜, 1¾c off.

Foreign quotations generally were lower. The scarcity of the spot article and prospects for light world's shipments caused a firmer tone after the foreign opening, but later the markets across the water weakened in sympathy with a soft Buenos Ayres market. Conditions for the crops in Argentina are excellent. More favorable reports came from Russia and India.

American markets opened weak. In addition to the bearish foreign outlook the weather map was not of speculative interest to the bulls. The temperatures in the Northwest are favorable, but rain is needed in many places to raise the average of the crop in localities where moisture would be a favorable factor in the filling of the wheat.

The Southwestern markets were excessively weak on account of large receipts, which are breaking all records for this period of July. Hedging sales in the Southwestern markets and in Chicago caused a congestion of orders on the short side in connection with the speculative activity of professionals.

Market Oversold.

The market was oversold and was in a receptive condition for an upturn when two bullish spring wheat reports were issued, the first by Inglis and the second by Snow. Whether they can be regarded as accurate is questionable. These crop experts are paid to see the way their employers want them to. Snow, who is fairly reliable when given half a chance, said that the average of winter wheat thrashing is running 15 bu to an acre indicating a crop of 483,000,000 bu. In Kansas, where experts predicted 50,000,000 bu and the grain dealers association forecasted 65,000,000 bu, the yield will run more than 80,000,000 bu. Missouri and Nebraska are turning out good yields. The Southwestern markets felt the effect of this news as well as the heavy selling from the country and large arrivals. The Southwestern markets did not follow the upturn in the Northwest and at Chicago.

The Northwestern markets took the lead in the advance which started shortly before noon. The bulge was occasioned by Snow's report that the condition of North Dakota wheat as of July 10 was 70 per cent and the entire spring wheat crop would be 225,000,000 bu. The report of John Inglis was so bullish as to cause considerable skepticism. He estimated the South Dakota yield at 110,000,000 bu which he probably is about correct. He said, however, that North Dakota would produce only 70,000,000 bu and that Minnesota would raise 60,000,000 bu., a total of 140,000,000 bu for the three states. He declared thrashing results would be highly unsatisfactory both as to quantity and quality.

The Northwest got very little rain. The weather map showed showers in the Devils Lake region and there were scattered rains in Western Minnesota.

The Chicago market followed the Northwest. That market was between two fires—the bearish situation in the Southwest and the bullish activity in the Northwest. The market was so heavily oversold that it was easy for the bulls to start a buying movement that frightened the shorts to cover.

The cash situation in the Northwest was not as strong as yesterday. Purchases were moderate, but the demand was not insistent. The flour trade is fairly steady, although there is very little buying for future needs.

Corn tried to work upward on account of bullish reports from the Southwest, but in the face of the holiday there was considerable realizing. Widespread showers and some fair rains in Nebraska caused the market to ease off at the close.

Statistics on Monday promise to be moderately bullish. It is expected that decreases will be shown in practically all figures.

MARKET GOSSIP

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: At the opening the market was easy, ½@⅝d lower as a result of the weakness in American but this was offset to some extent by the scarcity of contract and there was some covering by shorts on the expectations of light world's shipments this week. During the morning the market again turned weak and declined a further ¼d on the heavy American movement and primary points and the fact that samples of new spring wheat are reported at Minneapolis of excellent quality. Buenos Ayres closed weak under continued favorable weather and crop accounts with reports from Russia that favorable and also India. Spot markets were heavy. Just before the close there was some steadiness with a disposition to cover over the week-end but at this time, prices were ⅜@⅝d lower than yesterday.

John Inglis wired: Counties north from Fargo bordering on Red river show good wheat, but average will make only a moderate crop. Barnesville east through Otter Tail, Douglass, Todd and Stearns counties general condition poor. Whitening up before perfect maturity, cutting commenced. There will be disappointment after thrashing with yields and quality. Oats a light crop. Corn tasselling. Still maintains good healthy appearance.

Kansas City wired: "Corn condition in the Southwest steadily getting worse. The seasonal features of the heat have not been in evidence this week, but there has not been enough rain to maintain seasonable growth. None of the damage already done has been repaired. The chances of improvement are being cut off rapidly as the time passes without sufficient rain. Many farmers kept up hope for improvement, but now the opinion is becoming widespread that the outlook is worse than at first admitted.

B. W. Snow wired: "Snow's special returns under date of July 10, covering every important wheat district in the country, shows winter wheat thrashing well advanced under ideal conditions of weather for harvest work. Thrashing deals are materially above the harvest expectations and the quality of sample is exceptionally good. The average rate of yield developed by thrashing to date is 15.2 bu, making total crop of 483,000,000. The yields in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska are especially large, Kansas showing above 15 bu and making a state crop of over 80,000,000 bu. The condition of spring wheat shows a decline of seven points since July 1, now standing at 69 and indicating a crop of 244,000,000 bu on the old method of figuring or one of 225,000,000 on the new government method. The principal decline is in North Dakota, where conditions dropped from 90 to 70, the result of a better appreciation of the damage inflicted by the hot weather by the end of June.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Tone Steadies on Denial of Bank Loan Calls.

Chicago, July 15.—Denials that there had been any calling of bank loans tended to give the wheat market today a steady tone. In decided contrast with the previous session, trade was not large. Most of the outside news had a bearish cast, and led to some selling on every advance. Ideal weather Northwest and heavy receipts here formed the principal influence against the bulls. The opening was ¼@⅜c lower to ⅜c up. September started at 87⅝c to 88c, the same as last night, to ⅜c higher, fell back to 87⅜c and rallied to 87⅝c.

Subsequently, export sales led to an advance. Estimates of only 140,000,000 bushels total yield in the Dakotas and Minnesota furnished aid. The close, however, was easy with September ¼@⅜c net higher at 87⅝@88c.

Assertions that the damage to the Kansas crop appeared to be largely theoretical took the edge off the corn market. Absence of any moisture worth mentioning, however, made prices prices at first rather stiff. September opened ¼@¼c to ⅜@½c higher at 67¼c to 67½c. A decline to 66⅝c followed.

Afterward rains in Nebraska brought about a little further decline. The close was steady at 66½c for September, a net loss of ⅛@⅜c.

Plentiful offerings of new oats had a weakening effect upon that cereal. Besides, country cash concerns were leading sellers of futures. September started a shade off to ⅛c advance at 47@47⅛c to 47¼c and sagged to 46¾c.

Firmness of hogs helped sustain provisions. Initial sales were 2½c lower to a shade highe, with September delivery $8.37½ for lard and $8.45@8.47½ for ribs. There was but little business in pork.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Demand Unusually Light and Few Brokers on the Floor.

Shading of Prices in Speculative Leaders in Second Hour.

New York, July 15.—The demand for stocks was unusually light in the early trading today, although the market held firm. Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Virginia-Carolina Chemical and Western Union made slight fractional gains.

Slight interest was taken in the market and the attendance on the floor and in commission houses was slim. Fluctuations in the representative stocks were without significance. St. Louis and San Francisco preferred and Western Union were pushed up 1 and Texas company 2½.

The market closed steady. The list dragged its slow length along in the second hour with some shading of prices in the speculative leaders, Union Pacific and Reading selling lower, but changes were insignificant, except for a 1 point rise in Interborough-Metropolitan preferred.

New York, July 15.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 7 points on July, but generally unchanged to 6 points lower in response to lower cables than due, unfavorable trade reports and continued rains in the Southwest. HEAVY VOTE AT ELECTION

Voters Turning Out to Express Choice for School Directors.

Women Showing Uncommonly Keen Interest and Are Casting Votes.

The vote at the annual school election was well above normal in nearly all precincts of the city this morning and the prediction that the heaviest vote in many years would be cast still holds good. Unusual interest has been aroused in this year's election by the vigorous campaign made on behalf of some of the candidates, and as a result the three men elected will owe their choice to a representative vote of the city.

The heavy vote at a school election always comes in the afternoon and evening up to 7 o'clock, at which time the polls close. At 1 o'clock today, fifteen precincts which could be reached by telephone reported a vote of 454. As there are forty-three precincts in the city, the vote at that time through the city must have run close to 1,000, which is nearly the normal vote at a school election for the entire time the polls are open.

The East end district showed the heaviest vote during the morning hours, the Fifth precinct of the First ward, the polling place for which is located in the Endion school, polling the banner vote, 101. The Jefferson school, the Second precinct of the Second ward, reported 51 votes, although in some of the other precincts the vote did not run that high.

Of the small percentage of votes cast this morning, a goodly number were cast by women, who are taking an uncommonly keen interest in the election. It is expected that a heavy vote will be cast by women this afternoon, and the men will also get out in great numbers after office hours.

There are ten candidates for the three places on the board.

The precincts of the city are the same as at the general elections, but there is a difference in the polling places, school buildings being used wherever possible. Following are the polling places:

FUNERAL OF SUPERIOR PIONEER MONDAY.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning for Mrs. A. Fregeau, pioneer Superiorite, who died Thursday evening. The services will be held from St. Frances Xavier Catholic church at 9 a. m. with interment in Nemadji cemetery.

Mrs. Fregeau was 70 years old and had lived in Superior for sixty-one years, coming to the city with her parents in 1854. She died at the family residence, 390 West Third street. Ten children, five sons and five daughters survive her. They are: Mrs. Joseph Coburn, Mrs. T. S. Taylor, Miss Adele Fregeau and Miss Adele Fregeau and Miss Anna Fregeau, all of Superior: Mrs. W. H. Kelley of Joplin, Mo.; Joseph A. Fregeau, James Fregeau and Peter W. Fregeau, all of Superior; Frank E. Fregeau of Duluth and Frederick A. Fregeau of Minneapolis. Car Strikes Auto.

When a Billings Park street car collided with an automobile at the corner of Tower avenue and Winter street yesterday afternoon, the two occupants of the auto were badly shaken up. They were E. F. McCausland of Superior and W. C. Sherwood of Duluth. Mr. Sherwood attempted to jump, and in doing so sustained a cut arm and was injured about the hands and back. Mr. McCausland was uninjured. The damage to the auto was about $50.

New Town Hall.

A new town hall will be erected by the town of Superior, the contract for the building having been let yesterday to Henry Ward for $2,150 by the town board at its meeting yesterday. The building will be erected just outside of the city limits of Superior. It will be 30 by 40 feet and two stories high.

"Owl" Car Service.

The first "owl" car on the Allouez line will leave Belknap street at 2:39 a. m. tomorrow morning and will run to Allouez, reaching there about 3 o'clock. If the patronage is sufficient, another car will be added to the service. In view of the fact that a great number of railroad crew members and dockmen are employed at Allouez, the new service will be greatly appreciated.

Break Into Depot.

Burglars broke into the Northern Pacific depot at the East end last evening, but only took away 50 cents in small change and a few stamps. The entrance was gained by breaking a window. The police were notified this morning, after the agent opened up the place.

NO PERMIT FOR DANCING

But a Roller Rink Near Chester Park Cannot Be Ousted.

Residents Complain—Policeman Needed to Regulate the Crowd.

Considerable indignation has been aroused over the presence of a rink and dancing pavilion at Fourteenth avenue east and Sixth street, that has been in operation for several days. No dancing has been allowed, but it is said that the place has been well patronized with roller skaters, who have disturbed people in the neighborhood after the rink has been closed in the evening.

Inquiry at the office of the city clerk this morning revealed the fact that no license is required to operate a skating rink, but that if there is to be dancing within 300 feet of a park a permit must be secured. There is no ordinance which can stop the operation of the rink, so long as no dancing is allowed.

Many complaints have been made to the police and a special officer has been detailed to see that there are no disturbances after the rink is closed. Mayor Cullum and Alderman Joseph Shartel, president of the council, said this morning that they did not think that a skating rink or a dancing pavilion should be conducted in a residence district similar to that near Chester park. Alderman Shartel said that before the place was opened, the proprietor should have waited until the council had made some disposition of his application to operate a dancing pavilion.

The application was made several weeks ago, and referred to the police and license committee, of which Alderman Charles Hoar is chairman. The committee has been investigating the situation, and up to the last meeting had made no report of any kind. The mayor said that amusement places which are liable to have a demoralizing influence upon children should not be allowed.

RAILROADS

RATES FOR CARNIVAL

Two-Cent Fares From All Minnesota Points to Duluth.

Railroads Hand the Committee Substantial and Unexpected "Boost."

Announcements were made this morning by the officials of the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern and the Soo railroads, that 2-cent fares would be in vogue commencing July 19, and holding good until July 22, from all points in Minnesota to Duluth, returnable until July 24.

This gives the people of this state a rate which will make it a special inducement to them to come to this city to attend the big water carnival, which is to be held here on July 20, 21 and 22. The Commercial club and the water carnival committee, which endeavored to get the fares some time ago, were unsuccessful, it is said, and gave up the idea of securing rates. The announcement which came today, was a great surprise to them, but it is believed will be instrumental in getting many here.

In addition to the 2-cent rate, the companies have made a special rate of $6 for a round trip from the Twin Cities to Duluth during this time.

WILL COST $15,000,000.

Canadian Northern Extension in Canada Will Be Expensive Work.

St. Paul, Minn., July 15.—The Canadian Northern railway contract awarded yesterday for the construction of 550 miles of railway, calls for an expenditure of $15,000,000. The line will extend from Port Arthur, Ont., on the north shore of Lake Superior to Sellwood Junction, just north of Sudbury, Ont.

Next week all cigar dealers will issue a Permit to smoke.

RAINS SUBDUE FOREST FIRES

Conditions in Canada and Michigan Are Much Improved.

Bay City, Mich., July 15.—Conditions in the northern fire country were very much improved today. The rains of Friday afternoon and night have largely subdued the brush fires.

Rains in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., July 15.—Reports from Northern Michigan indicate that there is now no danger of serious damage from the forest fires which have devastated great areas of timber lands, destroyed villages and farm property and rendered homeless hundreds of families during the last few days. Copious rains have fallen in the vicinity of East Tawas, Au Sable and Alpena, and lighter showers at other points in the fire zone. The wind also has decreased and isolated settlements which have been constantly threatened with destruction, are safe.

DREADED CHOLERA IS BEING FOUGHT BACK AT PORT OF NEW YORK

Federal and Local Health Authorities Combine Their Efforts.

Six Deaths Have Occurred Among Passengers on the Moltke.

More Than 500 Persons Are Held Under Close Observation.

Washington, July 17.—The entire public health machinery of the government has been put into motion to fight off the cholera invasion from Europe. All consular reports from Europe bearing on cases at any points are being carefully studied by officials here, and the public health officer at Naples has been instructed to cable a report every five days as to developments in the epidemic that is ravaging Italy.

All ships are being watched here and abroad and special instructions have been issued throughout the service to safeguard this country from the disease.

Six Victims Have Died.

New York, July 17.—The fight to bar cholera from the port of New York continued today with a federal expert helping the local health department. The 248 persons who arrived here two weeks ago on the steamer Moltke and are still under observation will undergo bacteriological examinations, and a more rigid quarantine will be enforced at Swinburne Island, where fifteen cases of

ITALIAN PLEADS UNWRITTEN LAW

Claims Man He Shot During Quarrel Ruined His Home.

New York, July 17.—"He ruined my home," said Giuseppe Romanello today, when arraigned on the charge of killing Alessandro Zarro and mortally wounding Filipo Prosapio.

The shooting occurred in an Italian cafe in Harlem late last night, while thousands of Italians outside were celebrating the annual Festival of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. Zarro and Prosapio were at a table when Romanello entered. An argument with Zarro was followed by gunplay that drove everybody else out of the saloon. Fifteen policemen had all they could do to get Romanello to the police station through an angry crowd of celebrators.

BARON ROSEN IS NOT TO RETURN

New Russian Ambassador to Washington Not Yet Chosen.

St. Petersburg, July 17.—The foreign office today confirmed the report that Baron Rosen would not return to his post as Russian ambassador at Washington. George Bakhmetieff is the nominee now in view for the American mission, but this appointment will await the return in the fall of Foreign Minister Sazanoff, who is now in the Vosges region in search of health.

Bakhmetieff was formerly ambassador to Japan and still earlier minister at The Hague and Russian diplomatic agent in Bulgaria.

Baron Rosen probably will be given a seat in the council of the empire.

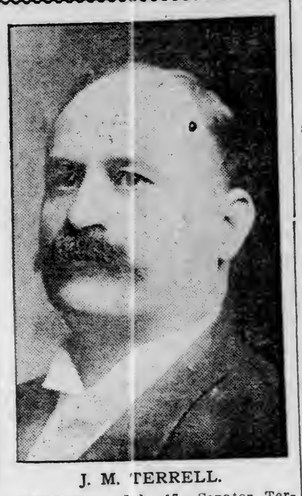

NEW TREATY IN FORCE WITH TOKIO

Clause Containing Immigration Restrictions Not in Present Pact.

Washington, July 17.—The new treaty of commerce and navigation between the United States and Japan went into operation today, replacing the old treaty negotiated during Secretary Gresham's administration. The important point of difference between the two conventions lies in the omission from the new convention of the paragraph relating to immigration restrictions, which was objectionable to the Japanese, the United States relying upon the honor of Japan to carry out the spirit of existing undertakings which prevent the departure of Japanese coolies to America.

There is also provision for the submission of the new Japanese customs tariff for the existing general conventional rates. It happens that a similar treaty which Japan has negotiated with France does not become effective until August 4, and in conformity with an agreement between the United States and Japan, the new tariff rates will not apply to goods imported into Japan from America until that date.

RESIGNS SEAT IN THE SENATE TO HOKE SMITH

J. M. TERRELL.

Washington, July 17.—Senator Terrell of Georgia ceased to be a member of the United States senate at 11:20 a. m. today. Acting upon his telegraphic request to Vice President Sherman this morning, the senate ordered that Mr. Terrell's name be stricken from the roll of the senate, leaving his seat vacant until Governor Hoke Smith qualifies as his successor.

"TRUST" HAS THEM SCARED

Planters and Independent Refiners Afraid of Big Sugar Concern.

Head of Louisiana Growers Testifies Before Congressmen.

Washington, July 17.—That Louisiana sugar planters and independent refiners fear the American Sugar Refining company was declared today by J. E. Burguieres, president of the Louisiana Planters' assocaition, before the house sugar trust committee. He testified that reduction of the sugar tariff would ruin the Louisiana sugar industry.

"I can't get independent refiners to come to Louisiana and bid on our sugars," he said. "They say they will not come into our field, but will buy our sugars if we get them into their market.

"They gave no satisfactory reason therefor, but I made my own deductions—that the independent refiners regard Louisiana as American Sugar Refining company territory and refuse to enter that territory for fear they will precipitate trouble for themselves with the trust. They have stayed away ever since we got into trouble with the trust for selling to outsiders several years ago."

Have No Agreement.

"Do the independents have any agreement to keep away from the territory?" asked Representative Madison.

"I think not. The condition results from a combined fear of the planters to sell away from the trust and of independent refineries to invade what is considered trust territory.

"I predict a crop of 1,000,000 tons of sugar a year in Louisiana and Texas within a few years. If the sugar tariff is cut in half it would immediately annihilate the sugar industry of Louisiana and affect the prosperity of more than 2,000,000 people."

EXECUTED FOR SECOND MURDER

New York Man Is Electrocuted In Record Time at Sing Sing.

Ossining, N. Y., July 17.—Guisseppe Serimarco, who killed two men during his twenty-seven years of life, paid the penalty for one of his deeds today at Sing Sing. One minute's contact of the current left him a corpse. It was the quickest execution since the electric chair was introduced at the state prison.

Serimarco murdered Antony Sido a Mamroneck, a year ago, after quarreling in a dance hall. Five years ago at Peekskill he killed a man, but escaped punishment on a plea of self-defense.

FEAR MOORS WILL ATTACK GERMANS.

Mogador, Morocco, July 17.—The country surrounding Agadir, the point of German intervention, is reported quiet. The commander of the German cruiser Berlin daily lands men to explore the country in the immediate vicinity of the port.

It is feared that the Moorish tribes in the neighborhood will resent the presence of armed Germans prowling about the country and that violent collisions may result.

WAS BACKED BY PETTIT

Grain Man's Money Raised Pretty Manicurist to Stage Star.

Chicago Company's Business Under Control of Committee.

Chicago, Ill., July 17.—Out of the snarl of dark secrets surrounding the tragic death of James Pettit in Lake Michigan and the tangled affairs of the Peavey Grain company, from which he defalcated for more than $1,200,000 has arisen the face of a woman.

This woman, identified by fellow operators on the board of trade as being a pretty, young actress, until recently a member of a company playing in Chicago, is said to have been raised from the lowly position of a manicurist in a big Chicago hotel to a star in the theatrical world at one jump.

"Jim" Pettit's money is said to have brought about the transformation. As late as Thursday before his death, Pettit is said to have been with the young woman. They were together in Austin, where the young woman's mother lives.

A strange coincidence in connection with Pettit's death is that the young woman left the city on the day following her trip to Austin in an automobile with him. She is said to be living now at a near-by summer resort.

When the young woman was "brought out" as a star in the theatrical world, a short time ago, it was announced that she was a beautiful and talented University of Chicago co-ed, whom the theater manager had

JUST PUTS O. K. ON TOGA BUYING

Senator Heyburn So Characterizes Campaign Publicity Bill.

Washington, July 17.—"A law that simply requires a man to report what money he spent to get into the senate virtually indorses his right to buy his election," declared Senator Heyburn of Idaho when the senate took up the campaign publicity bill today.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts declared that the whole purpose of a publicity law is to let the public know exactly what money is spent and how it is handled; that the "theory is that money publicly accounted for is properly spent."

The bill, as it passed the house, requires publicity of campaign expenses not only after the election, as at present, but also during the fifteen days before election. The senate committee proposed amendments that would extend the publicity to primary elections and force candidates to publish their promises to their campaign supporters. Senators Sutherland and Burton secured adoption of an amendment broadening this paragraph so that candidates must report all promises by anyone who had been given authority to act for the candidate.

FIGHT MADE BY GOMPERS

Court's Position in Contempt Cases Attacked in Vain.

Committee of Lawyers Upheld Over Labor Leaders' Protest.

Washington, July 17.—Attacking the jurisdiction of the court and the legality of the proceedings, President Samuel Gompers, Vice President John Mitchell and Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor appeared in the equity branch of the supreme court of the District of Columbia today to resist the latest contempt order issued against them by Justice Wright. The first moves were of a technical nature and were overruled by Justice Wright.

A motion to dismiss on the ground that the service of the order was incomplete was sustained, but when Justice Wright directed the marshal to serve new papers for them the point was waived.

Moved to Dismiss.

Next the defendants moved to dismiss because the report of the committee of lawyers submitted to the court in the case was not a proper one, in that the members of the committee did not and could not exercise the judicial qualities required in the order. It was contended that the members of the committee were counsel for the National Anti-Boycott association, and that the conclusion of the Bucks Stove & Range company case did not stop "their persecution of these defendants, and therefore they were not qualified to pass judgment on the acts of the defendants."

This motion was overruled, the court

JOHN W. GATES GAINS SLOWLY

Sick Financier Is Reported to Have Had Good Night.

Paris, July 17.—John W. Gates, the American financier, who is ill in this city, passed a comfortable night. He continues to gain slowly.

After his second visit today Dr. Gros said that Mr. Gates continued improving, and that while it probably would be some days before the physicians could say that he was out of danger, the condition of the patient justified confident hopes of recovery.

Dr. Pierre Tission, a heart specialist, examined the financier today and said that he had a good heart, which he believed was sufficiently strong to stand the heavy strain placed upon it.

TWO CHURCHES ARE WRECKED BY QUAKE.

Budapest, Hungary, July 17.—There was a recurrence of severe earth shocks in the Kecskemet district, fifty miles southeast of here, from 5 until 7 o'clock this morning. At Kecskemet the towers of the synagogue and the Greek church were wrecked and the walls of a number of buildings were cracked.

Wiehe's Talk on Train Is Recounted at Washington.

Witness Denies W. H. Cook Told Him to "Give 'em Hell!"

Charges Made to Hines Lumber Company Are Gone Into.

Washington, July 17.—The $100,000 legislative "jackpot" about which revolve charges affecting the election of Senator Lorimer figured in the testimony at the opening of today's hearing before the senate Lorimer committee.

William Burgess, manager and treasurer of an electrical company at Duluth, Minn., testified before the Helm investigating committee of the Illinois senate that on a train running out of Duluth, in March, 1911, C. F. Wiehe, who is associated in business with Edward Hines, declared to him that "there was a jackpot raised to elect Mr. Lorimer; I know what I am talking about because I subscribed $10,000 to it myself."

Tells of Wiehe Talk.

Mr. Burgess testified today about this conversation. It was planned also to call Henry Turrish of Duluth before the day's session closed.

Mr. Burgess said that he and Wiehe had not met before that day. They began conversing in the smoking car. Burgess said he made a remark about the Lorimer election, which finally led the stranger, who he said was Wiehe, to remark that Burgess "did not know very damn much about it."

Shortly afterward, according to witness today, Wiehe said:

"There was a jackpot for Lorimer's election. I know what I am talking about, because I subscribed $10,000 to it myself."

"Didn't you think it strange that a perfect stranger should make a con-

McMANIGAL'S WIFE CITED

Must Answer Charge of Contempt for Refusing to Testify.

Claims Detectives Were in Auto That Ran Down Daughter.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 17.—Superior Judge Walter Bordwell will decide today whether Mrs. Ortie E. McManigal, wife of the alleged dynamiter, is in contempt of court and liable to a jail sentence for refusing to testify before the grand jury in the McNamara case. She is cited to show cause why she should not be in contempt of court.

It is believed that acting under advice of counsel for the defense, Mrs. McManigal will remain firm in her refusal to testify before the grand jury. It is maintained by the defense that the district attorney's office possesses no legal right to question the woman, inasmuch as the indictments have been declared legal.

Mrs. McManigal and her children are closely guarded by detectives employed for the defense.

Girl Hurt By Auto.

The condition of Evelyn, the 7-year-old daughter of Mrs. McManigal, who was knocked down by an automobile Saturday night, was greatly improved last night. She suffered slight bruises upon her left shoulder and side.

Mrs. McManigal declares the automobile that injured her daughter contained two Burns detectives, and that the machine was driven rapidly away after the accident without rendering any aid.

BOTH PASTORS ARE "IN BAD"

Hungarian Priests Exchange Pulpits and Find Opposition.

New York, July 17.—An exchange of pastors pleased the congregation of the Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary here no more, apparently, than it did the Hungarian church at South Bend, Ind. Rev. John Froelich, who came here from South Bend to take the place of Rev. Paul Kovacs, is looking today for legal and ecclesiastical authority to remove from the door of St. Stephens a padlock attached by his angry parishioners. Dispatches from South Bend say that Father Kovacs occupied Father Froelich's place there yesterday only after the police had subdued a riot and made several arrests.

Two Men Wanted in St. Louis and Chicago Under Arrest.

St. Louis, Mo., July 17.—Charles Connors and Daniel Callahan, under federal indictment on a charge of robbing a substation postoffice here last April, have been arrested in London, England, according to postoffice inspectors. Detectives who traced Connors and Callahan across the ocean arrested them while they were trying to dispose of diamonds.

Connors and Callahan are also wanted in Chicago on a charge of being two of the five men who obtained $32,000 in diamonds in a daylight robbery of the store of Edward Alberti a few days after the postoffice robbery here.

New York, July 17.—An active campaign against the present conduct of the affairs of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company has been commenced by Charles J. Canda, a large stockholder of the company, who today has addressed letters to all the stockholders, asking them to send their proxies to George Westinghouse of Pittsburg. Mr. Canda asserts that the company is earning dividends and that they should not be withheld from the stockholders. Four new directors to the board are to be chosen at an election on July 28.

"WAR" DECLARED AT SAN FRANCISCO

Maneuvers Begin Preparatory to Attack on the City.

San Francisco, Cal., July 17.—"War" was declared at 12:01 this morning when the maneuvers in which United States troops at the Presidio, nine companies of coast artillery of the California National guard and several naval vessels took part, officially began. The maneuvers will culminate Thursday in an attempt by the gunboat Marblehead and a fleet of tugs towing target to represent a hostile fleet, to pass the fortifications of the Golden Gate and land a force within San Francisco bay.

During the maneuvers exhaustive tests of the wireless telephone will be made and flying machines will be used as scouts.

TO REVISE FRANCHISE

Council Will Reconsider Rights Granted Suburban Traction Company.

Reduction of Wheelage Tax on Motor Trucks Also on Program.

The franchise which was granted to the Suburban Traction company last week, allowing it to run into the city, will go back to the council tonight for reconsideration in order to allow of a few changes which have been suggested by Mayor Cullum. The franchise has not been vetoed and will probably go through in a slightly different form.

The most important alteration will be the fixing of the terminus. As the ordinance now stands this is not definitely stated. It gives the company the right to run down Seventh avenue east to a connection with the tracks of the Duluth Street Railway company. Under this reading the tracks could be built down to Fourth street. It is believed that this might interfere with the proposed Second ward extension of the street car tracks and also with the entrance of other suburban street car lines into the city. Under the proposed change the terminus will be definitely located at Seventh avenue east and Eleventh street, at the junction of the Sundby and Farrel roads. The Suburban Traction company will come in on the former road. It is thought that it will not be a great while before another street car company will be coming into Duluth over the Farrel road. With the terminus at the junction of the two roads, no company would be put to a disadvantage. The street car company has agreed to extend its tracks up as far as Ninth street.

It is thought that the council this evening will take up the matter of reducing the wheelage tax on motor trucks. The owners have complained that they believe the present tax is doing them an injustice.

FRED REYNOLDS, PIONEER DULUTH ATTORNEY, DIES

FRED REYNOLDS.

Fred Reynolds, senior partner of the law firm of Reynolds & McClearn, and one of the oldest and best known of Duluth's attorneys, died at 4 o'clock this morning at St. Luke's hospital, following a three months' illness. He had been suffering from angina pectoris and a complication of other diseases.

Mr. Reynolds was one of the pioneer attorneys in this city and had a large circle of friends. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Gladys Reynolds. His father, Judge Reuben Reynolds of Crookston, who occupied the district bench there for many years, died a number of years ago, and his brother, George Reynolds, who was also a widely known and prominent attorney, died suddenly at St. Cloud a year ago. Two sisters, Mrs. George B. Ellis of Los Angeles, and Mrs. L. D. Daggett of San Antonio, Texas, survive him.

Mr. Reynolds came to Duluth twenty-seven years ago and commenced practice here then. During his residence here he has been a member of the firms of White, Shannon & Reynolds; Schmidt, Reynolds & Mitchell; Mitchell & Reynolds, and Reynolds & McClearn. He was one of the best liked and most respected members of the local bar, and his kindly and thoughtful nature and sterling qualities have endeared him to all of his acquaintances.

Mr. Reynolds was prominent in Masonic circles, and the order will have charge of his funeral. He was also a very prominent Elk and had taken an active interest in the work of the local lodge for many years. He was also a charter member of the Duluth lodge and a past grand exalted ruler.

While the arrangements have not been entirely completed, it is probable that the services will be held from the Masonic temple at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Great confusion followed the accident and it was only with the greatest difficulty that the extent of the disaster could be determined.

Up to this evening the dead had not been identified and it was impossible to learn whethere there are Americans among the victims.

Progress at Pine Island.

Quite a large party from Duluth spent Sunday at Pine Island inspecting the properties of the Vermilion Iron Development company. They report excellent progress being made in development work, the main shaft being now down to a depth of 195 feet. A visit was made to the bottom of the shaft when all four walls for the last twenty feet show a splendid soap rock formation indicating close proximity to the ore.

Mr. Cardle, president of the company, stated that as soon as they reach the 200 foot level they will cross-cut a short distance north to the ore body. He will remain at the mine this week.

This company has made splendid progress having a thoroughly up-to-date plant and a competent crew of men.

PROSPECTS FOR LINSEED

Product Can Be Made Successful Rotation Crop in the Northwest.

Charles H. Thornton Returns From Trip Through Crop Districts.

That linseed can be made a regular crop in the Northwest; that wilt can be eliminated; that careful selection of seed will keep out the canker disease in linseed; that South Dakota has considerably less than half a crop of wheat, barley and oats, and that the Minnesota yield of wheat will not run as high per acre as in 1910, are some of the findings of Charles H. Thornton of Duluth, who has just returned from a trip through South Dakota, North Dakota, a part of Montana and Minnesota.

Mr. Thornton said today:

"I was sent out to the Western country by a small syndicate of linseed oil consumers for the purpose of making a study of conditions that would permit of their forming an opinion as to whether or not linseed was a 'come back' crop, whether the recommended treatment for wilt was a success and to get a line on prospective new areas in the years to come. Incidentally also to get a line on this year's area and conditions. Of course, that report goes to them, although I am at liberty to say that linseed can be made a regular rotation crop, but American crushers need not delude themselves with the idea that it will become so without continued and efficient work on their part, and the price to the farmer has got to remain around or above the present level.

"The treatment for wilt, discovered and recommended by Prof. Bolly, seems to be successful. Prof. Bolly was with me for a week and during that time we came to the conclusion that if all of the conditions he advises, such as regular rotation, flax once in five to seven years, etc., in addition to the formaldehyde treatment were followed, wilt would be unknown.

The canker disease which he first called my attention to is liable to be serious another year. It is prevalent this year in nearly every field giving one the impression that some insect or worm had cut off the plant at the ground, but is really due to a diseased condition existing within the shell of the seed which causes a swelling when the plant comes through the ground and eventually shutting off the sustenance. No remedy has yet been discovered, and until there is, only careful seed selection will keep it out.

"We left Minneapolis on June 12, going west through Minnesota and South Dakota to Ipswich; then back to Aberdeen; up to Jamestown, N. D.; then west to Glendive, Mont., covering the eastern part of the state pretty thoroughly from Baker on the Milwaukee to Plentywood on the Great Northern near the boundary; from Plentywood east to Kenmare; then in a southeasterly course through Minot and Carrington to Fargo, from which point we went back to South Dakota in order to see what changes had occurred.

"At the time we were in South Dakota the wheat crop, as well as oats and barley were going back very rapidly and in spite of the rains that occurred a few days after, they never stopped going back. It is my opinion that South Dakota has considerably less than half a crop of wheat, barley and oats. Corn looked good all the time but needs favorable weather as does the linseed. Wheat in North Dakota at the time of our entry in the state at Ellendale about June 18 looked fine, and we saw no poor wheat until reaching Kenmare on the way back about July 3. From there to Carrington the prospect is very poor and the conclusion is that deterioration was general throughout the central and western parts of the state.

"The Red River valley crop promises very good, but I would not care to make a guess on the size of the total crop at this time. One could almost as intelligently guess on the size of the 1912 crop.

"Minnesota has a very spotted condition and even outside of the poor conditions in the southwestern part of the state, cannot average as much per bushel as in 1910."

FEAR FOR FORT MATACHEWAN.

North Bay, Ont., July 17.—Fears are entertained for the safety of the Hudson Bay post at Fort Matachewan. PARMELEE TO FLY AT GRAND FORKS.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Philip O. Parmelee, an aviator of national reputation and since the retirement of Walter Brookins, the leading man on the Wright squad, will fly at the North Dakota state fair. This news came from Dayton, Ohio, to Secretary Bachelier, with result that the state fair officials are literally hugging themselves with glee. It now develops that Frank Coffyn, who is giving the exhibitions at Winnipeg, will go from there to Brandon and Parmelee will make the North Dakota fair. Parmelee is the man whom Secretary Bachelier wanted because he is known wherever aviation is known as one of the most skillful and daring of all present day bird men.

COWAN'S INJUNCTION NOT MADE PERMANENT.

Williston, N. D., July 17.—Judge Kneeshaw refused to make permanent the injunction granted by Judge Cowan restraining Clerk of Court Stenseth from certifying to the clerk of Nelson county the records of the so-called "pig" cases for trial. The decision of Judge Kneeshaw means that the cases will be tried in the Nelson county court and it is probable that they will be taken up to day.

DULUTH READY FOR ITS CARNIVAL GUESTS

Preparations at the Boat Club Are Rapidly Nearing Completion.

Lighting Display Will Be Most Elaborate—True Holiday Spirit.

To get the right idea of the Duluth Midsummer Water Carnival, it is necessary to journey down to the boat club and watch the work that is being done under the watchful eye of General Superintendent Albert S. Ames.

While uptown the merchants and business men are decorating their stores and the buildings in general, giving Duluth the appearance of a city on dress parade, the work down at the boat club is progressing with even more rapidity.

A crew of sixty men, electricians, scenic decorators, painters, carpenters, and wire stringers are busy getting the huge water court, the myriad strings of lights, the numerous tall masts from which lights will be strung in fantastic display, and other details of the big show ready for the opening Thursday afternoon.

In the past the annual evening of the carnival has been a simple, if beautiful display. The club has been lighted up and some extra lights have been strung around in various places. The decorations in the past have been more effective than elaborate.

This season Duluth's carnival is going to be a richly elaborate exhibition so far as the lighting alone is concerned. The court of light will be an immense square of dazzling glory right in front of the main house, and through this scintillating glare and blink of thousands of lights, will glide in and out the artistically and beautifully decorated canoes and floats, recalling to the imagination of the spectator stories of the glories of Venice on a moonlit evening.

Tower of Light.

Great masts are being strung with wires today. On the far edge of the court of light, right across from the boat house, will be the immense tower of light that will be strung with hundreds of large and small lights, looming up against the dark silhouette of the night in a brilliant blaze of light.

From the tennis court and from the roofs of the main house and the other buildings of the club will be strung the line of light, carrying out the general scheme of lighting that has been mapped out.

In addition there will be an immense number of Japanese lanterns strung from masts and hung from roof and balcony.

The bandstand is all but completed. The long tiers of seats down along the finish line of the race course are completed, and down along the course a tier of bleachers rises on the recently filled in space of the new ball park, where it is expected many visitors will view the races.

This is only the outline of the busy preparations that are being made to care for the thousands that are expected to witness the races.

On Thursday afternoon, the first day of the carnival, there will assemble in the vicinity of the finish line a strange collection of craft comprising the flotilla that will carry vast numbers of interested spectators of the races and water sports.

The officials of the boat club have agreed to take care of about 2,500 spectators. The burden of caring for the large addition to this number is on the shoulders of the city.

All the excursion steamers that ply out of the Duluth harbor will be on duty during the three days of the carnival carrying passengers and giving them advantageous points of view from which to see the races and the water sports. In addition to this arrangement, scows will also be anchored along the finish line, and it is also probable that several large steamers will be converted into temporary grand stands.

Every launch on both sides of the bay will be used during the carnival to convey private parties, tourists and the people of Duluth and Superior up and down the bay, dotting the bay with bright spots of color and giving to the scene the appearance of a Henley event, when hundreds of pleasure craft of all kinds are strewn along the course of the racers.

Really the carnival starts Thursday morning. The events at the boathouse will start that afternoon at 2 o'clock. Up town there will be the cordial welcome to visitors at the Commercial club, and at the downtown bureau of information that has been opened in the office of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad on Superior street.

Work Horse Parade.

The parade of the work horses of the city will furnish one of the interesting events of the opening morning. Some idea of the vast amount of business transacted here by wagon and truck will be given by this parade, a tribute to the industrial activities of the city.

On Thursday afternoon there will be the motor boat races and the carnival of various and novel water sports at the boat club. On Thursday evening comes the beautiful Venetian fete.

On Friday comes the first day of the championship races of the Northwestern International Rowing association. On Friday night will come the spectacular battle of Hampton Roads, preparation for which is going on at the main house and at the old yacht clubhouse.

These miniature imitations of the battle ships that took part in one of the most decisive naval battles ever fought in the history of the world, are being constructed with historic fidelity and under the magnifying glare of thousands of lights the battle will carry the imagination of the spectator back to a certain stirring historical period when the union of the country was most perilously threatened.

During each afternoon and on Thursday and Friday evenings the Third Regiment band will play from the new band stand at the corner of the tennis court.

On Friday night, adding to the features of the naval battle, will be a race between the crews made up of the officers and men of the different divisions of the naval militia. This race will be for the cup that is held annually by the winning crew.

The carnival will be officially closed at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. There will be the dance at the main club house and at Oakta, and the banquet to the oarsmen at the Spalding, but there will be no carnival events on that evening.

In preparation for the caring for visitors every hotel of Duluth has put up extra beds and every boarding house and private house, where roomers will be taken, has been listed by the committee of the Commercial club. Duluth is prepared to open its arms to visitors and will assure them care and comfort and cordial welcome.

Practically every large business house has a small committee of its own, ready to receive visitors and to show them the sights of the city and also to boost Duluth.

There will be a holiday spirit, beginning with Thursday, when Duluth shows itself to visitors far and wide as the ideal summer resort city of the West and will entertain for three gala days those visitors of the heated tropics, who come in search of coolness and recreation.

ST. PAUL, MINN.

NUISANCE IS TERMINATED

For the first time in years the water in Brewery creek is low and the health department is not flooded with complaints of nauseous odors and insanitary conditions.

Last year at this time the creek, which flows through the central and thickly-settled part of the city, was almost dried up. It was in such horrible shape that it had to be flushed several times, and this did not entirely relieve the conditions.

Since that time the health department has required all those who had sewer connections emptying into the creek to discontinue them. Wherever possible they have been run to sanitary sewers. In some instances cess pools have been allowed. But in no case were the sewers allowed to run into the creek. The last place was shut off last week. It was that of a large flat building occupied by several families. The proprietor had been given ample warning, but did not seem able to get any other connection. When nothing was done an inspector from the department sealed up every toilet in the building. A temporary cess pool has been constructed and it is expected that within a short time connections will have been properly made with a sanitary sewer.

The Brewery creek nuisance has been a standing complaint for many years. Some effort was made to abate it, but without the desired success. Only stringent instructions and strict enforcement obtained the desired result.

CITY'S MILK FAIRLY PURE

Health Department's Hot Weather Tests Show Dairymen Are Careful.

Tests Made From Stock Without Notice to Milk Venders.

Tests of the city's milk supply are being made by the city health department during the hot summer months to ascertain its condition as to bacteria.

The milk supply during the warm weather is considered one of the most important features governing the health of the city, particularly as regards infants. Throughout the country the high rate of infant mortality during the summer is ascribed to impure or improperly kept milk.

The tests which have been made thus far have shown a remarkably good state of affairs, according to Health Commissioner Webster. The samples which have been tested have been taken from all parts of the city. Some of them have come from the wagons on the streets and others from the dairies. In no case has the driver or owner had the slightest intimation of the purpose of the inspectors who took the samples.

Not one of them has shown as many as 100,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter. To the layman this may sound like a very large number, but to the scientist the seemingly large figures tell a very different tale. They will also do the same for the layman if he will bear in mind that milk is not considered very poor if it has under 400,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter. Frequently, when it is not kept as it should be, such as being left uncovered or standing in the sun, it is not unusual for as many as 5,000,000 bacteria to be found. And the number runs higher than that.

These tests will be continued throughout the summer. The plan has been adopted in other cities and has been found to be of great assistance to the health officials. Samples of ice cream and ice cream cones will also be analyzed. Thus far these have also been found to come within the requirements of the pure food laws.

INNOCENT WOODCHUCK MISTAKEN FOR BEAR—POLICE ARE CALLED

West Duluth nearly produced a real bear story yesterday. One essential was lacking, however, this being Bruin himself. Had the bear actually been in the story, there would have been enough excitement to the hair-raising incident to make Joel Harris blush with shame forever perpetrating the Uncle Remus stuff on the public.

A story was published in the morning paper stated that a mother bear and her two cubs had actually growled at berry pickers who roamed among the woody patches on the hillside in search of fruit. The chase nearly frightened some of them out of their wits. One of them, holder than the rest, came to the West Duluth police station, and asked permission to shoot Mrs. Bear and her two offsprings. Officer Ek, according to the story, was sent up on the hill with the berry pickers and he gave chase to the bears, driving them out of the city limits.

Officer Ek, the alleged bear chaser, has a different version of the affair. Except that there were no bears on the hillside yesterday, he says that the story is all right. It was a woodchuck, a common groundhog, that gave rise to the bear story. Nels Calamber, a 15-year-old West Duluth boy sighted the innocent spring prophet through a clump of brush and his first impression was that it was a cub bear. Later he had visions of a mother bear and another cub, but before any more hallucinatioss came, he hied himself homeward.

The bear story was told to some neighbors, and a party consisting of Bernard Hokanson, Charles Anderson, R. Calamberg and Miss Myrtle Anderson with Officer Ek of the West Duluth police in the lead, returned to the spot, where the solitary berry picker had encountered the bears.

Nels was the first to sight the groundhog again and with his eyes bulging out, begged the officer to shoot it. The patrolman first laughed at the boy and then saw he was in earnest. The incident ended by the policeman giving the boy a little lesson in natural history, Mr. Ek explaining that the woodchuck belonged to a species of animals known as the Arctomys, while the bear was of the tribe of Ursidae.

WIDOW IS HOMELESS

Mrs. Selma Young Rendered Destitute By Saturday's Fire.

Workmen's Families All Suffer Heavy Losses in Sudden Blaze.

Mrs. Selma Young, a widow with four children, who lost all her possessions with the exception of a bedstead in a fire which late Saturday afternoon burned a portion of the south end of the Merrill & Ring row, will be taken care of temporarily by the Associated Charities. The woman is left destitute by the blaze and her case is said to be very deserving one.

The story of the fire was told in The Herald extra Saturday evening. The blaze forced twenty families to move from the burning building and four families lost everything and with the exception of one, none carried insurance. Had not assistance arrived No. 5 fire company of West Duluth would not have been able to cope with the situation and the whole row would have probably been wiped out as it is regarded as a fire trap.

Frank Spencer, flat 12, sustained a complete loss. He had $300 insurance.

Mrs. Selma Young and family and the families of George Thompson and Earl McKay lost everything. The other occupants of the tenement house moved out of the building and furniture was strewn all along the street for a block.

The building is an old landmark and the loss to the owner, Charles Greves will not be over $1,000, covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy and their baby were enjoying an afternoon's drive on the boulevard, when the horse pulling the rig became frightened and bolted after passing an automobile.

They lost control of the lines and Mr. Murphy jumped out. His wife followed suit but tripped and fell. She is under a doctor's care at her home.

OLIVER URGES MILITARY TRAINING IN SCHOOLS.

Washington, July 17.—Assistant Secretary of War Oliver today dispatched identical letters to the governors of the several states inviting attention to the California law providing for organizations of high school boys to be armed with rifles and trained by instructors from the regular army. In his letter Gen. Oliver makes a strong plea for such state legislation.

CULP CASE GOES TO THE JURY

The case of the United States against Loxley Culp was completed in the federal court this afternoon and placed in the hands of the jury. Culp is charged with perjury, said to have been committed when he was testifying in a land case, tried before the land officials in the land office at Cass Lake.

Culp, while on the stand before the land officials, was asked whether he had ever served a sentence in any prison, and he is reported to have denied having been in prison. Later it was shown that he had been sentenced, and his case was taken before the federal grand jury, which returned a true bill against him.

E. S. Oakley prosecuted the case and E. J. Kenny defended him.

MAGNER, COBB AND NELSON ARE CHOICE OF VOTERS FOR SCHOOL BOARD DIRECTORS

W. E. MAGNER.

E. R. COBB.

ANDREW NELSON.

THE TOTAL VOTE.

W. E. Magner	1,974
E. R. Cobb	1,970
Andrew Nelson	1,551
F. E. Church	1,493
J. J. Moe	969
W. B. Getchell	802
Arthur Krieger	264
G. W. C. Ross	160
C. F. Anderson	126
F. H. Burnett	126
Total vote, 1911	10,072
Total vote, 1910	4,545

With a vote that more than doubled that of last year, and far exceeded the total vote for any previous year, Duluth's school election went off with a rush Saturday. W. E. Magner and E. R. Cobb the retiring directors up for re-election won in a walk with a margin of more than 400 votes over Andrew Nelson who was the third man elected. Frank E. Church gave Nelson a hard run for it, and it was not until the last precinct to report, the fourth precinct of the Seventh ward had reported a total of 121 for Nelson to 20 for Church, that the battle was decided, Nelson winning by a margin of fifty-eight votes.

The returns showed that a large number of the voters decided to favor one man particularly and voted for him alone, W. E. Magner getting the benefit of some of these votes in the First ward, and Andrew Nelson and J. J. Moe receiving a large number of single votes in the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards.

The different sections of the city supported their own candidates loyally, and where the support of the wards was not divided by two candidates or more, nearly all of them carried their respective sections by a good lead. This showed up particularly in the votes for Candidates Moe and Getchell in the Seventh and Eighth wards.

The vote by wards for the last six men in the race was as follows:

First ward: Krelger, 222; Moe, 109; Getchell, 83; Anderson, 10; Ross, 105; Burnett, 21.

Second ward: Kreiger, 78; Moe, 49; Getchell, 45; Anderson, 5; Ross, 33; Burnett, 10.

Third ward: Kreiger, 18; Moe, 49; Getchell, 24; Anderson, 5; Ross, 8; Burnett, 4.

Fourth ward: Kreiger, 32; Moe, 30; Getchell, 99; Anderson, 7; Ross, 10; Burnett, 28.

Fifth ward: Kreiger, 97; Moe, 53; Getchell, 96; Anderson, 7; Ross, 17; Burnett, 6.

Sixth ward: Kreiger, 23; Moe. 230; Getchell, 55; Anderson, 17; Ross, 13; Burnett, 10.

Eighth ward: Kreiger, 146; Moe, 111; Getchell, 277; Anderson, 63; Ross, 50; Burnett, 24.

MOOSE ARE SLAUGHTERED

Meat Is Freely Sold to North Shore Camps, Says Warden.

Made Two Arrests at Grand Marais---Partridges Are Numerous.

"Conditions relative to the preservation of game in Cook county are very bad," said Game Warden Thomas J. Storey this morning. He has just returned from a trip to North Shore points.

The game warden states that at the present rate it will not be many years before the moose, the kings of the Northern Minnesota forests, are exterminated. They are rather plentiful in limited sections and are considered one of the finest prizes which can fall to the lot of the hunter.

Mr. Storey says that the settlers, the fishermen and the operators of lumber camps are slaughtering them. The depletion caused by the settlers would not be so noticable, but when it comes to having professionals knock them down three or four at a time for lumber camps and sawmills, the condition becomes much more serious. He states that a competent warden should be kept in that territory the year around.

At Chicago Bay the game warden caused two arrests. Edward Enerson was arraigned for having moose meat in his possession and I. J. Smith for having killed moose out of season. It is believed that numerous moose have been killed by Smith, and that part of them have been sold to Enerson, who operates a mill in that locality. Both pleaded guilty and paid fines of $50 and costs each. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of several others who have violated the game laws.

The game warden says that it is no great trick to kill moose at this season of the year. He said that he saw three walk away from one lick which he visited. While he was there a big bull moose walked in, almost on top of him. The poachers went so far at this place that they cut a road through two miles of woods in order to be able to get the moose out easily.

Mr. Storey says that partridge hunting should be good this season. In his trips through the woods he has seen numerous coveys of birds. The bird hunting was good last year and according to present indications will be equally as good or better the coming fall.

Asked about the trout fishing on the North Shore he says that many of the streams are almost dry. He explained that the fish have either sought the lake or the headwaters.

WILLIAM BURGESS.

BURGESS AND TURRISH OF DULUTH CALLED AS WITNESS

fession of wholesale corruption to you?" asked Senator Kern.

"I always did. That was the reason I asked who the man was when we got off the train."

Talked With Cook.

On cross-caxination Burgess testified that he was acquainted with W. H. Cook of Duluth, whose versions of conversations with Edward Hines have been disputed by Hines. Burgess said he had talked with Cook about coming to Washington to testify and Cook had merely remarked:

"You'll have a hot time."

"Didn't he say 'Give 'em hell?'" inquired Attorney Hynes.

"He did not."

Spurred by counsel, witness Burgess said there was no ill feeling between the Edward Hines Lumber company and himself over a charge he made to the company about ten years ago for the use of a dam in the Black river. He said he was advised to ask $150 from the Hines concern for the use of the dam, and to take $25 if he could not get more.

Might Have Asked $250.

He was successively asked if he did not ask $250, $1,000 and $2,500, to which he answered that the first figures might have been correct, but as to the last he did not think "it was that bad." He received $75.

Burgess declared Wiehe said $100,000 was raised to elect Lorimer. But after Senator Jones had asked why he did not tell that to the Helm committee, and suggested that he might have gotten the idea from the newspapers subsequently, Burgess told the committee he was not certain whether Wiehe had said a "jackpot" had been raised to elect Lorimer, or whether $100,00 had been raised.

COUNTY BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

Sessions Will Be Held Daily Until First Week in August.

The board of equalization met and organized this morning.

The board is composed of the entire membership of the county board with the county auditor.

It is the duty of the board to listen to those who have complaints on their assessment as fixed by the city board of review.

The men will be in session for the next few weeks. Last year they were in session longer than they expected to be, but it is thought by those who have estimated the work that it can be finished by the latter art of the first week in August.

For corporations and large owners of property who have complaints to make, special days will be set aside and the owners notified as to the time. If they fail to show up it will be taken for granted that there is no complaint.

The semi-annual meeting of the county commissioners has been adjourned until Sept. 6. At the meeting on that date the levy for the coming year will be made.

FIRST FREE HERALD BAND CONCERT ATTRACTS RECORD CROWD TO LINCOLN PARK

LISTENING TO THE MUSIC.

That band concerts in parks are as popular in Duluth and as fully appreciated as in other cities was emphatically demonstrated yesterday afternoon, when the Third Regiment band gave the first concert of the season under the auspices of The Herald.

Fully 20,000 people visited Lincoln park yesterday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 5, to hear that famous band which won the first prize in competition with all the bands of the state. Hundreds came early in the morning and enjoyed their lunches under the trees of this beautiful park.

Owing to the fact that there is no available band stand in the park, the band was forced to locate in the most convenient spot, where it could be surrounded by the big audience. The place was low, and this had the effect of deadening the sound, so that it was not heard all over the park.

But the program of carefully selected pieces was much appreciated, and every number was greeted with hearty applause. In spite of the threatening rain and the light showers that did fall, the crowds remained and enjoyed the music to the fullest extent. The band never played better, and Conductor Jens Flaaten was kept bowing several minutes after each number.

The big attendance at this first concert is sufficient evidence that the people are anxious to have such music in the parks, and the enthusiasm displayed yesterday, being a fair example of what may be expected at other such concerts, is proof enough that money so spent is well spent.

The street railway company carried out its promise of extra car service in a most thorough manner. The fact that the park can be reached from two lines made it easier to handle the crowds, and Manager Warren himself was present to personally supervise the service.

Next Sunday's concert will be at Chester park, Fourteenth avenue east and Fourth street.

THOUSANDS WITNESS DEDICATION OF THE NEW ST. CLEMENT'S CHURCH

THE CROWD WATCHING THE BLESSING OF THE NEW CHURCH.

Catholics of the city turned out en masse to witness the dedication yesterday of the new $60,000 St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. The services were beautiful and impressive, and the event was one which will be remembered for some time by the 4,000 people who sat and heard the Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth, bless the church from the outside, and the 1,500 who filled the church to capacity to listen to the ceremonies attendant to the blessing of the interior and to the dedication sermon.

Pontifical high mass at 10:30 a. m., sung by the Rt. Rev. Peter Engel, abbot of St. John's monastery, opened the day's ceremonies. This was followed by an eloquent sermon delivered by the Rt. Rev. Patrick R. Heffron, bishop of Winona. He congratulated the parishioners for their splendid accomplishment, and then told what the church stood for. The church, he said, was a school for souls. Bishop Heffron was compelled to leave for Winona early in the afternoon and could not be present either at the banquet or at the main dedication exercises in the afternoon.

Bishop McGolrick preached the dedication sermon and blessed the church, immediately after the parade of 600 marching men arrived. The parade started from the courthouse and included most of the Catholic societies of the city. Joseph Bellmeur, P. A. Hughes and James Higgens were marshals. The column was headed by a platoon of police and the Third Regiment band. Next came the Polish Lancers. The Hibernians, Divisions Nos. 1, 4, 6 and 7, were next, and the Polish, French and German societies of the Catholic Order of Foresters followed. The Young Men's Sodality of St. Clement's parish brought up the rear. The line of march was from the courthouse, down Fifth avenue to Superior street, and west on Superior street to Twenty-first and up Twenty-first to Third street.

Church decorated.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated. From the dome of the spacious auditorium were suspended streamers of yellow and white, the papal colors, and of national bunting. The altar with its lighted tapers, the twenty-four little boys clad as torch bearers and the clergy, appropriately robed, offered a fitting background for the ceremonies which followed.

Those who assisted Bishop Heffron at high mass in the morning were: Father Austem, O. S. B., Presbyter assistant; Father Charles, O. S. B., first deacon of honor; Rev. P. Lydon, second deacon of honor; Father Eugene, O. S. B., deacon of mass; Father Adalbert, O. S. B., sub-deason of mass; Father Wilfrid, O. S., and Father Raymond, O. S. B., masters of ceremonies; Father Hyacinth, O. S. B., book bearer; Father Hurley, candle bearer; L. Granger, crozier bearer; E. Westerholm and C. Carroll, acolyths; S. Hauses and A. Nolan, censer bearers.

Banquet in Evening.

A banquet in the evening at 6 o'clock concluded the exercises of the day. Covers were laid for thirty, the dinner being intended for the clergy, the building committee of the church and the heads of the various societies. It was served by the women of the Rosary and Tabernacle societies and other women of the parish. The dinner was a seven-course affair.

Rev. Augustine Brockmeyer, pastor of the church, acted as toastmaster. He had one sentiment, he said, and that was one of gratitude. He said he felt grateful for the help that had been offered and the sacrifices that had been made by his parishioners in erecting the beautiful church. He made special reference to the women of the parish and thanked them for the assistance rendered and he spoke of the school children who walked long distances to school and gave their customary 10 cents car fare to the church building fund. He thanked them. Father Augustine said that the church had cost the parish $60,000, but that he hoped before the end of the year that only $30,000 indebtedness would remain to be wiped out. He said that the parishioners had already begun to look forward to the day when the mortgage might be burned.

Bishop McGolrick who was called upon was in a reminiscent mood and told of his experiences which he had had in building churches and orphan asylums. He said that the erection of the fine new church in St. Clement's parish should be an inspiration for other parishes of the city to build other beautiful structures in the line of schools and church buildings. Abbot Engel, who sang the high mass, was also called upon at the banquet. He congratulated the fathers and the congregation upon the beautiful church and said that the fire which wiped out the old structure two years ago was a blessing in disguise. The new edifice, the parishioners should be reminded, mant many obligations and sacrifices, for it would take years to wipe out the debt.

Rev. D. W. Lynch, pastor of St. James Catholic church of West Duluth, told of the excellent work done by the women of the parish, how it was through cooperation on their part that the new church had become a reality. Duluth, he said was a growing city and the new church which had that day been dedicated was evidence that the Catholics of Duluth were keeping pace with the times. The new church, he declared was a credit to the city and to those who were instrumental in its erection and he hoped that those present would live long to enjoy its beauty, grandeur and magnificence. Father Lee of the Sacred Heart church, Superior, and Patrick Hughes also gave talks during the evening.

Among the out-of-town priests who attended the banquet were: Rev. Charles Cannon of Seattle, Wash.; Rev. P. Lee of Superior; Rev. C. J. Weber of Superior; Rev. Joseph Ciemiuski, Rev. Hyacinth Cismowski and Rev. Adalbert Unruhe of the St. John's Monastary, Collegeville, Minn.; Rev. Eugene Woederhoff, O. S. B. of St. Paul, Rev. P. Degraw, O. F. M.; Rev. N. Lange, O. F. Mr. and Father Gregory of Superior

USED KEROSENE TO START FIRE

West End Woman May Recover From Her Injuries.

Pouring kerosene into the kitchen stove to renew a fire which had gone out, Mrs. Dennis Mealey, 49 years of age, was terribly burned about the head, face, hands and body yesterday morning at her home, 602½ Garfield avenue. She was hurried to St. Mary's hospital.

Mrs. Mealey is in a very serious condition, although it was reported at the hospital that she was slightly improved. She is hovering between life and death.

According to the reports she had prepared breakfast for her husband early in the morning before he left for his work at the Alger-Smith company's mill. Not thinking that any fire was smouldering in the stove she went to start it again with kerosene. The oil flared into her face and set fire to her clothes. The fire was extinguished by other members of the family, who were attracted by her screams.

Beaten By Rowdies.

Mike Sokalski was so badly beaten that he had to be taken to St. Luke's hospital when he tried to drive two drunken men away from his home at Twenty-sixth avenue west and Railroad street early yesterday morning. His face is a mass of bruises and he has an injured hand as the result of a brutal beating. The police are making an investigation of the case.

MYSTERIOUS FATAL EPIDEMIC IN SOUTH.

Asheville, N. C., July 17.—A fatal epidemic prevails in Mitchell county which it is said has heretofore been unknown to medical science and is baffling skilled physicians. The malady manifests itself by small blood spot stains on the tips of the fingers, passing through the arm into the body and resulting in death within a few days. The plague has claimed several victims, one of whom was Dr. F. P. Slagle.

Dr. Charles Buchanan, a leading physican, became afflicted a few days ago and was sent to Johnson City, Tenn., hospital, where his condition is said to be critical.

CARNIVAL WEEK.

This is Carnival Week in Duluth.

The city's housecleaning is done and everything is in readiness to entertain visitors. To encourage their coming, the railroads have kindly granted a rate of 2-cents a mile from all parts of Minnesota to Duluth, and to stimulate their desire to come the carnival committee has arranged to have pretty nearly everybody within reach told about the carnival and about the delicious summer weather that is Duluth's crowning attraction.

All that could be done to make the carnival a success has been done. The program that has been arranged is varied and full. There will be plenty of entertainment to suit the tastes of all redblooded people who like good sports and fine spectacles. The streets are being decorated, and by the opening day of the carnival they will present a very gay appearance.

It is too late, now, to invite Duluths friends to come and help it carry off its elaborate plans successfully, and besides it has been done already so thoroughly that everybody must understand that all are welcome. All that remains is to welcome the incoming guests, to offer them the freedom of the city, and to express the wish that they will enjoy being here half as much as Duluth enjoys having them.

GOOD BUSINESS.

While Wall Street trembles in its corner and remains saturated in gloom and apprehension, the country seems to be keeping right on and doing a very good business. During the fiscal year that ended June 30 all foreign commerce records were broken, the figures mounting to the impressive total of $3,500,000,000, which exceeds the record of the banner year, 1907, by more than $263,000,000. The country's exports shot past the billion-dollar mark for the first time, and imports were exceeded only by last year's. This tremendous business resulted in a trade balance in our favor of more than half a billion. Trade balances are deceptive, but everybody seems agreed that they are good things to have on hand.

Meanwhile the crops, though killed every few days by estimators, are coming along pretty well on the whole, and there seems to be nothing to prevent a widespread feeling of cheer and optimism any time the people want to feel that way.

THRIFT OF ITALIAN IMMIGRANT.

The United States consul to Palermo, Italy, in a recent report to the state department furnishes some interesting if not startling information about the exceeding thrift of Italian emigrants to this country and, in lesser numbers, to South America.

During the years from 1902 to 1908 inclusive 2,366,391 emigrants from Italy came to this hemisphere, mostly to the United States.

Out of this number 1,382,863 returned to their native land after staying a few years. According to figures prepared by the Italian national committee on emigration, the returned emigrants carried home with them more than $700,000,000.

Besides this, Italians still remaining abroad are sending home, every year, nearly a million dollars.

"Thus it appears," says the Chicago Journal in publishing these figures, "that Italy is a gainer, by very large figures, by the visits of her people to this side of the Atlantic."

That view, though a superficial one, will be taken at first glance by many besides the Journal. Perhaps some will work themselves into a state of indignation over it, and demand regulation of immigration to prevent it.

It is a wrong idea, however. This country, not Italy, is the gainer from these visits of the dark-skinned laborers from Italia, those formidable millions to the contrary notwithstanding.

Practically all of the Italians concerned in these figures are laborers. Many Italians become merchants, but these mostly make their homes in this country permanently. Probably 99 per cent are laborers.

During their employment in this country each one, probably, produced wealth amounting to five or six times his wages. All he got was his wages. All he took home with him, or sent home if he remained here, was his wages less his living expenses while here. The other four-fifths or five-sixths of the wealth he produced remained in this country—unless perchance it was squandered in Europe by some of the specially privileged who are in a position to take the cream of the worker's product.

Not to speak of the proportion necessarily left here out of these wages because it was spent in living expenses, every Italian laborer created wealth which went beyond his reach, amounting to at least five times as much as his wages. That major portion he could not take away. America keeps it, and it is still here. So for every dollar Italy gets out of this process of lending us laborers, this country gets at least five. If Italy, in seven years, has taken from us $700,000,000, Italy's laborers have created for us wealth which they could not take away amounting to five times that sum.

Italy is welcome, therefore, to her $700,000,000. It is only reasonable pay for the loan of her laborers, and she ought to be able to do better by keeping them employed at home in creating wealth for herself.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION.

Aside from the fact that very good men were elected—though some very good men weren't and we don't understand that any bad men were running—the best thing about Saturday's school election is the large vote that was cast.

In part that is due probably to the activity of the friends of the candidates; but we like to believe that in a large way, too, it is due to a reviving interest on the part of the public in the most vital and most fundamental of public functions—education.

Saturday's vote was the largest polled at a school election in Duluth in many years, more than 3,000 votes being cast. That doesn't seem so many when it is realized that 20,000 people are eligible to vote, but it seems very creditable when it is remembered that often less than a thousand votes have been cast at this most important of elections.

A SINGER TO THE HEART.

Not many are aware that the recent gift of a site worth $100,000 by James Whitcomb Riley to the schools of Indianapolis is one of the acts of a man who is setting his house in order, preparatory to closing his eyes in that last sleep which knows no waking.

Riley, they say, is dying. No poem has come from his pen for some time, and it is said that none ever will come again. He is slowly reaching the end of the last chapter of his life in his Indiana home, and "Finis" is not far away.

Thousands will mourn this gentle poet's death who never give a thought to poets far greater. By all odds the best loved poet of the West, the reason lies in the appeal which his tender verses made to the heart of humanity. There never was anything complex or abstruse in his poetry. It deals with homely things, things familiar to rich and poor, high and low. He dwelt close to the earth, deep in the heart of the home life of the plain people. He wrote inspired by knowledge of the sweet and sad things that fill the lives of the common people. He is a poet of democracy.

It was such as him that Longfellow had in mind when he wrote:

> Read from some humble poet,
> Whose songs gushed from his heart,
> As showers from the clouds of summer,
> Or tears from the eyelids start.

NEEDS LOOKING INTO.

The San Antonio Light betrays a guilty knowledge of a certain kind that calls for an inquiry into its education and the manner of its attainment. Of course a newspaper is supposed to know about everything, and has sources of information peculiar to itself, and it is quite possible that the Light will be able to establish the fact that it acquired this knowledge in a perfectly innocent manner. However, possession is not only nine points of the law, but strong presumptive evidence; circumstantial, it is true, but nevertheless clear enough to set up a case requiring evidence to remove it.

Alice L. Higgins, a Boston charity worker who is enlisted in a campaign against drunkenness, came out recently with the interesting suggestion that the singing of songs will drive the desire for drink out of mankind. Though it probably is crudely inept to say so, the temptation to remark that on the other hand there is a kind of singing of songs that will drive almost anybody to drink is irresistible. However, the lady's suggestion is serious and earnestly meant, and it deserves a serious hearing.

This the Light refuses to give. It says: "Miss Higgins does not specify who is to do the singing, whether the entire household shall warble hymns of admonition and warning whenever papa grows restless, or whether papa himself shall do the chirping whenever he feels the fit coming on. Neither is the nature of the music indicated. Proceeding on the entirely natural assumption that it must at least be appropriate to the subject in hand, the following list of favorite 'pizens' and their antidotes is offered in the hope that they may be of some slight assistance in rescuing father from the pit that yawns to receive him, especially during the hot spell:

"Whisky straight—'Comin' Through the Rye.'
"Manhattan cocktail—'The Sidewalks of New York.'
"Black and White highball—'Auld Lang Syne.'
"Pousse cafe—'The Star-Spangled Banner.'
"Bubble water—'Champagne Charley is My Name.'
"Creme de Menthe—'The Wearing of the Green.'
"Stone Fence—'Rocky Road to Dublin.'
"Mint julep—'My Old Kentucky Home.'
"New Orleans Fizz—'Way Down South in Dixie.'
"Yvette—'Sweet Violets.'
"Rum—'Father, Dear Father, Come Home With Me Now.'
"Lemon Sour—'In the Gloaming, O, My Darling.'
"An all-night session—'There Will Be One Vacant Chair.'
"Grand chorus—'Wait for the Wagon and We'll All Take a Ride.'"

The idea isn't at all bad, and it may help Miss Higgins out. But several things about it bother us. In the first place, why is "Comin' Through the Rye" any more fitted to straight whisky than "Down in the Cornfield"? Why discriminate against bourbon in that manner? And since most whisky nowadays is made in drugstores or almost anywhere except in distilleries, wouldn't a medley be more appropriate anyway?

But what concerns us more deeply than anything else is how the Light learned the names and natures of all these strange drinks.

THE BEST TEST.

Postal savings banks will be opened the first of the month in four great cities—New York, Chicago, Boston and St. Louis,—and the test of the plan this offers will be far more conclusive than any of the previous developments. If advocates of the plan are right, in a few months the country's monetary circulation will be enriched by large sums of hoarded cash, heretofore kept out of circulation by timid folk who don't trust banks and by people of foreign birth used to the postal bank in their native lands.

It's sad to see the havoc June wrought in crops elsewhere, but comforting to realize that in the country directly tributary to Duluth the outlook is rich with promise.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CALCIUM CHLORIDE ON THE BOULEVARD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

As calcium chloride seems to be so very objectionable to the merchants and housewives at the West end, why not offer enough of it to the park board to make at least one application on the boulevard during the summer.

A DUST CONSUMER.

MOVING PICTURE SHOWS IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Thanking you in advance for space in your paper I wish to express my opinion in regard to Mrs. Starkweather's idea of the moving picture show in the public schools. Our children have but five hours a day in school, therefore I believe we should not fill their minds with anything that might in any way cause them to fall behind in their studies. As to the children going downtown by themselves and hunting their own company I wonder what the parents are for. One thing it will do for the child is to teach him how to spend money. We had better teach them economy, for their own benefit and the benefit of children they may associate with. It also means an extra room in each school for these shows and the next thing it means more taxes with no results for those taxes. In my opinion a better thing for us to do would be to put good practical men in our manual training school so they can teach a trade which will be of some use to the boys in after years.

A. TAXPAYER.

Duluth, July 16.

The Farmers Speaking Up.

Chicago Tribune: It is good news that farmers are making an effective demonstration at Washington in favor of the parcels post. A dispatch from the capital reports that members of the sub-committee of the committee on postoffices and postroads, now holding hearings, are surprised at the strength of the demand. We believe this demand will grow steadily.

Meantime the rural retail merchants are being rallied in the opposition. They are on the wrong side. Not only are they opposing an inevitable movement for the better organization of commerce and the improvement of conditions of farm life, but they are opposing a direct benefit to themselves.

The small local dealer, if he keeps a stock suited to the needs of his community, and if he displays it attractively, will always retain his place. People like to see goods. They like to trade. There is much buying that cannot be anticipated. Human nature is almost altogether in favor of the local dealer, and it is the present system that puts barriers between the dealer and his trade.

A parcels post will provide the small rural dealer and his customers the cheapest and most reliable of delivery systems. It will make it much easier for them to deal, which will more than offset any advantage the catalogue houses may gain by the service.

It is a pity these questions cannot be debated between the dealers and farmers' associations. That would clear the air a good deal—and make friends for the parcels post.

The German Postal System.

William C. Dreher in the Atlantic: With its admirable package-post, the German system does all the business that we leave to our express companies, and does it much more cheaply. A package weighing eleven pounds is carried to any point in the empire for 12 cents, and corresponding cheapness is maintained to the maximum weight of 112 pounds. This cheap service is used in a thousand ways that would seem novel to Americans. Many families in Berlin receive weekly packages of meat and other supplies from distant parts of the country, where prices are low; special shops in the big cities do an enormous package trade; army officers often send home their linen by post to be laundered, and the summer tourist, wanting to do a part of his itinerary afoot, sends his baggage by post to any desired point. The postoffice also has a monopoly of the telegraphs and telephones, and supplies a cheap service with both. A charge of only 12 cents is made for delivering a ten-word telegram in any part of the country; transmission seldom requires as long as two hours, and usually much less. Even small towns have long distance telephone connection, and the German telephone system also communicates with many foreign cities.

A Cheap Milk Refrigerator.

The Survey: If milk is not kept cold it is a dangerous food for babies, for every minute that it is much above the temperature of ice the germs of disease increase in it at an alarming rate. Very many babies die of summer complaint merely because their milk has been allowed to stand for hours in a warm room.

Many are unable to buy enough ice in summer to preserve milk in ordinary refrigerators for twenty-four hours. Most mothers, however, buy a 5 or 10-cent cake every morning and by following the suggestion of Dr. Alfred F. Hess can make at home at small cost an excellent milk refrigerator that requires only a very little ice.

"Obtain a box from the grocer; any wooden box a foot in depth will answer the purpose. Buy a tin pail with a cover, one deep enough to hold a quart bottle of milk and a slightly larger pail without a cover. Place one inside the other, and stand them in the center of the box. Now pack sawdust or excelsior beneath and all about them to keep the heat from getting in; complete the refrigerator by nailing about fifty layers of newspapers to the under surface of the box cover.

"The refrigerator is now ready for use. In the morning as soon as the milk is received it should be placed in the pail and 5 cents' worth of ice should be cracked and placed about the milk bottle. The cover should be replaced on the can and the lid on the wooden box. Every morning the melted ice should be poured off."

A full description of the box may be had by addressing Dr. Alfred F. Hess, Department of Health, New York city.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Better stay if you can't pay as you go.

Shooting Relics.

Youngstown Telegram: While in Chattanooga a few weeks ago a local man noticed an old colored man who carried his right arm in a sling.

"What is the matter, uncle?" he asked. "Is your arm broken?"

"No sah," grinned the old man, "it's jes' gun sore."

"Been hunting?"

"No, sah. Ah been shootin' trees."

"Then you'll have to elucidate."

ALL ABOUT GOV. EBERHART.

Different, Indeed.

Walker Pilot: Taft says it's either reciprocity or an extra session. How different from the governor of Minnesota.

Wrong Place to Look Anyway.

Eveleth News: Could it be possible that Governor Eberhart had just come from the Great Northern general office when he declared that he could not find any one who wants an extra session of the legislature to raise the gross earnings tax on railroads?

Intimations.

Mankato Free Press: The Chisholm Tribune - Herald charges Governor Eberhart with having an affection for cheap pyrotechnics without making good. Is this an intimation that the governor is a weak-backed skyrocket?

Nobody Seems Surprised.

Albert Lea Standard: Governor Eberhart says he will not call an extra session of the legislature to provide remedies for the iniquities of higher railroad fares and freight rates. This is what might be expected of a governor of his caliber and conscience. He even lacks the "deportment" to be modest and ashamed of himself.

Could Be Spared.

Fergus Falls Journal: There is evidently no truth in the report that the reason that Governor Eberhart will not call an extra session of the legislature is because it would necessitate his remaining in his office. He could still continue his travels and speechmaking.

"See You Later."

Cass Lake Times: "St. Cloud Times: Governor Eberhart ridicules the idea of an extra session to increase railroad tax, but intimates that he stands pat on the Whittier case. The first means $2,000,000 to the state—the second the chastisement of an official."

And the people ridicule Eberhart who is bound to protect the railroads or lose his job. S. Y. L., Mr. Eberhart!

Hard of Hearing.

Perham Enterprise: Governor Eberhart claims that he has heard nothing of the proposition to call an extra session of the legislature to increase the gross earnings tax on railroads. Of course he hasn't! Being the "errand boy of the Great Northern railroad," he can only hear "his master's voice."

No Relief In Sight.

Nashwauk Herald: The 3-cent fare is now charged, the rate going into effect on the first of July. And as long as the state is governed by a man like Eberhart, the traveling public cannot expect relief.

The People Haven't Forgotten.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Even if Governor Eberhart has forgotten his Brainerd speech the people haven't.

It's For Them to Say.

Cass Lake Times: "Sauk Center Herald: The powers behind the governor of Minnesota have certainly determined to renominate him. Will the people have anything to say about it?"

Have anything to say? Sure thing; and their sayings won't be cheerful reading for the governor either.

He'd Seen It Before.

In a "Touring Europe" party was a member named McCarty,
Who had never been away from home before;
And though all his prior travel had been on the country gravel,
Yet to him the whole trip seemed an awful bore.
At last one day we asked him, and in manner gentle tasked him,
To inform us why the journey seemed so slow;
Then he gave this explanation, to our mighty consternation:
"I have seen it at the moving-picture show."

Well, we showed him every wonder, but he treated us like dunder-
Heads, he constantly felt more and more ennui;
What we thought must sure impress him only managed to distress him,
And he rested while we raved about Paree.
Up the highest Alps we took him, but emotion never shook him
As he gazed ten thousand feet to depths below;
And he said (it was heartrending, as on ropes we were descending):
"I have seen it at the moving-picture show."

Once some brigands bold entrapped us, took our coin, and then kidnaped us,
And at point of knives were leading us away,
When McCarty, little hero, grabbed a gun and cool as Nero
Plugged the low-browed scoundrels a la U. S. A.
Then we wrung his hand and kissed him, but our gratitude all missed him;
"Why," said he, "that's very common, don't you know.
In at least a dozen cities, and with phonographic ditties,
I have seen it at the moving-picture show."

So we gave it up, despairing, for the effort was too wearing.
And we figured that we'd all be old and gray
Ere we found, within earth's borders, anything those film-recorders
Couldn't show him for a nickel every day.
And if e'er the pearly portal opens to this pampered mortal,
As I trust it will when he is done below,
I believe he'll tell St. Peter, the alleged official greeter:
"I have seen it at the moving-picture show!"

—James Arthur Mills in Puck.

Recipe for a Revolution.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Cuba, according to the alarmists and the annexationists, is on the eve of another revolution and another intervention by the United States, this time for keeps. Consider the evidence and be convinced, if you can. The politicans in Havana are gathering in groups and talking in low voices in the cafes and at the street corners. Allegations are made that President Gomez and his administration have made millions out of graft. And the political opponents of the government party insist that a revolution is imminent. What other proof is needed, except perhaps a handful or patriots reported taking to the woods.

Yet precisely the same conditions exist in the United States. We, too, are looking forward to a presidential election next year. The politicans are gathering in groups and talking in the bars and at the street corners and other places, some in low voices and more in loud voices. Allegations or insinuations of graft and favoritism are being made in matters involving millions and being duly exploited by resolutions of inquiry in house and senate or by congressional investigation. And the politcal opponents of the administration are convinced that nothing short of a revolution can save the country. But here, too, nobody has taken to the woods and as not even the Japs are threatening to intervene to save us from ourselves we will probably pull through as we always have done. Why not give the Cubans an equal show? They have had three years of peace and prosperity under the administration of Gomez and are doing as well as can be expected. This thing of exploiting the incidents of a political campaign that pass unnoticed at home, as sure signs of a revolution in Cuba is tiresome and absurd.

He Had Read Romeo.

Philadelphia Times: She was very literary, and he was not.

He had spent a harrowing evening discussing authors of whom he knew nothing, and their books, of which he knew less.

Presently the maiden asked archly: "Of course, you've read 'Romeo and Juliet?'"

He floundered helplessly for a moment and then, having a brilliant thought, blurted out, happily:

"I've—I've read Romeo!"

W. H. Jennings of Davenport, Iowa, is spending a week with his friend, E. L. Whittington.

H. J. Hatch, who has just graduated from the University of Michigan, arrived on the India yesterday to take a position with Patton & Frank. He is an old friend of S. S. Bradley.

Attorney C. C. Cochran, who used to live in Duluth, is here on a short visit. He now resides in Bristol, Tenn.

Rev. J. O. Miller of York, Pa., pastor of the German Reformed church, is in Duluth on his way home from attending the Y. P. S. C. E. convention at Minneapolis, and is the guest of J. L. Owens.

An explosion occurred yesterday at the station of the Duluth Electric Light & Power company, Michigan street and First avenue west, which caused probably fatal injuries to Louis Huber, a Hungarian, 28 years of age, who was employed as a fireman. John Garhart and Huber were getting one of the boilers ready for use. They were on top and Huber had stepped down into the manhole to lift out the iron cover. By so doing he allowed certain gases to escape and these were ignited by a candle, causing an explosion.

About $1,500 was transferred last night from Superior sports to the pockets of St. Paul and Duluth men, and all because a put-up job failed to be put hard enough. A foot race was arranged. Superior, having a professional runner named Collins, offered to match him against any man in Duluth, believing Duluth would not know he was an adept. He, however, gave the Superior sports "the double cross" and let Harry McIlvaine of Duluth, an amateur, defeat him easily. Now the Superior police are looking for Collins, but he and his backers have skipped.

A number of Alliance people met last evening to select candidates for the vacant positions on the board of education. They chose Simon Clark and J. P. Johnson of Duluth and H. Ingersoll and C. B. Garrison of West Duluth.

At the annual session of the grand lodge, Select Knights, A. O. U. W., Thomas McGill of Duluth was elected grand vice commander. It was decided to hold the next annual meeting in Duluth.

Rev. C. H. Johnson of Pierre, S. D., a former resident of West Duluth, is visiting friends in the city.

A new corporation, the Swedish Free Press Publishing company, was organized last evening with a capital stock of $10,000. The directors are John Williams, president; William Carlson, vice president and treasurer; C. G. Nelson, secretary. Additional members are John Brand and H. Gilmark of Tower. Per Larka will be editor of the Free Press, which will become the official organ of the Scandinavian Mutual Benefit Association of America.

THE IMPENDING ISSUE.

The Outlook: Mr. Carnegie is reported by the press to have said: "There can be only one result of all this agitation, and that is that the court of commerce will have access to all papers of industrial companies and fix prices liberal and fair to the atual capital invested and fair to the consumer. To this complexion must it come at length." Commenting on this statement, the New York World says: "The purpose of the people embodied in the anti-trust law is, not the regulation of monopolies by the court of commerce or any other authority, but their destruction and prevention by legal prohibition and penalties. The complexion' to which we are coming by process of law is the restoration of competition which will combine the preservation of freedom of commerce with individual right of contract and personal responsibility under the laws."

These two quotations present very clearly the issue which, as we said last week, we hope, and we think, will be presented to the people of the United States in the election of 1912. It is not probable that the issue will be presented as clearly in the platforms of the political parties as in these two quotations, but we hope that the tendency of the two political parties will be sufficiently clear to be understood by the people. The issue is, in a sentence, between the disorganization of industry and the governmental control of organized industry.

We do not believe that we shall go back to unorganized industry and free competition. Over a century ago Stephenson said: "Where combination is possible, competition is impossible." The increasing intelligence and the increasing self-control of the people is making combination possible where before it was impossible. It is therefore making competition impossible where before it was possible. Insane men cannot combine. Therefore a score of insane men can be controlled by one or two keepers. Unintelligent and undeveloped men cannot combine. Therefore a whole community may be kept under the despotic control of a small oligarchy. If the peasants of Russia could combine, they could very quickly overturn the Russian bureaucracy.

In America we have reached a moral and intellectual stage in which combination is possible; hence labor unions, which are a combination of hand-workers; hence great corporations, which are a combination of brain-workers. These combinations it is not possible to destroy without destroying civilization. The remedy for the evils of organization is better organization. The remedy for the evils of trade-unionism and capitalism is a combination of hand-workers and brain-workers under the regulative control of a still greater organization, namely, the nation.

The Outlook agrees with Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Gary. There can be only one result of all this agitation, and that is, that a bureau of the government (not, however, the court of commerce) will have access to all papers of industrial companies which tend to monopoly, and will be authorized to fix prices liberal and fair to the actual capital invested and fair to the consumer.

One Detail Omitted.

Youth's Companion: Notwithstanding all the complaints about the carelessness of the ordinary waiter and all the jokes about the magnificence of the head waiter, everyone knows that the business of the "poor knight of the napkin" is not an easy one. At any rate, in a story told by Seymour Hicks of a New York restaurant, one must be glad that the waiter finally got his "innings."

Once, sitting in my usual corner at this restaurant, I heard a much harassed waiter score heavily off a tiresome customer who was ordering oysters. The conversation that took place was the following—the wretched waiter turning to go and execute the order and being brought back each time:

"Say, waiter, I want a dozen blue-points."

"Yes, sir."

"Steamed, you know."

"Yes, sir."

"O waiter, you'll see that they're not done too much."

"No, sir."

"Oh, and waiter—"

"Yes, sir."

"Will you see that they put just a squeeze of lemon in each shell?"

"Yes, sir."

"Oh, and waiter, just the smallest amount of butter over them when you serve them."

"Yes, sir."

"And waiter—"

"Yes, sir."

"Don't forget the pepper and salt."

This last remark was too much for the poor knight of the napkin. Turning back again, of his own free will, he said:

"And, sir—"

"Well?" answered the customer.

"Would you like them with or without?"

"With or without what?"

"Pearls, sir," said the waiter, and disappeared.

The Cares of Business.

Boston Globe: The old storekeeper down in the country, who gave up keeping Turkey red because the women insisted on buying all he had as fast as he got it, must be related to the New Hampshire merchant.

There was nothing he liked so well to do as to lie back in an old armchair on the elm shaded porch of his store and whittle a green willow stick. One very hot afternoon, just as he got his jackknife out, a boy appeared on the scene with a gallon jug.

"Can I get a gallon of molasses?" he inquired.

"O hum!" growled the storekeeper, showing considerable temper. "Confound it! Nobody else in town's got molasses to sell but me, I suppose." With this stinging rebuke he went in and filled the jug.

What, Indeed!

Indianapolis News: And now the Democrats propose to help the president again by including the amendment to the pure food law, suggested by him, in their legislative program for the extra session. Sometimes one wonders what would have become of the Taft administration if the Democrats hadn't been so successful at the last election.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

The little boy regarded the pictures of the harem skirt with startling eyeballs.

"Does it mean that I am to have twice as many trousers cut down for me?" he shrieked.

Ryter—I'm afraid if I sent it out the thirteenth time it might come back.

"Aw, let the woman alone," said one of two 'rah 'rah lads one seat back, "that's the class yell."

Harper's Bazar: "Mrs. Perry had a horrid time with the custom-house officers on her return from London."

"In what way?"

Boston Transcript: Burrows — Can you help me out, old chap? I am in a hole again.

Baxter—Say! What the dickens are you, anyway, a man or a woodchuck?

Boston Transcript: Gibbs—That remark you blurted out at the party last night was in dreadfully poor taste. How did you come to make it?

Dibbs—Well, you see, there was a gap in the conversation and I clumsily put my foot in it.

Puck: Positive Wife—John, why do you talk in your sleep? Have you any idea?

Negative Husband—So as not to forget how, I suppose. It's the only chance I get!

Puck: Thief (who has snatched a lady's bag)—Two transfers, a powder puff, a recipe for headwash and a sample o' silk! An' I ran two miles wid it! I'm agin votes fer women!

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Even if a man has good sense it doesn't cut much of a figure in a love affair.

A woman never considers her photograph a good likeness unless it looks as she would like to look.

We seek a lawyer to protect us from our neighbors and a doctor to protect us from ourselves.

All things may come to a man who waits—provided he doesn't wait in the path of an automobile.

Once in a great while you meet a woman who understands men, but she is too busy manipulating the strings to say anything about it.

STORES WILL REMAIN OPEN

Effort to Establish Thursday Half Holiday Falls Through.

Grocers Will First Enforce the Sunday Closing Law.

All grocery stores and meat shops are now open on Thursday afternoons as formerly.

The agreement between the different firms in the city has been declared off and the movement for an afternoon off for employes has fallen through.

Grocers are now going to devote their time and energy in working against those who keep their stores open on Sunday. They claim that this is more important than the Thursday afternoon off. It is claimed that in Duluth there are 100 grocery stores open on Sunday in violation of the law. The grocers state that the fight for Sunday closing should be won before attempting the Thursday half holiday.

The mid-week closing for the benefit of the retail clerks fell through for several reasons. It was found to be a detriment to trade in what was generally recognized as a "lean" year and several of the stores refused to sign the agreement, and kept their stores open.

Another reason was that it interfered with business, broke up the week and the loss on perishable goods was great. Another reason as stated by a local groceryman this morning, was that July and August are the two largest business months in the year and as trade has been dull they claim that they can ill afford to lose the time.

Save yourself trouble and get a Permit to smoke.

RETURNS FROM COAST TRIP

R. Hoch of the Duluth Brewing & Malting company has returned from a trip to the Pacific coast, going out by Omaha and Salt Lake City and returning by San Francisco, Portland, Vancouver, Winnipeg and International Falls. Mr. Hoch reports a delightful trip and tells of meeting former Duluthians in all the Western cities. Business conditions, he says, are poor in much of the West, but good in Portland, Or., which he thinks is running a close second to Duluth as the best city in the country. The future of Duluth, he thinks, is much brighter than that of the Western cities.

FOUND ROLL IN HER ROOM

Colored Women Steal Savings of Lifetime From Friend.

Bills Discovered Under Carpet in Room of One Suspect.

Sobra Brassel and Josephine Stevens, both colored, were arrested Saturday afternoon for stealing $805 from Grant Brassel, also colored and a brother-in-law of the Brassel woman.

The money represented the savings of almost a life time and Brassel had it hoarded in a trunk in the building in which he is employed as janitor. His sister-in-law was working in the same place. In a burst of confidence he told her of his wealth and of the provision which he had made for a "rainy day."

Several days ago the Stevens woman came to the city. The Brassel woman became friendly with her and told her of the store of cash in Grant Brassel's trunk. Together it is claimed that they conspired to get possession of it. When Grant was in another part of the building it is said that they removed it from the trunk, carrying it without loss of time to the room which the Stevens woman had secured in the frame shack at 219 East Superior street.

The next day Grant, who kept close track of his fortune, missed the alluring roll of bank notes from his trunk. At top speed he hastened to the police station.

Informing the officers of the circumstances, including a suspicion of his sister-in-law and her friend, Detective Irvine and Toewe placed them under arrest. For hours they refused to admit that they had taken the money. The Stevens woman's room was searched. Not a trace of the money could be found. Later another search was made of the room and the greenbacks were found secreted under the carpet. The pile was $50 short, which the woman had spent for finery. This they replaced from money of their own, and the whole $805 will be returned to Grant. Temporarily it will remain in the hands of the authorities to be used as evidence if necessary. Neither of the women was arraigned in police court this morning. Both are charged with grand larceny in the first degree.

TRIAL POSTPONED FOR THE CARNIVAL

Case in Which Decorators Are Witnesses Is Put Over.

Charles Cornell, arrested on a warrant charging him with the theft of two pocket knives from the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, pleaded not guilty in police court this morning. His trial was set for Thursday morning. He is a decorator and has been working with the crew which has been making ready for the big water carnival.

The trial was set late in order that the work might not be delayed. It was stated this morning that practically all the witnesses will be men who are doing the decorating work, and that to bring them into court might seriously interfere with the carnival arrangements.

KICK ON NEW DUST LAYER

City Officials Hear Many Complaints Against Calcium Chloride.

Damage to Floors, Carpets and Gowns Laid to Chemical.

Complaints are coming from all parts of the city against the use of Solvay calcium chloride on Duluth streets. They are being made to the board of public works, the city engineer the police department, the mayor and the newspapers.

Practically all of them claim that the new dust laying preparation is "no good." Further they declare, in most emphatic terms, that it is a very decided nuisance. It is alleged that it is dirty; that it sticks to the shoes and spoils floors and carpets; that it ruins gowns, some of them very costly, and that it is injurious to shade trees and grass.

The board of public works is divided in its opinion. Some of the officials of that department believe that if the chloride is given a fair trial it will do all that it is claimed for it; others are of the opinion that it has been given a sufficient trial and has not proved satisfactory. They are in favor of going back to the old sprinkling system.

Asked what he though of the situation Mayor Cullum said that he was unable to state whether or not the chloride is a success. He said that he had received many "kicks" against its continued use. But in view of what has been said for the preparation in other cities, he thought that the public should be patient, and give it a fair trial. He said that it might not have been spread properly, or under the right conditions, and that with a little experience the board might find that it would fill the bill.

Henry Cleveland, secretary of the park board, scouted the idea that the chloride would be injurious to trees or grass. He said that it was largely salt, and that while it might temporarily appear to hurt the grass, it would cause it to come up again thicker than before. He said that the experiments of the park board a year ago had shown that it was a success, at least as far as the parks were concerned. He suggested that it is hardly reasonable to expect the chloride to lay dust when it is spread on top of a layer of dust a couple of inches deep. He explained that it would form a dustless coating on top, but that when traffic came on it, the coating would break, allowing the dust underneath to escape and make the condition as bad as it ever was.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, July 17.—The mills of the steel companies are again operating close to 70 per cent of capacity, and a further gain is probable during the week. Necessities for the railroads to place numerous small orders for bridges which call for a larger tonnage of steel were noticeable.

The principal orders last week came from the Soo line, 3,500 tons, and from the Chicago & Alton, 4,000 tons, but small orders were placed by the New York Central and other Eastern and Southern roads, which are still in the market. It is estimated that railroad work, including terminals in Kansas City, now pending, call for about 25,000 tons of structural steel, all of which will be closed this month. On the other hand, orders for other equipment are being delayed.

Rail contracts placed last week aggregated only 20,000 tons, less than 2,000 cars and only 22 locomotives were ordered, but contracts are pending for 200,000 tons of rails, including 28,000 tons for export and 10,300 cars and 25 locomotives are under negotiation.

A feature of the structural trade is the many small orders being placed in all sections, but several large orders were also placed last week, including 6,400 tons for the Rand-McNally building in Chicago, 3,500 tons for a hotel in Los Angeles, 1,500 tons for a brewery in New York and 2,500 tons for two buildings in Argentina.

Bids will be taken this week for structural work in Panama and the Philippines.

Of the 247,871 tons increase in unfilled orders in June, reported by the Steel corporation, about half was due to increased orders and the other half to decreased shipments, but the distribution of wire products in June was record-breaking.

There is more activity in pig iron, contracts placed aggregating 100,000 tons, including 17,000 tons of basic and 20,000 tons of foundry iron in the Eastern territory. There was even greater activity in the Central West.

BOUGHT BY ROYAL MAIL.

Lamport Holt and Shire Lines of Steamships Change Owners.

London, July 17.—A cable from the Central News, Ltd., of London officially announced that the Royal Mail Steam Packet company, will acquire the Lamport Holt line of steamships. For this purpose a new company has been formed with a capital of $10,000,000. Sir Owen Phillips has been elected president of the corporation just organized, with Lord Pirie as first vice president.

That vast extension of their service is contemplated by the Royal Mail is widened by their recent actions. In addition to the purchase of the Lamport Holt line, the Royal Mail has just come into sole possession of the Shire line of steamships. The Royal Mail formerly held half of the stock of that line, and according to cable advices received, the company just acquired the remaining stock held by J. and J. Brocklebank, at an approximate price of $125,000.

FATHER DROWNS TRYING TO RESCUE CHILDREN.

St. Louis, Mo., July 17.—Frank Duclervelle, 41 years old, drowned Sunday with his son and daughter, Thomas and Mary, 9 and 13 years old respectively, while a crowd on the Mississippi river bank restrained the wife and mother, who tried to leap in after the struggling trio.

Mrs. Duclervelle, with the children, joined her husband at his post shortly after noon. While the parents ate luncheon on the river bank, the children were allowed to sit in a skiff. The boy, unmindful of the father's caution to remain seated, stood up in the boat and overturned it.

The father dived in where the children were seen to go down, and reappeared on the surface for an instant with one of the children in each arm, but thus handicapped was unable to swim with them and was drowned before others who sought to aid them could get to them.

Trial Marriages in Vogue.

The Eskimos, according to Peary, make an institution of trial marriages. If a young man and woman are not suited with each other they try again and sometimes several times ,but when they find mates suitable, the marriage is generally permanent. If two men want the same girl, they settle the matter by a trial of strength. The girl has nothing to say. It is not a trial of strength for the supremacy of golden grain belt beers, which are noted for their mild uniformity, perfect purity, and tonic and digestive value. Order of dealer or duluth branch of minneapolis brewing company.

MAN AND WOMAN FOUND DYING OF SLASHES.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 17.—Found lying together in a pool of blood and with a keen-edged knife beside them, Mrs. Mary Walker and John Toney were removed early Sunday morning from the woman's home to a hospital, where their condition is critical. The authorities are working on the theory that they sought to die together. Pending investigation, a man who admits being with them Saturday night is under arrest.

PICNIC ENDS CONVENTION

National Meeting of Norwegian Singers Comes to a Close.

Members Will Attend Norway's Independence Centennial in a Body.

An address of welcome by Mayor Cullum to which L. P. Christianson of Fargo responded, opened the national convention of the Norwegian Singers association held at the Commercial club Saturday. Forty-three delegates, most of them from the Northwestern states were in attendance.

At the afternoon session plans were made for the attendance of the big musical society at the centennial celebration of Norway's independence to be held in the Fatherland in 1914. The final plans for this trip will be completed at the Sangerfest to be held in Fargo, N. D., next summer. The date for this meeting is in the hands of a committee appointed here Saturday.

The officers of the association who were in attendance here Saturday are: L. P. Christianson of Fargo, N. D., president; T. F. Hamman of Minneapolis, corresponding secretary; T. Dahl, La Crosse, Wis., recording secretary; O. M. Oleson, Fort Dodge, Iowa, treasurer; Emil Bjorn, Chicago, director in chief; and Olaf Halton, Duluth, assistant director in chief.

Saturday night the delegates were entertained by the members of the Normanna Male chorus on a trip around the horn on the steamer Columbia, and on their return were tendered an informal reception at Foresters' hall. Yesterday an automobile ride in the morning and a picnic at Lester Park in the afternoon concluded the entertainment.

The majority of the delegates left for their homes on the evening trains.

THREE WILL GO TO NATIONAL MEET

Eighth District of M. B. A. Chooses Delegates to Denver Convention.

The election of delegates to the national convention of the order to be held at Denver, Aug. 8, formed the principal business of the day at the meeting of the triumphial Eighth district convention of the Modern Brotherhood of America, Saturday. Dr. W. H. Konkler of Duluth, chairman of the convention, Dr. A. G. McKinnon of Virginia, and Dr. J. E Nyquist of Cloquet were chosen to represent the Eighth district at the big national meet. The Minnesota delegates are arranging to take a special train over the Rock Island to Denver.

W. E. Kinman of Minneapolis, state manager for the order, and J. F. Dykeman of Falf, Minn., district manager, gave short addresses. Virginia was chosen as the place for the next triennial convention.

After the adjournment of the convention proper an Eighth District Modern Brotherhood Picnic association was formed. It was decided to hold the first annual picnic in July, 1912, at Wyanette, Minn., and the following officers were elected: Mrs. Anna Palm of Wyanette, president: Mrs. Nancy Rickard of Duluth, vice president; Mrs. Bessie Morrison of Hibbing, secretary; Mrs. Ellen Olson of Cloquet, treasurer.

The majorlay of the visiting delegates left for their homes yesterday.

BOTH KILLED IN MILL CITY FIGHT

Officer and Crook Have Duel, Dying Few Minutes Apart.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 17.—In a desperate encounter late Saturday night between officers and a fugitive, Jerry McCarthy, a convict who scaled the walls of the Minnesota penitentiary last March, was shot four times and killed and Policeman Ollinger received four bullets in the body, which caused his death twenty minutes later at the city hospital.

The pistol duel took place while the men lay on the sidewalk grappling in the dark, at the rear entrance to a drug store. Owing to recent burglaries and holdups in the neighborhood, Policeman Ollinger had grown to suspect McCarthy who claimed he was a machinist.

Ollinger saw McCarthy go to the rear entrance of a drug store just as the proprietor was closing up. He entered the front door, and, as he stood there with the proprietor, he heard some one try the rear door of the building.

"I know who that fellow is," said Ollinger, "he is a bad man, and I'm going to get him or he's going to get me."

Ollinger then ran to the rear door and opened it and went out side. Within a few seconds the shots rang out.

Cigar Broker Implicated.

Following a full confession made by A. H. Denson, pool room proprietor, before County Attorney Robertson and police officials regarding his connection with McCarthy, Fred A. Briggs was arrested as being implicated with the outlaw. Briggs is a cigar broker and well known. He acknowledged being in intimate touch with McCarthy, but denied being mixed up in any of the latter's shady deals. The confession obtained from Denson was of a sensational nature and outlined a system of robbery of which he practically accused Briggs of being the brains, while McCarthy did the actual work.

SAYS AMERICAN FARMER WOULD BE THE GAINER.

New York, July 17.—"I am and always have been opposed to reciprocity, and I am sanguine that when the people of Canada look carefully into the matter, they will oppose it."

So said the Hon. James Pliny Whitney, prime minister of Ontario, who has arrived here homeward bound from the coronation. Sir James expressed great admiration for President Taft, but declared that the president himself had furnished three reasons for rejecting the agreement.

"That Canada has now come to the parting of the ways; that she must either seek to bind herself more closely to the mother country or—" here Sir James smiled and declined to finish the sentence.

"Secondly, the United States would not get another opportunity to negotiate the effort to knit more closely the relations of Canada and England; and, thirdly, the United States farmer would sell more produce with reciprocity than without it."

ASLEEP THREE MONTHS.

Girl at Vandalia, Ill., Gives Signs of Recovery.

Vandalia, Ill., July 17.—Awaking early and remaining conscious for an hour and a half, Miss Hazel Schmidt, 19 years old, learned that she had been asleep just three months yesterday.

"I cannot realize that it is true," she said. "I cannot see how I could possibly have slept all that time."

As she finished her eyes again closed in sleep.

In the last forty-eight hours Miss Schmidt has been awake eleven hours. Physicians said her condition is improving, and that she probably will be in normal condition within a week.

TWENTY-ONE DIE IN MINE.

Explosion Is Followed By Deadly After-Damp.

Dubois, Pa., July 17.—Twenty-one miners were killed in an explosion in the shaft of the Cascade Coal & Coke company's mines at Sykesville, nine miles from here, Saturday night.

MURDER, ARSON AND ROBBERY SUSPECTED.

Vine Grove, Ky., July 17.—Murder, arson and robbery are believed by the authorities to have been unearthed after a fire that on Sunday destroyed the home of David Patterson, a wealthy hermit who has lived near here many years. He is supposed to have kept large sums of money in his isolated home.

Rushing to the burning building, neighbors found the body of the hermit charred in his bed. A rifle near by with a fired cartridge in it led some to the suicide theory, but it was later ascertained the skull had been crushed and officers believe it a case of murder.

What amount of money was taken, if any, is not known.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD BOY IS LACERATED BY BULLDOG.

Peoria, Ill., July 17.—While visiting at his aunt's home Sunday, Raymond Stevens, 4 years old, of Chicago, was torn almost to death by a bulldog. His head and body were lacerated. The boy is at a hospital. Mrs. Stevens pushed her arm into the dog's mouth and also was wounded.

AERONAUT NEARLY DRIFTS OUT TO SEA.

Asbury Park, July 17.—A. J. Roberts, an aeronaut who started in a dirigible balloon from New York for Philadelphia Saturday, was found unconscious on the beach near Deal, N. J., early Sunday. When revived, he said that during the night he was forced to pull the rip cord of his gas bag when his gasoline gave out and he found he was being carried out to sea. He dropped into the ocean half a mile from shore, and by the aid of a chance plank, he swam and floated ashore. The dirigible was swept off shore by the wind.

MEXICO MAY PUT BARS UP AGAINST CELESTIALS.

City of Mexico, July 17.—An indirect result of the massacre of Chinese at Torreon during the revolution may be the exclusion from Mexico of Celestials. Because of a scarcity of labor for the mines and haciendas, Mexico has encouraged the importation of Chinese, but exactly those same arguments—economic and racial—which led to their exclusion by the United States are now being freely discussed in the press. It is not improbably that at the next session of congress an exclusion bill will be presented.

LIGHTNING KILLS MAN ON CHEVY CHASE LINKS.

Washington, July 17.—Before the eyes of scores of society women and men well known in official life, and almost within a stone's throw of the Chevy Chase club house, Tristam B. Johnson of New York, recently appointed solicitor of the navy department, was struck by lightning Sunday and instantly killed. Johnson had been playing golf with a companion and was in the open. His companion and the caddy, a dozen yards away, were knocked down but were uninjured. Johnson's body was badly burned.

The accident occurred on the links which are used by President Taft when he is in Washington. They are also used by other government officials who are golfers.

WATSON SAYS "NO."

Does Not Want to Head Democratic National Committee.

Fairmont, W. Va., July 17.—Senator Watson has no intention of seeking the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee, which was suggested by United States Senators Johnston, Overman and Taylor at the dinner given in their honor at Senator Watson's home Saturday night. Before leaving his home for Washington, he said:

"Under no circumstances could I consider that I be selected for chairman of the Democratic national committee. Of course, I consider it a great honor to have these senators, all good Democrats, express their preference for me for so responsible a position, but the thing is out of the question. My business affairs would not permit of my giving the time and attention to party affairs which the chairmanship would necessitate."

NEARLY CHEATS GALLOWS BY TURNING ON GAS.

Beaver, Pa., July 17. — Charles Hickman, condemned to be hanged on Tuesday for the murder of his wife in February, 1910, almost succeeded in escaping the gallows by attempting suicide. Hickman has twice escaped from jail and has repeatedly said he would again make his escape.

Saturday night two guards took him to a lavatory upon his request, and when they heard a body fall, they forced the door and found Hickman unconscious and the gas turned on. He had stood with his face to the jet inhaling the fumes.

POLICE USE CLUBS TO QUELL CHURCH RIOT.

South Bend, Ind., July 17.—That the Hungarian residents of this city will not attend church with Rev. Father Paul Kovacs was made manifest Sunday when more than 1,000 enraged parisioners gathered at the church and attempted to prevent the new priest from holding services. The entire police force was required to quell the disturbance, and it was only after three of the leaders had been arrested and others severely beaten with riot clubs, that peace was restored and the services allowed to continue.

The trouble began a few weeks ago when serious charges were preferred against Rev. John Von Froehlick, pastor of the church. He left recently, and when Father Kovacs was sent from New York to fill the vacancy he was received by a jeering mob owing to charges made against him through a Socialist Hungarian publication of New York.

DENIED BY DICKINSON.

He Says War Department Knew Nothing of Alaska Affair.

Seattle, July 17.—Jacob M. Dickinson, former secretary of war, remembers nothing about information concerning irregularities in Alaska coal contracts, which Delegate Wickersham of Alaska last Friday told the house committee on judiciary was furnished simultaneously to the war department and to the department of justice.

Mr. Dickinson arrived here last night from Nashville, Tenn., to visit his son, Harry.

"I have no recollection of the matter whatever," he said when told of Delegate Wickersham's testimony. "The question of speculation would not be within the jurisdiction of the war department and if such evidence were furnished the department of justice, there would be no duty devolving upon the war department to institute prosecution."

Coolness and Comfort for a Summer Day

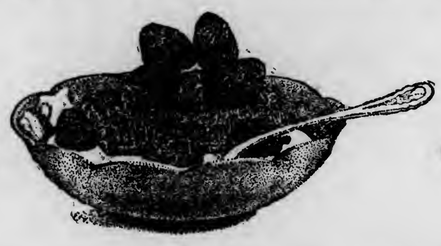

Don't make a fire in the kitchen. A hot kitchen means a hot house and a hot temper. It doesn't promote domestic happiness nor does it encourage sweetness of disposition. Here's freedom from kitchen worry and work: Have a deep dish for each member of the family; place in each dish two

SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUIT

(whole or crushed) and cover with berries of any kind—raspberries, blackberries, huckleberries or other fresh fruit, then pour over them milk, adding a little cream and sugar to suit the taste.

You will find it deliciously appetizing and nourishing, supplying all the strength needed for work or play. Shredded Wheat is ready-cooked and ready-to-serve. It is the whole wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked—nothing added, nothing taken away. A food for the Summer days when the stomach is tired of heavy meats and soggy pastries.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FIND CROPS DOING WELL

Experts Look Over the Flax Growth Near Crookston and Are Pleased.

Various Red River Valley Grains Including Corn Very Promising.

Crookston, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—G. A. Norman of Minneapolis, crop expert for the American Linseed Oil company, S. M. Sivertson of the Crookston Milling company, A. M. Sivertson, capitalist and real estate owner and The Herald correspondent took a tour in an automobile yesterday relative to investigate the condition of the flax crop in this section.

A few traces of rust were discovered in a very few fields but nowhere was enough found to cause any appreciable damage. The weather has been the very best imaginable to prevent rust, and no apprehension is felt on that score. The grain is so far advanced that even with a spell of rust weather the damage could not be but very slight. The flax crop in this immediate vicinity, and in Marshall and Kittson counties which have been visited by Mr. Norman, is excellent, the best he has seen this year. The stand is heavy, the color good and the yield promises well. Although the flax crop is later than the other grains, as it always is, therefore there is a greater gamble as to what will be harvested in that line than with wheat, oats, barley, etc., which is now rapidly maturing.

Wheat Filling Finely.

Most of the wheat is in the dough and the cool weather is ideal for fine filling. Fields were investigated where the wheat heads contained as high as sixty-one, healthy kernels, where from twenty-eight to thirty-one is a good average head ordinarily. The stand of wheat is excellent and scores of fields were passed which will yield twenty-five bushels per acre and better, and very few which will run below fifteen bushels.

Much of the barley will be out this week, some fields being ready for the harvester now and the crop is very fine with few exceptions. The oat crop is the best raised in many years. The stand is very thick and the heads are exceptionally long and heavy.

Many farmers are cutting their rye and this crop will average very well. The farmers are plowing their land as fast as they harvest the rye which leaves it in as good shape as if it were summer fallowed and rye raisers think in even better shape as the ground was shielded from the hot sun.

Corn Crop Surprise.

The corn crop is wonderful and proved a genuine surprise to a party of Iowa and Illinois farmers who are touring the territory adjacent to Crookston. The early corn is tasselled out and will mature easily long before danger from frost will threaten, and the fodder corn is very rangy and growing rapidly.

The farmers are finishing haying operations and the hay crop is an exceptionally heavy one. Tame hay is all in stock now with the exception of millet and some clover.

The potato crop is also in a flourishing condition and the tubers will be one of the big crops of the Red River valley this year as they are much farther along than usual at this season and can be dug in quantities in time to take advantage of the high prices prevailing.

Langdon, N. D., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury that heard the evidence in the case against Dr. James J. LIVELY FLIGHT FOR CONGRESS

Wisconsin's New Apportionment Law Promises Animated Contests.

Cumberland, Wis., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The apportionment bill just passed by the Wisconsin legislature, which takes the counties of Barron, St. Croix, Pierce, Dunn and Chippewa from Congressman Lenroot's district and the counties of Trempleau, Pepin, Buffalo, and Eau Claire from Congressman Esch's district, will precipitate a very animated and interesting fight for the selection of a congressman for the new district. Candidages are already appearing upon the political horizon, among the most prominent being, Secretary of State James A. Frear of Hudson, whom it is generally conceded would be a very strong and capable candidate.

Eau Claire Candidate.

Eau Claire county has a possibility in the person of Assemblyman Gilbertson, who with Speaker Ingram, was active in having the new district formed. Pierce county has a favorite son in the person of Senator Owen of Malden Rock, while Pepin county will undobtedly present Assemblyman C. A. Ingram, speaker of the house, as a candidate. It is quite likely that Chippewa and other counties in the new district will supply enough additional aspirants to make the fight complicated as well as interesting.

UNIVERSITY WELL FIXED.

Will Have Balance of Over $85,000 Aug. 1.

St. Paul, Minn., July 17.—To allay all fears that the University of Minnesota is not living within its means, Public Examiner Andrew Fritz has transmitted to Governor Eberhart a full statement of the university funds. The statement shows that the university will have to its credit Aug. 1, 1911, a balance of $85,224.87.

There has been considerable comment on the management of the university affairs throughout the state since the Bren case. In Mr. Fritz's statement, it is charged that the university is well within all appropriations specially assigned to the support of the institution.

MORE SUITS FILED

To Annul Titles to Lands Bought of Indians.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 17.—A. M. Seekell, one of the government attorneys engaged in the prosecution of the Indian land fraud cases, has just filed another batch of seventy-five cases for the annulment of deeds given by Indians. This brings the total number of these suits now on file here up to 978. Mr. Seekell states that special masters to take testimony will be appointed in a few weeks. The first question that will have to be determined in the cases is the question, "What is an Indian?".

The government will in all probability contend that anyone of more than half Indian blood is an Indian within the meaning of the law, and that deeds given by such persons should be annulled. The defense will probably contend that anyone with any percentage of white blood whatever is a mixed blood and that all such persons had the right to transfer their lands.

from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. THE EVENING STORY

HOT QUARTERS

By Jos. R. Reham.

George and Kenneth Munson were enthusiastic bee farmers, and for the third season in succession were running an apiary in the woods, where the endless profusion of red raspberry bloom gave enormous crops of honey to the few bees there to gather it. They had spent every summer camped in the woods, and had so far done very good business. But the present season, which was the driest on record, threatened complete failure. The bees had gathered barely enough to live on, storing no surplus. The weather was hot and close, and the bees were cross, irritated by the honey failure and by the smoke in the air. It was painful and exasperating work to handle them, and toward the end of the month the apiarists gave up hope of securing a crop. George went home, leaving Kenneth to stay for another week or two, on the chance that rain might bring the blossoms forward again.

No rain came, although the sky was hazy and overcast, either with clouds or smoke. The bees grew intolerably vicious, stinging without provocation, and trying to rob one another's hives. Kenneth was thoroughly sick of the work, when one morning he awoke to find the wind changed to the west, and laden with dense smoke and the pungent smell of burning wood.

Clearly there was a forest fire, and at no great distance. With a thrill of fright, Kenneth thought of the disastrous consequences if it should burn down the bee yard. The fire was far enough away as yet, but it was certainly burning toward him, and the wind seemed to be growing stronger.

He noticed suddenly that the woods were full of moving life. Birds flew silently and swiftly through the smoke overhead, rabbits went past in dozens, avoiding the clearing, and something spectral like, that might have been a deer flashed through the thickets. All these animals were flying before the fire, and he took the warning hint. For himself he had no great fear. A forest fire does not usually travel very fast, and he was sure of being able to get over the ten miles to the cleared country.

But the bees? The apiary! It was their whole capital. It had taken years to build it up, and it would take years to replace it. And the hives and wax would catch at a spark, and burn like so many candles.

In desperation and despair Kenneth thought of the wintering cellar. If he could get them in, the fire might sweep over the whole clearing without damage. Could he do it? Was there time? It had taken him and his brother two hours to set the bees out that spring, and it would take him single handed, twice as long. Long before that time the fire would be upon him. But he picked up the nearest hive and ran into the cellar with it, regardless of the flying bees. Then he rushed back for others.

The cellar or cave was sunk only a foot or two below the ground level and ran back twenty feet into the hillside. It was braced with flattened timbers within, and entered by a timbered door at the bottom of a little incline. For winter the sand soil was caved in over this door to a depth of two or three feet, making it weather proof and cold tight.

Kenneth had half a dozen hives stored away in a few minutes. The bees were confused and terrified by the smoke, and they rose in clouds into his face when he lifted them. He had had no time to put on a veil and he was stung pretty freely. But he was hardened to bee stings, and in his excitement he would not have noticed a much worse pain.

One after another he carried the hives in at a run, stacking them up in the cellar. He was afraid to count his progress; he was afraid to look up to see if the fire was burning within sight. He knew that it was growing terribly hot, that the smoke was denser, and that the woods were full of a dull roaring, but he did not know whether this was the fire, or the wind, or only the rushing of blood in his ears.

He panted and staggered as he ran to and fro, streaming with perspiration. The rows of hives were melting away. Hardly a score of the white boxes were left. He began to think that he had won the race, and just then a blazing branch dropped at his feet.

Struck with terror, he straightened up and looked around. A furious blast of heat came into his face. The bee yard was a cloud of swirling smoke. Sparks and ashes fell in a continuous rain, and the air was full of blazing branches and shreds of bark that the wind carried overhead, far in advance of the fire.

The paint blistered on the hives, and his skin almost cracked with the heat as he made half a dozen more journeys. He never knew how he got the last dozen hives in, but he found himself suddenly at the door of the cellar, his lungs bursting with smoke, his head on fire—but the bee yard clear.

He dragged out a spade to bank up the doorway, and then he realized that he had ruined his own escape. In that blinding smoke he could never find his way out of the woods.

The only thing left was to share the bees' refuge and get into the cellar himself. He almost closed the door, edged through, and by jabbing into the sandy earth with his spade, he brought it sliding down so that the door was almost sealed. To finish it he had to break down the roof at the entrance, and a cart load of earth blocked out the danger.

He was in pitchy darkness and dead silence, and sat down on a bee-hive almost in a state of collapse. The fierce strain was off, and he found that he was utterly exhausted. It was no longer cool in the cellar; it had become hot, smoky and stifling, and he would have given anything for a drink of water. But nothing in the world was less attainable.

In the hot darkness he presently became aware of an enormous dull roaring, like a distant storm. He took it to be the fire outside at first, but soon realized that it was the bees. They were restless and uncomfortable, feeling the lack of air, like himself.

As he sat there, he dozed with sheer weariness, in spite of discomforts. He passed a considerable time in this way, two-thirds unconscious, and was aroused sharply by being stung on the leg.

It awakened him fully, and he found that there were bees crawling inside his trousers. There were bees on his arms, too, and under his sleeves and down his neck. He tried to brush them off, and was stung severely in half a dozen places.

During his furious labor he had disregarded stings, but now he preferred to avoid them. He struck a match, and in the brief blaze was appalled to see that of the tiers of white hives nothing was visible. They were black with bees, completely covered with the crawling insects that the heat had caused to leave the combs.

His own clothing was covered with them, too, and they were tangled in his hair, stinging when they found themselves caught; he could not move without receiving a poisoned thrust till the whole surface of his body felt inflamed with venom. He was inured to stings, but not to so many at once and he found himself growing sick and faint.

He began to wish he had taken his chances in the woods. Fire would be no worse than poison. But now it would be suicidal to leave the cave for several hours, and he tried to nerve himself to endure it.

It seemed an eternity as minute after minute passed. He almost ceased to feel the pain of the new stings, but he felt poisoned and sick to the heart. He had a wild impulse to burst open the door and rush out.

He resisted this suicidal impulse as long as he could, but the impulse grew upon him like a mania. He could think of nothing else. If he remained there he felt sure that he would faint, and if he once fell, he would probably never get up again. He would be stung to death or suffocated.

The touch of the crawling masses nauseated him. It was more than he could bear. In reckless desperation he groped for the spade again, and attacked the earth like a madman, flinging it aside from the doorway. Light came through at last. He dashed at the first opening and squeezed his way out.

To his astonishment, a hot, wet air met him. The woods were shrouded thick, but it was not smoke; it was steam. The ashes on the ground were muddy, and he realized that it was raining in torrents.

It rained almost without ceasing for three or four days, and at the end of that time George Munson arrived, expecting to find the apiary and his brother consumed together.

Kenneth went home with him, and was sick for a week. The stings left no permanent effect, but it was months before he could overcome a qualm of horror at the sight of bees.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock company in "Brewster's Millions."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

ANIMALS ARE THE FEATURE

Vaudeville Bill at The Empress This Week Is Unusually Good.

Kluting's animals feature a fine vaudeville bill at the Empress theater this week.

The new bill opened yesterday and three large audiences were well pleased. The head line number provides amusement for both old and young. While it is an act that was made more for the amusement of the children, there is plenty in it to amuse and entertain an audience of older people.

In the trained troupe of animals there are cats, dogs, rabbits and pigeons. All of them have separate stunts. To many who have believed that it is impossible to teach cats tricks, the performance of the felines is a revelation.

The tricks of the dogs are not so wonderful as are those of the rabbits, cats and pigeons. One extraordinary trick is that in which the pigeons all alight on a basket holding the cats. They all do their tricks quickly and seem to enjoy doing them. The act as a whole is one of the best animal acts ever presented at the Empress.

The act of the animals is a fitting climax to a truly good vaudeville program. There is not a weak number on the entire bill and it goes with more than the usual snap of a Sullivan & Considine show.

Harry May, former soloist of the "Empire City Quartette" gets nicely away with a bunch of popular hits and catchy melodies. Besides being a good singer Mr. Mayo has a happy way of mingling with it entertainment that pleases vaudeville audiences.

Willard Hutchinson and company have a bright little play called "A Leap Year Leap." Mr. Hutchinson was formerly with the "Piff-Paff-Pouff" company. There are contained in "A Leap Year Leap" many snappy and breezy lines and the whole contains the right proportion of ginger to make it popular. The play has but two characters, but the action is lively and they keep things moving.

The four Solis brothers have a musical act that is far ahead of the ordinary turn of this kind. They play on the merimba, a Mexican instrument, and the music is pleasing to many.

The La Vie-Cimarton trio have a knockabout comedy acrobatic act that is the money for laughs and hearty amusement. There are contained in the trio two men and a girl. They do all kinds of acrobatic stunts, some old, but more new. The scene is laid at a physical culture school and two very sick people, one just ill and the other afflicted with nervous trouble, are put through an initiation for the benefit of the audience. Needless to say the act is a scream from beginning to end.

The excellent moving pictures shown this week finish one of the best shows ever presented at the Empress. There will be three performances daily, one each afternoon and two each evening during the remainder of the week.

"Brewster's Millions."

"Brewster's Millions" with its famous yacht scene is what Gus A. Forbes has chosen for the bill to be presented by himself and his stock company at the Lyceum during the carnival week. The scene on board the yacht with the shores of Italy in the distance and the blue waters of the Mediterranean is one of the most talked of and beautiful scenes in recent comedies and a fine production is promised at the Lyceum for all of this week. The first performance will be given this evening and the play will be repeated every evening this week with Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

"Brewster's Millions" is one of the best known and most popular of the light comedies of recent years. It is very up to date farce comedy and no play better adapted to midsummer entertainment could be chosen. Mr. Forbes will appear as Monty Brewster, the young spendthrift millionaire, and the members of his company have been cast in roles that suit them admirably. This week's bill should be the most popular of the plays yet presented by Mr. Forbes and his company. It is up to date, light, amusing, has delightful lines and situations and a splendid production is promised.

The first performance will be given tonight.

JERRY McCARTHY WAS WANTED FOR ROBBERY.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 17.—That Jerry McCarthy, the convict who was killed at Minneapolis by a policeman yesterday, was Tom Hatch, wanted in Polk county for attempted robbery, is the statement of Des Moines police today.

Hatch and Peter Juhl were alleged to have attempted to dynamite and rob the Polk county treasury in March last. James O'Callaghan, former deputy treasurer, and a brother of Robert O'Callaghan, the Western league magnate, was recently tried on a charge of complicity in the affair, but the jury failed to agree.

MINNESOTA BEATS WEST

Duluth Man Sees Abnormal Growth in the Coast Cities.

Dr. F. C. Drenning Says Western Boosters' Clubs Have Overdone Things.

Dr. F. C. Drenning, who has just returned from an extensive Western trip including Spokane, Portland, Seattle and Western Canada, believes that Horace Greeley's famous advice, "Go West young man," has outlived its usefulness. Minnesota is a much better place to live, a better place to make money, and has other advantages over the Far Western country, according to Dr. Drenning, and Duluth is a better city than any of them.

"The 'Booster Clubs' out there have over-boosted things," said Dr. Drenning this morning. "They realize it themselves and it is showing up in countless ways. The West is being settled by the restless class that went there because of the glowing opportunities offered by boosting literature, and it is an abnormal growth. They have got a fine country behind it, but the growth has been abnormal and the results are becoming apparent every day.

"The cities are over-developed and are due to meet reverses. Duluth is better situated, has more natural advantages and should be a better city than any of them. Minnesota as a whole is a better country and a better place for anyone than the Far West, in my opinion. I returned enthusiastic over Minnesota."

Dr. Drenning tells an interesting story of an accident which occurred during the grading operations in Seattle. The city is afflicted with grades that are steeper than Duluth's and as the soil is sand instead of Duluth's hard rock, they have tried to reduce them by hydraulic grading. They have washed the soil down into the harbor and made about 100 acres of land in this way.

A twelve-story hotel was located on one of the streets being graded in this way, and as the soil in the street was washed away the big structure suddenly cracked down the center. The guests were hurried into the streets and the police immediately formed a cordon around the doomed structure. They even refused to allow the proprietor to go in to save furnishings, etc. A few hours later the big building tumbled with a crash, the grading have proved too much for the unstable nature of the foundation. Trouble like this is being experienced generally in connection with excavating in the Western city.

Dr. Drenning was accompanied on his return trip by his sister, Miss Drenning of Chicago, who went on to her home.

GOPHERS ANNEXED TWO MORE GAMES

Took Five Out of Six Games Played With Classy Hibbing Colts.

Hibbing, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Colored Gophers defeated the Hibbing Colts in both games of a double-header yesterday afternoon, making five straight victories for the visitors out six games played. The drubbings that the home boys have received have served as a humiliation for them, as the Colts had proven unbeatable so far this season with one exception—one of the games over a week ago went to Virginia by a close score.

Although Davis and Lytle, the two hurlers used by the visitors in yesterday's games, were outpitched by Booth and Grady, respectively, the locals failed to bunch their hits and to that reason along with several costly errors made in the field, was attributable their defeat. Cameron umpired both contests and proved as unfair in his decisions to both sides as he had on former occasions.

Carey, Biwabik's catcher, was struck in the ribs and was replaced by Infielder Meyers, a former Eveleth player.

Aurora Nine Beaten.

In a game featured by running catches by Capt. Jaunitz, Catcher Andrews and Outfielder Van Buskirk, Eveleth yesterday scored twelve runs in the seventh inning, and won a 19 to 4 victory over Aurora, on the local grounds, with "Ding" Richards and L. Andrews as Eveleth's battery, and Kaewer, Lindberg, Luth and Capt. Beecroft working for the visitors.

John Koukey, who was arrested with Lake, and who is also charged with assault in the second degree, has been unable to raise his $1,000 bonds, and is still in jail.

Lambella who was cut about the chest and arms is still in a serious condition at the More hospital, and with his recovery the defendants will be arraigned.

The three judges and clerks sat at a long table in the Jefferson school corridor and for the most part waited for voters to cast their ballots. The comings of these voters were few and far between.

In all 279 votes were cast, G. H. Thompson and S. L. Holtzlander receiving the full number. For P. J. Ryan but 276 votes were dropped in the ballot box and the only outsider who received a vote was M. H. Pearces, who got one.

Rashleigh of the St. James mine was elected to the three-year school board term Saturday getting 189 votes to 46 for John Gerslek and 38 for F. O. Adamson. The board voted $50 compensation both to the treasurer and clerk and it was decided to levy a tax assessment of $59,200. Will Serve on Mound in Game Against Women's Baseball Nine.

Hibbing, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor H. R. Weirick will pitch in the ball game this afternoon when the Hibbing Colts line up against Hopkins Bros.' Champion Ladies Baseball club.

"Yes, it's so all right," said Mayor Weirick, when asked if he would officiate on the twirling mound for the Colts, "my gallantry would not permit it otherwise. I like baseball and I would like to get in a game myself. This is an excellent opportunity and I will have stacked up against my good right arm the champion lady batters of the states. I have some surprises in curves, drops and spit balls up my sleeve which I have been practicing under the cover of darkness and the ladies will find me no easy mark."

BRICK PLANT IS GETTING IN SHAPE

Tower Junction Concern Will Soon Be Making 100,000 Brick Daily.

Tower, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North American Brick, Tile & Pottery company near Tower Junction are preparing to burn their first lot of brick, some 150,000.

The machinery is rapidly being adjusted and soon the officials hope to have everything in shape so the plant can be worked to its capacity of 100,000 a day. The clay deposit opened up is of a very fine and adhesive quality and produces a very superior quality of brick, for which the company has booked a number of very large orders, most of which are for the Mesaba range.

The machinery is at present covered by temporary structures which will be replaced with brick structures, built from the bricks with slight defects which would impair the market qualities of the product if not taken out.

The plant is equipped with but one unit of the brick-making machinery, and as soon as things are working well another unit will be installed. It is the purpose of the company to install tile and roofing machinery also in the near future.

The Duluth & Iron Range railroad is giving the company every encouragement by making special rates on the manufactured product, which puts the company in position to compete with other manufactures. A sidetrack has been built to the property so that car load lots of freight are easily and conveniently handled. The enterprise reflects great credit on T. J. Walsh, who is largely responsible for the success of the new industry.

Home grown new potatoes of a very fine quality are being shown in various places in this city.

A large party of tourists arrived on the Sunday morning train to enjoy the beauties and rest of Lake Vermilion.

The family of John Mahady and their friends returned from an enjoyable season on a house boat on Lake Vermilion.

EAST SUFFERED TERRIBLY.

Eveleth Minister Says Heat in New York Was Awful.

"This temperature is a great relief after sweltering in New York and Boston," declared Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Eveleth, who returned today from the East via the lakes.

"I was in New York during the worst of the hot spell and words are not equal to describing the amount of human and animal suffering. The air in the streets between the skyscrapers struck one like a blast from a hot furnace and suffering was intense. Coming up the lakes we enjoyed a welcome change by the time we reached the Soo. It became so cold when we struck Lake Superior that I found an overcoat very handy."

Mr. Schwarz visited his aged father in Massachusetts and renewed acquaintances in New York where he studied for the ministry. Mr. Schwarz said the visit an old friend in the great new public library o fNew York in the shape of The Duluth Herald, which he found daily on file.

Hibbing, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a party of automobilists from Eveleth, among whom was Thomas Carey, brother of Judge Carey of Virginia, alighted in front of the Hibbing hotel yesterday noon one of the men slipped on the car step and fell heavily to the pavement striking on his face. He was cut in the forehead clear to the bone.

The injured man was immediately taken to a local hospital, where his wound was sewed up. Later the party, accompanied by the injured man, whose name could not be ascertained, returned to Eveleth.

HIBBING COMPANY NINE AFTER GAME.

Hibbing, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The baseball nine of Company M is out with a challenge to meet any amateur ball team hereabouts.

The nine returned with their company from Camp Lakeview Friday evening with the satisfaction of knowing that they had won the baseball championship of the Third regiment, Minnesota National Guard. They played nines picked from the different companies in turn and defeated them all. Finally on last Wednesday they walloped a team picked from the entire regiment by the score of 16 to 3. It is stated that they have an exceptionally strong team. St. Julien and Gibson is the battery for the M boys.

Pearce, one of the principal owners of the Elizabeth mine, has just received a new Mullins pressed steel launch, which he will use on the chain of lakes near his summer cabin in the vicinity of Sturgeon lake. The new boat is six-teen feet in length and fitted out with a 3-horse power gasoline engine.

GRASSHOPPERS DOING DAMAGE

Garden Truck Around Ely Falling Prey to the Winged Pests.

Ely, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The blueberries are very plentiful around here this year. Every day parties of people are seen coming in town with palls full, some having to hire a team to fetch in for them. The berries were ripe this year the earliest for a number of years, on account of the early rains, this spring and summer.

There is an unusually large number of the grasshoppers attacking the farms and gardens around here, eating all the green vegetables as soon as they appear above the ground. Cabbage, carrots, lettuce, baggas, etc., are very plentifully raised here each year, in the gardens kept by the industrious miners, but this year the grasshoppers made short work of vegetables as soon as they appeared above the ground and therefore the people will suffer for lack of the vegetables very much. Though the vegetables are suffering from the grasshoppers, the farmers around here claim that their potato crops are the best ever. The country around the White Iron Lake district is particularly known for its good potato lands.

SIBLEY MINE FIRE.

Blaze Starts Around Ore Pockets But Is Soon Extinguished.

Ely, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fire started last Wednesday on the woodwork of the Sibly mine, burning all the woodwork around the ore pocket. The origin of the fire is not known as no one works around the shaft. The fire was soon put out after it was noticed, by a party from the Sibly mine, who stretched a hose and soon squelched the fire.

ELY-BURNTSIDE CLUB BUILDING BOATHOUSES.

Ely, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The boat Navajo, owned by the Ely-Burntside Outing company, was moved to its new quarters on Burntside lake. A new boathouse is being built for it, about 18 by 30 feet in dimensions. Work is being rushed on the improvements planned by the Outing company, and it expects to be ready for business by Aug. 1, on a small scale. The prospects are very good for a large business, and the company is getting ready to meet it. Before the end of the season they will have all in readiness, so that they will have a good early start in the next season.

GILBERT FIREMEN DO RAPID WORK.

Gilbert, Minn., July 17.—Special to The Herald.) — Saturday a fire broke out in Oja Bros. bakery, just across the street from the fire hall. The fire department had the hose out, connected and the water turned on in fifty-five seconds after the bell was rung. No damage was done.

the disease are confined with four others under suspicion.

These cases, with six deaths that have occurred since the Moltke brought the germ here from Naples, show the reality of the danger the city faces from the epidemic now raging in Southern Europe.

The latest victim is Francis Farander, aged 14.

The quarantine officers said today that conditions at Hoffman island were satisfactory. The steamer Perugia from the Mediterranean is still at anchor in quarantine, while her passengers are under observance.

No cases of cholera were found among the 261 passengers and ninety-one members of the crew of the Perugia. All persons aboard, however, remain under close observation. The ship is being disinfected.

Seeks to Reassure People.

While nothing even approaching a panic exists here now, the situation is receiving greater attention and Dr. Alvah H. Doty, health officer of the port, has felt called upon to issue a reassuring statement. Dr. Doty says that the cholera germ can be received in one way only—through the mouth—and that there is no danger in ordinary contact with persons who have the disease.

Charles Dushkins, counsel for the complainants, at the investigation of Dr. Doty's official conduct now in progress, declares his belief that the cholera patients now in the hospital caught the disease, not on the steamer, but at the immigration station, where all the passengers were detained after landing.

Are "Cholera Carriers."

The danger, or rather the understanding of it, is further increased by the comparatively recent medical knowledge of "cholera carriers." These persons, Dr. Doty says, may transmit the germs although themselves absolutely free from their ill effects, and be as great a menace to others as a man dying from the disease.

Reports are Exaggerated.

Chlasso, Switzerland, July 17.—The London reports of the number of cholera victims at Palermo, Italy, since May 20 are exaggerated, according to information received here.

Although it cannot be known with official exactness, the dead at Palermo may reach 230, but not 2,300, as has been stated.

The cholera situation both at Palermo and Naples is now said to be improving. In Palermo, the daily death average is twenty and at Naples twelve. At Leghorn there have been a total of thirteen deaths since the epidemic first appeared, while at Spezia the fatalities have numbered seven, at Brecia three and at Pisa one.

Bankers Not to Lose.

Chicago, July 17.—The affairs of the Peavey Grain company are now in control of a committee of Chicago bankers, following the return of President Heffelfinger and C. M. Lane of the F. H. Peavey company of Minneapolis. The additional advances made by the banks to uphold the grain company until outstanding commitments could be discharged and customers and correspondents' accounts transferred to other brokerage houses, are said to be comparatively small, and investigation has revealed only a slight variation from the estimated shortage.

Frank O. Wetmore, vice president of the First National bank, chairman of the joint creditors' committee, said:

"The situation remains unchanged and the banks will not lose a dollar through the transactions."

Selling Peavey Elevators.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. F. McCarthy, president of the newly organized Interior Grain company, has bought from F. H. Peavey & Co. the plant of the Interior Elevator company, located in Minneapolis, capacity 1,500,000 bushels.

F. H. Peavey & Co. are also negotiating with the Simonds Shields Grain company of Kansas City for the sale of the Midland Elevator company of Kansas City.

holding that the members of the committee were prosecutors and not called upon to exercise judicial functions. In ruling, the court remarked that even had the committee reported that there were no reasonable grounds for contempt charges, such a report would not be received.

Would Change Courts.

Gompers' attorneys at once protested that in view of this expression by the court, they should not be compelled to proceed, but that Justice Wright should certify the case to some other justice for trial. Justice Wright curtly dismissed the protest with "You may proceed." An exception was noted.

The motion to strike out the names of Messrs. Davenport, Darlington and Beck as prosecutors and substitute that of the district attorney was overruled in so far as the members of the committee were concerned. The court asked District Attorney Wilson if he would be willing to have his name added to the committee as a prosecutor, and gave him time to consider the question.

A motion for a bill of particulars was then filed.

Protests against further hearing before Justice Wright on the ground that he already had formed and expressed an opinion against the defendants proved futile, and Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison will appear in court again next Monday to insist that the charges be made more specific. Continuance for a week was agreed upon after the prosecutors had demanded the two days allowed by law to answer a motion for a bill of particulars.

WILL CANVASS THE RETURNS

Last Meeting of Old School Board to Be Held.

The school board will meet tonight in special session, the principal business of the meeting being the official canvass of the vote for school directors.

Several other matters will come before the board at this time, the most important of which is the question of the census of school children which is required to be taken during the summer. The committee on schools to which this matter has been referred will probably put it up to the board as a whole to decide whether they will undertake the job themselves or let it out by contract.

Bids on contracts for summer repairs will also be opened tonight. The work includes the construction of an ash bin at the Longfellow school, painting the interior of the old part of the Lowell school, and a small job of cement work at the Jefferson.

This will be the last meeting of the old school board, but the only change in the personnel of the board will be the retirement of Director L. D. Campbell in favor of the newly elected director, Andrew Nelson.

ANTI-LIQUOR SOLICITING LAW IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Lakota, N. D., July 17.—North Dakota's law prohibiting brewing agents and representatives from soliciting in the state for liquor orders, was declared by Judge C. F. Templeton to be faulty, such decision being made on the motion of the defendant for dismissal of the charge lodged against him under the provisions of the measure.

Bryson's dismissal was based on the contention that the title does not contain the proper subject matter as compared with the provisions of the measure itself, and this contention was upheld. The law was passed in 1909.

Injured in Runaway.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 17.—Mrs. A. McKay is in a local hospital quite severely injured, while Mrs. A. Digman and her daughter, Miss Catherine, suffered minor injuries as the result of a runaway accident Saturday near Starkweather.

VAUGHN A WONDER WHEN "RIGHT"

JIM VAUGHN.

Jim Vaughn, the ex-fireman, who recently beat big Ed Walsh in Chicago, would be a wonder if he could keep up his good work. Vaughn pitches a few good games and then falls down and is batted freely. He has a good assortment of curves, lots of speed and should be a winning pitcher. If Vaughn can keep up this gait the Yankees still have a chance to beat out Detroit or Philadelphia for the pennant.

UMPIRE QUESTION ONE VITAL TO BASEBALL

(BY BRUCE.)

It seems that old baseball will always have its problems for the officials of the game to solve.

Last season we heard much of the few hits and the solving of this phase of the great national sport was one of the serious considerations of the officials and magnates.

At the opening of the present season fans throughout the length and breadth of the country awoke to the fact that there was either something the matter with the pitchers of the various teams, or that the batters had taken a wonderful brace. It never occurred to many of the fans until later in the season that the pill had been given a tonic.

The problem of batting was solved too much, apparently. At the present time we have the magntes and also the officials in some cases giving their opinions on the lively ball. In most cases they are inclined to think that the ball is making hits too frequent and also drawing out the games.

But a problem more serious thany any that has to do with the lively or less lively ball, is the problem of the umpire.

All the present season there has been trouble between the various umpires of the various leagues and the players. For some reason the problem of the umpire seems to have taken on an acute phase the present season.

In the American league there has been less trouble than in any of the other leagues, simply for the reason that Ban Johnson has taken a decidedly firm stand on this question. He has threatened to supend any player who assaults an umpire and also to impose one of the heaviest fines in the history of baseball.

Ban Johnson has the reputation of being a man who does what he says and apparently none of the players care to try his word in this matter.

A tumultuous season, in regard to the umpire question in the National league, came to head the other day when Sherwood Nottingham Magee, a player with a very aristocratic name and a very nasty and fierce temper, to judge from his actions, made a vicious assault on an umpire.

Magee has been fined and put out of the game. He may be out for the rest of the season. The Phillies have been in the race all of the season. Magee is the star player of the team. Imagine what his loss meaps to his team mates and the owners of the team.

In the American association not so long ago Delehanty attacked one of the umpires and was out of the game for a number of days as the result. Again, just the other day Roger Bresnahan started an attack on one of the umpires, Umpire Klem, and that individual beat him to it and acted in the role of the attacking party.

Right here in the Minny league we have had our trouble swith the umpire question. Joe Killian and others of rowdy natures have made baseball games in some instances a place where ladies and gentlemen feel that they are quite out of place.

In every case of the umpire being attacked or baited by the players it is squarely up to the president of the league to take some decided action. If the popularity of the American game is to endure, then the phase of the rowdy player must be dealt with in a determined manner.

Frank E. Force, as far as it is known, took no action whatever in the case of Killian, a burly individual, attacking poor, old Griffith. The umpire was fired, perhaps because he did not lick the attacking player.

Right here at home we have seen disgraceful exhibitions of players ragging the judge of play. In many respects the present season seems to be one in which the umpire seems to be having his troubles.

Lynch of the National league seems to have awakened to the necessity of taking some drastic action, though anything like this does seem rather against the policy of the older league. Other leagues will be compelled to follow the lead of the American if they wish to retain their popularity with the public, and it is the dear public that pays the freight and in the end rules baseball, whether some of the know it all magnates believe so or not.

The umpire question is one that should be settled with an iron hand. It is vital to the success of baseball, and here in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league club owners should see that spectators are not disgusted with some of the proceedings that have occurred in the past.

TOMMY GARY AFTER FIGHT WITH PAL BROWN

To the Sporting Editor of The Herald:

I see where Doc Plapper, manager for Pal Brown, has sidestepped meeting my protege, Tommy Gary, and still continues to take on the class of boys that have or should have passed from the game some years ago. For example, Jack O'Leary of Milwaukee, Pete Savoy, who couldn't fight a first preliminary for a first-class box'ng club. Now comes Joe (Kid) Taylor, another soft one for Brown. Still I offered to let Gary meet Brown on July 19 or 28, and they pick Taylor to meet him. It's getting to be a joke this fellow meeting all of these old has-beens, like the Carl Morris affair.

Tommy Gary is the only boy to give Brown a fight, and the referee gave it a draw. Gary can beat Brown, and Plapper knows it. They wanted us to make a side bet of $1,000, which we would gladly do in our section of the country, but of course you cannot blame us for protecting ourselves where we are not known.

We will box Brown for 30 per cent of the entire gross receipts for our end, ten, twenty or a finish forty-five rounds, if they like, and you can be assured that if Brown can beat Gary over that distance that he is a comer. But if he continues to meet such fellows as the boys previously mentioned he will show that he still has to meet first rate boys to show class, and he has only met one boy up to date who has given him any kind of an argument, and this fellow is Tommy Gary, who had to put a block and tackle on his left hand to keep the fight somewhere near even. Gary is the only first-class lightweight who has ever boxed Brown. Give us a trip over twenty rounds and we will soon decide for you how much class this fellow Brown really has. If they continue to pick lemons, as they are now doing, you will still have to draw the same conclusion. You must agree with me that we are entitled to a return match and believe me, if they do match us up in your country someone will be counted out.

I will be in Elgin for the next ten days and would be glad to hear from you at any time and would like to hear what the prospects of a real match between Gary and Brown are, instead of the joke match they have arranged It could be made at some early date. Trusting to hear from you, I am, yours truly,

GRAND CIRCUIT AT KALAMAZOO

Many Horses Entered for Events of Five-Day Meet.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 17.—All the best known stables in the country are at Recreation park for the opening this afternoon of the five-day Grand Circuit race meeting.

Two stake events are on today's card, the American Hotel, $2,000 for 2:07 class pacers, and the Columbia Hotel, with a like amount for 2:15 pacers. In addition there are two $1,000 purses, the 2:15 trot and the 2:07 trot. The last named event brings together a remarkable field, among those eligible to start being Dudie Archdale, Willy, Spanish Queen, Nancy Royce, Fair Margaret and other stars of the light harness world.

The feature of the week, the $10,000 Paper Mills stake for 2:14 class trotters, will be raced Wednesday and at least fifteen horses are expected to face the starter.

Horsemen say the track is faster than ever before. The weather today is cool and clear.

COURTHOUSE BOYS WIN PLAYGROUND MEET.

The first interplayground meet was held last Sturday at the Thirty-first avenue west grounds, between the courthouse playground boys, the Thirty-first avenue west boys and the West Duluth boys. The contest was won by the courthouse boys who scored 38 points, while the Thirty-first avenue west boys got 27 and the West Duluth boys scored 12.

The entries were made as to ages, the boys under 11 years of age entering in the first contests, while those between 12 and 15 formed the second teams. In the class under 11 years, the Duluth boys scored two first prizes and three seconds, making 16 points, while the West end team got two firsts, one second and one third, making 13 points. The West Duluth boys landed one second, and were not entered in three contests.

However, the West Duluth boys won the baseball glories, which counted much for them. The West Enders first defeated the courthouse team at a game but fell down before the West Duluth youngsters.

The contests will be held every Saturday hereafter, and it is expected that bigger representations will be made.

HACKETT DRAWS DOWN HIS MONEY

John L. Hackett writes to The Herald that he has deposited $200 with the Toronto Globe to bind a sculling race with Edward Durnan, the race to be rowed for $1,000 a side, either at Toronto or at Rainy River.

He also informs the sporting editor of The Herald that the negotiations for the time being are off in regard to the proposed race with Ten Eyck, inasmuch as Ten Eyck is unwilling to back himself and cannot get backing.

However, Hackett states that in the event of Ten Eyck finding any one who will put up a purse, he will race him in Duluth or any other part of the country.

Hackett also states that he will row the coach of the Duluth Boat club on the winner take all basis.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO NEW YORK ON MOTOR-CYCLE.

New York, July 17.—Volney F. Davis, captain of the San Francisco Motor Cycle club, whirled into New York from San Francisco on his motor cycle a few minutes after noon yesterday, winner of the trans-continental race, and holder of a new time record jaunt.

Davis made the trip of 3,745 miles in twenty days, nine hours and one minute, clipping more than eleven days from the previous record. He spent ten hours a day in the saddle, he said; lost eleven pounds and sustained a bruised leg, a sprained shoulder and numerous cuts in many falls.

W. C. Beaman and Paul E. Kottlowsky, cyclists who started eight and nine days, respectively, before him, Davis said, were passed near Buffalo.

BULL NEWS FROM WEST

Wheat Has Some Advance on Report of Black Rust.

Markets Nervous and Fluctuations Are Narrow—Linseed Inactive.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 17.—Wheat showed a slight advance in all American markets today on the strength of reported further deterioration of crops and reports of black rust from North Dakota. The market was nervous on conflicting reports and the fluctuations were slight.

The Duluth market opened about unchanged and the movement during the early hours was slight. Toward the close there was a stiffening up and closing prices were higher, July showing an advance of 1⅜c for the day.

July wheat opened in Duluth ½c off at 98c bid, advanced to 99½c and then to $1.00¼, falling off at the close to 99⅞c. September wheat opened unchanged at 96½c, advanced to 96¾c, fell off to 96c, advanced again to 96¾c, then to 97⅜c and dropped off at the close to 96⅞c.

The linseed market was quiet all through the session. July linseed opened unchanged at $2.05 bid and closed at that figure without fluctuation. September linseed opened unchanged at $2.05 bid and closed at that figure also. October linseed opened 1c off at $1.96 bid, advanced to $1.97 bid, then to $1.98 bid and closed at that figure, an advance of 1c for the day.

The cash demand was good, both in Duluth and Minneapolis, cash being quoted at 3c over September in Duluth. Durum was 1½c up at 89½c; oats were 2¾c off at 43½c; rye was unchanged at 73-73c, and corn was 1c off at 64¾c.

The Liverpool market was influenced by professional tactics today and closed ⅛d to ¼d lower. An early advance, due to shorts covering was wiped out by realizing. Corn in Liverpool was 1⅛d to 1¼d lower. Berlin wheat was ¼c lower and Budapest wheat unchanged.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—The market displayed a firm undertone at the start and values were ¼d to ½d higher and following the opening further advanced ¼d to ½d with the principal support in December. Buying was largely by shorts; still there was support by prominent interests, stimulated by Inglis' report on Saturday on spring wheat, smaller world's shipments than were expected and the continued firmness of offers of winter. Just before mid-day there was a recession with realizing by a large firm who purchased early and a decline of ¼d to ⅝d occurred from the high. European advices continued greatly favorable with Plata and Russian offerings liberal. At 1:30 p. m. the market was steady and ¼d to ⅜d higher than Saturday.

"Corn—The market opened ¼d lower being influenced by the more favorable American weather and the liberal world's shipments. Following the opening the market was dull at the opening decline."

John Inglis writes Logan & Bryan from Aberdeen, S. D.: "The wheat from Minneapolis to Glencoe, fifty miles, while smaller than last year, is a fair crop of good quality, much of it cut. From Glencoe to Granite Falls it runs more uneven. Through this section there is a large acreage of velvet chaff that will make a fair crop, but far short of a year ago. This variety has stood adverse weather conditions better than the other. Some blue stem barley has rusted, the last seriously so. Taking the run from Minneapolis to Granite Falls it shows up better than any other part of the state. West from Granite Falls to Ortonville it runs down considerably. Oats also are being cut. They stand up like a good crop but they have all ripened white from the top. The quality is poor. Corn could not look better. Tassel clean and milk out, also fertilization is completed and it stands strong and vigorous.

Coming into South Dakota there is no improvement. A few fields bordering Minnesota have some wheat but from Milbank to Aberdeen 90 per cent of the fields are absolutely worthless. The corn still retains color but is not half the height it is in Minnesota. Very few fields are tasseled. The flax retains its color but both flax and corn will need rain to make a crop. Oats where they can be cut are mowed for hay."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Coarse Grain Influence Weakens Wheat After Firm Opening.

Chicago, July 17.—Although wheat, in sympathy with foreign markets, had a rather firm start today, a period of weakness followed due to the influence or coarse grain. The initial strength was based partly on small world shipments and a big decrease in the total on ocean passages. Rain and cool weather formed the main reason for the backset in other cereals. Wheat opened ⅛@¼c off to ⅛c up. September at the outset was 88½c, a gain of a shade to ⅛@¼c. After touching 88¼@88¾c, however, the market fell to 87⅝c.

Export talk and the mention of flour sales led to a rally. There were also frost dispatches from Manitoba. Furthermore, Minnesota and North Dakota reported the crop going backwards. The close, however, was easy with September at 88c, a net gain of a shade.

Moisture over the entire belt from Indiana to the Far West pulled down corn. Forage was also reported as having received much benefit in the cotton states. September opened ⅛@¼c lower at 66⅛@66⅜c, and descended to 65⅝@65⅞c.

Prices recovered temporarily with wheat but afterwards drooped worse than before. The close was weak with September 1⅜ net lower at 64¾c.

In the oats crowd, buyers were few and deliberate. Accordingly the market sagged with corn. September started ⅛@⅜c down at 45⅛@46c, and went as low as 44⅜c.

An upward tendency at the yards helped sustain provisions. First sales were 5c off to 5c up, with January product $15.66 for pork. $8.35@8.37½ for lard, and $8.02½ for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Stronger on Bullish Reports From Fields.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 17.—A strong undertone ruled as a result of further bullish crop reports. Damage from black rust and grasshoppers increased. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 190,000 bu for two days. Minneapolis today received 277 cars of wheat against 203 a year ago; Duluth, 13 against 63, and Winnipeg, 305 against 124. DECLINES IN STOCKS

Prices Fall Off Late in Day and Early Gains Lost.

Lowest Range Is Reached Near the Close, Which Is Heavy.

New York, July 17.—Most of the active stocks opened with fractional gains today on a small volume of trading. The Harriman stocks, Atchison, Erie first preferred, and Canadian Pacific were the strongest. Some heaviness was shown by the Hill issues, Amalgamated Copper and Lehigh Valley, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis lost ¾.

The market stiffened after the opening, and the Hill stocks recovered from their early heaviness. Advances were not large, however, and the trading fell off before the end of the first hour. Canadian Pacific showed pronounced strength, gaining 1½. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie advanced a point and Underwood Typewriter, 4 points. American Locomotive lost 1.

Quotations held steady at a slightly higher range throughout the morning session. The undertone was firm and there seemed to be no pressure to sell. Southern Railway was the most active issue of the list during the fore part of the day, and the stock rose to 33 within a fraction of its high point of the year. The inertia of the prominent stocks led to a movement among the specialties, which fluctuated more widely. Texas Oil rose a point in response to the news that the active head of the company probably would recover from his serious illness. National Enameling & Stamping advanced 1¾ and Bank of Commerce 4 points. American Tobacco preferred and Long Island railroad lost 1. Bonds steady.

The market closed heavy. Prices fell off further late in the day and the slight gains established earlier were eliminated. Before the close the lowest range of the session was reached, the leading stocks showing fractional net losses. National Biscuit advanced 2 points. Erie second preferred and Illinois Central lost 1.

QUIET DAY IN COPPER MARKET

The copper market was quiet today. There was little fluctuation during the day and the close was just a little off from the opening in most cases, showing a weakness due to inactivity. Amalgamated was most active stock of the copper list and its activity was purely professional and was narrow.

Amalgamated opened at $63.75, fell off to $63.37½, advanced to $63.87½ and fell off at the close to $63.37½. North Butte opened at 32.50 and closed at $32 bid and $32.50 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $57.75 and closed at $57.50 bid and $58 asked. Butte Coalition opened at $18, held at that figure, and closed at $18 bid and $18.25 asked. Giroux opened at $6.37½ and closed at $6.25 bid and $6.37 asked. Greene-Cananea opened at $6.87½, advanced to $7, and closed at $6.87½ bid and $7.06 asked.

Calumet & Montana nearly monopolized the trading on the Duluth stock exchange, selling up from 40@44c, Butte Alex-Scott held at $6.62½ asked, Red Warrior at $1.50 asked, Denn-Arizona at $5 bid and $5.63½ asked, and Butte Ballaklava at $4.50 bid and $4.75 asked.

ARRESTED AS A FUGITIVE

Sherman Baird, 46 years of age, and the son of well-to-do parents in Kansas City, was arrested here this noon by Detective Frank Schulte as a fugitive from justice. Baird has been in Duluth about a year working for the street car company under the name of W. Davis. He is wanted in Kansas City by the postoffice authorities for the theft of $1,000 which it is claimed he stole. He was employed as a railway mail clerk there two years ago, and the disappearance of Baird and a $1,000 package of notes simultaneously fastened suspicion upon him.

The arrest was made after investigations by R. S. Brower of the federal secret serivce. Baird's parents in Kansas City are said to be quite prominent, his father having at one time been president of a bank there.

RETURNS FROM TRIP ABROAD

F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, returned yesterday afternoon from a trip abroad.

Mrs. House and the children did not return with him, remaining in England for a few weeks.

"We did not see the coronation," said Mr. House. "We were visiting in the country at the time and did not make an effort to get into London for the crowning of the king."

CARLTON BLUEBERRY CROP.

Cloquet, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The blueberry crop in Carlton county has just begun to be harvested and is the largest in several years. Last summer the season was so dry that there were no blueberries at all, and those that did not dry up on the bushes for want of rain were burned over by the fires. Many bushels are being brought into the city every day.

CLOQUET POULTRY SCHOOL.

Cloquet, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cloquet is to have a poultry school for the purpose of teaching the principles of poultry raising and the instruction will be not only for children of the public schools but also for men and women interested in this popular and profitable line of farming. R. C. Schifflett, teacher of agriculture for the public schools of Cloquet, will give a series of free lectures Monday, July 24, and Wednesday and Friday evenings at the Lincoln high school building.

New Cloquet Jail Plans.

Cloquet, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council has made arrangements for the purchase of lots for a new city jail for Cloquet. The old jail was condemned last year, and shortly afterward the council levied the sum of $6,000 to be used toward a new jail. Two thousand dollars of this sum will be used to purchase the lots from the Cloquet Lumber company.

HEAR STORY BY TURRISH

Lorimer Investigators Put Second Duluth Man on Stand.

Ask Him About Hines Telephone Talk From Hotel.

Washington, July 17.—At the afternoon session of the Lorimer investigating committee of the senate, Henry Turrish of Duluth was called. According to Wirt H. Cook of Duluth, Mr. Turrish was present at the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago about May, 1909, when Hines remarked he was "having a hell of a time in Washington," and that "old Stephenson, after I elected him, was working for free lumber," and "the Southern Democrats" would not stay out. Hines denied this alleged conversation when on the stand.

Spoke of Stephenson.

Turrish, who is a business associate of Cook, testified today that during this conversation the demand for lumber on the Pacific coast and in the South, and the tariff fight at Washington were discussed.

"I said," declared Mr. Turrish, "'I supposed Senator Stephenson, being a lumberman, was all right,' and Mr. Hines replied, "No, Stephenson is an uncertain quantity."

The witness said he did not hear Stephenson referred to as "old Stephenson."

The names of both Lorimer and Representative Boutell, now in the diplomatic service, were mentioned, but the witness could not say in just what connection, nor could he recall anything being said about the Southern Democrats, nor Senator Aldrich.

An affidavit made by William Burgess of Duluth on April 17 last was produced at the afternoon session. It declared

MARINE NEWS

MORE BOATS NEXT YEAR

Demands of Passenger Service on the Lakes Taxing Equipment.

Vessels Are Carrying Full Capacity With Long Waiting Lists.

Passenger business of the Great Lakes is larger than ever this year, and the transportation companies are at a loss as to what to do to care for it all. Every boat of the Anchor line coming to Duluth is filled to its capacity, while the Northern Navigation company's steamers are also filled. The Minnesota, the only vessel that the Chicago & Duluth Tranportation company has running between the Windy City and Duluth, is on her way here loaded to her carrying limit, while the local officials have a waiting list of nearly 100 who are anxious to get reservation.

It is rumored among local representatives of these different companies, that more passenger vessels are to be put on the runs to Duluth next year. Only one company has so far definitely announced that it will have a new boat, this being the Northern Navigation company, but the new steamer will not be available until the 1913 season. The Chicago & Duluth company, it is said, is seriously considering such a project, but whether it will be in position to get a vessel by that time seems doubtful.

McKINSTRY NOW AT CLEVELAND

New Engineer at Ohio Port Formerly Located at Duluth.

Maj. Charles H. McKinstry, who recently was assigned by the war department to take charge of the corps of engineer's office at Cleveland, Ohio, is well known in Duluth, having been connected with the local engineer's office under Maj. Clinton B. Sears.

While in the Duluth office Maj. McKinstry had charge of the first examination and survey of a location of a canal connecting Lake Superior and the Mississippi river. The work was of a most thorough character, and shows his ability as an engineer. The report is very complete and clear, and describes the work in full. His estimate of the cost of such a canal was given as $6,012,500, and the annual maintenance expense was set at $350,000.

Since his report, two others have been made, one by Lieut. Col. Graham D. Fitch, in 1909, in which he makes another route, the cost of which is set at $7,815,000, and the annual maintenance of which would be $420,000.

Maj. McKinstry has for several years been connected with the war department service in the Philippines, where he has been the chief engineering officer. His work there has been of a high order, it is said, and those who know him, consider Cleveland fortunate in securing him. He is to succeed Maj. John Millis, who has been transferred to a southern port.

IMPROVEMENT IS NOT NEEDED

Through what is probably a misunderstanding between the officials of the war department and those interested in the dredging work now being carried on at Ogdensburg, N. Y., by the Duluth Marine Contracting company, a nineteen-foot channel is to be cut and the corners of the bar, which have been a menace to the larger vessels entering the harbor, will remain.

It is claimed by private interests there, that the deeper channel is not needed, but that the dredging about the harbor should be more extensive, covering a bigger area. The Duluth company has a contract for the removal of about 1,000,000 cubic feet of dirt, at 13 cents per yard.

The work has been passed upon by the war department, and the Duluth concern will carry out the instructions as given in the contract. It is reported from the lower lakes, that this improvement is not needed, however, and that the officer in charge there had recommended that it be not done. But congress has appropriated the money necessary for such a job, and the war department is merely carrying it out.

"JUST ACT OF REVENGE."

Attorney for Alaska Syndicate Talks of Wickersham Charges.

Salem, Or., July 17.—"Delegate Wickersham of Alaska is angry because the Alaska syndicate would not employ him at $15,000 a year as its attorney, and is trying to get back," said Attorney George A. Carson of this city, special attorney for the Alaska syndicate, after reading the charges brought by the Alaska delegate against Attorney General Wickersham.

Regarding the letter which was submitted as evidence intended to show that witnesses for the government had been controlled, Carson, the writer of the epistle to Capt. Jarvis, said those witnesses, although brought to Juneau by the government, were not called upon to testify by the prosecution as their evidence was found by the federal counsel to be material to the defense. Naturally, he explained, the defense subpoenaed the witnesses and paid them.

"The government has sent different agents to Seattle, Alaska and elsewhere and has found that their conduct in the hazy case was regular," said Carson.

DULUTH ARCHITECTS SUBMIT PLAN FOR IMPROVING APPROACH TO COURTHOUSE

PLAN FOR IMPROVING COURTHOUSE GROUNDS.

The above sketch is a practical suggestion for a formal approach and garden in front of the St. Louis county courthouse, Duluth. It is enthusiastically approved by Bishop McGolrick, who is working to have it adopted.

The appearance of improper setting to this fine building has long been apparent to every one, and the above solution, it is claimed, will complete the scheme and give the building its due dignity.

The natural slope of the site, although a drawback to the building in its present unfinished setting, on account of the low effect of the entrance, has been utilized to the benefit of the building by forming a terrace across the front which will add apparent height, as the base of the terrace will be seen from First street.

The roadway and sidewalks which now abruptly terminate and leave the pedestrian standing undecided as to the meaning of this seeming reversion to wood sidewalks and dirty, unpaved street crossings, are divided on each side of a centrally placed fountain and garden, which rise slightly above the adjacent terraces and emphasize the entrance to the courthouse, and at the same time create that hazy, mystic, partly obstructed view which gives interest to the building.

From the end of the present sidewalk easy flights of stairs rise to the terrace levels, which continue around the roadway to the front entrance of the building. The terraces are continued east and west on each side of the entrance enclosing a garden, the balustrade to the terraces being recessed for seats along the entire length of the building.

The scheme is submitted by Anthony Puck & Holstead, architects.

ON THEIR WAY TO DULUTH

Attorneys From All Over the State Are Headed for This City.

Feature of Meeting Will Be Address of Attorney General Wickersham.

For their annual meeting which takes place in Duluth Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the delegates to the state bar convention from St. Paul, Minneapolis and points south of the Twin Cities, will arrive in Duluth this evening.

The business sessions will begin tomorrow morning at the assembly hall of the Commercial club. The meeting opens with an address by the president, Lafayette French of Austin, Minn.

Following the annual address by the president the committee on jurisprudence and law reforms will report. Several matters of interest to attorneys will be brought up in this report. At 2 o'clock there will be an open discussion of the decisions of the supreme court of the United States in the Standard Oil and tobacco cases, to be led by W. A. Lancaster of Minneapolis, J. B. Cotton of Duluth, E. T. Young and Pierce Butler of St. Paul.

At 4 o'clock the members and their wives will be given an automobile drive covering the city and boulevard drive and lasting until dinner time.

Wednesday, "The Recall of Judges" will be discussed by John Moonan of Waseca, James Manahan of St. Paul, and John Jenswold, Jr. of Duluth.

Following the above discussion, Jared How and E. S. Durment will be heard on "The Conflict Between Federal and State Control of Railway Rates." The remainder of this session will be devoted to the consideration of such criticisms of, or suggestions concerning, Minnesota practice, as the members may desire to make.

At 2 o'clock the annual address will be delivered by Hon. George W. Wickersham, attorney general of the United States. A special audience room will be secured for this occasion and the public will be welcome to attend.

At 7:15 o'clock the annual dinner will be held in the ball room on the fourth floor of the Spalding hotel.

Thursday a short session devoted to unfinished or miscellaneous business and the election of officers, following which the members and their wives will be at the disposal of the Duluth entertainment committee.

The members and their wives will view the afternoon sports from the deck of T. F. Cole's yacht, the Alvina, Mr. Cole having loaned the boat to the bar association for the occasion. In the evening the members will view the water parade from the steamer Columbia, the boat having been chartred for the members.

The place for the address of Attorney General Wickersham has not been decided upon. It will be either at the Orpheum theater or at the Spalding hotel, however.

TAKES VALUABLE PEARL TO CHICAGO JEWELER.

Bemidji, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Bates, the young man who picked a valuable pearl from the Mississippi river near Bemidji last week, has gone to Pine City to join his father, a professional pearl hunter.

From Pine City, the two Bates will go to Chicago to confer with Peacock, a jeweler, relative to the sale of the black pearl, which George T. Parker & Co. of this city have pronounced one of the finest specimens found in the United States.

If he is able get as much in Chicago out of the pearl as he thinks he should, Bates said he would continue to New York. He does not wish to let the pearl go for less than $3,000 in cash, and believes that he should also share in the profit of the sale to another party.

AIRMEN WILL FLY AT BESSEMER, MICH.

Air Flights to Be Feature of Upper Peninsula Firemen's Meet.

Bessemer, Mich., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bessemer people are making great preparations for entertaining the Upper Peninsula Firemen's meeting here July 26, 27 and 28. A feature of the meeting will be aeroplane flights. Three flights daily are to be made, July 27 and 28, by one of three airmen, McCurdy, Beachy or Ely with the Curtiss biplane. A huge tent has been secured for a hangar, in which the aeroplane is to be housed and where the demonstrator will explain the machine. This will be the chief attraction and excursion trains will run from all points in the Upper Peninsula to Bessemer.

STATE LANDS WILL BE SOLD

State lands will be sold July 19 at public auction at the courthouse at a land sale conducted under the auspices of State Auditor Iverson.

Theodore Nelson, manager of the sales department will be in Duluth with a deputy to put on the sale. These sales are now being held monthly. There will be another in September, October and November.

Last month the sale was very small. This was due, no doubt, to the fact that several sales had already been held in the city and those who wanted land had secured it.

The terms of the sale are as follows: "Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1, 1912, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance is 4 per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1 of each year, provided the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from date of sale the rate of interest will be computed at 5 per cent per annum.

"Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

"Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

"All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

"Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the county auditor."

City Has $53,395 to Spend on Streets and Bridges.

Semi-Annual Report Shows Repair Work for First Half of Year.

The semi-annual financial statement of the board of public works for the six months ending July 1 shows that department to be in good shape, with an estimated available working balance of $53,395. The biggest part of the improvement work is under way and satisfactory progress is being made. The total betterments this year, however, will not be as great as last year.

Allowing for overdrafts of last year and for 10 per cent which it is thought will not be collected, the board had a total of $98,830.49. This includes $45,021.90 in the works fund, $25,307.49 in the street maintenance and repair fund, and $23,702.85 which has been collected under the wheelage tax ordinance.

Up to the end of June it is estimated that $15,000 has been spent from the street maintenance and repair fund, which includes the wheelage tax money. This has been used for making improvements to streets and avenues in the city limits. Part of this has been used upon two of the heaviest traveled st. ets in Duluth and which have been in about the worst shape of any local highway. They are West Superior street on both side of Garfield avenue and West Third street, or Grand avenue, between the ore docks and Fifty-fourth avenue west. Considerable patching has been done on the former, while numerous holes and ruts have been filled with crushed rock on the latter, putting it in fairly presentable shape.

The board this morning awarded the contract for the grading and graveling of West Fifth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth avenues to Hugh Steele, whose bid was $3,398.90, a combined cement curb and gutter will be laid.

The contract for the grading and resurfacing of Third alley between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues, with a combined cement curb and gutter, went to George R. King for $1,211.60. C. R. McLean will build the extension to the West end dock. His bid was $1,008.40. The sandstone approach to the Lakeside fire hall, with cement walks and curb, will be made by E. O. Dahl. His bid was $364.73. Contractor John A. Johnson was given an extension of time until Aug. 1 to complete the improvement of Irving Place, in the Normal school district. It is being paved with granitoid.

SAYS HINES BRAGGED THAT HE PERSONALLY "ELECTED LORIMER"

Cigar Stand Employe Testifies Before Senate Committee.

Lumber Company Employe Backs Hines' Version of Conversations.

Turrish Supports Greater Part of Wirt Cook's Story.

Washington, July 18.—How Edward Hines, the Chicago lumberman, is said to have boasted he "elected Lorimer to the senate," was related today before the senate Lorimer committee by Donald M. Frame, a cigar stand employe in the Union League club in Chicago. It was near this stand that Herman H. Hettler claimed Hines remarked to him on the day Lorimer was elected:

"Lorimer has been elected. I elected him. I did it myself, personally."

Today Frame swore that he could not recall the words, but that "Mr. Hines said, 'I have elected Lorimer our next senator.'"

Repeated Hines' Version.

A gruelling cross examination was given today to Isaac Baker of Chicago, a buyer for the Edward Hines Lumber company, when in his testimony he repeated almost verbatim Edward Hines' version of two disputed conversations which have been used to connect Hines with Senator Lorimer's election.

The witness declared that it was not unusual for him to repeat precisely Hines' words, and insisted that he had never read Hines' testimony nor heard Hines' account of the conversations.

CAPT. D. H. JARVIS,

Who committed suicide following the filing at Washington of charges regarding alleged fraud cases involving the Alaskan coal lands. SOME MORE RAIN IN NORTH DAKOTA

Slight Fall Beneficial to Crops, Mars Opening of Fargo Fair.

Fargo, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The attendance at the opening of the interstate fair today was light because of rain which fell several hours last night and all the forenoon. Reports from over the state indicate a light precipitation everywhere except in the northeastern and southwestern counties. It is highly beneficial. The harvest of winter wheat and winter rye will be slightly delayed by the rain.

REPLY FROM DR. WILEY

President Receives Answer of Chief Chemist to Charges.

Will Take No Action Until Wickersham's Return to Capital.

Washington, July 18. — Dr. Wiley declined today to discuss his answer in any way but intimated that it was "brief and to the point." An unverified report was current here this afternoon that the president would mildly reprimand Dr. Wiley, but would not under any circumstances request his resignation.

Washington, July 18.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's answer to the charges against him by the personnel board of the department of agriculture was presented to President Taft today. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson received the papers from Dr. Wiley just before he left the department for the regular cabinet meeting. He had had no time to read them before the cabinet session began, and declared that he would not be able to make a recommendation today. The outline of Dr. Wiley's defense was not known by Mr. Wilson, and was not disclosed at the White House.

Although Attorney General Wickersham is out of the city, the case was discussed informally by members of the president's official family. No announcement as to when the president will dispose of the case was forthcoming, but it is not probable that he will be able to settle it for several days.

Wait For Wickersham.

Attorney General Wickersham speaks tomorrow night in Duluth, and while Mr. Taft undoubtedly went over the case with him before he left the city, it is believed Mr. Taft would wish his attorney general to read Dr. Wiley's answer. Mr. Wickersham will not be back in Washington before Friday. The president goes Friday noon to Manassas, Va., to attend a Blue and Gray reunion. Sometime Saturday he will leave for Beverly, to spend the

DIES IN CELL AS GALLOWS WAITS

Beaver, Pa., July 18.—Charles Hickman, who was to have been hanged here today for the murder of his wife, Mollie Hickman, in February, 1910, collapsed in his cell in the county jail during the night and died this morning at 8 o'clock. Hickman escaped from jail twice after his conviction and Saturday night last attempted to take his life by inhaling gas. He repeatedly told the guards he would never live to be hanged.

ITALY AIDING AMERICANS

Cholera Invasion Is Rendered Less Likely By Vigorous Measures.

No Further Cases Are Reported as Yet at New York.

New York, July 18.—Fear of a cholera invasion has been considerably allayed here by vigorous precautionary measures. The governments of the United States and Italy are co-operating with the New York health department. Italy has detailed surgeons of her navy to all ships bound to America from plague-infected ports to prevent the spread of the infection among passengers and to aid the quarantine officers when ships arrive here.

The federal authorities have sanctioned a ten day quarantine for such vessels, and have sent here several medical experts, including Assistant Surgeon General L. E. Cofer, from the Pacific coast, and Dr. H. Von Ezdorf, who is in charge of the United States marine hospital at Mobile.

Examine 600 Passengers.

Since no ship is scheduled to arrive here from the Mediterranean for two days, the health officers of the port were able to devote all their attention today to the bacteriological examination of some 600 passengers of the steamers Moltke and Perugia, still in quarantine. The sixth victim of cholera died yesterday.

The state investigation of Health Officer Doty's management of quarantine, resumed here today, has gained unexpected importance through the cholera situation.

The health officer of the port, Dr. Alvah H. Doty, looks on the cholera situation here as increasingly favorable. He issued the following bulletin this morning:

"At Hoffman island conditions are satisfactory. There have been no fur-

EDITORS MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION

American and Canadian Writers Gather at Detroit, Mich.

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—Editors from all parts of the United States and a considerable number from Canada are in Detroit to attend the annual convention of the National Editorial association, which began this morning. During the three days sessions there will be papers and discussions on all phases of editorial and news writing and the relations of newspapers to the public.

One of the important questions to be decided by the delegates is a proposition to reorganize the association business as to include in its membership business, advertising and circulation managers of newspapers, as well as editors.

An extensive program of entertainments has been arranged for the amusement and edification of the visiting writers between business sessions.

At the conclusion of the convention, many of the members intend making a lake trip to Montreal and Quebec, with side trips to the Muskoka lakes and the Cobalt mining region of Northern Ontario.

HEAR SUGAR TRUST MEN

Congressmen Resume Hearing at New York—Thomas on Stand.

Chairman of American's Directors Defends Havemeyer's Memory.

New York, July 18.—Further details of the fight between the American Sugar Refining company and its rivals will be revealed at the government's investigation of the so-called sugar trust, resumed here today after adjournment in Washington.

Some of the prospective witnesses before the special congressional committee are John Arbuckle, Claus Spreckles, W. B. Thomas, president of the American Sugar Refining company, John E. Parsons, its attorney, and Arthur Donner, for many years its treasurer.

Mr. Arbuckle, who was unable to attend the hearings in Washington on account of illness, was head of the Arbuckle interests which long waged war with their larger opponent. Mr. Spreckels is president of the Federal Sugar company, another independent concern, which has its plant at Yonkers.

Hear Customs Employes.

In addition to the manufacturers the committee expects to hear employes of the customs service and review charges of fraud practiced by

MURDER LAID TO BOYS AND GIRLS

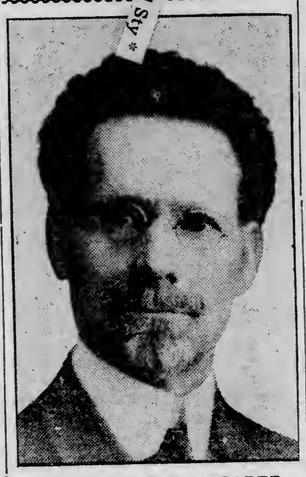

Rich Ranchman Robbed and Body Found in Colorado Creek.

Grand Junction, Col., July 18.—Gladys Thompson, aged 17, Lillian Osborne, aged 14, Lee Baker, aged 16, and Virgil Wilson, aged 17, by a verdict of the coroner's jury reached last evening, are held for the alleged felonious drowning of Clark L. Wolfkill, a rich bachelor ranchman, who was found in the creek near Clifton last Wednesday.

According to the evidence brought out at the inquest, the girls and boys had been living in a tent near Wolfkill's ranch. On the morning of his death Wolfkill received $2,500 in a horse deal, and at the same time the two girls visited him at his ranch. The money disappeared. About noon the girls left the ranch and came to town and in the afternoon came back with the two boys. Soon after Wolfkill's body was discovered on the river bank.

LAWYERS OF STATE GATHER IN DULUTH FOR ANNUAL MEETING

DELIVERS ANNUAL ADDRESS TO LAWYERS

PRESIDENT J. D. SHEARER.

President James D. Shearer Opens Session With Annual Address.

H. V. Mercer of Minneapolis Reads Paper on Workmen's Compensation.

Fully 150 of State's Most Prominent Attorneys City's Guests.

With fully 150 attorneys from points all over the state of Minnesota and with practically every local lawyer in the city in attendance, the annual meeting of the Minnesota State Bar association opened this morning in the assembly room of the Duluth Commercial club.

A large number of Twin City attorneys came up yesterday in a special car which was attached to the Twilight Limited. From other points they continued coming in this morning until at the opening hour, 10 o'clock, nearly 300 members, including local men, had gathered for the opening session.

Before the hour set for the first meeting the men gathered at the Commercial club and many were the greetings and hearty hand-shakes. As the late comers straggled in they were given strenuous welcomes to Duluth. The reception committee was on the job and no one was unnoticed.

A great many of the men assembled in Duluth are the older members of the association and they greeted each other with the ardor of long lost brothers.

Annual Address.

At the opening session President James D. Shearer of Minneapolis delivered the annual address. He took as his subject "The Trend of Modern Legislation."

Following the reading of the president's paper, H. V. Mercer of Minneapolis read a paper on "Workmen's Compensation." Both papers showed careful study of the subjects and they were enthusiastically received.

The address of Attorney General George W. Wickersham, the feature of the State Bar association meeting in Duluth, will be given at the Spalding hotel tomorrow afternoon at 2 P. m. There will be no admission and the House Committee Will Conduct Investigation, Whatever Is Done.

Washington, July 18.—Whatever action President Taft takes in the case of Dr. Wiley, the house committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture doubtless will conduct its investigation into the charges against Dr. Wiley. A member of the committee said today that there was no reason why the committee should turn back from the work it has started, and that "in any case it should try to find out what interests were using their influence to get Wiley out of the service."

AMERICAN GIFT TO ABBATEMAGGIO

Stocks and $160 Sent to Informer in Cammorist Trial.

Viterbo, Italy, July 18.—Gennaro Abbatemaggio, who is hugely enjoying his role of informer against the Camorrists charged with the murders of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife, has received from parties in New York a check for $160 and three shares of a stock. Because laws of Italy do not permit a prisoner to receive presents, the director of the prison has sequestered these gifts.

The interrogation of Capt. Fabrioni, who was detailed by the ministry of justice to run down the murderer of the Cuoccolos after the police had failed, was continued today.

REAL ESTATE MEN IN DENVER

Thorpe of Minneapolis May Be Elected Head of Association.

Denver, Col., July 18.—The fourth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, with representatives from many parts of the country, began today.

A feature today was Denver's annual industrial parade. The convention will be called to order this afternoon by President Alexander S. Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio. Governor John F. Shafroth will deliver an address of welcome to Colorado, and Henry A. Lindsley, city attorney of Denver, will deliver an address of welcome to Denver.

Preliminary skirmishes of the politicians for the presidency and the next convention took definite form on the arrival of the national officers. Louisville, Ky., was first in the field for the 1912 convention with Kansas City, St. Louis, Atlanta and Chicago regarded as formidable contenders.

While the presidential race has not been sharply drawn, Vice President Samuel S. Thorpe of Minneapolis and Frank Crayen of Philadelphia are the two most prominently mentioned. At present the contest seems to hinge on whether President Alexander S. Taylor of Cleveland will accept re-election.

CROSS ATLANTIC IN SMALL BOAT

Three Men Who Left Providence June 10, Reach Gibraltar.

Gibraltar, July 18.—The American auxiliary yawl Sea Bird, which arrived from the Azores last night, is sailing late today for Italy.

Capt. Thomas F. Day of New York and his companions, T. R. Goodwin and F. B. Thurber of Providence, R. I., report a pleasant trip across the Atlantic. In their twenty-five-foot craft they left Providence, R. I., on June 10, and arrived at Horta, in the Azores, on July 1. On July 5 they set sail for Gibraltar. From the Azores they experienced light winds and calm weather. They made the trip of approximately 3,300 miles in thirty-five sailing days.

PUTS FORMER PRESIDENT OF SANTO DOMINGO IN JAIL

Official "Discourager of Revolutions" Makes First Report.

Joseph R. Darling Tells of Bloodless Conquest of Rebels.

New York, July 18.—Uncle Sam's first official "discourager of revolutions" landed here today to report a successful mission in Porto Rico. He is Joseph R. Darling, special agent of the department of justice, who has just succeeded in having Gen. Carlos F. Morales, ex-president of the Santo Domingo republic, and Gen. Mauricio Jiminez, its ex-vice president, held for trial on a charge of violating the neutrality laws in attempting to organize in Porto Rico a military expedition against the country they formerly ruled.

"This is the first case of the kind," said Mr. Darling, "instituted by the United States since the act of March 4, 1909.

Headquarters at New York.

"Morales, the leading spirit, made his headquarters at New York. He made arrangements here for the purchase of large quantities or arms and ammunition and entered into negotiations for a war vessel. His operations were so far-reaching that a number of prominent New York merchants and exporting agents have been subpoenaed to appear at the trial in Porto Rico next fall."

Mr. Darling said that Santo Domingo was passing through an era of prosperity and peace, and that its people realized the Morales revolution was defeated without bloodshed.

Under the new law the penalty Morales and Jiminez will have to pay, if they are found guilty, is a fine of not more than $3,000 and maximum imprisonment of three years.

TWO YEARS IN JAIL; SAVES ABOUT $400.

Iola, Kan., July 18.—After spending nearly two years in the county jail, following his refusal to pay his divorced wife alimony after she had remarried, Peter W. Ball was released last night. He settled the case by paying $191, of which his former wife will get $85 as alimony.

The former Mrs. Ball was allowed $600 alimony, but when she remarried Ball refused to pay this, saying her present husband was able to support her. The court, however, ordered him to pay the alimony and he refused.

UP TO THEIR OLD TRICKS AGAIN.

FRANCE DEMANDS SPAIN EXPLAIN CONSUL'S ARREST

Incident in Morocco Has Inflamed the Gallic Press.

Newspapers Declare Paris Will Bear Provocations No Longer.

Paris, July 18.—France today asked Spain to explain the arrest of M. Boisset, the French consular agent at Alcazar, Morocco, by a Spanish patrol, the report of which incident is confirmed in official advices.

L. Geoffroy, the French ambassador at Madrid, will return to his post this evening.

The press is aroused over what it calls the repeated insults on the part of Spain, and demands apologies.

The French newspapers first turned their attention from the Franco-German controversy to the Spanish attitude two days ago when the French government asked its charge d'affaires at Madrid to request an explanation of the mistreatment of two Frenchmen by Spanish troops at Alcazar. At that time the press declared France would no longer accept the provocations from Spain which began with the extension of her military operations in Northern Morocco.

Dignity is Offended.

The latest incident has further inflamed the feeling of offended dignity. A press dispatch from Tangier yesterday said a message from Alcazar stated that M. Boisset, the French consular agent, while returning from a stroll in the country, was stopped by a Spanish patrol who attempted to take his carbine from him. Finally the patrol conducted the agent to the Spanish barracks, where he was released upon the order of the officer in charge, who said that a mistake had been made, but offered no apology.

JOKES ABOUT DIVING AND THEN HE DROWNS.

Deadwood, S. D., July 18.— "I don't know whether I can swim or not, but here goes for a try at forty miles an hour," said 19-year-old Edgar Baldwin to his companions at the Christianson ice pond near Whitewood. The other boys were dressing on the bank and thought Baldwin was joking as he dived into deep water. When he failed to come up the second time help was summoned, and his body was recovered.

SECOND GUNBOAT GOING TO HAITI

Washington Acts on Request of American Minister There.

Washington, July 18.—At the request of American Minister Furniss at Port-au-Prince, the United States will send another gunboat to Haitien waters to protect Americans and their interests, now seriously threatened by the revolution against President Simon. The second warship will go to Port-au-Prince, the capital. The gunboat Petrel is already at Port Liberte on the north coast.

Mr. Furniss regards the situation as acute and fears that the government cannot control conditions if the movement continues to grow. The revolutionists captured Hinchu and Maissado on Sunday and yesterday Gonavies fell into their hands. The rebellion seems to be making inroads towards the south, where the capital is located.

The principal danger lies in the possibility of an uprising in Port-au-Prince.

The navy department has no vessel in Latin American waters now available for duty at Port-au-Prince. The gunboat Des Moines at Boston, which is under orders to sail for the West Indies, probably will be rushed to the Haitien capital.

PICKING PEERS TICKLISH TASK

British Cabinet May Raise Members of Parliament.

London, July 18.—That the cabinet has made a list of potential peers and is awaiting the possibility of its use in the event that this is necessary to obtain the passage of the veto bill in the house of lords, there is no doubt. It has been stated that Premier Asquith was prepared to meet all contingencies of the situation, and it is believed that two of his leading sources of supply are the eldest sons of Liberal peers and members of parliament.

The proposal to ennoble the eldest sons presents an amusing phase of the revolution. Peers of baronial rank think that if their sons are ennobled they themselves should be promoted to the viscounts.

Many Barkises Willin'.

Some of the more prominent members of parliament who are not averse to joining the nobility cherish the conviction that if a host of barons are to be poured into the upper house, of which a large proportion must be common-place persons, they are entitled to receive the higher distinction of viscountships.

Drawing on the house of commons for new lords presents difficulty. If one hundred or more members of the lower chamber are taken, an election will be necessary to fill their places, and it is declared the government cannot afford to risk taking members of parliament except from safe Liberal constituencies.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

GOOD CROP WEATHER

Washington, July 18.—Weather generally favorable to the growing crops prevailed during the week just ended, according to the national weekly weather bulletin of the weather bureau.

There was a decided moderation of the temperature east of the Rockies, and a corresponding rise in the West, with beneficial rains in the South and East.

In the corn growing states west of the Mississippi river most relief was experienced from the extreme heat. Good rains occurred over much of Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas, but drouth continues in Iowa and Missouri, where vegetation is suffering severely.

In the great corn growing states east of the Mississippi the weather was mostly favorably. Drouth prevailed, however, in portions of Illinois and Indiana, and more rain is needed in other parts.

In the spring wheat growing states dry weather continues, especially in southwestern Minnesota and over most of the Dakotas, and the need of more moisture is severely felt.

In the cotton growing states the weather was mostly favorable. Beneficial showers occurred over most of Texas and Oklahoma, greatly relieving the severe drouth conditions.

DISCUSSES MODERN LAW

"Legislative Tendencies" Is Subject of President's Address to Lawyers.

Opening Talk to Bar Association Is Most Interesting Discussion.

"The Trend of Modern Legislation" was the subject of James D. Shearer's address, delivered this morning at the annual meeting of the State Bar association, now in session here. Mr. Shearer said, in part:

"Conforming to an immemorial custom of this association, requiring from its outgoing president an annual address, I have chosen the subject "The Trend of Modern Legislation" for several reasons. The legislation of the past few years not only in the states, but in the congress of the United States, has differed both in kind and degree from that of the legislation which the American people has been accustomed to for half a century. There has been a growing tendency in the immediate past in legislative matters to go straight at anything that was believed to be an evil, going rough shod over rules, customs, traditions and even constitutions. There has been a tendency to ignore constitutional limitations in the passage of laws, and when the courts have declared cherished laws unconstitutional, popular opinion has shown its displeasure by exhibiting disrepect for constituti ns and by criticism of the courts.

"The federal courts having to decide matters of the greatest moment to the people, on the subject of trusts, railroad rates and the like, have come in for so much unfavorable comment, and certain public opinion has so freely questioned the wisdom and even the legality of certain decisions, that the thoughtful and conservative citizen begins to wonder what is coming next.

"Constitutions do not seem to loom so large as formerly. Constitutional limitations to certain legislators are proposed to be removed by amending the constitution. That which in the past was seldom meddled with, is now proposed to be amended in many respects by every legislature. Respect for a constitution grows less and less. The courts, which have ever been the bulwark of constitutions, come in for criticism when a favorite act is declared unconstitutional. Constitutions are being loaded with amendments. Instead of being a mere skeleton or framework of principles, they are to be made a body of substantive law. Lawyers are more closely connected with the law and its administration than any other class of citizens. They are, from the nature of their profession, conservative. So closely are they in touch with these events—in fact, a part of them—that they are liable not to clearly see and reflect on the importance and magnitude of these changes. One on a moving vehicle cannot know the direction or speed at which he is traveling, except by comparison with stationary objects; so, in a vacation period with courts and legislatures adjourned, we may be able to see more clearly and more accurately appreciate this passing show.

Digest of Laws.

"With a view to obtaining the data from which this paper could be made up, I wrote to the attorney general of every state in the Union asking the following questions:

"1. When did your legislature meet last?

"2. Was it controlled by either insurgents, progressives, standpatters, or reactionaries, (so-called)?

"3. If you have the initiative? When passed? If you have the referendum? When passed? If you have the recall? When passed? If you have the direct election of United States Senators? When passed? Does the recall apply to the judiciary? Have any of above laws been invoked, and upon what class of subjects have the first two been invoked?

"4. What other bills were introduced or laws passed by the last legislature along new or radical lines, designed to be for public betterment?

"5. Which of the above became laws?

"6. Have you a workmen's compensation law, or was effort made to pass such a law?

"7. Do the common law defenses of 'assumption of risk,' 'fellow servant law,' and 'contributory negligence' exist in your state? If not, when were they wiped out?

"Within the limits of a paper like this, it would be impossible and not particularly instructive to attempt to digest all, or any considerable part of the legislative product of all the United States curative acts, acts slightly amendatory of existing laws of aristocratic lineage and the general public betterment and protection laws, and subjects within the police powers, and covering largely personal and property rights, form perhaps 95 per cent of the usual legislative grist. This has not concerned me. What I have endeavored to do is to ascertain what has been going on in the way of what may be called advanced or radical legislation. Leaving out of account purely personal and property rights, I have decided that it would be more useful in a short paper to confine my observations largely to those movements resulting in the enactment of legislation covering certain personal political rights, as shown in the first five of the questions. All legislation is the result of discontent. The mere fact that there is legislation and much of it at a session does not necessarily presage revolution. It may indicate mere activity. But there are different kinds of discontent. A and B and C and D may each go to the legislature and propose each a separate bill, each designed to effect a specific remedy for some wrong, or to amend an existing law, or even to enact a new law on a subject affecting each of a class of business, or as a member of society. Such bills and laws are of no great moment and do not affect, except remotely, the people as a whole. But if A and B and C and D each go to the legislature with a common thought and a determined purpose to change an existing system which affects all of them equally, it is fair to assume that the discontent is not casual but unusual. And when the subject matter of the laws, affects directly their political rights and privileges, rather than their personal and property rights, it becomes evident that the discontent is deep seated and intense, and should be heeded and if possible allayed. For it is obvious that one's political rights, like the air we breath, while the most highly prized, are the least thought of, by a free people—at least this is so in an age of business prosperity and profound peace. Legislation designed to change or amend facts or events, is an evidence of life and normal progression. But legislation aimed at a system and designed to substitute a new and radically different system, for one long in use, is significant. It is this latter class of legislation which I shall endeavor to name and trace, and if possible to deduce from the facts some legitimate conclusions.

Public Servants.

"That the body politic is, or thinks it is suffering from disease—malfeasance or non-feasance of its public servants or what you will—is evident. I think from the public attitude in legislative matters during the last ten years and especially the last five years. Within the memory of everyone before me, it is known that widespread discontent with the then existing convention system of nominating candidates for office, resulted ten years ago in a primary system for direct nomination of candidates. It came to pass because the representatives of the people in convention assembled, failed to represent their constituents, and often traded in the suffrage given them, and used it in their own interests. Because of that largely we have a direct primary. Most of the states have a similar primary system for the same cause. That was a radical change of system. The United States is not a pure Democracy—it never was. A common slogan given wide publicity by the populist party, Peoples party and Socialists is that somehow we have drifted away from the form of pure democracy established by our fathers. Such is not the case. The United States political system is and always was representative in form. The only direct elections have occurred in recent years by reason of the general adoption of the primary system.

"Obsessed with the fallacious idea that the people had by some hocus-pocus been robbed of their right to vote directly for candidates and angered by the treachery often practiced upon them by their representatives in convention, this discontented mass of our citizenship clamored for, and got a primary system. It seemed to work well as applied to certain offices and has been gradually extended to include other offices in most of the states. It has proved a good thing.

"In some states where the primary election system obtains, it has been applied indiscriminately to all offices, including the judiciary. The primary system of direct nominations by the people is believed by many to be unsuited to a proper selection of judges for the reason that personal popularity and the ability to get votes are qualities which the ideal judge rarely possesses. Besides a very small minority of the rank and file of voters come in contact with lawyers or the court sufficiently to know whether a candidate is fitted for the bench; nor are they able to rightly discriminate between ability and notoriety.

Strike Blindly.

"Just here let me remark that when the people are aroused and demand a change in a system they are apt to strike out blindly and do not discriminate nicely in the application of the remedy. This is shown in the application of the primary system to the judiciary. It is still further shown in the recall provision in laws originally made to apply to mere administrative offices in municipalities under the commission form of government, but now embodied in the laws of several states and applying to every public official, from the highest to the lowest, including the judiciary. This is true in the state of Oregon—North Dakota has a similar law which will be submitted to the people for adoption in 1912. If it passes, it will apply to judges. South Dakota also in 1912 votes upon a primary law providing for party recall in case "any official fails to support the platform to which he is pledged, or if charged with malfeasance or crime or misdemeanor in office, or drunkenness or gross incompetency or wilful neglect of duty." It applies to the judiciary.

"I may be pardoned before going further to remind you of some facts in recent history which tend to illuminate the present situation.

"In 1867 a vast army of men who for four years had been non-producers, but large consumers, returned to agricultural pursuits. There were no markets for farm products and the immediate increase in production depressed the prices for farm products to the lowest point in the history of the nation. The Grange and Farmers' alliance was the result. A banding together of the agricultural classes in their own interests. The railroads then building or just built had in the ten years preceding, been granted large tracts of the public domain and the sparsely settled communities through which they passed were greatly oppressed by excessive freight tariffs. All business dependent upon agriculture, languished and with the fall in land values, a popular discontent grew apace. Conditions were referred to our financial system and to a monopoly by capital of wind, and the extravagance of congress. A greenback party was formed only to give way later to the anti-monopoly party and later as the ranks of the discontented were augmented, to the Populist party, whose first platform was put forth in 1889.

"In 1892 on July 4, its convention met in Omaha and put forth a platform containing the following plans among others:

"The land, including all the natural sources of wealth, is the heritage of the people and should not be monopolized for speculative purposes.'

Conservation.

"The two dominant parties are today advocating this under the name of conservation of our national resources.

"A graded income tax (passed by the congress in 1894 and declared unconstitutional by the United States supreme court.)

"Postal savings banks (passed by a Republican congress, approved by a Republican president and became a law last year.)

"Election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, (advocated by a Republican president and even now being submitted to the people of many states for adoption in the form of an expression of choice for senator made by the electors at primary elections.)

"An eight-hour day law for labor (enacted into law by the congress and now the law in many of the states governing public works.)

"Direct legislation through the initiative and referendum.

"Are we then Populists? Perish the thought!

Measures Not New.

"It should be noted and remembered, therefore, that many of the so-called progressive or radical measures of today are not new. Nor were they originated by either of the two dominant parties; they are in fact, all of them, except the recall, old measures born of the discontent which has always existed, but which has concentrated of late years in distrust by the people of their representatives. I am not seeking to commend the Populist party for its perspicacity, nor do I condemn the Republicans and Democrats for slowly but surely adopting one by one, all of the measures believed a few years ago to be revolutionary. I am simply stating facts, so that we may appreciate the trend of events. So that we may see that perhaps it is evolution and not revolution.

"In the North, for many years there had been rumors of corrupt practices in the election by state legislatures of United States senators. Be it said to the honor of the South that it has no such scandals. A shameless degree of corruption seems to have been reached in the election of Senator Clark of Montana, Guggenheim of Colorado, Stephenson of Wisconsin and Lorimer of Illinois. The latter event is still a public stench. A good many years ago there was unusual competition in even this state among candidates for the legislature in those years in which a United States senator was to be elected. But while the legislative conscience has improved along with that of the public conscience, yet is there any doubt that the people of the northern states have in the past been grossly betrayed by their chosen legislators? And the people have accordingly chosen the most natural weapon in defense of their interests—viz: direct nomination of United States senators.

"But a legislature which would for money or any other thing betray its constituency in the election of a senator, would be apt for the same considerations to forget its party or platform pledges and refuse to enact legislation desired by the people; as a consequence of this, the people demanded that they be permitted to initiate legislation in order to insure the passage of needed laws, and in case of important measures pending in the legislature, that they have a referendum thereon before the same should become law. The referendum has always existed as a constitutional question. So direct legislation has been very popular as a political slogan during the past few years, but so far as I know, it has not yet been adopted in any of the thirteen original states. But in 1908, initiative and referendum were made a part of the state constitution of Maine, and last winter a law was passed providing for the nomination of United States senators by direct primary. Only twenty-eight, including two territories, of these written to, have answered my questions, yet perhaps enough to show fairly well the temper of the people and their disposition to abolish as far as possible the legislature and to make all important laws themselves.

Startling Similarity.

"On the roll call of states whether the state comes from the North, South, East or West, all that answer, exhibit a startling similarity of effect and experience along the lines of direct legislation. There is, however, a much more noticeable earnestness in such legislation in Western and Northwestern states, especially is this true as to the initiative and referendum. All states alike seem to be striving for direct primary laws and for direct election of United States senators.

Objections to Direct Legislation.

"The objection to direct legislation fundamentally is that it destroys the principle of represenative government; that it takes responsibility from the legislature with the result probably of getting a more and more inferior type of men as state representative. That it is unnecessary, inasmuch as any one may have any bill introduced in the legislature today and public sentiment be effectual to prevent the bill from being defeated; and finally that it is cumbrous and unmanageable to work. The secretary of state of Oregon where the initiative and referndum was adopted by general Constitutional amendment in 1903, complains that the laws passed by initiative are so badly written as to be unintelligible and conflicting, to say nothing of bad spelling and grammar. An important statute failed of effect because containing no enacting clause.

"In his speech in the United States senate, Elihu Root opposed direct election of senators and expressed grave concern upon the growing distrust of representative government in this country. He said:

"'Make the first step with the legislatures and you will witness the members become less competent and less worthy. We cannot improve the legislature by taking away power from them and holding up the members as unworthy of confidence.'

"Mr. Holman, president of the State Bar Association of Oregon says in this connection:

"'Oregon presents the spectacle of a state having two separate and distinct law-making bodies—the legislature and the people. Theoretically they are equal in authority, for in a recent case it has been held by the supreme court of the state that the people or the legislature may each 'enact any law, and may even repeal any act passed by the other.' Suppose, Mr. Holman then asks, "that in the state of Oregon two antagonistic acts were passed, one by the legislature, the other by the people, and these two acts went into effect the same day, what would be the result? It would be like the celebrated case of an irresistible force meeting an immovable body. Will not the legislature in time become as useless as a vermiform appendix?" It may have some function, but it is apparently a menace. Would it not be well to cut it out before it becomes dangerous?

"What conclusions can fairly be drawn from this widespread attempt to change a representative government into one of pure democracy?

People Never Wrong.

"It will not do to say that the people are wrong; that they have a fever which will soon pass away. The people are never wrong. The people may be mistaken as to minor matters, but never as to moral issues. The people sometimes lack discrimination as to appropriateness of remedy, but they are trying to be right and sane all the time.

"For ever the right comes uppermost
And ever is justice done.'

"These events are the symptoms of a lack of public virtue in our representatives. The piling up of immense fortunes by questionable business methods for a generation, has brought with it a train of evils in lack of conscience in business, disregard for law, the desire for riches and power, to accumulate money and enjoy luxuries; these have gone far to stamp out the homely virtues. We obey a law because of the consequences which follow its violation, not because it is the law, nor because it is right. We often treat a law as a necessary evil, to be obeyed, if it cannot safely be violated. I am not speaking now of laws involving moral turpitude.

"If representative government has been discredited, it is because our representatives have by their public acts discredited it. If the people are right, their representatives must be wrong.

Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey
Where wealth accumulates and men decay.

Decay of Men.

"It is not the accumulation of wealth, but the decay of men that is to be deplored.

"The trend of events seem to me to point unmistakably to the fact that the people distrust their representatives. It is not that the people think they are better qualified to frame laws than their chosen officials, who are usually men far above the average of intelligence and ability possessed by the rank and file, but it is because their will is not carried out. Instead of treating an election to office as an express trust to be administered solely in the interest of his cestuique trust, the public official often regards it as a special tribute to his ability and worth, to be exercised as he sees fit; or as private interest may dictate.

The Remedy.

"Is there a remedy? Shall it be by standing in the way of the people's desires? Or is it to be brought about by giving the people what they want, but in the doing of it, exercising that discrimination which they lack, and seeing to it that the right remedy is applied, and that a remedy be not extended beyond its power to cure. Is the direct election of United States senators desirable? Personally, I believe that honest legislatures should elect our senators. But if we cannot have legislative elections of senators without Lorimerism, then by all means let us elect them ourselves. Direct legislation is not discredited by the argument, that if the elector is not competent to elect an honest representative to the legislature whom he knows, how can he be trusted to elect an honest senator whom he probably doesn't know? The premise is wrong. In the first place, comparatively few electors have a personal acquaintance with the representatives that they send to the legislature and even if known, his reputation and ability are like his future—largely before him. Candidates for United States senator are usually public characters whose lives have been largely lived in the white light of publicity. As between these, an elector is more competent to choose. In any event, when an elector votes directly, he knows for whom his vote will be cast. The example of Oregon has been largely followed of permitting an expression of preference by the voter at elections and this may be by party ballot. The moral obligation to support the people's choice is then on the legislature. No instance is on record of a bribe offered or received or of a legislator daring to vote against the preference of the voters. A striking result of the law in Oregon was that a Republican legislature elected a Democratic United States senator.

"What about the initiative and referendum? If the people want them, the people should have them. They will have them anyhow if they want them. The referendum is the more valuable, and there is a growing inclination to give a referendum on all laws or measures involving a grant of a franchise or of a right or privilege at the expense of the general public, or the town or city concerned. Such as exemption from taxes, rate making power, and irrepealable contract of privilege. It has always obtained on amendments to constitutions. The initiative could be confined to the giving of a referendum on measures not likely to emerge from the legislature. The recall has no precedent in the past or in other countries, but may be valuable as applied to administrative offices. The demand for it has grown out of wasteful and extravagant and inefficient municipal administration, but should not be extended beyond that. Frederick Josiah Stimson, professor of comparative legislation in Harvard law school says of this:

"'A proposal to apply the "recall" to judges would, in the opinion of the writer, be wicked, if not unconstitutional; as to all other officials it would tend to destroy their efficiency.'

Need Not Fear Recall.

"In our own humble opinion, no thoroughly honest administrative official of average ability need never fear the recall. The people are slow to anger, and they will stand by an honest man. If, however, it must be applied to judges, lawyers should see to it that it could only be invoked for malfeasance or crime, gross incompetency, neglect of duty or immorality. There would be less objection to its application in such cases, for in such case it would not in any degree affect his work as a lawyer or judge.

"The courts are just now more or less a storm center of criticism. The courts are criticised for the law's delay; its technicalities, its artificial forms and procedure. We as lawyers are charged with part of the responsibility for all these shortcomings of the law and the courts and because of our conservatism are accused of blocking the wheels of justice and progress. There is some ground for these charges, although there exists no body of citizens more high minded and honest than the bar.

"And yet, in our busy life in this money-making age, and the multitudinous duties entailed by our complex life, we are apt to make of our profession a trade. We are apt in public movements to hang back instead of lead. We should formulate public opinion instead of attempting to merely construe or interpret it. The lawyer of one hundred years ago made public opinion, blazed the trails, and the people were glad to follow. When the modern lawyer has, and exercises, a sort of public conscience, which shall be brought to bear on all legislative matters; when reforms in court procedure are effected; when he formulates and leads public opinion on principle and not necessarily in his client's payroll, then will many of the people's grievances against the courts and against existing laws and methods disappear. An admission to the bar should be a call to duty."

Simple Home Remedy For Wrinkled Faces

(From Popular Toilettes)

Thousands of women are spending fortunes in their frantic efforts to remove the signs of premature age from thier faces. When in this state of mind a woman will spend almost any amount of money on worthless wrinkle removers, of which there are many.

If these women only knew it, the most effective remedy imaginable is a simple, harmless face wash which can be made up at home in less than a minute. They have only to get an ounce of powdered saxolite and half a pint of witch hazel at the drug store and mix the two. Apply this daily as a refreshing lotion. The effect is almost magical. Even after the first treatment a marked improvement is noticed and the face has a smug, firm feeling that is most pleasing.

FOND DU LAC LAND OPENING AUG. 22

Date Finally Is Fixed By the General Land Office.

Washington, July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aug. 22 has been fixed by executive order for the opening of the Fond du Lac Indian lands to white settlement. There will be about 90,000 acres opened to settlement, only 9,000 of which are Fond du Lac lands. About 40,000 acres are Red Lake lands and the balance in the vicinity of Cass lake.

The order for the opening has followed a devious course through Washington "red tape" and was only released from the general land office today.

City Lighting by Municipal Plants

Continuing the alphabetical list of the American cities which today have Municipal Electric plants, the following table shows for each city named the number of arc lamps used for city lighting and the yearly cost of each light:

City—	Population.	Number of Arc Lamps.	Cost per Lamp per year.
Bellefontaine, Ohio	8,500	155	$48.00	Moonlight
Birmingham, Ala	132,000	75	70.00
(Birmingham pays a private company $70.00 each for 842 lights.)
Bowling Green, Ky	13,000	92	50.00
Burlington, Vt	20,500	251	65.00
Chambersburg, Penn	12,000	140	75.00
Chicago, Ill	2,185,000	22,000	75.00
Chicopee, Mass	25,500	225	75.00
Cleveland, Ohio	561,000	550	(See Note, below)
Coffeyville, Kan	13,000	125	48.00	Moonlight
Conneaut, Ohio	8,500	103	50.00	Moonlight

NOTE.—Superintendent of the Cleveland Municipal plant did not report any figure on cost, but admitted that the plant always has been operated at a loss. The city pays a private company $54.96 each for 2,615 lights.

The word "Moonlight" after three of the cities in the above table means that in each of those cities the electric lights in the streets are not operated on moonlight nights. In the course of a year this means a saving of about 1,000 hours on the length of time each lamp burns; in other words, instead of burning the street lamps as we do in Duluth an average of 11 hours a night, or 4,000 hours a year, those towns burn them only 3,000 hours a year. If the lights were in use as many hours as in Duluth, the cost in Bellefontaine and Coffeyville would be $64.00 per lamp per year, and in Conneaut, $66.64 per lamp per year.

Even if Duluth had the great boon of a Municipal Electric plant, how would YOU like to go back to the primitive condition of having to depend on the light o' the moon on every night when the almanac says that faint luminary ought to shine?

It is to YOUR interest to study carefully the figures of costs in these tables of Municipal plants, for all those figures are authoritative—obtained from the city officers who conduct the plants, and not based on mere heresay evidence.

And remember that the Duluth-Edison Electric Company offers to light this City for ONLY $45 PER LAMP PER YEAR, and to give the City $1.500 worth of electric light FREE every year. (Not one city in the above list gets one cent's worth of electric light free).

Remember also that, if you pay any taxes at all, a Municipal Electric plant in Duluth would inevitably make YOUR TAXES higher and higher every year—without giving you any commensurate return for your money.

The alphabetical list of municipal electric plants will be continued in the next Lighting Talk, in next Thursday's Herald.

RAILROADS

AMERICA HAS MORE ROADS

This Continent Leads World, Having 277,015 Miles of Tracks.

Doubled in Last Twenty-Five Years—Canada and Mexico Growing.

The recent census of the railways of the world upon which a report has just been made, shows that there are 625,048 miles of railroad in the world. This does not include street railways, trolley lines and other light structures. The mileage on each continent is given as follows: Europe, 204,904; Asia, 61,800; Africa, 20,869; North America, 277,015; South America, 42,429, and Australia, 18,849.

This shows that of the total mileage, 54 per cent is in the new world. North America alone has 16,000 miles more than Europe and Asia combined, which latter two have 1,250,000,000 population as against 115,000,000 in North America.

More than half the railways of the world have been built since 1886—an average of 15,000 miles a year.

This rate of growth is shown to have been, on the whole, comparatively stable during the latter years. The increase was 24,144 miles in 1909 and 62,806 for the four years ending in 1909. Even these figures do not adequately show the enormous consumption of capital, for in this country of late years, as well as in Europe, much more has been expended in improving existing railroads than for additions to mileage.

During the last year more railway has been built in Asia than Europe, and in four years nearly as much. Asia, British India, and Ceylon have more than half the mileage, but Russia has just opened a line 1,258 miles long in Central Asia. China has 5,288 miles of railway and 2,000 of it was built in the last four years. Japan, with the lines it has built in Corea, has little more than China.

In Africa there is notable activity. In the older civilized parts of the North the additions have not been great, but in the British South Africa union the recent increase in mileage has been 2,729, and it now has more railroads than any other two countries on the continent.

In North America Canada and Mexico have increased their mileage proportionately more than the United States but the mileage in this country was already so great that a small percentage made a great amount.

In South America the 8,227 miles added in the last four years is an increase of 24 per cent. Central America and the West Indies are reckoned with South America. Argentine Republic has more than a third of the railways of South America.

PLAYING CARDS IN JAPAN.

Daily Consular and Trade Reports: The market here for playing cards is very limited from the fact that the foreign community in Kobe only amounts to about 1,250 people and the Japanese do not use imported foreign style cards. In the Japanese national card games a totally different style of cards is used, but they play a game called "trumps" in which foreign style cards are employed, but these are almost exclusively of Japanese manufacture on account of their cheapness. They sell for 15 to 20 cents a pack when made of paper and from 20 to 40 cents when made of celluloid, including the internal revenue tax of 10 cents a pack.

The Kobe club is the largest user of cards here, and they import their own cards, specially manufactured for them in England. Other cards imported are mostly English, as this nationality largely predominates here, but there is probably not much more than a gross packs sold outside the club during a year. They sell at retail from 62 to 75 cents per pack.

THE SEDUCTIVE MINCE PIE.

Los Angeles Times: M. Campanini, the great musician, praised mince pie at a dinner in Chicago.

"I don't wonder," he said, "that your mince pie is indissolubly linked with your Christmas, for Christmas is the best day of all, and mince pie is the best dish.

"But indigestible! I hear on all sides tales about the indigestibility of mince pie. Nevertheless I keep on eating it, although the last tale I heard was very harrowing, indeed.

"It was a tale about a dyspeptic bishop who spent Christmas week with a Chicago family. There was, of course, mince pie for the Christmas dinner, and at first the bishop, on account of his dyspepsia, refused to take any; but his hostess assured him that her mince pie was as digestible as stale bread, and so he succumbed.

"He ate a whole mince pie. And the next morning he was so ill that he could not conduct an early service for which he had pledged himself.

"The bishop was very ill indeed. He groaned, and he tossed about the bed, and the family brought him hot water bottles, mustard plasters, and all manner of remedies.

"But nothing seemed to do any good, and his host, when he gave vent to an unusually loud series of groans, hurried into the room and said somewhat sarcastically:

"'Why, Bishop, you are not afraid to die, are you?'

"The bishop, thinking of his mince pie and his missed service, answered:

"'No, I'm not afraid to die, but I'm ashamed to.'"

Advertising has made "oaks" of many businesses that were simply acorns.

REPORT OF U. S. ENGINEERS FOR PAST YEAR COMPLETED

Major F. R. Shunk's Report Gives Interesting Data on Duluth District.

Shipping for the Year 1910 Showed 1,118 Per Cent Increase Over 1890.

The annual report of the United States Corps of Engineers has just been completed under the supervision of Maj. Francis R. Shunk, who is temporarily in charge of the Duluth district, and it has been mailed to the department at Washington. After it has been carefully examined by the authorities at Washington, it will be published in book form.

The report is a resume of the work done during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, giving the improvements made and under way, with their costs, and also the cost of maintenance. It also includes the amount of commerce handled in the ports which comprise the Duluth district, which are Agate Bay, Minn.; Grand Marais, Minn., Duluth, Superior, Ashland, Port Wing, Ontonagon, Keweenaw, Marquette, Marquette Bay, and Grand Marais, Mich.

Harbor at Grand Marais, Minn.

Commercial statistics for season of navigation, which opened March 27, 1910, and closed Jan. 22, 1911, shows 1,050 vessels arrived and cleared with 328,650 net registered tonnage, and carried 13,000 passengers. The freight receipts totaled 9,575 tons, valued at $664,457, while the shipments were 5,-775 tons valued at $293,850. This shows an increase of 16 per cent in shipments and receipts but a decrease of $698,250 or 42 per cent in valuation.

Harbor at Agate Bay, Minn.

Only work done was by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, in reconstructing its iron ore dock and increasing its width.

Vessels cleared and arrived 3,038 with net tonnage of 9,380,113 having 9,571 passengers. The freight traffic showed 9,651,094 tons, a decrease of 977,657, or 9.2 per cent, valuation of which was $32,310,860, or an increase of $3,002,482, equal to 9 per cent.

Duluth Harbor.

Improvements under first contract, begun July 8, 1908, and completed Oct. 18, 1909, consisted of dredging 1,874,472 yards at 10½ cents, making the cost $196,919.56. Another contract in the local harbor, called for the removal of 903,499 yards at 9 cents, costing $81,-314.91. This contract will amount to about $240,000, and will be completed on or before Oct. 1, 1912.

A contract for the removal of shoals was finished on Aug. 16, 1910, costing $19,509.37. In all 156,975 yards was dug at 12½ cents per yards.

The Northern Dredge company was awarded a contract for the removal of 120,400 yards fro mlocal basin at 17 cents per yard, the work to be completed by Oct. 31, 1911.

Improvements at Superior.

The north concrete revetment was completed as to the concrete in July 1909. Up to June 30, 1911, 300 linear feet of accessory trestles used in its construction was removed and 2,785 tons of riprap was placed behind the inner end, and 7,559 yards were used in refilling in pier trench. In the south concrete revetment, 6,400 yards used to refill in pier trench and 895 tons of riprap stone placed behind its inner end.

The concrete superstructure to the breakwater heads was completed July 14, 1910, the total cost of which was $52,782.51.

The old canal piers were heavily riprapped at a cost of $14,591.69. The north breakwater head and the south breakwater head was re-enforced with stone, while 685 tons were used in the South Rubble Mound breakwater. In the North Rubble Mound 135,853.97 tons were used.

Extensive dredging was carried on by the United States 15-inch hydraulic dredge Tortoise, as well as other contracts.

The cost of work carried on by the government in Superior amounted to $75,284.45, while contract payments were $47,801.93, which, with freight and passenger service costing $12.55, made a total expenditure of $123,098.93.

During the year many surveys of channels, and basins of both ports were made, as well as examinations of bridges over the river and bay.

New Patrol Tug Needed.

It is claimed the launch Tangent, which has been in service for sixteen years since it was rebuilt in 1895, is not serviceable, and a new one needed. Plans have been prepared for a 60-foot patrol tug costing about $10,000.

Only nine contracts are now in force most of which are for dredging in the district.

Commerce of Duluth-Superior harbor for calendar year 1910 is as follows:

Total tonnage (each ton of 2,000 pounds) of receipts and shipments was 26,084,578, valued at $284,049,072. This shows an increase of 1,188 per cent over 1890, 213 per cent over 1900, and 12.77 per cent over 1909. The navigation season covered a period of 245 days, as navigation was closed from Feb. 17 to March 20.

During the season opening March 20, 1910, and closing Feb. 20, 1911, 9,447 vessels of 25,098,001 net tonnage arrived and cleared at the Duluth ports, carrying 60,234 passengers, as compared with 8,782 vessels in 1909, with a net tonnage of 21,900,169.

At Superior the season opened on April 9, 1910, and closed Nov. 30, 1910, during which time 5,326 vessels arrived and cleared, with a net tonnage of 17,233,712 and carrying 3,166 passengers, as compared with 4,477 vessels in 1909, with 13,250,705 net tons.

The total valuation of the receipts in the Duluth-Superior ports combined is $99,079,192, while the shipments were worth $284,049,072.

The storage capacity of Duluth-Superior elevators is 32,475,000 bushels, that of Duluth elevators being 14,625,-000, and of Superior elevators 17,850,-000.

The value of imports during the fiscal year, 1911, was $647,153,96, and of domestic exports, $4,647,276.67. The duties collected were $63,315.93.

During the year sixteen large new boats were added to the shipping fleet.

The report covers improvements done or now under contract at Port Wing, Wis.; Ahsland, Ontonagon, Mich.; Keweenaw, Waterway, Mich.; Marquette, Mich.; Marquette Bay, Mich., and Grand Marais, Mich.

The most important work is that at Ashland where a breakwater extension is in the course of construction. The extension is 637 feet, making the breakwater 8,000 feet long.

The commercial statistics show increases at Ashland, Bayfield, Ontonagon, Keweenaw, Marquette, Marquette Bay and decreases in Port Wing, Grand Marais, Mich.

The United States government has expended $9,177,067.43 for improvements to date, since time of commencement in the Duluth district, and $1,-486,952.43 for maintenance, making in all $10,664,019.86. During this time the commerce has amounted to 615,-216,128 tons, valued, $5,916,690,514.

GIVES SNUB TO HEYBURN

Senator Williams Refuses to Listen to Speech in Senate.

Idaho Member Again Denounces Confederate Cause.

Washington, July 18.—The bitterness between Senator Heyburn of Idaho and Senator Williams of Mississippi on the subject of confederacy broke out anew in the senate today. Senator Heyburn objected to the taking up of a bill appropriating $100,000 for a confederate naval monument in the Vicksburg military park, but Senator Williams won its consideration by a vote of 29 to 19.

The Vicksburg park commission and the senate committee on military affairs having approved the measure, Mr. Williams said it was desired to have the monument complete for the semi-centennial "blue and gray" reunion at Vicksburg in 1913. Senators Cummins of Iowa and Works of California urged its passage as proper recognition of men who had exhibited great bravery in a cause they believed right.

Senator Heyburn again attacked the principle of federal recognition of Confederate acts.

Would Not Hear Heyburn.

Senator Williams abruptly left the chamber when Senator Heyburn began to speak.

Mr. Heyburn declared it was "intolerable" that the deeds of Confederate armies should be recited in laws that call upon the public treasury for contributions. He characterized the history of the war between the states as a "history of murder." He attacked the newspapers of the country, declaring many of them disloyal and "delighted to express their disloyalty."

He had been characterized as "waving the bloody flag in the senate," he said, and had been so misrepresented that he had received scores of anonymous letters from "cowards" threatening him with physical violence because of his opposition to the use of government funds to recognize Confederate service.

HONEST MAN.

Chicago News: "This thing of being honest," remarked the old liveryman, "depends a good deal on one thing and another. If a man sells a horse and it doesn't live up to the plans and specifications, he is abused as a pirate, and people say he ought to be in jail. In fact, there is a popular superstition that a man can't deal in horses and be honest. I have been buying and selling horses for over forty years, and somebody comes here every day to call me a buccaneer, yet my conscience is easy and comfortable.

"A farmer was in here abusing me this morning because I sold him a horse that turned out to be stringhalted. He insisted that I should have told him the horse was stringhalted. Now, there's a nice question of business morals. Should I have told him of that blemish? Had I done so, he wouldn't have bought the horse.

"I said to that farmer: 'My friend, you came up here one bright, sunny morning, when the birds were warbling in the trees and the lambkins were gamboling on the lea, and you sold me a load of hay. It was as fine a looking load of hay as any admirer of health food could desire, and I paid your price without argument, and you threw the hay into my loft and drove away to spend the money in riotous living. Did you break the sad news to me that most of the hay on your wagon was mildewed and worthless? Did you tell me how you managed to arrange that load so that all the good hay was on the surface?'

"That honest old farmer flushed red and stammered something about seeing a lawyer, and chased himself away, and he has never since said a word about that stringhalted horse. The man who talks about honesty needs to have a clean slate.

"You know Billworthy, who runs the big second-hand store? A while ago he bought a bay horse that had a curious dagger-shaped white mark on its face. Nobody in the town had ever seen a horse with just such a mark. Billworthy told everybody that he'd give $400 for a mate for his nag. I called at his store and asked him if he meant business, and he said he did.

"'Bring me a good serviceable bay horse with such a mark on his forehead,' said Billworthy; 'the money is ready for you.'

"I went into the country and bought a bay horse with a big shapeless white mark on his face, and then I compounded a dye of nitrate of silver and sundry other chemicals, and began fixing up that horse's face to meet the requirements. It's a slow and laborious process. You have to apply the dye a good many times, beginning with a weak solution, and making it a little stronger for each application, using ammonia now and then to prevent a metallic luster that would give the snap away.

"I continued my scientific experiments about ten days, and then I took Billworthy a perfect mate for his horse and got the $400, and was about $300 ahead of the game. Now, it may be that my morals are perverted, but that seemed to me an perfectly honorable transaction. If a man can't fix up his horses to meet a popular demand, I'd like to know why.

"After three or four weeks the dye began to fade out on that horse's head, and the sickening truth came home to Billworthy that the dagger-shaped mark was made in Germany. He called me up by telephone and told me it would be to my advantage to come to his store. I went there, and he had his lawyer present, and there was a great deal of loud language. The store was full of old rickety chairs and tables that had been sandpapered and varnished to make them look like new. There were gorgeous pianos that would fall apart if you pushed them hard. There wasn't an honest piece of goods in the shop.

"'If the law permits you to varnish up old junk and sell it as being as good as new,' said I, 'I guess the law will stand for a horse with a dyed head. I'll take the chances on it, anyhow,' and that's all the satisfaction Billworthy ever got."

TRAPPING A PYTHON.

Forest and Stream: I was visiting the jail of Thayet-Myo. A python twenty-two feet long and about twenty-eight inches in girth was lying dead in a cabbage patch of the jail garden. It had been shot by the prison guard under the following circumstances: The prison had a sentry posted on the roof at each corner of the square building. His duty was to give the alarm to the prison guard if any prisoner tried to escape or any unusual occurrence took place.

On the morning of my visit there had undoubtedly been an unusual occurrence. A python, dimensions as above, had entered the vegetable garden and crossed it to the fowl pen. Besides the fowls there were some five ducks in the pen. Now the front of the pen was fenced with diamond mesh galvanized wire netting of a strong type.

The snake could not resist a fat duck, so putting its head and neck through the stout diamond frame it seized and swallowed one. I have no doubt whatever that it would have "mopped up the bunch" inside the house, but that in adjusting No. 1 to make room for No. 2 it became aware of an uneasy feeling owning to the wire around its waist. Neither have I any doubt that in additon to becoming uneasy it became seriously alarmed.

Being now unable either to disgorge or to get away it tore off the whole section of netting, 6 by 8 feet, and returned with the necklace or waist band through the cabbages. Not unnaturally, I think, the sentry seing a 6 by 8 foot wire section of fencing marching through the cabbage patch without any visible means of support gave the alarm and then opened fire.

The prison guard rushed out and also opened fire and very shortly our hero lay dead in his frame. He was skinned and his skin cured and dressed in the jail, where they are noted for this kind of work.

AND STILL SOME VACANCIES.

Los Angeles Times: George W. Perkins, who has withdrawn from the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., to devote himself to the great public questions of the day, said at a recent dinner in New York:

"Ours is a country of phenomenal prosperity. There is no such prosperity anywhere else on earth. Here we have work for all."

Mr. Perkins smiled.

"In fact," he said, "we have such a scarcity of labor here that the Western farmer was hardly joking when he inserted in the papers this 'want ad.:'

"'Wanted—Harvest hands. Hired girl blonde and pleasant. Phonograph music during meals. Pie three times a day. Six lumps of sugar to each cup of coffee. Hammocks, leather divans, cosy corners, feather beds. Rising hour 10 a. m. Organ concert every evening Free chewing and smoking. Come one, come all.'"

MAINE'S LOG CABIN SCHOOL.

Lewiston Journal: Maine has one real log cabin school house, the building being situated on the estate of C. O. De Merritt, a 1,500-acre farm in Riley plantation, of which Ketchum is the postoffice. It is located some ten miles from Bethel, and about fifty people live thereabout. The inhabitants pay no taxes except for the maintenance of the school, and are not restricted oy any special town laws.

SPORT IN BRITISH EAST AFRICA.

Wide World Magazine: One day, having carefully spied our ground, we decided to go after a rhino. The wind was right, but when we were within 300 yards of him two lions and a lioness jumped up. "Simba, simba" (lion), whispered the excited gunbearer, and, hurriedly changing our solid bullets for soft-nosed, we got on our ponies, and had a most exciting few minutes. The lioness was the most aggressive, and gave us a good deal of trouble before she was killed. We also shot the two lions. It took the men some time to skin them, and having seen this done and sent the porters back to camp we rode quietly homewards. On our arrival we had quite a reception; the porters ran out to meet us, shouting and singing, and dancing round the lion skins in the most absurd manner to the accompaniment of a grunting chorus.

Forecaster Says Disturbance Now Indicates Good Conditions for Carnival.

According to the ideas of Forecaster Richardson it will be wise for carnival decorators to save their finest and most showy displays until Thursday on account of the weather. Mr. Richardson thinks showers, cooler weather, and easterly winds are on the program for this afternoon and probably for tomorrow and such of the gay bunting, flags, etc., as are not waterproof are likely to suffer as a result.

Mr. Richardson said this morning, however, that far from being an indication of poor weather for the big water fete, he thought that the rain which is forecasted for tonight and tomorrow would insure good weather for the carnival. The disturbance, says Mr. Richardson is pretty sure to pass by that time, and he feels confident the last half of the week will see ideal Duluth summer weather.

BAR AUTOS FROM BRIDGE

Board Takes Steps to Prevent Crowding During the Carnival.

The board of public works announced this morning that no automobiles will be carried across the aerial bridge from the north to the south side after 2 o'clock in the afternoon during the three days of the water carnival.

This has been done at the request of a committee from the boat club, which has charge of the arrangements. It is expected that thousands of people will be seeking transportation across the canal at that time, and if any considerable number of automobiles were taken across they would seriously interfere with the pedestrians and those traveling on the street car. The space occupied by one car would be sufficient for several dozen persons in a closely packed crowd. Machines will be taken across during the forenoon and up until 2 o'clock. Those on the other side after 2 o'clock will be taken back.

IS LOST IN THE WOODS

E. Ralph, 79 Years Old, Disappears Near Alborn, Minn.

Started Out to Pick Berries With Wife Monday Morning.

E. Ralph of Duluth, 79 years of age, deaf, and somewhat feeble, is lost in the woods near Alborn, Minn., and nothing has been heard from him since yesterday morning. Mr. Ralph lives at 921 East First street and is a member of the Masonic order, Palestine lodge.

With his wife, Mr. Ralph was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Carl Prince at Elmer, Minn. Yesterday morning they started out to pick berries. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph worked in sight of each other for a time, but later lost sight of each other. Mrs. Ralph did not think anything of this for some time, but later on began to make efforts to locate her husband. When these failed she called the assistance of the rest of the party and they hunted the woods all day for him.

Later they ascertained that he had been seen at Alborn, fourteen miles from the place where the berry picking party started from, but there he entered the woods again and nothing more has been seen of him.

When he disappeared he had no coat, had on a blue vest and trousers and blue striped shirt. Because of his age and feeble condition his friends are greatly worried about his safety.

PINE RIVER WINS OUT.

Gets Away With Proposition of Building New School.

Pine River, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular school election held at Pine River 620 voters were present from all parts of Cass county which is virtually the entire district, No. 1. A special train from Staples brought up voters from the southern end of the county who were against any proposition advocated by Pine River.

It was decided to build a brick or concrete eight-room $15,000 schoolhouse at Pine River which carried by a majority of 38 votes, 329 voting for and 291 against the measure. The proposition to hold the next annual meeting at Pine River carried by a majority of 86 votes, 353 being in favor and 267 against it. Resolutions that schools costing $6,000 each be erected at Remer and Federal Dam were revised and the appropriations were placed at $3,000 each. One thousand dollars was voted for another school at some point in the district. So great was the crowd at the meeting that the schoolhouse would not hold them all and the gathering met in the school yard. For the time being Pine River was almost overwhelmed by the inundation of voters and was taxed to provide accommodations for the sudden influx.

CASES BEFORE COMMISSION

Hearing on Malt Rates Today —Big Grain Cases Postponed.

Commissioner Meyer of the interstate commerce commission is conducting a hearing in Superior this morning relating to the recent advances in the rates on malt between the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes involving all the carriers operating between these points. It is a case on the investigation and suspension calendar of the commission, the advanced rates having been suspended by the commission at the time they were attempted to be put into effect by the railroads.

The hearings on the complaints of the Duluth Board of Trade and the Milwaukee chamber of commerce involving grain rates to these points from the Northwestern states have been cancelled and indefinitely postponed following a request that this be done from the Milwaukee chamber of commerce. The complaint of the Superior Commercial club, also involving grain rates, but which raises somewhat different issues from the other two complaints, which was to have been heard on July 26, has been cancelled and reassigned to be heard two days earlier.

MERELY HER FRIEND.

Actress Denies Receiving Financial Aid From James Pettit.

Chicago, July 18.—Relatives of Jean Murdoch, some time leading woman with Charles Cherry in the "Seven Sisters" company at Powers' theater, last night admitted that the young woman had long been on terms of friendship with James Pettit, the board of trade broker who got away with $1,200,000 before his death in Lake Michigan on July 7, and that he had been greatly interested in her career.

Miss Murdoch, whose name in private life is Jennie Smith, sent a message last night from Bayview, Mich., where she went two days after Pettit's death, telling of her acquaintance with the broker but denying that he had ever given her financial assistance.

E. W. Smith, father of the actress, spoke freely of his daughter's acquaintance with Pettit, telling of automobile rides they had taken together and of visits the broker had made to the Smith home. He was emphatic in his statement that Pettit had never given her money for other purposes than to be used in her charities, his daughter having been interested in helping crippled children.

JUDGE IVES IS 80.

Venerable Cass Lake Jurist and Editor Reaches Four Score.

Bemidji, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—After more than a year's work in Bemidji, Capt. Kirchner, in charge of the Bemidji Salvation Army Barracks, and Lieut. Veach, here a year on July 22, held farewell meetings at the Barracks Sunday evening, characterizing the close of their work here, which represented more than fifty conversions, eight of which converts have joined the army.

Sunday was the eightieth anniversary of the birth of Judge Frank Ives, owner and publisher of the Cass Lake Times; and Mr. Ives celebrated his attainment of ten years beyond the alloted "three score years and ten" by going to Thief River Falls and spending the day at the Pennington county seat with his son, Harry.

Although somewhat infirm physically, Judge Ives retains an exceedingly clear intellect, and he is otherwise as active as he was twenty years ago, when he was a judge of the district court at Crookston.

The new farmers' co-operative creamery, which is now being operated to its full capacity, is being very liberally patronized by the farmers in this vicinity who have cream to sell; and the first few days of the active operations augur well for the financial success of Bemidji's newest enterprise.

During the first three days of the creamery's opening, more than 550 pounds of butter was churned. The first day on which the churning was done, 150 pounds of butter was made, the second day 165 pounds was turned out, and the third day the output exceeded 230 pounds.

YOUNG TRAMMER KILLED.

Raphael Teber Falls 160 Feet in the American Mine.

Ishpeming, Mich., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coroner William Prin after investigating the case decided no inquest was necessary in the case of Raphael Teber, the young trammer, aged 25, who was killed in the American mine Friday night by falling from the ninth to the eleventh level, a distance of 160 feet.

Teber and other workmen went into the mine in the skip. They had planned to stop at the seventh level to unload a quantity of powder, but the skip went through to the ninth. Teber got off the skip, intending to return to the seventh, but it appears that he had the impression that he was riding in the west skip instead of the east one and he stepped from the platform in the wrong direction, dropping to the bottom of the mine. As he was leaving the skip one of the men called his attention to the fact that he should step in the opposite direction, but Teber paid no attention to him.

PATRICIDE'S TRIAL.

Again Young North Dakotan Must Face Murder Charge.

Carrington, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Once more Lee Miller, the Foster county young man charged with the murder of his father, will be arraigned in the district court here today. Miller, whose case has been hanging fire nearly two years, is the central figure in a case that has become well known over the entire Northwest, being accused of killing his father in a quarrel.

Bid Floyd, charged with robbery, may file an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Coffey and ask that the case be sent to some other county for trial. One trial has been held here resulting in a disagreement of the jury. The Chris Hauge case is the only other one that will be up, Hauge being charged with assault with intent to kill.

SUPERIOR TEACHER MARRIES CIGARMAKER OF BRAINERD.

Cloutier, a school teacher of Superior, Wis., and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cloutier was married at St. Francis' Catholic church, Rev. Father O'Mahoney performing the ceremony. The groom is a cigarmaker and worked for a time in Superior. They will make their home in Brainerd.

THIS SHAMPOO WILL MAKE THE HAIR LUSTROUS

Mrs. Mae Martyn, in the New York American, writes interestingly on care of the Hair.

"Scalp and hair troubles," she says, "are usually traceable to soap shampoos which cause dandruff and make the hair brittle, stringy and lifeless.

"Unless in a very bad state, two or three canthrox shampoos will correct these scalp troubles and make the hair brilliant and silky as well as restore its natural color. Get a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Pour on the head slowly and massage briskly. This makes a thick lather, wonderfully cleansing and healing to tender scalps. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly and evenly and is easy to do up."

BOY FIGHTS RATTLER.

Montana Youth May Lose Arm as Result of Bravado.

Great Falls, Mont., July 18.—Walter Thisted, 12 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thisted of Belt, was bitten on the right wrist by a rattlesnake early yesterday at the Thisted ranch near Spionkop.

The child was riding a horse when he saw the snake. He dismounted and attacked the snake with a knife to kill it. His first blow was not fatal, and the reptile stuck its fangs into his wrist. He was rushed to Belt, attended by a physician, and then brought home. The attending physician said the right arm may have to be amputated to save the child's life.

ROBS CASH DRAWER.

Fessenden, N. D., Clerk Alleged to Have Decamped With Funds.

Fessenden, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lawrence Stanley is wanted by the local authorities on a charge of "lifting" the contents of the till in J. B. Eddinger's store where he was employed. He is charged with awaiting until the receipts were at their high water mark, and then making away with them, leaving the store without anybody in charge.

LOCKED IN SMOKEHOUSE.

New Rockford, N. D., Butcher Comes Near Being Smoked.

New Rockford, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. H. Fowler, a local butcher, came near sharing the same fate that he had meted out for a consignment of hams that he was about to smoke. While starting the fires, the door to the smokehouse blew shut, locking on the outside. He had his fires all well under way and the little smokehouse was filling rapidly when he discovered he was locked in. It was only through the fact that there chanced to be a pail of water nearby that he was able to put out the fire and save himself from suffocation. It was a quarter of an hour before his calls for assistance were heeded.

MINNESOTA RED CROSS TO ASSIST

Society Donates $5,000 to Michigan and Ontario Fire Sufferers.

St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—Fire sufferers in Michigan and Canada will receive $5,000 from the Minnesota Red Cross commission provided the national officials ratify the action taken yesterday in Governor Eberhart's office. The Minnesota commission appropriated $2,500 for the sufferers in Michigan and $2,500 for relief in Ontario. Governor Eberhart wired the national Red Cross commission asking for ratification.

The members of the Minnesota commission present were, besides the governor, Kenneth Clark, J. A. O. Preus, Archbishop Ireland and H. A. Tuttle.

Mr. Clark reported $18,000 left in the relief fund raised for Baudette and Spooner sufferers.

Baudette in Fire Trap.

W. T. Cox, state forester, urged that $3,000 be appropriated to assist in clearing up Baudette and Spooner. He said that Baudette is in a worse shape for a fire today than it was a year ago. He called it the worst fire trap in the state. There are no state funds available to do the work. The national Red Cross officials will be consulted in an effort to get this money to make Baudette safe.

GOOD ROADS CONFERENCE

Invitations Issued By Committee of Northern Minnesota Association.

Meeting to Be Held at Bemidji Tuesday Evening, July 25.

Invitations have been sent out by the good roads committee of the Northern Minnesota Development association for the rural state highway conference which is to be held at Bemidji on Tuesday evening, July 25. Urgent appeals have been sent to county attorneys of counties in the association to be present so that a uniform procedure under the new Elwell law may be decided upon. Chairmen of the county boards have been asked to be present and an invitation has been extended to every Commercial club to send a representative.

The object of the meeting is to discuss the quickest and most comprehensive way of getting action under the new law, so that main trunk lines may be established. Those which will be taken up especially are: a line from East Grand Forks to Duluth; a line from Moorhead to Duluth; a line from the Twin Cities to Duluth; a line from International Falls to the Twin Cities.

Senator Elwell is expected to be at the meeting to explain how the benefits may be obtained. Others who have promised to be present are members of the state highway commission, the state road engineer, the chief forester, and the forester of the government reservation.

The Elwell act provides that state rural highways designated by the county boards may be improved under the supervision of the state highway commission and that one-half of the expense may be borne by the state, one-fourth by the county, and the remainder by assessment on the lands benefited by the roads, or by donations.

The Northern Minnesota Development association, in a resolution adopted at its last meeting, declared that this bill for the first time offers a means for "a complete and coherent system of state rural highways."

The good roads committee of the association is as follows: C. M. King, Deer River, chairman; D. P. O'Neill, Thief River Falls; F. A. Green, Stephen; Chris Burns, Cass Lake; and John Stone, Pardee, Duluth, secretary.

Pilgrimage to Ste. Anne De Beaupre, Quebec, $30.00.

CAN SPEND 10 CENTS A VOTE

Candidates for Congress Limited in Campaign Expenditures.

Senate Passes Radical Amendments to House Publicity Bill.

Washington, July 18.—The most drastic campaign publicity legislation ever passed in either branch of congress was adopted by the senate late yesterday, practically without a dissenting vote. Using the pre-election publicity bill passed by the house of representatives as a basis, the senate constructed during the day a proposed law with the following important features:

No candidate for the senate or house shall spend in the election more than a sum equal to 10 cents for each voter in his district.

No senatorial candidate shall spend a total of more than $10,000 in the primary and general elections, and no candidate for the house shall spend more than $5,000.

Publicity must be given to all primary campaign contributions and expenditures.

All general election expenditures must be made public before the election, beginning fifteen days before election and making publication each six days until election.

All promises of political jobs must be made public.

Plum Promises Illegal.

The bill further makes it illegal to promise political places to secure votes or aid in influencing the election of any member of a state legislature.

The bill will be the subject, probably, of long conferences between the two houses. It originated in the house as a part of the Democratic legislative program and was designed to require the publication of expenditures before election, which is not required by the existing publicity law.

The Republicans in the house unsuccessfully attempted to extend the bill to cover primary election expenses. In the senate the primary election amendment, coupled with more radical amendments, was adopted with little opposition. The more rigid portion of the bill, limiting the amount the senatorial or congressional candidate may spend in any election, and prohibiting the making of all campaign pledges, was proposed by Senator Reed of Missouri, and adopted only after a long debate.

Secured Senator Stephenson.

Senator Reed referred to the campaign expense statement filed by Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin, showing expenditures of approximately $107,000, and to other large sums spent by senatorial candidates.

"One candidate for the senate spent $2 for every vote he got in the primary elections," said Senator Reed. "The law of Wisconsin requires candidates to file statements of their expenses, yet one of them sits in this body today who admitted having spent $107,000 to secure votes in the primary election. If that is not a bar to his holding a seat in the senate it ought to be."

This reference was to the statement of campaign expenses filed by Senator Stephenson after his recent election.

Senator Stephenson was in his seat for the first time since the filing of the Wisconsin legislature for an investigation into the matter of his election.

CENTER OF POPULATION IS MOVING WESTWARD.

Washington, July 18.—The center of population of the United States is four and one-fourth miles south of Unionville, Monroe county, Indiana, according to a census bureau announcement. Since 1900, when it was six miles southeast of Columbus, Ind., it has moved thirty-one miles westward and seven-tenths of a mile northward. The westward movement was more than twice that of the 1890-1900 decades. This acceleration of the westward movement is attributed by census officials principally to the growth of the Pacific and Southwestern states.

The geographical center of the United States is in northern Kansas, so that the center of population, therefore, is about 550 miles east of the geographical center of the country.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"Brewster's Millions."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

STOCK COMPANY IN CLEVER COMEDY

"Brewster's Millions" Is an Ideal Play for Summer Amusement.

It was a clever idea for a play that was offered in George Barr McCutcheon's story, "Brewster's Millions."

Every American man or woman likes to spend money, and to sit and figure how to spend $1,000,000 in a year is a problem that would catch the interest of any average person.

But when this $1,000,000 has to be spent inside of a year's time, for value received and with the spender having nothing left to show for his spending, at the end of the year, the problem is complicated.

Then there is a delightful little love story thrown in for good measure, and the situation conceived by the novelist leaves the dramatist every possible opportunity for the comedy element. His friends are in ignorance of the fact that he is to get $7,000,000 back if he spends his $1,000,000, and try to save him from what they think is his folly.

The dramatist has also provided a good minor climax to sustain interest in the last act. After the spending of the money has been successfully accomplished, and Monty Brewster appears with his $1,000,000 worth of receipts, there comes the telegram saying that the man with the $7,000,000 had disappeared.

It would be hard to conceive a better plot for a comedy drama, and it has been delightfully worked out. "Brewster's Millions" in fact, is one of the best of the modern comedies.

With such a vehicle, the Forbes Stock company should do a big week's business during carnival week. The company has given it a most elaborate presentation, the big yachting scene in the third act comparing very favorably with the production given here by the original road company several years ago.

Gus Forbes handled the part of Monty Brewster in fine style and won a place in the hearts of his audience for that eccentric and lovable young spendthrift almost from the start. Nesta Becker as "Peggy" Grey, the winsome girl whose faith in Monty holds unshaken even through his wild year of spending was demure and attractive as the part demands and showed herself fully capable of all its requirements. It was her first experience in a leading role, with the Duluth company.

Joseph MacCloud as Freddie Van Rensselaer was exceptionally good, and the parts of Nopper Harrison and Frank Bragdon were well handled by Al Dugan and Robert Le Sueur.

The women of the cast have an opportunity to wear their handsomest apparel in this production and appear to especial advantage. Miss Coventry is cast as Mrs. De Mille, and leaves nothing to be desired. Jane Stewart as Janice Armstrong, Olga Woolford as Trixy Clayton and Laura Bereston as Miss Boyton are more than attractive and have never been seen to better advantage here. Lolita Lamb, a Duluth girl, acquitted herself well in the minor part of Barbara.

Other parts are well handled by Roy Phillips, Joseph T. Belmont, Perry Golden, Edwin Brandt, W. S. Donovan, Westrop Saunders, W. H. Marble, Mart Smith, Larry Giffen, H. G. Roberts, W. D. Smedley and Fred Light.

At the Empress.

It would be difficult to pick a headliner for the bill at the Empress this week. Each of the five acts possesses so much merit that it is hard to choose between them. Billed as the feature attraction is the Lavine-Cimeron Trio and they could easily top any bill. They present a comedy acrobatic act but in such a manner that one would hardly recognize it as such, as it gets away from the conventional and the greater part of their stunts are new. The young lady in the act is a clever dancer and also a very good contortionist and the gentlemen are very clever acrobats. The Four Solis Brothers present a real musical novelty. They render several selections on the Mexican merimba in a manner that brings down the house. The merimba is a very novel instrument and is the first one ever brought to Duluth. It resembles the xylophone somewhat in construction but has a much finer tone. Willard Hutchinson, assisted by Miss Rosamond Harrison, is presenting a clever comedy skit, "A Leap Year Leap."

May Robson.

There is no reasonable argument against success. Numerous conjectures explanatory and otherwise are advanced, but if one examines into the successful undertakings theatrically and commercially, it is found to be due to merit and effort, and not accidental. For instance, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," as presented by May Robson, is an illustration. Here is a bright and particularly funny comedy presented by an unusually clever actress, the personality of an old maid—her first visit to New York and her experiences ably illustrated by clever impersonation, hence merit and success.

Miss Robson duplicated this success in London at Terry's theater. An English audience is severely critical over American plays, but in this case the comedy is pure, bright and very funny, and Miss Robson as "Aunt Mary" won immediate recognition. The freezing attitude of that British audience melted and Miss Robson was in the sunshine of popularity.

The theater-going public was interested and Miss Robson's engagement was extended from three to eight weeks—merit was recognized and sustained.

Miss Robson, with the original company, will appear at the Lyceum theater on Thursday, July 27, presenting the play in the same cleverness and without a single change from the London production.

At the Auditorium.

The Duluth Auditorium roller rink has the carnival idea.

While the stores and public buildings of the city are being decorated, and the city in general is being put in gala attire for the coming of the visitors, the big rink has been elaborately decorated throughout and is prepared to give all visitors the best possible time.

Tonight there will be a special program, special music and special skate numbers. With its entire immense area of floor resurfaced and balconies and roof hung in pretty Japanese style, the big rink is ready for the gayest of weeks.

MASSACHUSETTS WANTS TO TAX EDDY ESTATE.

Boston Mass., July 18.—A statement of Attorney General James M. Swift's reasons for appealing from a decree of the Suffolk county probate court allowing as a foreign will a copy of the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, of which the courts of New Hampshire have already taken jurisdiction, was filed in the supreme judicial court yesterday.

Mr. Swift contends that Mrs. Eddy was not a resident of Concord, N. H., at the time of her death, but actually resided in Newton, Mass. For this reason he claims that the probate court for Suffolk county had no jurisdiction in the matter and that proceedings should have been instituted in Middlesex county.

The purpose of the attorney general in attempting to show that the domicile of Mrs. Eddy was in Massachusetts and not in New Hampshire, is that Massachusetts may get the benefit of the inheritance tax upon nearly $2,000,000 now claimed by New Hampshire.

PANIC ON LAUNCH LEADS TO ONE DEATH.

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—Panic on a launch on the Detroit river last night following a trivial explosion resulted in the death of one person and the narrow escape from drowning of five others. A small quantity of gasoline which had escaped from the engine became ignited, and the sudden flash of fire so frightened the six occupants of the little craft that they all leaped overboard. Miss Mabel Mason, aged 19, whose home is in Park Hill, Ont., sank before assistance could reach the struggling party. The others were rescued.

ECZEMA CAME FROM TEETHING

Watery Festers Dried in Scabs. Would Dig and Scratch Her Face. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Was Cured.

"When my little girl was about eight months old, she was taken with a very irritating breaking out, which came on her face, neck and back. When she first came down with it, it came in little watery-like festers under her eyes, and on her chin, then after a few days it would dry down in scaly, white scabs. In the daytime she was quite worrysome and would dig and scratch her face nearly all the time.

"I consulted our physician and found she was suffering from eczema, which he said came from her teething. I used the ointment he gave me and without any relief at all. Then I wrote for a book on Cuticura, and purchased some Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drugstore. I did as I found directions in the Cuticura Booklet, and when she was one year old, she was entirely cured. Now she is three years and four months, and she has never been troubled with eczema since she was cured by the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Freeman Craver, 311 Lewis St., Syracuse, N. Y., May 6, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, but to those who have tried the usual remedies and found them wanting, and who have lost faith in everything, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin, will be sent post-free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 2A, Boston, Mass.

BOARD FINDS FEW ERRORS

Result of Unofficial Count in School Election Is Unchanged.

Board Decides to Undertake Work of School Census Itself.

Several minor changes were made by the official canvass of the election ballots made by the school board last evening at its special meeting, but none of them threatened to change the result of the election. Andrew Nelson lost 10 votes, cutting down his lead over F. E. Church to 48, and E. R. Cobb gained 2, leaving him only 2 votes behind W. E. Magner, the leader in the race. Some of the other results varied one or two votes but there were no material variations from the unofficial count.

Last night the first count of the number of persons voting was made and showed a total of 3,709, as compared with 1,615 in 1910.

The number of people voting by wards was: First ward, 1,109; Second, 361; Third, 205; Fourth, 284; Fifth, 290; Sixth, 362; Seventh, 692; Eighth, 406; a total of 3,709.

The board decided to take the school census itself during the month of August, leaving the details to the committee on schools to which the matter had been referred. According to the plan recommended by the committee last evening the census will be taken by school districts and as many teachers as possible will be engaged in the work. This census is now required by state law, and will include all children between the ages of 6 and 16.

Minor contracts for repairs to schools were let as follows: Ash bin at Longfellow school, C. W. Olson, $375; warehouse in rear of Washington manual training school, Jacobson Bros., $653; additional wiring, fixtures and lights in the Washington school, Richardson Electric company, $290.

New Holland shades for the Lincoln school, to replace the old Venetian shades in use there, were ordered purchased by the committee on buildings and grounds. The present shades are in very bad shape and Director Brewer estimated that the cost of repairing them would exceed the price of new Holland shades.

F. L. Kreidler was re-engaged as manual training instructor at the Industrial high school at a salary of $1,200.

ONE OF WILEY'S STAFF LET OUT

Action, It Develops, Was Taken Without the Chief's Knowledge.

Washington, July 18.—Floyd W. Robison, an important member of the staff of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, it has developed, was dismissed from the bureau June 30 on charges of insubordination. Although his dismissal was important, the matter was not considered sufficiently noteworthy to be brought to the attention of Dr. Wiley. Robison was a member of Dr. Wiley's staff of experts in New York city. He came originally from Michigan.

Dr. Wiley said that Robison had been dismissed from the department, but that he did not know officially why or when he had been discharged. Dr. F. L. Dunlap, assistant chemist of the department, declined to discuss the matter except to say that it had been done within the last two months.

For "Insubordination."

Secretary Wilson said that Robison had been relieved of service because of insubordination. The insubordination, in effect, was a refusal to carry into effect an order of the secretaries of the department of agriculture, the treasury and commerce and labor to prohibit the use of benzoate of soda mixed with food, which, it had been determined, was deleterious to health. The order was not to be rendered effective provided "that the container or package of such food is plainly labeled to show the presence and amount of benzoate of soda."

The dismissal of Robison, the secretary declared, had nothing to do with the recommendation for the dismissal of Dr. Wiley by the departmental board. It is known that Mr. Robison took the same view of the deleterious effects of benzoate of soda as that held by Dr. Wiley, but they were overruled by the referee board of consulting scientific experts appointed by President Roosevelt.

PUTTING OUT FIRES.

Forester Cox Asks Co-operation in Fighting Minnesota Flames.

St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—"Help" is the title of a poster with which W. T. Cox, state forester, is preparing to placard the northern woods to get the closest co-operation possible in putting out incipient forest fires.

Recently a ranger traced a forest fire to a railroad construction crew which in burning its slashings did not watch the fires carefully. The ranger compelled the entire crew to fight the forest fire started in this way. It is estimated that the state received about $1,000 worth of services gratuitously Mr. Cox believes that this method is much better than prosecutions and fines after the fire has done its damage.

SEE BADGERS AT WORK.

Illinois Utilities Commission to Meet at Madison.

Peoria, Ill., July 18.—Senator John Dailey, as chairman, called a meeting of the Illinois legislature's public utilities commission to be held in Madison, Wis., next Thursday and Friday. When the commission met in Chicago last week, it determined on a meeting in Madison, when the Wisconsin utility commission should be in session.

"SPIRITUAL HOSPITAL" PLANNED BY BISHOP.

Chicago, July 18. — An open air spiritual hospital or refuge in or near Chicago for men and women who "find it difficult to lead Christian lives because of the complex temptations that beset them in the modern large city" is planned by Bishop Quayle of the Methodist Episcopal church. The proposition will be considered at the fifty-second annual camp meeting of Chicago Methodists which will open next Wednesday at Des Plaines, Ill.

WHY WEAK WOMEN NEED A SAFE TONIC

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Tone Up the Blood and Nerves and Are Free From Habit-Forming Drugs.

The average woman has too little blood because of the work, worry and confinement indoors consequent upon her household duties. Her nerves are easily irritated; she worries over little things; has severe sick headaches and becomes in a general run-down condition. To such women Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a positive blessing. They enrich the blood and tone up the nerves thereby giving strength and health to every part of the body.

Mrs. E. J. Garrison, of No. 2950 Walnut street, Everett, Wash., who suffered without relief until she tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, says:

"I suffered from weakness common to my sex for four years, and although treated by our doctor for over two years, found no relief until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I began to take the pills I had not been able to work for over a year and could not stand on my feet for any length of time because of the terrible pains. My head ached most of the time and I was very nervous. I could not get much sleep and my head hurt so whenever I would lie down that I had to be propped up in bed. I also had a great deal of backache.

"The doctor finally told me that he could not help me. I then tried several medicines but without relief until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills upon the advice of a druggist. After a thorough trial I noticed that my headaches were disappearing. I began to sleep better and was not so nervous. I kept on taking the pills for some time longer and now feel that I am cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to make new blood and, as the nerves get their nourishment from the blood, have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as anaemia, rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia, nervous debility, and even St. Vitus' dance and locomotor ataxia.

Our new booklet, "Plain Talks to Women," will be sent free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

DULUTH IS HONORED.

It is an honor, as well as a pleasure, for Duluth to entertain the Minnesota State Bar association for its annual meeting, which began today. Its members will be told on every hand that they are welcome, and The Herald can only add the welcome is warm, widespread and unanimous.

Lawyers are a kind of folks all of us are glad to keep out of the hands of professionally, but they are also a kind of folks all of us are mighty glad to lay our tears and troubles on the broad shoulders of when we get entangled in the mazes of the law, whether civil or criminal. Though there is a type of cheap humor which consists in affecting a belief that lawyers are dishonest, everybody knows that in no profession or business are standards of professional conduct so high. The relationship between lawyer and client is one of implicit confidence on the part of the client and the utmost good faith on the part of the lawyer. Betrayal of this confidence or breach of this good faith are so rare as to be almost non-existent.

The Herald hopes that the lawyers of the state will have a pleasant and profitable session, and that when it ends they will carry away with them memories of Duluth that will inspire in them the speedy wish to come again.

EVERYBODY CAN HELP.

With the Duluth Boat club as the nucleus and backbone of the movement—if it is possible for anything to be nucleus and backbone at the same time—the various forces of the city have centered in the effort that has brought about the water carnival which begins Thursday. The committees have done nobly, and it may be as well to say so now and to pay proper tribute to the energy, ingenuity, persistence and patience that have gone toward the making of the carnival.

The committees have practically completed their work. The rest of it is up to the people—and the weather man.

Everybody can help in making the carnival a success. Mere appreciative attendance is the least that anybody can do, but even that helps. And if any citizen sees a chance to contribute a word or an act to give the show a better chance for complete success, of course that word or act will be forthcoming.

The carnival shouldn't be regarded as a mere entertainment of the moment. It is to be hoped that it will become permanent, and that from the beginning to be made this week will be worked out an annual summer festival that in its way will be as famous an attraction as the Mardi Gras of New Orleans. Once travelers and summer tourists get into the way of coming to Duluth, they will come every year in increasing numbers; and such an event as the water carnival will do much toward fixing that tendency.

Those who have an opportunity to contribute to the success of the carnival, therefore, should remember that they are not building merely for this year's triumph, but for a long succession of successes that will help make Duluth the summer playground for the nation.

THE INCOME TAX COMING.

Practically all doubt of the ratification by the states of the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution authorizing congress to impose an income tax disappeared when the New York legislature the other day adopted a resolution committing that state to its ratification.

When the income tax is ratified by the state that has more incomes to be taxed than any other—though the labor and natural wealth out of which these incomes flow are scattered all over the country—there can be no possible excuse for the failure of the remaining states that have not acted to complete the victory for fair taxation by ratifying the amendment.

New York was distinctly one of the handful of states that were deemed to be almost sure to reject the amendment. Probably if the state hadn't elected a Democratic legislature pledged to the income tax it would have rejected it. But, however it happened, New York has ratified the amendment, and it is the most encouraging addition yet made to the list of states that have put the amendment forward toward final adoption by ratifying it.

New York, which everybody was sure would reject the amendment, has ratified it, and Minnesota, which everybody was sure would ratify it, has failed to do so. This is highly creditable to New York, and highly discreditable to Minnesota. The resolution ratifying the amendment passed the Minnesota house of representatives by a unanimous vote, early enough in the session to give the senate plenty of time to act upon it. However, by some means the opponents of the amendment succeeded in letting it die in committee.

Minnesota will yet ratify the amendment, but the fact that it did not ratify it at the last session of the legislature shows that there is still much need of legislative housecleaning in this state.

Only four more states are needed, and among the states that have not yet acted are Minnesota, Democratic Delaware, Florida, Louisiana and Virginia, and Wyoming and Utah. Nearly all of these states will approve the amendment at the next sessions of their legislatures. The probability is strong that it will be possible for the congress elected next year to enact an income tax law.

The coming of the Federal income tax is timely. The protective tariff system is breaking down under the weight of its gross abuses, and while there will always be a tariff of some kind, the tendency is likely to be away from the raising of revenue by tariff taxes that reach the ordinary man in proportion to his consumption of necessities, and toward the raising of revenue by taxing rich men according to their ability to pay. The provision of an income tax will help greatly toward the revolutionary revision of the tariff that is coming as surely as daylight follows darkness.

Aside from the selfish opposition of those with large incomes that will be subject to taxation, the main obstacle to the adoption of an income tax in this country has been furnished by those who feared that its revenue-producing capacity would make it easier to reduce the tariff duties. When the income tax is available for revenues which will be paid by those best able to pay, and in proportion to their ability to pay, the work of tariff revision will be vastly easier because the tariff will not be so vitally essential as a revenue-producer.

THE RIGHT WAY.

In a letter to the editor of The Herald Henry Wallace, the veteran editor of Wallace's Farmer and one of the best known agricultural experts in the country, suggests the right way—if not the only way—successfully to prosecute the campaign for the settlement and development of Northern Minnesota's rich idle acres. Mr. Wallace was here with the board of regents recently, and his advice is based on personal observation.

He says: "The land men in your section should limit their sales to the farmer to eighty acres, in many sections to forty acres or even less, and thus build up solid communities, adopting the plan of community settlement rather than individual purchase. They should clear up at least ten acres and build a house, charging it to the land. The cost of clearing will not be more than half what it would cost the individual farmer to do it in that heavily timbered section. Lands that are tillable at all in that section will support a dense population; and as you know, a dense population means schools and churches, which are an essential part of our modern civilization—or ancient, for that matter."

This embodies the ideas which most of those who are active in promoting the settlement of Northern Minnesota have come to embrace: the partially cleared small farm or small market garden tract rather than the unwieldly large farm, and the community plan of settlement rather than the old, blundering way of scattering isolated settlers to succumb to discouragement and despair when they are denied roads, schools, churches and human companionship.

As to giving the settler a start by clearing a part of his land so that he will have a chance to grow something for the market while he is redeeming the rest of it, The Herald last Friday said: "One thing the valuable demonstration work on Minnesota cut-over lands has made clear: that the best way to get them settled is to clear them first and put them in readiness for the settlers to till them. * * * Experience has shown that if settlers can be given lands partly cleared so they can grow profitable crops while clearing the rest, the process of settlement will be expedited very materially."

While private land owners can profit from these suggestions, it is to the state itself that argument should be addressed. The state owns millions of fertile acres, and from time to time it sells some of them. It has no definite plan, however, and it does little or nothing toward a systematic and effective system of making its lands available for cultivation. The legislature at its last session made a small appropriation for clearing a part of each of ten tracts of state land, the cost of clearing to be added to the price of the lands; but this is more in the way of an experiment to show the cost of clearing than in the way of a wisely matured plan to make it possible for farmers to buy and cultivate state lands.

Mostly the state has sold its lands wherever and whenever it could. It has without compunction sold land to settlers who had to go far from roads, schools, churches and civilization to till it, and who could hardly be expected to succeed unless they are cast in a more heroic mold than the average.

Settlement on the community plan, restriction of farm tracts to workable compass, and a wider application of the valuable knowledge that the best way to settle idle lands is to clear a part of each tract so that the farmer can make a living from the start, are plans of the wisdom of which there is practically no doubt whatever.

HOW MOTOR OWNERS MAY HELP.

Of course everybody in Duluth is more than willing to do anything possible to make the water carnival a thorough success, and probably the suggestion that motor-boat owners should see that there is no crowding into the course during the progress of the races needs only to be made to be heeded.

In this way they can co-operate to good advantage in making the carnival the complete success that everybody wants it to be.

The boundaries of the race course will undoubtedly be crowded compactly with motor boats and other craft containing spectators. There may be some temptation to crowd over the lines in the wish to get better situations for seeing the show. It is to be hoped that nobody will give in to that temptation.

The government has made regulations which cover such cases as this fully, and they are accompanied by heavy penalties. Furthermore, the local customhouse officials have stated that it is their intention to enforce these regulations rigidly.

It ought not to be necessary to resort to the strong arm of the law, however. Every motor-boat owner will doubtless be willing to contribute to the success of the carnival at least the practice of orderly behavior during the races.

WELL-BEHAVED CITIZENS.

Congratulations to Duluth on the showing of extraordinarily good behavior made by the report of the street railway company on the patronage of the "owl" cars. When only an average of ten persons a night on the West Duluth line, six on the Superior street line, three on the Lakeside line and one on the Woodland line take the "owl" car home, it is a pretty strong showing that the attractions of home are superior to those of the downtown diversions to the average Duluth citizen. And probably most of those who were so belated had perfectly good excuses.

A RICH YORICK

By SAVOYARD.

The death of Proctor Knott inevitably recalls Spencer Dabney, a Kentuckian cast in like mold, though their walk was widely different. Spence, as more than thrice 10,000 of his friends always called him, was a journeyman saddler and a genius, as pronounced one as Knott or Prentice, or Tom Marshall. He was a splendid looking man, and in that elder day, when your Southerner was the handsomest and most tastily dressed man in the world, he was remarkably distinguished in personal appearance, when he donned his best attire. Above six feet, symmetrically formed, graceful and handsome, Spencer Dabney would have been a striking figure anywhere.

The way he got to be a lawyer is a good story. He was one night playing poker with Judge Fount Fox, Mike Owsley, Sam Boles and John Sandidge, at Russell Springs. For a joke, Owsley told Fox that Dabney, then a very young man, was there to be examined touching his learning in the profession of Coke and Blackstone. Fox answered, "Dabney, you look like a lawyer, you talk like a lawyer, you play poker like a lawyer, and I'll be hanged if I don't make you a lawyer," which he did on the spot.

Spence moved to Lebanon, where Proctor Knott subsequently lived, and opened a law office. The boys elected him justice of the peace, and his library was the Revised Statutes, the Code of Practice of Kentucky, and the Farmer's Almanac. It was asserted that his court was noted for a maximum of dignity and a minimum of learning. He got into politics and was a candidate for state senator. Unfortunately the presiding office of the convention put the vote this way: "All in favor of the nomination of Col. Dabney will please rise." That beat him; though in a majority, not a Dabney delegate could stand on his pins.

I don't recall a more dashing looking man than Spencer Dabney at his best. He would have attracted attention, commanded admiration, in any society. One Fourth of July the orator of the occasion was absent, and Spence was called on to fill his place and make a impromptu stump speech and he did it capitally. The audience was spell-bound and hung on his words. His periods were fervid and burning, and after two hours of enormous eloquence, he closed in a very rhapsody of patriotic declaration.

Coming down from the stand Spence met one of his maternal uncles, who was pretty nearly as much of a wag as Spence himself. The old man said: "Spence, I'm proud of you. Your eloquence was splendid, your presence superb, your voice rich, resonant and musical, your gestures were grace itself, but, Spence, what you lack is ideas. If a idee ever strikes you, I'm damned if you won't be a rouser!"

And what a voice it was! It was as resonant as Joe Blackburn's and as musical as Billy Breckenridge's, and there was more to it than either of the others had. It was stagey and thrilled you. He could roll the R as no other man I ever saw or heard. He could look the part, too, and if Spence Dabney had been a student he could have played a big part in our political history. I do not believe that Proctor Knott's speech on the bill of rights in the Kentucky constitutional convention of 1890 has ever been surpassed in the English tongue, but Spence Dabney might have been as great a man had he been endowed with the same temperament and the same tastes.

But the best episode in the career of Spence was when he personated Henry A. Wise in 1855. The proprietor of Russell Springs was possessed of an idiosyncracy and he idealized Wise, though the Democratic candidate for governor of Kentucky that year, Beverley L. Clark, was the equal of even Wise himself. Some of the younger guests at the springs resolved to play a joke on their host and they sent for Spence, who came in a coach-and-four, arrayed in the gorgeous attire of broadcloth, duck and Marseilles, not neglecting patent leather boots, stovepipe hat, Henry Clay cigars and kid gloves.

When Spence drove up and announced that he was Governor Wise, who had come to take the waters, twenty negroes were brought into requisition to see to the comfort of the illustrious guest. The best quarters were assigned him, and the first order was to take the brown sugar out and put white sugar in. There never yet was a man who could look the distinguished guest better than Spence. There was a lordly air about him when he chose to put it on that Vere de Vere or Rohan could scarce have equaled. He sat in state, was the favored guest at table, and all the best drinkables and eatables round about were his. When the landlord was at leisure he went into the room where Spence was enthroned and they communed on all great matters of state. Spence had a vocabulary that would have put to silence all the tongues at Babel, and he whirled it at the old fellow and thus confirmed him in the conviction that the sagest of all statesmen was his guest, his friend, and under his roof.

And so it continued for two weeks, when a tramp saddler, who had worked at the bench with Spence, came along, recognized him, and hailed him. The landlord had heard of Spence and in a twinkling saw the trick of which he had been the victim, but all the punishment he meted was to order the white sugar out of Spence's room, who had to make his julep with brown sugar the rest of the summer. About the close of the season the landlord said to Spence: "I want you to understand, Colonel Dabney, that you are not going to leave here till you pay your bill." "That suites me exactly," was the reply. "I am here for the rest of my natural life."

I could fill this entire newspaper with anecdotes of Spence Dabney. He had lived in and been a citizen of 114 cities, towns, villages and hamlets in Kentucky, and everywhere he went he carried a humor and an individuality that reversed that passage in Shakespeare: "The prosperity of an anecdote lies more in the ear of the hearer than on the tongue of the narrator," or words to that effect. When Spence told a story all of us were sorry that he had made an end, as Ben Jonson said of Bacon. I never saw him angry, but a friend of ours did, and he said it was terrible.

Spence was what they called a commercial drummer in those days, and he got the largest salary ever paid one up to the time he left the stage. Unfortunately — perhaps happily — he could not stand prosperity. He worked for some Jews in Cincinnati. His mission was to get the customers into the store, for he knew nothing about goods. He could tell a thousand anecdotes of the Jews. He had their dialect and their German accent to an exact nicety. But he did them justice and always wound up with the words that they were the best and fairest and honestest people in the world to work for. He also said that they were the most generous people, and he was ready to worship an old Jew in Cincinnati by the name of B. Simon.

As I said, I could fill this paper with anecdotes of Spence Dabney. I will venture one, though it is lost in the telling. He one day went to the zoo and heard a man make an oration like this: "Ladies and gentlemen, I will now exhibit for your view this great female elephant Ann. She can walk eighty miles a day and when pushed can go 200. Ladies I call your attention especially to this fact—it requires more calico than is contained in any single dry goods store in the great city of Cincinnati to make this elephant one pair of pantalettes."

That was too much for Spence, and he roared out: "That's a blank blank lie. Pierce, Tolle and Holton have got more calico in their store than will make her a whole suit!"

But I am at the end of my paper. "Alas, poor Yorick! I knew him well. Horatio, a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy."

And who shall deny to me that he is in some Valhalla, along with Shakespeare and Ben Jonson, Addison and Steele, possibly with Swift and Pope, certainly with Proctor Knott and Dick Wintersmith, Theodore Hallam, Bill Botts, Alec Grant and Zeb Vance.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

At the annual meeting of the Duluth Investment company, the following were elected directors for the term of three years: William Kaiser, Hiram Parsons and J. D. Molitor; for two years, W. P. Lardner.

L. D. Scott of Roscoe, Ohio, who has for a long time been interested in Duluth, expects to move here soon.

Mrs. George A. Craig of Bay City, Mich., is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Rossiter, 715 West Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert J. Fellows of Suncook, N. H., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Starkey of 829 West Third street. Mr. Fellows is Mrs. Starkey's brother.

Fred Banning, who lived here three years ago, has arrived for a short vacation. He is now connected with a big New York house which does most of its business in the South.

Ned H. Smith, who left the assistant managership of the Duluth office of the Western Union about two months ago to become manager at Escanaba, returned yesterday, somewhat tired of the ore shipping port. He is here to take his oar in the Duluth boat in the races at Winnipeg next month and will probably remain in Duluth.

Otto C. Hartman writes on a postal card from Venice that he has had a delightful swim on the Adriatic and is about to start for home via Vienna and Geneva.

Capt. Alex McDougall announces that it is his intention to secure a share of the money offered by the United States government in subsidies for various vessels to be built for carrying the mails to Europe, South America, Japan, Australia and New Zealand. Capt. Harris of the American Steel Barge company has been given charge of the matter.

Five men were killed by the falling of the new Beerlacher hotel at Superior. About twenty-five men had gathered in the building to seek refuge from the rain and wind, when it collapsed, falling level with the earth. In addition to the five killed, four men were seriously injured and half a dozen were badly hurt.

New Duluth is to have a national bank with $50,000 capital. J. W. Norton will be one of the largest individual stockholders.

Commodore Saxton corrects an error made in an interview with Gen. W. L. Banning. The latter was not, as stated, the first president of the Lake Superior & Mississippi, now the St. Paul & Duluth road. That honor belongs to Lyman Dayton of St. Paul, who was not only the first president of the road but its early financial backbone. He was made president, Commodore Saxton recollects, in 1862 and continued in that office until he died.

FAVORS MONDAY FOR HALF HOLIDAY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am heartily in favor of the weekly half-holiday plan which is being advocated. I believe that such a holiday is needed and that the merchants would find that they were the gainers in increased efficiency from their help, with a very immaterial loss of business.

But I have a suggestion to offer. Why make this holiday on Thursday? Thursday, especially in the afternoon is one of the best business days in the week. It seems to me to be unwise to make this the day for the closing. On the other hand, Monday is perhaps the dullest day of the week in mercantile lines. Everyone recognizes "Blue Monday" as a light day when sales shrink to their smallest. It would be the day when the loss of business through closing would be felt least.

Then too, with a Monday holiday the workers in the stores would have two days off, and it would be possible for them to get away for pleasant week-end excursions during the summer months. It appears to me therefore, that a Monday holiday scheme would be far more feasible and at the same time be more desirable than one later in the week.

THE PITY OF IT.

New York Times: The so-called Progressives who have tried to defeat reciprocity, and are on the eve of a failure, are contemptible and ridiculous figures in recent politics. It is easy to condemn and hard not to despise them. But if they are ludicrous they are also pitiable.

When we look back on the course of the little group of Senators who in the extraordinary session of 1909 worked so stoutly and persistently to prevent the betrayal of the Republican pledges, we note only two whose course has not been substantially reversed, whose reputation has not been tarnished, whose faith has not been broken. One is Beveridge, who is out of the senate, but whose support, in his own state, has been given to reciprocity; the other is Dolliver, who is dead. The death of the latter was a great and, for the time, an irreparable loss. We cannot imagine that he would not have stood firm. His position was so well grounded; he was so thorough and painstaking as to facts; he was so clear and candid in statement; he was so manly and cogent in reasoning, and in word and act he was so free from cowardice or self-seeking, ambiguity or evasion, that it is not to be imagined that he would have proved weak or tricky. Above all, he appealed to and aroused the newly enlightened conscience and intelligence of his party with such impressive sincerity, courage, and confidence, he held so deeply the movement toward justice and common sense in which he took the lead, that we think of him as the man of the future, not of the past. We cannot picture him as tempted or scared into turning back or even halting. We cannot see him quailing, as his former comrades are quailing, before a "farmers' movement" financed and managed by the lumber and paper trusts.

The plight of the Progressives, so far as they personally are concerned, is of slight interest to the American people. They have been tried and found wanting, and they will be lighted the way to dusty death as a crowd of others like them have been. But it is a great pity that they should have fallen as they have, since the cause they professed to serve is a very good cause, worthy of the utmost fidelity and embodying principles of essential National morality. It is the cause of equity against privilege. It is the cause of real republicanism and democracy against the betrayal and prostitution of them. It is the vindication of the fundamental idea and purpose of our institutions.

Such a Lankwitch!

Our language is a curious thing;
It is, upon my word!
A crowd of folks we call a "throng,"
A crowd of deer a "herd."

A herd of geese we term a "flock,"
A flock of ships a "fleet,"
A "bevy" is a synonym
We use for maidens sweet.

A group of cops we call a "squad,"
A squad of thieves a "band—"
No wonder aliens find our tongue
So hard to understand.

A band of wolves we call a "pack,"
A pack of bees a "swarm,"
A swarm of herring is a "shoal,"
So lexicons inform.

Our noisy aids we term a "troop,"
A "gang" of hoodlums they;
If of barbarians we speak
A "horde" is what we say.

A "horde" of oxen is a "drove,"
A drove of whales a "school—"
To learn the variants of this term
You've got to be a fool.
No, sirree!

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Sense.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: There is no longer doubt about the fate of the Canadian reciprocity bill as far as the United States is concerned. It has been passed by the house and will be passed by the senate within a month and will be approved by the president. It is positively asserted by those in position to know that it will also be approved by Canada. We venture the prediction that it will be of great benefit to the whole Northwest, and no state will profit to a greater extent than will Minnesota, and this prosperity will be extended to the farmers.

A Discovery.

Anoka Union: There has been too much protection in the United States, and the people have suffered and the trusts flourished.

If Nelson Is Right, Yes.

Princeton Union: Supposing Canada should by its own voluntary action or by the arbitrament of war become part and parcel of the United States, would Minnesota farmers and manufacturers go out of business?

Spooner for Congress.

Roseau Region: In case the bill now before congress and which increases the representation from Minnesota by one congressman-at-large should become a law, the friends of L. C. Spooner of Morris will no doubt urge that gentleman to be a candidate as such congressman. Mr. Spooner is an able man and well equipped for the place. His record in the legislature during the last three sessions proves him to be a man capable of initiating fundamental and far-reaching legislation, and if he should conclude to announce himself, his many friends throughout the state would be glad to support him.

More Sense.

Stillwater Gazette: Reciprocity appears to be much more dangerous to a few of the big trusts than it does to the real farmers. We do not believe that reciprocity will prove a detriment to the farmers nor the other millions of people that the trusts are endeavoring to show. Thus far they have shown nothing.

A Wise Reform.

Princeton Union: Among the reforms recommended in the postal laws by the tri-state postmasters' convention at St. Paul recently was that all voting contests conduced by newspapers cannot be considered a legitimate means of securing subscribers, and to increase the subscription lists is the purpose for which they are introduced. The people are inveigled into subscribing for papers they do not want and the prizes distributed are practically valueless. Publications which resort to the voting contest scheme are usually little sheets on their last legs or those which are worth no more than what they will bring for old paper.

The Underlying Motive.

Appleton Press: Senator Nelson does not seem to be adverse to annexing Western Canada, but he is strongly opposed to reciprocity. In other words he is ready to push out the tariff wall to take in new territory, but does not want anything done to impair the integrity of the structure. This attitude demonstrates very plainly that the underlying motive is the preservation of the system of special privilege rather than protection of the farmer.

An Alluring Proposition.

Elk River Star-News: A little study of the tax laws of Canadian Northwest partly explains why so many overlook the farming opportunities in Minnesota and go out there to locate. The idea in Minnesota seems to be to get everything the people have by taxation, while up there the tax problem comes pretty near being based on the Henry George theory that land should pay the taxes and everything that moves be exempted. It is quite an alluring proposition up one side and down the other.

Any Harm in That?

Madison Independent Press: An extra session of the legislature for the purpose of tilting the gross earnings tax might turn out to be an extra session for the purpose of another attempt at reapportionment.

Chicago Evening Post: It was no other than Joseph Weldon Bailey of Gainesville, Tex., who stepped into the breach and through a three-hour speech prevented the senate from coming to a final vote on the Canadian reciprocity treaty. Is it not wonderful how uniformly and unfailingly this man appears on the wrong side of every issue which affects the common people? Sometime, somewhere, somehow, we should think he might inadvertently array himself on the side of the angels. But he never does. He is always wrong. It would be interesting to know how Messrs. OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

If the weather man only keeps on handing out the same brand of weather that Duluth has been blessed with the last two or three days, carnival week will be a grand success. It has been cool enough to show the visitors just what an ideal summer place the city is, and while a wrap would probably be necessary for evenings on the water, it has not been cold, and the days have been delightful.

Today dawned bright and sunny, the sun rising at 4:31, and setting at 7:57. Toward noon it clouded up and began to give promise of showers with a moderate wind from the southwest blowing. This accords with Forecaster Richardson's predictions as he expects rain within the next thirty-six hours. Mr. Richardson says, however, that clear weather may be expected again in time for the carnival.

He says of conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours light to heavy showers have fallen along the Atlantic coast and throughout the Northwest and Southwest, principally in connection with disturbances central off the New England coast, and over North Dakota. Somewhat warmer weather prevails in the Dakotas, Wyoming, Colorado, and Utah, a result of the low pressure over the former state, but cooler temperatures attend the high pressure over Alberta. Showery weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours, but it is believed this condition will have passed to the eastward by Thursday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 18.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler Wednesday.

Wisconsin—Showers tonight and cooler Wednesday.

Minnesota—Showers tonight, cooler in North and West portions; Wednesday fair except showers in Southeast portion; cooler in east portion.

Iowa—Showers tonight and Wednesday, except fair Wednesday in Northwest portion; cooler Wednesday in east and south portions.

North Dakota—Showers tonight, cooler in east and south portions; Wednesday fair.

South Dakota—Showers tonight; cooler in west portion; Wednesday fair.

Montana—Fair in north, showers in south portion tonight, cooler in southeast portion; Wednesday fair.

Upper Lakes — Moderate variable winds on Superior; moderate south becoming variable on Michigan and Huron. Increasing cloudiness followed by showers tonight or Wednesday.

SANDSTONE VOTES PLAN.

Proposed Agricultural School Carries at School Election.

Sandstone, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the rainy weather a comparatively small turnout was present at the school election to vote on the proposition of purchasing land for agricultural purposes. The plan carried almost unanimously, and the erection of a school house in the Grace district, in the town of Wilma, which also carried, and $500 will be used for that purpose, while $1,000 goes for the first proposition. In the race for two trusteess for three years to take the places of Secretary Madison and Trustee Bullis, the latter was re-elected by a vote of 93 out of a total of 162, and Fred Rudkin was second choice with ninety votes to his credit over James Carolan and Charles J. Pearson. The retiring secretary was not a candidate, as he has been making his headquarters in Duluth for some time and expects to reside there permanently.

The site for the agricultural department of the Sandstone high schools has not been selected as yet, but an effort will be made to get the location as near as possible to the city limits. Independent district No. 5 is a progressive and the largest school district in Pine county and reaches as far east as the state boundary line, about thirty miles distant.

GREAT TIME FOR NEWSIES

Paper Venders Spend a Hilarious Day at Lester Park.

Huge Quantities of Refreshments Consumed at Herald's Annual Picnic.

More than 400 Herald merchants had a great, grand and gorgeous time at the annual carriers and newsies picnic at Lester Park yesterday. The affair was in charge of the circulation department of the paper and from every standpoint was a huge success.

The boys went out and returned from the park in cars chartered by The Herald, the cars picking up the boys from the West Duluth and West end distributing branches as well as from the main office. They left Fifth avenue west at 9:30, a happy hilarious bunch of youngsters and returned just in time for the afternoon distribution work, somewhat tired but full of the glorious time they had enjoyed and also a mixture of cakes, pop corn, crackerjack, pop, lemonade, ice cream, etc., which was served up to them at short intervals during the day.

At Lester the sports program was started almost at once, and was in progress all day. Even at that some of the events had to be dropped in order to get the crowd back to the center of the city in time for the evening work. The program began with the ball game between teams chosen from the boys of the main office and the West Duluth branch, which went to the downtown club by a score of 8 to 3. The biggest part of the big crowd watched the events, but a lot of the youngsters wandered up Lester river and the woods were full of kids during most of the day. The big pile of refreshments which was conveyed to the grounds and which at the beginning of the day looked like a week's rations for a good sized army dwindled rapidly and empty boxes, case and sacks were all that was left when the celebration was over.

The races which were held and the winners were as follows:

100-yard race, down town boys—First, Israel Azine; second, George Brenton; third, Norman Spindler.

100-yards, West end boys—First, Alvin Wellberg; second, Gilbert Granfors; third, Ernest Paulson.

100-yards, West Duluth boys—First, Ernest Anderson; second, Earl Galbreath; third, Glen McMillan.

Three-legged race, down town—First, Gutkin and Peterson; second, Haug brothers; third, Nelson and Nelson.

Three-legged race, West end—First, Myer and Nelson; second, Jentoft and Kolbak; third, Luepke and Eklund.

Three-legged race, West Duluth—First, Anderson and Clark; second, McMillan and Galbreath; third, Anderson and Thibideau.

Small boys—First, Oscar Ray; second, George Thibideau; third, Abe Berkson.

Jumping race—First, Walter Lacrosse; second, Allan Rachlin; third, Fred Mason.

Consolation race—First, Herbert Newman; second, Edward Ebling; third, Jack Berini.

Carriers, 100 yards—First, George Kolstad; second, Truman Brooke; third, William Elder.

Carriers' three-legged—First, Caulkins and McKay; second, Lee and Cameron; third, Solheim and Walling.

Carriers, jumping—First, George Kolstad; second, Wallace Cameron; third, Douglas McKay.

DIAZ PARTISAN MAKES CHARGES

Says de la Barra Is Responsible for Killing of Germans.

City of Mexico, July 18.—In a long accusation filed with the permanent committee of the national congress, Deputy Jose Maria Gamboa indirectly charges President de la Barra and his cabinet with responsibility for the recent outbreak in Puebla and vicinity. He refers particularly to the killing of Germans, which he said constituted crimes, the blame for which was fixed by the penal code and by the fundamental law, which placed the chief executive and his ministers in authority. He asked the committee to proceed as it saw fit in view of the circumstances, considering that in presenting the facts he had complied with his duty as a deputy and a partisan and admirer of Gen. Diaz.

Accused of Sedition.

San Luis Ptosi, Mex., July 18.—Former Chief of Police Macias and Prof. B. Guardilla until recently inspector of schools, and the editor of an afternoon newspaper, and Manuel Ugalde, late jefe politico, are under arrest here on a charge of sedition. In connection with their arrest, 100 peons were taken from a northbound train and placed in a penitentiary. It is said a plot had been discovered among followers of Gen. Reyes and that their activity was directed in his favor.

ANTI-SALOON WORKER OF WISCONSIN RESIGNS.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 18.—The Rev. U. G. Humphrey, superintendent of the Wisconsin Anti-saloon league, has resigned, to take effect on Aug. 31. He will be succeeded by John G. Wooley, Madison, and it is possible that the league headquarters will be moved to Madison. Mr. Humphrey's resignation is due to ill health, his physician having ordered a change of climate. He will become superintendent of the Pittsburg district of the Pennsylvania Anti-saloon league.

FACES MANY CHARGES.

Convict Goes From Kansas to Be Tried in the East.

Washington, July 18.—Facing an almost endless chain of re-arrests and sentences for obtaining money under false pretenses, Donald Thompson, who was arrested in Leavenworth, Kan., on the expiration of a two-year sentence in the federal penitentiary for passing worthless checks in Norfolk, Va., was brought back to Washington last night to face trial for an alleged similar offense here. Should his impending trial end in conviction, it is said that at the expiration of his fresh term he will be re-arrested to face charges preferred against him in New York, Philadelphia and several other Eastern cities. Thompson operated in many parts of the country, but usually sought to obtain only small amounts of money.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE WILL RECESS FRIDAY.

Albany, N. Y., July 18.—The New York state legislature, which has been in continuous session since Jan. 1, will take a recess Friday until Sept. 6. The bitter and long drawn out fight over the United States senatorship was mainly responsible for the extended session. Most of the important legislation planned for the session has been disposed of except that relating to direct primaries and the new charter for Greater New York.

The direct primaries bill, in satisfactory form, will probably be agreed upon this week, but the new charter legislation will go over until fall.

A conservation commission for the state, which takes the place of the forest, fish and game commission, was appointed by Governor Dix last night. It has wider powers than the commission it replaces over the natural resources of the state.

MRS. ARMOUR MAY NEVER RECOVER FUNDS.

Kansas City, Mo., July 18.—It is probable that Mrs. Mary E. Armour, widow of S. B. Armour, the packer, never will recover the full amount of the bonds taken from her by Miss Harriet Byington, her companion. This is the statement made by Miss Byington's attorney, when asked if the speculations of the companion would be repaid by her relatives.

When it was first discovered that bonds from Mrs. Armour's safety deposit box were missing, it was announced that Miss Byington's brother in South America was a millionaire and would repay Mrs. Armour for the bonds. In all about $44,000 worth of the bonds are unaccounted for, it is said.

According to the statement made here last night by Miss Byington's attorney, the brother in South America is not a millionaire, or even wealthy, but owns a small electrical supply shop and has been acting as assistant United States consul. A letter written to him more than a month ago by the attorneys remains unanswered.

"FAST" TO RAISE FUND FOR VOTES FOR WOMEN.

New York, July 18.—To aid the women of California who hope to win the vote when the issue of suffrage for women is presented to the people there on Oct. 10, it has been decided that New York women suffragists shall observe a week's fast next month. For the week beginning Aug. 15, the women are expected to forego many pleasures, including ice cream, cooling drinks, roof garden parties, and weekend visits.

Many well known women have subscribed to the economy plan. The money saved will be turned over to the California cause.

MICHIGAN LUMBERMAN GIVES BOND TO APPEAR.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 18.—George G. Sweet, president of the Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers' association, indicted by the government with thirteen secretaries and former secretaries of lumber organizations, charged with violating the Sherman anti-trust law, appeared in the federal court here yesterday and gave bond of $2,500. He was held to the July term of court, which will bring his case up in Chicago next October.

Pettit Estate $25,000.

Chicago, July 18.—James Pettit, late president of the Peavey Grain company, whose body was found in Lake Michigan last week, left an estate valued at $25,000, according to his will. His widow was named sole beneficiary.

Belgian Flies 383 Miles.

Brussels, July 18.—The Belgian aviator Olieslagers in a monoplane yesterday made a flight of 626 kilometers (383 miles) at the aerodrome without a stop. This beats the world's record for distance, in an uninterrupted flight, held by Labuteau, 584 kilometers (362 miles.)

Find Wrecked Balloon.

Marshall, Mich., July 18.—A huge gas balloon, the basket of which had been ripped off, has been found on a small island in Garfield lake, near this place. There was still some gas in the bag and apparently it had been dragged over the thick woods west of the lake. There was nothing to indicate the ownership of the balloon or whence it came.

MANAHAN FOR LA FOLLETTE

Says Wisconsin Senator Is Daily Gaining Support for President.

St. Paul Attorney to Speak at Request of Progressive Republicans.

James Manahan of St. Paul, the attorney who successfully prosecuted the Loftus action against the Pullman Car company, will be the principal speaker at the banquet of the Progressive Republican League of Duluth at the Spalding at 6:30 this evening. Mr. Manahan is an enthusiastic progressive Republican and an ardent admirer of Senator Robert M. La Follette.

Congressman Irving L. Lenroot of Superior, who was expected to attend the banquet this evening, is unable to come to Duluth. W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis, representative of the legislature, will be one of the speakers and A. J. McGuire of Grand Rapids is also on the program.

"The free list and the wool bill now before congress are of far greater importance than the reciprocity agreement," said Mr. Manahan today. "I am not opposed to reciprocity in principle, but I am opposed to the present bill, which is not a relief measure. Everybody interested in the bill is making a mountain out of a molehill. The bill will pass and will be forgotten in thirty days. It will do neither great harm nor great good to anyone. I believe La Follette's wool bill will pass and that it will prove a greater achievement than the reciprocity agreement."

Discussing La Follette's presidential prospects, Mr. Manahan maintained that the Wisconsin senator is not losing prestige by his opposition to the reciprocity agreement.

"President Taft is losing ground every day," he said. "He is not the choice of the rank and file and his nomination next year would mean a Democratic victory. The progressive Republicans of the country are united behind La Follette. The senator from Wisconsin cannot do his official work in his office at Washington, for while he is at his office, he is holding a constant reception. Republicans from all parts of the country are calling upon him and promising him their support."

Mr. Manahan, who gained considerable fame in the Pullman car case, is now attorney for the Periodical Publishers' association and is preparing their case in opposition to increased second class mail rates.

The progressive Republicans recently organized in Duluth and the league shows good municipal strength. It is expected that the members of the league, and many other pregressive Republicans, will attend tonight's banquet. Frank T. McNally will act as toastmaster.

HIKING FROM ST. PAUL.

Two Boy Scouts Are Coming to Northern Minnesota.

Mora, Minn., July 18. — (Special to The Herald.)—Eric Ahlquist and Paul Aurellus, boy scouts from St. Paul, passed through here yesterday on their 700-mile hike to Northern and Western Minnesota. The boys went from here to Mille Lacs lake and then will continue their journey northward. They were both in good cheer and physical condition.

An immense cut of hay is being made in this section and although this is a stock raising country the supply of hay will greatly exceed the demand for local market. The growth of timothy is the best in years. Corn and potatoes will also be bumper crops.

Kidney Diseases Are Curable

Under certain conditions. The right medicine must be taken before the disease has progressed too far. Mr. Perry A. Pitman, Dale, Tex., says: "I was down in bed for four months with kidney and bladder trouble and gall stones. One bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me well and sound." Ask for it. For sale by all druggists.

PREDICT ELECTION ON RECIPROCITY ISSUE.

Ottawa, Ont., July 18.—A session of parliament to last from three to six weeks followed by a general election with reciprocity as the issue, is a forecast generally accepted by both Liberals and Conservatives who are returning to the capital for the adjourned session. It is understood that the government will mark the resumption of the session by again putting the reciprocity bill before the house and that Conservatives will resume their filibusters to prevent a vote. It is well known that Premier Laurier wants an election soon and will seize the first reasonable opportunity to precipitate one.

TOOK 1,700-MILE AUTO TRIP INTO CANADA.

Mohall, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seventeen hundred miles by automobile was negotiated by seven Mohall men, who made a tour that carried them into the Canadian Northwest. Bad roads made the trip a hard one. The members of the party were Dr. E. S. Fitzmaurice, J. S. McKeen, Martin Haugen, Thomas Fitzmaurice, John S. Elliott, A. E. Arp and James Meagher.

Waterworks for Winter.

Couderay, Wis., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.) — At a recent village election at Winter, it was decided to build a complete system of waterworks in the village. Plans are now being formulated for the digging of the well, building the tower and tank, and putting in the water mains along the principal streets. Work will be started at an early date and the work rushed to completion before the cold weather sets in.

HEAT MAKES CHILDREN ILL

Summer is a very trying period for young children, and many a child who is usually healthy suffers during the heated term. There are many dangers for the child in summer. These lie in milk, food, water, fruit, etc. The greatest peril is from some form of stomach or bowel trouble. It is usually the starting point of graver troubles. The child becomes constipated, or gets indigestion. Perspiration is interfered with, worms develop, the skin becomes scaly and itchy, and the poor child is in much misery. Do not let it go, and trust to luck or fate for a cure. Use a remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is intended to cure that very condition and is especially adapted to children's ills because of its mildness and purity. If the child has any of these symptoms, or has not had a passage in 24 hours, it needs Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at once. It will act promptly but gently, and as it is pleasant to take you will not have to force it. A bottle can be obtained of any druggist at 50 cents or $1.00, and you should obtain a bottle today, so as to have it on hand for an emergency. DOUBLE-CROSSING THE BAR

Being Some Incompetent, Irrelevant and Immaterial Evidence Collected By Stealth Against the State's Lawyers, Now Guests of Duluth.

MURPHY AND McCARTHY

HERE is the firm of Murphy & McCarthy of Grand Rapids, probably the ablest lawyers in the state of Minnesota. Mr. Murphy and Mr. McCarthy are both of good old Huguenot stock. Mr. Murphy formerly spelled his name Murfee, and Mr McCarthy is descended from the fine old French family of Carthees in the province of Tippe Rarec, near the town of Corpac.

Mr. Murphy is almost as much of a farmer as a lawyer, and is now experimenting with onions. He is trying to cross them with radishes and ruin the Sen Sen industry.

In the picture Mr. McCarthy is pointing to the picture of the senior member of his firm, which he says is contained on the potato under his finger. He says Mr. Murphy ought to be a judge, which shows that in spite of the excitable French temperament of both members of the firm, they get along amicably, and retain a mutual respect for each other.

The Homeliest Man.

JOHN M. BRADFORD, probably the ablest lawyer in Minnesota, claims to be the homeliest man at the convention. He comes from St. Paul, from the firm of Murphy, Ewing & Bradford. He is called the "Henry D. Feldman of the St. Paul Bar," and is addicted to Dolly Vardon suits and passionate vests. He has one delicate orange creation, with purple checks the size of silver dollars. When he nonchalantly throws open his coat and displays this confection, it has been known to knock a judge off the bench, and hypnotise a jury. He is writing a new text book, "Bradford on Suits—also Vests and Coats," which has a large advance sale. He is married and proud of it, and has two sons not yet old enough to worry about their necktles. He says he hasn't any money, but about $1,000,000 worth of good friends and good health. He has never been indicted or investigated.

JOHN M. BRADFORD

Privately and for the information of the reader, it might be stated that "John M." probably underestimated the value of his friends, judging from the expressions heard among other members of the Twin City delegation.

Whiskers His Only Vice.

STILES W. BURR is president of the Ramsey County Bar association, by permission of Charles Farnham, who happens to be a brother-in-law. Charlie thought it would be a good thing to keep the best offices in the family, so had Mr. Burr elected president. Mr Burr, who is probably the ablest lawyer in Minnesott, wears whiskers in the approved Van Dyke style, and is hopelessly addicted to golf in an aggravated form.

The governor was so impressed by Mr. Burr's Van Dyke and knowledge of golf, that he offered to make him a district judge—came up and handed him the offer on a silver platter, and Mr. Burr refused, courteously, but sternly and firmly. This last is fact, not fiction.

P. S.—Brother-in-law Farnham says the governor offered to make Mr. Burr a judge because of his knowledge of the law, not because of the Van Dyke. Mr. Farnham ought to know, for Mr. Burr says he taught "Charlie" all the law the latter knows, and never missed it.

P. P. S.—Mr. Farnham hotly disputes brother-in-law's statement about legal instruction. This dispute may be continued later—and again it may not.

A Good Organizer.

CHARLES FARNHAM, probably the ablest lawyer in Minnesota, was born at a very early age, and when 2 years of age organized a nursery association, electing himself president, and making his nurse fourth assistant errand girl. He permitted his father to act as treasurer and his mother as secretary. The nursery association thrived and prospered. Since then "Charlie" has been organizing everything from baseball teams to trusts and bar associations, and getting himself elected president. He permits the St. Paul Bar association to elect his brother-in-law president, out of a friendly feeling for said brother-in-law. "Charlie" acts as major domo, names the officers and elects them, manages the banquests and "runs things." He does it so well, that nobody has ever thought of starting an insurgent movement. He's secretary or something like that of the state association, and when any person seeks information the answer is invariably, "Oh, ask Charlie Farnham," and Charlie knows. He knows people, also scads of them, and some day, his friends say, "Charlie" is going to let the people elect him governor or senator or something like that, and take life easier.

Watch for Him.

KAY TODD, probably the ablest lawyer in Minnesota, has red hair and a song, "Oh, there was an old cow." He breaks up every banquet of the St. Paul Bar association trying to sing this song. He was secretary of the association last year, and presumed on his office to put himself on the pro-ram for this song. In the riot that followed, he lost the records of the association, and they had to call in "Charlie" Farnham to straighten things out.

As long as "Kay" doesn't try to sing, the St. Paul delegates say he can be tolerated in any society.

EXPOSED!

Very Sensational News Follows.

CORDIE" SEVERANCE of St. Paul, of the highly eminent and respectable firm of attorneys, Kellogg, Spencer & Severance, and probably the ablest lawyer in Minnesota, used to play the bass horn at picnics in the old town of Mantorville, Minn., whe he first became notorious.

Mr. Severance hotly denies the allegation, but it is said to be well substantiated by witnesses, who have heard him torture "Oh, Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star" until the dogs of the village contracted diphtheria wailing their protests.

"Six Cylinder Tom."

SIX CYLINDER TOM" is what they call Thomas Daggett, probably the ablest lawyer in Minnesota. He has an automobile with one lung gone, and a bad case of the heaves, but he always manages to get home, even if he has to pay farmers $5 an hour for a team. He says he can take any hill in St. Paul "on high," if he gets a good start at the top.

Why?

Chester Caldwell, probably the ablest lawyer in Minnesota, is called "Battle Axe." Nobody will tell why.

Has a Hard Name.

BESIDES being perhaps the ablest attorney in the state, Royal A. Stone—'tis a hard name—of St. Paul is treasurer of the State Bar association.

"Bumpus" Stone is in a great many ways in a class by himself. He was selected for his present position by the attorneys of the state because of his experience in collecting dues from railroad, express and telegraph companies. This experience came when Mr. Stone was assistant attorney general under Edward T. Young. Since elected to his present position in the bar association, he has done little else than try to pry the attorneys loose from $1 a year, or whatever the dues happen to be.

ROYAL A. STONE

According to statistics dug up by an energetic reporter down in Le Sueur, it has been found that Stone first saw the light at that place in 1875. In 1876 he decided to take his parents to Morris, Minn., and at that place he grew to robust manhood. City life always appealed to him, and after being canned from his position as city attorney at Morris, he migrated to St. Paul, where he effectually buried his past and became at once a bright and shining light of the Ramsey county bar. He never held but two public offices—was fired from one and resigned the other. A rather unique record perhaps.

Mr. Stone is in attendance at the Duluth meeting.

A Story on Judge Pfau.

JUDGE PFAU of Mankato, judge of the Sixth judicial district, prior to his appointment in 1898 succeeding Judge Lorin Cray, had been an active practitioner for about forty years. The judge said he found it very difficult at first to cease looking at only one side of a case and impartially consider each side. In other words, to divorce himself from habits acquired in long service as a trial lawyer. Soon after he ascended the bench, a case was being tried before him at Mankato by Benjamin Taylor of Mankato and J. E. Haycraft of Madella. Haycraft asked a question a little outside of the pleadings which was objected to. The court over-ruled the objection with the caution that he would sustain objections to questions along the same line.

About an hour afterwards, a question of similar character was asked. Judge Pfau recognized it in a moment as one of the questions which should be excluded and for the instant forgot that he was judge and said: "I—I object." Mr. Haycraft very promptly replied: "The objection is sustained." Whereupon the court, counsel, court attendants and jurors all joined in a hearty laugh. At the noon recess Judge Pfau said to the attorneys: "Now, please, do not tell Judge Cray about this." A reporter of the Mankato Free Press got hold of the story during the day and that evening it appeared. They say in Mankato that Judge Cray has not yet gotten through plaguing Judge Pfau about this episode.

Hails From Cloquet.

WALTER L. CASE, probably the ablest attorney in the state, hails from Cloquet, Minn. He is one of the most enthusiastic delegates to the meetings now being held in Duluth. Cloquet is said to be small, and Mr. Case naturally ilkes to drift down to the big city. The glimmer of the lights pleases him and he likes to study people. There is a good chance in Duluth, as most of the people appear on the streets at times, so Mr. Case ought to have a good time. Mr. Case wanted to see that there water carnival, too.

Mr. Case, when seen this morning, said Cloquet was the best town on the map.

Pass Office Around.

THE vice president of the state association each year is generally selected with a view to making him president the following year. The office alternates generally as follows: Once in three years, a Minneapolis lawyer; once in three years, a St. Paul lawyer, and once in three years, a lawyer from outside the Twin cities. J. L. Washburn of Duluth, who was president in 1907, is the only president who has come from this city. J. D. Shearer of Minneapolis, who is president this year, is one of the older members and might be included in the "old guard." He was treasurer of the association in 1903-05, and is a well-known and very popular member of the association. Charles W. Farnham of St. Paul has been secretary since 1903, and his efficient work and experience in association matters has gone a long way toward maintaining the success and high standing of the association.

One of the "Old Guard."

ROME G. BROWN of Minneapolis, probably the ablest attorney in Minnesota, is also a member of the "old guard." It was he, with Hiram F. Stevens of St. Paul, Marshall B. Webber of Winona, Frederick V. Brown of Minneapolis (now of Seattle), Stiles W. Burr and Charles W. Farnham of St. Paul and others, who organized the association some years ago. He is a former president of the association and is at present a member of the executive committee of the American Bar association. He is chairman of the State Bar association committee on uniform state laws and chairman of the state board of commissioners for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States. He represents several large corporations of Minneapolis and he has a wide reputation as a water rights attorney. He is senior member of the firm of Brown, Albert & Guesmer, and a lecturer on laws of "Water Rights" at the University of Minnesota and the University of North Dakota.

Mr. Brown comes dangerously close to the class of "corporation attorneys," and is looked on as a "gilded plute" by his fellow-members of the bar.

"THE STURDY LITTLE YANKEE OF WATONWAN."

JE. HAYCRAFT lives at Madella, Minn., and admits it, even boasts of it, and besides being perhaps the ablest attorney in the state he is known as "The Sturdy Little Yankee of Watonwan."

Mr. Haycraft represents his district in the state senate and is well known among the lawyers and in political circles throughout the state. Mr. Haycraft says he is "only a country lawyer," but there are those who state that he is one of those who deserve the first line.

JULIUS E. HAYCRAFT
Of Madella.

President "Jimmie."

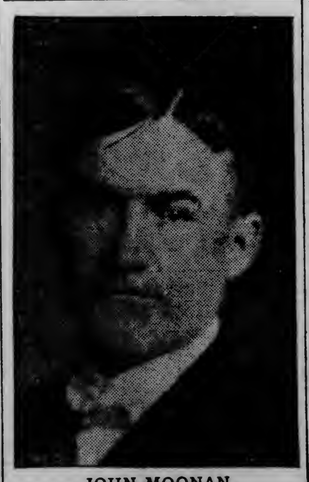

JAMES D. SHEARER of Minneapolis is president of the Minnesota State Bar association and perhaps the ablest attorney in Minnesota.

"Jimmie" has been a very good president. He is popular with his team mates, needless to say, or he would never have been president. He is presiding over the meetings in Duluth in his customary careful manner, having arrived with the rest of the Twin City party.

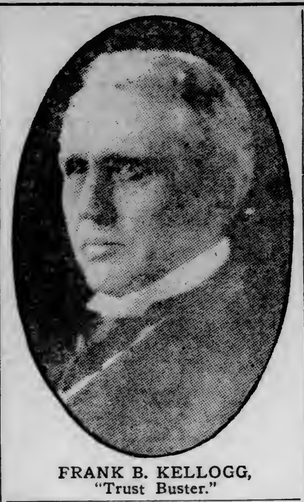

The Speed Fiends.

JUDGE Kingsley of Austin, Minn., made the trip to Duluth in his automobile. It is 300 miles from Austin to Duluth and he states that he averaged twenty miles an hour. He says that at no time did he exceed the twenty-five mile limit. For backing in the speed statement he referred to S. T. Catherwood of Austin who made the trip with him. Mr. Catherwood insists that the average was twenty-two miles an hour, but that although much faster time could have been made, the machine was kept just under the limit, twenty-five miles an hour.

"Cordy" Severence of St. Paul also made the trip in his car. He says that he came up in nine hours and this was good until Judge J. F. McGee, formerly judge of the district court at

JOHN MOONAN
Of Waseca.

FRANK B. KELLOGG,

Minneapolis, joined in and stated that it took him but eight hours. There was something doing right away for although not one of them ran over twenty-five miles, they all made remarkable time. The distance from the Twin Cities is said to be 189 miles. Some others who came up in automobiles had statements to make and the discussion broke up in a general riot. Help!

Decidedly Personal.

BILL ALBERT, probably the ablest attorney in the state looks to be about 19 years of age. He has just turned 39. He is rather proud of looking as though he is just ready to take his final examinations. He is the law partner of Rome G. Brown of Minneapolis.

"Eddie" Durment of St. Paul, probably the ablest attorney in the state, is described by one member of the bar as "scrappy and positive, always cocksure." The joke of it all is that Mr. Durment is always more or less right.

H. V. Mercer of Minneapolis, probably the "brightest" lawyer in the state, was head push in the workmen's compensation act. It was partially a good act as it was drafted by Mr. Mercer himself.

Charles W. Farnham, probably, the smartest attorney in the state and secretary of the bar association, is "on the job." He is known as the "perpetual secretary." One member describes him as the "whole smoke, the actual pusher of the organization."

The bright and upturned face of Judge "Pat" Morrison of Norwood, Carver county, is conspicuous at the meetings. Everybody is glad to see Judge "Pat."

Judge Quale of Wilmar brought his forelock with him on his trip to Duluth. The other members are glad he did for he would not be "Sandy" without it.

Stiles Burr of St. Paul, probably the ablest attorney in the state and one of the most popular members of the state association, is on tap with his chestnut locks. "Here's our chestnut," said one member this morning as he shook his hand and patted his head.

President James D. Shearer of Minneapolis, probably the ablest lawyer in the state, the "Bonnie Scot" with the pompadour, was on hand early this morning. He came up with the "bunch" yesterday and he states that the trip was too short.

Ex-Judge Marshall Spooner of Bemidji, probably the ablest attorney in the state, the man who was selected by Dr. Dumas from the entire State association as the one best fitted to get him out of trouble, was early on hand this morning.

Lafayette French of Austin, president of the association last year, and probably the ablest lawyer in Minnesota, is being congratulated by the members of the association on his return to good health. For a long time Mr. French was in poor health and many were the heart handshakes given him this morning.

Judge Daniel F. Fish of Minneapolis, city attorney, and probably the ablest attorney in the state, is about to appoint an inspector to enforce the strap hanging ordinance in the Mill City.

John Baxter and Harlan Roberts, both of Minneapolis and probably the ablest lawyers in the state, brought their families with them to the annual meeting. The families insisted on getting some of Duluth's "cool," too.

District Judge Taylor of St. Cloud was one of those who came up with the Twin City bunch yesterday afternoon. He is one of the ablest lawyers in the state.

"Billy" Mitchell, son of ex-Judge Mitchell of the supreme bench and a law partner of Pierce Butler of St. Paul, also one of the ablest attorneys in the state, is here.

W. C. O'Dell of Chaska is "among those present," and also P. T. A. L. I. T. S.

James Page, who is spoken of with great favor for dean of the law school of the University of Minnesota to succeed Dean W. S. Pattee, who died some time ago, is in the Zenith City for the meetings. He is P. T. A. L. I. T. S.

Frank B. Kellogg, P. T. A. L. I. T. S., trust buster extraordinary, is "in cur midst."

"Johnny" Monnan of Waseca, probably the ablest attorney in the state, the "wasp" of the legislature is here for the annual meeting.

ESCAPED BABOON GIVES FARGO PEOPLE SCARE.

Fargo, N. D., July 18.—"Chacama," an eighty-five-pound baboon, being exhibited at the interstate fair here, as part of a show, yesterday afternoon broke loose from his cage and caused a panic among the hundreds of people on the grounds. It was only after an exciting chase of over two miles by armed trainers in an automobile that he was finally captured in a huge canvas sack.

public is cordially invited to attend. The address will be given in the assembly room on the old dining room floor of the hotel. The room will seat several hundred comfortably and the bar association is anxious that a large number turn out to hear Mr. Wickersham.

An effort was made to get one of the local theaters for the occasion but the plans fell through and it was finally decided to have the meeting at the Spalding hotel, which is the general headquarters of the convention.

Afternoon Session.

This afternoon there was a discussion of the recent decisions of the United States supreme court in the Standard Oil and tobacco cases. Later in the afternoon the out-of-town delegates were taken on a ride around the city in automobiles.

Wednesday morning there will be a discussion on "The Recall of Judges" and "The Conflict Between Federal and State Control of Railway Rates." In the afternoon at the Spalding the address of Mr. Wickersham will be held and in the evening at 7 o'clock the annual banquet will be held at the Spalding hotel.

On Thursday morning the unfinished business will be taken up and in the afternoon the men will board T. F. Cole's yacht the Alvina for a trip up the river. The water sports at the Boat club will also be viewed from the deck of the Alvina. In the evening the steamer Plowboy will carry the members of the association to the scene of the Venetian fete at the boat club.

Mr. Mercer's Talk.

The address of H. V. Mercer of Minneapolis on "Workmen's Compensation" was a lengthy one, too long for publication. Mr. Mercer was chairman of the commission on legislation on this subject, and his paper, which was most thorough, showed that he was thoroughly familiar with his subject. He said in part:

"The purpose of an employes' compensation code is to change the theory of the financial risk of personal injuries suffered by employes as such from the basis of fault to that of a risk of the industry so far as can be equitably provided and reasonably enforced. We must keep in mind that the greatest end is prevention of accidents, the most direct object the reasonable protection of the injured and their dependents.

"This cannot be accomplished by an amendment of the old principle; it must be by the adoption of a new one. It is, therefore, a revolutionary mode and should be met upon that understanding.

"It is perfectly evident that many employments have not paid sufficient attention to their reports. As an example, there were forty-seven hands ample, there were forty-seven hands lost or mutilated in the employment of farming, in corn shredders alone during the month of November, 1910, in this state, yet none were voluntarily reported. Farming is not ordinarily considered a dangerous employment.

Killing an Army.

"Various estimates covering the industries of this country place the personal injuries at from 300,00 to 2,000,000 per year. A safe estimate of such would seem to be 500,000. There must be approximately fifty honest and deserving men, many of them having wives and small children, who meet death daily in this country that we may have railroad transportation and coal alone.

"The total losses in killed and wounded in the Union army during the Civil war were 385,245. The same authority puts the total killed in the Confederate army at 94,000. There is thus a greater destruction of life and limb in every year from this subject than in all the years of the Civil war.

"While acting expressively for this association the writer had ascertained that the labor leaders, like Gompers and Mitchell, had not yet taken up the question, but that the more advanced or giant employers had followed the progress in Europe and were at last becoming converted to the theory of workmen's compensation in some form in this country, if it could be carried out. Associations like the National Manufacturers' association hardly dared correspond upon such a question then. The National Civic Federation was not pursuing it, in fact, the entrance of this association into the subject was the greatest neutral movement to that time.

"The subject was considered so hopeless from a constitutional standpoint that na lawyer with a reputation had been willing to stake that reputation upon its solution. In fact, it was remarked to your representative early in the study, by a man of national reputation, that if he could solve that problem he would be entitled to a monument. Hearing the remark, Commissioner Neill responded that he would see that the monument was built.

"Here, then, was a subject comparable in human importance to the Civil war alone, and the property rights of individualism had so developed in the minds of the bar as well as the public that no lawyer had been willing to attempt to rearrange his prejudices sufficiently to scientifically study the question. This condition, of course, was depressing to the helpless, but inspiring to the vigilent—it was really worthy of professional application in the broadest and highest sense.

"It was, as we then supposed, your wish to lend the name and aid of this association to the solution of the greatest question of statecraft within the control of the semi-sovereign state of Minnesota, and upon that belief we proceeded."

which took place more than two years ago.

Frame Cross-Examined.

Frame was cross-examined about his conversations with Hettler regarding Hines' remarks. He said he had been asked by Hettler if he remembered the "peculiar remark" Hines made on the day of Lorimer's election, but neither had repeated the remark to the other. The witness said he and Hettler had frequently "joked about Hines' remark."

Isaac Baker was the next witness. He testified that he made the trip from Washington to Chicago with Hines ending on May 26, the day Lorimer was elected. He was present in the room of Wirt H. Cook of Duluth at the Grand Pacific hotel when Hines had a long-distance telephone talk to Springfield about Lorimer's election that day.

Contradicts Wirt Cook.

Cook testified that Hines said he would be down on the next train prepared to furnish all the money needed. Hines denied this remark. So did Baker today. The witness repeated almost verbatim Hines' version of the conversation.

Baker was also at the Union League club, he said, the day Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, asked Hines, according to Hines, for the privilege of contributing to Lorimer's campaign fund. Funk declared Hines had asked him to contribute $10,000 toward a $100,000 fund.

Today Baker gave an account of the meeting of Hines and Funk just as Hines had done, even describing how Funk took hold of Hines' left arm near the elbow and they walked away in conversation.

Says Funk Asked Introduction.

The part of the conversation which Hines said took place near Baker was repeated by the witness as Hines told it to the committee. He was sure Funk had asked to be introduced to Lorimer, as Hines testified, but which Funk denied.

On cross-examination Baker said he first recalled the telephone conversation in Cook's room after the publication of the so-called White confession April 20, 1910.

"What made you recall it then?" asked Senator Kern.

"Cook was getting off the string and making threats about what he would do to Hines," he said.

The witness said there was nothing unusual about the conversation that would make him remember it.

"White didn't mention the conversation did he?"

"No, but he or the papers were talking about a lumberman with a black bag taking money to Springfield."

Never Repeated Them.

The witness said he never repeated the conversations until after the Helm committee investigation at Springfield last spring.

Baker said he had either read Hines' testimony about the conversations or heard him give his version of them.

"Don't you regard it as remakable then for you to make precisely the same report of those conversations that Hines does?" inquired Senator Kern.

"No sir, I don't."

Henry Turrish, a business man of Duluth, Minn., failed yesterday to bear out fully the testimony of Wirt H. Cook, a busness associate, to the effect that Hines said to them about the time of Lorimer's election that "old Stephenson," (meaning Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin, so Cook believed "after I elected him, was working for free lumber," and that the Southern Democrats fluctuated in their attitude. Turrish said he remembered nothing about the Southern Democrats, but heard Hines say that Stephenson was undecided.

During the testimony of Mr. Burgess the name of a priest, "Father Green," was brought onto the case as having received a confession from a detective that the detective was employed by a Chicago newspaper to gather "trumped-up charges against Lorimer."

It is expected that James Keely, editor of the Chicago Tribune, will be called to the stand later.

FIND DEAD MAN IS PRIEST AND ELK

Sisters in Southern Hospital Keep Body From Potter's Field.

Pensacola, Fla., July 18.—While examining the effects of an unidentified patient who had died and whose body was about to be buried in the potters' field, the sisters of St. Joseph's hospital at Memphis, Tenn., found that the man was a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Further investigation established his identity as Father Hugh O'Brien administrator of the Little Rock diocese under Bishop Morris.

Father O'Brien was a native of Pensacola and his body was sent to this city where his funeral took place.

Father O'Brien was a member of the Bessemer, Ala., lodge of Elks, who, upon learning of his death in Memphis, furnished the funds to bring the body to his old home in Pensacola for burial.

WANT THE CURFEW LAW MORE RIGIDLY ENFORCED

Club Committee Outlines Plan for Keeping Children Off Streets.

Circus Ordinance Is Constitutional—Amend Traction Company Franchise.

The Twentieth Century club, represented by a committee consisting of Mrs. J. D. Morrison, Mrs. N. F. Hugo and Mrs. P. L. De Voist, sent in a communication to the council last evening suggesting that an extensive campaign be started for the enforcement of the curfew law.

They believe that it should be conducted during the summer months, when the law is most generally violated. The plan included running the curfew law in full in the newspapers once a month under some such caption as "Parents Take Warning;" placarding the street cars, the schools and the entrances to the parks with notices to parents of the penalty for allowing their children to run about at night, and furnishing the policemen with postals bearing a synopsis of the curfew law, to be sent by them to the parents of all children whom they found violating the ordinance. The matter was referred to the committee on ordinances and resolutions.

The resolution which was introduced to compel the enforcement of the ordinance prohibiting the obstruction of the sidewalks, particularly in the downtown section, was withdrawn. It was explained that a new ordinance is being drafted by the legal department. Under the present ordinance a severe hardship would be worked in some instances. Several of the big buildings, probably the most noticeable of which is the Lyceum, have steps leading to their entrances which project over the building line. It is felt that to compel a change would be to work a hardship which would not be justified. It is said that the new ordinance will be drawn to exempt this class of obstructions.

The city attorney handed down an opinion which will be gratifying to the merchants. He held that any ordinance which the council might pass prohibiting circuses from showing in Duluth on Saturdays would be constitutional. Quite a furore was stirred up recently when it was learned that Barnum & Bailey had been granted a license to show in Duluth the Saturday before the Fourth.

Some objection was raised to extending the West end dock eighty feet, as called for in the contract awarded by the board of public works. Alderman McDonell thought that fifty feet would be sufficient. Alderman William Bernard was on his feet in a minute. He declared that the end of the city which he represents is entitled to good dockage facilities. He called attention to the fact that passengers cannot be discharged over the bow of a large excursion boat. He also mentioned the fact that the records showed the population of the Seventh ward to be the heaviest in the city and that the statistics as to births proved that it has more kids." "We want a place where our children can get off without falling into the bay," he said. The eighty-foot extension was ordered.

The franchise granted a week ago to the Suburban Traction company was reconsidered for the purpose of definitely fixing the road's terminus. As the franchise read the tracks could have been extended down Seventh avenue east to Fourth street. This was amended to make the terminus at Seventh avenue and Thirteenth street. It was first proposed to make this Eleventh street, but was changed after some discussion.

Supt. K. M. Nicoles of the Northern Pacific stated that the company's engineer had designed a system of signal bells to be located on the crossings at Raleigh street, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-ninth and Sixty-third avenues west. The council ordered gates, and the matter was referred to a committee for a report.

The water and light department sent in a communication stating that 2,000,000 gallons of water have been ordered run from the West Duluth reservoir. After this is done the reservoir will again be filled to its capacity of 5,000,000 gallons. This is being done in an effort to reduce the temperature of the water. Alderman Barnes thought that more than that should be done to improve the water at the West Duluth reservoir. He declared that there is a great deal of difference in the water coming from that end of the system and that used in the downtown sections.

The city engineer was directed to use his best judgment in directing the improvement of East Fifth street in the vicinity of Twentieth avenue east. This was done in order that no damage might be done to the little triangle park which will be donated to the city at that corner.

The city engineer submitted bids which he had received for an automobile for his department. He recommended that a seven-passenger machine costing $1,880 be purchased. This is $380 in excess of the amount allowed for that purpose. The question was referred to a committee.

The engineer submitted an estimate of the city of a storm sewer in Forty-first avenue west from Seventh street to the N. P. tracks. He figured it at $8,416.65.

The board of works asked that $968 be appropriated from the permanent improvement fund for extending the crushed rock bins at Thirteenth avenue west, and that $600 be allowed for repairing the dock at the foot of Fifth avenue west, damaged last week by fire. The engineer was directed to prepare an estimate of the cost of filling the end of the avenue and constructing a proper concrete retaining wall.

Karl Larson filed notices of damages for $300 for injuries said to have been sustained by a horse which he was driving on Raleigh street between Fifty-sixth and Forty-seventh avenues west. He claims that it was hurt because of a defective street.

The sum of $100 was allowed for decorating the city hall and aerial bridge for the water carnival.

The board of public works estimated that it would need $25,000 from the storm sewer and street intersection fund the present year for street intersections.

The Zenith Telephone company was given permission to string its wires across the aerial bridge. In return for the privileges it will install a 'phone in the bridge car free of charge.

The ordinance giving the mayor power to appoint a poundmaster at Fond du Lac was passed.

BUNCH OF KEYS MAY BE UNDOING

Mill City Police Claim to Have Strong Evidence Against Cigar Man.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 18.—A bunch of keys, said to be the property of Fred Briggs, is one of the strongest pieces of evidence which the state claims to have against the imprisoned cigar salesman, who is alleged to have been the brains of a robbery syndicate which was organized systematically to rob the city.

The keys came into the possession of the police through A. P. Densen, the accomplice who has made a complete confession of his complicity with Briggs and Jerry McCarthy and Patrolman Olinger, who was also supposed to be a staunch member of the ring. The police say that Densen told them that Briggs had given the keys to him with instructions that he turn them over to McCarthy so that he could have full use of Briggs' home whenever he wished it.

Saloonkeeper Loses License.

A saloon license was revoked and a policeman has been summarily discharged as a result of disclosures which followed the deaths of Patrolman Olinger and McCarthy, the criminal. The saloon license was that of James Lyons. Mayor Haynes was satisfied that McCarthy had frequented the place since his escape from Stillwater, and that the proprietor knew his identity. J. J. Walsh is the patrolman discharged. He was at the home of Fred Briggs when Martin Brennan, a neighbor of Briggs', was held up across the street from Briggs' home by McCarthy Friday night.

NEW SUIT AGAINST COAL LINE FILED

Government Attacks Reading Company in Philadelphia Court.

Washington, July 18.—A government suit to compel a bona fide dissassociation of the Reading Railway company from the Reading Coal company was filed yesterday in the federal court, Philadelphia. The action parallels a recent one against the Lehigh Valley and is the government's second move in its new fight to separate the coal carrying railroads from their virtual control of the coal business.

FINE POTATO CROP.

No Possibility of Shortage in Carlton County This Year.

Cloquet, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bumper crop of potatoes is promised this year in Carlton county. Last season the finest crop of potatoes raised in years was harvested in the vicinity of Cloquet and the greater part of them were consumed locally, the St. Louis River Mercantile company being the heaviest buyer.

The St. Louis people supplied the lumber camps and with those used in the city there were practically none left to ship. This year there will be considerably less logging, and the St. Louis people will not use as many potatoes, and the crop exceeding last season, there promises to be a large surplus of potatoes to be shipped. There is some talk of building a potato warehouse for the convenience of the farmers.

Floodwood recently was granted permission from the Great Northern road to build such a warehouse along their right of way, and it is likely that Cloquet will follow suit. Small vegetables in the county are unusually fine, and peas, beans, carrots, beets and all the summer vegetables except sweet corn are now being brought in by the truck farmers and are of the very finest quality. Grain crops are the best in years. In the vicinity of Carlton and Wrenshall, rye, oats and barley are exceedingly heavy crops. On the Fred Habheggar place at Wrenshall rye and barley have reached a height of between eight and ten feet, not in patches, but all over the fields, and the best clover crops in years are found everywhere in the county.

LORDS MAY FORCE THE KING TO CREATE PEERS.

London, July 18.—An entirely unexpected contingency confronts the career of the veto bill. It is a possibility that the house of lords, instead of passing the third reading of the bill, with their amendments on Thursday, thus sending it back to the house of commons for consideration, may reject it entirely, even with amendments. In that event, Premier Asquith is fully expected to announce that he had advised the king to create a large block of new peers.

The Liberal party is no more anxious for an inflated peerage than the lords are, but will not balk at the creation of peers if the necessity is forced upon them.

The detachment had been ordered to Fort Huachuchu and was to leave for Nogales yesterday, but the department quickly changed its plans upon the receipt of disquieting news.

Fire Menaces La Crosse.

La Crosse, Wis., July 18.—Fire said to have been started by boys in dry lumber sheds of Smith Manufacturing company last night destroyed $30,000 worth of finished timber used in construction of wagons and ruined a building a block long. A stiff wind for a time threatened to spread the blaze to the heart of the manufacturing district.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drugs law in its relation to prepared medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to conteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by all druggists.

Made Pure Kept Pure It's the Brown Bottle

Cleanliness is a science where Schlitz is brewed. We filter even the air where the beer is cooled. Then we filter the beer. Then we sterilize every bottle.

We go to Bohemia for hops. Our barley is selected by a partner in our business.

The water is brought from rock 1,400 feet underground. Our yeast is produced forever from the same mother cell.

Schlitz beer is sent to you in Brown Bottles, protecting its purity from the brewery to your glass. Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives protection against light.

If you knew what we know about beer, you would say, "Schlitz—Schlitz in Brown Bottles."

PLAN WORK IN ADVANCE

City Attorney Would Avoid Tearing Up Pavements After Completion.

Presents Plan to Be Followed in Improving Streets to Council.

A rather brief but comprehensive plan for having all underground work done in advance of street pavements was submitted to the city council last night by City Attorney Bert Fesler.

Not only did he suggest how this might be accomplished in a satisfactory way, but after investigation stated that in his opinion it could be done without legal entanglements, although slight deviations might have to be made from the charter.

The opinion was probably the most important which has come before the city fathers for some time. Considerable difficulty has been encountered in the city in recent years through the fact that shortly after expensive pavements have been laid they have been later torn up for different kinds of underground work. Not only did this destroy the appearance of the pavement for which large sums had been expended, but in many instances it ruined the street, seriously interfering with traffic.

The city attorney stated that after the proper petition for paving had been presented, the council should take charge of the work through the proper administrative officers. After that had been done, reports could be called for from the water and light department, the city engineering department and the board of public works as to all underground work which would be necessary. In case the improvement should be in the downtown section, the public service corporations would also be notified in order that they might do any underground work necessary, which would principally be in the nature of conduits.

After that a man employed for the purpose could be sent to the various property owners to secure the required signatures for the guarantee required by the water and light board for water and gas extensions and for the signatures of the 10 per cent of the property owners needed for sanitary sewers. Storm sewers can be ordered by the council without any petition.

These could all be laid in advance, which would practically eliminate the difficulty, as it is the large sewer, gas and water trenches which have caused most of the damage. That caused by trenches for service connections at the curb has not been noticeable.

If considerable of this work had to be done, it could be finished the first year and the pavement laid the next. The assessment could be made in charter form, but payment could be postponed by the council without penalty. This would enable the property owners to avoid paying 80 per cent of the estimated cost of the job a year before actual work was commenced on the pavement.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SIMPSON WAS INTOXICATED

That Is Claim of Defense in Trial of Alleged Crookston Murderer.

Attorney Also Claims Story of Nelson Suicide Was Woman's Frameup.

Crookston, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sivert Simpson was drunk when he killed Thomas Nelson when he found the latter in his wife's bedroom here Feb. 12 last, and knew nothing of his actions from the time he left the saloon until after the shooting; in other words, he was insane through drink, is the main prop in the defense in the murder trial going on in district court here, according to the opening statement of Attorney W. E. Rowe for the defense, which he outlined late yesterday afternoon before court adjourned.

Insanity in Accused's Family.

The attorney also claimed that the story relative to Nelson's suicide was framed up by Mrs. Simpson, who will be placed on the stand, as will the defendant, and that he was insane when the shooting was done. Back of this evidence will be introduced to show that there was acute insanity in Simpson's mother's family. The defense expects to rest late this afternoon.

The courtroom has been packed since the trial began, the greatest interest being in the theory of the defense which was outlined yesterday. The unwritten law may also form an important part of the address of the defense to the jury.

Fertile Hotel Man Testifies.

The state rested at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after the testimony of Hoganson, a hotel man at Fertile, who was called by the state in an effort to prove that Theodore Nelson, the man who was shot, had hired a room in his hotel July 4, 1910, which had been occupied by Simpson and his wife and Nelson, there being but one bed in the room.

When questioned by County Attorney Hagen, he said these three occupied the room, but Attorney Rowe brought out the statement from him that Simpson and his wife and Nelson and another girl formed the party in the room.

He admitted that it was his intention to give the jury the impression that Simpson and his wife and Nelson were the occupants of the room, but told of the girl when asked. The intention of the state was to show that Simpson was aware of pretty intimate relations between his wife and Nelson all the time, and that the idea had not come upon him suddenly the night of the murder when he discovered Nelson in his wife's bedroom.

COOL WEATHER IS HELPING CROPS

Northern North Dakota Farmers Faring Better Than Southern State Ones.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cool weather that has prevailed over northern North Dakota, and which has also extended into the western and southern districts, has been of marked benefit to the growing crops.

Corn and flax are both able to withstand a great deal of heat, although a return of hot weather at this time would not be very heartily welcomed in some sections of the state unless it was first preceded by heavy and general rains.

Reports received within the last few days, do not minimize the damage that had already been sustained in the southern, southwestern and northwestern districts. It is generally admitted that there are only a few sections of the southwest where anything like a fair wheat crop with be harvested, although the farmers still have faith in their flax and in their corn, both of which have an exceptionally heavy acreage through that district.

Red River Valley All Right.

Conditions in the Red River valley north of the southern boundary of Cass county continue almost perfect. In Traill county, to the extreme west, there has been slight damage by excessive heat. Grand Forks county has a uniform crop, Nelson is in very good shape, Cavalier appears rosy, while in Pembina and Walsh county for have been absolutely no grounds for complaint within the last week. Rains have occurred, and while the fall in July has not been as heavy as in June, still there was a sufficient supply of moisture to practically mature the crop. At least that has been the general concensus of opinion among those who are thoroughly familiar with conditions.

The winter rye harvest through the entire state is in progress. The acreage of winter rye is not very large, but wherever that grain has been grown, the reports indicate that the growers of it have been successful. It is probably—in fact, there appears very little doubt—but what the acreage of this grain will be materially increased next season because of the success that has been attained already.

Winter wheat has also been a success in several sections of the state, according to advices received in Grand Forks within the last few days.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Saves Worry, Saves Money, Saves the Hair.

If you want to free your head of dandruff and stop falling hair, you must sooner or later resort to Newbro's Herpicide.

By using Herpicide first you save yourself worry, which is desirable, you save money, which is a consideration, and you save your hair, which is the most important of all.

Why not profit by the experience of Mrs. S. A. Lee, of 110 South 4th St., Richmond, Va., who writes:

"Four years' residence in India ruined my hair until it was but two inches long and very thin. I tried everything in Europe and America without benefit until I was induced to use Herpicide. My hair is now long, soft and silky and natural color, while before it was quite gray. My friends never tire of admiring my hair."

Mrs. Lee's story is a typical history of hair troubles. After everything else fails Newbro's Herpicide brings relief. It would be just as effective if used first.

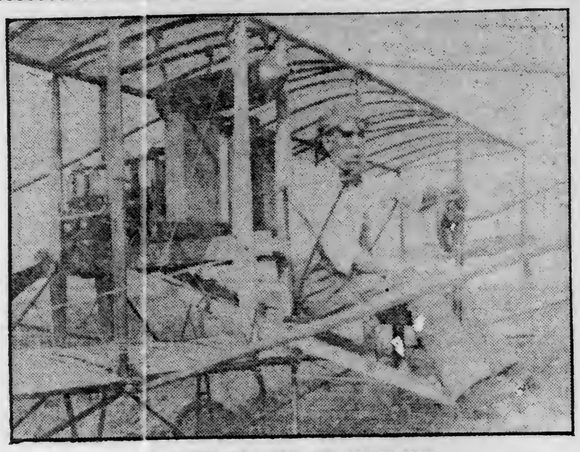

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and prevents falling hair. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. No matter what the claims of others, Herpicide is the only genuine original dandruff germ destroyer.

GRAND FORKS AVIATOR MEETING WITH SUCCESS

McGOEY SEATED IN MACHINE.

THOMAS McGOEY.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks has an aviator of its own now, Thomas McGoey having become successful in the art of aerial navigation after about a year's constant work in aeroplane construction work and in study of the new craft. His first successful flights were made last week at the state fair grounds, and during the week the Grand Forks man will make a number of other flights to further perfect himself in the art of flying.

The McGoey-Kenworthy aeroplane that Mr. McGoey flies with success is the machine that caused C. W. Keene, a St. Louis aviator, more or less trouble about two weeks ago at Park River, where he was thrown to the ground and injured.

Up to the present time McGoey has contented himself with making straightaway flights, while he also makes it a practice to stay close to the ground, the highest point he has reached being about fifty feet off terra firma. He has not tried to make the turns, either, being willing to more thoroughly perfect himself in the straightaway work before trying any of the fancy aerial work.

DR. REILLY GETS TEN-YEAR TERM

Milton, N. D., Doctor Sentenced for Causing Death of Woman Patient.

Langdon, N. D., July 18.—Miss Millie Gande, accused jointly with Dr. J. J. Reilly of Milton in connection with the death of Mrs. William Drury of Osnabrock, was yesterday given her freedom, this action being taken simultaneously with the pronouncing of a sentence upon the physician of ten years in the state penitentiary.

Counsel for the convicted physician will move for a new trial, alleged errors in the present trial being raised, and if this motion is denied an appeal to the supreme court will result.

DULUTH MAN IS ROBBERS' VICTIM

Peter Hanson Held Up and Robbed of Large Amount In Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.) — Peter Hanson, a transient here who claims to hail from Duluth, says he was robbed of $600 Saturday night when, with A. F. Findleman of Seventh avenue south, he was returning to this city from Moorhead late at night after attending a carnival. They claim, as they came by the J. I. Case building, a man stepped out of the darkness and invited them back off the street to show them something which he said was most interesting. The two men, not suspecting anything felonious, followed the man into the dark passage way.

Negro Strikes One.

They objected to proceeding any farther after they had gone a short way, and as they turned back to the street a big negro jumped out from behind a pile of iron and struck Findleman with a piece of iron, knocking him to the ground. It is believed that the man used a piece of buggy top frame work and he inflicted a number of bad scalp and head wounds on the person of Findleman.

In the meantime the first man had floored Hanson, and after knocking him down, relieved him of his purse, which, he says, contained over $600. Findleman had his watch and $11 in money removed.

After the two robbers had completed their work they lifted the assailed men to their feet and taking out revolvers ordered them to go to the street and not turn back. At the point of guns the two men left their assailants, and weak from blood, they pulled themselves to the street, where, in a short time, they communicated with the police department, informing the officers of their hold-up.

Special policemen were sent out on the hunt of the hold-up artists, but no clew could be found regarding the men. As yet no arrests have been made of any one charged with the crime.

DELUGE OF CLAIMS.

Schmahl Says That Will Result From Corporation Ruling.

St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, is not satisfied with the opinion rendered by Judge Brill in the Ramsey county district court to the effect that companies which incorporate for less than $50,000 do not have to pay additional fee for an increase to $50,000 later on. The attorney general has said he is satisfied with Judge Brill's ruling, but the secretary of state declares if it stands, the next legislature will be deluged with requests for special acts returning to corporations sums they have paid for increases in stock.

Mr. Schmahl has made a tentative arrangement with E. T. Young, former attorney general, to carry the matter to the supreme court, but it develops that if the state is to pay the bill for the litigation, he must get the consent of the attorney general. As the attorney general is of the same opinion as Judge Brill, it is not likely his assent will be given.

Married Montana Man Almost Completes Double Tragedy.

He came to the city by train at 10 p. m. and went to the girl's home. As he pointed the revolver at her he said: "I've been planning this, and now I'll do it," and shot at her. Cornell then turned the revolver on himself and fired a bullet through his brain. He was about 45 years old. The girl will probably survive. She was pierced through the lungs.

Washburn, N. D.—Further complications are expected in conection with the difficulties that have arisen in connection with the maintainance of Beaver dam at Painted Woods, near here, which has twice been blown out this year by dynamiters, and which has, on previous occasions, suffered in like manner. The maintenance of the dam has been the source of differences between the farmers of the so-called north side and the south side.

Young Mothers

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both she and her coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby too is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

WHITE SOX WIN FIRST

Opening at Home With La Crosse Won By 2 to 1 Score.

Johnson and Brenton Twirl Pretty Heaving Duel, With Honors Even.

Yesterday the White Sox took the opening game from the rejuvenated Outcasts by the score of 2 to 1. Hits were few on both sides. Johnson and Brenton were stingy in regard to blows, and after the third inning when the second run of the locals was scored, not a Duluth runner got even in the vicinity of the plate.

The Duluth line-up is somewhat different. Corrigan is in left in place of Meister. The tall kid did not seem to make good and was let go on the trip. Claude Johnson, the diminutive catcher, who has been performing in the outfield, is ill, and Altermott, let go earlier in the season, is performing in the right patch.

It was announced at the close of yesterday's game that Rube Woodhurn, the pitching star of the locals, had been sold to the St. Louis Cardinals for a cash consideration of $1,000, to which amount $500 will be added in the event that the twirler makes good.

Duluth started scoring in the first inning. Corrigan whiffed and De Haven was hit by an inshoot and went to third when Menecie banged one to center field. On Leber's out at first De Haven came home, the play at the plate to get him being close. Menecie tried to steal third and was called out.

The other Sox score came in the third round. Corrigan started the round with a single and was advanced on De Haven's infield blow, the play at second failing to get Joe and the relay to first nipping the speedy De Haven. Menecie hit a long single, sending Corrigan home.

In the third of the visitors' half, Snyder opened the festivities with a single that was too fast for Menecie to handle. Brenton struck out and Klein flew to left and a score was the least thing expected. Kelley singled out to right and Snyder had little difficulty in crossing the plate ahead of the throw in.

Neither team threatened very seriously after the third round. Brenton had the Sox on his staff and in three of the remaining innings but three men faced him. But one blow came after the third, Walliser pickling that in the eighth.

The visitors got two on in the sixth, but could do nothing. Two were on in the seventh and also in the eighth, but when a hit would have done some damage, Johnson tightened up.

La Crosse will be the opponents this afternoon.

EAU CLAIRE TAKES FIRST

Errors at Critical Points and Passes Lose for Superior.

Hospital Corps Does Some Active Work in Erratic Game.

Eau Claire took the opening game of the series in Superior yesterday by a 4 to 2 score. Two errors which came at critical points, and a number of passes handed out by Gilchrist were fatal for the Red Sox. The game was replete with accidents. Bancroft got a bounder off Kick's stick which hit him in the eye and stretched him on the green sward for several minutes, but he was able to continue play. Miller, who started on the hill for the visitors sprained his ankle in covering first on a hit to Kading and an examination showed that one of the bones was fractured.

Chase replaced him. Delave was sent to the bench for disputing Umpire Lyman's ruling that a swat he drew was fair when Delave claimed it was foul. The game was tied 1 to 1 at the end of the third frame, but Eau Claire pulled into the lead in the fourth, when Kading drew a pass, stole second and came home on Delave's hit to left. The visitors drew two more in the eighth, a pass to Sours, an error and a hit by Benrud bringing in the first tally, and Benrud scoring the second and last on Kading's bingle. A pass, a hit and an error netted one more for Superior in the ninth but that ended the scoring.

Umpire Lyman roused the ire of the fans by a couple of close decisions.

DULUTH CREWS TAKING THEIR FINAL WORKOUTS

(BY BRUCE.)

Jimmy Ten Eyck has about finished the work on the Duluth junior eight. The boys will be out from now until the day of the race, but from now on it is merely a question of keeping at the proper pitch of perfect condition.

Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock the boys were out. The row was not a hard one, simply one that kept the boat going along nicely and kept the men on edge. The crew is at the present time in great shape and will leave the stake boats Friday in about the best condition of any eight that has ever represented Duluth.

Here both the junior eight and the bantam four are picked as winners. There will be more definite and certain selection of good things after the arrival and workout Thursday morning, of the crews from Winnipeg and St. Paul.

Both of the club delegations will arrive Thursday morning bright and early and the work of getting their boats on the water will not require so much time that Winnipeg and St. Paul cannot be on the water and get two rows in on the day before the first race.

Boats, or floats, or scows, whatever you want to call them, have been provided for the transportation of the visitors' shells from the Union depot to the main boat house. All of the canoes and row boats have been moved out of the large space directly beneath the ballroom of the club, and here will be housed the shells of the visiting oarsmen.

The wise boys, or those who have some knowledge of rowing, will be out early to get a slant at the offering of the two big clubs. Of course there will be Kenora and Port Arthur, also, but Winnipeg and St. Paul men will be the ones watched the closest.

It has been reported, though not from official sources, that the Duluth eight made the fastest time of the season in the race last Sunday with the second eight. The row was one of the most satisfactory of the season and did much to inspire confidence in the men and the followers of the fortunes of the club.

As to the bantams, they are going fairly strong, according to the statement of Coach Ten Eyck, who is conservative, and better than that according to the lights of some of the others.

But as Ten Eyck is the coach and the man who knows the game better than the man outside the pale light of expert knowledge, his word goes for Sweeney in the present case.

The junior four is not going right. The row yesterday morning showed little. The men are not rowing any too well together, and for some reason the boat does not seem to travel with that snap that characterizes the eight and bantam four.

Ten Eyck and the followers of the club will bank on the junior eight and the bantam four, and there will be some disappointment if there is not a first place brought home.

MERRY SCRAMBLE FOR CRACK ST. PAUL BATTERY

Milwaukee, Wis., July 18.—The silent auction sale of O'Toole and Kelly, star St. Paul battery, was resumed yesterday. The enforced absence of Manager Mike Kelly of the Saints, who was ill, caused Manager George E. Lennon to refuse to name a specific price on the pair here Saturday, thus holding the deal from a half-dozen big league scouts hot on his trail.

Latest reports says that National league ferrets are after Lennon in greater numbers today and a deal may be consummated before night. Ascending from practical obscurity within the past month to national notice, O'Toole and Kelly are today as yet almost unknown as to past history. When Marty O'Toole was drafted by the Cincinnati Nationals two years ago from the New England league, he was quickly "farmed" to the St. Paul club, which in turn sent him to Sioux City in the Western league. O'Toole's pitching record for 1910 with Sioux City set Manager Mike Kelly of the Saints thinking. O'Toole returned to the St. Paul club this spring, where he proved to be the finished goods.

When O'Toole on June 15 with Kelly behind the bat, shut out Toledo for sixteen straight innings, big league scouts took notice. When, with Kelly also behind the bat, he fanned seven-teen Milwaukee players at St. Paul one week ago yesterday, establishing an American association record, big league scouts opened both eyes. Charley Murphy of the Cubs was the first in the bidding ring with his reported offer of $20,000 for O'Toole and Kelly. Hugh Duffy of the Sox, Sam Kennedy of Cleveland, Ferry of Detroit, Roger Bresnahan of St. Louis, and Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg next in the game urging Lennon to set a price.

O'Toole has not dropped a game for his team since June 15. Since that date, in seven games he has fanned sixty-five men, or on an average of nine strikeouts a game.

Catcher Kelly, who, with O'Toole, forms the wonderful battery big leagues are after, also holds an enviable record for batting and perfect backstop work. He was purchased by Manager Kelly of the Saints from the Cardinals two years ago, and came into his true form since the opening of the present season.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 18.—Indianapolis made it two out of three from Louisville by winning yesterday's game, 8 to 3. LONG MONEY OFFERED ON CHAMPION JACK.

London, July 18.—Betting on the forthcoming fight between Jack Johnson and Bombardier Wells, matched last night to meet in London on Sept. 30 for a purse of $40,000, began today. A few bets were registered at odds of 5 to 1, that Johnson will defeat the "Bombardier." The general sporting public does not take the match seriously, believing that Wells hasn't a chance.

"Easy money," remarked Jack today, wreathed in the "golden smile." That Johnson regards the bout as not worth training for is evidenced by the fact that his theatrical engagements extend almost up to the day of the fight. He admitted he is fifteen pounds over his fighting weight. Wells was recently defeated by a second rater, "Gunner" Moir.

Wells-McFarland.

New York, July 18.—George McDonald, for Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, and Emil Thiry, for "Packey" McFarland of Chicago, signed an agreement here yesterday afternoon for their men to meet before the Badger club of Milwaukee some day in the last week in August, probably on the 28th. Each must weigh 135 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Omaha Manager Fired.

Omaha, Neb., July 18.—President Rourke of the Omaha Western league baseball club yesterday relieved William C. Shipke of the management of the team. Catcher Arbogast was made captain temporarily.

RACE MEET AT KALAMAZOO

Grand Circuit Events Start With Fast Track and Good Field.

Lewis Forest, Owned in Duluth, Second in 2:15 Trot.

Lewis Forest, who ran second in the 2:15 trot at Kalamazoo yesterday, is owned by Capt. James Sullivan, secretary and treasurer of the Board of Trade Livery company of Duluth. Capt. Sullivan expects great things of his horse and his expectations are borne out by a good performance yesterday. Lewis Forest is entered in the M. & M. event at the Detroit Grand Circuit meeting, the $10,000 feature of the meet.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 18.—With almost ideal weather conditions prevailing, the Grand Circuit races started here yesterday. Good time on a track considered to be exceptionally fast was made in the all the races. The attendance was only fair.

The best mark made at Indianapolis last week, 2:04¼, was twice equalled yesterday in the 2:07 pace and horsemen predict that before the week is over new records will be made.

The first heat of the 2:15 trot was a pretty race, the horses remaining closely bunched nearly all the way around. Lewis Forest got away with a good lead but broke at the first quarter giving The Huguenot a lead maintained to the end of the heat. The second heat was a procession, The Huguenot leading all the way and the third heat was almost the same.

Yesterday's best time was made in the 2:07 pace, C. The Limit going both miles in 2:04¼. Ginger, one of the sensations at Indianapolis, had a bad day, finishing the race well down the list.

In the 2:07 trot Dudie Archdale had an easy time winning, Geers never being forced to drive hard.

In all three heats of the 2:15 pace Sister Florentine got away with a good lead but she could not hold out and finished outside the money. Branham Baughman went to the front when ready and won in straight heats.

JOHN RUDD WILL PERFORM AT PARK

Carnival Visitors Will Be Entertained During the Boat Races.

Jack Desmond has secured a unique and novel attraction for the new baseball grounds during the three afternoons and two evenings of the Duluth water carnival.

John Rudd, who has just returned from a very successful tour of the East, doing his sensational sommersault on skis, in the summer time, too, mind you, will perform this unusual feature each afternoon and evening of the carnival at the ball park, where seats have been arranged for spectators to view the boat races and carnival features.

In addition to the extra feature of Rudd, there will be the rowing and motor boat races, which can be seen to excellent advantage from the bleacher seats of the new ball park.

Mr. Desmond has arranged for lights and the people selecting the baseball grounds as the place from which to view the regatta, will be amply entertained.

HERZOG AND MILLER THROUGH WITH GAME.

Boston, July 18.—Charles Herzog and "Doc" Miller, shortstop and right fielder respectively of the Boston National Baseball club, have notified the club officials that they are through with baseball. Dissatisfaction with the team management is the reason given by each.

Miller alleged that he has not received a promised increase of salary and Herzog complains that he was fined $300 for indifferent ball playing in New York recently. He says the fine was to be remitted if he played good ball, but notwithstanding he has since done his best, nothing has been done about repaying the fine.

Miller says he is going out west to practice medicine and Herzog says he will go back to Ridgely, Md., where he has a farm.

Alborn Wins Game.

Alborn, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Alborn Burnett baseball team defeated the Forbes Iron Junction team on the Burnett grounds by the score of 17 to 8. The game was fast and exciting after the third inning when both teams steadied down. The features of the game were Lind as pitcher and Maloney as catcher for the home team and O'Brien at short for the visitors.

The batteries were Merrier, Lind and Maloney for the home team and Quall, Peterson and Moline for the visitors.

WITH THE AMATEURS

Irvings Win Game.

The Irving alumni team defeated the Beavers by the score of 8 to 4. The game was played at Twelfth avenue east and London road. Managers wishing games should call up Clarence Gilbert at the Rust-Parker-Martin company.

Big Duluths Victorious.

The Big Duluth baseball team journeyed to Superior and trimmed up the strong Allouez team for the second time this season by the score of 4 to 2. It was a hard-fought game from start to finish and was anybody's game until the last man was out. Both Hilber and Wiggins for the Big Duluths pitched good ball. In the last of the ninth Allouez had a man on second and third with nobody out. Wiggins settled down and caused the next two men to pop up flies to first and third and then he struck out the last man. Score: R. H. E.

SIXTY-THREE-MILE LEAGUE IS ABANDONED.

Mandan, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "Sixty-Three Mile League," including a number of the cities along the Northern Pacific railroad, has been disbanded. The fact that the financial feature had been rather strenuous for the Glen Ullen team was responsible for the action. The league has included New Salem, Glen Ullen, Mandan and Bismarck. The Mandan team was at the top of the percentage column when the league was disbanded.

PEORIA TO HOLD RACES

Records May Be Lowered in Western Motor Boat Meet.

Famous Dixie IV Expected to Be Contender in Big Race.

Peoria, Ill., July 18.—All American motor boat speed records will probably be broken here on July 25-26 at the third annual regatta of the Western Power Boat association. The free-for-all championship class for forty footers has brought together the most notable list of fast boats ever entered for a race in the United States, while the twenty-foot class also reveals a remarkable field of entrants.

Representing Chicago will be Commondore James A. Purgh's new Disturber II. This boat, which won the championship of the Mississippi River Valley association at Dubuque on July 5, has an average speed of thirty-two miles per hour. At no stage of the race was the boat pushed, motors in rival boats failing at the beginning of the event. This boat, with its 360-horse power, is believed capable of beating forty miles per hour.

C. C. Fisher Names Eph.

Opposing it will be Carl G. Fisher's Eph. Fisher is president of the Indianapolis speedway. His boat was designed by the Seaburys in New York and carries 600-horse power. Commodore W. E. Hughey, ex-title holder of the West, will start Red Top III., also a hydroplane, carrying 240-horse power. These three will meet the New Hoosier Boy, owned by J. W. Whitlock of Rising Sun, Ind., whose craft swept the West two seasons ago.

Nameless III, a sixteen-cylindered twenty-foot boat owned by August Hecksher of the Motor Boat Club of America, New York city; Missouri, owned by Beauvais and Lippert of St. Louis, whose boat won the thirty-two-foot Mississippi championship at Dubuque, Iowa, recently; Sand Burr, owned by the White brothers of Atlantic City, N. J.; La Crosse, a syndicate hydroplane from La Crosse, Wis.; Elbridge Bug, J. T. Seeley of Rochester, N. Y.; Leading Lady, W. P. Cleveland of Galena, Ill.; Mascot, by Ernst Corsepius of Fort Madison, Iowa; Comet, owned by Kelso and Hilsinger of Belle rue, Iowa; Teaser, owned by J. A. Moritz of Quincy, Ill., and two Peoria boats, Pronto III., winner of the Mississippi twenty-foot championship, and Regal-Tiger, a powerful hydroplane, also are entered.

Dixie IV. Expected to Race.

Frederick K. Burnham, owner of Dixie IV., has entered that international cup defender for the free-for-all event and is expected to start against the field. In any event the winner of the Western championship must be considered among the boats eligible to defend America's title against the British challenger in Huntington bay in August.

The regatta will cover two days, with two races each day. The twenty and thirty-two-foot classes will race in the afternoon of July 25, while the forty-foot championship class and twenty-six-foot class will run on the afternoon of July 26.

A purse of $1,000 in cash goes to the winner of the free-for-all and liberal cash prizes will be paid to firsts and seconds in all other events.

THE HELP NEEDED BY EXCESSIVE DRINKERS

Tortures Prevented by the Neal Treatment.

How "Winning Fights" Against the Drink Habit Are Waged at the Neal Institute.

It was at a recent afternoon gathering of fashionable club women that a lady, prominent in church and mission work, declared: "For the first time in my life I began to realize what it means for the victim of drink to try to quit. I have never touched alcoholic liquor, but my doctor took tea and coffee away from me a few weeks ago. I've been in misery ever since. The fight I am having must be something like that which the excessive drinker experiences when he tries to stop liquor. My heart goes out today, as it never did before, in sympathy for the drinker who is trying to quit. I can now appreciate the suffering he must endure."

Excessive drinkers rarely stop of their own accord. They try hard enough, but find themselves seized with a resistless craving desire which upsets their resolutions and will. It isn't advice, abuse or harsh criticism that an excessive drinker needs as a corrective, but help—such help as thousands are getting every month in the Neal Treatment for the Drink Habit administered at the Neal Institute.

The excessibe drinker who makes up his mind to stop is inviting torture. This explains the failure of so many good intentions. The craving and desire which drags victims of the habit back to drink is simply a natural result of their physical condition. Every excessive drinker is saturated with alcoholic poison. His system is impregnated with it. Nature unaided cannot expel it. This poison, which causes the craving, must be neutralized before it can be eliminated. The Neal Treatment does both. Three days of the treatment are sufficient to bring about this seeming miracle. All craving and desire for liquor disappears, no matter how long the habit has been in overpowering control of the drinker. Shattered nerves are restored, muddled brains cleared, dull eyes brightened, dull appetites whetted and spirits revived by this treatment, which is tonic in its effects.

The Neal Treatment is a vegetable remedy, taken internally and ethically administered by regular physicians. There are positively no hypodermic injections.

At the Superior Neal Institute guests enjoy all the privacy and comforts of home, hotel or club. Names are never divulged. Home treatment can be arranged for those who prefer it.

Call or write for their free booklet, with full information and copy of contract. A talk with the house physician will remove all skepticism. Both phones, Neal Institute, Superior, Wis., corner Belknap and West Seventh street.

ON THE IRON RANGES

ROBBED BY HIS FRIEND

Hull Rust Mine Employe Claims Companion Relieved Him of $38.

Accused, Arrested, Is Said to Have Held Victim Up Near Mine.

Hibbing, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Madich will have a hearing in municipal court this afternoon on the charge of holding up and robbing Steve Carnick, aged 20, employed at the Hull Rust mine, and taking $38, the balance of his victim's pay check, after the latter had made some purchases in town.

Carnick told the police that he came to town last night with Madich and after cashing his pay check bought some clothing and other articles. Madich asked him for a loan, but was turned down.

Is Knocked Down.

They started back to their boarding house. Carnick says, and as they were passing the Hull Rust, he alleges, his companion struck him on the nose with a rock, knocking him down, then as he lay on the ground robbed him. As soon as he regained his senses Carnick hurried to town and notified the police. Madich was placed under arrest.

Tony Fantina was given sixty days in the county jail today for participating in a drunken row at Kitzville last night during which knives were used and one man sent to the hospital. It is said the ring leader got away, but Tony was caught and as his victim identified him as one of the knife-wielders the court gave him sixty days in the Duluth bastile.

JOHN DWAN IS CITY ATTORNEY

Well-Known Two Harbors Lawyer Appointed to Fill a Vacancy.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the city council last night City Attorney B. F. Fowler sent in his resignation. Mr. Fowler has just been appointed county attorney by the county board following the suspension of John Kinsella. The resignation was accepted and Mr. Dwan was appointed city attorney.

Local Socialists are said to take exceptions to the claim that Kinsella is one of them. On the contrary they contend he is opposed to their belief and allege he has sought to belittle them.

CITY ATTORNEY JOHN DWAN.

The council authorized the macadamizing of the county state road one mile north of Seventh avenue to the city limits. The city is to furnish crushed rock and C. J. Billingsley was appointed superintendent of the rock crushing plant.

No Injunction Served.

The expected injunction to hold up the special election to be held July 25 to succeed Charles Esse and H. J. Irwin, the two Socialist aldermen, who were recalled, did not materialize last night, although the members of the council looked for it. Unless such proceeding is taken the election will take place as advertised.

KICKED IN FOREHEAD.

Tower Man Sustains Injury Requiring Surgical Attention.

SCHOOLS HAVE TO BE MADE LARGER

To Accommodate Growth in Number of Pupils on Western Mesaba.

Coleraine, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual school meeting L. R. Salsich, assistant general superintendent of the Canisteo mining district was unanimously re-elected a member of the board of education for a three-year term. W. H. Plummer, the new superintendent of Holman mine at Taconite, was elected to succeed J. P. Trebilcock who voluntarily retires. There was not one opposing vote to either of the candidates which is considered flattering to the management of the school affairs in school district No. 2. That the people are interested in having good schools in shown by the fact that 136 votes were polled when there was no contest.

To Repair Schools.

The board of education has let contracts for extensive repairs on the Bovey, Coleraine and Taconite school buildings. A new addition will be added to the Bovey school. A new building was recently completed at Laurence Lake, ten miles north and a summer term is being taught there. There are new settlements at three other points in this district, which may require school buildings this year. Settlers are coming to Itasca county.

HOUSE TENT IS REGULAR PALACE

Two Hibbing Mine Employes Fix Up Very Fine Canvas Residence.

Hibbing, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A most completely fitted house tent is that owned and lived in by J. S. McFarland and Frank Munroe on the Chisholm road, about a half mile east of Hibbing.

Fitted out with every modern convenience, in fact equipped with luxuries, the canvas house contains more varied applicances than most of the up-to-date residences in the village.

Hot and cold water, steam heat, electric lights, a bath tub, cooking range and an open fireplace are all found with in the canvas walls which are about 25x12 feet in dimensions. A concrete chimney graces the top of the tent.

Comfortable furniture of the old mission style installed therein, and the two owners and habitues of the abode spent all of last winter there in the most comfortable manner possible.

McFarland and Munroe, the former, master mechanic at the Laura mine near which place the tent is pitched, and the latter chief engineer at the same place, built their odd home themselves and installed all of its furnishings. It was erected last fall and so pleased are they with their fresh-air house that they state they would not change their present mode of living were they offered a mansion.

A tract of land on the shore of Sturgeon lake was recently purchased by the two and on this site it is their intention to erect another house tent for summer use altogether.

HIBBING PLAYERS GALLANT.

Decline to Defeat Woman Ball Team Too Badly.

Hibbing, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hopkins Bros.' Champion Ladies' baseball team played two games here yesterday with the Hibbing Colts, one of regular baseball in the afternoon which was won easily by the Hibbing team by the score of 12 to 3 and the last in the evening when a fast game of indoor baseball was played on the diamond with the aid of sunburst lights. The latter was won by the visitors by the score of 4 to 3. Probably the largest crowd of the season witnessed this game, the grand stand and bleachers being full. Grady, Kleffman and Brookins struck widly at the big ball, but failed to connect.

In the afternoon's contest Hibbing could have shut the visitors out and piled up a tremendous score had they so wished. Williams, one of the regular pitchers started the game, but was substituted by Short Stop Calligan in the eighth frame and Right Fielder Gelselman in the ninth.

STORM CENTER QUITS.

Director Reusswig of Grand Rapids School Board Resigns.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special school election will be held next Saturday night to select a successor to Director F. E. Reusswig, who resigned yesterday just before a school meeting was held. The people also will vote on the proposition of changing the district from a common form to independent form.

Director Reusswig appears to have been a sort of a storm center of an aggravated school row that culminated in a mass meeting of protest last night, the climax coming when it was announced he had resigned.

Ex-Senator McCarthy addressing the meeting pleaded for unity among the citizens and directed them to look elsewhere than to the school district to find causes for high taxes. He urged them to consider well before changing the form of their district.

With the resignation of Director Reusswig matters quieted down and all differences were settled amicably.

ACQUIRE LUMBER PLANTS ON THE CUYUNA RANGE.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 18.—The King Lumber company, with headquarters here, operating a line of lumber yards on the Mesaba range, has acquired three more yards on the Cuyuna range, at Deerwood, Crosby and Cuyuna.

The last three yards were formerly operated and owned by the Mahlum Lumber company of Brainerd, but now, added to the King Lumber company interests, make them one of the strongest retail lumber companies in the state, they being represented in well-established as well as new towns, which are all rapidly coming to the front.

RESERVE WATER SUPPLY IS USED

Eveleth's Big Water Tank Comes in Handy When Lake Pipe Breaks.

Eveleth, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The main pipe line to the city water supply at St. Mary's lake again proved inadequate, and a break discovered yesterday caused worry. Fortunately the 300,000-gallon water tank on McKinley avenue was well filled and it was drawn on.

Water Works Supt. Edward F. Forrestal and a large crew of men worked all afternoon on the break and last evening completed the repair work.

Work will soon start on the Elba avenue sewer under the direction of Supt. Forrestal.

Ten Gamewell fire alarm boxes ordered from Chicago are expected soon and will be installed in the outlying districts by City Electrician Peter Vanderboom.

Before Sphere Is Recovered Keewatin Wins Game.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.) — The local baseball aggregation lost a well played game to the Keewatin team Sunday at that place by a score of 6 to 4. The game stood 4 to 0 in favor of the Nashwauk boys until the ninth when a fly hit to left field by a Keewatinite was lost among the stumps, bringing in two runs and a batting rally in this inning gave the Keewatin team the game.

The baseball association will give a dance in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Hill City ball team from which is expected a return game soon. The local orchestra will furnish the music.

SINKING LEONIDAS SHAFT.

Eveleth, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three crews, working eight-hour shifts, commenced work this week lowering the new shaft at the Leonidas mine, which has reached a depth of over 365 feet. Good progress is being made, considering the handicap caused by a break in the shaft pipe recently, which resulted in many of the hanging pumps being drowned out.

Eveleth Couples Wed.

Eveleth, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Isaac Isaacson and Hulda Maki of this city and Alex Pellinen of Eveleth and Ida Parvela of Sparta were married last evening at the Finnish Lutheran church by Rev. Bilban returned last evening from Hibbing while Father Hugh A. Floyd of Duluth, formerly of this city, returned to the Zenith City after a short visit here.

Hibbingites Go Berrying.

Hibbing, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over 200 people spent Sunday in the woods in several directions about Hibbing in a search for blueberries and raspberries, returning to the village by nightfall with heavily loaded baskets.

The berry crop hereabouts is unusually large this year, and there seems to be plenty for every one who cares to pick the fruit.

WEST END

OLD CHURCH FOR A GYM

Building Used By St. Clements' Parish Turned Over to Young Men.

Sodality Will Again Become Active in Amateur Athletic Circles.

The building which has been temporarily used for a church by St. Clement's Catholic parish, pending the construction and dedication of the new $60,000 edifice, will be used in the future for a club house and a gymnasium for the young men of the church.

Within the next two weeks, it is expected that most of the gymnasium apparatus will be installed. Among other features, the club house will have reading rooms, a kitchen, and baths. Up-to-date contrivances will be installed in the gymnasium.

The Young Men's Sodality of the parish, formerly used the building but when the old church burned two years ago, the parish converted the hall into a church and it has been used as such until recently, when the congregation took possession of the new edifice.

The building is 35 by 90 and ample room is provided for gymnasium purposes. For the past two years, the Sodality has been inactive as far as basket ball and other sports are concerned, because the organization has had no place to practice and play its games. With the new gymnasium, it is expected that the basket ball team will get into the field again this fall and that the society will again take a prominent place in amateur athletics of the city.

LAWN IS NEGLECTED.

Is the lawn at the Adams school, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street an eyesore?

That it is, is the opinion of several of the business men along West Superior street at the West end and they say that the school board is to blame for it.

It is claimed that the lawn is seldom watered, the weeds are allowed to go to seed, and that it presents an appearance worse than the average vacant lot.

The lawn was once one of the beauty spots along Superior street. It is probable that the attention of the school board will be called to the matter in the way of a petition.

Annual Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Sunday school of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, will be held at Fond du Lac tomorrow. It is expected that 300 children and young people will attend. The steamer Columbia will take the picnickers up the river in the morning, leaving the Twenty-first avenue west dock at 9 a. m. The day will be spent in games and out-door pastimes. Basket lunches will be carried.

The Young Men's Sodality of St. Clement's Catholic church will entertain at an ice cream social tomorrow evening in the basement of the new church.

ther cases of cholera among the passengers or crew of the steamer Moltke detained there. Reports from Swinburne island hospital state there have been no further deaths. The condition of the passengers and crew of the steamer Peruvia is also satisfactory this morning. No representatives of the public health and marine hospital service has appeared at quarantine up to 9:30 today.

"On the whole, the general condition of the cholera situation looks very favorable."

Itasca Will Not Touch Port.

Washington, July 18.—Because of cholera in Italy, Secretary MacVeagh today telegraphed orders to the revenue cutter practice ship Itasca at Marseilles to strike the port of Naples from its itinerary. The Itasca has on board thirty cadets from the revenue cutter school at Fort Turnbull, Conn. The Itasca will proceed from Marseilles to Gibraltar and then home.

Less Dangerous Than Plague.

Chicago, July 18.—"I would not be surprised if cholera came to Chicago," declared Dr. George B. Young, commissioner of health. "The disease would not last long in a modern sanitary city. Cholera has a bad name, but in my opinion it is not to be feared nearly as much as the plague."

There has not been a case of cholera in Chicago since 1873.

the sugar interests upon this branch of the federal service. Among these employes is Richard Parr, deputy surveyor of customs, who received a large reward for revealing the trick scales by which the alleged trust defrauded the government of more than $1,000,000 in duties on sugar imports.

Washington B. Thomas, chairman of the board of directors of the American Sugar Refining company, was the first witness. Replying to Chairman Hardwick's questions, he said his father, Joseph B. Thomas had sold the Standard Sugar refinery in Boston to the American company in 1887, the year in which other companies were absorbed. As he could not recall what his father received for the Standard, he was instructed to get the facts from his office in Boston.

He said that in 1891 American company was capitalized at $50,000,000, which was increased to $75,000,000 when the American took in the Philadelphia refineries, and to $90,000,000 when it entered the beet sugar field.

In Defense of Havemeyer.

Without explanation, Mr. Thomas interrupted his testimony to defend the memory of the late H. O. Havemeyer. He wished it understood that nothing he said or might say was to be interpreted as an attack on Mr. Havemeyer.

"Mr. Havemeyer ran the company," he explained, "as a captain runs a ship. He did what he thought was best for the stockholders. Of course public opinion has changed since then. You know Mr. Havemeyer did not believe in letting the public know what he was doing."

REPLY FROM DR. WILEY

week end with Mrs. Taft. Unless he can settle the case Friday morning or late Friday night, it is possible that it will go over until next Tuesday, when he expects to return to Washington from the summer capital.

At Outs With Wilson.

It is well known in Washington that Secretary Wilson and Dr. Wiley have not been on friendly terms for some time. It is acknowledged by the secretary's friends that he takes the position that the chief of the chemistry bureau has assumed more authority in the department than he is entitled to.

In spite of this fact, it was predicted today that Mr. Wilson would recommend leniency. He is aware of the popular sentiment in favor of Dr. Wiley, and for that reason, if for no other, some of his friends declare, he will not concur with Mr. Wickersham in suggesting that Dr. Wiley's resignation would be acceptable.

No Comment by Wickersham.

Chicago, July 18.—Attorney General Wickersham arrived in Chicago from Washington this morning and left for Duluth late in the afternoon, to deliver an address at the annual meeting of the Minnesota State Bar association tomorrow. He spent several hours chatting with personal friends.

"I am not here on official business, but am on my way to Duluth to address the Minnesota State Bar association," said Mr. Wickersham. "I must decline to discuss all matters of public business during my brief visit."

Mr. Wickersham refused to discuss the charges recently filed against Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, food expert of the department of agriculture.

DRINK ON TRAIN VERY EXPENSIVE

Adam Ara Forfeits $25 Bail Given When Arrested By Conductor Denny.

Brainerd, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adam Ara, arrested for drinking whisky on a train, really paid $25 for his drink for he did not appear in court and forfeited his cash bail. Ara boarded the midnight passenger for Staples and pulled out a bottle of liquor.

"You must not drink that on the train," said Conductor William H. Denny of Duluth, very politely but firmly. "There is a law against drinking on trains and we must see that it is enforced."

"Oh, what are you giving us," said Ara. "This is a free country and the Constitution lets a man take a drink when and where he pleases."

He was turned over to Officer Barney and later released on $25 bail which he forfeited when he read up on the new law and found out where he stood.

How to "Shed" a Bad Complexion

It's foolish to attempt to cover up or hide a sallow complexion, when you can so easily remove the sallowness, or the complexion itself. Rouge and the like on a brownish skin only emphasize the defect. The better way is to apply pure mercolized wax—the same as you would cold cream—putting it on at night, removing it in the morning with warm water and soap, following with a dash of cold water. The effect of a few applications is simply marvelous. The half-dead cuticle is absorbed by the wax—painlessly, gradually, in tiny imperceptible particles—revealing the beautiful velvety white new skin beneath.

No woman need have a sallow, blotchy, pimply or freckled complexion if she'll just go to the druggist's, get some good mercolized wax and use as suggested. — Woman's Realm.

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMY

To Save Pinning Up Dresses.

A good plan to keep dresses up from the mud (particularly evening dresses) is to sew pieces of tape about three inches long, from the hem upwards, at intervals all around the skirt, then when the skirt is turned up, thread a piece of tape or ribbon through the slots and fasten round the waist, the tape is easily slipped in and out, and the dress is not marked by safety pins and there is no danger of it dropping.

Washing Irish Crochet.

Irish crochet collars and neckwear may be the most durable a girl can use, or the most unsatisfactory, it depends upon the washing. Wash in thick, hot suds made from pure white soap. Rinse through several waters and put through a thin starch water.

Squeeze out excessive moisture between cloths. Pin the crochet piece to a cushion or heavily padded board. Pull out all the edges and points, fastening each one with a pin to the cushion. Allow it to remain until dry, when it will look like new. If the lace is much yellowed the cushion can be placed in the sun during the drying process. A drop of bluing can be added to the last rinsing water, or if a creamy tint is liked the lace can be put through weak tea.

Duluth Girl Writes of Her Tour Through Italy

The following most interesting letter is one received by Mr. and Mrs. B. Silberstein from their daughter, Miss Elsie Silberstein, who is traveling with a party in Europe. They are in Italy and spent the Fourth of July in Pompeii. The letter is printed by permission of Mr. Silberstein:

"Grand Hotel Vittoria, Sorrento, Italy—I have just finished the continental breakfast of coffee, rolls and marmalade, and am writing in a room opening out into a balcony overlooking the bay. The morning is glorious and I'm just enchanted with this spot, its vegetation, lemon and orange groves, grape arbors, fig trees and flowers upon flowers, some growing on the bare rocks. We left Naples early yesterday morning and drove down to the wharf, taking rowboats to the ferry, which took us out across the bay to the island of Capri. When we came near the Grotto we paired off into small boats. The opening is very small and we had to sit on the bottom of the boat and duck. It is a wonderful formation; the water is a beautiful sapphire blue and looks as if it were lighted by incandescents. The roof is all volcanic formation and looks like turquoise matrix. We then took the ferry to Capri. Green little victorias with horses ornamented with pheasant tails stuck in their harness, drove us up to a charming hotel, where we took lunch. After resting we drove up to Anacapri, 500 feet about the bay, a little tiny town. Our courier, who is with us for five days, is a cultured, typical Englishman, an artist by calling. He does all the work for the British consulate and acts as special courier for the royalty. He took us into a villa owned by a former colonel, who was a great collector. It was a treat to see the collections. All the furniture is mosaic, all kinds of statues, pictures, a terracotta stove and a well built right in the family room in the wall. We then went into the pergola of another villa, where Mr. Brown took our picture. The drive up the mountains is indescribable, white walls with pink and lavender flowers studding the crevices, orange and lemon groves, with the fruit loading the branches down. It is too wonderful. At 4 o'clock we took the ferry for Sorrento Here is Marion Crawford's villa and William Waldorf Astor's, and at Capri we saw Maxim Gorky's. Sorrento is were Tasso lived. Our hotel is the best here and 300 feet above the bay. We went up in a lift. Our room is facing the bay and after a little rest we walked up town. It is a small place, but alive with interest. Woodwork is the chief industry and we are looking up how it is done. Last evening after dinner on a wonderfully located piazza overlooking the bay, with Naples in the distance, and Vesuvius to our right, a number of Italian singers and dancers in fancy costumes came up, who sang and danced all evening.

"Hotel Cappuccini Convent, Amalfi, Sunday, July 2.—We left Sorrento at 3 o'clock in carriages for a twenty-five-mile drive to Amalfi. The drive is a wonderful one, all along the Mediterranean sea, in and out of high rocks and villages perched right in the rocks, some houses hundreds of feet up in the cliffs. Vineyards, one after another on terraces, fig trees, Italian bean trees, walnut, hardnut, oranges and lemon groves, and the air is redolent with sweet scents. All along the road beggars, more often little children, run after the carriages. We arrived here at 7 in the evening and had to climb 186 stone steps to the entrance. The convent is very quaint and kept to appear as old as possible, and the rooms have candle lights only, and it seems so funny to light a candle. A beautiful pergola away over the bay, covered with grape vines and climbing geraniums and lighted by old lanterns, is where we take out meals. We spent the day and night here and tomorrow we leave for Ravello and La Cova. Henry Longfellow's poem on "Amalfi" is famous and they sell his portrait and poem on postal cards. Read the poem in my volume of Longfellow. A great many rowboats are anchored on the sands below and continuous singing is heard from the beach. Every meal is accompanied by music. Last evening an old man played and a little boy sang 'Lucia' and 'Napoli.' The two popular songs. I want to mail this letter from Amalfi, so I will close."

Knowledge of Poverty

HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

Many of those who occupy our luxurious homes have but little conception of what poverty is. The French princess, who, when she heard during a famine that the people had no bread, wondered if they could not eat cake, although really she meant oaten cake only, is only an exaggerated representative of many of our women who have never entered the houses of the poor, and know nothing at all of the way the world treats them.

If these ladies who have only lived in the roses and lain in the lilies of life, whose hearts are full of kindness, yet who are ignorant of what real deprivation means, should leave their fortunate fastnesses and go down into the purlieus of poverty, penetrate reeling cellars, climb rickety stairs, see the parched fever patient burning out his delirium alone; see the consumptive on his straw, exposed to the draughts of a leavy roof and broken windows, without nourishment or dainty; see the hearty children hungry still on the daily division of a single loaf; see hopeless girls, wrapped in shawls and without fires, sewing for life as if they saw the monsters that stalked behind them; see mothers aching for their children, and fathers empty handed and cursing their fate; see all the horrid, piercing sights of want—of want whose neighbor on the one hand is death, and on the other is crime—then we think, their hearts would be as sore among their treasures unless they could do something to relieve a little share of the trouble with which every great city is catacombed.

There are many of our wealthy women, let it be repeated, who, though they have heard of poverty, are so unacquainted with its actual resemblance as to be able to form no idea of the real state of things.

But on the other hand, there are just as many more who make it their business to be informed of all this dark and sad underlife, and who spend a good part of their days in giving and devising, and assuaging the pain there still must be in spite of them.

THE EVENING STORY

For the Sake of a Man

By Jane Harris.

The large, handsomely furnished bedroom was darkened by the drawn blinds. The ticking of the clock made an aggressive sound amidst the solemn silence that reigned. It was almost as if one could hear the feeble pulse of life ebbing away from the old man who lay so passively on the big four-poster awaiting death.

The girl whom he had adopted and cherished so tenderly watched the still form through a mist of tears. Until he had brought her into his life he had been a lonely old miser, whose chief interest it was to quarrel with his relations. His immense wealth in itself had been a bar to their bestowing any disinterested affection upon him, so he had amused himself by making countless wills, which left all his money now here and now there.

But four years ago the whole tenor of his life had changed. His chauffeur, driving carelessly, had knocked down a girl who was crossing a crowded thoroughfare. Her foot was so crushed that it had to be amputated, and whilst she was in a hospital her friendless condition somehow appealed to the wealthy old autocrat. She was penniless, and had no one to care for her; and when he offered to adopt her and provide for her future, it really seemed to the poor girl as though her accident had been a blessing in disguise.

Now as she gazed at him sorrowfully, she remembered the wonderful thing that had happened only the day before. For months she had given all her heart in secret to Leon Matthewson, who had often been asked down to stay at the old manor house, since his uncle had happened to approve of him. And yesterday, without any warning, old Leon had placed her hand in young Leon's, and blessed them both, and expressed a wish that when he had gone they would marry and be happy together.

His act had opened up a new vista of joy to the girl. She had never dared to hope for such happiness, for she looked on herself as a maimed creature, who had, moreover, neither beauty nor grace as an endowment. Leon was so young and handsome, and brilliantly clever, that it seemed a never ending marvel to her that he had promised to do his uncle's bidding. She put up her hand shyly to touch once again the spot on her cheek where he had kissed her.

"Elsie," whispered a weak voice from the bed. "Little Elsie, where are you?" She flew to the old man's bedside, and bent over him lovingly.

"I have made it all right for you," he murmured vaguely. "Leon is a good boy, and you will have my wealth, which is sure to keep him faithful to you. He is too poor to contemplate marriage without it." His mind was rambling back into its old cynicism. Suddenly his tone changed, and he caught hold of her hand in quick distress.

"My will!" he said hoarsely. "My latest will—fetch it to me—in that dispatch box!" She turned where he pointed, and saw the key hanging in the lock. Hastily she opened it, and snatched out two legal looking documents that lay on the top. But as she turned towards the bed, a sudden paroxysm seized the old man, and he had fallen back dead.

For a few moments she remained overpowered by her grief, then a wave of incredulity passed over her, and she stepped close to the bedside, unfolding the documents for his inspection.

"See, here they are," she whispered timidly, staring down with awful question at the rigid face. "Oh, surely—surely he can't be dead!" Her glance mechanically focused itself on the will she held open in her hand, and the words gradually beat their meaning into her brain. Then, with sudden comprehension, she re-read it, and realized that old Leon Matthewson had left all his wealth to an institution for the blind.

It was dated after she and her adopted father had had some slight disagreement. The other will which she held was entirely in her favor, but it had been drawn up a month or two previous to the other one. She stared at them both—the two fateful pieces of paper which made so much difference to her life. The shock was all the greater to her because old Matthewson had so repeatedly mentioned that she would be his heiress. The remembrance filled her with agitation, for it brought with it the thought of Leon and her guardian's dying words.

"The money would keep him faithful. He was too poor to marry without it." Her heart stood still, for all her happiness depended on her becoming Leon's wife. She was humble in spirit, and distrusted her own powers to keep his love. Ignoble though the thought was, she had relied on the wealth which would help her to keep his allegiance.

She gazed down at the two wills irresolutely. Without a doubt the old man had asked for them so that he might destroy the latter one, which was only the outcome of a fit of temper. Surely, therefore, she would be justified if she destroyed or hid the compromising document which, but for death, would not be in fragments.

Without allowing herself time to repent her act, she thrust the paper into the folds of her bodice, and replaced the favorable will in the dispatch box. Then she rang the bell violently for the servants, and a few minutes later all the household knew that the master had left them forever.

Despite her qualms of conscience, Elsie hugged to herself the thought of what she had done. For years she had been penniless and miserable, and now by this one little crime she had secured luxury and the man she loved. When the country lawyer, who had taken charge of the papers, informed Elsie and Leon in privacy that the former was Matthewson's sole heiress, according to the only will he could discover, Elsie still felt glad of her duplicity. Walking with Leon in the garden that evening, she wondered why he was so silent.

"Elsie, there is something I must say to you," he burst forth abruptly. "I cannot keep the promise I gave my uncle, for it is impossible for me to marry a woman who is wealthy when I am myself practically a pauper. To do such a thing would kill my self-respect."

"But Leon, you promised a dying man!" she remonstrated desperately, with a cold chill at her heart.

"When I gave my word I really believed that you wouldn't be his sole heiress. From hints he let drop, I thought his property would be willed otherwise." Her guilty conscience made her tremble, but she held out her arms beseechingly, and the appeal she made was wrung from her very soul.

"But Leon, if we love one another! Would you take from me all my happiness because I am rich, or is it that you have never cared?"

He turned to her impetuously, and drew her to him with a cry of very genuine protest. "Indeed, I swear to you that I love you with all my heart! If only this money didn't exist I'd marry you tomorrow."

For a moment he gazed at her with his strong, manly face full of a passionate regret. Then he put her gently from him, and strode off to the house as if he dared not trust himself to further speech.

Then indeed, Elsie suffered the aftermath of her wrong doing. She had no confidence in her lover's single mindedness of purpose, but had instead attributed to him a mercenary meanness which was absolutely foreign to his honest nature. A swift Nemesis had overtaken her for that one act of dishonesty.

Hidden in her own room was the will she had feloniously abstracted. It did not take her many hours to make up her mind to confess to Leon how wicked she had been. After all, what was money but dross when it meant the loss of the one being dear to her? She had only coveted the money as power to keep his love, and since he had no use for it she was glad to be poor and the burden of guilt off her mind.

So with deep humiliation she followed Leon out on to the terrace after dinner, and made full confession of what she had done. Her pale face was downcast and her eyes full of burning tears as she faltered forth her story. When she had finished he held her close in his arms and reproached her for doubting him.

"Why, it is you that I love!" he assured her ardently. "Though we are poor, I will prove to you when we are married how very, very dear you are to me." At this moment a visitor was announced, and a keen faced, dapper little man was brought on to the terrace.

"I have journeyed down in respect of a will which Matthewson executed a fortnight ago," he informed them. "Our client said he preferred to employ a New York firm instead of his old country lawyers, so I came here as soon as we heard of his death."

The stranger coughed impressively and drew out his glasses to read the important looking document which he carried. Its contents, when grasped apart from formula, stipulated that all the old man's wealth should be equally divided between Leon and Elsie.

They were very silent for a few moments after they had bade the man of law farewell. Then Elsie slipped her hand shyly into her lover's and looked up at him with a laughing challenge.

"Ah, sir, you'll have to marry me now," she quoted, flushing. Then, with sudden seriousness she added: "But how dear and kind of him to make such a will!"

"Yes, indeed," agreed Leon heartily. "But oh, my darling, that you should ever have doubted my love just because you were a cripple!"

And the long, tender kiss he pressed upon her lips satisfied her doubts completely.

Don't Be Too Soon

By CARA REESE.

Maybe you are "too soon." It does not pay to be too far ahead of the general run of people. You may be "too soon" with your ideas, "too soon" in starting up the particular enterprise, "too soon" in blowing the trumpet or calling a mass meeting.

"Too soon" is as calamitous a condition as "too late," and you have had "too late" drummed into your ears as the very irony of fate all your days. But it is not a whit more annoying and exasperating to be "too late" than it is to be "too soon." The only difference in the irritating circumstance is that "too late" seems to express a finality, But in reality there is no finality, after all. To be "too late" frequently means to be on time for new experiences and an entire change for the better and more suitable. Many a starting point begins where the "too late" of some other condition ends.

But, to be "too soon" is ever and always a soul harrying experience. To be ahead of time with the new device, to write above and beyond the comprehension of the populace, to formulate plans and to map out theories of the vision as you see it while no one else has as much as dreamed of it, are said and dispiriting accompaniment of being "too soon" in the fields of progress. There is far keener suffering among the "too soon" than in the remorse and regret of the "too late." In the case of "too late," "ye may not enter" the one gate, but there is nothing to prevent entrance through some other door. But to be "too soon," all gates, all doors, all welcome are closed and you are a mockery.

Take a walk around the square, gifted and inventive genius. Store up the "too soon" truths and discoveries as wealth for those who come after. It is folly to either mourn or to rail at conditions. When you are "too soon" you must expect jibes at the best and but small reward for speed and industry.

There was a little girl who once went to a party with hair curled nicely and the daintiest, sweetest frock. The child, in order to hurry up her own caretakers, had proclaimed the party to take place as soon after school hours as the guests might make ready. She went, she knocked. A coarse maid, up to her eyes in dust brush and scrubbing outfit, opened the door and gazed on the dainty one who had come "too soon." "Go away, you brat, till dark," and the door was slammed.

Ah, it was a long, long wait "till dark," and the little one grew hungry and distrustful. She walked the length of the street as far as she dared, then back again. Little acquaintances now and then passed that way, but they laughed at the predicament. No one in authority noticed her plight. At last, when the lights began to twinkle, the child went home, face tear-stained and garments rumpled somewhat from the first freshness. "Too soon" for the party, "too soon," an early bitterness never forgotten.

Ah, there are brilliant ones who "go home" after a lifetime of knocking in vain, after patient waiting and striving; the horde says "stay out." To be first has a penalty, to be "too soon" is a bitter joke.

WE INVITE

EVERY THIN MAN AND WOMAN HERE

EVERY PERSON IN DULUTH AND VICINITY TO GET FAT AT OUR EXPENSE

This is an invitation that no thin man or woman can afford to ignore. We'll tell you why. We are going to give you a wonderful discovery that helps digest the foods you eat—that puts good, solid flesh on people who are thin and underweight, no matter what the cause may be—that makes brain in five hours and blood in four—that puts the red corpuscles in the blood, which every thin man or woman sadly needs. How can we do this? We will tell you. Science has discovered a remarkable concentrated treatment which increases cell growth, the very substance of which our bodies are made—a treatment that makes indigestion and other stomach troubles disappear as if by magic and makes an old dyspeptic or a sufferer from weak nerves or lack of vitality feel like a 2-year-old. This new treatment, which has proved a boon to every thin person, is called Sargol. Don't forget the name—"S-A-R-G-O-L." Nothing like it has ever been produced before. It is a revelation to women who have never been able to appear stylish in anything they wore because of their thinness. It is a godsend to every man who is under weight or is lacking in nerve force or energy. If you want a beautiful and well-rounded figure of symmetrical proportions, of which you can feel justly proud—if you want a body full of throbbing life and energy, write The Sargol Company 170 G, Herald Bldg., Binghamton, N. Y., today and we will send you, absolutely free, a 50c box of Sargol that will prove all we claim. Take one with every meal, and in five minutes after you take the first concentrated tablet—for this precious product it will commence to unfold its virtues, and it has by actual demonstration often increased the weight at the rate of one pound a day. But you say you want proof! Well, here you are. Here is the statement of those who have tried—who have been convinced—and who will swear to the virtues of this marvelous preparation.

REV. GEORGE W. DAVIS says:

"I have made a faithful trial of the Sargol treatment and must say it has brought to me new life and vigor. I have gained twenty pounds and now weigh 170 pounds, and, what is better, I have gained the days of my boyhood. It has been the turning point of my life. My health is now fine. I don't have to take any medicine at all and never want to again."

MRS. A. I. RODENHEISER writes:

"I have gained immensely since I took Sargol, for I only weighed about 105 pounds when I began using it and now I weigh 130 pounds, so really this makes twenty-four pounds. I feel stronger and am looking better than ever before, and now I carry rosy checks, which is something I could never say before.

"My old friends who have been used to seeing me with a thin, long face, say that I am looking better than they have ever seen me before and father and mother are so pleased to think I have got to look so well and weigh so heavy 'for me.'"

CLAY JOHNSON says:

"Please send me another ten-day treatment. I am well pleased with Sargol. It has been the light of my life. I am getting back to my proper weight again. When I began to take Sargol I only weighed 138 pounds, and now, four weeks later, I am weighing 153 pounds and feeling fine. I don't have that stupid feeling every morning that I used to have. I feel good all the time. I want to put on about five pounds of flesh and that will be all I want."

F. GAGNON writes:

"Here is my report since taking the Sargol treatment. I am a man 67 years of age and was all run down to the very bottom. I had to quit work, as I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds with 23 days' treatment. I cannot tell you how happy I feel. All my clothes are getting too tight. My face has a good color and I never was so happy in my life."

MRS. VERNIE ROUSE says:

"Sargol is certainly the grandest treatment I ever used. It has helped me greatly. I could hardly eat anything and was not able to sit up three days out of a week, with stomach trouble. I took only two boxes of Sargol and can get anything and it don't hurt me and I have no more headache. My weight was 120 pounds and now I weigh 140 and feel better than I have for five years. I am now as fleshy as I want to be, and shall certainly recommend Sargol, for it does just exactly what you say it will do."

You may know some of these people or know somebody who knows them. We will send you their full addresses if you wish, so that you can find out all about Sargol and the wonders it has wrought.

Probably you are now thinking whether all this can be true. Stop it. Write us at once and we will send you, absolutely free, a 50c package of the most wonderful tablets you have ever seen. No matter what the cause of your thinness is from, Sargol makes thin folks fat, but we don't ask you to take our word for it. WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Favorable Weather Reports Cause Fractional Losses in American Markets.

Scattered Rains Reported in Dakotas—Linseed Holds Firm.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 18.—The market was extremely quiet and a little nervous today, the downward tendency being shown in fractional losses in the American markets. The weather map showed moisture in North Dakota, but there were conflicting reports on the amount and effect of the rainfall. Black rust reports continue to come in, and they, with higher cables and reports of deterioration in foreign wheat districts, served to support the market and offset the effects of the North Dakota weather reports.

July wheat opened strong in Duluth, ⅞c up at 99¾c. It fell off to 99½c on trades and declined to 99¼c at the close. The September option opened unchanged at 96¾c, fell off to 96⅝c, advanced to 96¾c, dropped off to 96½c, then to 96⅜c, advanced to 96½c again, then dropped to 96¼-⅜c and closed at 96½c bid.

Durum wheat was 1c off at 88½c for the September option. The strength in cash wheat was sustained, Duluth cash holding at 3c over September, while in Minneapolis it was from ¾@⅞c over September.

The linseed market was quiet, July being a little stronger. July linseed opened unchanged at $2.05 bid, sold at $2.07, fell off to $2.06 and closed at $2.06 bid. September linseed closed unchanged at $2.05 bid and October closed 1c off at $1.97 bid.

Oats were 1c off at 42½c, rye unchanged at 73@75c, barley unchanged, and corn 1c off at 63¾c.

John Inglis writes Logan & Bryan from Aberdeen, S. D.: "The wheat from Minneapolis to Glencoe, fifty miles, Minneapolis than last year, is a fair while smaller than last year, is a fair crop of good quality, much of it cut. From Glencoe to Granite Falls it runs more uneven. Through this section there is a large acreage of velvet chaff that will make a fair crop, but far short of a year ago. This variety has stood adverse weather conditions better than the other. Some blue stem barley has rusted, the last seriously so. Taking the run from Minneapolis to Granite Falls it shows up better than any other part of the state. West from Granite Falls to Ortonville it runs down considerably. Oats also are below the average. They stand up like a good crop but they have all ripened white in the top. The quality is poor. Corn could not look better. Tassel clean and milk cut, also fertilization is completed and it stands strong and vigorous.

Coming into South Dakota there is no improvement. A few fields bordering Minnesota have some wheat but from Millbank to Aberdeen 90 per cent of the fields are absolutely worthless. The corn still retains color but is not half the height it is in Minnesota. Very few fields are tasseled. The flax retains its color but both flax and corn will need rain to make a crop. Oats will need rain to make a crop. Oats where they can be cut are mowed for hay."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Coarse Grain Influence Weakens Wheat After Firm Opening.

Chicago, July 17.—Although wheat, in sympathy with foreign markets, had a rather firm start today, a period of weakness followed due to the influence of coarse grain. The initial strength was based partly on small world shipments and a big decrease in the total on ocean passage. Rain and cool weather formed the main reason for the backset in other cereals. Wheat opened ¼@¼c off to ½c up, September at the outset was 88½c, a gain of ⅛@¼c, however, the market fell to 87⅝c.

Export talk and the mention of flour sales led to a rally. There were also frost dispatches from Manitoba. Furthermore, Minnesota and North Dakota reported the crop going backwards. The close, however, was easy with September at 88c, a net gain of a shade.

Moisture over the entire belt from Indiana to the Far West pulled down corn. Forage was also reported as having received much benefit in the cotton states. September opened ¼@⅜c lower at 66⅛-⅜c, and declined to 65⅞@65½c.

Prices recovered temporarily with wheat but afterwards drooped worse than before. The close was weak with September 1¾ net lower at 64¾c.

In the oats crowd, buyers were few and deliberate. Accordingly the market sagged with corn. September started ⅝@¾c down at 45½@46c, and went as low as 44¾c.

An upward tendency at the yards helped sustain provisions. First sales were 5c off to 5c up, with January product $15.66 for pork, $8.35@8.37½ for lard, and $8.02½ for ribs.

Wheat Is Stronger on Bullish Reports From Fields.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 17.—A strong undertone ruled as a result of further bullish crop reports. Damage from black rust and grasshoppers increased. The government predicted low temperatures for the week, and trade was apprehensive of a frost. July closed ¼c higher than Saturday, September ⅛@¼c higher and December ¼c higher. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 190,000 bu for two days. Minneapolis today received 277 cars of wheat against 203 a year ago; Duluth, 13 against 63, and Winnipeg, 395 against 124. DECLINES IN STOCKS

Prices Fall Off Late in Day and Early Gains Lost.

New York, July 17.—Most of the active stocks opened with fractional gains today on a small volume of trading. The Harriman stocks, Atchison, Erie first preferred, and Canadian Pacific were the strongest. Some heaviness was shown by the Hill issues, Amalgamated Copper and Lehigh Valley, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis lost ¾.

The market stiffened after the opening, and the Hill stocks recovered from their early heaviness. Advances were not large, however, and the trading fell off before the end of the first hour. Canadian Pacific showed pronounced strength, gaining 1½. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie advanced a point and Underwood Typewriter, 4 points. American Locomotive lost 1.

Quotations held steady at a slightly higher range throughout the morning session. The undertone was firm and there seemed to be no pressure to sell. Southern Railway was the most active issue of the list during the fore part of the day, and the stock rose to 33 within a fraction of its high point of the year. The inertia of the prominent stocks led to a movement among the specialties, which fluctuated more widely. Texas Oil rose a point in response to the news that the active head of the company probably would recover from his serious illness. National Enameling & Stamping advanced 1¾ and Bank of Commerce 4 points. American Tobacco preferred and Long Island railroad lost 1. Bonds steady.

The market closed heavy. Prices fell off further late in the day and the slight gains established earlier were eliminated. Before the close the lowest range of the session was reached, the leading stocks showing fractional net losses. National Biscuit advanced 2 points. Erie second preferred and Illinois Central lost 1.

QUIET DAY IN COPPER MARKET

The copper market was quiet today. There was little fluctuation during the day and the close was just a little off from the opening in most cases, showing a weakness due to inactivity. Amalgamated was most active stock on the copper list and its activity was purely professional and was narrow.

Amalgamated opened at $63.75, fell off to $63.37½, advanced to $63.87½ and fell off at the close to $63.37½. North Butte opened at 32.50 and closed at 32.50 bid and $32.50 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $57.75 and closed at $57.50 bid and $58 asked. Butte Coalition opened at $18, held at that figure, and closed at $18 bid and $18.25 asked. Giroux opened at $6.37½ and closed at $6.25 bid and $6.37 asked. Greene-Cananea opened at $6.87½, advanced to $7, and closed at $6.87½ bid and $7.06 asked.

Calumet & Montana nearly monopolized the trading on the Duluth stock exchange, selling up from 40@44c, Butte Alex-Scott held at $6.62½ asked, Red Warrior at $1.50 asked, Denn-Arizona at $5 bid and $5.63½ asked, and Butte Ballaklava at $4.50 bid and $4.75 asked.

ARRESTED AS A FUGITIVE

Sherman Baird, 46 years of age, and the son of well-to-do parents in Kansas City, was arrested here this noon by Detective Frank Schulte as a fugitive from justice. Baird has been in Duluth about a year working for the street car company under the name of W. Davis. He is wanted in Kansas City by the postoffice authorities for the theft of $1,000 which it is claimed he stole. He was employed as a railway mail clerk there two years ago, and the disappearance of Baird and a $1,000 package of notes simultaneously fastened suspicion upon him.

The arrest was made after investigations by U. S. Brower of the federal secret service. Baird's parents in Kansas City are said to be quite prominent, his father having at one time been president of a bank there

FRINGE OF ORIENTAL RUGS.

To tell an Oriental rug from a machine rug look at the back and at the fringe, says a writer in Country Life in America.

The pattern of Oriental rugs shows distinctly through on the back, for the same knots whose cut ends stand up to form the pile on the face of the rug show on the back as tiny loops around the wary threads, almost concealing both warp and weft.

Of course Oriental rugs can be and have been woven with double pile, on back as well as on face, like the domestic Smyrnas, but these are as rare as May flowers in November. The back of most Oriental rugs is flat and hard, and the pattern that on the face is softened by the myriad ways in which the pile reflects the light is stiff as that of a domestic Brussels rug on the back.

By way of comparison, turn over a Wilton or a Brussels rug. The back is barren. The wool is too precious to be wasted there. The construction is such that the woolen pile loops gingerly into the upper part of the web only, leaving cheaper yarns to meet the floor. Exceptions to this rule among domestics are rag carpets and Smyrnas, whose warp is thin and tenuous and does not count in the design.

Just as there are domestic rugs without pile so there are Orientals. The two types are Kelims and Cashmeres (also called Soumaks.) Kelims are tapestries in weave, like the more intricate Gobelin and Aubusson tapestries or the still coarser Navajo blankets and Mexican serapes. Face and back are exactly alike, both flat and without pile, except for the loose threads (sometimes clipped smooth) that on the back show where the weft has wandered from block to block of the same color.

Where colors meet parallel with the warp, Kelims, like most other tapestries, show open slits left by the tapestry weave and often sewed up afterward. Kelims are much thinner than other rugs and are often used as portieres. Where they are to be used on the floor they should be lined. They are comparatively inexpensive.

A heavier rug without pile is the Cashmere. The weave is curious. It consists in the wrapping or twisting of the weft over pairs of warp threads in such a way as to bind them indissolubly together. The loose threads that mark the passage of the weft from block to block of color can be clearly seen on the back of the rug. Cashmeres are exceedingly durable but not as interesting in texture as pile rugs. The colors are apt to be sharp, there being no pile to dull them.

Oriental rugs as a rule wear their own hair or fringe—in other words are self fringed, with a fringe made of the extended warp. In all Oriental rugs that have a woolen warp the fringe is an important and exceedingly interesting feature. The fringe of the Cashmere is never heavy.

Especially interesting is the fringe of Belouches and Bokharas. It is usually accompanied by a wide band of flat web commonly called selvage. This band is often ornamented with bright colored, tiny figures in broche or tapestry weave or embroidery. Such a band has decided usefulness. It guards the pile at the lines of greatest tenderness, for the web that closes naturally at the sides is open at the ends when special means are not taken to close it.

In rugs with a woolen warp the ends are more beautiful and the whole structure is more flexible and more sympathetic to the touch. But the greater elasticity of woolen warps produces rugs that pull out of shape more easily and that are seldom absolutely straight, even when first woven. This is a pardonable, almost a desirable fault in small rugs, but it ruins large ones. This is undoubtedly the reason why the warps of large rugs are almost without exception of the stiffer material.

Most domestic rugs have either no fringe or sewed on ones. Rag carpets are self fringed, but the fringes are decidedly uninteresting. So the fringes are one of the most important helps in quickly distinguishing rugs of Oriental hand weave from rugs woven by machine in Oriental patterns.

TOO OPEN.

Los Angeles Times: H. C. Thayer, "Pop" Thayer of Pennsylvania football fame, was talking at the Rittenhouse club in Philadelphia, about the new football rules.

"They proved less fitted to tactics and generalship than the old rules," he said. "They made the play so open that any attempt at strategy was like—well, like the Swiss waiter.

"Once, on a walking tour in the Bernese Oberland, I reproached the waiter at a little inn for bringing me the wrong wine.

"'Here you've brought me Chauteau Mouton Rothchild,' I said, 'when I ordered Pontet Canet.'

"The waiter retired, and through the glass partition I saw him take his napkin and quietly wipe the still wet label off the bottle. Then he called:

"'Hans, another label, Pontet Canet, quick!'"

A ROYAL SPEEDER.

Christian Herald: The late king of Siam, who was an enthusiastic automobilist, owned over thirty cars. In comparison with its size Bangkok has four times as many automobiles as New York, the most luxurious in the city being that owned by Queen Sowari Poongsi, the chief lady, whose car is fitted up as a boudoir.

Being alarmed at the speed at which the king traveled, and afraid for his safety, the ministers petitioned his majesty to give up automobiling.

"At the service of your majesty," the document read, "there are bearers, and when time presses, carriages. We therefore beseech you to give up the use of the automobile, or at least go at a more moderate pace."

To this the king answered in a marginal note: "The danger lies not in the automobiles but in the hearts of men."

You Have Only a Week or Two:—

During which you will be able to buy a Crosley Park lot on the present terms.

We will always be able to sell you a lot in Crosley, because there are eighteen hundred lots in the park and we are the exclusive agents; but we won't be able to sell you one of our own lots on our own special terms after about a week.

We have only a VERY FEW lots of our original holdings—after they have gone we will be selling other people's lots for them; and NO private individual can afford to give you the easy, EASY terms of payment—stretching over FIVE years in some cases—that WE can and do. NOW you can buy a Crosley Park lot with your loose change—a lot that will be worth thousands when the Park settles up (and THAT won't take long at the PRESENT rate.) Wait even a week, and you may have to pay down fifty or a hundred dollars, besides paying a much higher price. There is no such savings bank anywhere as a Crosley Park lot—you can't think of a good reason why YOU should not have one or more! Let your loose change lay the foundation of a fortune for you! SEE the property for yourself—take any Lakeside car to Fifty-fourth avenue east and walk north to our office on Wyoming street.

W. M. PRINDLE & CO., Lonsdale Building, Both Phones
"Ride out to Crosley in our auto—any time you say."

Present Prices and Terms: From $50 to $500; from $1 to $2 down, and $1 to $2 a week until paid. No taxes 'til 1912. No Interest. No payments while sick or injured. Torrens Title.

In order to raise money for the owner we are authorized to sell at a very low price.

Why not invest now at these bargain prices and sell in a year or two one or two lots for the prices you now pay for the entire tract, while in the meantime cut your living expenses by one-half. Apply quickly.

BURGESS' STORY THE CENTER OF INTEREST IN LORIMER AFFAIR

Senate Committee Trying to Get at Bottom of Matter.

B. A. Johnson, Who Contradicted Duluth Man, Is Examined.

Baker's Memory Fails on Some Questions Asked Him.

Washington, July 19.—Repeated efforts were made today by the senate Lorimer committee to ascertain the truth about the much-disputed conversation on the "Winnipeg Flyer" running out of Duluth, Minn., last March, when C. F. Wiehe, secretary of the Edward Hines Lumber company, is said to have remarked that he subscribed $10,000 to a Lorimer election fund.

B. A. Johnson, until recently general staff representative of the American Lumbermen, was cross-examined as to his testimony yesterday in which he denied that Wiehe made such a statement. In so doing he disagreed with the testimony of William Burgess of Duluth.

Baker Cross-Examined.

Isaac Baker, who earlier in the day repeated almost verbatim Hines' story of the lumberman's conversations regarding the election of Lorimer, recalled at the afternoon session yesterday that Hines, Carney, Hall and himself discussed the tariff the day Hines

HAITIEN REBELS OCCUPY TOWN

Are Marching on Another Eighteen Miles From Capital.

Port au Prince, Haiti, July 19.—The revolutionists have occupied St. Marc and are marching on Archahaie, a port eighteen miles northwest of this city.

The government has assembled two divisions of troops at Archahaie to oppose the enemy.

The cruiser Antoine Simon has been repaired and is proceeding to the threatened port.

BOTTOM OF MAINE IS FOUND RAISED

Only Four Feet of Water Remains in Cofferdam.

Havana, July 19.—The process of removing the water surrounding the wreck of the Maine was practically completed last evening, when the water level in the cofferdam had been lowered eighteen feet, leaving the wreck surrounded by islets of mud, small pools and sinkholes of green slimy water. The soundings show nowhere a depth in excess of four feet.

The structure of the bow as far aft as frame 18 is now exposed, permitting an analysis of the plates, beams, ribs, etc., and it has been shown conclusively that they originally belonged to the structure of the double bottom, which is now elevated to a height of about forty feet above the normal position, apparently giving confirmatory evidence of a tremendous exterior explosion. To this view, however, the engineers decline to commit themselves, merely admitting the identification of parts of the bottom of the ship.

FRENCH HOT AGAINST SPAIN

Press Suggests Recall of Ambassador to Madrid.

Paris, July 19.—The press continues exercised over the arrest of M. Boisset, the French consular agent at Alcazar, Morocco, by a Spanish patrol, and demands that Spain make immediate reparation and public apology.

The Echo de Paris declares that unless Spain apologizes the French ambassador at Madrid will be recalled. Some of the newspapers, like the Temps, think that the Spanish provocative attitude is due to the feeling that she is being ignored in the pending Franco-German negotiations.

The Matin declares that the Franco-German "conversations" are less favorable on account of the "impossible" demands of Germany, which, in return for the abandonment of Morocco, wishes France to cede to her the coast of French Congo including the town of Libreville on the north shore of the Gabun estuary.

The paper added that Jules Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin, unequivocally refused to entertain the suggestion.

Sugar Trust Investigators Seek More Secrets of the Trade.

Sub-Committee to Question Arbuckle at His Home.

New York, July 19.—More secrets of the American Sugar Refining company, known as the Sugar trust, were expected to develop today when Washington B. Thomas, chairman of the board of directors, resumed the stand at the second day's session of the special congressional committee's investigation.

Several members of the committee were anxious to go further into the details of the conference between H. O. Havemeyer and John Arbuckle which terminated the great sugar war. Mr. Thomas testified yesterday that he was at the Havemeyer home at the time of the conference but did not hear what was said. A subcommittee will go to Mohonk Lake to take Arbuckle's testimony, as he is too ill to appear here.

CATCH JAPANESE STUDYING GUNS

Germans Arrest Major Found on Night Expedition.

Wurzburg, Bavaria, July 19.—A local paper reports the arrest of a Japanese major who was caught examining the recoil mechanism of the new Bavarian field gun. The Japanese officer had been attached to the Bavarian troops by courtesy and is alleged to have been surprised at night while making observations by the use of a dark lantern at the maneuver field at Hammerburg.

HOUSE LEADERS TALK OF SENATE

Say They Do Not Expect La Follette Bill Will Be Accepted.

Washington, July 19.—Democratic leaders in the house are closely watching developments in the senate as the time approaches for action on legislation initiated in the lower branch. Their expressed position is that Senator La Follette's wool bill is not likely to be tacked to the farmers' free list bill as a rider, and that the senate Democrats will keep the bills separated.

The house leaders say they feel that after the La Follette bill has been voted down in the senate the Republican insurgent senators may be induced to vote with the Democrats on the Underwood woolen schedule bill. The Democratic leaders contend that the La Follette bill is not really a revenue-raising measure in the same sense as the Underwood bill.

House Democrats have taken the view that they would rather have the Underwood bill defeated than to accept the La Follette bill. In that event the Democrats claim they would be in a good position to go before the country on the defeated bill.

IN PRAISE OF RECIPROCITY

Senator Brown of Nebraska Says Its Opponents Puzzle Him.

Finds Reason to Support It in Fact of Hines' Opposition.

Washington, July 19.—Criticism of his insurgent Republican colleagues in the senate for opposing Canadian reciprocity, and praise of the Democratic party for "having the moral courage and patriotism to support and sustain a Republican president," characterized a speech today of Senator Brown of Nebraska in favor of the reciprocity measure.

"I want to express my profound grief," Senator Brown declared, "because the bill does not have the support of some of my friends in this body who I know at heart are in favor of lower duties. I do not complain of them. I do not charge them with insincerity, because I know them to be sincere. But I simply cannot understand them.

Puzzled By Action.

"It is beyond my comprehension to appreciate how in one session of congress I could vote for lower duties, in the next session favor a revision of the tariff a schedule at a time, and at a third session be against the proposition, which, while it is not a revision of a single schedule, is a re-

SOCIETY WOMAN IS MURDERED

Top of Head Shot Off While She Rides With Husband.

Richmond, Va., July 19.—While returning to the city in a motor car from Chesterfield county last night, Mrs. H. C. Beattis Jr., was shot and instantly killed by an unidentified white man, who escaped. Mrs. Beattie was 23 years old and was married a year ago. She was prominent in Richmond society.

The killing occurred five miles from Richmond. Officers with bloodhounds are searching for the slayer.

Mr. Beattie, driving the car, slowed down as he saw a man walk into the road. The stranger cried:

"You had better run over me."

"You have all the road," said Beattie, and started to pass.

The man raised a shotgun and fired. The load blew off the top of Mrs. Beattie's head.

Got Slayer's Weapon.

Beattie jumped from the car and grappled with the slayer, who gave him a smashing blow across the face with his gun, leaving an ugly scar. Beattie got possession of the weapon and the stranger disappeared.

Springing back into his car, Beattie found the body of his wife lying across the seat. He tossed the shotgun into the tonneau and started for Richmond, steering with one hand while he held the body with the other. He drove five miles to the home of a friend and gave the alarm.

NEVER WROTE IT, SAYS RYAN

Alleged Author of "Dick-to-Dick" Letter Goes to Washington.

Denies Close Acquaintance With Either Taft's Brother or Ballinger.

New York, July 19.—Richard S. Ryan, promoter of the Controller Bay railroad, while preparing to go to Washington today in answer to a subpoena issued by the house committee investigating the Alaska controversy, made a flat denial that he had written the "Dick-to-Dick" letter.

Mr. Ryan said he did not know President Taft's brother, nor did he know Former Secretary of the Interior Ballinger well enough to address him except by his formal title.

Mr. Ryan said that the firm he was identified with had no connection with the Guggenheim interests, either directly or indirectly, so for as he knew.

Wanted the Land.

"We wanted land in Alaska that we were willing to improve at our own expense," said Mr. Ryan, "and there was nothing to suggest a grab in our proposition.

"Well, when I came down to the

REAL ESTATE MEN BUSY AT POLITICS

May Amend Constitution So President Taylor Can Hold Over.

Denver, Colo., July 19.—Though the convention of the National Association of Real Estate exchanges is progressing in a strict business manner, the delegates by no means are neglecting convention politics. The principal topic is the meeting place of the next convention, Louisville, Ky., Atlanta, Ga., and Kansas City, Mo., are all contenders for the honor. Winnipeg, Canada, is already boosting for the convention of 1913, while Kansas City, though willing to accept next year's meeting, holds that it would, in reality, prefer the convention for a year later.

Whether President Alexander S. Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio, will be a candidate for re-election is problematical. There has been some intimation that an effort will be made to have the constitution amended so that president can serve two terms in succession, and President Taylor urged to make the race to succeed himself.

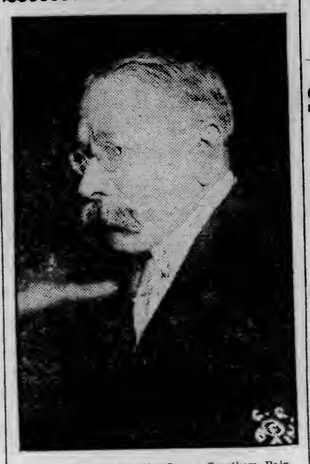

At this morning's session addresses were delivered by Col. J. S. Ray, Louisville, Ky.; A. H. Frederick, St. Louis; Philip Moessinger, Cincinnati; John E. Leet, Denver, and Col. Nathan William McChesney, Chicago.

LONDON DENIES BRYCE WILL RETIRE.

London, July 19.—The foreign office today denied a report cabled from the United States that James Bryce contemplates retiring from his post as British ambassador at Washington, following the conclusion of the Anglo-American arbitration treaty.

COULD BE BARRED FROM INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Says That for Years Prices of Staple Commodities Have Been Fixed By the Big Producers.

Refuses to Discuss Alaskan Dispute or Wiley Case, Saying He Wants to Go Fishing.

EXTRACTS FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S ADDRESS

"Within such time as the ascertainment of facts and the preparation of evidence necessary to the initiation and conduct of appropriate proceedings by the government may require, such of the known monopolistic combinations in restraint of interstate trade and commerce as shall not voluntarily dissolve, will be brought before the courts for judgment, and the precedents furnished by the Standard Oil, Tobacco and Powder cases afford some assurance of the results which may be anticipated."

"Probably no one thing has done more to facilitate restraint of trade and the growth of monopoly than the departure from the early rule of law that one corporation cannot own stock in another."

"If congress should enact that no corporation engaged in interstate commerce should hereafter acquire any stock of any other corporation so engaged, and that unless all such corporations should dispose of all stocks held by them in other corporations engaged in interstate commerce, within some specified period, they should be prohibited from carrying on interstate commerce until they did so dispose of such stocks, the cure would indeed be laid at the root of the trust evil."

"But such drastic legislation, while logical and effective, is hardly to be expected."

"The federal department of justice is not organized nor equipped to maintain constant supervision or control over business organizations. It deals only with cases of violation of the law. The activities of an administrative board or commission should be directed to preventing such violations, and in aiding business men to maintian a continued status of harmony with the requirements of the law."

"Even within these rules (those laid down in the Standard Oil case) there is an area of activity where co-operation and association should only have play under government supervision and control."

"Unless prices be dealt with under such a law, it would fail to reach the essential evil."

"It is probably safe to say that in almost every one of the great staple industries, prices have for years been fixed by agreement between the principal producers."

Attorney General George W. Wickersham, who spoke this afternoon at a public meeting held under the auspices of the Minnesota State Bar association at the assembly room of the Spalding hotel on "What Further Regulation of Interstate Commerce is Necessary or Desirable," arrived in the city this morning over the Omaha road and was immediately taken to the home of Thomas S. Wood on East Superior street for breakfast.

Among those who were at the Wood home to welcome Mr. Wickersham were: Alfred Enright of Minneapolis, United States Judge Willard of Minneapolis, Charles Andrews, Henry F. Greene, Judge William A. Cant, Judge H. A. Dancer, A. L. Ordean and J. L. Washburn.

The address of Mr. Wickersham is the feature of the annual meeting of the State Bar association in Duluth. The Spalding dining room was crowded for the meeting when Mr. Wickersham began speaking. The meeting was held at 2:30, so that the lawyers might first attend the funeral of Fred Reynolds.

"No, I haven't anything to say in regard to either the Alaskan or Dr. Wiley matter," stated Mr. Wickersham this morning when interviewed.

"I have not been in Washington for some days. I have been trying to get things of that sort out of my mind for the time being. I came to Duluth from my summer home on Long Island, where I had been spending a few days with my family. The last two or three

DOWDELL MAY HEAD THE EDITORS

South Dakota Man Favored for President of Association.

Detroit, Mich., July 19.—Only one session was on today's program of the National Editorial association, now in annual convention in this city. After attending to business this forenoon the delegates planned to devote the remainder of the day to a boat ride down the river to Lake Erie, with a stop on the way to watch the work of deepening the new Livingston channel through Lime Kiln crossing.

Richmond, Va., is prominently mentioned as next year's meeting place, and the talk among the editors seems to indicate that Robert E. Dowdell of Artesian, S. D., now first vice president of the association, will be elected president.

In a welcoming speech, that aroused great enthusiasm among the delegates, Governor Chase S. Osborn declared that "the new trade relations" that were about to be established with Canada were the prelude to a union of nations from the North Pole to the Isthmus of Panama.

Would License Editors.

In his annual address to the convention, President Baumgartner discussed the advisability of a national law licensing editors. Preliminary to the license, President Baumgartner declared he would have each editor pass an examination demonstrating his possession of high character and fair ability.

EXTEND WAR ON CHOLERA

Health Authorities All Over United States May Be Enlisted.

Five "Carriers" Found Among Immigrants at New York.

New York, July 19.—The health officers not only of New York, but of the whole country may be asked to help repel the threatened invasion of Asiatic cholera. The discovery of five "cholera carriers" among the 600 immigrants undergoing bacteriological examination at Quarantine has emphasized what Health Officer Doty has said about the difficulty of confining the disease to the quarantine hospitals of ports of entry.

Dr. Doty is conferring with Surgeon General Wyman, head of the United States marine hospital service, to plan how the country may be protected against "carriers" who harbor the germs while themselves free from their ill effects.

System of Observation.

A system of general observation is contemplated, so that even after the "carrier" is released from quarantine, the health authorities of the place where he settles may watch for possible transmission of the disease.

The case of these "cholera carriers" presents a puzzle. As yet the health authorities have not decided how soon it will be safe to permit them to be at large. Only the careful system of bacteriological examination put into effect here when cholera appeared could, it is said, have detected the presence of cholera germs in these apparently healthy persons. The five "carriers" were at once isolated.

The following bulletin relating to the cholera situation was given out at Quarantine at 9 a. m.:

"At Hoffman Island early this morning, Domenico Rancitelli, aged 68 years, one of the steerage passengers of the steamer Moltke, was taken sick with symptoms suspicious of cholera. At the Swinburne island hospital no further deaths have occurred. On board the Anchor line steamer Perugia conditions are satisfactory."

KILLS WIFE WITH NEW REVOLVER

Kittanning, Pa., July 19.—Thinking his wife was a burglar, George Golden, a leading merchant of Wickboro, adjoining Kittanning, shot and killed her during the night. The half crazed husband is under the care of a physician.

Golden had purchased a revolver because of the many burglaries committed in the vicinity of his home recently, and when he was aroused from sleep by his wife pulling down a window in their room, he reached under his pillow and, securing the weapon, fired. He discovered his error when, upon rising to look at the supposed thief, he stumbled over her body.

WHITEMAN IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Former Duluth Man Ends Term in Eastern Prison.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alonzo J. Whiteman, former state senator from Duluth, and later one of the most notorious swindlers in the country, returned to his home at Danville, N. Y., yesterday, after having completed a term in the state prison at Auburn for check forging here. Arrested in Dunkirk, N. Y., for this crime, he made a sensational escape from a fast-running express train only to be recaptured later in St. Louis, and brought here for trial.

PLAGUE OUTBREAK RAVAGING INDIA

Deaths in Six Months Ending June 30 Total 650,690.

London, July 19.—According to figures received in this city, the deaths from the plague in India have reached the enormous total of 650,690 for the half year ended on June 30.

The disease has taken such a hold on that country that its ravages are little heard of except through the occasional official statistics. The British India office in recent reports stated that the epidemic was particularly virulent this year, and that the most persistent efforts to stamp it out failed to effect a permanent improvement in the situation.

READY FOR CURTAIN TO GO UP ON BIG WATER CARNIVAL

Duluth Wearing Gayest Attire for Her First Mid-summer Fete.

Visitors Already Flocking to City—First of Oarsmen Arrive.

Clothed in its gayest attire and bearing the smile of the welcoming host, Duluth today stands ready for the morrow, which will mark the opening of the first annual carnival and water fete, an event that is bringing to the city visitors from all over the Northwest and many of the cities of the East.

Today the streets of the city are filled with visitors. They are inspecting with interest every point in and about the city, and wondering in many instances why it is that they had never before discovered the Utopia of ideal July weather conditions.

Starting with the stores out on West Superior street, beyond Garfield avenue, and extending through the city to the fashionable residence district of the East end, and again extending on the south to the aerial bridge, Duluth today presents one great blaze of color.

The decorators are at work today. By this evening the city should rest in anticipation of the day of its first big summer fete, content to feel that the work has been done and that Duluth in its gayest colors and wearing her most radiant smile, bids welcome to the many strangers who are the guests of the city for the three joyous days.

Duluth and its citizens have awakened to the full fact of the carnival and the genuine carnival spirit seems to be widespread.

Hotels Crowded.

How is there any chance to forget that the big show is close at hand? Walk into any of the hotels and you will find the lobbies filled with visitors, and nearly every little house has a carnival visitor all its own—or maybe two or three.

Three gala days are ahead, and like a boy who throws his tattered hat in the air and yells from the pure joy of anticipating the summer vacation and release from the irksome duties of the school room, the citizens of Duluth, men, women and children are eagerly looking forward to the first big carnival that the city has staged.

Visitors are arriving in crowds this morning. At the downtown information bureau that has been established by the Commercial club, eager inquiries are made regarding the carnival and the many points of interest around the city.

Tourists are going over the harbors in private launches, in ferries and in the excursion steamers. The aerial bridge today is one of the points of interest. Tallyho parties are hourly taking trips around the famous boulevard drive, and on every hand there is evidence of the unusual interest that is being taken in the city.

Starting with the parade of tomorrow morning, which will be along Superior street, the interest will switch from there to the boat house, where the first of the series of interesting water events and exciting boat races will start.

Seats Nearly All Sold.

The grand stands along the finish line have been practically sold out. Seats are being taken on the boats and are also being reserved at the Commercial club for the baseball park and the scows and freighters that the carnival committee has arranged for.

Every preparation has been made for the caring of those who wish to view the races, and according to the announcement of several members of the carnival committee, no trouble is anticipated in caring for the immense throng of spectators that it is anticipated will view the races on the three afternoons and the water pageant on the two evenings.

The two fours that will present Kenora in the races of Friday and Saturday afternoons, arrived this morning, the first of the big contingent. The crews from Winnipeg and St. Paul will come in tomorrow morning on special sleepers, and with the arrival of hundreds of other visitors the carnival will be on in all its glory.

All that remains is for the weather man to do his duty, and he has promised that.

Have you secured a Permit to smoke? If not, why not?

HANCOCK HAVING BIG CELEBRATION

Fraternal Day of Homecoming Doings Brings Out Great Parade.

Hancock, Mich., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hancock's homecoming celebration was made memorable today by the big fraternal parade, which was one of the big features of the home-coming celebration.

Governor Osborn, John D. Ryan of Butte, Mont., honorary president of the home-coming celebration, and many prominent people of the Upper Peninsula joined in today's celebration. The fraternal societies, the militia and the naval reserves, in the pageant, marched east along Hancock street, north on Reservation street and west of Quincy street to the celebration field, where Governor Osborn and others spoke. A. S. Ley was the chief of the parade and it eclipsed anything before attempted in that line in the Copper country. The reviewing stand was in Montezuma park, and as the various organizations passed the stand occupied by the governor and other distinguished persons, they saluted.

SAY LAW IS TOO HARSH

Fishermen Claim That New Statute Will Drive Them Out of Business.

State That They Must Fish Within Half Mile of the Shore.

A large number of fishermen living on the North Shore in Lake and Cook counties have sent a petition to State Senator Harry W. Cheadle asking his assistance in securing an abatement of the law which prohibits them fishing within half a mile of the shore.

The fishermen were notified last week by Game Warden Thomas J. Storey that the law, which was passed four years ago, would be enforced. This is said to be the first time that any such order has been given under the new statute. In the past it has been disregarded.

The fishermen calim that it will put them out of business or drive them into either the states of Wisconsin or Michigan, which have less stringent regulations. They state that they have thousands of dollars invested in their outfits, and that if they cannot fish within half a mile of the shore line they will be a total loss, unless they take them to other fishing grounds, in which case they would have to leave the homes which they have built.

Senator Cheadle stated this morning that he believed the states on the lake should enact uniform legislation. He said that the situation should be thoroughly investigated, and regulations passed which will at the same time give the fish ample protection and not be so stringent that they will put the fishermen out of the business.

He is taking the matter up with the state game and fish commission. He thinks that an agreement could be entered into whereby the law would not be enforced to the letter. This would give the fishermen temporary relief. Later the matter could be taken up by the legislature.

MOST ELEVATORS ARE NOW SAFE

Attention Being Paid to Safety Regulations of City Ordinance.

Deputy Building Inspector Adolph Anderson has completed his semi-annual inspection of the freight and passenger elevators of the city. Although a large number of notices of changes are being sent out, most of them call for alterations of a minor character.

Within the last two years there has been a great improvement in the city's elevators, of which there are about 240. When the first inspections were made the majority of them were found to be very dangerous. They were not properly equipped with brakes, gates or other necessary devices. Considerable difficulty was encountered in getting an observance of the ordinance, but this has been practically eliminated.

One factor which has added considerably has been that in case of accident the insurance policies state that no collections can be made if the elevators are not in conformity with the city ordinances.

ARE AFRAID OF MEXICANS

American Ranchers in Lower California Threatened By Natives.

Washington, July 19.—American ranchers in Lower California are being threatened by the so-called Mexican Liberals there. The United States today requested the government of Mexico to afford them adequate protection.

The state department's attention was drawn to the situation in a telegram from the American consul at Ensada, who reported that Americans had been molested and had appealed to him for assistance. Ambassador Wilson at City of Mexico, was immediately instructed to take up the matter with President De La Barra.

The renewal of a delicate situation in Lower California has increased the anxiety of the administration over recent developments in Mexico. Conditions in that part of the country were threatening several months ago, but with the termination of the Madero revolution Mexico was given permission to send troops across American territory to quell the independent movement there.

The armed and so-called Socialistic rebellion died out before the soldiers reached the scene. Since then it had been supposed that peace and contentment had settled upon that quarter of Mexico, and that the lives and property of American citizens were secure.

COTTON MEN TELL WANTS.

Oppose Revision to the Tariff at This Time.

Charlotte, N. C., July 19.—The tariff committee of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, representing a dozen Southern states, has framed the position of the Southern Textile manufacturers on the proposed revision of the cotton goods tariff. They oppose any revision of the cotton goods tariff at this time, and their reasons are set forth in a letter to Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives.

The manufacturers demand free and open discussion and consideration in tariff making, and ask that data upon which revision is based be made public matters of record.

The committee requests a definite statement as to what the proposed tariff revision would accomplish.

STRIKE PARALYZES BUSINESS AT CARDIFF.

Cardiff, Wales, July 19.—At a mass meeting of all classes of workers today it was resolved to seal up this port until the shipowners recognize the Seamen's union. In pursuance of this decision the coal trimmers and other workers quit and the seamen are refusing to sign even at advanced rates The business of the port is paralyzed.

TAFT CANCELS HOUGHTON DATE

Washington, July 19.—After talking over the situation in congress with Senators Smith and Townsend of Michigan, President Taft today canceled his engagement to speak at Houghton, Mich., Aug. 8. The president had intended to go by steamer from Buffalo to Houghton through the Great Lakes and return the same way. The Michigan senators were willing to name a later date, when congress would have adjourned, but uncertainty as to his ability to get away even then led to the announcement that a trip to Michigan could not be made by the president for some time.

CITY HEEDLESS OF THE ENEMY

New York Goes About Its Business Unmindful of Mimic War.

New York, July 19. — The city awoke and went about its business today unterrified by the knowledge that a hostile fleet was trying to steal or fight its way past a squadron of naval militia and a flotilla of torpedo boats defending the approach through Long Island sound. Until the naval officers in charge of the maneuvers make their report to the navy department, the movements of the opposing fleets will be largely a matter of conjecture. Wireless messages are forbidden, and the engagement probably will occur beyond the range of observers on land.

It is believed, however, that the first encounter occurred last night. If any of the "enemy" were sighted within range, they were theoretically blown to pieces, for under the rules of the naval war game a warship has no chance against the stationary guns of a shore battery.

Mimic War Begun.

Block Island, R. I., July 19.—Mimic war broke out around this little island a few hours after dawn today, when nine battleships of the attacking Blue fleet steamed in from the southwest and were met by five torpedo boat destroyers and a half dozen submarines.

Whether the battleships were theoretically sunk or the defending craft destroyed will not be known for some months.

ACCUSE WOMAN OF MURDERING CHILD

Cass Lake Laundress Alleged to Have Caused Death of Infant.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following a coroner's inquest over the body of an infant found last night in the rear of the Tedford hotel, Florentine Wichowski, aged 23, a comely young woman, has been arrested charged with homicide in the second degree. It is alleged that she gave birth to the child Friday last, placed the body in a shoe box and threw it out of the window. She claims the child was still born and she kept it in a shoe box until Monday evening when she threw it out of the window. Doctors Duman, Rodwell and Christianson, who conducted a post mortem, declared the child lived about twenty minutes after birth. The coroner's jury held the child came to its death through the guilty neglect of its mother. County Attorney Funck ordered the woman arrested and she is held pending a hearing. She came to this country about a year ago.

RAID GAMBLERS IN MOUNT CLEMENS

Michigan Officers Get Eight Dray Loads of Paraphernalia.

Detroit, Mich., July 19.—Under orders from Governor Osborn, Assistant Attorney General T. A. Lawyler, with the Macomb county sheriff and his deputies, last night raided six alleged gambling houses in Mount Clemens, Michigan's widely known bath city, and arrested the operators of the resorts. The officers confiscated every piece of gambling paraphernalia and it required eight drays to carry the goods away.

Citizens of Mount Clemens and Macomb county have complained to the governor that local officers were not enforcing the law and were letting gambling houses run unmolested.

HOPE TAFT WILL COME.

Houghton Proceeds With Preparations for Entertaining President.

Houghton, Mich., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—President F. W. McNair of the Michigan College of Mines, has left for Washington to arrange with Secretary Hilles the final details of President Taft's visit to Houghton. Previous to his departure, Mr. McNair stated that no change would be made in the present plans for the Michigan College of Mines reunion, which is scheduled to open three weeks from today, until it is known authoritatively that President Taft will be unable to attend, until Aug. 15, as intimated in the Associated Press.

A conference of the leading police officers of Houghton county, including the marshals of the different villages, deputy sheriffs and others, was called at the instance of Sheriff Byers to outline a plan for policing the town during the big reunion. Naval and military officers present proffered the serves of their commands to do whatever service the sheriff finds necessary. They probably will be used in keeping the route of the parade clear. Sheriff Byers expects to have a force of from 275 to 300 deputies on duty and these will be divided into squads of about twenty-five men each, which will be under the direction of the different chiefs of police, and will patrol the sections where the greatest congestion is anticipated. In addition, ten detectives from large cities will be hired to watch the incoming trains and to intercept light fingered gentry and suspicious characters, who will be locked up immediately. Provision for securing these detectives has been made by the board of supervisors.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK SOO TRAIN NEAR MINOT.

Minot, N. D., July 19.—The Minot police are searching for alleged train wreckers who made an attempt Sunday night to ditch the Soo flyer a few miles west of Minot. Several railroad ties and steel beams were placed on the track. The engine plowed through these, cutting them into splinters. Some of the irons crashed through the baggage car, but none of the cars left the track.

Representative Small Wants to Amend Sherman Law.

Washington, July 19.—A bill amending the Sherman anti-trust law to provide for the punishment of violators of the law by both fine and imprisonment instead of fine "or imprisonment," as at present, was introduced today by Representative Small of North Carolina. The bill makes conviction of corporations a presumption of the guilt of their executive officers.

LAND SALE AT COURTHOUSE

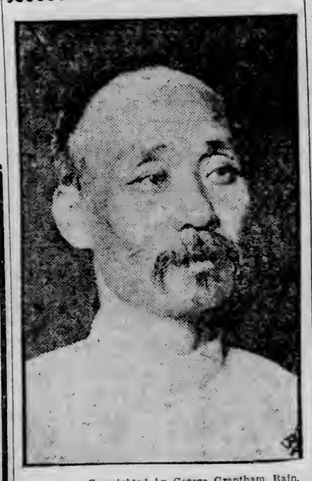

Deputy State Auditor Disposes of Eleven Forties in County.

Deputy state auditor C. S. Brown was in Duluth this morning and conducted the third monthly land sale of the year in the auditor's office. Theodore Nelson, manager of the land sale department, was also in the city and assisted at the sale. In all 440 acres of land were sold in forty acre tracts, two forties selling for $6 per acre and the balance for $5. The lands have been going at the appraised prices, there being no competition among the bidders. Next month's sale will be held here Aug. 16.

Last week Mr. Nelson held several sales in Northern Minnesota, selling 160 acres at Bemidji, 2,900 acres at Walker, and 365 acres at Grand Rapids. The price in all these sales ranged from $5 to $6 per acre. He will conduct a sale of land at Aitkin Friday.

Selling is the thing of greatest importance in storekeeping. Advertising makes selling easy.

SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Personal Property of St. Louis County Farmers Doubles in Year.

Figures on Assessment of Unorganized Towns Show Big Growth.

Supt. of Assessors McKay has just completed his figures on the assessment of personal property in the unorganized townships in the county, and the results are significant of the growth which Northern Minnesota's farming communities have had during the past year. The total valuation of personal property on Mr. McKay's rolls is over double that of last year. Mr. McKay said that in traveling through the country he noticed a large number of new farms, the new settlers having cleared from ten to fifteen acres during the course of the year. As showing the rapid growth of the northern part of the state, Mr. McKay cites an instance of a country store keeper forty miles north of Hibbing, whose total sales of farm machinery last year were less than $150, and who handled more than $900 in machinery, mostly plows and harrows, this year, to date.

The farmers throughout the country were very appreciative, Mr. McKay said, of the road work which the county commissioners having been carrying on under the direction of Road Engineer E. K. Coe.

SUPERIOR OLD TIMERS AT PICNIC

200 Pioneers Gather for Informal Reunion at Billings Park.

Old associations were renewed today at the annual reunion and outing of the Old Settlers' association of the Head of the Lakes. The picnic was an informal one and took place at Billings park, Superior.

The attendance was about 200, which is a fair-sized crowd for the affair. Members were present from Duluth, Superior and Two Harbors. The tedious formality of a program of lengthy speeches was done away with and the afternoon was spent in an informal way.

John Bertrand, president of the association made a few remarks. Dinner was served at a large table and during the meal a phonograph concert was given. The annual banquet and election of officers takes place in December.

GOVERNOR NOT COMING.

McGovern Cannot Accept Invitation to Attend Municipalities Meet.

Governor McGovern will not be able to attend the annual meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which will be held in Superior July 26, 27 and 28. Mayor Crumpton yesterday received word to this effect from Madison. The governor's executive duties will not permit him to accept the invitation.

From present indications there will be about seventy-five delegates to the convention. As far as can be learned there is only one avowed candidate for the 1912 meeting, this being Neenah.

McGREGOR WILL TALK ON COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

Ford H. McGregor of the University of Wisconsin, an instructor in political science, and who has for several years done considerable work for the legislative reference library, will address the Six o'Clock club of Superior at its meeting July 29. He will speak on "City Government by Commission." Mr. McGregor is one of the best posted men in the West on this subject.

Free Bathing Pools.

Three free swimming pools will be established by the city, one in Billings Park, one in Central Park and the other on Connor's Point, according to the action taken by the council last evening, when $1,000 was appropriated for this purpose.

The council also expended $200 for the improvement of a portion of the military road as a boulevard drive.

Another block will be purchased and added to Nemadji park, at a cost of about $800.

Cases Are Dismissed.

The cases against William Powers and Thomas Mason, charged with assault in municipal court, were dismissed yesterday by Acting Judge French. The evidence, it is claimed, is not strong enough to warrant holding the men to a higher court. They were accused of assaulting Frank Gordon on July 5.

LAWYERS HOTLY DEBATE THE RECALL OF JUDGES

James Manahan Upholds It and Rome G. Brown Opposes.

After Interesting Debate Subject Is Laid on the Table.

The members of the State Bar association in annual session in Duluth, refused to go on record in the matter of the recall of judges. The resolution calling for a vote on the subject was laid on the table after an eloquent appeal by Rome G. Brown of Minneapolis.

The matter occupied the attention of the State Bar association members during the entire morning. Speeches were made both for and against it, and with the point almost lost in the confusion which followed the general discussion, Rome G. Brown, a Minneapolis attorney, after an impromptu, but eloquent talk, moved to lay the resolution which called for a vote, on the table. The resolution was adopted and the opinion of the Minnesota State Bar association on the matter is unknown.

Speeches were made on the subject by James Manahan of St. Paul and Rome G. Brown of Minneapolis. The men were decidedly opposite in their views and in the open discussion which followed, the members seemed to be nearly divided, although the majority seemed to be against the measure. James Manahan was for the measure and he was upheld by John Jenswold Jr. of Duluth, who maintained that the people are competent to judge. Rome G. Brown of Minneapolis took the opposite view and in a masterly talk spoke against the recall.

That the subject was a live one was proven, for the members could not get to their feet quick enough. Everybody was ready to speak and everybody wanted to speak at once.

Wanted a Vote.

John A. Keyes, a local attorney, wanted the matter to come squarely before the members of the bar association for a vote. He stated that fifteen years ago the same subject was ridiculed and scorned and that now it was discussed freely. He said that he saw no reason why it should not come to a vote and argued for it in a fiery speech of about ten minutes' duration.

Motion after motion was made only to be lost because some one else had the floor and finally Rome G. Brown of Minneapolis straightened matters out by suggesting that the matter be laid on the table. His motion was carried and a motion to adjourn was enthusiastically received.

Mr. Brown spoke in part as follows:

"The practical question presented in this discussion is: 'Shall the voters of a judicial district be given the power arbitrarily and without cause at any time by a popular vote, to unseat a judge who has been elected or appointed to a position on the bench, and to fill his place by another who, at the time the voters may deem more aggreeable to them?'

"The evils of a law granting such a right have been so well recognized that for 2,000 years no such provision has been made or even advocated until the present day. The state of Arizona has the honor or notoriety of first establishing this principle. California is following her.

"Such a law would destroy the independence of the judiciary. The tendency until of late has always been away from such measures. Today the mongrel elements of unrest are advocating the recall even for the judiciary. There is no element so essential to the judiciary as its independence. Yet I have no doubt that the so-called progressives would now favor a recall for the federal judges who brought the 'Rule of Reason' into the Sherman act.

"The independence of a judge is in an inverse ratio to the nearness of the time when he must again stand for election. The federal judges are well known to be more independent than the state judges and especially than those judges who are chosen by election.

"Popular demands which would result in the recall of judges would in many instances be demands that set aside the constitutional guarantees. It practically places the power of adjudication in the majority of the voters, although the chief function of the judiciary is to protect the minority from the majority as represented in the legislatures.

"The recall amounts to the condemnation of the official without a trial. It cannot be otherwise; the voters cannot sit as a tribunal to hear charges.

"The recall would discourage lawyers of high attainments from going upon the bench. No man qualified for a judge will place himself in a position where he must either decide a case contrary to his conscience or suffer the disgrace of a recall. The judge who is recalled on account of a corrupt decision will be placed on a par with one recalled because his decision was not pleasing to a majority of the voters.

"It would not affect the so-called corporate control of judges. These charges of corporate influence are not laid against the federal judges but against the elective judges, and that only where their terms are shortest.

"The recall is contrary to the Federal Constitution. This guarantees to every state a republican form of government. The retention of the independence of the judiciary is such an essential element of a republican government that a measure which so completely destroys it as this one does would be a violation of this provision. A republican government is not an extreme democracy, but a government by representatives, removable only for cause and after hearing, who are empowered and able to sit and hear both sides of a question, both that of the majority and the minority, before deciding. This essential the recall as applied to the judiciary would utterly destroy.

"It may be said that the recall for administrative officers has been upheld. But there is this distinction between the executive and the judicial departments, that the officers of the first are bound by pledges made to the majority, represent the majority, and are their servants, while a judge, after election, is, and should be, the servant of the humblest of the minority as well as of the majority."

JAMES ROBERTSON
Of Minneapolis.

Mr. Manahan's address was as follows.

"The initiative, referendum and recall occasionally need explanation as to their meaning and scope, but to fair-minded men who understand them, no argument is necessary. Their correctness in principle is conceded even when the necessity for their application is questioned. Practical statesmen and economists, all who see clearly and think with integrity (in fact, many lawyers) agree that representative government in this country is lame in the vital matters of taxation and public service and inefficient for the protection and conservation of natural resources, including manhood in the mass.

"In saying this I am not unmindful of the fact that men occupying exalted stations under the present system oppose these principles. They support their opposition by big boasting about 'our great country' and the 'wisdom of our forefathers.' I think without any exception the heads of the legal departments of every great railway system and every great industrial trust, including Standard Oil and the Wall street banking combination, agree with the head of the legal department of the national government in condemnation of the initiative, referendum and recall, and especially the recall of judges. This harmony between big business and big office is singular and significant. It is not entirely satisfactory to some of us. I do not question the business qualifications of these great lawyers, nor their learning in law, when I suggest their unfitness in matters of state craft. Their condemnation of direct legislation takes the form of ridicule and evasion. The employment of ridicule in such a discussion invites the contempt of thoughtful men.

"Opponents of the recall invoke fear and appeal to sentiment. There is absolute evasion of facts and lack of logic in every utterance, whether oral or spoken, against it. This is especially true of the opposition of the so-called 'leaders of the bar' to the recall of judges. I sympathize with them. Their lack of logic is not due to lack of intelligence. It would be unreasonable to expect railroad and ex-Wall street lawyers to discuss any political principle with reference to established facts and to employ logic in their discussion. Fat fees, and the memory thereof, are more stimulating to the spirit of boastfulness. A generous clientage, past, present or prospective, seems to make a lawyer so safe and sane, as almost to be sanctimonious. He feels retained to revere the past, to offer on occasions like this, judicial masses to the shades of the dead Constitution builders, and prayers to the precedents connecting the blessed trinity of Marshall, Morgan and Mammon, the father, son and unholy spirit of modern jurisprudence, and the refuge of sinners of our frail fraternity.

Has Too Much Power.

"So, notwithstanding the exalted character of the opposition to these principles, I repeat my assertion that no man who believes in the Republican form of government can in good faith and with mental integrity, deny the need or wisdom of more direct and responsive legislation. Conditions are unfair. Big business has too much power under the present system. Political bosses, serving special interests, have prostituted the legislative function and the courts by usurpation, and servility has sterilized the creative power of our government under present methods. Corrupt legislatures have passed laws that took the production of the many and made millionaires. And when restoration in part is attempted by the income tax, a flexible supreme court reversed itself and safeguarded the swag. Again the people, by a mighty effort, forced an anti-trust law, making criminal certain conspiracies in constraint of trade, but supine executors ignored it while monopolies waxed fat and powerful, sending their lawyers to congress and placing them on the bench. When public opinion compelled executive action and civil proceedings are carried to the court of last resort, again that court reverses itself, again it usurps the function of the legislative department, again it asserts a despotic power and takes the guts out of a great law, leaving the people helpless, and money, under their judicial despotism, absolute master of America.

Real Despotism.

"I say despotism advisedly, for the very essence of despotism is irresponsible power to make or unmake the laws at will. When judges appointed for life can destroy laws enacted by congress and make laws congress refused to enact, and the people remain helpless, while the judges live, it is no longer self-government—it is despotism. It is no answer to say 'the judges are safe and good,' for the essence of democracy is the assertion that no man, and no five men, can be good enough to have absolute power in the government of men. And whether good enough or not, no man, and no five men, are wise enough to be entrusted with power to make or unmake the laws of a free people. That power is sovereignty, sacred and inalienable sovereignty, and it is akin to treason to usurp it.

"Is there no danger to liberty in judicial usurpation? Is not industrial slavery a menacing fact today? And does not every oppressive power rely upon the courts to sustain it in every asset and advantage it holds? Have not courts in all ages had a tendency, if unrestrained, to side with the strong and oppress the weak? Judges are human. They are not Gods. They sanctioned the fugitive slave bill in America for the sake of property rights. They hung Emmet in Ireland to help the landlords collect the rent. They burned Joan of Arc in France to sustain their insane assumption of jurisdiction for God. In Greece they condemned Socrates to suicide because he was an 'unlicensed muck raker.' They crucified Christ because—I do not know—but their judgments all down the ages summon them to judgment.

"The function of a judge carries with it so much honor that usurpation and tyranny under its mantle are most subtle and dangerous. Courts are essential to protect life and property, but how shall the power of protection be controlled, so as not to be used as a power of oppression? Only, in my opinion by direct and immediate control by the source of power. An absolute and irrevocable power of attorney should never be given to exercise the most important function of sovereignty—the power of final judgment on the rights of men. The peoples as sovereign have the inherent and natural right of recall of any delegated power.

"Why should not that right be exercised as to judges?

Judges Are Hired Men.

"This age is commercial. It prides itself on its clear business judgment. Apply business principles to this question. Men in office are public servants. Whether elected or appointed, judges are employes—hired men, if you please. They are paid in honors and money, and in consideration agree to do certain work. They can terminate the relation any time they like. Why may not the other party to the contract also terminate it? What court would sanction such a one-sided affair as a contract in the commercial world? What business man would make such a contract as the public makes with its judges, and escape insolvency or the insane asylum? The first principle of a successful business man is the assertion of absolute and immediate control of his employes so far as his work is concerned. He will do the work himself if he thinks he can do it better and cares to make the exertion. That is the initiative. He will do it over or undo it after the hired man leaves the job, if he is not satisfied. That is the referendum. And he will fire the hired man if he finds him grafting or dishonest or unfit! That is the recall. Law-making, law-interpretation and law-enforcement, in one word, government, is the people's most important business, because it has more to do with food, clothing and shelter than any personal work or effort. Why apply different principles to this most important work? We have to hire men, of course, to do much of it, but we need not exclude ourselves from participation in it, nor accept the job if it is bungled, nor keep the man on the job after his unfitness is obvious.

"If you hired a shepherd to herd your flocks, and you found him flirting with the butcher's wife, would you sleep comfortably and never count your sheep? Or if you hired a man to keep down the weeds, would you pay him his salary cheerfully after you discovered that he did his hoeing with a golf club and tramped down your corn looking for his little balls? You would be tempted to fire even the hired girl if she persisted in giving your silver to the pawnbroker who recommended her, your sugar to the policeman who courted her cousin, and your gasoline to the chauffeur who took her joy-riding. You might kick, of course, but she might answer: 'Me brother is a lawyer, and tells me that stalen is not stalen any more if it's not unreasonable.' It is urged that the recall of judges would subject the judiciary to the clamor of the mob; that we must have a fearless judiciary. The man who believes the people are a mob does not believe in republican form of government. He should leave this country. He has no place here; his spirit is treasonable. I deny that any people capable of self-government are ever unfair or unreasonable. A few may clamor, but the people never. They never have and never would recall a judge except in clear case of proved dishonesty, and in such case he should be recalled.

"A fearless judge would never fear the people. A cowardly judge would fear the people less than he would the political boss and big business men who made him. Of course the courts should be fearless and free—fearless of bosses, which they are not; free from the persuasion of politicians and the bunco of business men, which most emphatically they are not. Fearless and free from every influence and power except that of the sovereignty creating them, of which they should not be free or fearless, but unfortunately they are. Respect the judges, of course, the same as we respect men in other offices who do their full duty, no more, no less. We cannot respect them if they are arrogant or tyrannical or despotic. And if they are not held responsible they become to a greater or less degree arrogant, tyrannical and despotic. They are entitled to the respect earned by the justice and wisdom of their judgment, and this should be measured, not by them, but by that sovereignty that creates them. Let their work be done in the light of the power they serve. The more direct and severe the light the greater will shine the glory of their work well done."

FUNERAL OF FRED REYNOLDS

Many Attorneys and Friends Attend Last Rites at Masonic Temple.

The funeral of Fred Reynolds, senior member of the law firm of Reynolds & McClearn, who died early Monday morning at St. Luke's hospital following an illness of three months, took place at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon from the Masonic temple, Lake avenue and Second street.

The services were attended by many members of the Duluth bar and a number of attorneys who are here for the annual meeting of the State Bar association, by scores of whom the late Mr. Reynolds was well known and highly respected. Numerous friends and acquaintances and many members of the local lodge of Elks, of which he was a charter member and a past exalted ruler, were in attendance.

The services were in charge of Masonic order, of which he was a prominent member, and the ritual of the fraternity was followed. Interment was at Forest Hill cemetery.

POLICE STOP BOXING BOUT

Step in at Exciting Moment and Arrest the Principals.

Officers Visit Scene After One Clean Knockout Had Been Scored.

"Gentlemen, the seventh round is over and the eighth is about to begin," announced the referee who was officiating at the mill between Cleve Hawkins and "Spike" Robinson at the Duluth Athletic club on West Superior street last evening.

Just at that minute a man in plain clothes, known at least by sight to the majority of the big audience, stepped into the ring. He whispered into the referee's ear.

Turning around that official announced, "Gentlemen, the seventh round is over and the eighth will not begin." Whereupon he explained that the police had raided the fight and that everything was "off." Following which statement the principals and their seconds, Joe Wilson and John Jackson, all colored, were marched to the police station. They were later released on $100 bail each.

Earlier in the evening "Pal" Brown of Hibbing and "Kid" Brennan had started a ten-round contest. It terminated suddenly in the third, when Brown put Brennan to sleep for the count. Neither of these was arrested, however.

During the afternoon Chief Troyer learned that the fights were scheduled under the auspices of the Duluth Athletic club. Under his orders Lieut. Fritz, who is in charge of the station nights, dispatched Sergt. Weber, Detectives Terry and Toewe and Patrolman Connors to the scene. It is stated that they interrupted one of the best mills which has been seen at the Head of the Lakes, with neither battler showing signs of serious distress.

PLAPPER HANDS IT RIGHT BACK

Pal Brown's Manager Points to Lemons on Gary's List.

Hibbing, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Doc" Plapper, Pal Brown's manager, was in Hibbing the first part of the week and when shown the letter in Monday's Herald signed by Martin Forkins, manager of Tommy Gary, in which he stated that Pal had been fighting a "bunch of lemons" the doctor laughed.

"Why the shoe fits on the other foot if anything," said he. "Gary has been scouting around in a whole grove of citrus fruit along side of Pal. Forkins might as well pull in his horns a little bit anyhow."

Then "Doc" proceeded to give the facts in the case which are these:

On March 20 last Pal Brown beat Eddie Greenwald to a pulp in eight rounds. The concensus of opinion about Hibbing is that Gary is afraid to meet Greenwald.

Brown has beaten Tommy McFarland who got a decision over Ad Wolgast in Pond du Lac, Wis, with Bob Fitzsimmons as referee, after the little men had fought ten rounds. Gary is more than probably afraid to meet McFarland also.

And then last but by no means least. Two or three weeks ago on the range Pal met and decisively defeated Billy Allen, real champion of Canada. "Has Gary ever met Allen or does he wish to do so?" is Plapper's query.

Forkins states in his letter that Plapper has side-stepped in matching his man with Gary. The facts according to those who are on the "inside" are these:

Forkins wanted the proposed fight to be pulled off at Gary's own home—Chicago Heights. Plapper consented providing he and his man should receive a guarantee of $400 and transportation to and from the Illinois town. Forkins would consent to this under no consideration.

Then Plapper compromised on Milwaukee and said he would fight his man there for a side bet of $1,000. Again Forkins reneged and again the proposed match was called off.

To revert back to the Gary-Brown mill; Gary's manager claimed that Brown stalled in the fight continually. It was exactly the other way, and "Doc" McNulty of Duluth, the referee, got so completely tired of separating his men from the very frequent clinches which Gary engineered, that he really got peeved.

Plapper says that he will match Brown with anyone his weight on earth for a side bet of $1,000, Tommy Gary preferred.

SIMON MAY BE DEPOSED

Haitien Rebellion Has Reached Serious Proportions.

Pessimistic Report Is Sent By American Naval Officer.

Washington, July 19.—The revolution in Haiti is spreading so rapidly that it is believed here to be doubtful if the capital of the island republic will much longer remain in possession of President Simon.

The political situation steadily is growing worse, according to the commander of the United States gunboat Petrel, now in Haitien waters. His report to the navy department today indicates that all of the department north, except Cape Haitien and Fort Liberie, is controlled by the revolutionists and these ports are threatened.

The Petrel today sailed from Cape Haitien for Gonaives. The Petrel will be replaced by the Peoria, now at San Juan, Porto Rico. The cruiser Des Moines from Boston will sail direct to Port Au Prince.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

The weather man has promised to do his best to make the Duluth carnival a success and his performance today indicates that he is fully able to furnish the kind of weather most approved for such events. The sun rose at 4:32 this morning in a cloudless sky that gave promise of warmth later on in the day, but a cool breeze from the north kept the temperature at about the ideal point. The sun will set this evening at 7:56, after delivering fifteen hours and twenty-four minutes of sunshine.

Weather Forecaster Richardson expects the same kind of weather for tomorrow. In regard to the weather conditions over the country, Mr. Richardson says:

"The low pressure that has moved its center from South Dakota to Michigan during the last twenty-four hours caused light to heavy showers over Western Canada, Eastern North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Northern and Western Iowa, Eastern Nebraska, Colorado and Southern Utah. Further rains also fell over the gulf and South Atlantic states. Somewhat cooler weather prevails in the Southwestern Dakotas, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Washington in connection with the high pressure now centered over the Dakotas, but temperatures have begun to rise again in the extreme Northwest as a result of falling pressures there. At the Head of the Lakes generally fair weather is indicated for the ensuing thirty-six to forty-eight hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 19.—Forecast for twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Probably fair tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; cooler tonight in southeast portion.

Iowa—Fair tonight, cooler in southeast portion; Thursday fair.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Thursday.

North Dakota—Fair tonight, warmer in west portion; Thursday fair.

South Dakota—Fair tonight; Thursday fair, warmer.

Montana—Local showers tonight or Thursday; except fair in southeast portion; warmer tonight in south portion.

Upper Lakes—Moderate west winds on Superior and Michigan; moderate to brisk south, shifting to west on Huron; fair tonight and Thursday, except showers this afternoon and tonight on Huron.

vision of a few schedules, not with all the countries of the world, but with one country; a plan that I believe marks the beginning of the end of extortionate tariff duties in this country."

The speaker declared that it was not President Taft, "but a stubborn and loquacious senate that was responsible for the extra session." He defended the president from charges that he was taking too much part in legislation.

"I honor the day when any president asserts his legislative as well as executive power," he said. "Those presidents were greatest who exercised to the fullest their legislative as well as their executive power. The reason for this is that the legislative branch of the government, for one reason or other, has been a disappointment to the people who own the government. The people have depended in every emergency, and most times without disappointment, upon the lives, character and initiative of the executive."

Opposition By Hines.

Senator Brown declared that when he found Edward Hines, whom he described as the "head of the lumber trust and the manipulator of legislatures" opposing the measure "in the name of and for the sake of the farmers of this country, I began to think that there must be something in this bill which ought to command the respect and support of every honest man in this country."

"This bill," he concluded, "is the cornerstone of a new tariff system which will put an end forever, I hope, to unnecessary and excessive duties."

BURGESS' STORY THE CENTER OF INTEREST IN LORIMER SCANDAL

had his talk with Funk, but he said he could not repeat exactly what was said.

On cross-examination Baker said he first recalled Hines' telephone conversation in Cook's room after Cook testified at the Helm inquiry, and not after the publication of the White admissions. Senator Kern wanted to know why Baker did not go to Springfield to testify before the Helm committee. The witness replied that no one suggested his going.

Senator Fletcher called attention to testimony by Burgess that he, Wiehe, and "the young Canadian," were in the smoker when Wiehe made the remark. Johnson had said he was in the smoker practically all the time Wiehe was there. Johnson said he could not altogether reconcile his testimony with that of Burgess. The witness said Wiehe might have returned to the smoker after he followed him out.

Price of Seattle Testifies.

John B. Price, a lumberman of Seattle, son of J. H. Price, former secretary of the state of Washington, testified that he was in the smoker during the alleged conversation. He said he did not hear Wiehe or anyone else say anything about the Lorimer election. He declared that he was in the smoker at the time Wiehe was there except for a minute or so, when he was occupied in seeing that his grip was all right in the body of the car, and that the conversation about Lorimer could not have taken place while he, Price, was looking for his grip.

Muddled by Contradictions.

Repeated contradictions in testimony bemuddled the Lorimer investigation yesterday far worse than at any time since the new inquiry began. All four of today's witnesses flatly contradicted important testimony given to the committee.

Charles McGowan, a young Canadian contractor, declared that C. F. Wiehe, secretary of the Edward Hines Lumber company, did not remark on the Winnipeg Flyer, on the way from Duluth to Virginia, Minn., in March, 1911, that there was a jackpot raised to elect Lorimer, and that he subscribed $10,000 to it. William P. Burgess of Duluth testified that Wiehe did make this remark, in the presence of himself and "a young Canadian," to which description McGowan corresponded.

B. A. Johnston of Chicago, until July 1, 1911, general staff representative of the American Lumberman, testified positively that Wiehe made no such statement.

Isaac Baker, a buyer for the Edward Hines Lumber company, unqualifiedly denied that Edward Hines, said over a long distance telephone to Springfield, from W. H. Cooke's room in a Chicago hotel on May 26, 1909, that he would come to Springfield with all the money necessary for Lorimer's election. Cook testified Hines did so state. Baker's testimony regarding the conversation agreed almost verbatim with that given by Hines.

Meeting With Funk.

Baker also agreed with Hines' account of Hines' meeting with Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, who claims Hines asked him for a $10,000 Lorimer election contribution. Hines said Funk asked to be introduced to Lorimer and for the privilege of contributing to his campaign expenses. Baker told about the introduction request just as Hines had testified.

Donald M. Frame, cigar agent in the Union club, testified that Hines once remarked to H. H. Hettler that he (Hines) had elected Lorimer, thus corroborating Hettler's testimony and contradicting Hines'.

McGowan was subjected to a rigid cross examination. He declared that all the men in the smoking car when Burgess said the Wiehe conversation took place, were strangers to him at that time, but that he remembered where each sat and the order in which they left the smoker. Instead of Wiehe remaining in the smoker until all the party left except Burgess and McGowan, the witness said Wiehe was the first to leave.

"Must Have Misunderstood."

Later McGowan declared to be correct an affidavit he had made a few weeks ago in which he said Wiehe was continuously in the presence of some of his party all the way from Duluth to Virginia, Minn. Attorney John H. Marble, for the committee, pointed out that the witness could not know with whom Wiehe was after he left the smoker.

"I must have misunderstood the affidavit," declared McGowan.

The witness declared stoutly that he heard everything that was said during the trip and he was sure nothing was said about Lorimer. The tariff and reciprocity were discussed, but he was unable to tell what anyone said about either.

Johnson disagreed with Burgess about Wiehe remaining in the smoker after the witness had left it.

"Where did you sit?" inquired one of the attorneys.

"Oh I sat in two or three seats," began the witness, but he was not able to finish the sentence.

Johnson is a very large man and his remark caused an uproar of laughter.

"I meant at different times," explained Johnson laughing.

QUIZ THOMAS SOME MORE

of a sub-committee composed of Representatives Sulzer, Malby, Jacoway and Hinds, with authority to examine and investigate all books, records and correspondence of the American Sugar Refining company, wherever located, to visit any plants or refineries and to employ any experts or assistants necessary, and to report to the whole committee.

Mr. Sulzer got Mr. Thomas first to say that his company could manufacture sugar here as cheaply or nearly so, as it could be made in any other country. It was owing to the tariff, he thought, that the price of sugar here is higher than in England.

"Not a Monopoly."

Mr. Thomas said the American company made less than 50 per cent of the sugar in this country, and that it therefore is not a monopoly.

Representative Jacoway asked Mr. Thomas why the American increased its capital from $75,000,000 to $90,000,000.

"To take an interest in about thirty-three beet sugar refineries," was the reply.

Mr. Thomas said that the work of acquiring the beet sugar interests was done exclusively by H. O. Havemeyer, who was not in the habit of consulting any one else about sugar company transactions.

Likes Action in New Jersey.

What was regarded as perhaps the most important testimony of the day was a statement by Mr. Thomas yesterday that the American Sugar Refining company is thoroughly in sympathy with the suit in New Jersey to retire and invalidate the common stock of the National Sugar Refining company. The American owns most of the preferred stock in that company, and Mr. Thoms said that the preferred stock value would be greatly enhanced by the retirement of the common stock. It would also give the American absolute control of what is said to be its greatest competitor.

BOY HEAD OF FIRE INSURANCE CONCERN

Bold Methods Are Employed By Alleged Fake Concerns.

Philadelphia, July 19.—At a hearing here of three officials of fourteen "mutual fire insurance companies" of this city on the charge of operating fraudulent concerns, a 19-year-old boy testified that he had been picked off the street and made president of two of the concerns and secretary of a third at a total salary of $5 a week.

The witness, Herman S. Robinson, said he was homeless when hired to run errands. He was told he must "dress up," and said one of the defendants had fitted him out. After the hearing, the three officials, David Bailaity, Jacob Malschick and Charles Weinberg, were held under bail for trial.

The janitor of an office building in which the fourteen companies were operated from the same room, was also made president of one concern.

Ernest K. Mueller, a solicitor employed by two of the concerns, which the state insurance department charges were all controlled by the principals, testified that while he was connected with the concerns new ones were organized with a total "fake" capitalization of $1,500,000. Names of the alleged subscribers, he said, were taken from the city directory.

Harry S. Thiel, another solicitor, in testifying said:

"The money came in fast. Balaity and Malschick both had tin boxes in which they kept the cash and the boxes were often full."

The office of the concerns was recently raided. It is charged the companies wrote fire insurance in all parts of the country, and that their total receipts were $27,000 a month.

GOOD REPORTS FROM THE FOREIGN CROPS

Washington, July 19.—Official reports of foreign crops received by the department of agriculture are that generally favorable conditions existed abroad during June. Conditions in Canada, over most of the territory, are pronounced flattering. Of the 10,000,000 acres under wheat this season, over 9,500,000 are in the spring wheat provinces — Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta; the increment in area amounted to 1,200,000 acres. Ever since the seed went into the ground the spring wheat lands have been saturated by opportune rains and, with some exceptions, favored by forcing temperature.

In Europe winter wheat and rye on the whole have fully maintained their former promise. The wheat crop of the United Kingdom, on an increased area, is regarded likely to furnish an average yield.

France, with diminished areas under both wheat and rye, promises a medium outrun of the former and a less satisfactory one of the latter.

Spain is regarded to have exceptional crops, recent official estimates putting wheat at 157,000,000 bushels, a new high record. The small wheat crop of Germany is probably not quite up to the usual standard, and rye is expected to show a considerable shortage. The Hungarian wheat crop is officially estimated at 163,000,000 bushels and rye at 50,000,000 bushels. In Roumania and the Balkan states the prospects are much better than in average years. In Russia there is much conflict of expression; the weight of opinion seems, however, to predict medium results. In Italy better yields than last year are anticipated, but heavy rains may later show their effects.

In Argentina the newly sown wheat, oats and flaxseed are said under the influence of plentiful moisture to have germinated well. Popular opinion puts the surface under wheat 5 to 10 per cent over the 15,500,000 acres sown last year. The 1910 wheat crop of Chili is reported insufficient for home needs and imports are being made from Australia.

The monsoon, the indispensable precursor of a favorable seed time on unirrigated soil in British India, broke in full force on the mid-June day and heavy rains have already fallen over wide areas. Late reports, however, indicate partial cessation of rainfall. Cotton planting is progressing in some localities of the empire.

UNION ORGANIZER DENIES HE STARTED RIOTS.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 19.—F. J. Murphy of Indianapolis, national organizer for the Structural Iron Workers' union, in police court yesterday pleaded not guilty to the charge of inciting a riot. He is charged with having been the leader in Monday night's riot on a local viaduct which resulted from a clash between union and non-union workmen. Joseph Schleiger, a non-union man, was seriously injured during the free-for-all fight, and several others were hurt.

Murphy and four other union men were arrested, but all were released on bonds following pleas of not guilty. The cases are to be tried July 26.

Murphy came here about a month ago and since then is said to have been endeavoring to get the concern which is building the viaduct to recognize his union. A letter from the company refusing to discharge non-union workers is said to have precipitated the outbreak.

DENEEN LIKELY TO RUN AGAIN

Merriam Forces May Cause Split in Illinois Party.

Springfield, Ill., July 19.—With the house and senate organization in complete control of the situation, the Merriam-Jones "Simon Pure" Progressives had little to say at the Progressive conference which was held in this city yesterday. Senator Walter Clyde Jones, who has been mentioned as a candidate for governor on the Progressive ticket, arrived from Chicago, but a series of resolutions he had ready for presentation remained in his pocket. Instead the conference adopted resolutions far from radical in their character, practically the only declaration made being in favor of clean men to be named as candidates for office at the coming primary.

Late last night the house and senate Progressives issued a statement to the effect that a state-wide organization of Progressives would be formed to eliminate the grafter and jackpotter from politics and to abolish corrupt bipartisan combinations.

As the situation rests at present the Merriam forces have the option of becoming a part of the rival organization of their own, which would virtually result in a Deneen-Merriam split. The developments are taken to mean that Governor Deneen will be a candidate for re-election, backed by the legislative organization.

WATCH TOWER TO LOOK FOR FIRES

May Be Provided Forest Ranger in Vicinity of Gull Lake.

Brainerd, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief Forester Cox has appointed H. E. Wyman of Northfield, an assistant to State Forest Ranger J. P. Saunders, and will have him stationed in the district near Gull lake.

Mr. Wyman has completed two years of a four years' course at the state university, and was appointed a state fire patrolman on July 1. As an aid to the patrolman it is said that pressure may be brought to bear to erect a cabin for the assistant and to put up a light steel tower from whose heights the patrolman may keep a lookout on the surrounding country and discover any fire or smoke in his territory. The bog fires near Aitkin and Palisades which were being watched by Forest Ranger Saunders are now under control and the rains of today served to further dampen the embers.

SAY DETECTIVES WROTE LETTERS

Grand Jurors Return Indictments in Black Hand Case.

Erie, Pa., July 19.—Indictments were returned against Gilbert Perkins of Pittsburg and Charles Franklin of Philadelphia, private detectives, in the federal court here yesterday, charging them with using the mails to defraud. Immediately after the indictments were received from the grand jury by the court, the case was called for trial. Before adjournment three witnesses had been called by the government.

With the indictment is filed a letter alleged to have been sent to C. H. Strong and made public for the first time. It reads:

"Erie, Pa., Feb. 15, 1911.

"C. Strong:—

You leave $50,000 at 11 o'clock p. m. Feb. 26, 1911, at Thirty-first and Pennsylvania avenue, or you will have your branes blewed out. Either you or your wife. If you bring any police along, they will be shot and my men will make a strong battle.

"Black Hand"

'Deth'

The indictment charges that the defendants, on Feb. 12, 1911, actually mailed in Erie a Black Hand letter addressed to Mr. Strong demanding $50,000, and that on Feb. 15, 1911, they mailed a second letter to Mr. Strong of which the above is a copy.

ANOKA POTATOES ARE BRINGING $1.35.

Anoka, Minn., July 19.—Twenty cars of choice early potatoes were bought this week at Anoka by one buyer. The price was $1.35 a bushel every day. The yield has gone to 100 and 125 bushels an acre and increases each day as the tubers grow.

There are many local buyers and half a dozen from Chicago are on the ground, but none has begun to buy as yet, except the one mentioned.

THE EVENING STORY

"HER HERO"

By Vance Palmer.

He hadn't dressed for dinner when she came down, and a suggestion of surprise wrinkled her forehead. Probably he would have some excuse ready so that he could go on with the experiments he had been so immersed in during the last few days.

"You're not going out?" she said, as they sat down.

"No," he said apologetically. "I'm afraid I'll have to lie down. It's too bad of me, I know, but you won't mind going with MacDonald?" He resettled his pince-nez and seemed disturbed. She noticed that his face looked very yellow and wrinkled, and that his iron gray moustache drooped.

"Oh, no," she said, coldly.

She felt that she was acting very magnanimously in not being annoyed and offended. She had a right to be both, but in truth she was secretly pleased. It was "La Cavalliera" that evening, and he knew so little about music that his comments always had a provincial flavor; she was sure Max laughed at them inwardly.

"It is the finger?" she asked at last.

"Yes," he said, absently. "I'm afraid it is." Then she noticed that he was merely pretending to eat.

"What a fuss to make about a little cut," she thought. "Laboratories turn men into old women."

In the bevelled glass in front of her she could see reflections; her coiffure and the back of her dress. It sat very well, she thought, and she had a pleasant feeling that she was looking at herself impersonally. The glass also showed part of her husband's profile, and she could view him, too, with that same sense of detachment. His face looked rather wooden and inexpressive. She said suddenly:

"You ought to go to bed if you're not feeling well. It's no use trifling with an illness."

"I think I will," he said slowly. "Houston's coming in."

"Houston," she thought. "They'll sit up all the evening and talk about diseases of the blood. This house is getting smothered in an atmosphere of anaesthetics lately."

She began to grow angry at the sober way he was nibbling at his salad and at other irrelevant things. The sleeve of his rusty jacket was stained, his hair was disorderly, and there was a general deadness about his manner. It jarred on the light fantasy of the mood to which she had turned herself in preparation for the opera.

"Apologize to MacDonald for me, dear," he said after dinner, I don't think I'll come down."

There was something lifeless in his voice, and the way he walked from the room carried an effect of exaggeration. She looked in the glass again and arranged her dress at the shoulder. Pearl gray had always suited her; had not Max said that ever so long ago? She was half in love with the youth that shone in her own eyes and in her face, but even as she watched it a frown wrinkled her forehead involuntarily, and made her old.

"This house is stuffy," she thought. "It's like a hospital. It doesn't seem to let me live."

But in the taxi she was able to realize just the atmosphere she wanted. There was the pleasant rustling of her own dress, the flashing of lights, and the light persiflage of MacDonald, who sat beside her, polite and debonair. There would certainly be some people who knew her at the opera that night, and they would speculate about her companion. The knowledge of this carriea with it a delicious thrill of adventure; installed in her seat she looked at him archly, and tried to be witty and provocative. That was about the limit of her capacity for unfaith.

Yet she was annoyed that it made so little impression. Once during a pause in the music Max said:

"It's a pity Houston isn't here. He would have enjoyed this."

She bit her lip and did not answer. The lights, the flashing jewels, the color, and the music had carried her beyond herself, and had given her glimpses of things that were quite beyond her power of attainment. On the waves of sound she let herself be borne along, and it seemed to her that she was deeply wronged and unappreciated. She saw herself as a tragic figure, with an unutterable sorrow in her eyes, isolated among trival things and people, no one knowing the splendid emotions of which she was capable.

The music changed to a light and airy movement. Wine sparkled in long stemmed glasses, and there was a glitter of silver. She saw herself as a seductive figure, gay and irresponsible. Vivacity flashed from her eyes, and yet there were mysterious possibilities in their depths; she leant out over moonlit balconies to breathe a delicious air of intrigue and romance. Coming home in the taxi one thought repeated itself in her brain.

"I couldn't even make him jealous of Max." She had tried more than once before, and he had laughed good humoredly—a laugh that humiliated and exasperated her. Well, this time she would do something that would really stir him and make him realize that life wasn't meant to be squandered at bedsides, and operating tables. She would force him to see the contemptible drabness of his existence.

This was uppermost in her mind when she met Houston in the hall, until she realized that something had changed in the atmosphere around her. He was speaking with a dry and desolate scorn that was tempered only by his politeness.

"I sent the girl for you an hour ago, but I didn't know the number of the box. Yes, I think he saw it coming ever since the knife first slipped at the operating table. I can't believe that he was sitting at table only this evening. It doesn't seem human, but he didn't think of anything but finishing those experiments."

The flood of emotion that had carried her along all the evening did not change, but merely altered its course. Even when in a paroxysm of grief she had thrown herself at the bedside and was watching the sallow, stoical face, an exalted feeling possessed her. She was the wife of a hero; she wanted all the world to know what he had gone through in the interests of humanity. It seemed to her that she had been a part of some splendid struggle against the malign perversity of things, and that in the future she could carry out her part with more strength and power. The voice of Houston aroused her, as he spoke to the girl: "Yes, yes; half an hour ago. Your mistress is in there with the body."

HOW TO GROW HAIR

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY THAT PRODUCES SURPRISING RESULTS.

NEW DRUG CRYSTOLIS CAUSES BIG STIR AMONG HAIR SPECIALISTS.

$1000 REWARD if They Fail.

Cut Out Free Coupon Below and Mail Today.

Those who have become prematurely gray or who are troubled with scalp or hair diseases, such as falling hair, dandruff, baldness, itching scalp, etc., know full well the humiliation that they cause. There is no need, however, of such conditions. These troubles can be quickly overcome by Crystolis, the new drug recently discovered at the Creslo Laboratories. Since its discovery, a little over a year ago, Crystolis has been found to contain marvelous properties for producing new growth of hair. In subjecting it to various tests in the worst cases af baldness, dandruff, itching scalp, etc., the results obtained by the experimenting chemists were considered almost miraculous. In every case it was found that where there were any hair roots left it would produce a new and luxuriant growth of hair in from four to six weeks' time. Gray or faded hair was often restored to its natural color in from 10 to 14 days' time. In minor cases of scalp and hair diseases, such as dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp, etc., it was found that these unnatural conditions were corrected and often completely cured by two or three applications. The discovery of Crystolis will, without doubt, put an end to the troublesome scalp and hair diseases that are becoming so common with the American people. Women who have been forced into wearing false hair will greatly welcome this marvelous product, as, aside from its many other virtues, it adds a beautiful gloss and lustre to the old hair. Besides, it contains no oil and has a tendency to make the hair light and fluffy.

The managers of the Creslo Laboratories have such strong faith in Crystolis we have been authorized to make the following remarkable offer: They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if they fail to prove that Crystolis actually grows hair. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if any one can prove they were not the first discoverers of Crystolis. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if it can be proven that it contains any oil, dye or coloring matter of any kind. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if every testimonial and sworn statement which they publish is not absolutely genuine. Arrangements have been made with the Laboratories to furnish free information in regard to this new process to all Herald readers. Merely cut out and send in the coupon below, and you will receive free particulars of this marvelous new product by return mail.

Forecaster Predicts Good Weather for Carnival Thursday and Friday.

Disturbances in Far West May Cause Trouble on Saturday.

Fair weather is in prospect for the water carnival for Thursday and Friday at least, though there is some doubt about conditions Saturday.

Weather Forecaster H. W. Richardson stated this morning that Duluth was sure of fair weather for Thursday and probably Friday. Disturbances are developing, however, in the far Northwest and Southwest and whether there will be perfect weather for the last days of the water fete depends on how fast these move eastward.

"I am a little doubtful about what will be on the program Saturday," said Mr. Richardson this morning. "But I think there is every chance that the far Western disturbances will not reach here before the carnival is over. We are sure of fair weather tomorrow at any rate."

RESIGNS TO GO TO SOUTH AFRICA

W. H. Glibbery of A. D. T. Co. Will Do Photography for Magazines.

W. H. Glibbery, who for the past six years has been chief of the patrol and fire alarm system of the American District Telegraph in Duluth has resigned, probably to take up landscape photography for the magazines in South Africa. Mr. Glibbery's resignation was tendered yesterday.

He is somewhat reticent as to what class of business he will engage in, but says he is going abroad for some time. He is thoroughly acquainted with the South African country, having been a scout under General Robets during the late Boer war. Mr. Glibbery is a recognized expert in landscape photography and his friends are confident that his plans are to do work for various publications in this line.

M. Diettrich, who has been his assistant for the past three years, will take full charge of the department.

Boissonnault; corresponding secretary, Dr. L. M. Brunet; directors, J. E. Morin, J. Plion, C. Forest, F. Leblanc, J. Prefontaine, J. Lemoignan, P. Grigman, and J. M. Dominique of Superior.

The annual picnic will be held at Fond du Lac, Aug. 13.

Brainerd Lighting Scheme Fails.

Brainerd, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council has turned down a proposition broached by citizens of North Fifth street, a residence section, who wished to install at their own expense a number of ornamental lamp posts and to use them as an experiment, and if not satisfactory to the city it could order them out again. The council, or its majority, considered that one arc light was equal to sixteen lamp posts.

DIES FROM HER INJURIES

Mrs. Mealey's Efforts to Light Fire With Kerosene Prove Fatal.

Mrs. Nan Mealey, who was badly burned Sunday morning while attempting to light a fire with kerosene, died at 4:30 this morning at St. Mary's hospital as a result of her injuries. She was expected to recover until yesterday morning, when she suffered a relapse and her life was despaired of.

Mrs. Mealey was 49 years of age at the time of her death, and is survived by her husband, Dennis Mealey; five sons, James Mealey of Spooner, Wis.; George Mealey, 514 East Seventh street, and Dennis, John and William, who resided at the family residence, 602½ Garfield avenue. Her three sisters, Mrs. J. B. Kaminsky of Minneapolis and Mrs. William Sheehan and Mrs. John Hickey of St. Paul, came to Duluth imediately upon hearing of the accident and were at her bedside when she died. Her brother, James McDonnough of St. Paul, will arrive here this afternoon. She is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. Paul Graff of 1014 West Fifth street and Mrs. John Davis, 427 First avenue east.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning, privately, from St. Clement's church in the West end, and interment will be at Calvary cemetery.

IS HOMESICK FOR THE HEAD OF THE LAKES.

After three years of residence in Milwaukee, Dr. W. J. Conan has become homesick for the Head of the Lakes, and will move to Duluth within a short time. His beautiful home on Prospect avenue, one of the Wisconsin city's most beautiful streets, is now for sale, and as soon as a buyer has been secured, the doctor will come here. He intends to build a home in this city. Prior to his going to Milwaukee, Dr. Conan lived and practiced in Superior for many years, and is well known in both Duluth and Superior. He is one of the fee owners of the Pioneer and other mines on the Vermilion range, and in his business ventures here he has been successful.

WOMEN SPEND NINE BILLIONS

University of Wisconsin Says They Do It in Ignorance.

Madison, Wis., July 19.—That over $10,000,000,000 is spent in the United States annually for food, shelter and clothing and that 90 per cent of this vast sum is spent by women who have no adequate knowledge of money values, is stated in the new bulletin of the course in home economics at the University of Wisconsin, just issued.

In any other phase of life, it is pointed out, the persons entrusted with such expenditures would be required to pass through a rigid system of training. Women are subject to the skill of the advertiser without knowledge that will enable them to determine whether a certain advertised article is worth what is claimed for it, or whether it will be of any value in the home. The average home-maker disposes of money as her mother did before her, or as her neighbor spends her money.

LAWYER SHOOTS JUDGE FOR MOUNTAIN LION.

Bellingham, Wash., July 19. — Mistaken for a mountain lion, Judge Robert W. Prigmore of Seattle was shot and probably fatally wounded by his hunting companion, R. H. Evans, a former law partner of the jurist, according to information received here. The accident occurred near Mount Baker.

Judge Prigmore was born at Sedalia, Mo., and has practiced law there until 1898.

PRIEST LEADS SMALL FORCE IN HARD BATTLE.

City of Mexico, July 19.—Father Capellan, temporarily forsaking the peaceful vocation of the priesthood, recently placed himself at the head of 100 men and last week attacked and captured, after brisk fighting, the town of Penjamo in the state of Guanajato, according to Juan Gutterrez, owner of the Hacienda de la Calle, near the city, who has arrived here. Until recently the priest was chaplain on the Hacienda. He recruited his little army there after haranguing the laborers on the subject of how badly they were treated.

A BAD PRACTICE AND A GOOD PLAN.

There is nothing more absurd than the practice of laying pavements and then promptly tearing them up again to put in gas, water or sewer, and a great deal of this unnecessarily destructive work is done in Duluth.

The plan submitted by City Attorney Fesler to the council Monday night and reported in The Herald of last evening, is sound, wise and workable. It should be adopted by the city and made compulsory.

Mr. Fesler proposes that when a paving petition is presented the council should find out what underground work will be necessary in the street, and then see that it is done before the paving is begun. It would call for reports on the subject from the water and light department, the city engineer and the board of public works, and when it ascertained what preliminary work was needed it would send a man around to get the necessary petitions signed.

The adoption of this plan would put the work of public improvements on a wiser and more systematic basis, and it would avoid the wasteful and annoying practice of tearing up new pavements a short time after they are laid.

It is to be hoped that the council will give this matter its earnest and immediate attention, and that the much needed improvement in city business that it promises will develop speedily.

IT SHOULDN'T REST THERE.

Word comes from Washington that while the president probably will reprimand Dr. Wiley for paying an expert more than the law allows, he will not consider the idea of discharging him, notwithstanding Attorney General Wickersham's recommendation.

That is well as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough. The matter should not be permitted to rest there.

Congress, which is taking the matter up, should find out what interests are back of this attempt to remove the man who has done more to make the pure food law effective than any other man in the country. If such an inquiry is taken up and pushed hard, the chances are ten to one that manufacturers of adulterated food products will be found back of the incident, and if so their brazen effrontery in seeking to supplant a faithful servant of the people, probably by a pliant tool of their own choosing, should be rebuked in some effective manner.

Furthermore, if it is necessary to squeeze around the law to employ the skilled experts needed to make the enforcement of the pure food law effective, congress ought to remove that necessity.

A FEDERAL CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT.

The senate provided a little surprise Monday by passing an unheralded corrupt practices act that really isn't bad at all.

The house had passed a measure providing for publication of campaign expenses before election, and the senate went it one better by providing rigid regulations as to campaign expenditures.

No candidate for congress is to be allowed to spend more than 10 cents for each voter in his state or district. Since in some states that would amount to more money than could be spent legitimately, it is also provided that no candidate for a senatorship shall spend more than $10,000 and that no candidate for the house shall spend more than $5,000. Publicity is to be given to all campaign contributions and expenses, both for the primary election and the general election. Publication of expense accounts must begin fifteen days before election, and publication of remaining expenses must be made every six days until election. It is provided that publicity must be made of all promises of political jobs as pay for political work, which is sound morals. It would have been wiser still to prohibit such promises. A candidate has no more right to pay political workers with public jobs than he has to pay them wages out of the public treasury for their political work.

The house balked on the extension of the law to cover primary elections, but the senate made the extension with only seven votes against it. Obviously a corrupt practices act that didn't cover nominating expenses would be a farce. This is particularly true in states where a nomination is equivalent to an election. In those states a man might spend a fortune getting a nomination and nothing whatever for his election.

The limitation of the amount of campaign expenditures allowed is a good move, though it could have been improved by limiting the purposes for which any money at all could be spent. In fact if there is any choice between the two limitations, and one must be applied and the other omitted, it would be far better to limit the purposes for which campaign money can be spent, even if there is no limitation whatever on the amount.

Unless the house adopts the senate bill without an amendment, which is unlikely, there will be a long struggle in conference over the measure, and it is rather improbable that the bill will become a law at the special session.

By all means the nation should have a corrupt practices act, and so should every state. Minnesota has one which is more honored in the breach than in the observance. It is not a bad law at all, though it could be improved, and in appearance at least it is strong enough to keep elections pure. Something is wrong somewhere, however, because in practice it hasn't amounted to a row of pins. It limits the amount and purpose of campaign expenditures, it covers both primary and general elections, it provides for full publicity of both campaign contributions and expenditures. Ostensibly, too, every candidate complies with it. That is, he files a statement of expenses which complies with the law; but in nine cases out of ten it is a lie and everybody knows it. It is said that so general is the recognition of this fact that the officers with whom these statements are filed no longer require candidates to swear to them, as the law requires. In this they are wrong, and they should be rebuked for it.

There is need of a strong, workable and working corrupt practices act in the nation and in every state, and it is to be hoped that congress will enact one. It is to be hoped, too, that it will prove more efficient in practice than Minnesota's.

THE SHERMAN LAW.

In the intensely interesting discussion yesterday afternoon at the convention of the State Bar association of the effect of the supreme court's interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law, both Joseph B. Cotton of Duluth and Pierce Butler of St. Paul seemed to agree with the view which The Herald has taken, Mr. Bryan and others to the contrary notwithstanding, that the oil and tobacco decisions, far from emasculating the anti-trust law, put it for the first time into workable condition.

A literal enforcement of the anti-trust law along the lines proposed by some would rain punishment without discrimination on the just and the unjust alike. Every combination or business growth of any kind that tended to reduce competition would be held illegal and punished. The supreme court, however, has wisely held that the law squares with the old common law doctrine that it is combinations and conspiracies that seek to kill competition by the methods of the thug and the highwayman which are unlawful, and that there is nothing in the law to prohibit the natural tendency toward centralizing industry by legitimate methods of growth and enterprise.

Construed literally, as some would have it, the Sherman law would become an attempt to repeal an irresistible economic law by statute law. That is an experiment that has failed every time it has been tried, and it will continue to do so.

The sooner the nation ceases the attempt to compel competition when business men no longer care to compete, and begins to meet the problem by reasonable regulation in the interests of the people, the better for business and for the country.

"WHY IS AN EXPRESS COMPANY?"

It rather pleases The Herald to note the animated discussion of the above question that is now going on in the press of the country. This newspaper has been asking that question for years, and so far it never has received an answer. It is highly improbable that those who are asking it now will have any better luck.

Possibly The Herald was not the first newspaper to ask what excuse there is for the express monopoly when its business should have been done by the postoffice, or if not by the postoffice by the railroads; but we should be surprised to learn that there are many who asked it so early, or any that asked it earlier.

The beauty of the question is that you can keep on asking it indefinitely and never get an answer, because there is no answer. There never should have been an express company, and there is utterly no excuse for the millions upon millions of fat profits the American people have paid to build up companies that started in business on a shoestring and now are paying dividends on capital that is many times the amount invested, and many times greater than the value of all that the express companies own.

Says the Rocky Mountain News: "We can see no reason of public policy for permitting express companies, as such, to exist. The work of an express company is either railroad business or postoffice business. If railroad business, then it should be handled by the railroads. If postoffice business, then it should be transacted by the postoffice. To call into being a third party merely to manage the distribution of a special class of freight or a special type of postal packages strikes us as absurd. And we know it is expensive."

Right. Absolutely right. The Knoxville Sentinel attempts to account for it this way: "The railroad companies probably thought it beneath them to collect and deliver parcels. The postoffice did not do so, and the express company was created to fill the gap. Having taken root and thriven the express company came into political power. It had the backing of the railroads, which control the express company directly or indirectly and participate in its profits, and was able to dictate to the government. To feather its nest, the postoffice was forbidden to transmit merchandise packets of more than four pounds, and the rate for such packages is preposterous."

That isn't the only thing that has been done by the government to feather the nests of the express companies.

The law absolutely prohibits the express business. It forbids anybody but the postoffice to carry "letters or packets." Under that law there could be no express companies, or anything between the freight business of the railroads and the carrying of letters and parcels by the postoffice.

But many years ago they got an attorney general to hold that that law didn't mean what it said. When it forbade the carrying of "packets" by anybody but the postoffice, that attorney general said that "packets" meant packets of letters. So the way was made free for the building up of the express monopoly, which has fattened enormously on its unregulated traffic, charging what it pleased, collecting at both ends when it dared, and acting generally as though it regarded the public as a thing to prey upon.

The express companies have stood in the way of a parcels post system. If the punishment for that intrusion turns out to be the obliteration of the express business the punishment will fit the crime.

A GRATEFUL CHANGE.

Duluth is grateful to the Associated Press. In reporting the fact that Alonzo J. Whiteman has returned to his Danville home after an extended sojourn in the Auburn penitentiary expiating a little matter of an irregular check, it didn't say that Whiteman is a former mayor of Duluth. This is, we believe, the first time this has happened, and it is an agreeable relief.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SAYS WEST DULUTH WATER SUPPLY IS BAD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The water supply in West Duluth is bad. The next time the professor tests the water, by all means have the water in the West Duluth reservoir tested. We, in West Duluth like good wholesome water as well as the rest of the city, and we think we are entitled to it. And why do we not get it? We pay our taxes and do our share in paying for and keeping up the water and light department, and all we ask in return is good wholesome water, instead of the nauseous stuff we are now getting. If Manager Case or any of the water and light commission doubts our statement, if they will call at my residence, I will cheerfully and gladly allow them to sample the water from my faucet, and I guarantee they would admit that something was wrong. In the first place the water is very warm, and then on top of that the water has a very brackish metallic taste which is nauseous and surely cannot be healthful. Let those in authority see to it that it is remedied at once. We have a right to ask for and expect that it will be remedied. Manager Case says that to reduce the supply from 5,000,000 to 3,000,000 gallons will remedy it. It may be that it will, but I cannot see it. To reduce the supply 2,000,000 gallons will certainly make the water shallower in the reservoir and the hot sun beating down in the depression on that pool of shallow water will certainly not make it any cooler, and how that will remove that foreign taste I cannot see. Something must be done and it is up to the people of West Duluth to see that the right thing is done.

Your respectfully,
W. B. HARTLEY.

Vacation.

Oh, how joyous is vacation,
Cheerful times of recreation,
Free from toil and tribulation,
Full of life and animation,
When, with feelings of elation,
We abandon our vocation
And enjoy the sweet sensation
Of entire relaxation;
When we quit, for illustration,
The old, wearisome dictation
That we've had to satiation,
Lay aside all obligation
In our daily situation,
Cease from harsh self-abnegation,
And in some approved location
Yield us to the fascination
Of complete and sweet stagnation;
Or, in welcome separation
From our usual occupation,
For our simple delectation,
Seeking no one's approbation,
Asking not remuneration,
With a scorn of compensation,
We incline to vegetation,
Rumination, meditation,
Following our inclination
Free from any molestation,
Far from any habitation,
Loafing without ostentation,
Filled with thoughts of exultation
At our disassociation
From the worry and vexation,
From the ceaseless irritation,
That is found in any station;
Seeking pure recuperation,
Pleasure and rejuvenation,
Energy, invigoration—
That's the sweet joy of vacation!

Who Are the Unfit?

Jacob Riis in the Survey: We dig and toil in the sweat of our brows, and when we see the tares springing up in the fields we sowed, we hear men sometimes speak of the unfit. But who are the unfit? The slouching tramp, who, a spent man at 30, having been jammed into the industrial treadmill at 7, will work no more, or the man who grew rich from the child's labor? The woman without hope, of no caste—or the employer who underpaid her till she chose the street to live?

Who are the unfit? The raw Irishman who gets drunk on his holiday, and yet brings to the treasury in Wall street his savings of a lifetime, when the black panic is sweeping over the land, saying simply: "We saved it all up in the forty years we have been here, for our old age, mother and I; but last night she read out of the paper to me that the country was in trouble and needed money, and so I brought it here."—He, or the man who coldly gambles to pile up his wealth in the necessaries of life, and makes living harder for us all? The scrubwoman who, with empty hands and emptier heart, gives her babe to the potter's field and then scrapes and saves through the year, working her fingers to the bone for the pittance that shall ransom her child from the trench and give it a grave of its own; yet not once but three times in the year surrenders it all to "some one in the tenement who is poorer than she"? Which is the unfit: she or the woman who gives a Christmas party to her lap-dog, with her sisters and the little ones starving all about in a workless winter?

Let God judge. Let it be our task to see to it that at least they shall know better, that the environment shall be cleansed of its unrighteousness, so that our brothers shall have a chance. Then, and not until then, can we with a clear conscience leave the rest to Him.

Unconventionalities.

Chicago Tribune: "This is a little past our dinner hour, Mrs. Whelkley, but we're waiting for you to go."

"I'm glad you've brought a box of candy this evening, Mr. Feathertop; it will relieve the monotony immensely."

"Nan, dear, you'd look charming in that short-sleeved waist if yours arms weren't so scrawny."

"Gentlemen, Senator Lotsmun wishes me to say that he appreciates the honor of this serenade, but the music you are making is the worst he ever heard."

"I'm not going to thank you, sir, for giving me your seat; you ought to have offered it to me half an hour ago."

"I'd be willing to marry you, Mr. Squiggles, perhaps, if mother would quit egging me on."

"'Au revoir' means 'till we meet again,' doesn't it, Mrs. Weerius? Then I'll simply say good night."

Two Ways of Looking At It.

Boston Globe: Two incidents related by Mayor Emil Seidel of Milwaukee illustrate two radically different conceptions of public office—as a public trust and as a private snap.

A few years ago, after the mayor's brother Otto had made a successful contest in a campaign, having been elected to a small political office, an acquaintance called him on the 'phone and said:

"Now, Otto, you're in. Make all you can out of it. That's what they all do."

Last year, after Mayor Seidel's election, a stanch Socialist friend called on him and said:

"Now, Emil, you're in. Make good or I'll knock your damn block off."

Between "making all you can out of it" and "making good" is a world of difference.

He Had Hopes.

Philadelphia Times: Owen Wister, in addition to being an author, has acquired some celebrity as a wit. He was being shaved in a St. Louis hotel, while returning from a trip to the West some time ago, and the barber, who was attending to his needs, apparently had been out the night before. His hand was very shaky, and several times the author winced.

"Will you have anything on your face when I get through?" the barber inquired, when the ordeal was almost over.

"I can't tell yet," mumbled Wister, "but I hope to have part of my nose."

A MAN'S MOTHER.

Philadelphia Bulletin: Man, if you have an old mother, be good to her. Tell her that you love her. Kiss the faded old lips. Hold in yours the work-knotted old hands.

Scatter a few of the flowers of tenderness and appreciation in her pathway while she is still alive and can be made happy by them.

Don't wait to put all of your affection and gratitude and reverence for her into a costly ton of marble inscribed "Mother."

Don't wait to throw all of your bouquets on her grave. It's mighty doubtful whether an angel in heaven takes any interest in cemeteries or gets any satisfaction from revisiting earth and contemplating a flattering tombstone; but it is utterly, certainly certain that you can make your old mother's heart sing for joy by showing her, while she is alive, just one tithe of the love and appreciation that you will heap upon her when she is dead.

These words are written for some one particular man who reads this page. I do not know his name, but I know his story.

He is a middle-aged man, married, prosperous. He is a good man, highly respected, and he hasn't an idea but what he is doing his full duty by his old mother who lives in his home and whom he supports. He supplies her wants. She eats at his table, is sheltered by his roof, is warmed by his fire, is decently clothed by his hands; but that is all.

He neglects her.

He never says a word of affection to her.

He never pays her any little attentions.

When she ventures an opinion, he cuts it short with curt contempt.

When she tells her garrulous old stories, as old people will, he does not even try to conceal how much he is bored.

In a thousand unintentional ways the old mother is made to feel that she is a cumberer of the ground, an impediment in the household, an old fashioned and useless piece of furniture of which every one will be glad to be rid of.

Under this coldness and neglect the poor old mother's heart is breaking, and in a letter, written in a trembling and feeble handwriting, she asks me if I cannot say something that her son will read, and that may make him think.

Ah, if I only could.

If I could only say to him, "Man, man, give love as well as duty to your mother. Give her the wine of life as well as the bread. Don't forget the woman who never forgets you."

Of course the man will say, and truly that he is busy, overworked, care burdened; that he has the claims of wife and children upon him; that he is often irritable through sheer physical weariness and overstrain.

Granted. But your mother's life has not been easy. Your father was a poor man, and from the day she married him she stood by his side fighting the wolf from the door with her naked hands, as a woman must fight.

She worked not the 8 or 10-hour day of the union, but the 24-hour day of the poor wife and mother.

She cooked and cleaned and scrubbed and patched and nursed from dawn until bedtime, and in the night was up and down getting drinks for thirsty lips, covering restless little sleepers, listening for croupy coughs.

She had time to listen to your stories of boyish fun and frolic and triumph.

She had time to say the things that spurred your ambition on.

She never forgot to cook the little dishes you liked.

She did without the dress she needed that you might not be ashamed of your clothes before your fellows.

Stop, man, and think what life would have been to you if she had treated you in your childhood as you are treating her in old age!

Suppose there had been no warm, caressing mother's love.

Suppose there had been no soft breast on which you could weep out your childish sorrows, no clinging arms to enfold you and comfort you when the things of your little world went wrong.

Would it not take away from you the memory of all that is best and sweetest in life? Is there anything else so pitiful on earth as the little child that is motherless—that is an alien in a strange home—that has no one to love it?

Yes, there is just one other figure more forlorn than the little, unloved child, and that is the old mother who is unloved by the children she has raised and who is doomed to spend the last years of her life in a glacial atmosphere of neglect; her devotion, her labors, her sacrifice forgotten.

Remember them now while there is yet time, while she is living, to pay back to her in love and tenderness some of the debt you owe her. You can never pay it all, but pay down something on account this very night.

Go home and put your arm around the shrunken old figure. Kiss the drooping old mouth with a real, live, warm kiss instead of giving her a perfunctory peck on the cheek. Tell her that she is the greatest mother a man ever had, and that all you are she made you.

It will cause her very soul to leap with joy and make the world a place of circling joy and life itself swim in a rosy mist of bliss for her—if she doesn't drop dead with surprise.

Lorimer's Friend Hines.

New York World: Lorimer's friend Hines, the lumber trust lobbyist, has been discredited by at least nine witnesses summoned by the senate committee that is investigating the election of Lorimer to the senate. Governor Deneen of Illinois is the last to testify that Hines swore to falsehoods.

That Hines boasted that "we put Lorimer over at Springfield"; that he openly spoke of the expenditure of $100,000 for that purpose; that he solicited contributions of $10,000 each from big interests in Chicago to reimburse the $100,000 fund said to have been spent in Lorimer's interest; that he used without authority the name of President Taft as urging Lorimer's election, and that on the stand he misrepresented conversations held with Governor Deneen and others, has time and again been testified under oath. Hines' one defense was that the other witnesses lied.

To accept Hines' word in any one of a dozen particulars it is necessary to assume in the Lorimer investigation that he alone told the truth and that nearly a dozen other witnesses swore falsely. As Senator Kenyon of Iowa remarked earlier in the proceedings of the committee, some one should be tried for perjury.

Relief From Hay Fever.

Youth's Companion: A hay fever sufferer who has found relief in wearing goggles—and thus protecting his eyes from flying pollen—suggests that if this precaution were generally taken at the approach of the annual attack, a good deal of discomfort might be avoided.

It has been believed that the intense inflammation of the eyes—like that of the throat—which usually goes with hay fever is the result of the nasal disturbance rather than the cause of it. But there is medical authority for another theory—that the trouble with the eyes is the direct result of the irritating pollen, and that tears, passing through the tear ducts, carry the trouble on to the throat.

Goggles will not cure hay fever, but if this theory is correct, they will prevent some irritation of the eyes and throat, and to that extent lessen the discomforts of the malady.

It Looked Good to Him.

Success Magazine: The teacher was demonstrating the powerful corrosive effects of intoxicating beverages upon a stomach's lining. The class looked on with horror when the poured some 95 per cent alcohol on an egg, thereby causing it to shrivel and coagulate. The demonstrator was pleased to observe the interest displayed by the janitor who had come in for the waste baskets. It was well known that he had need of such warning.

"Ma'am," he asked timidly, "wud you mind telling me where you buy yer licker?"

HIGHER RAILROAD RATES.

The Blundering Railroads.

Redwood Gazette: The die is cast. An increase of 8 per cent in freight tariffs and a return to the 3-cent passenger rate is announced by the railroads for July 1.

A more transparent blunder no management ever committeed.

Have the roads forgotten the feeling of a few years ago? Is it to their advantage to have every man's hand raised against them.

Business is business, but ill-fares the railroads when they become the recipients of the people's wrath.

"Railroads" will be an issue in the next campaign. As we said before, an increase in the gross earning tax is certain and whatever stringent regulations the state finds it can impose will be imposed.

The Rates Are Wrong.

Morris Tribune: Passenger and freight rates will be advanced by the railroads of Minnesota on July 1, by virtue of the ruling of the United States circuit court that the present established rates are "confiscatory." Passenger rates will be advanced 50 per cent and freight rates, it is stated, about 25 per cent. The advance is wrong, for two reasons:

First—Because the net earnings of the railroads have increased under the old rates.

Second—Because the railroads offered to voluntarily establish a 2½-cent rate, and in the days of passes and mileage books, maintained that the average rate which they received was a trifle under 2 cents, and they were satisfied with it.

The new rates will not stand long. We do not know just how they will be reduced, whether by the courts or voluntarily by the railroads, but they will be reduced. The advance in rates is wrong, and nothing that is wrong can long endure.

Discrimination.

Princeton Union: If you buy railroad mileage by wholesale you can ride for 2 cents per mile on trains in Minnesota. But if you are a poor devil, want to go somewhere and dollars are scarcer than white black birds, you must pay 3 cents per mile or walk.

Nothing for Them.

Perham Enterprise: Next time you buy a railroad ticket at 3 cents per mile, ask the station agent, train hands or section laborers what part of the rake-off they will receive. "Not a cent" will be the truthful answer of each and all.

Railroads Will Loose.

Madison Western Guard: The railroads will in time be the losers by the Sanborn rate decision. It will mean more stringent laws, higher taxes and in time government ownership.

What Do the People Think?

Mankato Free Press: The law under which the railroads are permitted to charge 3 cents per mile is discriminatory in that it permits a certain number of people to travel at the rate of 2 cents per mile, while others are charged 3 cents. What does Judge Sanborn think of this unjust condition?

That Won't Help.

Anoka Union: Everytime a citizen has to pay that extra cent a mile to the railroads he is expected to let out a string of oaths a mile long.

People Will Be Heard From.

Austin Transcript: It does seem hard to pay 3 cents a mile for railroad travel after we have been enjoying the 2-cent rate for the past four years. The railroad corporations are evidently having their innings with the courts just now. The people will be heard from emphatically a little later.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: The lazier a man is the more fish he can catch.

Don't sneer at the man in a hole. He may climb out and kick you in.

Most men dislike to play poker with a bad loser—also a good winner.

A woman's idea of a good time doesn't run to regrets the next morning.

While ennui isn't exactly contagious, it is apt to make other people tired.

The man who is part of the show misses the fun, but he gets a share of the gate receipts.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Inheriting money seems about as rare as inheriting brains.

Men seem crazy to spend money on anything except the family.

The reason a man has a good opinion of himself is so somebody will.

A man can act as if he did his wife a favor to let her work for the whole family for nothing.

A woman who is willing to be a grandmother has reconciled herself to admitting she's past 30.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Boston Transcript: Mrs. Nagleigh—I suppose you are satisfied now that you made a mistake when you married me?

Nagleigh—I made a mistake, all right, but I'm not satisfied.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Yes, I'm saving for a house."

"I can't save any money. How do you manage it?"

"By getting my wife to go without things. She thinks we're saving for an automobile."

Boston Transcript: "Yes," said Mrs. Blunderby, "my boy Willie has been through all the alimentary schools."

"Alimentary?" questioned the caller.

"Oh, I see; you are going to make a food specialist of him."

Life: Somewhat Superior Young Minister—No, dear lady; frankly, I cannot persuade myself that it would be safe to let women vote.

"And what, may I ask, is your reason for opposing it?"

"Well, dear lady, I cannot but think that if women were to vote it would make them, let us say—a little—er—er—masculine."

"Oh, I don't know. It has never had that effect upon the clergy."

Punch: Mother (to child who has left playmates in park)—Why have you left the others? What do you want, dear?

Little Girl—I've come here because Ella's so agglavatin' (a pause). At least, she will be when she finds I've broken the leg off her new doll.

Chicago Tribune: Plato Weetz (at cheap lunch counter)—Do you come here often?

Cutter Pye—Same as you do—when I think I'm not going to meet anybody I know.

Chicago Tribune: "My husband," remarked the caller, "is always interested in some kind of 'ology."

"My husband isn't," said Mrs. Lapsling, "but he has 'em just the same. He suffered from the neurology last night so bad he couldnt sleep a wink."

Automobiles and Thrift.

Chicago Record-Herald: In seeking a reduction of taxes before the board of review the secretary and treasurer of an automobile company told the reviewers that "scores of people are riding in automobiles 'to make a front' and owe us thousands of dollars that we cannot collect." The reviewers evidently believed him, for they reduced his company's assessment from $50,000 to $5,000.

Sterling Heilig, the Record-Herald's correspondent in Paris, said in his letter last Sunday that France was prosperous because every French child was brought up to say: "If I have 4 cents I must spend only 2."

The moral of these two utterances is obvious. We have no complaint about the purchase and use of automobiles by those who can afford them. The automobile makes for health as well as for pleasure. But when the secretary and treasurer of an automobile company makes such a statement, is it not pertinent to call the attention of the public to Mr. Heilig's further interesting bit of information that the French people are in a fair way to own the world if they continue to save and to invest wisely?

What Father Took.

London Answers: He came down the garden path a sad, sorrowful figure. She watched him with anxious eyes.

"How did father take it?" she asked.

"He took it—well," replied the young man.

"Oh, I'm so glad, George!" she cried, pressing her hands together.

"Are you?" replied George, flopping forlornly by her side. "Well, I can't say that I am, dear. At first your father wouldn't listen to me."

"Why didn't you tell him that you had $2,500 in the bank, as I told you to?" she exclaimed.

"I did, after all else had failed," answered George dejectedly.

"And what did he do then?"

"Do!" echoed the young man, passing his hand wearily through his hair. "He borrowed it!"

FINDS WAY TO VILLAGE

Aged Man Who Was Lost in Woods Walked Thirty Miles.

Ephraim Ralph, the old man who was lost in the woods near Alborn Monday afternoon, was located at Payne station, thirty miles from where he started, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ralph had twice crossed railroad tracks in his wanderings and was too much excited to realize that he could have found his way back along them.

Though he spent the night wandering in the woods, Mr. Ralph, who is 79 years of age, did not drop his pail of berries and had it with him when he was taken in at Payne.

W. H. Bailey, head of the Cloquet Tie & Post company, had organized a search for him and then came to Duluth to organize a posse of searchers from the members of Palestine lodge, of which the missing man was a member. A number had volunteered and were making preparations to start when a telegram was received from one of the searching party saying that Mr. Ralph had been located.

Though he was out all night coatless, Mr. Ralph kept on the move most of the time, and aside from extreme exhaustion is said to have suffered no ill effects.

SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS MAKES A FEATURE OF ITS CLOWNS

"SHORTY" MAYNARD,
The "Baseball Fiend," With the Sells-Floto Show, Coming to Duluth Aug. 4.

As every season rolls around, the proprietors of big tented attractions are found vieing with each other in order to produce the most novel act, be it either what is commonly known in circus parlance as a thriller or pure comedy.

There is something irresistibly funny in the laughable act introduced by the Sells-Floto people this year. It is that of a real battle with the flames by the associate clowns of that organization.

A regular fire engine is used of the most improved make and it may add interest to know that it is drawn by perhaps what are considered the most celebrated team of fire horses on the continent, being those which journeyed to London a few years ago and wrested the honors from all competitors at the series of fire drills given there.

A building is discovered on fire in the center of the main tent. The regular alarm is given and the fire engine rushes in, followed by the clowns, who come armed with soda water siphons, watering cans and other such paraphernalia. Their ludicrous efforts to extinguish the flames are said to be about the funniest thing that has ever been introduced to the patrons of the circus.

The Sells-Floto circus will give two performances here on Friday, Aug. 4. The price of admission has been cut in half this year.

MAY BUST TRUST WITHOUT A SUIT

Government Is Securing Dissolution of Electrical Combine.

Washington, July 19.—Conferences being held between officials of the department of justice and attorneys for the so-called electrical trust may result in a complete anti-trust victory for the government without resort to court.

Government officials have been told that eleven of the electrical pools, which were said to restrict territory and fix prices of electrical equipment, have been discontinued and that all trade restrictions have been removed.

A question of patents is involved, however, and the conferences probably will determine if the electrical men shall submit to the permanent injunction the government asks for, or whether an agreed case shall be submitted to the courts for decision.

The government's case now awaiting trial is against the National Electric Lamp company. The General Electric company and the Westinghouse company are mentioned in the suit as owners of the stock of several of the subsidiary corporations. The method of dissolution and division of their stock is also one of the points at issue.

REFERS MATTER TO ATTORNEY GENERAL

Report on Handling North Dakota Finances in Hands of That Official.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Action, if any is taken by the state, in connection with the recently promulgated report of the legislative committee that investigated the administration of affairs in the state treasury, will come through the office of the attorney general. Governor John Burke, in a statement made at Devils Lake, announced that the report had been turned over to the attorney general with instruction to take such steps as might be deemed advisable.

Just what steps could be taken, is not certain. The report sets forth losses which it is alleged were sustained by the state because of lax methods of handling state cash. The charges that are made against Former Treasurer Peterson probably are the most serious, he being accused of having received bonuses from Andy Jones for maintaining excessive balances in the Rugby and Barton banks controlled by him.

NEW POSTAGE STAMPS.

Washington's and Franklin's Likeness to Be Used.

Washington, July 19.—"Utility, art and harmony," according to Third Assistant Postmaster General Britt, will be combined in a new issue of postage stamps about to be authorized. The head of President Washington will appear on the first six of the series, and the last five will bear the likeness of Benjamin Franklin. All of the new stamps' denominations will be in Arabic and this, as well as the use of a separate color or shade for each denomination, is expected to prevent the confusion of which two conventions of postal clerks have complained.

Refuses Shelter; Is Killed.

Dillon, Mont., July 19.—John E. Dunham, only member of a haying crew on the ranch of Schuler & Bidstrup, near Dillon, in the southern part of the state, who refused to seek shelter at a hay stack from an electrical storm, was struck by lightning and instantly killed before the eyes of his companions.

WILL TALK OVER LAWS ON RATES

Ten Attorneys General Called to Confer at St. Louis Aug. 4.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 19.—Attorney General Major, at the request of Attorney General West of Oklahoma, has called a conference of ten attorneys general to be held in St. Louis, Aug. 4, for the discussion of pending railroad rate legislation.

The appeal from the decision of Federal Judge Smith McPherson, declaring the Missouri 2-cent railroad rate law unconstitutional, will be heard in the supreme court of the United States in October. Attorney General Major is preparing a supplementary brief in this case, based on points raised in the celebrated Minnesota rate case.

Attorneys general from Minnesota, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Oregon, Arkansas, South Dakota and Kentucky will attend the St. Louis conference.

SAYS McNAMARA ADMITTED GUILT

McManigal's Statement Shown After Wife Wins Contempt Case.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19.—Judge Walter Bordwell dismissed contempt proceedings brought against Mrs. Ortie McManigal for her refusal to testify before the grand jury in the Los Angeles Times explosion case, in which her husband and John J. and James B. McNamara are under indictment for murder.

The defense, hailing this action as a victory, protecting witnesses from being questioned before the grand jury, made public a certified transcript of Ortie McManigal's testimony before the grand jury.

This copy was offered as part of the defense's objection to the attempt to compel Mrs. McManigal, one of its witnesses, to talk to the grand jury, but it was not needed, because Judge Bordwell acted without waiting for negative argument. W. Joseph Ford, assistant district attorney, protested and said the prosecution either would appeal or would file a new affidavit on the subject.

Said He Admitted It.

McManigal, according to the transcript of testimony, told the grand jury that James McNamara admitted blowing up the Times building. This admission was made, he said, while he and James McNamara were in the woods at Conover, Wis.

McManigal said he first knew J. B. McNamara under that name, but later as J. B. Bryce, and after he came from the coast as Frank Sullivan. He told of discussing the Times explosion with John J. McNamara in the latter's office in Indianapolis.

"What is going on out there?" McManigal said he asked. "These fellows killed a lot of people."

"Yes," McNamara replied. "That ought to make them come across, the scabs."

McManigal then told of blowing up the Llewellyn iron works here, saying he was sent by J. J. McNamara, that he later reported to J. J. McNamara at Indianapolis and received $535 in all.

He also declared before the jury that a piece of mechanism shown him was an infernal machine which James B. McNamara had invented.

ARREST DUE TO JEALOUSY

Sherman Baird Is Captured After Eluding Officers Three Years.

Woman He Slighted Gave Authorities Clew to His Identity.

Sherman Baird's fondness for two women caused his arrest by the United States federal authorities after he had been a fugitive from justice for nearly three years.

Baird, who is 46 years old, was employed until Oct. 1, 1908, as railroad clerk for the United States postal department in Oklahoma for two years. During this time he became acquainted with a Miss Anna Kennedy of McAlester in that state.

On Oct. 1 he is said to have stolen $1,000 from a letter sent from Dennison, Tex., to McAlester, Okla., and made his get away.

He came to Duluth, and here he secured employment with the Duluth Street Railway company, working the past year as conductor under the name of W. Davis.

While here he became acquainted with a young woman with whom he has been living, it is claimed. Miss Kennedy, who had been communicating with him since he left Oklahoma, decided to see him here and unexpectedly called on him some time ago. When she found him with the Duluth woman, she became enraged and reported the matter to the federal authorities here.

United States Commissioner Thomas Pressnell then informed United States Postal Inspector R. S. Brower, who has been working on the case since the embezzlement took place, and he arrived in Duluth last Monday and swore out the warrant upon which Baird was arrested.

Yesterday afternon Baird was arraigned before Commissioner Pressnell and waived examination. He was then placed under $1,000 bail, which he was unable to furnish. When he was arraigned before Judge Page Morris of the United States court, he was ordered removed to the Eastern district of the federal court of Oklahoma, where his case will be tried at the next session of that court, which will be on Oct. 2, 1911.

URGE RUSSIA TO JOIN ARBITRATION TREATY.

St. Petersburg, July 19.—The Novoe Vremya urges the conclusion of an Anglo-Russian treaty of arbitration.

The Moscow Russkoe Slovo styles the treaty recently signed by Japan and Great Britain as "the end of the Anglo-Japanese alliance." The amendments in the new version, it says, are tantamount to annulment of the alliance and will terminate Japanese autonomy in the Pacific. Since the Portsmouth conference, the Slovo says, Japan has neglected her navy and devoted her whole resources to the army and the establishments on the continent preparatory to a further advance to the northeast. An end has now been put to Japan's continental policy. Henceforth she must watch the United States and spend money for a powerful fleet.

The Slovo urges immediate negotiations for an Anglo-Russian treaty of arbitration "to free Russia from wearisome Japanese tutelage in the Far East."

DISCUSSION OF SUPREME COURT RULINGS BRINGS LIVELY TILT BETWEEN LAWYERS

James Manahan Differs With Speakers and Expresses Opinions Warmly.

J. L. Washburn Promptly Comes to the Defense of the Decisions.

J. B. Cotton and Pierce Butler Deliver Scholarly Addresses on Live Topics.

JOSEPH B. COTTON.

PIERCE BUTLER.

THE SOLUTION OFFERED.

"We must have a comprehensive federal incorporation act, under which a corporation, while perhaps it should be permitted to hold the stock of foreign companies engaged in similar business, should not have the right to hold such stock of companies organized under such act or under the laws of the states of the American Union. Every existing or proposed new corporation which, with its other business does an interstate or international business can, and should be forced to come under the control of such an act. Its stocks and bonds should be permitted to issue only upon a physical valuation and appraisal of its properties and assets, so that every dollar of its stock and every dollar of its bonds will represent real value. The limits to which it may own or control raw materials or the necessities of life should be established. Its affairs should be controlled and regulated by a federal commission. Publicity of its affairs should be enforced; reasonable profits alone permitted, and reasonable dividends alone paid."—J. B. Cotton's address on the Standard Oil decision.

There is a sharp difference of opinion in the state bar association on the correctness of the rulings of the United States supreme court in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust cases. This fact was brought out with great clearness near the close of the argument on this subject yesterday afternoon.

J. B. Cotton and Pierce Butler had just finished the delivery of lengthy arguments in support of the decisions, and President Shearer had announced his regret that the two gentlemen who had been counted on to present the other side of the question were absent. There were one or two questions asked and some desultory objections made before James Manahan of St. Paul, redheaded, fiery and a La Follette Progressive, took the floor with a jump.

Mr. Manahan didn't like the decisions. The former speakers had told of the uncertainty under which business had labored under the old construction of the anti-trust law, and had praised the decisions as removing this uncertainty. Here Mr. Manahan found what he thought was a weak spot in their argument.

"Uncertainty?" queried Mr. Manahan, excitedly. "How does it remove uncertainty to have the law apply to 'reasonable' combinations only? None of these gentlemen have defined the meaning of that term. Definition will help a little. Why, under the present rule no one will know until his case has been tried and decided whether he is guilty of a violation of the law. His case must be brought before the court in every instance as a new question to be decided. To the changing personnel of that body must be left the task of deciding what the meaning of that term reasonable is. If that is not uncertainty, then what is it.

"There is another objection which I would raise to this line of decision. It strikes at the very foundation of our government, its division into separate branches, the legislative, the judiciary and the executive. It means that five men, appointed for life, above criticism and above responsibility, have a power to render nugatory any law which our congress may pass. It means that they can read into every law words rendering it invalid. If that is not a despotism, then I do not know what despotism means.

"I want to say that in my opinion these decisions have been eminently satisfactory to Wall street and the big interests, but that they have been very unsatisfactory to the ordinary citizen and the supreme court has, as a result of them, fallen in his respect."

J. L. Washburn Objects.

J. L. Washburn of Duluth took umbrage at part of the fiery Progressive's remarks.

"I want to say," said Mr. Washburn with dignity and deliberation, "that I believe that these decisions have been eminently satisfactory to all citizens who believe in sane conservative building up, and not in destroying. Mr. Manahan has objected to the power of the court to render nugatory any law which congress might make, and has stigmatized it as a despotism. Mr. Manahan could, and I do not doubt, would, make the same eloquent argument against the power of the court to pass on the constitutionality of laws passed by the legislative bodies.

"He has objected to the uncertainty imposed by the decisions. I suggest that the same objection can be raised against the system by which an accused man does not know whether he is guilty until the jury comes in."

Other objections urged to the law were that the decision of the supreme court amounts to wiping the law off the statute books and leaving the courts to common law, and that the direct reversal of the court from its earlier position leaves things in an unsettled and indeterminate state.

H. V. Mercer came to the front with an answer to the first of these objections by pointing out that there was no federal common law and the court would be powerless without the statutes.

The two prepared addresses, which opened the discussion, were by J. B. Cotton of Duluth and Pierce Butler of St. Paul. Both men were enthusiastically in favor of the decision rendered by the court and supported it by carefully worked out and logical arguments.

Mr. Cotton's Talk.

Mr. Cotton's address was as follows:

"Mr. President and Members of the Association: Within the very proper limits of time set, any attempted review of, or discussion upon, any particular phase of the Standard Oil and tobacco cases must of necessity be fragmentary and incomplete. For many obvious reasons, I hesitate to give my pronouncement here lest it be rightly considered of doubtful value and prove as unsatisfactory to you as it is to myself.

"Like the Dred Scott case of fifty years ago, these recent decisions mark a distinct event, a new epoch, in the economic growth and history of the American nation. Excepting perhaps only the Dred Scott decision, I think we may safely say that no other cases in the history of the United States supreme court have excited so much public interest and have been the occasion of such controversy and great divergence of views. As in the Dred Scott case, so in these cases, no great question of constitutional or organic law was involved. Each involved solely the interpretation of a statute. The first one marked the commencement of an upheaval in the political history of America and led to the battle fields of the Civil war. So likewise, in my opinion, the recent cases mark the way for another, but peaceful, revolution,—to a new era in our governmental policy as to industrial combinations. They establish the rule of reason and the reign of common sense. They presage legislative enactment and lead to sane, forceful and honest governmental regulation and control.

"In our early national life, everything was done solely by individual units. Our country was young and undeveloped; the extent of its resources and its energetic, creative ability were unknown. The individual owned the team, the stage coach, the shop, the little store, the mill and the forge. The shoemaker made the shoes, the tailor the clothes, the town miller ground the wheat. Each little village or community was separate and complete in itself; it was virtually self-reliant in a busines way. It was not in any way interdependent with other villages or communities. With the influx to our shores from foreign nations, with an irresistible energy, born of the commingling of the blood of many races, we began to create and to grow, to subjugate and utilize our great domain, and to develop our natural resources. With this creative ability and inventive genius came new conditions and undreamed of results.

"From the inherent necessities of society itself came the railroad, the telephone, the telegraph and the myriad other utilitarian instrumentalities and achievements which have revolutionized conditions and made us, as parts of one great interdependent community. The same tendencies which have made us a great nation have created, fostered, and are solely responsible for, great business organization. The same insatiable will, courage and creative ability and energy which have made us a world power and pushed our trade to the outermost boundaries of civilization, have made combinations, trusts and the so-called big business. The constantly increasing needs of the people, their desire for a greater civilization, their purpose to convert the former luxuries of the few into the every day necessities of the many, have given rise to the corporate life of America.

Expanding Trade.

"In the earlier day, a single individual could own a small ship, but the increasing public demands soon necessitated the present monsters of the sea. The necessities of the people soon required all the natural monopolies, railroads, telegraph lines, telephone lines, street railways, power plants, lighting plants, etc., on so extensive a scale that individual capital or effort alone would not suffice to build them or provide them. The economic tendency of the nation—maximum of production with minimum of cost and waste—with its countless controlling, influencing factors, enforced the combination of capital and the creation of the corporation, and with the establishment of these corporate forms and resultant combinations and business enterprises came greater benefits to the people, easier means of transportation and constantly decreasing rates. With all these things came comforts and luxuries of life undreamed of even in the Golden Age. The tallow candle gave way to the kerosene lamp, and that soon to gas and electric lights; the horse car to the electric car; the horse to the automobile and the aeroplane. The shop, the forge, the little mill, soon gave way to the big store, the big factory, the big plant. Coal fields of one section of the country were combined with ore bodies of other sections, vessels with railroads, and raw materials and finished products soon were handled by the same organization. All those revolutionary changes increased selling prices to producers. They did not restrict, but expanded, trade. They widened the fields of business activity; they cheapened cost prices to the consumers. While they did away with the profits to middlemen, they provided for them in another way, viz., stockholders' dividends. Never with all this sudden fifty-year growth, there were no checkmates, no safe-guards, no provisions for regulation and control!

"Since government first began, the natural tendencies of men have always been the same. Only the corporate form seemed to offer greater opportunity for greed and selfish gain. In the days of individualism, competition was just as reckless and lawless—it was always the survival of the fittest. The business success of any individual depended on his ability to get the business or following of his competitor. This same idea continued with the corporation, and, in that guise, the attempt to stifle competition was, as ever, unlawful, unjust, unfair. Pools were entered into and combinations were made to limit production, divide territory, refrain from competition, or to increase or cut prices, and to discriminate against communities. Naturally, the people became suspicious and alarmed. They feared the secretive and too powerful corporations, with their almost unlimited power and influence. They saw these secret forces working to restrain trade, to create wealth, not by the ordinary methods of evolution and growth, but to do it by jugglery, by secret combinations, by pools and pooling agreements, and by discrimination in rates and prices. The American people then, as now, were not willing that all wealth and all power should be in the hands of the few. Neither were they then, nor are they now, willing to go back to individual units. And they could not if they would, for we live in an age dominated by the creative influences and shaping tendencies of centuries, and governed by an economic law, as inexorable as nature's laws themselves.

Anti-Trust Law.

"Out of all these alarming conditions and the consequent public unrest, came the Sherman anti-trust law of 1890. No one dreamed that the act would ever be interpreted in such a way as to prevent the normal expansion of business enterprises. The law seemed to condemn all restraint of trade as illegal. It was, however, assumed that the expression "restraint of trade" was intended to include all acts and practices preventing rivals from engaging in a particular business and not that it prevented the growth of an industry through the lawful purchase of the property and business of rivals. Throughout the past century and so far in this, the tendency of all human activity and industrialism has been toward a larger and ever increasing scale of production. The same marked tendency prevailed and still prevails in the field of distribution. Any concern which produces and markets on a large scale is able to render the public the greatest service at the lowest possible cost. Until 1897 no one imagined the Sherman law was meant as a check on these inevitable tendencies.

"To lessen the number of competitors in any field is not necessarily an act in restraint of trade. On the contrary, often both the result and the evidence an increase of trade. If competitors are driven out by lawless competition, by unfair methods, by cut throat prices, by forestalling the market for raw materials, by secret agreements with common carriers, all must all agree that the Sherman act has been violated. However, if a corporation, by honest methods and as a result of skillful management, has grown and gradually outstripped its rivals, or absorbed the business of many of its rivals, without the obnoxious practices or dishonest methods which have always been the handmaidens of monopoly, I am certain that the business world will insist that such a concern has deserved its success, has not been guilty of restraint and must not be led to the pillories or guillotines of the Sherman act.

"Section 1 of the act provides that every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraining of trade is illegal, and section 2 provides that any person who monopolizes, or attempts to monopolize, or combines or conspires with another to monopolize, any part of interstate or international trade or commerce, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. No definition was given of what was meant by restraint of trade. The statute did not define the words and their meaning had to be sought by judicial decisions. However, at the very time the words 'restraint of trade' at the common law had a well understood and definite meaning. It will be noted that the act did not prevent the formation of combinations. It did not prohibit the creation of trusts. On the contrary, it assumed the legality of both—and did not prohibit them from engaging in interstate commerce. It said nothing about competition, nor did it directly or indirectly forbid contracts in restraint of competition. The act contains nothing to prevent contracts not to compete, nor to enter into competition for trade and commerce. The statute did not define monopoly, and again reference had to be had to history and judicial decisions for the meaning of the word. The briefest study shows that a monopoly could only rise from a grant by a sovereign power to one person or more than one person of a special privilege to do something which before had been enjoyed in common. Was there anything of that kind in the Sherman act? The combinations, trusts, corporations had no grant of monopoly or exclusive right to do anything. The only monopoly charged against them has always been that they were doing more business in their line than any or some competitor in the same line. But guaranteed by the constitution and sustained by the fundamental Jeffersonian declaration that all men are created equal to their rights before the law, this very privilege is now and always has been inherent in every individual and in every corporation. The point I make from all this is, that whether you view this statute from the angle of contracts, or combinations, or conspiracies, or monopolies, it cannot be read literally and the courts have never done so even when asserting that they had.

Original Interpretation.

"As all we know, the oroginal interpretation of the words 'in restraint of trade' employed in the Sherman act was given by the supreme court in the Trans-Missouri case, decided in 1897. There the court held, five to four, that congress had said every contract, every combination, in restraint of trade is illegal; that when the law says so there is no power in the courts, if they correctly interpret and apply the statute, to substitute the word 'some' for he ward 'every;' that if congress had meant to forbid only restraints of trade which were unreasonable, it would have said so. Instead of doing so, it said 'every' and that this word of universality embraced both contracts which were unreasonable, and those which were reasonable. I want to suggest here, what every lawyer who has critically studied this case knows, that it was not necessary to go to the extent above stated to reach the result in the Trans-Missouri case. The contract there involved was clearly void at the common law and could have been held invalid as against public policy. At this later day, I think that it is the common view of most of those of our profession who have made a study of the subject that had the supreme court in the Trans-Missouri case considered the language of the act in the light of the common law meaning of the terms there employed, no result could have been arrived at other than that the combination of a number of railroad corporations to fix prices was contrary to the common law as known in both England and America. It has been suggested by some very eminent lawyers that those portions of the recent decisions of Chief Justice White which relate to the interpretation of the Sherman act are mere dicta. On the other hand, equally eminent lawyers, of great ability and learning, take the position, rightly as I believe, that Mr. Justice Peckham's interpretation in the Trans-Missouri case, holding that every restraint of trade, whether reasonable or otherwise, fell under the ban of the law, was in itself dictum. As illustrating this, I need only refer to Mr. Justice Brewer's decision in the Northern Securities case, where, in referring to the Trans-Missouri case, he said: "Instead of holding that the anti-trust act included all contracts, reasonable or unreasonable, in restraint of interstate trade, the ruling should have been that the contracts there presented were unreasonable restraints of interstate trade and as such within the scope of the act.

Flaw in Opinion.

"In my humble view, the majority opinion in the Trans-Missouri case was wrong in that it proceeded upon a misapprehension or misconception of the common law, and apparently failed to distinguish between combinations and contracts. Contracts in restraint of trade, combinations or conspiracies in restraint of trade and monopolies were known to and had long been dealt with by the common law. The terms used in the Sherman act had a well understood and well defined meaning at the common law. All 'contracts in restraint of trade' were not held to be within that category. Contracts which did not unreasonably restrain trade were held lawful by the common law. And the words 'contracts in restraint of trade' at the common law, by all the decisions, embraced only those contracts which unreasonably restricted or restrained trade, which unreasonably restricted or restrained competition. The majority opinion in the Trans-Missouri case asserts that it literally construed the language of the Sherman act, and that congress said 'every' and therefore the law must be that 'every contract in restraint of trade' was illegal. Yet, in that very decision the court implies that there might be contracts which were only collateral and which might not be precluded. Justice White in his minority opinion said that the court had held that, in the literal meaning of the act, 'every contract in restraint of trade, is illegal, and then it had proceeded to except classes itself. In short, that the court, by the majority opinion, had given the words employed by congress a literal meaning and had then refused to be bound by its own decision.

"In the Hopkins case and in the joint traffic cases, which followed shortly, the court, speaking again through Justice Peckham, while reiterating and re-affirming its alleged strict and literal construction of the language of the Sherman act, again exempted certain classes of contracts which restrain trade, and expressely said that the act must be given a reasonable construction and was not to be held to include those contracts which only incidentally and remotely restrained trade. The court expressly used this language. 'The contract condemned by the statute is one whose direct and immediate effect is a restraint upon that kind of trade or commerce which is interstate' • • • 'To treat as condemned by the act all agreements under which, as a result, the cost of conducting an interstate commercial business may be increased would enlarge the application of the act far beyond the fair meaning of the language used. There must be some direct and immediate effect upon interstate commerce in order to come within the act.'

Adhered to Error.

"The initial, fundamental error in the whole chain of decisions has been that the supreme court, in the Trans-Missouri and joint traffic cases did not hold that the act was to be construed as a legislative enactment of the common law into this country and did not give to the words employed by congress the meaning given to the same words and expression by the common law as interpreted by the courts. With the exceptions named, our court has adhered to this fundamental error until the recent decisions. These, to my mind, are the handiwork of a master mind—the jurist profound and the statesman far-seeing and patriotic. By the inexorable law of reason, by the irresistible logic of events, the present court has finally succeeded in forgetting the Sherman law decided as it should have been decided in 1897. His decision of interpretation is not dictum. It is the establishment of a principle by the use of which constructive decisions will flow and the limits to be determined as to how far big business may justly go. It is the establishment of a rule by the use of which the boundaries of the middle ground may be determined between the accumulation of all wealth and power in the hands of the few and the attempted impossible return to individual units. If you like, call it judicial legislation. A great crisis was upon the court! A great peril confronted the American people and business generally! At all times in history, some great leader, whether at the bar or in the forum or upon the bench or the field of conflict, has always arisen, equal to the opportunity, equipped for the undertaking and courageous and masterful enough for the burden and the task.

"If, in these recent cases, there had been a further literal interpretation of the Sherman act we would have had in this country complete economic stagnation and business chaos. Doubtless, this same thought Judge Lacombe had in mind when, in his decision of the tobacco case in the lower court—feeling himself and the country bound by this same literal interpretation—he said: 'Two individuals who have been driving rival express wagons between villages in two contiguous states, who enter into a combination to join forces and operate a single line, restrain an existing competition.' In short, do an illegal act and commit a crime!

Rule of Reason.

"Interpreted rationally, that the rule of reason is to apply—which is only another way of saying the rule of common sense—(and this has always been the declaration of the common law, largely developed, as we all know, by the judiciary itself) the Sherman law, while not an adequate remedy for the ills of which we complain, while not a cure-all for trusts, combinations and monopolies, will not, in my opinion, annihilate business or seriously hinder its substantial development. We know by these decisions that it is intended thereby that this shall be a government of law and not of mere caprice. We know that hereafter neither size nor magnitude of business, nor the mere holding of the stocks of other corporations, is to be the controlling factor, but that mainly by its acts and conduct will each accused combination be either judicially vindicated or destroyed. Of course, these decisions do not give us any guide posts, but they point the way. They define no limits of permissive growth or size. They will not enable us to say what proportion of a given business any company may or may not have. They do mean, however, that the courts have finally reached the conclusion that while the law may authorize competition, it cannot compel competition. Also, that if the legislative body of our nation does not have the wisdom or the courage to grasp this great problem of trusts, monopolies and combinations and devise, by careful consideration and exhaustive study, some plan that will regulate and control them, then, as in every former crisis in our history, the greatest court on earth, by the rule of common sense, through a series of constructive decisions, will build up in this country a sane judicial structure that will safeguard the people and their rights.

"Since the Trans-Missouri and Joint Traffic cases, the Sherman act, as thereby interpreted, has been considered by business men generally as virtually a dead letter and not likely to be vigorously enforced, for the reason that it was and is contrary to our modern economic law. It condemned good and bad enterprises alike, and its strict enforcement, instead of building up the country's industries and adding to the wealth and happiness of the people, would have led to wholesale destruction. While that interpretation did not put us back to individual units, its menacing shadow likewise fell on all legitimate business. Every concern and every man conducting business since then have done so in the face of doubt and uncertainty as to their legal status. There are doubtless thousands of corporations in this country (I am not including railroads) directly amenable to that law and which have carried on their business without a proper chart with which to shape their course. You will recall that it is made the mandatory duty of the attorney general of the United States and his corps of lieutenants from each sovereign state, to institute suits to destroy these combinations. If such suits had been instituted and prosecuted, what would have been the result? Manifestly, business chaos, economic stagnation, ruination! Under the Sherman law, as originally construed, we have only had a few prosecutions, and those have been mainly of the most unpopular of our large corporations. In fact, all our large business in this country since 1897 has been at the ipse dixit of the successive attorneys general of the United States. A fine commentary upon our boasted republican form of government, to say the least!

Sherman Law Has Failed.

"In my opinion, the time is here when the thinking men of America must concede that the Sherman law, in attempting to reconstruct society upon the primitive individualism of the dead past, has signally failed of its mission, and that it is not the right instrument to effect cures for the ills of which the people complain. Here we are, fifty sovereign states or nations banded together for protection and other purposes. The melancholy fact is that each state can create this artificial citizen, the corporation, grant it privileges as a citizen which possibly its sister states do not grant, and then, by comity, this non-resident citizen is permitted to enter and engage in business in the other states with domestic corporations there which do not enjoy the same rights, privileges and immunities. When the Standard Oil and Tobacco companies are reorganized, how do we know but that the elements into which they are separated may not themselves, in many, if not in all cases, constitute an undue or injurious direct restraint of trade? Here, then, is the underlying reason why the courts have now undertaken the burdens of reorganization. Without the guiding hand of the judiciary, what assurance has the American people that the reorganizations will not be as objectionable as before? If the Sherman law is able to be alone the instrument to correct business abuses, the self-imposed burdens which the courts have assumed will require them, in applying the rule of reason or common sense, to define the limits of combinations, the lawful and the unlawful forms of the same, the economic necessities of the American people, the extent to which competition may be restricted, the proportions of a given business or enterprise which a corporation or an individual may have or enjoy, the extent to which prices may be regulated to prevent loss, and possibly the extent to which production may be curtailed to prevent waste, and, in short, to be the arbiters of our whole complex industrial condition and of conflicting economic principles and ideals. I grant which only incidentally and remotely restrained trade. The court expressly used this language. 'The contract condemned by the statute is one whose direct and immediate effect is a restraint upon that kind of trade or commerce which is interstate' • • • 'To treat as condemned by the act all agreements under which, as a result, the cost of conducting an interstate commercial business may be increased would enlarge the application of the act far beyond the fair meaning of the language used. There must be some direct and immediate effect upon interstate commerce in order to come within the act.'

Adhered to Error.

"The initial, fundamental error in the whole chain of decisions has been that the supreme court, in the Trans-Missouri and joint traffic cases did not hold that the act was to be construed as a legislative enactment of the common law into this country and did not give to the words employed by congress the meaning given to the same words and expression by the common law as interpreted by the courts. With the exceptions named, our court has adhered to this fundamental error until the recent decisions. These, to my mind, are the handiwork of a master mind—the jurist profound and the statesman far-seeing and patriotic. By the inexorable law of reason, by the irresistible logic of events, the present court has finally succeeded in forgetting the Sherman law decided as it should have been decided in 1897. His decision of interpretation is not dictum. It is the establishment of a principle by the use of which constructive decisions will flow and the limits to be determined as to how far big business may justly go. It is the establishment of a rule by the use of which the boundaries of the middle ground may be determined between the accumulation of all wealth and power in the hands of the few and the attempted impossible return to individual units. If you like, call it judicial legislation. A great crisis was upon the court! A great peril confronted the American people and business generally! At all times in history, some great leader, whether at the bar or in the forum or upon the bench or the field of conflict, has always arisen, equal to the opportunity, equipped for the undertaking and courageous and masterful enough for the burden and the task.

"If, in these recent cases, there had been a further literal interpretation of the Sherman act we would have had in this country complete economic stagnation and business chaos. Doubtless, this same thought Judge Lacombe had in mind when, in his decision of the tobacco case in the lower court—feeling himself and the country bound by this same literal interpretation—he said: 'Two individuals who have been driving rival express wagons between villages in two contiguous states, who enter into a combination to join forces and operate a single line, restrain an existing competition.' In short, do an illegal act and commit a crime!

Rule of Reason.

"Interpreted rationally, that the rule of reason is to apply—which is only another way of saying the rule of common sense—(and this has always been the declaration of the common law, largely developed, as we all know, by the judiciary itself) the Sherman law, while not an adequate remedy for the ills of which we complain, while not a cure-all for trusts, combinations and monopolies, will not, in my opinion, annihilate business or seriously hinder its substantial development. We know by these decisions that it is intended thereby that this shall be a government of law and not of mere caprice. We know that hereafter neither size nor magnitude of business, nor the mere holding of the stocks of other corporations, is to be the controlling factor, but that mainly by its acts and conduct will each accused combination be either judicially vindicated or destroyed. Of course, these decisions do not give us any guide posts, but they point the way. They define no limits of permissive growth or size. They will not enable us to say what proportion of a given business any company may or may not have. They do mean, however, that the courts have finally reached the conclusion that while the law may authorize competition, it cannot compel competition. Also, that if the legislative body of our nation does not have the wisdom or the courage to grasp this great problem of trusts, monopolies and combinations and devise, by careful consideration and exhaustive study, some plan that will regulate and control them, then, as in every former crisis in our history, the greatest court on earth, by the rule of common sense, through a series of constructive decisions, will build up in this country a sane judicial structure that will safeguard the people and their rights.

"Since the Trans-Missouri and Joint Traffic cases, the Sherman act, as thereby interpreted, has been considered by business men generally as virtually a dead letter and not likely to be vigorously enforced, for the reason that it was and is contrary to our modern economic law. It condemned good and bad enterprises alike, and its strict enforcement, instead of building up the country's industries and adding to the wealth and happiness of the people, would have led to wholesale destruction. While that interpretation did not put us back to individual units, its menacing shadow likewise fell on all legitimate business. Every concern and every man conducting business since then have done so in the face of doubt and uncertainty as to their legal status. There are doubtless thousands of corporations in this country (I am not including railroads) directly amenable to that law and which have carried on their business without a proper chart with which to shape their course. You will recall that it is made the mandatory duty of the attorney general of the United States and his corps of lieutenants from each sovereign state, to institute suits to destroy these combinations. If such suits had been instituted and prosecuted, what would have been the result? Manifestly, business chaos, economic stagnation, ruination! Under the Sherman law, as originally construed, we have only had a few prosecutions, and those have been mainly of the most unpopular of our large corporations. In fact, all our large business in this country since 1897 has been at the ipse dixit of the successive attorneys general of the United States. A fine commentary upon our boasted republican form of government, to say the least!

Sherman Law Has Failed.

"In my opinion, the time is here when the thinking men of America must concede that the Sherman law, in attempting to reconstruct society upon the primitive individualism of the dead past, has signally failed of its mission, and that it is not the right instrument to effect cures for the ills of which the people complain. Here we are, fifty sovereign states or nations banded together for protection and other purposes. The melancholy fact is that each state can create this artificial citizen, the corporation, grant it privileges as a citizen which possibly its sister states do not grant, and then, by comity, this non-resident citizen is permitted to enter and engage in business in the other states with domestic corporations there which do not enjoy the same rights, privileges and immunities. When the Standard Oil and Tobacco companies are reorganized, how do we know but that the elements into which they are separated may not themselves, in many, if not in all cases, constitute an undue or injurious direct restraint of trade? Here, then, is the underlying reason why the courts have now undertaken the burdens of reorganization. Without the guiding hand of the judiciary, what assurance has the American people that the reorganizations will not be as objectionable as before? If the Sherman law is able to be alone the instrument to correct business abuses, the self-imposed burdens which the courts have assumed will require them, in applying the rule of reason or common sense, to define the limits of combinations, the lawful and the unlawful forms of the same, the economic necessities of the American people, the extent to which competition may be restricted, the proportions of a given business or enterprise which a corporation or an individual may have or enjoy, the extent to which prices may be regulated to prevent loss, and possibly the extent to which production may be curtailed to prevent waste, and, in short, to be the arbiters of our whole complex industrial condition and of conflicting economic principles and ideals. I grant that questions are primarily legislative, not judicial. But in the absence of legislative enactment, and in spite of constitutional limitations, the necessary definite principles of public policy and the adaptation thereof to industrial expansion and changing social conditions required by the country must, in consequence, come from a fearless and far-seeing judiciary, just as the common law, the base of our whole jurisprudence, is judge-made law.

Growth of the Law.

"If the Sherman act had been construed rightly as it is now, we should have had by this time either legislation that would now control our gigantic combinations and make the people their master, or we would have by this time a line of constructive decisions by the supreme court largely securing the same results. The just criticism of the trans-Missouri case is that the court sacrificed the spirit to the letter of the law and made a misdirected public experiment. Law is, and of necessity must be, a creature of constant growth. The invention of the telephone and of the telegraph has caused the re-writing of the law of contracts. Considerations of humanity and the requirements and demands of society are constantly changing various branches of the law. Of course, the supreme court has recently changed front, for what it said fourteen years ago was not in the Sherman act, it now says is in the act. Convinced of its error, why should it not do so now, since it has rightly done so in the past! You will all recall that in the Granger cases, the court expressly held that the legislature could regulate the charges of public utility corporations, and that such right was beyond judicial review as to its reasonableness. Later, when convinced by public opinion that the necessary effect of the decision was that the earning power of the railroads was subject to the caprice of any legislature, which could confiscate railroad securities, the supreme court revised its former ruling and now stands from actual bankruptcy. The recent trust decisions well illustrate the necessity for the continued growth in the law of which I have just spoken; they have breathed new life into the Sherman act and given it a vital force not heretofore possessed. They will clarify the atmosphere and greatly aid in the accomplishment of good, but they must be supplemented by wise and sane legislation. What we need in this country is to recognize that all parts of our country are interdependent; that the United States is a nation, not are a nation. What we need to remember is that the inexorable law of our national growth and the untiring energy and creative abilities of the American people all along the lines of centralization, concentration and combination. In consequence, and so far as the exigencies of the situation require, we must break away from the old notion of states' rights. Interstate business, interstate relationship and interdependent conditions of necessity make us in effect one people, one nation, one community. If we are going to apply effectual remedies to oppressive trusts and monopolies, we must either destroy or regulate and control them. There is no middle course. If we destroy, we pull the house down upon ourselves and compel to our own ruination. Our national growth, health and preservation lie in honest and sane regulation and control.

New Law Needed.

"To this end, we must have a comprehensive federal incorporation act, under which a corporation, while perhaps it should be permitted to hold the stock of foreign companies engaged in similar business, should not have the right to hold such stocks of companies organized under such act or under the laws of the states of the American union. Every existing or proposed new corporation which, with its other business, does an interstate or international business, can be and should be forced to come under the control of such an act. Its stocks and bonds should be permitted to issue only upon physical valuation and appraisal of its properties and assets, so that every dollar of its bonds and every dollar of its stock will represent real value. The limit to which it may own or control raw materials or the necessities of life should be established. Its affairs should be controlled and regulated by a federal commission. Publicity of its affairs should be enforced; reasonable profits only permitted and reasonable dividends alone paid. If thus organized and controlled, the stocks and bonds of the big industrial concerns of this country would soon become largely the fields for the investment of the savings of the American people, and the corporate life of this country, so indispensible to our continued healthy, national growth, would thereby be popularized and become in fact an invaluable agency in the accomplishment of the greatest good to the greatest number.

"The Standard Oil and tobacco decisions have at least cleared the way for, and will inevitably force, a business reorganization in this country and a complete revolution in the organization and management of our corporate life. In my opinion, they will serve as a beacon to light the way to thorough investigation and to enlightened public discussion, out of which will come the command from the American people to the congress that safe, sane and comprehensive legislation shall be seasonably enacted—to the end that a new era of enduring enterprise and industrial peace, reconciling the right of combination with the liberty of the individual, shall have its dawn."

Stole His Thunder.

Mr. Butler remarked in opening his address that he supposed that it would be noticed that Mr. Cotton had burglarized a goodly portion of his ideas, and that his address would be in a large part very similar to Mr. Cotton's.

The early part of his talk was devoted to a brief historical review of the issues involved and how they had been raised. He pointed out that under the decision of 1897, which gave a strict interpretation to the Sherman act, all business in this country had been conducted practically at the whim of the attorney general and his assistants, inasmuch as any combination of two or more, construed as the court had intimated it would be construed would be a combination tending toward a monopoly, and a misdemeanor under the act. All business men, he said, were apprehensive for fear they were criminals.

Coming to the question as to whether congress intended to make all contracts in restraint of trade illegal, however small or however harmful they might be, Mr. Butler said:

"It is a well known principle of statutory construction that where a literal reading is impossible or absurd, the courts, to save the validity of a statute, will interpret it as they believe it must have been meant if such a construction can be made consistent with the law as it stands. This principle was laid down fifty years ago by the court itself.

"An example of the way this works is shown in a case in which a contract by a church with a foreign pastor was sought to be avoided as being in violation of the foreign contract labor law. There Chief Justice Brewer in a learned opinion says that the case is clearly within the letter of the law, but as it is not within the spirit of the law or the manifest intent of the maker, the statute will not apply to it.

Absurd Situations.

"In the case of the Sherman law, we have seen what absurd result a literal construction lends us to. The smallest partnership, the most insignificant corporation, though doing strictly competitive business would be within its terms. Such being the case it was not only the right, but the duty of the court to depart from the rule of letter which would have killed the law.

"The court has been criticized for going to the length it did in introducing the discussion as to the 'rule of reason' into their opinion. I believe that in view of the unfortunate duty under which the profession itself was laboring, and the apprehension under which business was being carried on, it was eminently proper and justifiable for the court to deliver an opinion covering a broader phase of the subject than the exigencies of the case before them demanded.

"This decision has been criticized as a piece of unwarranted judicial legislation. This criticism also seems to me unjust. The court has not, as has been said, introduced the word 'unreasonable' into the law. The phrase 'contract in restraint of trade' is not attempted to be defined in the Sherman act. It had a well known and definite meaning at common law. There every contract which resulted in the elimination of competition to some extent was not illegal. It was a definitely limited term, and it was never applied except where the combination or contract in question was entered into with a wrong intent toward the public. It is to the common law, according to the rules for the construction of laws, that courts must look for definitions of undefined terms. That is what the court did here, and no more.

"The ultimate question under the decision is not 'Is it a reasonable restraint?' but 'Does it come within the meaning of the phrase 'contract in restraint of trade,' as that phrase was known at common law? That is an eminently proper decision, and one which commends itself at once to our legal theorists and to our practical men.

"It seems to me that the recent decisions of the supreme court were correct, and commendable in every detail."

Just before the close of the afternoon session J. L. Washburn of Duluth suggested that the afternoon session tomorrow and Attorney General Wickersham's address be postponed from 3 o'clock until 2:30 in order to give those who desired to attend the funeral of Fred Reynolds an opportunity to attend. The funeral will be held from the Masonic temple at 1:30 p. m.

The afternoon session was brought to a close promptly at 4 o'clock in order to permit the members of the association to go on the automobile ride, which was on the program for the rest of the afternoon.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TO IMPROVE RED RIVER

Grand Forks Commercial Club Is Working for Navigation Congress.

Proposed Meeting There to Discuss Making River More Navigable.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A renewal of the movement that was placed under way some time ago to bring about better navigation conditions on the Red river of the North was brought about through the action of the Grand Forks Commercial club when it informally indorsed a plan that calls for the holding, in this city of a Red River Navigation congress.

The utilization of the Red river to its fullest possibilities in navigation will be the direct object sought by the navigation congress. By holding it is expected that the attention of the federal government would be more readily called to the situation here existing, and thus open the way to greater possibilities in the way of government support.

Improvement of the channel of the river, the construction of lock dams at several points, both above and below this city and several other changes of a like important nature, are proposed.

The importance of the river as a mode of transportation is probably not fully realized. Within the last two years the river has not attained a very high level, due to the lighter rainfall in 1910, and because the more scientific methods of farming adopted by the farmers in the valley have had the effect of conserving moisture to the soil which heretofore went to the river.

Last year, at the time the water began to lower, the Red River Transportation company had laid plans for the construction of $45,000 worth of new equipment, but the plans were dropped when the stage of the water became evident, and transportation was closed.

River Tonnage Large.

The annual tonnage on the river, during the season of high water, is large. Ordinarily between 600,000 and 800,000 bushels of wheat alone are hauled out from a district that extends from Grand Forks north to a point about twenty miles beyond Oslo, Minn., and from the south as far as Belmont, N. D. Last year, because of low water, it was necessary for the company to team about 75,000 bushels of wheat from its various elevators.

That farmers along the Red river would be enabled to make big savings in transportation cost by reason of proper river navigation is another feature that enters into the question. From 2 to 3 cents a bushel, it is believed, would be saved by them, and that in itself is an item of great importance, affecting, as it does, farmers of both Minnesota and North Dakota who reside in the Red river valley.

One of the plans that has been proposed is the construction of three ten-foot dams between Grand Forks and a point in the river east of Hillsboro. Such dams, it is claimed, would result in making the river navigable to that point at all seasons of the year. Further construction of dams would also be necessary north of the city.

The present government appropriation for the maintainance of the river is not very large, but the Grand Forks Commercial club and farmers in the valley, directly benefited by the river transportation plan, are desirous of receiving a greater amount of federal aid, and will conduct a campaign with that end in view.

SIVERT SIMPSON IS FOUND GUILTY

Verdict of Manslaughter Rendered With a Recommendation of Mercy.

Crookston, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—After deliberating nearly five hours, the jury in the district court that heard the evidence in the case against Sivert Simpson in his wife's bedroom last February, last evening returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter with a recommendation for mercy in receiving sentence. The jury got the case after 5 and returned a verdict about 10. Simpson was completely unnerved by the verdict, being on the verge of hysterics.

INDIANS MAKING MONEY.

Couderay Reservation Redmen Are Picking Blueberries.

Couderay, Wis., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indians in the Couderay reservation near here are earning big money this summer picking and selling blueberries. The blueberry crop this year is the best for years, and this cool weather is not crowding the ripening of the berries. Several hundred Indians are in the woods picking berries now, many of them picking as high as fifty quarts each in a day, which they find a ready market at 10 cents per quart. The Indians feel jubilant over their good fortune this summer as the money received from the blueberry crop will go a long way in covering the living expenses and clothing for the coming winter. The berry crop means a great deal to them and is of great benefit and is one of their principal sources of income.

The same opinion was expressed freely by other postmasters in the discussion that followed, and was also advanced by F. R. Ellsworth of Eveleth, secretary-treasurer of the association in a paper on "Postoffice Discipline."

HOPPERS HIT BELTRAMI.

Winged Pests Reported Bad in That County.

Fergus, Falls, Minn., July 19.—Prof. F. L. Washburn, the state entomologist, and his four field deputies conferred here yesterday on the grasshopper situation. The field men report that the grasshoppers are doing a lot of damage at many points in the state. They find them particularly bad in Foxhome county, west of this city, and in Beltrami county. Beltrami reports more damage than any other section of the state. They also find that the new poison, sodium arsenate, is doing very effective work in destroying them, and that it also kills out mustard in the fields without injuring the grain.

REPUBLICANS HAVE CHOICE BETWEEN RAIL SPLITTER AND A GOLF PLAYER

Progressive Republicans Insurge for Three Hours at Spalding Hotel.

Manahan Tears Into Taft Administration and Supreme Court.

Other Prominent Progressives Give Lively Talks Along Similar Lines.

"A rail-splitting Republican or a golf-playing Republican. Take your choice."

With Lincoln and Taft on which to base it, James Manahan of St. Paul thus defined the test of progressive Republicanism at the banquet of the Progressive Republican League of Duluth at the Spalding hotel last evening. He applied the test to President Taft and Governor Everhart and found them wanting.

"It is an outrage to class President Taft and Governor Eberhart as progressive Republicans," said Mr. Manahan.

Mr. Manahan was the principal speaker at the first banquet of the newly organized league. Only about thirty-five members of the league gathered for the feed and accompanying speeches but they made up in enthusiasm for what they lacked in numbers, and with proper progressive spirit, the name of Robert M. La Follette was cheered each time it was mentioned, while President Taft, Attorney General Wickersham, Former Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger, Governor A. O. Eberhart and other public men classed as reactionaries were scored by the speakers for their failure to keep in touch with the people.

Besides Mr. Manahan, speeches were made by Senator Haycraft of Medella, Representative W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis, Harvey S. Clapp, Watson S. Moore and H. B. Haroldson. Frank T. McNally was toastmaster.

Mr. Manahan said in opening that the greatest danger to the Progressive Republican cause comes from men who are standpat at heart and are claiming to be Progressives. He stated that President Taft and Governor Eberhart are claiming to be Progressives because they recognize the strength of the Progressive Republican cause. More will follow their lead, even in Duluth, he said, and standpatters will espouse the Progressive Republican cause under the guise of adherence to Roosevelt, while they know will not be a candidate for the presidency and will try to get into the state convention on that ground as Progressives.

Mr. Manahan said that if President Taft had not pledged himself during the campaign to carry out the policies of Roosevelt and to throw his influence towards a revision of the tariff downward, William J. Bryan would now be president of the United States.

"President Taft deliberately broke his word with the American people," said Mr. Manahan.

Mr. Manahan touched on the tariff legislation and the railroad rate legislation of the special session. He said the railroad rate bill as it came from Wickersham and was supported by the president was an infamy and would have destroyed the effect of existing railroad rate laws. It was rewritten on the floor of the house, he said, and is now being claimed as an administrative measure.

Mr. Manahan touched on the Ballinger administration of the department of the interior and claimed the interests were supported at the expense of the people. He scored the president for the executive order opening Controller Bay to entry and said that Richard Ryan, known to be an agent of the Guggenheims, had a survey of the land and other data for filing ready when the executive order was issued.

Criticises Decision.

He scored the supreme court for the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust decisions and declared that big business was considered in the decisions before the American people. He said that the court had reversed former decisions of the same court, because President Taft had the opportunity and did change the complexion of the court. He said the stand taken by corporation lawyers that the Almighty raised up a man who was great enough to disregard former decisions of the court, is a fallacy and that the effect of the decision on business was considered, and that alone.

No sane man believes, he said, that the Standard Oil decision has injured the Standard Oil company one particle. One of the old guard on the supreme court, he pointed out, Justice Harlan, dissented and no word that the speaker or anybody else could say in criticism of the court would be treasonable, for Justice Harlan went farther in his criticism of his colleagues.

"Justice Harlan characterized the decision as mischievous," said Mr. Manahan. "He went further. He proved it."

The Aldrich central bank plan he declared is the greatest infamy ever attempted to be perpetrated on the American people. He said that it would place the control of all business absolutely in Wall street and in the hands of the financial genius having control of the central bank. All the anti-trust laws and other laws that might be passed by congress would be of absolutely no effect if the control of business should become centralized as Senator Aldrich plans, he said.

Money or Men.

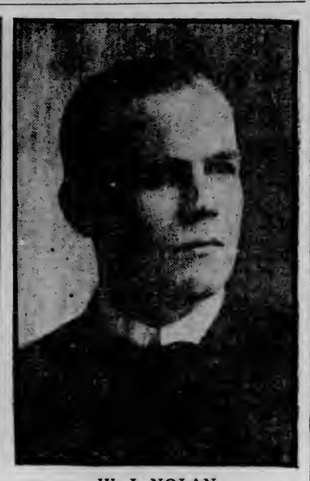

The test of progressiveness is the test between money and man, said Mr. Manahan. He said that there is a conflict on between the rights of man and the rights of money. The man allied with money is against man and against progressiveness, he said, and the man allied with man is against money power and for the common people.

In opening the program of speeches, Frank T. McNally, the toastmaster, said that the Progressive Republican movement is well-defined in Duluth and is growing. He said that those who attended the banquet showed their freedom from the dominance of the city and county machine, which had told them they would be "in wrong" by attending such an affair. He said that the Progressive Republican movement arose out of corruption in city, state and national government and that it stood for clean government and a representative government of, by and for the people. He paid a high tribute to Robert M. La Follette and the senators and representatives who stood with him in the fight for good legislation at Washington and commended Senator Clapp, and Representatives Anderson and Lindberg of the Minnesota delegation. He introduced Harvey S. Clapp as the first speaker.

Mr. Clapp defined himself as a "fireside Socialist and a straight party worker." He said politics is largely a matter of personal inclinations and no man should be too regular. He said he believes the Progressive Republican movement is the sole salvation of the country and unless it succeeds, a great body of dissatisfied men will arise in revolution against existing conditions.

JAMES MANAHAN.

W. I. NOLAN.

SENATOR HAYCRAFT.

A. G. McKNIGHT.

He said he is a conservative to a certain degree, but he feels that his brand of conservatism allows him to ally himself with the progressive movement.

Hans Haroldson announced that he was not prepared for a speech, and he talked briefly on the progressive movement.

W. I. Nolan, representative in the legislature from Minneapolis and a man who is forced to labor under the designation of humorist, gave a serious speech in defense of the house of the late lamented legislature. Mr. Nolan said that ethics forbid his discussing the doings of the senate. "Usually a member of the house, cannot find words to express his opinion of the senate," he said.

Mr. Nolan defined "stand-patter" from the poker viewpoint and said that a stand-patter in politics is a worshiper of idols, chief of which is the god Mammon. He said that the progressive movement aims to give to every citizen the representation in government that is his by right. He reported as to the progressive movement in the state and its present status. He told of the fight of the progressives in the legislature, charged Speaker Dunn with being a pliant tool of the interests and said that the committee appointments were made to satisfy the interests.

"Every word that Representative Klemer said on the floor of the house was true. We had the proofs and if we had had a committee that would have received it favorably, we would have submitted the evidence. As it was, we did not care to submit our evidence to a committee that was against us," he said.

Mr. Nolan declared that although the last legislature was severely censured and probably deserved all the censure it received, it was as good as any previous legislatures, the only difference being that the people had awakened and expected more of their representatives. The session served to further awaken the people of the state, he said, and showed them what is needed in the matter of legislation.

Spirit of Lincoln.

He said that Roosevelt revived in the American people the spirit created by Lincoln and that Robert M. La Follette is now the logical leader of the progrssivs. He denied that the Progressive Republicans were outside the party. They are inside the party, he said, and are endeavoring to bring it back to the ideals that existed before big business obtained control.

Senator Haycraft of Madella, the "sturdy little Yankee of Watonwan," gave a rousing Progressive Republican talk. He spoke of the work of the senate at the last session and said that only a mistake of the clerk prevented the passage of the initiative, referendum and recall bills and of the direct primary bill. He said that the clerk's action in declaring the motion for adjournment carried on the next to the last day of the session was an honest mistake, caused by the clerk being tired out, and that only for that mistake, the progressive measures would have been passed.

Watson S. Moore in a brief talk declared his progressive inclinations.

ATTORNEY GENERAL WICKERSHAM TELLS LAWYERS OF STATE A CURE FOR TRUST EVILS OF PRESENT DAY

that the combination shall be dissolved.

"The decree further provided that in order that the court might obtain such further information as should enable it to frame a final decree which should give effective force to its adjudication, a hearing should be given the parties in October 'as to the nature of the injunction which shall be granted herein and as to any plan for dissolving said combination,' the defendants being enjoined in the meantime from doing any acts to further extend or enlarge the field of operation or the power of the unlawful combination.

"Therefore, within such time as the ascertainment of facts and the preparation of evidence necessary to the initiation and conduct of appropriate proceedings by the government may require, such of the known monopolistic combinations in restraint of interstate trade and commerce as shall not voluntarily dissolve, will be brought before the courts for judgment, and the precedents furnished by the Standard Oil, Tobacco and Powder cases afford some assurance of the results which may be anticipated.

Will Sherman Law Avail.

"But the question remains, can the great end and object of the Sherman law, namely, that the normal course of trade and commerce among the states shall not be impeded by undue restraints and monopolies, be realized through the operation of that law alone? In dealing with transportation, congress was not content to rely simply on the process of injunction to restrain, and indictment to punish violations of the anti-trust law. It also established an administrative commission clothed with powers—grealy enlarged from time to time—over those engaged in the transportation business, which congress enacted should be carried on for a reasonable compensation and without unjust discrimination as between parties or localities similarly situated. While congress has not specially incorporated corporations to carry on such business—save in a very few instances—nor directly licensed them to engage in interstate transportation, nor expressly exempted them from state interference, the federal courts have substantially held that congress by regulating the rates and practices of common carriers in interstate commerce, has prohibited state regulation which would conflict with that of the nation. The decisions of the federal courts on this subject have not been always consistent, and in some instances state legislation has been allowed effect despite apparent conflict with federal regulation of the same subject. But in the absence of direct congressional exclusion of state law, or an avowed direct and exclusive license system, or system of national incorporation, the courts have very properly considered the susceptibilities of the states, and have upheld state legislation whenever it seemed to be not destructive of national control over the essentials of interstate commerce.

"A more frankly logical system would be, of course, more satisfactory; but congress, in common with other legislative bodies, is apt to shrink from taking a clear logical position in legislation which may involve conflict with other sovereignties or quasi-sovreignties, and to leave judicial interpretation to add to statutory authority a power the legislature was desirous to confer but feared to express.

"There are many reasons why a similar attitude may be expected when congress comes to deal with the difficult problem of regulating the conduct of large commercial businesses among the states by corporations.

"The existing system, whereby every state charters corporations without the slightest regard to other states, or to the nation, empowered to roam at will so far as their creator is concerned, but subject to any restriction or condition which any other state into which they may desire to go in carrying on their business chooses to impose, naturally led to a demand for authority in one corporation to take and hold stock in another, in order that the business of a corporation organized in one state might be carried on in another state, without subjecting the parent company and its entire capital and corporate organization to the laws of the latter. Probably no one thing has done more to facilitate restraint of trade and the growth of monopoly than the departure from the early rule of law that one corporation cannot own stock in another. That departure was the most baneful result of laissez faire policy in dealing with corporations to which the country abandoned itself during the last thirty years of the nineteenth century. The conditions which have resulted from the exercise of the expressly conferred power in one corporation to take and hold stock in another, present the most serious obstacles to the effective dealing with the "trust" problem. For few, if any, corporations, solely by means of the direct acquisition of property and the widening scope of their own business, have acquired such control of the particular commerce among the states with which they are concerned as to constitute monopoly, or to threaten it. Whenever competitors have been excluded by unfair means, and a very large part of the commerce absorbed by a particular interest, the machinery by which such result has been accomplished will be found on examination to be the control of various corporations by means of intercorporate stock holdings.

"The cases of the Standard Oil, American Tobacco, the Powder company, the American Sugar Refining company, and others, furnish abundant judicial demonstration of this fact.

"In a large number of cases it has been sought to perpetuate the control secured by one corporation through the acquisition of stocks of other corporations, by pledging such stocks as security for issues of notes or bonds; and enormous amounts of securities have been sold to the public in faith of such pledges.

The Remedy.

"If congress should enact that no corporation engaged in interstate commerce shall hereafter acquire any stock of any other corporation so engaged, and that unless all such corporations should dispose of all stocks held by them in other corporations engaged in interstate commerce within some specified period, they should be prohibited from carrying on interstate commerce until they did so dispose of such stocks, the cure would indeed be laid at the root of the trust evil; but justice to the innocent holders of securities issued to the public based on pledged stocks acquired and held pursuant to express legal authority, would require consideration to be given to their case, and such exceptions to be made from the prohibition as might be necessary to their protection. These necessary acts of justice might seriously interfere with the enactment of legislation effective to the accomplishment of the main purpose in view.

Not to Be Expected.

"But such drastic legislation, while logical and effective, is hardly to be expected, and the questions will therefore remain, 'Within what limits is legislation to regulate corporations engaged in interstate commerce other than transporation expedient and practicable?' 'Should the analogy of the interstate commerce law and commission be followed?' 'Is any regulatory legislation necessary besides the Sherman act and the statutes prohibiting railroad rebates?'

"Conservative minds naturally shrink from accepting a conclusion which would devolve upon the national government the comprehensive powers and duties involved in extending the principles of the interstate commerce laws over commercial and industrial corporations, for the increased centralization of control in Washington over the trade of the country, the multiplication of federal office holders and bureaucratic intermeddling with business, may be necessary, but are undesirable incidents to the conduct of daily business life.

"In deciding an act to provide for the purchase of a site and for the erection of a state elevator or warehouse at Duluth, for the public storage of grain, etc., to be in contravention of a constitutional prohibition against the state contracting any debs for works of public improvement, or to be a party in carrying on such works, one of the greatest of your Minnesota judges, William Mitchell, said:

"'The time was when the policy was to confine the functions of government to the limits strictly necessary to secure the enjoyment of life, liberty, and property. The old Jeffersonian maxim was that the country is governed the least. At present, the tendency is all the other way, and towards Socialism and paternalism in government. This tendency is, perhaps, to some extent, natural, as well as inevitable, as population becomes more dense, and society older, and more complex in its relations. The wisdom of such a policy is not for the courts. The people are supreme, and, if they wish to adopt such a change in the theory of government, it is their right to do so. But in order to do it they must amend the Constitution of the state. The present Constitution was not framed on any such lines.'

Power Is Recognized.

"But the general power of the state to regulate business affecting the public was expressly recognized by Judge Mitchell in this language:

"'The right of the state, in the exercise of its police power, to regulate the business of receiving, weighing, inspecting, and storing grain for others, in elevators or warehouses, as being a business affected with a public interest, is now settled beyond all controversy. This power extends even to fixing the charges for such services.

"'And where a business is a proper subject of police regulation, doubtless, the legislature may, in the exercise of that power, adopt any measures they see fit, provided only they adopt such as have some relation to, and have some tendency to accomplish, the desired end; and if the measures adopted have no relation or tendency the courts will never assume to determine whether they are wise, or the best that might have been adopted.'

"That some further regulation over corporations carrying on commerce among the states may be necessary, is a matter of current comment. It has been openly advocated by representatives of some of the largest combinations of capital, perhaps as a means of salvation, and to preserve under government supervision, great organizations whose continued existence is menaced by the recent interpretation of the Sherman act, the disintegration of which would be necessarily attended with much loss. To such, it is a case of 'save your bacon in a storm.' Better continued co-operative life, even under a powerful master, than disseminated properties and segregated activities without constant governmental supervision.

Not Equipped for Work.

"But there are other reasons for such regulation. The federal department of justice is not organized or equipped to maintain constant supervision and control over business organizations. It deals only with cases of violation of the law. The activities of an administration board or commission should be directed to preventing such violations, and in aiding business men to maintain a continued status of harmony with the requirements of law.

"Moreover, unless congress shall provide for the establishment of corporations drawing their life and powers only from the national government and subject only to its control, or shall confer specific powers on state corporations which will enable them to carry on commerce away from the state of their creation, without the interference of states into which they go, the present unsatisfactory conditions of carrying on business in the different states by means of many different corporations owned or controlled through stock ownership by a parent company created by some one state will continue; and in the natural, normal, healthy and legitimate growth of such business, questions of the application of the Sherman law must arise which cannot be properly settled with the district attorney or the department of justice, but which should be dealt with by an administrative body having appropriate jurisdiction.

"There are still further considerations involved in the question. The tendency of this age is towards co-operation in every field of activity. The early form of co-operative business effort by means of partnerships was found insufficient for large enterprises, because of the unlimited liability imposed on the partners, and the inelastic character of the investment. The great commercial development of the country would scarcely have been possible but for the introduction of co-operation in the form of corporations for business purposes in the early part of the nineteenth century. The growth of the incorporated companies, the development of close relations between them by agreement, and through reciprocal stock ownership, so unified their power and extended their control that their employes were driven to co-operative association for protection against the suppression of their rights, and for the purpose of compelling better recognition of their claims to larger recognition in the division of profits. The problems of modern commercial life are vast. They effect not only employer and employed, but the public. Facilities of transportation and for the transmission of intelligence have broughts all parts of the world into close touch.

Fair Competition.

"Any economic disturbance in one part of the country effects to a greater or less extent every other part of the country. Common needs have developed and commodities of many kinds are standardized. Prices should be reasonable. Destructive competition, while it is attended with abnormally low prices never produces reasonable prices. Indeed, abnormal price is one of the indicia of monopoly. Fair competition is essential to healthy national life, but it is more than doubtful whether or not there can be fair competition without concert of action or co-operative effort to some extent.

"Business men of integrity are naturally desirous of avoiding violations of law. The construction of the Sherman law originally contended for would have condemned them for any concerted action which imposed any restraint on trade. The more enlightened view which has been established by the supreme court limits the prohibition to undue restraints—those which are not the result of normal business methods, but which are intended to accomplish, or have for their direct and primary purpose interference with the natural course of trade and commerce among the states or with foreign countries. Yet even within these rules there is an area of activity where co-operation and association should only have play under government supervision and control.

"With such supervision, a natural economic force may be utilized to the public benefit and to the general satisfaction of the commercial world. By it, while monopolies and restraints of trade will still be held at bay by the terrors of the anti-trust act, thousands of small traders may by regulated co-operation protect themselves from the ruin of destructive competition on the one hand, and from the constant apprehension of indictment on the other.

Regulating Prices.

"Whether or not such a federal industrial commission should have power to regulate prices is of course a matter for serious consideration. The interstate commerce law prescribes as a legislative rule that prices for transportation by rail, or wire, or pipe line, shall be reasonable, and that no unjust discrimination shall be made between individuals or localities similarly situated. It leaves it to the commission to determine when this legislative standard is departed from and to take proceedings appropriate to compel compliance with it. A similar rule might be declared by congress with respect to the prices of commodities the subject of interstate commerce.

"We have become customed to the regulation of rates of transportation, but the suggestion that prices of commodities be regulated by congress seems novel and radical. Yet the principle on which the regulation of transportation rates is based is simply that when property is used in a manner to make it of public consequence and affect the community at large, it becomes clothed with a public use, and may be controlled by the public for the common good. In the early days in some parts of this country statutes were enacted to regulate the business of millers and the rates they might charge for grinding. At that time it was a matter of public concern that every farmer should have the right to have his corn ground at a reasonable rate. So today the conduct of the great commerce in staple articles among the states is become a matter of public consequence, and the courts have upheld legislation regulating it and prescribing some of the conditions under which it may be carried on. To require as one of these conditions that prices for commodities dealt in in interstate commerce must be reasonable, only involves a new application of the same principle.

Essence of Monopoly.

"Unless prices be dealt with under such a law it would fail to reach the essential evil for 'unified tactics with regard to prices' has been authoritatively declared to be the essence of modern monopoly, and as was said in the case of National Cotton Oil Co. vs. Texas, (197 United States, 115-129.) 'It is the power to control prices which makes the inducement of combinations and their profit. It is such power that makes it the concern of the law to prohibit or limit them.'

"But again, it is said that legislative control of prices smacks of medieval sumptuary legislation and is foreign to the genius of our institutions. Students of Adam Smith are taught to believe that the natural price of an article is that which is fixed by the operations of the natural unrestrained law of supply and demand, working without any artificial restraint. The anti-trust legislation of the United States and of most of the states is based upon this theory. It is said in 'The Wealth of Nations':

"'The price of monopoly is upon every occasion the highest which can be got. The natural price, or the price of free competition, on the contrary, is the lowest which can be taken, not upon every occasion, indeed, but for any considerable time together.'

Law Is Fettered.

"But the fact is that the law of supply and demand does not and has not for many years worked in this country in a natural, unrestrained and unfettered manner. The government in the first instance, interposes an artificial restraint in the protective tariff on imports. True, the theory of this tariff is to equalize conditions of competition; to place, as it were, a handicap on the foreign competitor who has produced his commodities under conditions less burdensome than those under which the American manufacturer produces his. But, in fact, the inequalities resulting from the methods of tariff legislation are very often impossible to justify on the theory of sufficient protection only, and the resulting price is that fixed by a limited competition between dealers in a market from which foreign competitors are to a certain extent excluded. Nor is this all: It is probably safe to say that in almost every one of the great staple industries, prices have been for years fixed by agreement between the principal producers, and not by the normal play of free competition, even among the domestic producers, nor by the unfettered operation of the law of supply and demand.

"Take for instance the facts concerning the powder and explosive business as found by the United States circuit court in the recently decided case to which I have already referred.

"'The record of the case now before us,' said Judge Lanning in that case, 'shows that from 1872 to 1902, a period of thirty years, the purpose of the trade associations had been to dominate the powder and explosives trade in the United States, by fixing prices, not according to any law of supply and demand, for they arbitrarily limited the output of each member, but according to the will of their managers. It appears, further, that although these associations were not always strong enough to control absolutely the prices of explosives, their purpose to do so was never abandoned. Under the last of the trade association agreements—the one dated July 1, 1896, and which was in force until June 30, 1904—the control of the combination was firmer than it had before been. Succeeding the death of Eugene du Pont in January, 1902, and the advent of Thomas Coleman du Pont and Pierre S. du Pont, the attempt was made to continue the restraint upon interstate commerce and the monopoly then existing by vesting, in a few corporations, the title to the assets of all the corporations affiliated with the trade association, then dissolving the corporations whose assets had been so acquired, and binding the few corporations owning the operating plants in one holding company, which should be able to prescribe policies and control the business of all the subsidiaries without the uncertainties attendant upon a combination in the nature of a trade association. That attempt resulted in complete success.'

"For years, the court said, trade agreements between all manufacturers of powder and explosives in the United States have been in existence. There were times when the parties to those agreements broke away from and disregarded them, but usually the fines and penalties imposed on the violators were effective to protect and effectuate them. The court says:

"'On October 26, 1897, an agreement was entered into by ten American manufacturers, eight of whom were parties to the agreement of July 1, 1896, and two European manufacturers, which related to explosives of all kinds, provided that the European parties should not complete works then building in New Jersey, and that the American parties should bear all expenses theretofore incurred in connection therewith, contained mutually restraining provisions as to the erection of factories in the United States and Europe, divided the trade of the world territorially between the American and the European parties, contained provisions for fixing prices, provided a fund for the purpose of protecting the common interest against outside competition, fixed fines and penalties for breaches of the agreement, and contained sundry other provisions for the regulation and control of the trade. This agreement was in existence throughout the period of the war with Spain and until 1906.'

Perfect Combination.

"It was succeeded, as shown by the first quotation from the opinion, by a more perfect combination, by which prices were absolutely fixed and which continued to the time of the decree.

"A large number of indictments recently found in the Southern District of New York were based upon evidence of the continued existence during a number of years and until a recent date, of pools or associations of manufacturers of various kinds of wire, under which official and non-competitive prices were fixed, determined and agreed upon, and were maintained through the operations of these associations or pools.

"The fact seems to be, that the prices of standard articles of consumption sold in the United States for a number of years past have not been fixed at all by the operation of the laws of supply and demand, or of unrestrained competition, but by association of the producers, without the participation of the consumer or the general public—that is, without those who have had to pay the bill having any voice in fixing the price. In this view, it is certainly not unreasonable that the purchasing public should desire to have some part in determining the price it is to pay—in like manner as has been recognized to be just with respect to the cost of transportation.

"If there could be any assurance that the free play of competition would be assured, and the natural price resulting from the unrestrained operation of supply and demand maintained, then no governmental supervision of business—beyond occasional prosecutions for violations of the Sherman law—would be necessary. But the habits formed through years of following a system are not easily shaken off, and the artificial forms of organization made necessary by the conflicting laws of many states with which the nation will always present a border land of doubt which will furnish on the one hand opportunities for those who wish to violate the law to do so with some show of justification; and on the other, to perplex those who are tender-desirous of keeping the law, but by reason of the complexity and conflict of different state laws, find it difficult to do so without seeming to run counter to the anti-trust law. For the effectual regulation of both of these classes the supervision of a federal commission is certainly desirable, if not absolutely necessary.

Theory and Practice.

"In theory it would seem that such a commission should have some power over prices. But the practical difficulties in the way of exercising such power, so as not to inflict a greater evil than it is intended to cure, are so great as perhaps to be insurmountable. It would be well nigh impossible to fix a maximum price which would not be on the one hand unjust to the smaller producer, and on the other would not increase unduly the profit of the large producer. For the large producer with an adequate supply of raw material and the economies and efficiencies only possible with a large organization, can always afford to sell at prices which would be ruinous to the small producer.

"These problems go to the very root of the continued prosperity of our people. They can only be solved by a careful consideration free from any partisan bias. I have not attempted to express a conclusion, but merely to state the elements of problems which, if wisely determined, will 'scatter plenty o'er a smiling land,' and if unwisely dealt with, may paralyze the hand of industry that maketh rich—not with the unequal wealth of monopoly, but with the distributed wealth which brings national prosperity and continued peace."

OUTCASTS WIN SECOND

With Watson Up La Crosse Takes Game By Score of 2 to 1.

Excitement Furnished When Visiting Twirler Viciously Assaults Umpire.

With Smiling Watson in the box, hailed by experts and those gradually grading up to the sharp line of expert knowledge, as being the best pitcher in this league, La Crosse yesterday took the second game of the series from the Sox by the score of 2 to 1.

One of the headline features of the game, though not advertised in advance as one of the attractions, was the attack on Umpire Lyman by Watson in the fifth inning.

In this highly exciting round Duluth scored its only run. DeHaven crossing the platter on a very close play. To the majority of spectators it looked as if the runner was out, as the play was a forced one and Wals was not required to touch the runner.

Lyman called the little second baseman safe and with the announcement of his decision Watson was at his throat like a fighting dog at a pit opponent.

Players pulled him off and several policemen and plain clothes men assisted at various stages of the excitement in cooling the tempestuous temper of the heaving star. He made a second attack on the umpire and was again pulled off.

In spite of all this Lyman permitted him to remain in the game. Why? Well, it required the bearded scientists of old many, many years to discover that the world was round, and it will probably require the present inefficient head of the Minny league many days to awake to the fact that he has probably supplied the Minnesota-Wisconsin with the juiciest lemon crop of indicator holders that have ever officiated in the organization.

They chased Lyman out of Superior and sent him over here. Duluth has been getting the ones that Superior didn't want all the present season. It is said that Dr. McCuen of the local club has written Force a letter that will probably make some impression upon the somewhat easy going nature of that individual.

Back to the game.

In the third the first score of the visitors came across. Watson started with a single. Bond sacrificed and was safe at first when Kramer running over to first took the throw from O'Brien out of the waiting hands of DeHaven and then dropped the toss. Klein singled and Kelly struck out, and on Safford's long foul to Corrigan, Watson crossed the plate.

In the fifth the second and winning score of the hated enemy came across. With Watson gone in this round, Bond singled. He went to second when Klein was thrown out to O'Brien who played the first bag, and came across when DeHaven let Kelly's grounder get away from him.

The lone score of the home brigade came in the fifth round and precipitated the riot.

Corrigan struck out and DeHaven was hit by a pitched ball. O'Brien singled to center and both runners moved up a base when Joe Safford let the offering go through his pins. Leber was hit on one of his shapely limbs and the bases were freighted. Miller hit to Black and on the throw to the plate Lyman declared DeHaven safe, thereby raising the wrath of Watson. Altermott and Hargrove struck out with the bases full.

In the eighth Hargrove was on third and Little Claude Johnson was sent in to bat for Corrigan. He grounded to Kelly at first and our chances for tying the score were gone.

Watson has a lot of stuff, though wild, and when the Sox threatened the primma donna would add some more curve and serve with effect.

EIGHT RUNS IN FOURTH

Jensen Blows Up and Result Is Fatal to Superior.

Eau Claire Drives Two Pitchers to Bench and Wins.

A sad and awful fourth did the business yesterday and Superior lost the second game of the series to Eau Claire by a 10 to 4 score. Brother Jensen who started for Superior blew up in fine style in the fourth frame. Doubles, singles, passes, hit batters and a little ragged fielding contributed to the fatal result. The Schooners batted clear around and the agony was not ended until Chapelle, who had started the inning was caught at home trying to steal in for his second score of the frame.

Dunbar replaced Jensen and the visitors proceeded to hammer him for two more runs in the sixth, when Cummings went in and ended the scoring by the visitors.

PRESIDENT FORCE HAS FAILED TO MAKE GOOD

(BY BRUCE.)

With the season in the Minny league at the half-way stage players and some officials will willingly tell you that Frank E. Force has failed to make good as president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league.

For one thing, he has furnished the league with the weirdest assortment of umpires that have ever made trouble and created ill feeling in any league. In the second place he has not kept in touch with the sentiment in any city, has not watched the work of his umpires, nor has he in any way shown the hand of the strong and alert executive.

The election of Force was a political move. He told the magnates that his influence with certain baseball powers would probably result in the Minny league getting into the Twin Cities. Mr. Force may carry out that part of his prediction next season.

In the meantime he has ruled, or failed to rule, and the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, as any fair minded critic will state, has degenerated from the standard of efficiency that prevailed in the days when John Elliott ruled as the executive.

There are baseball problems that have needed attention in this city, and yet President Force has failed to visit this city or Superior during the present season. It is probably safe to assume that he is utterly ignorant of some of the phases of baseball at the Head of the Lakes.

There was the cowardly attack on poor old Griffith by Joe Killian of the Winona Pirates. Baseball players around the circuit are loudly denouncing the attack as a cowardly one, and when baseball players censure a fellow player there must be reason, and yet Force took no action in the matter.

In no way has he taken a firm stand during the present season. He has permitted wrangling and umpire baiting. Through a weak and soldiering policy upon the part of the president of the league, which at the present time is being generally censured, the Minny league has drifted to the point where there are serious doubts in the minds of some whether it will last out the present season.

The incident of a player attacking an umpire and then remaining in the game, and also on the grounds, at the request of the attacked official of the game, is a highly unique spectacle, and indicates the class of indicator holders that are working in the Minny league at the present time.

In every league there are obstacles to overcome. The Minnesota-Wisconsin league has had its share of these problems. The head of the league has failed in many cases to act with decision. The result of this policy has been reflected in many ways, and it may be said that at the present time the league is sufefring from a lack of force upon the part of Force.

Best Backed Horses Win on Fast Track at Kalamazoo.

Gold Dollar Sensation of the Day, Winning 2:10 Trot.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 19.—Good racing but no sensational time marked the second day of the Grand Circuit meet here yesterday. It was also a day for the favorites, not one being defeated. While the track was fast, a high wind prevailed.

Don, a favorite, took the 2:08 pace, with ease. Sam led to the first quarter in the first heat, but that was the only time any horse in the field stepped ahead of Don, although the three finishes were close.

Gold Dollar was one of the real sensations of the day. With a wonderful burst of speed in the 2:10 trot he jumped from third place to first maintaining a lead to the finish. He drew the eighth place, but notwithstanding the extra distance he was forced to travel, he easily beat out the field.

The first heat of the 2:19 trot was one of the hottest races of the day. Geers drove Viola Strong to victory, but he was not a winner until the fourth heat had been raced. Dolly S., driven by Hofman took the second heat, going the last half mile in fast time.

Adell Ross was an easy winner of the 2:17 pace, the last heat of which was finished late in the day.

WOLGAST ANGRY AT McFARLAND

Milwaukee, Wis., July 19.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion, did not leave for his home at Cadillac, Mich., last night, as was reported. Instead he remained in the city for another day. He intends to leave for home tonight with his wife.

Wolgast remained over because he is anxious to close up a match with Packey McFarland here for some time in September. Wolgast was peeved when he heard today that the Chicago stockyards lightweight had not answered the numerous messages sent to him and his manager, Emil Thiry, on Saturday and Sunday. The champion says he has agreed to let Packey come in at 133 pounds at 3 o'clock, and he thinks if Packey is anxious to get a match with him it is up to the Chicago boy to accept at once. Wolgast thinks he has been quite liberal on the weight question by letting McFarland come in at 133 pounds seven hours before the bout.

Frank Mulkern, matchmaker of the National A. C., went to Chicago at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon in the hope of getting McFarland's signature to a set of articles, but if he fails he will call all negotiations off at once.

Champion Wolgast, in speaking of his plans, said that he intended to remain on his parents farm near Cadillac for at least a month, in order to recuperate from his recent hard siege of work. He says he will do only light work for awhile unless he gets a match here with Packey. Wolgast says he takes good care of himself now. He imbibed some of the stuff that made Milwaukee famous, while out with friends yesterday, being the first drinks he has touched in six months.

INTER-LAKE REGATTA OPENS AT TOLEDO

Large Number of Entrants Sail in Annual Racing Events.

Toledo, Ohio, July 19.—The first day's events of the Inter-Lake Yachting association at Put-In-Bay yesterday was spirited and brought out the largest number of entrants in lake events in years.

The Otsiketa of the Detroit, Yacht club won in the twenty-one-foot class of cruisers, being closely pushed by the Toledo of the T. Y. C., and the Camille of the D. B. Y. C.

Conditions were almost ideal for the races which included events for cruisers, catboats and power boats. There was a nine-mile breeze when the first event was started. Toward noon the wind died out and some of the boats had a hard time finishing within the time limit.

Old Sam, winner of the Taft cup last week, quickly took the lead in the catboat event and led all the way, winning easily.

When the warning gun was fired at 8:25 o'clock yesterday morning more than forty-five boats of all descriptions were beating back and forth about the line, while scores of launches, steam and power yachts hovered about the edges of the course.

'PEG CANOEISTS NOT ADMITTED

Winnipeg, Man., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Winnipeg Canoe club are sore as the result of a telegram received yesterday from the officials of the Duluth Boat club stating that the canoe races at the regatta to be held there this week are open to members of the Duluth club only. The Winnipeg paddlers believed that the races were to be open to every one, and thought that the communications heretofore received from the Duluth officials warranted such a belief. They say they wrote to the Duluth men several times but received no answer until the telegram which came yesterday.

The local men had planned to send several teams to Duluth, had planned a benefit dance to help pay their expenses, and made all plans to have a strong representation at the Duluth regatta.

ONE GAME ONLY PLAYED IN MORNING.

Jawn Desmond announced today that the Thursday game only will be played in the morning. The Friday and Saturday games will be played at the usual time in the afternoon. Friday afternoon will be ladies' day and it is expected that there will be a very large crowd of the fair sex on hand.

At the new ball park all of the bleacher seats have been placed and all preparations made for the taking care of a large crowd of carnival spectators. The carnival committee members are depending upon the seats at the ball park to take care of many of the visitors.

For the benefit of those who have not visited the ball park, it can be stated that the site of the new home of the Sox is directly on the path of the race course and that all of the rowing races and motor boat contests will pass directly by the park, giving those seated there an excellent view of the races.

Mr. Desmond has arranged for the famous Rudd act, which will entertain visitors between the races.

New York, July 19.—It was announced here last night that Billy Papke, champion middleweight, has been matched with Sailor Burke of Brooklyn for a 10-round bout here on Aug. 8. They will weigh in at 158 pounds, ringside.

CLEVELAND TO HOLD JOSS DAY

Tribute Will Be Paid to Late Nap Pitching Star.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 19.—The mere announcement of the completion of plans for Addie Joss day, July 24, was all that was necessary to bring hundreds of ardent fans to the support of the undertaking.

Active steps have been taken by members of the Cleveland Athletic club to attend the game in a body. Secretary George A. Schneider of the C. A. C. requested Vice President Barnard of the Cleveland club yesterday to reserve a big section of seats on the third base side of the grand stand for the athletic club members.

It also developed yesterday that the Elks and Masons, to which organization Addie Joss claimed allegiance, would take an active part in making "Joss day" as successful as possible.

Jimmy McAleer, manager of the Washington club, who will have charge of the all-star club which will play the Naps on Monday, July 24, for the benefit of the Joss family, is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the movement.

"The memory of Addie Joss is sacred to every person with whom he ever came in contact," stated McAleer yesterday. "The man never wore a uniform who was a greater credit to the sport.

"Since the decision was reached to have a Joss memorial day I have talked with hundreds of players and fans outside of Cleveland on the proposition, and you would actually be surprised to know what people in other cities think about this proposition. I know that there isn't a player in the American league who wouldn't forfeit a great deal to show his respect for the memory of Addie Joss.

"I will have a team here on July 24, the like of which was never before gathered together in one group. It will be a treat to Cleveland fans, and for one will feel mighty sorry if League park is not crowded to the limit on that day."

Love Is Fined.

Kansas City, Mo., July 19.—"Jack" Love, left fielder for the local American Association baseball club, pleaded guilty in the police court here yesterday to the charge of having assaulted Edward W. Cochrane, sporting editor of the Kansas City Journal, and was fined $10.

S.S.S. FOR SCROFULA
NATURE'S PERFECT CURE

Swollen glands about the neck, weak eyes, running sores and abscesses, pale, waxy complexions and frail, poorly developed systems, are the most usual ways in which Scrofula is manifested. In some cases the blood is so filled with the scrofulous germs that from birth the disease shows its presence. In other cases it is held in check during young, vigorous life, but when the system begins to weaken, especially after a spell of sickness, the disease will often manifest itself in some form. S.S.S. is Nature's perfect cure for Scrofula, made entirely of healthful roots, herbs and barks, a perfectly safe medicine for young or old. S.S.S. goes into the circulation, and drives out all scrofulous matter, and supplies the blood with the healthful qualities it is in need of. In this way it builds up weak, delicate persons and makes them strong and healthy. Book on the Blood and medical advice free. S.S.S. is for sale at drug stores. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Hibbing Council Orders Additional Cement Walks Laid This Year.

Property Owners Given Until Sept. 7 to Conform With Order.

Hibbing, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council last evening passed a resolution providing for more cement sidewalks. Property owners are given until forty days within the time of the serving of notice to build such sidewalks to construct them, or until Sept. 7, and after that time the improvements will be made by the village and cost of same charged to the property owners.

Each side of Superior, Mahoning, Sellers, Washington, Lincoln and Garfield streets and Fourth avenue south from railroad street and Second avenue north of Railroad street, excepting such places where sidewalks have already been laid, are named in the resolution that provides for the improvement.

Brooklyn Patrolman's Pay.

Officer Corey, who patrols the beat to Brooklyn, will receive the same remuneration as the police officers of Hibbing proper, $85 per month, as the report of the police committee was adopted last evening. At the last meeting a communication was read from the policeman, wherein he requested that his present salary of $30 per month be raised to that of the regular village officers. With the understanding that Officer Corey will put in the same number of hours as do the other patrolmen, the request was granted.

On motion of Trustee Werne, the Missabe and Great Northern railroads will be instructed that they must immediately put in board planking between the rails at the railroad crossing on First avenue.

After being in session half an hour, the council adjourned until Aug. 1.

NUMBER OF PUPILS MUCH INCREASED

Chisholm School Attendance More Than Doubles in Five Years.

Chisholm, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The addition to the public school in the Monroe location is nearing completion. Two rooms on the south of the building have been added, the basement proportionately enlarged, and an entrance, to be used particularly for the new addition has been built in, which, with the former entrance makes a pleasing frontage to the school.

It is thought that there will not be a sufficient number of pupils for the Monroe location to fill all of the six rooms that are now in the building, but it is the purpose of the school board to have a number of the pupils who last year attended the Central school from the Lake location to attend at the Monroe during the coming school year.

In five years the Chisholm school registration has increased from 500 to 1,200. Seven new members are to be added to the teaching force for the coming year.

The new sixteen-room school building in the Northern addition will not be completed before June 1. It may be that the school board will be obliged to rent some suitable hall in town from the time school begins until the new large building is in readiness.

Miss Mona Crellin of the Leonard location who for the last three weeks has been visiting friends in Aurora, Eveleth and Virginia, returned home on Monday evening.

Mrs. B. Ganyon of Tower, Minn., is visiting wth her sister, Mrs. William Latham of the Monroe location.

TRACTION LINE NOT ON GRANT AVENUE

Eveleth Council Accepts Request of Company to Run on Another Street.

Eveleth, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adams avenue, a residence thoroughfare last evening was selected by the city council as the route to be traversed by the proposed range traction road, after Oscar Mitchell, of Duluth, representative of the Eastern capitalists interested in the project pointed out the disadvantages of having the line located on Grant avenue, the business street, as desired by the merchants. He contended that Grand avenue was too far from the main line, paved, on a poor grade, and too narrow for the proposed route.

After amendments including the provision that all snow on the streets traversed by the road and deposited by the company's snow plows, must be removed by the line, were adopted, the franchise which is for twenty-five years, was given its second reading.

To Repair Pipe Line.

The superintendent of the waterworks was empowered to secure necessary labor and and equipment for repairing the pipe lines at the St. Mary's lake pumping station which have been the source of much trouble of late. The city engineer and waterworks superintendent reported the necessity of securing the services of a competent mechanical engineer to report on the proposed new pump for the waterworks system. The Maryland Casualty company reported that the city bolters were in good shape.

The municipal court clerk reported $76.85 for the week ending July 15, while the street commissioner reported that sixty-one men and thirteen teams were now being employed by his department. He was instructed to start work immediately on the Virginia, Wolf and Virginia mine roads.

NEW ROAD COMPLETED.

Shortened Highway Between Chisholm and Hibbing Finished.

Chisholm, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contractor R. F. Berdie has completed the new road tween here and Hibbing and the highway has been accepted by the township engineer.

The road is three miles in length, joining the old route a mile and one-half from Chisholm and is reached from Hibbing by crossing the viaduct constructed last year on the north end of First avenue. It has a road bed of thirty-three feet, part of which is macadamized. Great difficulties were encountered by Contractor Berdie in the construction of the road owing to the immense amount of solid rocks of large sizes which to be blasted and removed in small pieces.

Just six months were consumed in building the road, which cost upwards of $17,000.

The new road will reduce by five eighths of a mile, the distance between the two villages.

HIBBING FINALLY WINS.

Gophers' Pitcher Is Not Able to Deliver the Goods.

Hibbing, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time in six games the Hibbing Colts yesterday succeeded in winning a game from the Colored Gophers. The final score was 8 to 4. Johnson, who has been laid up with a bad wing for the past three weeks, was in the box for the visitors and pitched with little speed, not using the spit-ball for which he is noted. He succeeded in fanning one man and passing three. Brookins, the regular third baseman for Hibbing, pitched for their side, striking out four men and walking none. But one error was made by the home boys, that of Burroughs' which let in a run. The visitors fielded loosely and made four baubles. Home runs by Davis, Brown and Marshall of the Gophers were the features of the game, the latter making his first hit of the series here. The teams are playing again this afternoon for the last time this season.

CANADIAN ROAD CAN ENTER CITY

Virginia Council Grants Railroad Franchise to Build Through Town.

Virginia, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last obstacle that stood in the way of the Canadian Northern railroad building into Virginia was swept away last night when the city council accepted the bid of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, the name the company is building under, of $50 for the franchise. This amount will just cover the cost of advertising. The clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the remaining saloon license which is sought by C. Emmons.

The public library site at the west end of Chestnut street has been purchased and it is there the depot building will be erected.

The council ordered the city clerk to issue notices to property owners, whose premises abut on the new sewer district, in the southern section of the city, that they must connect with sewers within the next thirty days. This order affects some thirty blocks.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock company in "Brewster's Millions."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
AUDITORIUM—Roller skating.

Amusement Notes.

One of the cleverest touches in "Brewster's Millions" is the anti-climax in the last act. The big scene of the play is of course the great yacht scene and the storm at sea and the Gus A. Forbes Stock company at the Lyceum this week is giving a most elaborate production of this scene.

But in the last act when the matinee girl is reaching for her hat and the evening matinee girl's escort is feeling under the seat for his, there is an added interest that stops the matinee girl and stays the course of the matinee girl's escort's hand. Montgomery who has spent a million in a year following out the instructions of his will which bequeaths him seven millions on condition that the one million is completely dissipated, receives a telegram which informs him that the man under whose instruction he is acting has disappeared completely.

For a moment the hero stands forlorn and discouraged, all his money gone after a year of strenuous work, only to have no return. But "Brewster's Millions" is a comedy of the most rattling delightful sort and in a moment a man follows the telegram to announce that S. Jones has been found. There is nothing left to do of course but fold the heroine to his manly arms and squeeze her tight.

Carnival visitors are welcomed at the Auditorium.

With two huge electric fans going, with a patent suction machine that changes the air every six minutes and keeps the big roller skating rink absolutely free from dust, and with a perfect system of ventilation, the big rink is one of the most pleasant places in the city to spend an afternoon or evening, or a morning, that can be found in the city.

This week there will be special programs for the out-of-town visitors. This evening the famous hoodoo skating feature will be put on and a special program for ladies will feature the bill.

There will be special music and special attractions. There will be a big staff of uniformed attendants to take care of those not knowing very much of the art of skating and in the mornings women and children will be given lessons in skating.

Electrical effects will be one of the big features of the present week. The sciopticlan, throwing colored light effects through the huge building, such as the northern lights, the waving flag, and other spectacular pictures of light, will be a feature of the evening programs.

The big structure has been decorated within and without. Inside, the big rink has been transformed by the rich Japanese decorations. Outside, the building has been hung 'n streamers and large squares of bunting.

MET ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

Boy Drowned Near Bismarck Not Foul Play Victim.

Bismarck, N. D., July 19.—Theories of foul play in the Dufty drowning case have been disproved by the search made by the local authorities. A searching party, consisting of A. F. Dufty, father of the drowned boy; Coroner Fields, Officer Ely and James Powers, who was with Dufty when the accident occured, made a long trip down the river and found the spot where the accident occurred, marked by some of Powers' clothes, which he took off before swimming ashore. There was a small rope caught on the snag also, showing that the boat was probably sunk there, but a diligent search along both banks for several miles failed to reveal any further traces of the missing lad.

Mr. Dufty has given up the search as hopeless and returned to his home at Austin Sunday afternoon. It is very improbable that the body will ever be found.

REGULATION OF RATES

E. S. Durment Talks on Conflict Between State and Federal Control.

Jared How Unable to Read Paper He Had Prepared.

"The Conflict Between Federal and State Control of Railway Rates," was an important subject of discussion at the meeting of the State Bar association now in session in Duluth.

Jared How was expected to speak on this subject but at the last moment he found that he would be unable to attend. A telegram telling of his regrets was received and read at the opening session this morning.

E. S. Durment led the discussion. He said in part:

"The subject as printed in the program is somewhat narrower than I understood it to be when I agreed to talk to the association. I then understood the question for discussion would be 'The Conflict Between Federal and State Jurisdiction,' which is a somewhat different and broader question than 'The Conflict Between Federal and State Control of Railway Rates.' Technically speaking, there is not, and cannot be, any such thing as a conflict between federal and state jurisdiction over railway rates. The jurisdiction of the federal government over railway rates extends over one field, and is supreme in that field; the jurisdiction of the state is over another field in which the jurisdiction of the state is exclusive. There can no more be a conflict of jurisdiction between the federal government and the state government over railway rates in Minnesota, than there can be a conflict of jurisdiction over the same matter between Canada and the United States, or between North Dakota and Minnesota. But it is entirely possible in one sense, to have a conflict between federal and state control of rates.

"Undoubtedly it is true (it could hardly be otherwise), that if a state shall compel the railroads to put in a schedule of rates within the state, it will create a change in conditions in the state which will have an effect on interstate commerce, either in inducing some change in interstate rates, or in the character or volume of interstate traffic (or perhaps in all these respects), from what otherwise would obtain. This, however, is not a direct control of or interference with interstate commerce, but is an indirect or consequential result of the lawful act of the state; and while it may give rise to inconvenience, which in a sense may be considered a conflict between federal and state control, it does not bring about a conflict of jurisdiction. Neither the federal government nor the state government, under our systems, can claim the right to have its jurisdiction, its acts and regulations, operate uninfluenced and unimpeded by the operation of the lawful acts and regulations of the other. Neither the state government nor the federal government is supreme in the sense that it has the right to insist that its mandates shall operate unrestrained and unimpeded by conditions created by acts of the other which otherwise are lawful.

On Equal Footing.

"The state and the federal governments stand on an equal footing in this respect; the federal government is no more supreme than is the state government, and is not superior to it. If it be fairly a matter of state rates, then the state is supreme and the federal government must keep its hands off, even though the state made rates may induce a change of conditions which shall be reflected in interstate traffic. Likewise, if it be a matter of interstate rates, the state must keep its hands off, even though the effect of the interstate rates may result in a change of conditions which, in the practical operations of business affairs, will result in changing the character and volume of traffic theretofore moving as intrastate, or the rates on which intrastate business formerly was done.

"For some years now, perhaps since the institution of our government, there has been a considerable sentiment in favor of the centralization of power in the federal government—in favor of a strong government as they say. The matter has been much agitated, in the press, from the rostrum, in political contests and in the courts, and otherwise. That this sentiment is wide-spread, has been evidenced in many ways—our national and state bar associations have labored much and long to procure the adoption in the different states of uniform laws on many subjects. The turning over to the federal government of the matters of divorce, child labor, supervision of insurance companies licensing and regulating corporations, and exclusive control of railroad rates, have all been strongly advocated, and today are advocated by many people. The extent to which this sentiment obtains in this country, if not its existence, is due mainly to two things. First, the fact that trade and commerce ignore state lines, and second, the fact that many people believe, though the belief probably is not well founded, that the federal laws are more strictly enforced than are the state laws. The strongest argument made by those who favor this centralization of power in the federal government, and usually the only one, is that of convenience; and that argument as made, frequently is so persuasive, as to overcome the constitution and the law, and always there is great danger that it will do so.

EDMUND S. DURMENT
Of St. Paul.

"The conflict between federal and state control of railway rates, so far as there can be said to be any such conflict, is being waged chiefly in the federal courts, and, really, in the last analysis is a struggle on one side for the extension of the federal jurisdiction, the centralization of power in the federal government and the subordination of the state governments; and on the other side to maintain inviolate, the power and sovereignty of the states in the conduct of their own affairs. The conflict rages around and about the commerce clause of the United States Constitution, and the fourteenth amendment, and thus far appears to consist of attempts on the one hand to have the courts adjudge the sacredness and supremacy of railway property and the right to hold and use the same in trade and commerce unaffected by state action, and attempts on the other hand to persuade the federal courts to recognize and respect the rights and sovereign powers of the states.

State's Rights.

"Personally, I am opposed to the centralization of power in the federal government, and stand for the maintenance of the state's right and sovereignty. I do not see how any man can take a contrary position without thereby confessing that our form of government is a failure, or at least unwisely adopted by us, and this I am not willing to concede until it has been given a fair "try-out." But it is not my purpose at this time to argue in support of this view. I shall confine myself to calling attention briefly and in a general way to the state of the conflict as in my opinion it stands on the decisions of the federal courts.

Sanborn Decision.

"The decision which will be of most interest to us, is the decision of Judge Sanborn in the Minnesota rate cases, reported in 184 Fed. Rep., 765. It also is the most important decision to be found in the books in its bearing on the matter, for, if the principles on which that decision is predicated be approved by the United States supreme court, it will settle the conflict between federal and state control of railway rates; there will then no longer be any conflict between federal and state control; so far as there shall be any practical control of railroad rates it will be control by the federal government, federal courts and the railroads, and the states will be out of it. It is difficult, in a few words to state this decision and show how as a practical matter it eliminates the state from any effective control or regulation of interstate railway rates. The best I can do in that direction is to state what I conceive to be the three propositions or principles, on which the decision proceeds. They are these:

"1. When the traffic in any given territory has been accustomed to move, or business has been built up, or communities have grown up, and trade zones and limits of competition between different communities established, influenced or affected by the relation between intrastate rates and interstate rates, then any schedule of rates made by state authority, which disturbs the relation theretofore existing between inter and intrastate rates to such an extent as reasonably will induce the railways to change then existing interstate rates, or result in inducing traffic to be moved as intra which otherwise would move as interstate traffic, or give rise to such difference between state rates and interstate rates as will result in communities in one state having advantages not theretofore enjoyed in their competition with communities in another state, is a direct interference with the interstate commerce, and void. Whether the schedule of rates promulgated by state authority will have any of these effects is to be determined by the court as a fact, and without regard to the reasonableness or unreasonableness of the interstate rates, or the intrastate rates. The interstate rates must be conslusively assumed to be reasonable and lawful, and it is held to be immaterial whether the state rates are reasonable or unreasonable.

"2. Rates prescribed by state authority must be such as to produce an income from intra-state traffic sufficient to pay the cost of earning them and for maintaining and renewing the property, and to pay taxes, and a reasonable profit on the value of the property used for the public in intrastate business, otherwise they will be confiscatory. The amount of the income which will be produced, the cost of earning the income, maintaining and renewing the property, the value of the property, and what is a reasonable profit, are all to be determined by the court as facts, upon the evidence before the court and under the rules applicable in controversies between private parties over private rights.

"3. The presumption that the findings of fact made by the court are right, nullifies, displaces, or overrides the presumption that the legislature has acted with full knowledge and that the rates made by the state are reasonable and valid.

Put States Out of Business.

"To the lawer it cannot be otherwise than apparent that the application of the principles of the Sanborn decision would practically put the states out of business so far as any effective regulation of railway rates is concerned, and in my opinion the affirmance of that decision by the United States supreme court would be nothing short of a public calamity. But it is not at all certain it will be affirmed.

"On the first proposition laid down by Judge Sanborn, his argument in support of it, while it is based entirely on commercial conveniences and, I think, really begs the question at law involved, is strong and persuasive. But I have not found any decision of the United States supreme court (nor of any other court), which, to my mind, supports him in his contention, though the proposition, in one form or another, has been urged before that court many times. The same proposition was urged upon Judge McPherson in the Missouri rate cases (168 Fed. Rep., 317), but he declined to approve it, and characterized the action of counsel in urging him to decide the case then before him in accordance with it, as an attempt to substitute the laws of political economy, custom and convenience for the statutes of the state and the decrees of the state supreme court. The United States circuit court for the eastern district of Kentucky, in a recent case (186 Fed. Rep., 197-203), has considered this matter, examined it carefully, and reached a conclusion directly opposed to that of Judge Sanborn. I expect that the supreme court of the United States will not sustain Judge Sanborn's holding that the Minnesota rates are void because they interfere with or burden interstate commerce, though I can see how it may do so.

"The second proposition on which the decision in the Minnesota rate cases rests, technically does not enter into the question of conflict between federal and state control of railway rates, for it does not assert any authority in the federal government superior to the state in the matter of fixing railway rates. It simply declares a rule by which the action of the legislative departments of both the state and federal governments are made subject to veto by the federal courts, and the validity of the exercise of the sovereign right of the state to fix intrastate rates, and of the national government to fix interstate rates, is made to rest in the discretion of the federal judiciary. The application of this rule to the state, however, subjects the state to the control of the federal judiciary in making railroad rates, and, in practice, will easily nullify any action a state may take to prescribe a schedule of rates which will give any substantial relief to its citizens; and the assertion of this power by federal judges, I believe, more than anything else, is what the general public looks upon as the conflict between the federal and state control of railway rates. I do not believe the rule stated in this second proposition has been established in the decisions of the supreme court of the United States to be a correct rule of decision, at least not definitely so, nor beyond fair controversy, nor so as to preclude a fair probability that the supreme court will repudiate it when once it is compelled fairly to face and decide the question. I must admit, though, that I find few, if any, members of our profession who agree with my views on this point. It is true the supreme court in opinions rendered by it in a number of cases has said many things which it may fairly be argued are in approval of this rule; but, on the other hand, in quite as many of its decisions it has said things which lead directly and inevitably to a denial that it is the rule. It is to be borne in mind that the United States supreme court, as other courts are, usually is compelled to decide the questions which the lawyers present for decision, and to do so on the records which the lawyers have made for it. Hence, what is said in the opinion does not constitute the decision nor determine what it is, so much as do the questions raised by the lawyers and the record on which the questions are raised.

"I am unable to find that the record in any case presented to the supreme court of the United States has made it necessary for that court to decide whether the Seventeenth amendment demands that valid rates must meet the requirements of this rule on which the decision in the Minnesota rate cases is predicated. Neither have I found any decision of that court in which the rule has been examined, other than cursorily, nor in which the reason of the rule, the principles on which it must rest, have been discussed and announced. In my opinion it is yet an open question whether the decision in the Minnesota rate cases proceeds on the correct rule for determining whether rates are confiscatory or unreasonable. I confess I feel there is great danger the supreme court will affirm the second proposition in the Minnesota rate decision; not because it is sound in principle, for I think it easily can be demonstrated to be unsound, nor because precedent requires it, for in my opinion it does not, but because the current seems to have turned in that direction. Yet it may not do so; and in my opinion will not do so. If it shall examine and decide the cases in accordance with what it finds to be the law in the case, uninfluenced by personal views of public policy and expediency.

The Third Question.

"The third proposition in Judge Sanborn's decision, like the second, technically does not have to do with a conflict between federal and state control of rates, but, theoretically at least, lays its heavy hand upon state legislatures and the federal congress with equal weight. Yet, when it comes to the subjugation of the states by the federal judiciary, it is the rule stated in this proposition which makes the judiciary swell big with importance, and the legislative department of the state to shrivel into mere nothingness—or almost. It deprives the state of the benefit of the presumption that its acts are valid and of the rule as to the burden of proof, which the supreme court of the United States has ever declared the state is entitled to, at the only times when and in the only places where the presumption and rule can be of any benefit to the state, i. e.—at the times when and in the places where the rates are attacked or called in question.

"The rule in the second proposition on which the Minnesota rate decision rests, declares that the validity of the rates shall depend upon the findings of fact made by the judge on the evidence before him. It is inseparable from human nature that the findings of fact made by a judge on the evidence before him will be, to a very great extent, simply the declaration of the judge's opinions, prejudices, and views of expediency. What the judgment of the court on the facts, as shown by the evidence produced before it shall be, is always largely in the discretion of the judge. And so the rules declared in the second and third propositions bring it about, that the validity of the legislative act rests largely in the discretion of the judge who finds the facts, and that when the rates are attacked in court, instead of them being presumed valid and those attacking them required to make a clear showing of their invalidity, the presumption is that the findings made by the judge are right and the burden is on the state to show clearly that the judge is wrong.

"This which we designate the conflict between federal and state control of railway rates involves and turns more on political considerations and views of public policy than upon constitutional provisions and laws. It is an incident in the struggle on one side to curtail the powers of the state government and extend the powers of the federal government, and on the other side to preserve intact to the states what it thought to be the powers reserved to them when the federal constitution was adopted. The particular matter now in dispute which most gives rise to the so-called conflict between federal and state control of railroad rates, is the claim asserted upon the part of some of the federal judges of a right to substitute the opinions of the judges for the judgments of the legislatures, and to veto such legislative acts fixing rates as do not meet with their approval—for that is what the rules announced in the decision of the Minnesota rate cases amount to. The decisions of the courts heretofore rendered have beclouded the matter, but it is probable the decision of the United States supreme court in the Minnesota and other rate cases now before it, will clear the atmosphere somewhat. Whether the states will hold their own, or be shorn of some of the power claimed to be theirs cannot be foretold. I have faith to believe that the states will be sustained in their contentions, provided, the supreme court shall render a decision not unduly influenced by the personal views of its members as to what is expedient and wise for the public. But, whether the decision shall be to sustain the contentions of the state or deny them, it is certain that if it meets the propositions asserted by Judge Sanborn in his decision in the Minnesota rate cases, it ought to remove all conflict between federal and state control. If the contentions of the state be sustained, it ought to put the matter at rest. If the decision of Judge Sanborn be affirmed, what little will be left for the states in the way of regulating railroad rates will not be worth fighting for."

DE FOREST TALKS ABOUT DIVORCE

Says Suffragist Leader Spoiled His Married Life.

San Francisco, Cal., July 19.—Harriet Stanton Blatch of New York, suffragist leader and daughter of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, is declared by her son-in-law, Dr. Lee De Forest, scientist and wireless inventor, to be responsible for the suit for absolute divorce filed here yesterday against Mrs. Nora Stanton Blatch De Forest.

The suit follows a suit for separation filed by Mrs. De Forest at Shoreham, L. I., June 17. The grounds named in the San Francisco suit have not been made public.

Dr. De Forest declares Mrs. Blatch is responsible for his marital unhappiness; that she has prevented a reconciliation with his wife, and has nullified all his efforts to induce Mrs. De Forest to join him in California.

Mrs. Blatch is president of the League for Self Supporting Women, and Mrs. De Forest is a fully qualified hydraulic engineer.

WILSON HOLDS WILEY CHARGES

May Not Make Recommendation to President in the Affair.

Washington, July 19.—Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture still held before him today all the papers bearing upon the charges against Dr. Harvey Wiley. He has not yet determined whether he will make a recommendation in the matter to the president. It may be that he will let the president act without suggestion from the department.

Intimations that Attorney General Wickersham, in his recommendation, exceeded his authority, were set at rest by the president. In conversation with callers the president explained that he had requested the attorney general to pass upon the legal question involved, and that the attorney general answered him in strictly legal fashion.

Papers Before Cabinet.

Mr. Wickersham, the president told some of his visitors, did not expect his opinion to be given to the persons concerned, and wrote it largely for the president's guidance alone. At a recent cabinet meeting, at which Mr. Wickersham was not present, it was agreed that the papers in the case should be sent to all persons interested, and this was done by the president, who did not expect them to be made public.

The president's explanation of how Mr. Wickersham became involved in the case leads some of his hearers to the conclusion that the attorney general will have no reason to feel injured if his recommendation is not forwarded by Mr. Taft when he reviews the case.

NEWSPAPER MAN FOUND WANDERING

Says He Worked in Middle West and on the Coast.

Canaan, Conn., July 19.—Everett Munshaw, who says he was in newspaper work in Evansville, Ind., Omaha and Kansas City, was found yesterday in the outskirts of this town, suffering from mental aberration. Today he had recovered his faculties sufficiently to be able to give some account of himself. He said that he came East, failing to establish a newspaper at Alma, Wash., and engaged as solicitor of subscriptions for a Boston paper, but did not succeed in that. Of his recent experiences Munshaw has no recollection. He will be taken to Litchfield today for examination as to his mental soundness.

SOUTHERN MEN TAKE FLING AT MR. MEYER.

New Orleans, July 19.—Resolutions denouncing the alleged policy of Secretary of the Navy Meyer in what they term "the subverting of the will of congress by closing up Southern naval stations and yards" were adopted last night at a conference of committeemen representing the various commercial organizations of New Orleans. The resolutions will be sent to the Southern representatives in congress.

Paris, July 19.—Dr. Gros states that he found a slight further improvement in his patient when he visited John W. Gates today.

DENIES ATTEMPT AT WORLD TRUST

Schwab Says No Such Effort Was Made at Steel Meeting.

New York, July 19.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, gave emphatic denial today to the general report that there was an effort made at the Brussels steel conference to make an international agreement to control steel prices.

Mr. Schwab, who attended the Brussels conference, returned today on the Olympic from Europe. He said that iron and steel conditions in European countries were excellent.

President Farrell of the United States Steel corporation, also returning today from Europe, said that the steel busines was in an exceedingly prosperous condition.

EXILED SHAH AFTER THRONE

Mohammed Ali Mirza Gives Up $82,500 By His Attempt.

Teheran, Persia, July 19.—Mohammed Ali Mirza, the exiled shah of Persia, has returned to his own land to make another bid for the throne. The ex-shah is now at Gumesh Tepe, a small port on the Caspian sea, near the Russian border, and it is said a Russian vessel conveyed him there.

Soon after he was dethroned in 1909, he proceeded to Russia. The Russian government undertook by protocol to keep him under strict surveillance and to prevent all intrigues with respect to his return back to Persia and possibly to the throne. Nothwithstanding this, the deposed shah has travelled without molestation from Odessa to Gumesh Tepe, a distance of about 1,500 miles. What force Mohammed Ali has it not known.

Forfeits His Pension.

London, July 19. — The sudden and unexpected appearance of the ex-shah Mohammed Ali Mirza in Persian territory, is a great surprise. He left Odessa some weeks ago for Balden, near Vienna, where he had been living with his family until July 6. It is understood that he left Baden for Marienbad to take the waters.

By this attempt to recapture the throne Mohammed Ali forfeits a pension of $82,500 yearly.

According to recent dispatches from Teheran, his brother, Salah Ed Dowleh is at the head of a small rebellion in Kurdistan and has proclaimed himself in favor of Mohammed Ali's pretensions.

HOUGHTON BOY DROWNS.

Houghton Mich., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—While pulling a small scow along the docks on Portage lake here yesterday afternoon, David Tourignant, aged 18, fell into the lake and was drowned. The lake is being dragged for the body.

FIREBUG MAKES THREE ATTEMPTS TO BURN HOUSE

Frightened Occupants Drive Him Away After Each Attempt.

Stranger Is Heavily Built Man With a Long Beard.

Police Find Counterfeiters' Equipment in Ruins of Burned Shack.

The New Duluth firebug, about whom there has been so much talk, and at whose door has been laid the blame for numerous incendiary fires, which have occurred during the past few months in the vicinity of the steel plant location; the fire demon, of whom little children are afraid and mothers and fathers worried, the maniac who is held responsible for the burning of the New Duluth bridge, the destruction of factory buildings and the firing of the homes of the working men in the Pittsburg and Gary locations—was actually seen and caught in the act of attempting to set fire to a building at an early hour this morning at Pittsburg, according to a story which came to the New Duluth authorities.

Frightened half out of his wits and fearing that he would be the next victim of the fire demon, Mike Monovich, a laborer living at Pittsburg, came to the New Duluth fire hall this morning with a wierd story of an experience during the early morning hours, which a Pittsburg man and four boarders had with the pyromaniac, who in spite of the fact that one of the men at the boarding house was armed, deliberately attempted to set fire to the house three times. The boarding house was run by Steve Makovich. The first attempt, which was made at 1:30 a. m., would have been successful, had the flames not been discovered by one of the boarders in time to extinguish them before much damage was done.

An hour after the first attempt had been made a stranger was seen hanging around the place, and it was seen that he had touched a match to some oiled paper and had applied it to the building a second time. In the darkness, the stranger presented a strange appearance. When he struck a match, the people in the house saw him through the windows. He was a large heavy set man, his beard long, and his appearance that of a hermit.

Put Out Second Blaze.

Makovich and the four men finally ventured outside and on their appearance the stranger disappeared into the woods. They did not give chase and one of the men, who had a gun in his hand did not even open fire. After stamping out the second blaze, they waited inside the house and before another hour had elapsed, a third attempt at incendiarism was made by the unknown. He carried in his hand some oiled paper and matches. This time, however, the plans of the fire-demon were frustrated and he was chased away by the men who kept guard over the house the remainder of the night.

The recent fires at Pittsburg and Gary have excited the people, who live there, to a state of frenzy. No one feels safe and today, Mike Monovich moved out of a house at Pittsburg to New Duluth proper, where he will live. Monovich is convinced that no one is safe with the fire-demon at large and says that he looks for a big fire in that location, if the man is not captured and jailed.

Charles Pearson of the New Duluth fire hall and Officer Brouillette of the New Duluth police are investigating the incident at Pittsburg last evening and the uptown authorities may also be asked to run down the fire-bug.

Further investigation made yesterday in the mysterious fire which burned a shanty down in the woods on the outskirts of New Duluth, failed to reveal any clue as to the ownership of the place or as to the people who lived there. In addition to the kegs of acid, the brass pile of junk, the tanned bear skin, an old bicycle and other articles which were found outside the place yesterday by Fireman Pearson, the authorities discovered inside the place some paraphernalia which might be associated with a counterfeiter's outfit. A silver-like metal was found on the floor of the burned structure and underneath the floor, through a trap door were found two holes, each about four feet deep and apparently prepared as hiding places in case of emergency. The house showed signs of recent occupation. Chief Troyer of the police department and detectives visited the scene of the mysterious fire yesterday, but were unable to clear up the mystery.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN PAULINO CASE

Another chapter might be written in the story of trouble connected with the Nic Paulino family of 221 South Fifty-sixth avenue west, in the arrest last evening of Cosimo Priolello, also known as Charles Triley, charged with larceny in the second degree.

The circumstances which caused his arrest lead back to the time of the shooting of Mrs. Nic Paulino by her son-in-law, James Parella, on Oct. 9, 1910, following a quarrel over domestic affairs. Mrs. Paulino recovered at a local hospital and Parella was jailed.

Mrs. Parella, his 19-year-old bride, it is claimed, had taken a fancy to a star boarder, Thomas Priley. Here was where the trouble started. They had a house at 5520 Main street, but were obliged to buy their furniture on the installment plan.

The purchase of several pieces of furniture was made from Mrs. Jennie Bloom, who conducts a business on First avenue west. With the goods unpaid for, and tired of the arrangement, Priley left the place. After that the goods disappeared, and when Mr. Bloom on June 11 called at the Paulino home to get the money for the goods or recover them, he was so roughly used by Nick that the latter had to pay $5 fine in the local justice court the next day, after having been arraigned on an assault charge, preferred by Bloom.

Early this month, July 2, another quarrel occurred at the Paulino home, in which the police arrested two men, who shot at Mrs. Paulino through an open doorway and narrowly missed her, striking the wall just behind her. Both men were arrested and given county jail sentences of sixty days.

Priley or Priolello was arrested on a warrant charging him with defrauding the furniture concern out of goods valued at $77. He was arraigned this morning in police court for a preliminary hearing and his case adjourned until Friday morning.

QUIETNESS IN COPPER MARKET

Prominent Issues Retain Strength Despite Light Trading in Market.

The copper market was inactive today, but the prominent issues retained yesterday's strength and the close was strong. There was some liquidation, but the market was well supported and lost very little on the day's trading. Amalgamated showed a slight loss for the day and the other issues were inclined to follow, but the weakness resulted in only fractional declines.

Amalgamated opened at $69.62½, dropped to $69.25, advanced to $69.75 and closed at $69.37½. North Butte opened at $33, advanced to $33.87½ and fell off at the close to $33 bid and $33.50 asked. Butte Coalition opened at $18.50, advanced to $18.75 and closed at $18.50 bid and $19 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $58, fell back to $57.50 and closed at $58 bid and $60 asked. Greene Cananea opened at $7.12½, advanced to $7.25 and closed at $7.12½ bid and $7.25 asked. Giroux opened at $6.25 and closed at $6.37½ bid and $6.43¾ asked.

On the Duluth Stock exchange Calumet & Montana sold at 43c, Keating at $3.06¼ and $3, North American at 75c and 80c, Red Warrior at $1.30¼ and Calumet & Sonora at $6.87½. Butte-Ballaklava held at $4.50 bid and $5 asked, Denn at $5 bid and $5.62½ asked and Butte-Alex Scott at $6 bid and $6.12½ asked.

That the property owned by the Interstate Silver Lead company in Idaho is most promising, is the opinion of Dr. Walter H. Weed, consulting engineer for the Butte-Ballaklava and Interstate companies who was in Duluth yesterday. Dr. West has recently finished an examination of the Interstate property and is enthusiastic about it. The main tunnel has now been sunk over 2,000 feet. The ledges is one of the widest and strongest veins in the district, and the outcrop is traceable across the mountain nearly to the Callahan mine. There is a liberal mineralization with galena, gray copper and calcopyrite, and in addition to these the average samples show about ten ounces of silver to the ton.

Mr. Weed left last night for New York.

NECESSARY DIFFERENCES.

Los Angeles Times: Judge William H. Moore, at one of the horse show dinners in New York, compared the London and the American horse shows.

"Both are admirable," he said. "There are differences, of course. But these differences reflect neither on one show nor the other. They are necessary differences."

"I went into a stationer's shop in London one day and said to the shop assistant:

"'Do you keep mucilage?'

"'No, sir,' the young woman answered. 'We try to take in all the papers, but there are so many new ones coming out. Still I can order Mucilage for you, sir. Which number did you want?'

"I learned afterward that I should have asked for gum. They don't have the word 'mucilage' over there in England.

"But an Englishman traveling on one of our railways stopped a train boy and said:

"'Have you any gum?'

"'No, I don't use it, boss,' the boy replied in friendly fashion; 'but I can let you have a chaw off this here plug.'"

ADMIRAL TOGO.

There has been a serious discussion of the freedom to be allowed Admiral Togo in studying American naval matters while in this country. Since reports of trouble between Japan and America have been in circulation some persons have doubted whether the admiral on his visit to this country will be allowed free opportunity to inspect our navy yards. But as like courtesies have been shown to Americans visiting Japan it is understood every courtesy will be extended to the admiral when he comes.

Minority Report on Hay Portrait Attacks Majority's Conclusions.

Washington, July 19.—Denouncing the report of the majority members of the special house committee that investigated the transaction involving the portrait of Former Secretary of State Hay as partisan and scandalmonging, the minority report of the committee was submitted to the house today signed by Representative Tilson of Connecticut and Wedemeyer of Michigan.

The majority report, recommending the dismissal of former Chief Clerk Michael of the state department, and Thomas Morrison, present disbursing clerk, was assailed by the minority as a "weak partisan effort to make scandal."

"It is an attempt," said the minority report, "to besmirch the memory of one of the greatest secretaries of state, the late John Hay, whose character and unfailing fairness are in marked contrast with the report of the committee, but whose probity stands too high to be reached by partisan prejudice."

GOOD NEWS FROM CROPS

Favorable Weather Reports Send All the American Markets Down.

Drouth in West Broken—Duluth Market Is 1 Cent Off.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 19.—All American wheat markets were off today on good weather reports from the Northwest and heavy primary receipts. Duluth wheat market lost 1c and other markets showed about the same losses proportionately. Weather reports from the Northwest were to the effect that rains in North Dakota had improved prospects and the drouth is somewhat broken. The result was weak Duluth and Minneapolis markets, and the weak markets in the Northwest affected other American markets adversely.

There was little trading on the Duluth market. July wheat closed 1c off at 98¼c. September wheat opened unchanged at 96¼c, advanced to 96½c, fell off to 96¼c, advanced again to 96½c, dropped off to 95¼c and closed at 95¼c asked.

There was only a fair demand for cash wheat today and the price continued up, sales today being at 3c to 3½c over the quotation on the September option. Minneapolis cash wheat also continued strong, with the demand for the best grades holding stiff.

The linseed market was fairly active in Duluth. July linseed opened 1c off at $2.05 bid, advanced to $2.07 and then to $2.09 asked, closing at that figure. September linseed opened 1c up at $2.06, advanced to $2.07 and closed at $2.07. October linseed opened 1c off at $1.6, advanced to $$1.97 and closed at $1.97 bid.

Oats were ¾c off on the Duluth market at 41⅝c. Rye was unchanged at 73-75c and corn was ⅛c off at 62¾c. July durum was ¼c up while September durum showed a loss of 1⅜c.

Wheat closed ¼d to ¾d higher in Liverpool and corn ½d higher. Budapest wheat closed 1¾c lower, Antwerp was unchanged, Berlin closed ⅝c lower and Paris closed ½c lower to 1¼c higher. Flour in Paris closed 1¼c to 2¼c higher. August wheat in Buenos Ayres closed ¼c lower, while September was ⅛c up. Corn closed 2c up for September in Buenos Ayres, while August corn was ½c up.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The late decline in America yesterday was offset here at the opening by a bullish cable from Armour on the spring outlook and the undertone was steady with prices unchanged. Following the opening further steadiness developed and shorts became nervous on less favorable reports from Russia and some apprehension was felt in Argentine from dry weather and prices advanced ¼@⅝ with the principal support in October. Plata offers as well as Russian were more firmly held and there was a slightly better inquiry for spot and predictions are for smaller shipments from Russia this week. At 1:20 p. m. the market was firm and unchanged to ¼d higher.

"Corn opened ¾d higher. The weakness in America was offset by the strong closing in Buenos Ayres and fewer American offers. Following the opening the market was unchanged at the advance."

The Iowa crop is in a critical position, much damage has already occurred and the next official report will surprise the trade with its low showing for the greatest corn state.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Upward on Fear of Rust in Northwest.

Chicago, Ill., July 19.—Because of weather conditions northwest tending to spread rust, the wheat market today took an upward turn. Moreover, foreign crop conditions were reported as less favorable than heretofore, and ocean freight rates hardening. It was also said that a fair inquiry had developed for hard wheat to be shipped from Chicago to eastern mills. Opening prices were quarter off to quarter up. September started at 87¾c to 88c, unchanged to ¼c up, and held at the upper level.

Commission selling on the advance led to a decline. The close was easy at 87c for September, a net loss of ¾c. Light receipts of corn made the market for that cereal strong. Local speculators headed the buying. News of further rains in Kansas appeared to have little effect. September opened at 63¾c to 64¼c, the same as last night to ⅝c advance, and rose to 64¾c.

Illinois rains, however, brought about a reaction. The close was weak at 62¾@62¾c, a net loss of ⅞@1c.

Oats bulged on account of covering by shorts. An idea prevailed that the recent decline had been excessive. September started ¼c down to ⅛c up at 42¼c to 42⅝c, and ascended to 43c.

With offerings limited and hogs higher, provisions were firm. Initial sales varied from last night's figures to 7½c higher, with January delivery $15.45 to $15.47½ for pork, $8.25 for lard, and $8.07½ for ribs.

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

T—Indicates inappreciable rainfall. *—Maximum for yesterday. †—Minimum for twenty-four hours, ending 8 a. m. 75th meridien time. ‡—Minimum temperature for 12-hour period ending at 8 a. m.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Declines Sharply on Better Crop Outlook.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 19.—Recent rains and continued cool weather improved the Northwestern crop outlook and wheat registered sharp declines. Late heavy selling in the local pit was caused by financial embarrassment of Winnipeg grain firm. July closed 1¼c lower than yesterday, September, 1½@1⅝c lower and December 1¼c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased. Minneapolis today received 113 cars of wheat against 98 a year ago; Duluth 21 against 78 and Winnipeg 111 against 112.

July opened, 95½c; high, 95¼c; low, 94⅝c; closed, 94⅝c. September opened 95½c; high, 95¾c; low, 93⅞c; closed, 93⅞@94c. December opened, 96⅝c; high, 96¾c; low, 95c; closed, 95¼c.

Cash wheat—Firmer; demand, strong for spring and offerings of this grade scarce. Millers only buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 1c and 2½c over September. Closing: No. 1 hard, 96⅞c; No. 1 northern, 95@96¾c; to arrive; 95@96½c; No. 2 northern, 92½@94⅞c; to arrive, 92¾@94¾c; No. 3 wheat, 90½@92⅞c; No. 3 yellow corn, 64½@65c; No. 3 white oats, 41¾@42¾c; No. 2 rye, 70c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,182 tons; market, strang at unchanged prices. Bran, in 100-pound sacks, $20.00@20.50.

Barley—Receipts, 2 cars; year ago, 14; shipments, 6. Light offerings made market firmer in spite of only fair demand. Closing prices, 2 to 5c higher than yesterday. Closing range, 80c@$1.07.

New York Grain.

New York, July 19.—Close: Wheat, July, 90⅜c; September, 92¼@92⅜c. Corn—July, 68½c; September, 68c.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, July 19.—Close: Wheat—Spot, steady; No. 2 Manitoba, 7s 5½d; futures, firm; July, 6s 10⅜d; October, 6s 8¾d; December, 6s 9¾d. Corn—Spot, steady; old American mixed, 5s 7½d; new American kiln dried, 5s 3d; futures, firm; September, 5s 4¾d; October, 5s 3½d.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 19.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of five points to an advance of three points, with trading again extremely active and excited. Rather better cables than looked for trade buying and covering imparted this steady tone of the market at the start, but almost immediately after the call the old crop months suffered a further sensational break under continued liquidation attributed to the old bull leaders. July declined to 12.28, a net decline of 43 points, and August sold off to 12.25, or a net loss of 34 points, while new crops positions broke 9 to 12 points under yesterday's closing prices, and all active months made new records for the season. Continued favorable crop accounts and confident predictions of a favorable August bureau seemed to add to the demoralization of the old long interest and while there was good trade buying on the decline, the South continued a heavy seller.

Spot closed quiet; 30 points lower; middling uplands, 13.70; middling gulf, 13.95. No sales.

Futures closed very steady. Closing bids: July, 13.45; August, 12.92; September, 12.29; October, 12.11; November, 12.09; December, 12.10; January, 12.06; March, 12.13; May, 12.23.

London Stocks.

London, July 19.—American securities opened steady and about unchanged today. Good buying advanced prices during the first hour, and at noon the market was steady with values ranging from ⅛@¼ higher than yesterday's New York closing.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., July 19.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade is on a retail basis, a number of small shipments being made to northwestern points. SENATE A PLACE OF PERIL.

Washington Times: The United States senate is a pathetically good thing for the doctors. Being a senator is one of the most wearing jobs that a man could find. If the truth be told about it the reason so many senators have died in the last few months is that being a senator is a deadly occupation.

During the last weeks of the tariff session a census of the senate was made by two of its members, who reported that over half its members were regularly under the care of physicians. Bad nerves, bad stomachs, loss of sleep, overwork, close confinement in offices and ill ventilated senate chamber constituted the basis of the trouble. The average senator rises to big responsibilities, important committee places, etc., at about the age when other men are laying down the most onerous demands on their time. The burdens grow heavier as the men become less able to bear them.

But there will continue to be plenty of comfortably fixed old gentlemen applying for the toga just the same.

EARLY GAINS ARE REDUCED

Stocks Advance After Opening and Buying Is Much Improved.

Profit-Taking and Bear Selling Cause Decline Near Close.

New York, July 19.—Prices held close to the high level established yesterday in the early transactions on the stock exchange today. The local traction stocks showed further strength, Interborough-Metropolitan preferred and Manhattan Elevated advancing a point each. Rock Island preferred gained 1½ and American Locomotive 1. Elsewhere changes were slight.

Prices improved after the opening, all the market leaders advancing substantially in fractions on a fairly good business. Atlantic coast line, Louisville & Nashville and Consolidated Gas gained a point each.

Transactions in stocks were active during the morning and the market held firm at the higher level established by the heavy buying movement late yesterday. The range was wider than usual and for the first time in several weeks a moderate amount of outside buying was reported. Buying of most of the leading issues improved fractionally with especial strength in the Harriman stocks. Union Pacific touched 190¾, the high point of the year, an advance of more than a point, and Southern Pacific rose nearly as much. Among the industrials gains of a point or more were established by American Woolen, Pacific Mail and Railway Steel Spring. The bond market was firm.

The market closed steady. The list sank to nearly the low level of the day during the last hour. Profit-taking was largely responsible for the decline, which was accelerated, however, by bear selling.

LONG TRAIN TO CARRY IT

Commerce of Duluth Harbor Would Fill 20,000 Miles of Cars.

Interesting Statistics Compiled By Deputy Collector of Customs.

It would take a freight train stretched from New York city, across the Atlantic ocean, over the continents of Europe and Asia, and across the Pacific ocean to San Francisco, to hold all the receipts and shipments of the Duluth-Superior harbor and the subport of Two Harbors, for the calendar year 1910, according to statistics compiled for The Herald yesterday by N. A. Linderberg, special deputy collector of the local customs house.

The receipts and shipments referred to by Mr. Linderberg pertain merely to what was handled by vessels on the lakes, and do not cover the enormous railroad traffic.

This great train made up by Mr. Linderberg, would be 20,561 miles long, or almost the entire circumference of the earth. Here are the data for the big train: Average length of locomotive, 50 feet; average length of each freight car, 45 feet; average capacity of each car, 24 tons; average number of cars to the train, 20; average length of each train, 950 feet; average number of tons to the train, 480.

The total shipments and receipts were 54,853,304 tons, valued at $411,865,513, of this the receipts being 9,855,595 tons, valued at $100,028,224, and the shipments, 44,997,709 tons, worth $311,837,289.

It is interesting to note that under the heading of "All Other Merchandise," valued at $127,118,437, the tonnage is not given. Probably if this had been obtained, the train would have reached completely around the world, "and then some."

The summary of receipts and shipments of the Duluth-Superior harbor and the sub-port of Two Harbors, Minn., for calendar year of 1910 is:

Receipts.

	Tons.	Value.
Coal and general merchandise	8,918,270	$ 76,113,616.00
All other merchandise	937,325	23,914,608.00
Totals	9,855,595	$100,028,224.00

Shipments.

Flour, 4,458,581 bbl.		24,128,842.00
Lumber 200,929,000 ft.		6,364,741.06

ARRIVES AT MARQUETTE.

Sand Sucker Comes All the Way From New York By Water.

Marquette, Mich., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The suction dredge, which will be used in building the approach to the new L. S. & I. dock, arrived Monday afternoon after an all-water trip from new York city. The dredge is named the Alice Vivian and is the first of its kind to be used in this locality. Through its use, the sand raised in dredging the slip for the new dock will be forced through a pipe and used in building the dirt approach to the dock.

TAMPA IS SUNK.

Steamer Gates Breaks Its Steering Gear and Rams Wooden Boat.

Detroit, Mich., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Tampa, a wooden steamer belonging to Henry Wineman of Detroit, was struck and almost immediately sunk by the freighter, John W. Gates, downbound with a heavy load of iron ore yesterday morning about 5 o'clock. The Tampa crew, who were asleep in their quarters, had a narrow escape.

The Tampa was moored at a dock in Walkerville, Ont., unloading sand, when the Gates of the Pittsburg Steamship company broke her steering gear, and turned to the shore. She hit the Tampa on the port side near the boiler room, sinking her in ten minutes.

TUG IS SOLD.

Wanless & King Will Take Hoffnung Bros. to Marquette.

The tug Hoffnung Bros. has been sold by the Clow & Lloyd Transportation company to Wanless & King, contractors, the bill of sale having been filed this morning with the United States custom house officials. The consideration is not given. The boat is now in the Grignon drydocks where she is being rebuilt, and when this work is finished she will be placed in service at Marquette, where Wanless & King have a big contract.

COLE RETURNS FROM I. L. A. CONVENTION.

Martin Cole, of this city, who represented the local Longshormen's union at the annual convention held last week at Toledo, returned yesterday. He was honored by the election to the vice presidency of the International Longshoremen's association, T. V. O'Connor of Buffalo, N. Y., being made president.

Mr. Cole took a leading part in the fight opposing the resolution introduced, condemning the project of the United States in voting funds for harbor improvements. It was contended by those against the resolution that were it passed all dredging would be stopped. It was defeated.

Mr. Cole was elected a delegate to the next Longshoremen's convention, to be held in Atlanta, Ga., next November.

Replaces Mack.

The steamer Sir Thomas Shaughnessy of the Jenkins Steamship company left the harbor light last evening for the lower lakes, to replace the steamer W. H. Mack, of the same company, which was recently wrecked. This is the first time the Shaughnessy has been out this season.

Officials Here.

J. C. Evans of Buffalo, N. Y., vice president and general manager of the Anchor line, and W. H. Johnson of Chicago, general western agent for the company, were in the city yesterday for a short stay, having come up from St. Paul. They returned to Buffalo on the steamer Tionesta. They expressed themselves well pleased with the lake traffic this season.

SMOOT OFFERS NEW WOOL BILL

Proposes It as Substitute for La Follette and Underwood Measures.

Washington, July 19.—Senator Smoot of Utah today introduced his wool tariff bill, which is expected to have the support of a majority of the Republicans of the senate if any wool restriction is agreed upon. He said his bill was not an "administration measure," but represented his own views of what reduction could be made in the wool tariff without destroying the American industry.

Senator Clark of Wyoming asked Senator Smoot if he thought the senate would pass any wool tariff revision bill before it received the report of the tariff board. Mr. Smoot replied that he hoped not, but that statements made by Republicans in the reciprocity debate had convinced him that a majority of the senate favored a wool tariff revision.

He offered his bill as a substitute for the Underwood and La Follette bills.

MOSQUITO SMUDGE COSTLY.

Fires Montana Ranch Home, Inmates Barely Escaping.

Great Falls, Mont., July 19.—Mosquiteoes cost John Slager, a rancher of the Sun river bench country, his home and all his household goods except what the family could grab in a hurried exit from their burning home. The building was destroyed and it was by the narrowest margin Mr. and Mrs. Slager got their sleeping children to safety.

They have been badly bothered by mosquitoes and had a smudge pot in the house to smoke the pests away. When they went to bed they put the smoking pot in the kitchen, and later, when some of the family who had been to a neighbor's party came home the pot was moved, and it is the belief it was set too near some clothing and later the dormant fire blazed up and ignited the clothing.

Smoke choking them awakened Mr. and Mrs. Slager, and they got up to see their kitchen a mass of flames and the roof of the house blazing.

Passengers coming to this city over the Great Northern railroad from Helena yesterday told remarkable stories of swarms of mosquitoes along the river. They declare that at stops where the river comes near the station swarms of the pests fill the cars and give endless torment to the people. Residents of the Ulm and Cascade country bear out the stories, asserting there never has been a time when mosquitoes were so bad as this year.

BERTHOLD TO ENTERTAIN.

North Dakota Town Will Greet Minnesota Automobilists.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Berthold, one of the growing towns of Western North Dakota, is the smallest city selected for a night control by the Minnesota State Automobile association on its Twin-City-Helena run and its citizens and Commercial club have set out to outshine all its competitors in the way of providing unique entertainment for the distinguished visitors when they spend the night of Monday, July 24, as its guests. At a big meeting of the club a bowery dance was decided upon as an occasion that will make Berthold one of the memorable stops on the famous tour and the several committees are now at work.

AUTOMOBILE RIDE FATAL.

Believed to Have Caused Death of Grand Forks Woman.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Fanny Ingalls, aged 68, widow of the late Col. C. B. Ingalls, a resident of Grand Forks since 1881, died yesterday, presumably as a result of riding in an automobile. Mrs. Ingalls, in an auto ride last week, is believed, to have aggravated some internal trouble, causing death. She was the wife of one of the pioneer hotel owners of the Northwest, Col. Ingalls having arrived in Grand Forks just after the railroad was constructed into the city, and building and operating the Ingalls house, a pioneer land mark.

Bread Famine in Monterey.

Monterey, Mexico, July 19.—This city of 3,000 inhabitants is in the midst of a bread famine, owing to the strike of bakers, and is practically subsisting on Tortillas. Thirty of the more important bakeries have closed. The strikers want increased wages.

RAILROADS

LETTUCE BY THE CARLOAD

Hartley Farm Is Shipping to Chicago and St. Louis.

Crop Will Reach 8,500 Bushels and Bring $10,000 to $15,000.

That the raising of head lettuce is a profitable business is plainly evident from the rush orders being received by G. G. Hartley, who is having big success with his farm at Island.

Demandr from Chicago and St. Louis as well as from other places in the South are becoming greater every day, and it is with some difficulty that Mr. Hartley can get the lettuce picked fast enough for shipments. On the average of a carload a day is being sent from Duluth and still the call comes for more.

Mr. Hartley states that this year the crop will reach about 8,500 bushels of head lettuce, and claims that if he had more he could easily dispose of it. The crop this year is big, and the quality is of the highest.

It is claimed that a crop of this kind should net a profit of between $10,000 and $15,000, which should be a good inducement to others interested in farming to take up such an adventure. The problem would be to raise lettuce which is of as good a quality as that raised on the Hartley farm.

LOW RATES FOR WATER CARNIVAL

Railroads Are Advertising Big Summer Fete Throughout the State.

While the Northern Pacific is out after big business in the line of passenger traffic, for which it is advertising strongly throughout the state, at this time, still it is giving Duluth a big boost. It has had posters of large size printed and distributed in all sections of the state announcing special rates, the two cent fare to Duluth and return for the water carnival. These rates are good beginning today and lasting until July 22, with a return limit of July 24.

The Great Northern and the Soo Line are also advertising this rate, and scattering the news of the Duluth water carnival to the people of the state.

EXPECT BIG TONNAGE.

Great Northern Road Will Be Busy Hauling Grain.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tonnage over the Great Northern through Grand Forks this fall, so far as grain shipments are concerned, will be just twice as heavy as they were last year is the opinion of J. H. Griffin, division freight agent. He has just made a survey of the entire northern part of the state for the purpose of conducting a thorough investigation into the actual crop conditions, and while he has found that the western district will not yield heavily, still the yield in the northeastern district will be so much greater than usual, that the tonnage will be exceedingly high.

Mr. Griffin recently returned from a tour of the proposed Stanley to Powers Lake line in Mountrail and Williams county, and declares that the crops in that district are not very good. In consequence of his report it is anticipated that the construction work proposed for the district this summer, will be abandoned, and that no further effort will be made to complete the line until next year.

Chicago Gets New Office.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 19.—It has been decided to transfer the headquarters of the New York Central fast freight lines from Buffalo to Chicago. About forty employes of the New York Central will lose their positions as a result of the change. Transferring the office to Chicago will be the means of effecting a yearly saving of about $25,000 and will centralize the work.

The announcement of this change was made by P. C. Findlay, assistant to Carl Howe, manager of the New York Central fast freight lines. The new quarters will be in the La Salle street station.

AMONG RAILROAD MEN

E. L. Pardee, assistant general passenger agent of the Omalia, is in the city from St. Paul.

Mart Adson of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic is in the Copper country on business.

Frank Dushane and son Mark are in the city from Marquette for a few days. Mr. Dushane is train dispatcher for the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic at Marquette. Yesterday they were entertained by the Duluth lodge of the Knights of Columbus on the St. Louis river.

JOBS FOR COLLEGE MEN.

Lieutenancies in Philippine Constabulary Are Open.

Washington, July 19.—The war department is searching the country for suitable young college graduates to join the Philippine constabulary as third lieutenants. Only bachelors are eligible, but whether this is because the salary of $1,200 a year is held to be insufficient to maintain a wife and family in the islands is not made clear. There are a number of vacancies, and appointment is not so difficult to procure as a commission in the regular army, as no educational examination is required, a recommendation from the candidate's alma-mater being sufficient.

THE MIDSUMMER WATER CARNIVAL OPENS MOST AUSPICIOUSLY

NORTHERN PACIFIC LIMITED HELD UP AT BUFFALO, N. D.

Masked Men Get More Than $1,000 From the Passengers.

Go Through Three Cars, But Stop When Fired on By Official.

Fire at the Passengers and Wound Engineer—Make Safe Getaway.

Fargo, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Train No. 2, the eastbound North Coast Limited on the Northern Pacific railroad, was held up by three masked robbers near Buffalo, thirty-six miles west of here, about 11 o'clock last night. The robbers secured more than $1,000 by going through the passengers, shot Engineer S. P. Olson of Fargo twice in order to make him stop the train, and made a successful escape in an automobile, which they had awaiting them near the scene of the robbery.

The robbery was one of the most daring ever perpetrated in this part of the country, and showed that the men were no amateurs at the business.

The bandits went through the train while it was making fifty miles an hour between Valley City and Buffalo.

Raked Aisles With Bullets.

One stayed on the steps of the cars and three did the hold-up work. They fired shots promiscuously up and down the aisles of the sleepers, dragged passengers from their berths and handled them roughly, were shot at by the Pullman car conductor and one of them perhaps hit, and retaliated by shooting the engineer, not seriously, low in the left breast.

They are still at large, although sheriff's posses, men from the United States marshal's office and special agents of the Northern Pacific are scouring the country in every direction from the scene of the holdup.

The engineer was shot from the top of the tender by the bandit who was stationed on the top of the cars. Four or five shots were fired at him.

The sleeping car was entered, and in order to awaken the occupants of

THIRTY-TWO CARS LEAVE MILL CITY

Automobile Drivers Are Accompanied West By Traveling Hotel.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The third annual tour of the Minnesota State Automobile association left Minneapolis this morning for Helena, Mont. Twenty-two contesting cars and ten official and noncontesting cars make up the touring party.

Elaborate preparations have been made to attend to all the wants of the tourists. President L. W. Hill of the Great Northern has made up an "automobile special," consisting of ten coaches, wich will carry all the conveniences of a modern hotel. It includes a barbershop, photographic dark room and complete garage.

Pilot Harrington started two hours in advance of the first contesting car and will spread confetti and put out flags to guide the tourists. Pacemaker Dutton left at 7:45, and at 8 o'clock the contestants began to leave at fifteen minute intervals.

The first stop will be at St. Cloud, Minn., where the autoists will meet their "traveling hotel" for lunch.

FIERCE ATTACK ON BOY SCOUTS

Head of Wisconsin Labor Federation Denounces the Movement.

La Crosse, Wis., July 20.—In his annual report to the convention of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor here today, Assemblyman Frank J. Weber of Milwaukee, organizer and chief officer of the state body, fiercely attacked the Boy Scout movement.

The speaker declared that the Boy Scouts were nothing less than the ally of capitalism, hidden behind the guise of patriotism.

"As a trade unionist who is opposed to the destruction of human life, and staining the soil with innocent blood, I am opposed to this military organization of Boy Scouts," he said. "The Boy Scouts movement should be shunned by every boy in America who scorns to become a legalized, salaried, professional murderer to serve the interests of a class of privilege."

The report declared against the strike in industrial disputes except as a last resort, criticized the Republican and Democratic parties in Wisconsin and demanded the election of federal judges.

PLOT TO KILL DE LA BARRA

Mexican Police Report Discovery of Plan That Failed.

President Discredits Story They Tell—Reyes May Seek Office.

City of Mexico, July 20.—The police have received information of an alleged plot to assassinate President da la Barra.

The president discredits the report, but detectives are investigating.

According to the police informants, de la Barra was to have been killed on the occasion of the exercises last Tuesday on the anniversary of the death of Benito Pablo Juarez, but opportunity failed the conspirators.

Reyes May Oppose Madero.

That Gen. Bernardo Reyes will be the opponent of Francisco I. Madero at the presidental election in October is the belief of many of Madero's personal friends.

Should Gen. Reyes lead the opposition he must withdraw those sentiments expressed in his manifesto of June 11, in which he urged his followers to support Madero for the presidency. Immediately after the issuance of this manifesto Madero announced he had secured the consent of the general to accept the war portfolio in his cabinet in the event Madero is elected.

Close friends of Gen. Reyes believe he will continue to support Madero.

HOLD UP JEWELRY STORE IN DAYLIGHT

Two Men Get Away With Diamonds in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., July 20.—Two men entered the shop of the Franklin Jewelry company, near Ninth and Main streets, near the heart of the city, this morning, held up B. J. Franklin at the point of a revolver, took a tray of diamonds and ran down an alley. When pursued by Franklin they fired at him, dangerously wounding B. A. Seitz, a bystander.

One of the men was captured five minutes later in a department store three blocks from the scene of the robbery. He gave the name of John Brown.

Members of the jewelry firm said the diamonds, which have not been recovered, were valued at $4,500.

Seitz, who is 50 years old, is a mining engineer and wealthy. The bullet struck him in the forehead and he is probably fatally injured.

Tacoma, Wash., July 20.—Mrs. Rosa L. Richards of Milwaukee, Wis., who has spent eighteen months searching for her son, Alva C. HINES' STORY IS DENIED BY MR. ALDRICH

Former Senator Flatly Contradicts Story of Lorimer Matter.

Testifies Before Senate Committee Investigating the Election.

Wiehe Calls Burgess of Duluth "Liar"---Cusson Is Examined.

Washington, July 20.—Former United States Senator Nelson W. Alrich of Rhode Island flatly contradicted at today's Lorimer investigation the story told by Edward Hines of Chicago, that Aldrich had asked him to urge Lorimer to become a senatorial candidate and had sent word to Governor Deneen that President Taft had expressed the belief that Lorimer could be elected and was the most available man.

Mr. Aldrich, once head of the powerful senate finance committee and dominant factor in the senate, was the first witness today.

What Hines Claimed.

Hines had testified that Aldrich sent for him about May 1, 1909, to ask about the possibility of the Illinois legislature's electing a senator; that eventually, after repeated conferences, Aldrich had asked him to urge Lorimer to become a senatorial candidate, and that after a night conference at the White House, Mr. Aldrich had returned to his home, where Hines was waiting, and told Hines to inform Governor Deneen that the administration was anxious to have the senate vacancy filled and believed Lorimer could be elected.

Mr. Aldrich said he had three or four conversations with Hines about the Illinois election, but did not recall on whose initiative these occurred.

Aldrich Tells of Talk.

"Mr. Hines," continued Mr. Aldrich, "said at the first conversation that in his judgment Hopkins could not be elected and he asked me what the attitude of the president was. I said the president was desirous of the election of a Republican; while naturally he was friendly to Hopkins because of the primary result, and perhaps other reasons, still he did not intend to take any active part in the trying to influence the election of Hopkins or any other candidate."

"Did you say there were several schedules coming up in the senate and that it was very important to have every Republican vote possible to assist in the passage of them?" asked Attorney Marble, reading from Hines' testimony.

"I do not think that I said anything to him about schedules," replied Mr. Aldrich.

Hines Suggested Bonfell.

Mr. Aldrich testified that their next

Senate Committee Probably Will Not Act This Session.

Clapp Likely to Be Among Those Chosen for Work.

Washington, July 20.—A sub-committee of five members of the senate committee on privileges and elections will determine whether the charges affecting the election of Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin shall be investigated by the senate, and it is expected that no inquiry will be made during the present session of congress.

Chairman Dillingham will name the sub-committee later.

It is understood that none of the eight members now engaged in the Lorimer inquiry will be included in the Stephenson committee, which is expected to be composed of Senators Heyburn, Clapp, and Sutherland, Republicans, and Senators Bailey and Paynter, Democrats.

Herbert Knox Smith Refuses to Advance Data to Committee.

Washington, July 20. — Efforts of the house Steel trust committee to get from Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith facts relating to his investigation of the United States Steel corporation not yet published, were blocked today by Mr. Smith's emphatic refusal to answer all such questions, saying the law forbade such disclosures except upon the president's authority.

"Calls" James Manahan for Traducing Name of John Marshall.

C. A. (Cordy) Severance of St. Paul, president.
John G. Williams, Duluth, vice president.
Royal A. Stone, St. Paul, treasurer.
Charles W. Farnham, St. Paul, secretary.

With the election of officers and the disposal of unfinished business, the annual gathering of the Minnesota State Bar association which has been in session in Duluth for the past three days and which by vote was declared the most successful meeting ever held, came to a close when an adjornment was taken this noon.

As was expected, C. A. Severance of St. Paul was elected president. He was vice president of the organization. He succeeds J. D. Shearer as president.

The election of John G. Williams of Duluth as vice president means that the Duluth man will head the organization in 1912. Vice presidents are always selected with the office of president in view for them.

Royal A. Stone was elected to succeed himself as treasurer of the association and of course Charles W. Farnham was re-elected secretary.

In placing John G. Williams in nomination for the office of vice president one member of the bar said: "Realizing that nothing is too good for Duluth and that nothing to too good for the Bar association, I place Mr. Williams in nomination." As was the case in each instance, the secretary was instructed to case a ballot for the nominee.

A vote of thanks was given the local bar association for the excellent entertainment provided.

Governor Present.

Governor Eberhart was present at the session this morning and being called on for a few words he called attention to the fact that there is no better place in the state of Minnesota than Duluth.

NEW YORK IS "CAPTURED"

Boston, Too, Is at Mercy of Foe in Mimic War.

Defending Fleet Is Theoretically Destroyed By Imaginary Firing.

Block Island, R. I., July 20.—In a thrilling night encounter in Block Island sound, the fleets of the "invaders" claim to have penetrated the line of defense, and as a result New York and Boston today are theoretically at the mercy of an armed foe.

It is claimed by the invaders that their approach from the south was made with such tactical and strategic skill that none of the vessels of the fleet of defense was able to get through the battle line or break up the advance of the "enemy."

Shortly after midnight the lookouts on the Washington directed the beam of the searchlight on a tiny black spot in the distance. The black spot was a torpedo boat destroyer of the defending fleet.

Several Vessels "Destroyed."

Immediately guns were trained on the defender and rockets were discharged to signify broadside fire. Other vessels of the defending fleet were located and theoretically destroyed in the same way. The cruiser Chicago, also of the defending fleet, was theoretically destroyed by the invaders as she steamed out, presumably to string mines in the path of the enemy.

A submarine attempted to destroy the Washington, but, according to the officials on board the cruiser, the submarine was detected and theoretically sunk before she had come within 1,500 yards of the invader.

ANOTHER SHIP IN QUARANTINE

Colony of Immigrants Held in Cholera Cases Increases.

New York, July 20.—Another ship from the cholera country anchored in quarantine today, and added to the company of several hundred immigrants who must undergo individual bacteriological examination before they are permitted on the main land. The new comer was the steamer Principe Di Piemont, from Genoa and Naples, cities which have furnished most of the cholera cases thus far imported.

Owing to the quarantine regulations recently enforced by the Italian government on immigrants before they sail, the health authorities here hope future arrivals from Mediterranean ports will give them less trouble than the steamer Moltke and the Perugia, whose passengers still are in quarantime.

One More Patient Dead.

Satisfactory conditions were reported today at both the Swinburne Island hospital, where the actual cases of cholera are treated, and at Hoffman island, where the health officers are watching some 600 immigrants whose freedom from the disease is still unproved. No new cases have developed since Sunday and there have been no more deaths since the seventh patient died yesterday at the Swinburne Island hospital. The surgeon of the Principe Di Piemont reported he had found no symptoms of cholera during the passage.

COLORADO WRECK IS FATAL TO TWO MEN.

Trinidad, Col., July 20.—The Colorado & Southern passenger train from Denver to Trinidad and south, was wrecked eighteen miles south of here at 9:30 last night, when the engine, tender and baggage car plunged over an embankment and killed Engineer Joseph Ketchbarger and fatally injured Fireman E. C. Starr. None of the passengers were hurt. Heavy rains during the week caused the accident.

DULUTH IS ONE BLAZE OF COLOR

Streets Crowded With Visitors From All Parts of the Country.

Commercial Club Estimates 5,000 Strangers Are Guests of City.

Carnival Formally Opened With Parade That Surprises Even Boosters.

Amid one long lane of gay colors, blending with thousands of waving streamers, tiny banners and large flags of bunting hung from buildings and waved from roof tops, Duluth this morning opened its arms to the crowds of visitors who today are thronging her streets.

The city is in festive attire. The decorations have surpassed the expectation of the most optimistic well wisher of the carnival. Thronging the streets of the city this morning before the start of the industrial parade, visitors on every hand remarked upon the taste and beauty displayed on every hand.

Tiny streamers extending from the lightning posts, banners draped from the roofs and hung in graceful folds, and flags flying from the roofs of almost every building in the down town district, combined in one grand scheme of color to impress the eye and to give to the city that gay spirit of carnival revelry.

Officially the carnival was opened this morning with the parade through the business district of the work horses and the trucks and vans of the leading commercial houses.

Long before the time for the parade to start Superior street was lined four and five deep with a eager throng that made walking along the sidewalk exceedingly difficult.

In the crowd were hundreds of strangers. While the people of Duluth are turning out splendidly on the first day of the water fete, it is very easy

ITALIAN IS SHOT FOR FIFTH TIME

Refuses to Tell Who His Repeated Assailants May Be.

New York, July 20.—Mysterious enemies who have been pursuing Frank Rosini, a young Italian, for more than a year, made another attempt to kill him last night and this time they may be successful. Rosini's friends said today that he had been shot four times before, and that on two of these occasions his wounds had been pronounced fatal.

The young man was shot on the street last night and the physicians say he may die. Rosini declares he will get well and refuses to give any clue that may lead to the capture of his assailants. He has proved such a marvel of vitality in the past that the medical journals have noticed his case and he has appeared before several clinics.

LAWYER PROPOSES CURB ON TRUSTS

Real Estate Men at Denver Hear Chicago Attorney.

Denver, Colo., July 20.—At the close of this afternoon's session, the convention of the National Real Estate Exchange will bring the routine business of the fourth annual gathering to a close. After the election of officers the delegates and visitors will turn their entire attention toward pleasure.

During the morning session addresses were made by Fletcherd Cowherd, Kansas City; F. W. Faxon, Memphis; Thomas Shallcross, Philadelphia; and Gerald B. O'Reilly.

Of the several questions for proposed legislation, one that proved of popular interest was offered by Nathan William McChesney, an attorney of Chicago, who urged the adoption of uniform laws by all states regulating the formation of large corporations, restricting the capitalization to $25,000,000, and requiring that at least one-half of the stock be actually subscribed before corporation papers are issued.

The janitor was a topic of discussion introduced by E. Palmer Gollup of Denver.

"A good janitor," said Mr. Gollup, "is the delight of the rental man's heart. They are few, and in many cases they deteriorate with experience. I prefer those with no experience, so that I can train them up to my own ideas."

That real estate bears too much of the burden of taxation and that dealers should see that such injustices are corrected, was the gist of the report on taxation made by A. H. Frederick of St. Louis. Canadian reciprocity was approved by the committee on national legislation.

REFUSES TO QUOTE TAFT

Aldrich Declines to Comment on His Attitude Toward Lorimer.

Also Denies Having Taken Part in the Election.

Washington, July 20.—On cross-examination before the senate Lorimer investigating committee today Attorney Elbridge Hanecy, for Senator Lorimer, asked Mr. Aldrich if he had not had many conferences with Mr. Hines about the time the Illinois legislature was sitting.

"Perhaps, but at none of them, except the ones I have told about, did we speak about the Illinois senatorship," responded the witness.

Mr Aldrich said that he understood that Mr. Hines would use the information he sought, and would tell members of the legislature that Lorimer's candidacy "was not objectionable" to the president or himself.

"Or the other senators?" suggested Attorney Hanecy.

"No, sir, I was only speaking for myself."

As to President's Attitude.

Senator Kenyon asked if the president manifested any disposition in favor of Lorimer's election. Mr. Aldrich said that he did not care to go into conversations he had had with the president, and that his testimony as to what he told Hines explained the president's attitude fully.

"When did you begin to take an active interest in the election of a senator from Illinois?" continued Senator Kenyon.

"I never took an active part. I was no more interested in that election than I was in the election of other Republican senators."

"You were the senate leader, were you not?"

"There were many who did not agree to that," responded Mr. Aldrich.

Curt Answer to Kenyon.

Senator Kenyon, at another time when the witness was talking about "good" Republicans, asked him if he considered that there were "bad" Republicans in the senate when he was leader.

"I am not here to pass on my associates," responded Mr. Aldrich curtly.

Mr. Aldrich was asked if he had ever objected to Hopkins' appointment on the national monetary commission. He replied that he had not, but that he had questioned the right of Vice President Fairbanks to appoint any one to vacancies on that commission.

He declared that he did not ask Senator Penrose to bring Hines to consult with him in regard to the Illinois election and added that he did not believe Senator Penrose brought Hines to his room.

Shook Hands With Lorimer.

The regular proceedure of the committee today was interrupted to allow Mr. Aldrich to take the stand. He shook hands with members of the committee, taking particular pains to greet Senator Lorimer, who had listened to his testimony.

SAYS PRISONER IS NOTED YEGGMAN

Postoffice Inspector Claims "Frank Williams" Is Elmer Dunning.

St. Paul, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rush D. Simmons, inspector-in-charge of the St. Paul office in the federal building, has received word that Frank Williams, who was arrested near Smithbrick, S. D., May 7, for the robbery of the postoffice there, has been identified by government authorities as Elmer Dunning, a noted yeggman and postoffice robber of Yankton, S. D. Dunning served six years in the South Dakota prison some years ago. He is suspected of having been connected with some of the postoffice robberies in the smaller towns in the Minnesota district.

He was arrested with a man known as George Morgan for stealing $550 worth of stamps and money orders for $140 from the Smithbrick postoffice. The men were caught three hours after the robbery and had skeleton keys, nitro-glycerine and other burglar accessories on them at the time.

NUMBER 39 DULUTH, JULY 20, 1911

More Figures From Municipal Plants.

Let us show you the official figures on city lighting obtained from the men who operate the municipal plants in another group of ten cities in the alphabetical list of the leading American cities and towns which today have municipal electric plants. This table gives for each city named the number of arc lamps maintained and the yearly cost of each light:

City—	Population.	No. of Arc Lamps.	Cost per Lamp per year.
Crawfordsville, Ind	10,000	200	$66.00
Cumberland, Md	22,000	333	40.00
Danvers, Mass	10,000	135	59.46	Moonlight
Danville, Penn	7,500	108	48.00
Decatur, Ill	31,000	305	50.00	Moonlight
Detroit, Mich	466,000	4,374	50.00
Emporia, Kans	10,000	107	72.00
Escanaba, Mich	12,000	112	69.00
Fort Wayne, Ind	64,000	420	53.00	Overhead cons.
			68.00	Underground cons.
Fremont, Neb	9,000	75	96.00

In Lighting Talk No. 37 we said that in large cities a part at least of the distribution lines for Electric lighting have to go underground, and that underground construction means a higher cost per lamp per year. In the case of Fort Wayne, in the above table, the manager of the municipal plant has figured out exactly what the difference in cost is between the lamps on overhead construction and those on underground circuits.

In Danvers, Mass., and Decatur, Ill., the electric street lamps are not lighted on moonlight nights. If they were lighted every night in the year, as is the case in Duluth, the cost would be in Danvers $78.48, and in Decatur $66.64 per lamp per year.

The Duluth-Edison Electric Company offers to light Duluth at the unusually low price of $45 a year for each arc lamp—besides giving the City FREE lighting worth $1,500 a year, and making a substantial reduction in the shape of FREE lamps to every lighting customer.

In Cumberland, Md., the only city in the above list where the reported figure is below $45 per lamp per year, the arc lamps in use are of an old and inferior style, giving far less light than most cities today require, and further the estimated cost takes no account of any depreciation charge, taxes, or even insurance—items which every municipal plant has to pay, nevertheless.

Do YOU imagine that a municipal plant in Duluth, which because of the physical character of this City would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars more than any city plant listed above, excepting only the Detroit plant, could possibly furnish arc lighting here at a lower cost than any municipal plant in the list?

Even if a municipal plant could light Duluth for as low as $45 per lamp per year (which we know it could not do), the establishment of such a plant would inevitably make YOUR taxes higher than they are now. You know that even the cheapest kind of municipal plant could not be built without a new bond issue to cover its cost; and the interest on these bonds would have to be paid by the taxpayers. Don't forget that.

The alphabetical list of municipal plants will be continued in the next Lighting Talk, in next Saturday's Herald.

DULUTH-EDISON ELECTRIC CO.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LIMITED HELD UP AT BUFFALO, N. D.

berths a shot was fired down the aisle, narrowly missing the head of one of the passengers.

After searching the occupants of the berths, they climbed out of the diner, over the baggage and the express car to the engine. They ordered Engineer Olson to stop the train so they could get off, and when he refused, two shots were fired directly at him, one glancing off his watch and the other striking him on a rib, injuring him slightly.

Disappeared in Darkness.

Seeing the men were desperate, Olson stopped the train and the three masked men jumped off and ran into the darkness.

Olson, who is one of the oldest engineers on the system, was brought to Fargo with the train and is resting easily at his home there.

The train was run into Fargo, where the sheriff, every available deputy and three deputy United States marshals hurried back on a special train to pursue the robbers.

Posses also started from surrounding towns. The express and mail cars were not molested by the men.

Shot At By Conductor.

St. Paul, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern Pacific North Coast Limited, train No. 2, which was held up last night near Buffalo, N. D., arrived in St. Paul at 8 o'clock this morning. The passengers are of the belief that one of the robbers was hit by a bullet fired by the sleeping car conductor, and that this was the reason the robbers did not go through the whole train.

The robbers went through the observation car, which was the rear car of the train, the sleeper next to it, and part of a sleeping car ahead of this one. While the robbers were at work in the second sleeper, Sleeping Car Conductor Belgard fired from the first sleeper at one of the desperadoes who was standing guard at the door, and it is believed hit him in the shoulder, as he was seen to wince, and the bullet hole showed in the glass door about shoulder high. The robbers immediately abandoned their work and made for the head of the train.

Louisville Doctor's Story.

Dr. J. W. Guest of Louisville, Ky., occupied a berth in the first sleeper robbed and was relieved of $100 in bank checks. Dr. Guest attended the wounded engineer and says his wound is not serious, being hardly more than a flesh wound of the lower left breast.

"When the robber came to my berth," said Dr. Guest, "I handed him my pocketbook containing $100 in bank checks and my railroad ticket. He took the checks out and handed back the pocketbook with the railroad ticket. Then he asked if I did not have any cash, and when I told him I had $5 under my pillow, he said: 'Dig it up.' Just at this moment he was attracted to the berth opposite me, occupied by a Mr. Stark of Cincinnati, a representative of a harvester concern. He relieved Stark of $150 in bank checks, but forgot to bother me again for the $5.

Passed up Berth 13.

"A remarkable thing about the affair was that the robbers passed up Berth No. 13 entirely.

"Yesterday afternoon," continued Dr. Guest, "I had a talk with Conductor Belgard about guns, and incidentally I showed him an automatic gun I carried in my suitcase. Last night when the robbers had completed their work in our car and were going through the sleeper ahead, the conductor hurried up to me and asked me to get out my gun, which, of course, was the bottom article in the suitcase. It was with this gun that the conductor shot the robber on guard at the door of the sleeper ahead."

Another Kentucky Victim.

N. V. McMillan, also of Louisville, Ky., occupied a berth next to Dr. Guest and was relieved of $100 in bank checks and $8 in cash.

A tussle between two of the bandits and a porter, and a shot fired by one of them at a man who was trying to hide his watch under his berth, the bullet coming within three inches of his head, piercing the berth curtain and imbedding itself in the upholstered part of the seat, were exciting features of the holdup. Combining with this the cries of women, the rough orders of the bandits and the shots they fired from time to time to intimidate the passengers, and the scene becomes fully as exciting as the passengers made it out to be when they stepped from the train at the Union depot here at 7:55 a. m.

The train left Valley City at about 11:20. Some minutes after, the dining car conductor, L. Struye of St. Paul, heard footsteps on the top of the car. He had just remitted the proceeds of the night's supper, about $100, and was closing up his accounts for the night. The shuffling above he paid no attention to, thinking it was made by tramps. At that time Train Conductor Wheeler, with two brakemen and the observation car porter, C. D. Frye, were in the observation car at the rear of the train.

Three Men Entered.

Suddenly three men entered from the back platform. They wore overalls, all carried guns, and their faces were completely concealed by blue polkadot handkerchiefs.

The four trainmen were lined up in a row and robbed of what they had. Wheeler declares the men showed thorough familiarity with train methods and train language, asking questions regarding switches and demanding switch keys and the keys of the train. These were handed over.

When the bandits had completed their work in the observation car, they locked the front door behind them and entered the first sleeper, leaving the trainmen prisoners.

Every person in the next car, the first sleeper, was robbed with the exception of a brother and sister, one occupying the upper and the other the lower of the same section. These were overlooked. The rest were roughly handled.

Pressed Gun Into His Neck.

A Pittsburg man whose name has not been learned was ordered to "fork over." The robbers spied a valuable ring on his finger, containing two diamonds flashing on either side of a sapphire. One of the bandits held a gun muzzle pressed deep into the man's neck while he struggled with the ring for several minutes, trying to get it off. The passenger's neck was swollen from the jolting of the gun muzzle when he arrived in St. Paul.

Another passenger handed out $8.

"You've got more than that, damn you," one of the bandits said gruffly.

The passenger handed over a good sized roll in place of the $8.

The bandits confined themselves to cash, currency, checks and jewelry of the lighter kind.

JUSSERAND NOT SLATED TO LEAVE WASHINGTON.

Paris, July 20.—It was stated at the foreign office today that the report published abroad that Jean Jules Jusserand, the French ambassador at Washington, would retire or be transferred to another post following the signing of a general arbitration treaty between France and the United States, was untrue.

ZEPPELIN'S NEWEST AIRSHIP IN SERVICE.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, July 20.—The Schwaben I, the newest Zeppelin dirigible baloon, left this morning for Luzerne, Switzerland, carrying eight passengers.

Later word was received from Brunnen, Switzerland, that the airship had passed that place, which is about fifteen miles east of Luzerne.

EDITORS ARE WONDERING

Think Canadians May Object to Annexation Opinions.

Excursion Will Be Last Feature of Press Association Meeting.

Detroit, Mich., July 20.—At the conclusion this afternoon of the convention of the National Editorial association, or the National Press association, as it hereafter will be known, the delegates will embark on an all-water trip to Montreal and Quebec, after which they will visit the Muskoka and Cobalt regions of Northern Ontario.

There is much speculation among the editors as to what kind of reception they will receive during their stay in Canada. On the opening day of the convention several speeches were made in which "union" with Canada was strongly advocated. So much was said along this line that a great many of the delegates have been dubbed "annexation boosters."

Wonder About Canadians.

Judge Sutherland of Toronto, on the floor of the convention, took exception to the union sentiment and spoke warmly against it. Speaking of this matter, one of the prominent delegates to the convention expressed apprehension as to the nature of their treatment at the hands of the Canadians.

"We certainly cannot expect Canadians to be very hospitable to us," he said, "and I think we shall be lucky if we escape without hostile demonstrations, knowing as I do the temper of the Canadian people regarding annexation."

Talks on Editors' Duties.

Speaking on the subject, "The Newspaper Man's Duty and Opportunity with Regard to National Legislation," Congressman Henry A. Barnhart told the National Editorial association's convention that since "the people are sending more editors to each succeeding congress, the dawn of the legislative millenium is correspondingly nearer."

"In the great conflicts of public opinion for better things," said the speaker, "newspapers are a power for good or for evil. In proportion to the 'backbone' or the 'jelly' they show for public welfare.

"The newspaper that panders to unwholesome public thought is a deserter in the face of high public duty and the one that puts conscience above the counting room cash register builds mightily for larger blessings to civilization both here and hereafter."

Opposes Partisanship.

Mr. Barnhart denounced the policy of newspapers which blindly support the candidates of their party whether or not the candidates are worthy of public confidence and trust.

"The monopolists, the franchise grabbers, the lobbyists and the apostles of boodle are unusually strong partisans," he said. "We ought no longer to stand with such baneful elements in politics and we are false to our high calling when we do.

"'Tell the truth and fear no man,' is the only safe guide to editorial success in shaping the destiny of our country. And when we do this the golden age of just law enactment, bad law abolishment and wholesome law enforcement will make ours a mightier and happier people."

IS FOUND HIDING BEHIND BATHTUB

Fur Dealer Arrested at Hotel for Swindling Proctor Man.

Sam I. Lichterman, a fur salesman, was arrested in the bathroom off his room at the St. Louis hotel last night on a warrant charging him with having made false representations in selling $119 worth of furs and fur coats to Herbert Shell, town clerk at Proctor. He was crouching behind the bathtub.

Six other fur dealers were in the room. They had six trunks filled with furs and other merchandise in front of the bathroom door. The hotel register showed that Lichterman had checked out, but the police decided to take a look at his room. When they pulled away the trunks they located Lichterman. He is said to travel for a New York firm.

HINES' STORY IS DENIED BY MR. ALDRICH

taking Hines to his house to wait until he saw the president. Hines had testified to all these points.

Mr. Aldrich said that after his talk with the president about Lorimer, Hines was at his house to get a report. Mr. Aldrich said this was about 6 or 7 o'clock that evening, but he was not positive. Hines said it was about midnight.

Did Not "Need" Senator.

"Did you tell Mr. Hines that a Republican senator from Illinois was needed?"

"No. As a matter of fact, as far as the tariff was concerned, we were better off with a vacancy than with a senator. With a vacancy we needed only forty-six for a majority; with him we needed forty-seven."

The only one for whom Mr. Aldrich expressed to Hines a preference for senator, he said, was Lowden.

Mr. Aldrich said he never had any knowledge of Lorimer's attitude on the tariff. He said he considered Lorimer a good Republican.

Defines "Good Republican."

"What is your idea of a good Republican?" inquired Senator Kenyon.

"One who is a loyal supporter of the president and the administration and has the courage to stand up against local interests in so doing," replied the witness.

Reynold's Version Heard.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental Commercial bank of Chicago, who was represented to have declined the treasury portfolio in the Taft administration, told the committee yesterday afternoon what he knew of Edward Hines delivering an alleged message from the administration at Washington to Governor Deneen to aid Lorimer's election. He recited how Hines, on the day of Lorimer's election, consulted with him as to how to deliver the message to Deneen.

Wiehe Says Burgess Lied.

C. F. Wiehe, secretary of the Edward Hines Lumber company, said that William Burgess of Duluth Minn., was an "absolute liar" if he testified to what was read as Burgess' testimony. Burgess had said Wiehe told him on the Winnipeg flyer, March 7, 1911, that he subscribed $10,000 to a Lorimer election fund. Wiehe told the committee he believed there was a "frameup" between Burgess and W. H. Cook. The latter recently testified that Edward Hines telephoned from his room in Chicago the day Lorimer was elected that he (Hines) would be down to Springfield with all the money necessary for Lorimer's election.

Wiehe said he believed Cook would perjure himself to injure him.

Wiehe denied he ever heard of the "Father Green" incident as Burgess related it. Wiehe, however, recalled a rumor that Detective Keeley of the state's attorney's office in Chicago complained to Father Green about the work assigned to him in the Lorimer case, and that Keeley got Representative Beckmeyer drunk and then that Beckemeyer was taken down to the red light district and a compromising photograph shown him when he would not cooperate as wanted.

Virginia Man Testifies.

Samuel J. Cusson of Virginia, Minn., stockholder in the Edward Hines Lumber company; John B. Price, a lumberman of Seattle, and E. A. Johnson, formerly of the American Lumberman of Chicago, told of being on the Winnipeg flyer, but denied having heard the remarks attributed to Wiehe.

Differed From Deneen.

Reynolds testified regarding the alleged telephone conversation on the day of Lorimer's election when Governor Deneen swore that Hines telephoned him that Taft was sending, through Senator Aldrich and Reynolds, a message to aid Lorimer. Hines' version of the telephone talk differed from Deneen's.

"Hines came to me that morning (May 26,)" said Reynolds, "and said he bore a message that would have an important bearing on Illinois politics, that it came directly from Senator Aldrich and in reality from the administration, or President Taft, and was to Governor Deneen.

"He told me in substance that there had been a conference of some leading senators in Washington and he had been commissioned to take a message which was in effect that the senators, including the president, had expressed a desire to have a senator elected from Illinois and after consideration of the local situation they had come to the conclusion that Congressman Lorimer could be united on better than any one else, and that they preferred to have Lorimer elected to having the legislature adjourn without making an election.

to see that there are many visitors from the districts around about Duluth, mingling with the summer tourists, who are with us today in the latest thing in straw hats and summer flannels.

Parade Is Excellent.

In every respect the industrial parade surpassed any expectations upon the part of the people of the city. There was not a leading commercial house that was not represented in the line of march, and the enterprise of the commercial people was shown in the magnitude of the procession and the decorations of animals and wagons.

It was estimated at the Commercial club this morning that there are 5,000 visitors in the city. Trains this morning brought hundreds in from the ranges and the surrounding towns, while last evening practically every train coming to the city was packed with visitors coming in for the carnival.

Inquiry at the commercial and wholesale houses shows that there are many country merchants here with their families. Committees from the big wholesale houses are entertaining these men, and they will leave the city with a most cordial feeling for Duluth.

Many Auto Parties.

Automobiles are bringing people in from towns within a short distance of Duluth and also from the Twin Cities. It is estimated that there are about twenty-five automobiles from St. Paul and Minneapolis here this morning. Many more parties will motor up during the next two days.

Outside of the parade perhaps the chief object of interest to the visitors was the desire to see the city and every point of special interest. Street cars were crowded. Lester park, the boulevard and out through the residence district of the East end went many visitors on their first inspection of Duluth.

It is safe to say that the first annual carnival and water fete will do more to advertise this city and to show people in general what the city has to offer, than any other undertaking ever attempted by the city.

From the inquiry that is being made this morning there is every reason to believe that a very large crowd of people will view the motor boat races and water sports at the boat club.

Steamers will carry many of the visitors around the harbor and then back to the various places of vantage along the finish line. Many private launches have been chartered, and it is estimated that the grand stand at the club will be filled and that the bleachers further down the line at the new ball park will also be filled.

While the weather was slightly threatening, the indications are that the first day of the carnival will not be dampened in any way by a brand of weather that will cause any rearrangements in the plans of those in charge of the features of the carnival.

THE "BLUES."

Duluth society has given up its time entirely to the carnival for the rest of the week and bridge parties, luncheons and teas have been suspended for the time. The features of the carnival program which have already taken place have drawn their share of praise and admiration from the thousands who witnessed them. The city is full of tourists and all those who were expecting to have guests set this time for their arrival that they might be entertained with the first big event of this kind in the history of the city.

The cafe at the Duluth Boat club will be one of the busiest places in the city during the three days of the celebration.

A number of parties have been made up to view the Venetian fete this evening from private launches. The officers of the "Gopher" the United States steamship with their wives, will be aboard this evening as a reception committee to welcome any who wish to go aboard from the club for the fete. Small parties will witness the display from the larger boats and freighters in the harbor, where they will have the added effect of the lights of the Boat club itself. The young people have been busily employed in planning and executing the decorations for the canoes and hundreds have been gaily trimmed with bunting, bright hued paper and brilliant Japanese lanterns. Some of the sail boats have been prepared for the parade and a few of the launches will be decked for the occasion though they cannot enter the parade or be near the course during the parade on account of the danger to the other small craft.

The Doctor

Palpitation.

People who suffer from this distressing complaint are apt to frighten themselves with the idea that it is an undoubtedly sure sign of a more or less diseased heart. It is quite true that some forms of heart disease are accompanied by unconfortable sensations of throbbing, fluttering, or leaping, difficult breathing, giddiness and faintness.

But it is equally true that in the majority of cases these are due to digestive disorders or to anaemia. When an attack comes on the patient's hands and feet often get very cold, after which the face flushes hotly and the skin breaks out in profuse perspiration. Another symptom is that motes are often seen before the eyes. It will generally be found that strict attention to diet, the use of good, plain food, regular exercise, early hours, and avoidance of excitement will tend to cure the trouble. In particular any excess in tea drinking or the use of tobacco should be at once checked. Where pain occurs after eating, a dose of rhubarb and soda mixture, or a pinch of carbonate of soda in a wine glass of hot water after meals will often be found a help.

THE EVENING STORY

MADEMOISELLE'S LOVE STORY

By Mary W. Hastings.

Midnight sounded from the great tower clock. In the courtyard the sentinel paced to and fro, his slow footfalls muffled by the somber walls. From his window the Frenchman, who seemed so young to be an officer and so pitifully young to be a prisoner, gazed down at him with something of longing in his boyish eyes.

"Eh bien," said he finally to his own thoughts "one must die some time, and why not now?" Since this was unanswerable, he fell to humming a gay little song about brave hearts and dark eyes and the gardens of fair France. He was ridiculously young to be under sentence of death. Suddenly the door opened and shut softly.

"What now?" said he, straining his eyes in the darkness. "Another visit, mon colonel? Ah, you English are a sociable race!"

"Hush!" came a girl's voice tremulously. "It is I—his daughter."

The careless form on the window ledge straightened to its feet, and the Frenchman made a low bow.

"Mademoiselle honors me," he said. "Is there anything I can do for mademoiselle? Truly I am not in a position to confer many favors"—his glance rested quizzically on the iron bars of the window—"but if there is aught—"

The girl came forward into the moonlight, and he saw that her lips were trembling, but her eyes were very brave.

"I have come to tell you," she said, "that it is not right, this thing my father is going to do. He knows you are no spy; but he is very angry, and when he is angry he does things he is sorry for afterwards. You were found within our lines, you angered him, and so—"

"You distress yourself without cause, mademoiselle," said the prisoner. "Your father is but one among the English officers with whom I have had this—this misunderstanding. I had hoped the papers I carried would prove my errand to them; but it seems they disbelieve."

"Oh, monsieur!" stammered the girl. "I have to crave forgiveness for my father. He alone has seen those papers, and he has told—I know not why, monsieur"—her voice sank low, distressed and full of shame—"but he has told the other officers that they are plans of the fortifications. You see now why they condemn you without a hearing."

The Frenchman drew a sharp breath. "Ah, I see," he said softly. "Monsieur le colonel has a retentive memory. In France we were once seconds at a duel, and his principal was not—well, I said certain things that it pleases him to avenge now." He checked himself. "I regret, mademoiselle, that your kind heart should be grieved. These things of war seem harsh to you; they are men's matters. I thank mademoiselle that she has let me know one English heart holds a thought for a stranger and an enemy."

"I had seen you at the ball at Quebec," confessed the girl, moving back into the darkness, "and I knew your face was the face of a man who did not lie. So yesterday, when I heard you say that your papers would prove your right to be held as a prisoner of war and not as a spy, I believed you, even when my father declared they were plans. Then I did a grave thing, monsieur. I went to my father's secret drawer and looked at the papers, and I saw that they contained only the dying message of a comrade which you were carrying to his mother within our lines. A foolish deed, monsieur! My father is first in command here, and the others would not believe, so there is no way but flight. You must go this night—this hour! At sunrise they purpose—" her voice faltered and fell.

"Ah, to hang me," he finished cheerily enough. "Truly an inglorious end, but we who choose our lives cannot always choose our deaths."

"You can escape," said the girl eagerly. "Jacques, the soldier at your door, is my friend, my old playmate and nurse. He let me pass in tonight, and you may be quite sure that he will let you pass out at my bidding."

"And then?"

"The guard at the corridor's end is a stranger, so there is no way but through my room, across the hall. From the window the descent is easy, and the forest is very near."

"And in the morning what will le colonel say to the good Jacques, and to you, mademoiselle?"

"Oh, I—I can shield Jacques," she stammered. "There will be a story ready. I will say I fainted and called Jacques, and you took advantage of the moment. Ah, leave that to my woman's wit! The thing to do now is to go—and go quickly."

"You have the heart of an angel, mademoiselle," he bowed very low, then straightened himself with decision. "But it is out of the question that I should go and leave you and the old soldier to the mercy of the colonel."

"I am his daughter," said the girl.

"It is not for me to say harsh things of his mercy to women," the prisoner answered, "but I shall not go."

His eyes met the appeal of hers gravely and firmly. "Then I shall stay here!" she cried.

"Mademoiselle!" gasped the soldier.

"I shall stay here," she repeated with desperate calmness. "And if you do not go, and my father comes in the morning, what mercy will be shown to me then?"

"That would hurt my memory," he said.

She faced him defiantly. "Then go!"

"You ask what my honor cannot do."

"Monsieur, I remain!"

In the tense seconds that followed the girl pressed her hands to her temples, which throbbed like living things. She swayed forward to where the Frenchman stood within the square of moonlight, striving fearfully to read the secret of his thoughts. There was no surrender in his young eyes, but only a wondrous gentleness when he spoke again.

"Mademoiselle, there is a lady in France," he said, "who would grieve at such a report." He could not see her go white in the darkness, but he heard her catch her breath as if a sudden blow had fallen. Then she slipped down at his feet.

"Ah, go—go!" she implored. "For her sake, for the lady in France, go!"

"I cannot," he answered simply, as she let him raise her and lead her to the door in silent despair.

"Mademoiselle will do another kindness for me?" he asked. "Could you send word to that mother—la mere Caillaude—of her son? He was my very true comrade."

"It shall be done," she promised. "Is there nothing else? No letter to the lady in France?"

"Ah, coeur d'upe ange!" he murmured, and then aloud: "There is no message that could in safety be sent. I thank you from my heart, mademoiselle, for your unspeakable kindness to me. Will you honor a foeman by wearing this tomorrow?"

"Ah, tomorrow!" she sobbed, taking the ribbon with fingers that shook.

"Eh bien," he replied stoutly, "tomorrow maybe a very good day for some, who knows? It were better to be shot, of course—one does not cut a pretty figure at the rope's end—but after all, it is as it pleases the good God. Farewell mademoiselle." He kissed her hands, cold and trembling, which clung piteously to his. "Remember me in your prayers."

The sun rose on a strange sight under the old chateau walls the next morning. A knot of soldiers were busying themselves about a giant oak; some digging a grave upon one side, others arranging a rope over a stalwart bough. A little apart, a man in the scarlet coat of the English army faced a youth whose bound hands seemed strangely at variance with the merry light in his eyes and the song that had been hovering on his lips.

"You see now, captain," said the older grimly, "that merry jests sometimes land one at the gallows' foot."

"Eh bein," laughed the prisoner, "it will not be his jests that will bring monsieur le colonel there!"

The colonel's face held a curious pallor, and he eyed the prisoner as if regretting his inability to adjust the noose with his own hands. An aide caught the gleam in his eye, and drew a comrade's attention, saying that there was more in this little hanging than would appear in the reports. The Frenchman turned and sprang upon a horse the soldier led up.

"Ah, my own beast!" he cried. "I thank you for this, our last ride together."

The horse was then led under the oak and the noose adjusted about the rider's neck. At a window in the chateau the Frenchman saw a girl's white face pressed against the pane, the eyes wide with the horrible fascination of the scene. A blue ribbon fluttered from her hair.

"Adieu!" he cried ringingly. "Adieu!" The word hushed in his throat. At the window the girl covered her eyes and sank down with a little moan. When she looked again, a boy's body, limp and straight, hung under the giant oak.

The Kitchen

Eggs and Mushrooms.

Half a pint of mushrooms, one onion, butter, flour, four eggs, mustard, a dessert spoonful of vinegar, pepper and salt. Peel the mushrooms, slice up the onion and fry it in butter. As soon as the onion is tender chop up and add the mushrooms. Put all this into a stewpan, add a little water and thicken with flour and butter. Let this simmer for half an hour; add a little made mustard, pepper, salt and vinegar. Boil the eggs hard, cut them in slices and put them into the stewpan; let them get thoroughly hot, and serve.

Cold Meat Omelet.

Half a pound of any cold cooked meat, three tablespoonfuls of flour, half a pint of milk, one egg, half a teaspoonful of minced parsley, one teaspoonful of baking powder, salt, pepper. Mince the meat very finely, mince the onion finely.

Beat the egg well, add the milk to it, then the flour and the salt and pepper; beat all very smoothly together, then let it stand for a short time.

Now stir in the meat, sage, parsley and onion; beat it well. Make a little dripping hot in a pie dish and pour in the mixture; add the baking powder just before putting into the oven. Bake for half an hour, turn it out of the pie dish, and serve with gravy made from stock.

Mock Chicken Cutlets.

This is one of the vegetarian recipes which most people seem to like so well.

Grate, by passing through fine meat chopper, one-quarter pound of shelled walnuts or Brazil nuts, and add to them two teacupfuls of bread crumbs, one-half ounce butter (or nutter), a teaspoonful of onion juice, a little ground mace, and a seasoning of salt and pepper; a little celery salt may also be added.

Melt one-half ounce of butter in a stewpan; mix in a teaspoonful of flour, and add by degrees one gill of milk. When it thickens add the other ingredients and mix well. Take the pan from the fire, stir in a beaten egg and a teaspoonful of lemon juice, and mix all thoroughly. Turn out, and when cold form into cutlets; brush them over with beaten egg, cover with bread crumbs and fry in a very hot fat. Serve with bread sauce or tomato sauce.

Eggs and Onions.

Fry some nicely sliced onions in butter until colored. Sprinkle them liberally with cayenne pepper. Drain away the butter and put the onions before the fire to dry. Squeeze the juice of a lemon over; then poach some eggs and lay them on the onions. Serve very hot. Six eggs sufficient for three persons.

Marrying the Wrong Girl

By FRANCES WILEY.

Nearly every unmarried man you know, however, he has failed at other things, flatters himself that he would be a success as a husband. Later on a large number change their minds. They are not successes. The vast majority who recognize that fact assert that the failure is all owing to one thing—they would have been the most excellent husbands on earth, only they committed the mistake of marrying the wrong girl.

It is very possible that a large number of men really do marry the wrong women; but in the vast majority of these cases the woman has married the wrong man.

The very idea that a husband has duties and responsibilities which may be hard of performance does not really occur to him when he is thinking of making "the best girl in the world" his.

How many of his bachelor habits will he be content to lop off? With all respect to bachelors, they are inclined to have their little eccentricities, which will not conduce to matrimonial felicity if persevered in after marriage.

"My dear sir," exclaimed a man who was contemplating matrimony to a friend who had just pointed out a dozen or so little failings which had marked his career as a bachelor, "do not think that I'm fool enough not to see, as clearly as the nose on my face, that I must give up all that kind of thing." He was quite annoyed when it was suggested that he begin at once to see how life would be.

"That's different," he declared, irritably. "When a man's married things are different." The only difference there seems to be is that he has "married the wrong girl."

Marriage does not make a man industrious, economical or temperate. It does not work miracles. The love for a girl has worked them; but a man loves a girl before he marries her, and the miracle is worked before matrimony, if at all.

TIRED CARRIER PIGEON ENTERS STILLWATER MILL.

Stillwater, Minn., July 20.—John Slaughter, engineer at the Tozer planning mill, caught a bird that closely resembles a pigeon, at the mill, that had a gold ring around its neck and a band that resembles silver around one leg. On the inside of this band is rubber and a piece of paper. John says he thinks this may be a carrier pigeon that became exhausted and dropped down at the mill.

PLANTS FIST IN HIS FACE

Sam Meneice Hands Monsieur Jones a Package and Is Benched.

Eau Claire Grabs Morning Game From Sox By 3 to 0.

Another of Frank Force's umpires Monsieur Jones together with our old friend, Sam Meneice, broke into the limelight at Athletic park this morning when Sam planted his large and bony fist in Monsieur Jones' classic physiognomy, during the first inning, following a decision on first that looked pretty close to say the least, to most of the fans. Darby O'Brien came in on the high speed from the outfield and called a copper whom he tried to persuade to put Umpire Jones off the field.

The policeman had more idea of what league discipline should be than Frank Force, however, and decided that the umpire belonged there. As a result Meneice was benched, Darby came in to first, and Kraemer went to right field. Incidentally Duluth dropped another game, this time by a 3 to 0 score.

Brother Morrow was in the pulpit for the visitors and Blancke and Johnson did the honors for the Sox. Eau Claire garnered nine safe ones off the Duluth batteries while the O'Brienites only got four, which largely tells the story of the game.

The Schooners' first scores came in the fourth frame when they shoved two across the platter. Kading started things by falling into one of Blancke's shoots and walking to first. Bailey went down Leber to O'Brien, advancing Kading, who scored a moment later when De Lave placed a two-sacker against the right field fence. Then Morrow drew a single and scored Delave. Johnson replaced Blancke. Kick went down Johnson to O'Brien, and after Moore drew a single, Sours ended things with a pop up to De Haven.

In the ninth the Schooners added another for good measure, Kick starting with a single, stealing second, going to third on Sours' infield out, and scoring on a long fly by Chapelle to Altermott.

In the eighth inning Umpire Lyman was hit in the neck with the ball and was knocked out for a few minutes, but was able to continue the game.

SICKNESS CURED BY WIRE

Disease Yields to This Process —Pain Departs Instantaneously.

These excruciating pains of Rheumatism, and of the Arthritis Deformatis, and the dull throbbing agony of Neuralgia and headache are among the hardest to be relieved by the methods ordinarily employed. This new invention needs to be applied but a few times and the disease will have gone from the patient entirely.

The invention of this new process marked a new era in the science of medicine and surgery. The process was discovered almost simultaneously by the specialists in charge of the local Progressive Medical association and by Professor Le Duc of France. At this date it is used in the United States only by these specialists. Long practice is necessary to obtain satisfactory results, but there is no doubt that eventually the whole medical profession will adopt this method. By means of this method the medicine to be used in a case is driven direct to the parts affected—by wire. A copper plate, covered with aseptic gauze is soaked in the medicant to be used is placed on the affected part and connected with an electric wall-plate. The circuit is completed by applying an electrode from the other plate to the nearest nerve center and turning on the current. In this simple way all dangers of disturbing the functions of the body's vital organs is done away with, and no longer need the stomach be thrown out of order for days by compelling it to digest medicines needed for different parts of the body.

Various swellings have been cured by this method and in many cases varicose veins and (simple) blood poison of the legs has given way. The doctors of the Progressive Medical association, however, have made it a practice to treat only men, believing that no ordinary doctor, no matter how well educated, can treat all diseases successfully. For that reason men only are accepted for treatment, and those who are afflicted with stubborn diseases peculiar to their sex, and all other troubles, may consult these doctors at their offices, No. 1 W. Superior St., from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. free. They believe that men should be treated separately and that diseases peculiar to men only should not be carried into the homes. We want our wives and daughters clean and healthful, and they deserve all the protection we can throw around them—yet at the same time why should not our men and boys be given a chance to be healed from the results of temptation and folly, and from the harmful habits into which so many of them have fallen?

In hundreds of cases the family physician is slow to recognize the danger, or fails to note it at all, but these doctors are specialists, are constantly in practice upon these ills and diseases, and recognize the need for action in every case. They save our boys and men.

UNASSISTED TRIPLE PLAY

Vernon, Cal., Outfielder Makes Sixth Play of Kind on Record.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 20.—Walter Carlisle, centerfielder of the Vernon club of the Coast league, made the sixth unassisted triple play recorded in organized baseball yesterday against the Los Angeles club in a game won by Vernon 5 to 4.

In the sixth inning with the score tied, Moore and Metzger of Los Angeles, walked. Pitcher Carson of Vergenon was replaced by Stewart. Akin, third baseman for Los Angeles, hit the first ball Stewart pitched low over second base for what looked like a clean single. Moore and Metzger both got off to a hit and run signal, but Carlisle, playing close in, came forward like a flash and picked the ball off his shoe tops. His lunge carried him off his feet and when he recovered both base runners, counting Akin's drive a sure safety, had passed the second station. Carlisle raced to second and touched the bag while Moore was well on the way to the plate, then trotted to first, retiring Metzger. The unassisted triple plays on record are:

Paul Hines of Providence, at Providence, 1878; Harry O'Hagan of Rochester, at Jersey City, 1902; Larry Schally of Portland, at Portland, Ore., 1904; Murch of Manchester, at New Bedford, 1906; Neal Ball of Cleveland, at Cleveland, 1909; Walter Carlisle of Vernon, at Los Angeles, 1911.

It will be a combination of the fifteenth annual tournament of the club and the state shoot under the auspices of the Minnesota State Sportsmen's association. On Sunday another important shoot will be held on the range of the Northwestern Gun club on the Pike Lake road, and the two events are counted on to attract marksmen from all over the state.

Shooting tomorrow morning will begin promptly at 9 o'clock. The state championship shoot will consist of fifty targets, twenty-five of which will be shot off tomorrow and the balance Saturday. Shooting will be from a sixteen-yard rise and suitable trophies are offered for each event. Ties are to be shot off.

The annual meeting of the Minnesota State Sportsmen's association will be held at the Commercial club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

BLACKBURNE IS BETTER AND WILL REJOIN SOX.

Chicago, July 20.—Russell Blackburne, the $11,000 shortstop of the Chicago American league baseball team who has been out of the game since early in the spring, following a surgical operation on his knee cap, has recovered and will join his team in a few days, according to a report received today by President Comiskey.

No Disruption.

Davenport, Iowa, July 20.—President Lane of the Davenport club of the Three I league today denied last night's report of the probable disruption of that league. He says the Decatur franchise is the only one on the market, and declares the other clubs are in good financial condition and that if necessary, the Decatur club will be well placed and the league complete the season.

RAILROADS

DATE STAMPED ON TICKET IS LIMIT

Interstate Commerce Commission Makes Ruling Shortening Railroad Ticket.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has made a ruling that the date stamped on a railroad ticket is the time of its expiration, that is, the date does not signify the last day on which the trip may be started, but the day on which the ticket expires. Should a journey begin before midnight of the date with which a ticket is stamped, the passenger will have to pay additional fare after that hour. This ruling will affect chiefly those going on transcontinental trips, as they are accustomed to delay the return journey until the date with which the ticket is stamped.

PENNINGTON LIKES OUTLOOK FOR CROPS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edmund Pennington, president of the Soo line, is optimistic after a 1,300 mile trip through the farming districts of the Northwest. Speaking of crop conditions, he said: "In the Dakotas the average yield will be from eight to ten bushels an acre, although the country is so spotted with good and bad crops that it is hard to make an accurate estimate. As a whole, the outlook is better than last year. There is plenty of fodder, hay and corn and this will save the farmers much money. The late flax crop looks good, and if there is rain from now on it will mature and result in an excellent crop. The early flax crop looks well."

A COOLING SHAMPOO FOR SUMMER MONTHS

"Because of profuse perspiration and excessive oiliness of the scalp in Summertime," writes Mrs. Mae Martyn, in the New York Herald, "many women find the hair difficult to manage. Ordinarily shampoo mixtures fail to remove all dust and oil, and invariably leave the hair stringy and matted. "The simplest and best thing with which to cleanse both scalp and hair is plain canthrox. A teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water is enough for a good shampoo and a little at a time poured on the head and rubbed briskly creates a white, thick lather, wonderfully cooling and soothing. Rinsing leaves the scalp and hair delightfully clean and the hair dries quickly, taking on a beautiful brilliancy and softness."

CROWDS ARRIVE FOR CARNIVAL

Trains Coming Into Duluth Are Filled With Pleasure Seekers.

Trains coming to Duluth today and last evening were filled to their capacity with passengers who are here to attend the big water carnival. Some of the trains had extra coaches, and these too were filled to their capacity.

It is difficult to estimate how many people have come to Duluth during the past two days, but several prominent local passenger agents set the number at from 5,000 to 6,000. More are expected tomorrow, while some will come on the Saturday trains.

The Great Northern trains from the West, which, as a rule, have small crowds, were so filled that there was not even standing room. The Canadian Northern brought big crowds from Winnipeg, while the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range were forced to put on extra cars for range people.

AMONG RAILROAD MEN

R. P. Ober, traveling freight agent of the Western Pacific Railway company, is in the city from San Francisco, on business.

J. T. Clark, vice president of the Omaha road, Mrs. Clark and friends, of St. Paul, are in Duluth to attend the water carnival.

W. J. Gilkerson of St. Paul general passenger agent for the Grand Trunk, is a business caller in Duluth today.

A. B. Hill of Chicago, general agent of the passenger department of the Lehigh Valley road, is among the railroad callers today in Duluth.

CUT WHEAT FOR FODDER.

Some Otter Tail County Farmers Experience Hard Luck.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large number of the farmers in the vicinity of Elizabeth are cutting down their wheat and oats for fodder for their stock. The hot winds caught it when it should have headed out and as there was very little rain, the heads that have formed are small and uneven. This is also true of quite a good deal of country in Carlisle and Orwell and to some extent in Western. In the Dane Prairie and Tumuli country, crops look better. Corn is still showing up finely, but rain is badly needed to develop the ears.

HAYSTACK SAVES YOUNG AVIATOR

Chicago Man Has Fall While Trying Biplane---Iowan Also Falls.

Chicago, July 20.—A haystack today saved the life of Harry Cowling, an aviator flying in a biplane in an open field at South Fifty-sixth avenue and Twenty-third street.

While banking for a short turn, the aeroplane turned turtle and dropped sixty feet to the ground. As the machine was turning over, Cowling made a desperate leap and alighted in the haystack. He was not even scratched, but his machine was completely wrecked.

Aitkin Takes Tumble.

Fort Madison, Iowa, July 20.—Aviator Aitkin fell today with his biplane, but escaped unhurt. The biplane was badly damaged. After a brief flight the machine turned sideways and came to earth before it had gone many feet.

CLOQUET BANKER UNDER QUARANTINE IN STILLWATER

Cloquet, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. L. Dixon, cashier of the First National bank, is quarantined in Stillwater for diphtheria. Mr. Dixon was called to Stillwater Tuesday by the illness of his sister, who died the same day, and later when Mr. Dixon complained of being ill, he was found to have contracted diphtheria. A servant girl in the Dixon home in this city had visited the house of her sister, Mrs. Victor Sundeen, whose two children died last week of diphtheria. Mr. Dixon is not seriously ill.

FRECKLES GONE

"Simple Remedy From Boyce Drug Store Removed Them," Says Society Lady.

"The best skin specialists told me that nothing would remove my freckles and that I would carry them to my grave," said a well known society woman, "but I fooled them all with a new drug, othine—double strength, that I bought at Boyce Drug Store which cleared my skin and gave me a fine complexion."

The action of othine is really remarkable, for when applied at night, many of the freckles disappear entirely by morning, and the rest have begun to fade. An ounce is usually all that is needed, even for the worst case.

Be sure to ask Boyce Drug Store for the double strength othine, as this is sold under a guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

WINNIPEG WILL BUY OUT RAILWAY

Announcement of $15,000,000 Expenditure Made By Mayor Evans.

Winnipeg, Man., July 20.—Mayor Evans of Winnipeg today anounced that the city had decided to accept Sir William MacKenzie's offer and purchase the entire plant of the Winnipeg Electric Railway company for the sum of $15,000,000. The acquirement will consist of an electric railway with fourteen years of the franchise yet to run, a power plant sixty miles east of the city and a gas and electric light plant.

Litigation between the city and the Winnipeg Electric Railway company has been going on for two years, in which the company has been defeated on all points. The city's new $6,000,000 power plant began operating in September and greatly hurt the company's business.

GERMANS MAKE APPEAL TO BERLIN

Twenty-Five Families in Danger at Orizaba, Mexico.

Berlin, June 20.—An appeal for protection was received today by the leaders of the National Liberal party from twenty-five German families at Orizaba, Mexico, who evidently are apprehensive of the fate of the Germans who were killed by rioters at Puebla. Evidently ignorant of the fact that the reichstag is not sitting, the alarmed ones asked that the government be interpellated regarding the murders.

The government has taken no steps as yet, pending the conclusion of an investigation by its representatives in Mexico. It regards the position not only of Germans but of all foreigners in Mexico as dangerous on account of the strong anti-foreign movement and the difficulties of the administration in coping with the former revolutionists and the bandits.

Browns Valley, Minn., July 20.—Interesting and impressive exercises were held here today at the corner stone laying of the new Catholic church being built at a cost of $30,000. The ceremonies were conducted by Rev. Edward Jones of Norris, Minn., who delivered the sermon, assited by several other priests.

Lieutenant Governor Sam Y. Gordon who lives here was among the speakers. A local band furnished the music. Among the papers and documents placed in the tin box in the cornerstone was a copy of The Duluth Herald.

SITE NEARER CITY

Favored By Governor Burke for Minot State Normal.

Minot, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next week the state board of control will meet here, when the question of a location for the new normal school will be fought out. As Governor John Burke has addressed the board of control making known his disapproval of the site previously selected, the site question has incited a great deal of interest over the state.

Minot citizens, too, have made a protest against the site that was selected, their petition of protest being presented to the board at its recent meeting in Mayville.

Governor Burke is urgent that the board should select a site closer to the city, declaring that the ground already picked out would result in the creation of a heavy annual expense for transportation of supplies to and from the city.

SEVERANCE CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

address at the Spalding hotel yesterday afternoon was the feature of the Duluth meeting, left this afternoon for Hancock, Mich., where he speaks Friday.

This afternoon the association members were taken for a boat ride up the river and around the harbor on T. F. Cole's yacht, the Alvina. This evening they will view the Venetian fete from the steamer Plowboy, which has been chartered for the occasion.

The evening trains for St. Paul will be held an hour later than usual so that the members may spend some extra time in the city. After the entertainment this evening the out-of-town members will leave for their homes.

The Bar Banquet.

Homer B. Fulton's plea for a "reasonable interpretation of the moral law" for attorneys, when the Day of Judgment comes, and Attorney General Wickersham's broadside directed against James Manahan, auburn haired, insurgent, and La Follette aide de camp, were the features of a hilarious banquet of the State Bar association at the Spalding hotel last evening.

Mr. Fulton's speech was one long shout for the attorneys, and Mr. Wickersham's remarks were just tart enough to add spice to the evening's program, without leaving any bad taste in the mouths of the banqueters. Following the banquet, Mr. Wickersham and Mr. Manahan shook hands in the lobby of the hotel.

"I enjoyed your speech," said Mr. Manahan.

"Well, I enjoyed yours this morning," said Mr. Wickersham, "but it was hard work for me to keep still. If I had been a member of the association I would have been on my feet and taken exception then and there."

"Well, I like to get rapped about as well as I like to give them out," said Mr. Manahan, and the two men laughingly shook hands.

Mr. Wickersham's broadside was called forth by Mr. Manahan's remarks on what he called "The Unholy Trinity, Marshall, Mammon and Morgan." This was evidently more than Mr. Wickersham could stand in silence. The first part of his speech was delightfully humorous and witty, but he began to show signs of warming up to his subject, and paced up and down the little space beside the tables.

"Gentleman," he said, "this is the first time I ever sat in an association of lawyers and heard the name of John Marshall held up to ridicule and traduced by a member of the bar."

There was an instantaneous outburst of applause from the attorneys present.

Social Reformers.

Mr. Wickersham then continued to pay his respects to the social reformers, and said that on looking into their plans it is generally found that they merely have some scheme whereby the will of a few may be imposed on all the people.

"Don't burn down the house to get rid of the rats," he said, "and you don't have to tear down the senate to get rid of a Lorimer."

The attorney general was given a reception that must have warmed his heart. The proceedings at the banquet were evidently a little different from what he had been accustomed to in the East, and he seemed to thoroughly enjoy them. The members gave him a respectful hearing, but the other speakers were unmercifully "joshed," excepting Mr. Fulton who forced attention by his low voice and the desire on the part of the attorneys to hear what he had to say.

There were just four speakers on the program, President James Shearer, Vice President C. A. Severance, Homer B. Fulton and the attorney general. Pierce Butler of St. Paul acted as toastmaster.

The banquet was most informal. For nearly three hours the attorneys ate, and sang, and indulged in all manner of horse play, led by the St. Paul contingent, with Robert Geehan of that city as chief disturber. He has an excellent tenor voice, and he led the singing.

Finally about 10:30, the "Amen Corner" shouted "Well, let's have the speeches and get them over with," and Pierce Butler attempted to restore order.

The first three speakers spoke entirely in a humorous vein, telling stories and cracking jokes at the expense of the members. Mr. Fulton easily carried off the honors in this respect. His serious demeanor, and quiet wit, were hugely enjoyed. He took for his theme the young lawyer, and probably the remark that was most thoroughly appreciated, was the hope that the moral law might be "reasonably interpreted" for attorneys, when the day of judgment came. "Otherwise," said Mr. Fulton, "there will be some of us here, who will remember with regret, perhaps, that it was cool in Duluth."

"Integrity and honor," said Mr. Fulton, "are the underlying characteristics of every successful lawyer in Minnesota who has retired from active practice."

The committee had prepared a list of popular songs, the words of which were printed on a little pamphlet distributed, and the members sang these with great gusto during the evening.

Side Remarks.

The side remarks during the evening were probably the most enjoyed part of the banquet. The members insisted on the "recall" of the toastmaster because he neglected to offer a toast to the ladies in the balcony and the one woman attorney present during the course of the meal. Mr. Butler "made good" at the close of the dinner, however, and was allowed to continue to act as toastmaster.

One table wanted to "call the game on account of darkness" when the speeches began, and another table insisted that Wickersham was no sham, much to the delight of the guest of honor, who acknowledged the cheers it evoked by standing and waving his napkin.

The remark of the prize rooter of two years ago was recalled by Mr. Fulton in his speech. Two years ago, when the rooting was at its height, one Duluth attorney mounted a table and yelled for silence at the top of his voice, when one of the speakers got up to make his talk. "Shut up," he yelled; "I want to hear what this other d—n fool has to say." Mr. Fulton referred to this in closing, and as he was followed by the attorney general, a great shout went up. Mr. Wickersham seemed to enjoy it more than anybody.

The St. Paul contingent had a freak yell which made a tremendous hit.

Mr. Wickersham's address is given in full below:

Mr. Toastmaster, ladies and gentlemen of the Minnesota Bar association, and ladies:

"I can hardly express to you how much pleasure I have had in being with you today or how much help, how much inspiration a meeting of this kind means to one in official position trying to discharge that difficult task, his duty.

"When I was asked to come out here a few days ago I anticipated some pleasure because it is always agreeable to meet a body of members of one's own profession; and the government had invested some sums, considered large in some quarters, in some of the members of your bar. (Laughter.)

"I knew they were reasonable. (Laughter.) I knew they would promote rather than restrain trade. (Laughter.) And I thought I would like to come out here and see whether you had the same idea of that that I had.

"But today has been one of singular richness in many directions. In the first place I have been continuously fed from morning to night until I am almost like a pate de fois gras, and I have no prejudice against pure food. (Laughter.)

"Despite what has been said in some quarters I have strong prejudices against drugs and nostrums and quackery of every kind.

"But I have been singularly instructed today and surprised with the fluency of the current knowledge which this association has displayed of holy writ (Laughter.) In my youth I was somewhat diligently applied to the study of the Scriptures. I speak advisedly in the passive sense because I am of a generation which is not always consulted as to their wishes and were constrained, in restraint of much harmless amusement, to devote a portion of their Sabbath to the perusal of that great work.

"But I had almost forgotten old Jeroboam and I was rather tempted at that moment to think that we were going on to get into the position of a man I heard of who went to hear a sermon on the minor prophets and after running down through the list the preacher finally said: We come now to Malachi. What place shall we give to Malachi? And a humble brother in the rear of the room got up and said: He can have my place because I am leaving. (Laughter.)

Egypt's Famine.

"And then I was very much struck this morning at the reference to those two dreamers of the Nile who interpreted each other's visions to their mutual satisfaction and to the enormous content of Egypt despite the commentary of this morning. And as he was talking about it I wondered what would have happened to Egypt in those seven years of famine if Joseph and Pharaoh had not seen visions and had not interpreted those dreams. (Applause.) And I thought to myself if the time ever comes when the young men of this land cease to see visions and the old men cease to dream dreams, then indeed the desolation and the blight and plague will be upon us.

"If things had been well ordered down in Egypt in those days, they would have had a Judge Mitchell to sustain the constitutionality of an act regulating the charges of the granaries that Mr. Joseph and Mr. Pharaoh established, and they would have had a reasonable profit, reasonable profit which would have enabled them to build a pleasure palace or two on the Nile, to take winter trips to Athens and rejoice their souls, and the land would have prospered abundantly. They would not have had a corner in the land. Every man would have had as much as was good for him, perhaps more than was good for him. But nevertheless the prosperity of the land would have been due to the men who dreamed dreams.

"And so there came to my mind again the thought of two other dreamers who in the early days of our independence had the vision of a nation. They took this little scattered lot of colonies strung along the Atlantic seaboard, hemmed in by the seas on one side and by the impenetrable forests on the other, and in their dream they saw an empire. In their dreams they beheld a nation. And they communicated their vision to their fellow countrymen. And they wrote down a charter large enough, broad enough, to govern 90,000,000 people as it had governed three.

"And, gentlemen, it is the first time that I have ever sat in an assemblage of lawyers and heard the great name of John Marshall traduced, held up to scorn by a member of the bar. (Loud and long applause.)

John Marshall.

"Think of it, think of a man who for thirty years in the face of a hostile administration, in the face of a small-minded people incapable of perceiving a national vision, think of a man who had strength of character, who had breadth of vision enough to lay day by day in decisions immortal in their conception, magnificent in their expression, the walls against which the rising tide of Socialism will beat in vain because they are founded on eternal truth. (Long and loud applause, the audience rising to their feet with cheers.)

"In what assemblage of lawyers speaking our language is the name of John Marshall not revered by every thinking man? What was he doing? Interpreting the will of the people; saying to the petty legislature of today the people of this land, all the people, not a little group of self-seeking, self-glorifying people, but all the people have commanded where you must stop and have said to what point you must go.

"Who are the people? Are they 5 per cent of a restricted electorate who may try to express in their puny language their emotions of a moment or is it the nature thought of the entire community finding expression in measured terms, the results of great deliberations, holding one hand to the past and reaching forward with the other to a glorious future.

Social Reformers.

"Who are the people? When I hear these new social reformers talking about the people I look at the last instruments in which they express these new fangled ideas. I find in them always, characterizing one and the other of them, schemes by which the will of a small minority of the people may impose on them all. I find in the state of Oklahoma, for example, in the first place, a device to exclude the negro from voting at all. And I find then with that restricted electorate a scheme whereby a small minority may govern all.

"I tell you that no one of the people who advocates these notions has dared to propose or to accept a proposal whereby the fundamental law shall be made and made only by a clear majority of the people of any community. And I know of no more conservative measure that could be proposed than that would be. And I believe with those who voice a similar suggestion, although they do not carry it into practice, that the people—that is, a majority of the whole people—will be right if you give them time enough.

"There is a little story told in the introduction to Faron's recent collection on the debates of the Constitution about Jefferson and Washington, how Jefferson came back from France after the Constitution was made and he said to Washington: 'I don't quite like the idea of this senate that you have got. What is the use of it?' Said Washington: 'What did you pour out your tea in that saucer for a moment ago?' 'Why,' said Jefferson, 'to cool it off.' Said Washington: 'That is why we have a senate.' (Applause.) No more simple no more apt expression could be made than that.

"Now the whole scheme of these gentlemen who want to reform the evils that have taken place by destroying our government depends upon sweeping away the opportunity of cooling the tea so that it won't burn your mouth. And there is the whole thing in a nutshell.

"Now, gentlemen, I did not mean to be unduly serious about this but I cannot help getting hot when I hear this sort of talk; and above all things, when the man whom I believe more than any other man under God has made this nation possible, John Marshall, is held up to scorn in an assemblage of lawyers. And therefore you will pardon my earnestness on that subject. (Loud applause.)

"I am something of a dreamer myself in odd moments. We do not have very much time to dream down in Washington but when I get a chance I like to think that the time will come, and perhaps is coming now, when we will address ourselves to the real evils which lie not so much in institutions as in men.

"You do not burn a house down to get rid of rats. You do not need to destroy the United States senate to get rid of a Lorimer if you will face the thing as it is and turn the rascals out.

Fault of Voters.

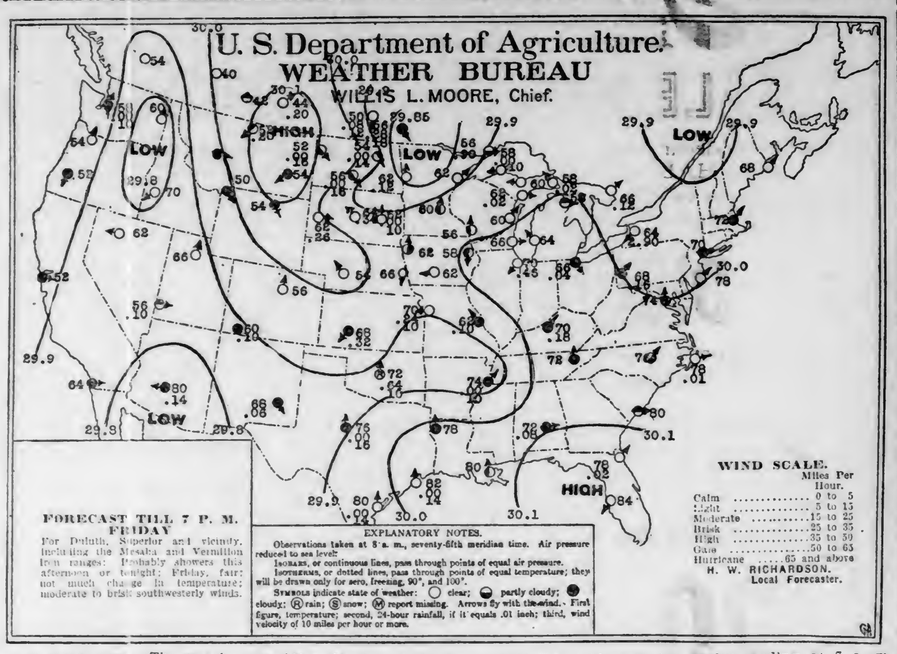

"We are all to blame in that we do not perform our civic duties as we should. It is difficult to get a majority of the electors to the polls on any occasion. Why? Because we are all busy. We have all got our occupations and therefore we haven't the time to look after public affairs; and therefore being faithless over little we shall be made rulers over much. That is the theory. If we will only try to quicken each other in the discharge of our own duties and if we will only address ourselves to the real evil, that is, seeing to it that our chosen representatives perform their duties honestly, we won't need to take to destroying our institutions. I do not mean to say that in the fullness of time the wisdom of men may not evolve some better form of government than we have. It has not yet been evolved. It was not evolved in revolutionary France and it is not evolved in Socialistic Switzerland and as we are turning to one and the other to meet these new fangled remedies for these same old fashioned evils we find their trouble not in institutions but in the power of men and as the result of the opportunities which are given by our own laxity and our own failure to perform our public duties.

"Now, gentlemen, I thank you all, first for the very patient attention you gave to my address this afternoon; second, to your kind consideration this evening. And I want to tell you that again I cannot express how much real genuine help and pleasure it is to me to have been here to meet with the generous reception that you have given me and to go away quickened and strengthened and encouraged as old Antaeus was when he touched mother earth, by having come here and having received a greeting from the members of this great Bar association." (Loud and long continued applause and cheers, the members rising to their feet.)

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

The weather man is a little doubtful of whether he will keep his promise to be kind to Duluth during the carnival. He wavered a little this morning and sent a few drops of rain. The sky cleared later and the sun came out for the workhorse parade. Showers are predicted for this afternoon or tonight, with fair weather forecasted for tomorrow.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today and the mercury went to 89 deg.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A slight disturbance that has developed over Northwestern Minnesota may cause local showers at the Head of the Lakes during either this afternoon or tonight. During the last twenty-four hours light to copious showers fell over Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Western Minnesota, the Dakotas, the Eastern Lake region, Ohio Valley states Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and East Gulf states. Moderate temperatures were the rule to the eastward of the Rocky mountains, but very warm weather prevails over Eastern Washington, Idaho and Nevada."

Impure Drinking Water

Is the direct cause of typhoid, malaria, dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera morbus and all the other fatal hot weather complaints. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is prescribed by doctors as a sure preventive and cure.

If you are going to the seashore or countryside for your summer vacation TAKE A BOTTLE OF "DUFFY'S" WITH YOU.

Most summer hotels and rural dwellings depend for their drinking water upon "the old well." A wealth of romance has been weaved around the well in both song and story, but modern medical science has shown that, nine times out of ten, "the old well" is a breeding place for countless typhoid germs and other virulent bacilli.

The cause for this is readily understood by the fact that the sewage from the outhouses and waste matter from the kitchen permeate their way through the ground to the well.

The same is true, and in a larger way, with the streams from which the villages, towns and cities draw their supplies, and it behooves every one to be careful with his drinking water, especially at this time of the year, when so much is used.

Keep the system in such good condition that these germs will be unable to obtain a foothold.

BE SURE TO PUT A BOTTLE IN YOUR SATCHEL

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

STANDARD OF PURITY AND EXCELLENCE SINCE 1860

as a tonic stimulant and body builder is one of the greatest strength givers known to science. By its building and healing properties it assists in restoring tissues in a gradual, healthy, natural manner. As a nerve tonic it has no equal. It cures dyspepsia and billiousness, aids digestion, brings restful sleep, stimulates the blood, invigorates the brain and assists in freeing the entire system from the dread germs of malaria and low fevers.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

How to Make a Real Wrinkle Remover

(From Fashion Reporter.)

In these days of cleverly advertised "beautifiers" of 57 varieties and more, it is hard for any woman to believe that she can make a simple home remedy which will do her much more good, and cost her much less than the average made preparation. Take the subject of wrinkles, for instance. There is nothing in the world so effective for removing or preventing wrinkles, baggy cheeks and double chin, as a solution of saxolite and witch hazel.

Get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite from any drug store, dissolve the full ounce in a half pint of witch hazel and use the mixture daily as a refreshing lotion. The quick and satisfactory results will surprise you. Even after the very first application there is a marked improvement. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a firm, "solid" feeling that is very comforting.

WARNING BY COLLECTORS

Launch Owners Must Keep Off Regatta Course During Carnival.

Several Boats Will Be on Hand to Enforce Regulations.

L. M. Willcuts, collector of the local harbor, announced this morning that the rules and regulations regarding motor boats and other small crafts plying about the harbors during regatta, would be strictly enforced, and if any owners or parties in charge of motor boats, violated the rules, they would be fined $500, as specified in the rules.

He has made arrangements to have several launches lined up along the course of the races, to keep the motor boats and other crafts off the course. Every vessel placed by Collector Willcuts on patrol duty will be in the charge of United States inspectors, who have been given orders to report all offenders.

Among the boats secured for this patrol, are the United States custom house launch, the United States Life Saving crew's launch, Guy Eaton's boat, and a number of the launches belonging to the boat club.

It is feared by officials of the boat club that some of the boys and men, who are not very proficient in sailing boats, will unwittingly violate the rules, and enter the course, thus not only greatly hindering the races, but also endangering the lives of the racing crews and passengers.

The motor boat men are warned not to travel at a speed exceeding five miles per hour, while in the crowd of boats around the course, and they are specially urged to get settled as soon as possible, so that there will no undue danger to others. The rules of the navigation bureau, attention to which was called last week by The Herald, emphasize the fact that boats must be kept off the race course, and fines will be imposed for this violation. Upon special permission, however, a boat may be allowed to pass the course about an hour before the events, but no other conditions will be recognized.

ADMIRAL IS COMING HERE

Seaton Schroeder, U. S. N., and Party Will Be in Duluth Saturday.

Admiral Seaton Schroeder in command of the Atlantic squadron of the United States navy will arrive in Duluth about noon on Saturday for a two days' visit. Admiral Schroeder, accompanied by Mrs. Schroeder, two other ladies and a maid, is coming up the lakes on the steamer J. J. H. Brown of Brown & Co., on a two weeks' vacation trip. The party embarked at Buffalo yesterday morning and should arrive here in time for the afternoon carnival events on Saturday. The trip is being planned so as to enable the admiral to pass by daylight through the Detroit and St. Clair rivers and the locks at the Soo.

The party will return on the boat, which will be in Duluth about two days. While here an informal program of entertainment is being planned by G. A. Tomlinson and other vessel men. The boat on which the admiral is coming is in charge of Capt. J. J. H. Brown.

Kidney Diseases Are Curable

Under certain conditions. The right medicine must be taken before the disease has progressed too far. Mr. Perry A. Pitman, Dale, Tex., says: "I was down in bed for four months with kidney and bladder trouble and gall stones. One bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me well and sound." Ask for it. For sale by all druggists.

WEST END PATCH WORK CRITICIZED

Business Men Say Repaired Pavement Will Not Hold Up.

Doubtful of Wisdom of City in Work on West Superior Street.

West end business men are not quite satisfied with the patch work of the West Superior street pavement, the main objection being that it will not last, it is thought, more than this summer and that it looks like a foolish expenditure of the city's money.

Punctured with holes, the old pavement is one of the most miserable pieces of street in the city. Before the board of public works decided to experiment in repairing the street, there was much sentiment among the business men against taking such a step. It was argued that it would pay in the long run to repave the street.

However, the repair work was ordered and it is being done. It is now nearly finished, as far as the lower side of the street between Fifteenth and Twenty-first avenues, is concerned. It was only planned to repair one side of the thoroughfare this year. If the patched pavement holds up under the heavy traffic, the other side of the street may be covered next year.

In repairing the thoroughfare, the holes are filled with tar and crushed rock mixed in. Another coat of tar is then applied and on top of this is placed a two-inch layer of fine crushed rock. The crusher is then rolled over the pavement and the resurfacing is completed.

S. W. Hill, president of the West End Commercial club in speaking of the pavement repair work today said: "It is all right for the time being, but I do not believe that it will last. There is considerable heavy traffic on West Superior street, and it is doubtful, to my mind, of the pavement will hold up. There is no foundation under it, this being the fault of the original pavement. The repair work is costing the city about $600 a block and that it is a pretty expensive proposition."

The West Superior street pavement was laid four years ago and today it is considered a disgrace. The fault of the pavement lies in the fact that it was put in without any foundation. The city engineer at the time it was laid recommended that a good foundation be put under it, but his recommendations were not heeded by the council.

When a movement was started this spring to have the street repaved, the property owners or most of them objected on the grounds that the property could not stand the expense at this time.

Launch Ride.

John Moir entertained a party of thirty members of District No. 12, Scottish Rite Masons, at a launch ride up the St. Louis river late last evening. No. 12, the West end district of the Scottish Rite body, will hold its annual picnic at Fond du Lac on Sunday, Aug. 6. The outing will be a family affair.

Funeral of Mrs. Mealey.

Funeral services were held this morning for Mrs. Dennis Mealey, who died yesterday morning at St. Mary's hospital. She was fatally burned Sunday morning, when she attempted to light a fire at her home, 602½ Garfield avenue. Mrs. Mealey was 49 years old and leaves a husband and five sons. The funeral was held from the St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, with burial in Calvary cemetery.

West End Briefs.

Mrs. Josephine Larson of Chicago is a guest of Rev. and Mrs. Edward Erickson of the West end and is spending a few days with them at a camping party at Fond du Lac.

Mrs. L. Ahlstrom of Minneapolis is visiting at the home of relatives in the West end.

A concert will be given this evening at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, under the auspices of the Young People's society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church. Eyvind Alnaes, a noted Norwegian organist, will give a recital, Joseph Erickson will sing and Miss Valborg Gunderson will play the violin.

Mrs. J. Youngberg of Minneapolis is a guest at the home of her son, Albert Youngberg of the West end.

The Young Men's Sodality of St. Clement's church entertained at an ice cream social and program last evening at the Sodality hall on West Third street, near Twenty-first avenue west.

The Adams Athletic association entertained last evening at a dancing party at Lincoln park pavilion, the affair being held a day earlier than usual on account of the water carnival. The next party will be held next Wednesday, and at this time, the club will be hosts to the players of the Duluth and visiting league teams.

Mrs. Selma Johnson of Huron street has as her guest, her sister, Mrs. J. C. Peterson of Oakland, Cal.

CHASE DEER WITH AUTO

Deer hunting in an automobile within the city limits is one of the attractions of Duluth which the carnival committees neglected to put on the program, but which was pulled off informally before a small and select audience this morning.

Vern Culbertson of Culbertson Bros., commission merchants, while motoring in from Lakeside this morning, nearly ran down a deer on East Superior street, and the animal started down the car tracks at a rapid rate. Mr. Culbertson speeded up and chased the animal for several blocks before it took to the woods at the north side of the street.

TWO YOUNG GIRLS DROWNING VICTIMS

Ontonagan, Mich., Children Lose Lives While in Pond.

Ontonagon, Mich., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A small pond only five feet deep, near here claimed two young lives yesterday when five girls were in bathing. The dead:

THERESA DOLAN aged 12.

GLADYS ROBINSON aged 11.

The Robinson girl, who had ventured into the pond on a small raft, fell into the water and the Dolan child, who was on the bank of the pond, rushed into the water in a heroic effort to save her playmate. The two were drowned before the three other children, who were playing with them, could summon assistance.

SCHMAHL DEFYING JUDGE.

Secretary of State Still Demands Fee Despite Court's Ruling.

St. Paul, Minn., July 20.—Attorney General Simpson will reply to Secretary of State Schmahl in the matter of an appeal in the controversy over the payment of incorporation fees in the case of the Western Electrical company of Minneapolis. He will reiterate kindly but firmly that his department is satisfied with Judge Brill's opinion and if Mr. Schmahl wants to appeal he will have to take an appeal on his own responsibility and funds.

Mr. Schmahl declares that he will continue to disobey the order of Judge Brill and will await the course of the law. If it lands him behind steel bars he will attempt to get before the supreme court on habeas corpus proceedings.

Who will defend the secretary of state if arrested for contempt of court is an interesting question. State officials are asking if Attorney General Simpson will be so hard hearted as to refuse to appear for the secretary of state. The matter rests there. Mr. Schmahl will continue to refuse to file the articles of incorporation of the Minneapolis company, until the fee is paid on the increase.

STEALS TO ELUDE FATHER.

North Dakota Girl Claims She Wanted to Enter Reform School.

Napoleon, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is claimed Lillian Apley, the 14-year-old girl brought to Napoleon by her father from Portland, Or., where he found her after not having seen her for thirteen years, committed the theft of about $300 from her benefactor, Miss Alice Sullivan, in the hope of being sent to the reform school or removed from the control of her father, against whom she has made serious criminal charges, and who is now in the Jamestown jail awaiting trial.

At the preliminary hearing of her father in this city, she admitted the theft and gave as her reason the hope of gaining an opportunity of leaving her father's control. It was the evident of the theft that resulted in the unearthing of the alleged crime, for Miss Sullivan came to Napoleon and swore out a warrant charging the girl with the theft, and in that manner her story of alleged abuses was brought to light.

It is said that thirty-nine of the state prison guards have retained two attorneys to look after their interests and that Mr. Town also has retained lawyers to protect him during the investigation.

DR. REA

AT DULUTH, MINN.,

ST. LOUIS HOTEL, SATURDAY, JULY 22nd,

From 9 a. m. Until 6 p. m.

WILL GIVE FREE TREATMENT THIS TRIP ONLY.

The success of Dr. Rea is attributed to his special study of specialism. Dr. Rea, student, philanthropist and man of wide reputation, having given his entire time and practice to a line of special diseases, which enables him from long experience in handling these troubles to certainly come forward as a master specialist. His faculty for mastering disease, his ability to diagnose, and his plan of treatment are not to be excelled by few other physicians. Dr. Rea, although a young man in life, a plain man, and one who is used to the ups and downs of life, puts himself on a level with his patients, and does not profess or pretend to practice the old plan or fashion, which is to look wise and say nothing. He knows disease; he knows how to explain the symptoms of disease; he knows where to look for disease, and the spot where located, and most of all he knows from experience, from what he has done in the past, he can certainly do for others in the future. It is said by Dr. Rea's friends that he can diagnose a disease of any patient without asking them a single question; that being the case, he is not likely to doctor them for the wrong ailment, he will not take any incurable disease and lead the patients to believe that he can cure them when there is really no hope for them. His business is large and he has plenty to do, even, at times, more than he can do, without taking incurable diseases and deceiving his patients. Dr. Rea is a graduate from one of the best English universities, as well as being a graduate from two of the best schools in America. He has practiced his profession in some of the principal hospitals in this country. His specialty comprises that class of diseases which the ordinary home doctor fails to cure. His practice is mostly among the plain, hard-working people, who are unable to come to his city office for treatment; he is reasonable in his charges, and very lenient with those who are unable to pay. He is charitable, and it is said has never been known to refuse to treat a patient who is worthy and in need. A number of important cases that we hereby take the liberty to publish, which might be of interest to some who wish to know more of Dr. Rea's great work.

Anton Simonson, girl, Wahpeton, N. D. Cured of chronic catarrh and discharging ears.

Mrs. Michael Murphy, Emmetsburg, Iowa. Cured of chronic blood disease, that other doctors had all failed to cure, even after years of experimenting with her.

Oscar Morks, 609 W. Superior St., Duluth, Minn. Cured of chronic dyspepsia, bowel troubles.

Wm. F. Myer, Dexter, Minn. Cured of chronic stomach and bowel troubles by Dr. Rea's Cascarine treatment.

Oscar Halstein, Fargo, N. D. Cured of consumption. Mr. Halstein had doctored with a number of other doctors before treating with Dr. Rea.

Mike Curren, Minto, N. D. Says Dr. Rea's treatment worked wonders on him; after taking it a short time felt better than he had for years.

Mrs. G. W. Varco, Austin, Minn. Cured of a large cancer of the breast without cutting or without the plaster. Cured with Dr. Rea's new plan of treatment, which is one of the grandest discoveries the world has ever known for completely curing cancer, so that it never returns again.

A. C. Meyer, Ormsby, Minn. Cured of bad cancer of the lip in two treatments. Cured by the injection plan.

Mrs. N. F. Johnson, Morton, N. D. Cured of nervous prostration and epilepsy, after all other treatments had failed.

Mrs. Martha Murphy, St. Cloud, Minn. Says Dr. Rea saved my life. He was the doctor who knew where to look for disease, where to find it and to cure it after it was found.

A. Fullwhiler, Round Lake, Minn. Cured of chronic Bright's Disease.

Edgar Putman, Weaver, Minn. Cured of a bad case of eczema of the skin.

Mrs. H. C. Dorman, Miniski, Minn. Cured of bad case of protruding piles.

Mrs. B. A. Moore, near Grantsburg, Wis. Cured of floating kidney that had almost taken her life.

Mrs. Christ Wetlai, 3821 Halifax St., West Duluth, Minn., cured of cross eyes in five minutes.

Mrs. Alexander Swanson, Oakes, N. D., cured of bad cancer of the face. Had had it cut out and came back. Three of Dr. Rea's injection treatments cured her.

S. M. Moore, Gladstone, N. D., writes: "Dr. Rea, you cured my son over a year ago. I have another sick boy, and want you to doctor him."

Fred L. Dicker, Gilby, N. D., cured of disease of the kidney. Was very bad. A few months' treatment completely cured him.

Mrs. Maurice Miller, Beaver, Minn., cured of epilepsy.

Mrs. N. C. Olson, East Grand Forks, Minn., cured of big knee, varicose vein and rheumatism.

O. H. Larson, Bie, N. D., cured of chronic rheumatism.

Miss Emma Geving, McIntosh, Minn., cured of consumption.

W. H. Nulph, Wyndmere, N. D., cured of cancer of the face in two treatments.

Martha Wilhelm, Rt. No. 5, Minneapolis, Minn., cured of long standing epilepsy.

Joe McGowan, St. Anthony Park, Minn., cured of gall stones of the liver. Doctors said he would die. Dr. Rea cured him in three months.

Charles Grondysee, Slayton, Minn., cured of consumption by Dr. Doran with Dr. Rea's celebrated cure for consumption.

Mrs. Nels Carlson, Buffalo, Minn., cured of large cancer of the breast. Cured by the hypodermic injection plan discovered by Dr. Rea. There is no falling with this treatment.

Dr. Rea has arranged to give free treatment to all who call on him this July visit to Duluth. Dr. Rea has set aside one month each year whereby he treats anyone who calls on him at his appointed visit without a professional fee charge, making only a charge for medicines used in the treatment of patients until cured.

BOTH FACTIONS ARE FOR WILSON

Pennsylvania Democrats Split With Only One Point in Common.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 20.—The expected split in the Democratic state central committee came when the two factions in the party held separate state committee meetings and completely reorganized yesterday. Democratic congressmen from Pennsylvania tried to bring about harmony by having the faction found to be in the minority go into the other meeting, but failed.

While a wide difference developed on party matters, both factions agreed to one proposition, the indorsement of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for the presidential nomination. Each meeting adopted such a resolution. The only other presidential boom was that of Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio. Cards calling attention to his availability were tacked about the hotels and the literature urging his claim also appeared.

Majority Ousts Guffey.

The "reorganization Democrats" had present fifty-six of the eighty-one members, which they declare constituted the committee. They elected George W. Guthrie, former mayor of Pittsburg, state chairman, and indorsed Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer for national committeeman to succeed James M. Guffey.

At the meeting of "regulars" Arthur G. Dewalt, who was ousted as state chairman by the "reorganization" faction at a special meeting last March but refused to get out, resigned, and Walter E. Ritter of Williamsport was elected in his place. The regulars indorsed Col. Guffey for national committeeman.

The trouble in the party was brought to a climax by the showing in the gubernational election last fall, when the Democratic voters split on the two candidates. The dissatisfaction led to the appointment of a committee of seven to reorganize the party. No agreement could be reached and the result was the split.

Marine Spectacles.

(Craft designed by Paul S. Rasmussen.)

The famous battle between the Confederate ram "Merrimac" and the federal gunboat "Monitor," the first iron-clad warship of the turret type ever built, stands out as one of the most novel and spectacular sea fights in naval history. The result of this engagement revolutionized the navies of the world. Up to that date the wooden warship had been the most perfect type of fighting ship, and when the Confederates evolved the "Merrimac" with its sloping iron-clad sides protecting its machinery and its guns, appeared before the federal fleet in the vicinity of Fortress Monroe the superiority of iron protection showed itself clearly in the battle which followed.

With its iron sides rendering it immune from the return fire of the wooden frigates, the "Merrimac" boldly engaged one after another of the Union fleet and forced the surrender of most of the warships during the first engagement. The Union frigate "Cumberland," hitherto considered one of the most powerful warships afloat, was rammed by the "Merrimac" and later blew up and sank. The "Minnesota" ran aground but within fighting range and continued the fight until dark at which time the "Merrimac" withdrew, intending to again attack the following day and destroy the balance of the Union fleet. Fortunately, during the night the little "Monitor," the first boat of its type, arrived and with its revolving iron-clad turret and its two heavy guns took up its station before daybreak between the apparently doomed Union warships and the approaching "Merrimac." The fight which followed was a desperate one, both boats fighting at close range, and because of the iron-clad protection on each, the damage done by each was largely minimized. The fight lasted until noon at which time the "Merrimac" badly disabled withdrew and the "Monitor" barely able to proceed under its own steam did not attempt to follow. The "Merrimac" never renewed the attack and the "Monitor" with its bulk floating beneath the water and only its turret exposed, proved its superiority as a new type of fighting battleship.

ERWIN SAYS HE GOT $76,724 FOR HIS WORK.

Washington, July 20.—M. Erwin, United States district attorney for the Southern district of Georgia and special counsel for the government in the Greene-Gaynor-Carter Savannah harbor frauds, testified before the house committee of the department of justice expenditures that during twelve years he had received from the government as special compensation $76,724 in salary and fees.

He also testified that he expected commissions or amounts recovered which would bring his total compensation up to about $101,000 for the twelve years.

Altogether there have been recovered from Capt. Carter, Greene and Gaynor about $500,000 in cash, together with property valued at about $200,000 more.

Erwin testified that he was employed as special counsel in the fraud cases in addition to his work as district attorney. As district attorney he was paid $3,500 a year. When he undertook the special prosecution of the fraud cases and the task of tracing the assets of the defendants, he was guaranteed a salary of $5,000 a year and expenses and 10 per cent of the money recovered and turned into the treasury.

Mr. Erwin said he expected the litigation in these cases would be concluded next autumn, when cases now in court are determined.

ASK FOR BIDS ON NEW ROAD

Board of Public Works Submits Getchell Highway to Contractors.

Shortage of Funds Imminent Unless Council or Commissioners Appropriate.

Yesterday the board of public works advertised for bids on a portion of the work of building the new Getchell road, a short cut to Proctor and the farming district back of the hills at West Duluth.

Only $3,000 can be spent for the work unless another appropriation is made by the council or by the county board. The county commissioners have offered to assist, but have not as yet appropriated anything.

At its steepest point the thoroughfare will only have a five and one-half per cent grade. The grading will commence at the intersection of Highland street and Sixty-sixth avenue west, and from there will run diagonally through a block to Huntington street and Sixty-seventh avenue. From here it cuts through the centers of blocks 20, 13, 12 and 5 of Kimberly's division and through the southwest corner of Oneota cemetery to Sixty-ninth avenue. From this point it will cross Keene's creek and run westerly through Mineral division. After crossing the creek the road will run almost directly north, striking through the eastern part of the west half of section 1, township 49 and range 15. Near the center of the section it is proposed to branch off to Proctor. The main highway will continue almost directly until it reaches the Morris Thomas road in Herman township. An estimated cost of the road when complete is $20,000.

The sporting program during the tournament will be an elaborate one and includes an association hose race, a combination hook and ladder race, ladder climbing, a flag race, a novelty hose coupling contest and other events.

DO NOT USE RESERVOIR

West Duluth Now Gets Water Direct From Big Mains.

This System Will Be Kept Up Indefinitely If Necessary.

Manager Case of the water and light department wishes to assure the citizens of West Duluth a satisfactory water supply from now on.

Starting yesterday the West Duluth patrons were supplied direct from the mains and not from the reservoir, the pumps at the Oneota pumping station being kept in operation constantly. The reservoir is taking the surplus sage only, and the water which goes to the house is being pumped directly from the big main which supplies the western part of the city.

The only extra cost entailed in this method of procedure is that of operating the pumps constantly, and Mr. Case states that if a satisfactory result can be attained in no other way this method will be kept up.

About 1,500,000 gallons are being pumped to West Duluth during each twenty-four hours and as there are only about 500,000 gallons used daily this means that 1,000,000 gallons are going into the reservoir.

Mr. Case also states that tests made last night at the reservoir and at Proctor showed that the water there under the new system was still crisp and cool, and if necessary to maintain this condition the pumps would be kept going sufficiently to waste water over the top of the big tank and maintain coolness in this way.

The reason for the unsatisfactory conditions at West Duluth according to Manager Case was that the big 10,000,000 gallon reservoir was being emptied only once in ten days by the service to both West Duluth and Proctor, while it is necessary that it should be emptied about once in five days. The reservoirs uptown, being smaller are emptied at the latter rate.

To remedy this the water at West Duluth was reduced to 5,000,000 gallons, but for some reason, probably because the sun beating down on the exposed cement sides of the big container kept them hot, this did not result in cooling the water.

The West Duluth reservoir has been cleaned and a new bottom installed more recently than any other reservoir in the city. This work was done last year there, while none of the other reservoirs have been cleaned for over two years. Once in three or four years is often enough it is thought with water as pure and leaving as small a deposit as that furnished to Duluth.

Vacation in Scotland.

Rev. John G. Leitch, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church of West Duluth left yesterday for Scotland, where he will spend a months' vacation. Mrs. Leitch will conduct services at the church next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson will be at home at 5305 State street after Aug. 1.

New Cement Walks.

New sidewalks are being laid this week along Central avenue between Ramsey and Bristol streets on the west side of the street. With the new cement walks installed, the last of the plank walks for several blocks along Central will have disappeared. As soon as the paving operations on Grand avenue are finished, the wooden sidewalks will be replaced by cement ones, also.

DOESN'T WANT HIM JAILED

Pretty Genevieve Slayton Would Marry Man Now Under Arrest.

Claude Torrence in Toils Under New State White Slave Statute.

Her eyes red with weeping, Genevieve Slayton, the sweetheart of Claude Torrance, arrested on a charge of having been supported in part from her earnings in an immoral life, declared that she does not want him to go to the penitentiary.

Torrance is the son of a traveling man employed by a large St. Paul firm and she has a stepmother in the same city.

Torrance was arrested yesterday afternoon at the Arthur hotel in Superior, after the girl had been taken into custody. It was upon information furnished by her to the police that he was placed under arrest.

According to the police she told them that she had given him money which she earned as an inmate of an immoral resort. It was upon this declaration that the charges contained in the warrant were based.

The Slayton girl is a decidedly pretty young woman with heavy black hair and flashing brown eyes. When taken to the police station she wore an expensive tan suit and a large black hat with several large plumes of the same color. In conversation and appearance she is much above the average woman who comes into the care of the police.

Her stepmother has been nearly frantic about her absence from her home at St. Paul. Brown McDonald, United States immigration inspector, called upon her this morning and brought on a fresh outburst of weeping when he told her of the anxiety of the aged lady. He told her that she sat in his office three straight hours one afternoon asking if he could not do something to get her daughter back home. In addition to that he stated that she had called him on the telephone many times; that she had written numerous letters and sent several telegrams imploring him to do something in the case.

The girl admitted this morning that her stepmother had sent her money on different occasions. She averred that she had sent it back to her with the statement that she did not need it, as she had plenty of money and all the clothes that she needed. But in each case she declared that her stepmother had sent it back to her the second and the third time. "She always asked in her letters how it was that I had such a plentiful supply of money," said the girl. "She said she couldn't understand it unless I was doing something wrong. She also spoke of Claude, and said that I should not be with him until he was in a position to take care of me."

Inspector McDonald said after the interview that the federal authorities can do nothing in the case and that nothing can be done with the girl or with Torrence as far as they are concerned.

Torrence was arraigned in police court this morning under the state white slave act. He asked for an examination, which was set for Saturday morning. After the hearing the girl, who says that she will soon be 22 years of age, will probably be sent back to her home at St. Paul. Torrence has been working as a waiter and gives his age as 22 years.

POSTMASTERS GATHER HERE

Nineteen Delegates From Eighth District Attend Duluth Convention.

The second annual convention of the District League of Postmasters, was held today, the morning session beginning at 10 o'clock and the afternoon meeting at 2 o'clock. The sessions were held at the grand jury room in the county courthouse. Nineteen postmasters of the district attended.

Mayor M. B. Cullum delivered the address of welcome, to which W. S. Bartholomew of Avon responded. A. P. Cook, postmaster of the Duluth office, gave an excellent address on "Civil Service." The committee on resolutions appointed is composed of A. P. Cook, Duluth, Fred Vibert of Cloquet, and Postmaster Hamre.

The afternoon session was devoted principally to business, reports being made by the secretary, treasurer and committees. Addresses were made by W. S. Bartholomew, president, on "The Good of the League," by J. D. Barstow of Barnum on "System in Office," and by J. A. Gillespie of Carlton on "The Model Postmaster." The feature of the afternoon was the question box, which was well used, many questions being asked regarding the best methods of carrying on office work and handling deliveries. The meeting ended with the election of officers.

FUMIGATING OUTFIT CAUSED BOTH FALSE ALARM AND FIRE

Charles Nowak, confectioner at Sixty-third avenue west and Roosevelt street, had the right "hunch" when he saw smoke pouring out of the windows of a neighbtor's house and turned in a fire alarm.

Nowak's guess was a premature one. At 1:30 o'clock, when No. 8 fire company was called out, there was no fire. The smoke which issued from the windows came from burning sulphur used in fumigating one of the rooms.

Two hours later and after the fire department had left the place, a blaze caught from the fumigating outfit and a second alarm was turned in. The house was damaged $700, the loss being covered by insurance.

A. Kuyawa was the owner and occupant of the house, which is located at 221 North Sixty-fourth avenue west. The fire started in a room on the second floor and had burned through the floor and into the ceiling when the department arrived a second time.

The front part of the house was gutted.

DISTRUST OF THE PEOPLE.

Those who distrust the people and are afraid of putting power in their hands must be strangely lacking in a sense of humor, since they do not realize that they stand in the position occupied by a long line of obstructionists who have been opposing progress since the dawn of civilization—and always ineffectually.

Mr. Manahan, the fiery radical who talked recall of judges to the bar association yesterday, though he seems to have irritated Attorney General Wickersham even more than Dr. Wiley's faithful service did, said some pat and pointed things. He showed that the judge is one of the people's hired men, just like any other public official, and that in these days when a judge by a stroke of the pen can wipe out a set of laws demanded by the people, enacted by the legislative branch and approved by the executive, there is at least as much need of popular control of judges as there is of popular control of other officers, if not more.

Four years ago, after years of railroad oppression, the Minnesota legislature enacted laws reducing freight and passenger rates in this state. The other day an appointed Federal judge, not subject to re-election or to recall, calmly wiped out those laws, and today the railroads are taking advantage of his ruling to seize their pound of flesh, reckless of what heart's blood may flow.

"It is urged," said Mr. Manahan, "that the recall of judges would subject the judiciary to the clamor of the mob; that we must have a fearless judiciary. The man who believes the people are a mob does not believe in republican form of government. He has no place here; his spirit is treasonable. I deny that any people capable of self-government are ever unfair or unreasonable. A few may clamor, but the people never. They never have and never would recall a judge except in clear case of proved dishonesty, and in such case he should be recalled."

Every man must make his choice between government controlled by special privilege or government controlled by the people. For our part, we long ago chose government controlled by the people, and shall stand for it, even to the recall of faithless judges.

A COMMERCIAL UNION.

Senator Shively of Indiana had printed as a senate document the other day a paper of unusual interest at this time, when Canada and the United States are just taking steps toward a civilized trade relationship that can hardly fail to lead to something still better.

This paper was prepared by Stephen A. Douglas after seven states had seceded from the Union, and it embodies his dream of a commercial union taking in all the nations on the American continent "from the frozen ocean to the Isthmus of Panama." The first Canadian reciprocity treaty had just been negotiated, and of it he says: "The Canadian reciprocity treaty was an important step toward the adoption of a liberal commercial system in America. It was but one step, however, in the right direction, and falls very far short of what the interests of both countries demand. Instead of being limited to a brief list of specific articles, the growth and production of the two countries respectively, and the right to navigate the rivers St. Lawrence and St. Johns, and to use the canals connecting the Lakes with the Atlantic, for certain purposes and for an uncertain period, it should have abolished all the customhouses and removed every barrier to the freedom of trade, transit and intercourse between the United States and the British possessions in North America, and have guaranteed the permanent use of all the rivers, canals, railroads and lines of communication in both countries on terms of perfect equality to the citizens and subjects of each."

That was wisdom then. It is wisdom still now that half a century has rolled its changes over the grave of Stephen A. Douglas. There is no more sense in having a barrier of customhouses along the dividing line between Canada and the United States than there would be in so separating Minnesota and Wisconsin, or the Middle West and the Pacific coast. There is no pauper labor to guard against, no single excuse for a protective tariff against such a country as Canada. In trade between two such countries there is mutual advantages or there would be no trade. Restricting the trade between them is depriving each of trade advantages to which it is rightfully entitled.

Douglas had in mind the problem of securing for his country the advantages of political union without its inconveniences. "If it be true," he said, "that the enlargement of the area of a country does not enhance the blessings of its government and increase the happiness of its people, beyond that which naturally results from a uniform and well-regulated system of free trade, transit and intercourse, a question of the first magnitude and gravest importance is presented to the people of the United States. It is—How can we avail ourselves of all the advantages of such a system without incurring the inconveniences and perils of incorporating into the Federal Union countries and people of different systems of civilization, forms of government, language and race, which, unable to harmonize with our own, would engender perpetual feuds, jealousies and revolutions?

"May this problem not be solved by embracing all the various political communities on the American continent and the adjacent islands, from the frozen ocean to the Isthmus of Panama, into one general union for commercial purposes only, without disturbing, changing or interfering with their respective forms of government, their political relations, or their internal policies? Abolish all interior customhouses, break down every barrier, and remove every restraint upon commercial and social intercourse between the United States and the British possessions on the north, and Mexico, Cuba and the Central American states on the south. Establish freedom of trade, commerce, transit and intercourse between all countries which may become parties to such a union, with customhouses and a uniform system of tariff duties only at all the ports on the Atlantic, the Pacific and Gulf coasts. Do this, and all the benefits of territorial expansion can and will be secured without incurring its dangers."

This dream of half a century ago has more than historical interest. The nation has gone farther toward its realization than many realize, and it will be a great day for every American when it is realized in full.

FOR THE FEW OR FOR THE MANY?

Attorney General Wickersham commendably advocated Federal regulation of big business in his Duluth speech, but seemed rather doubtful about whether such regulation could go to the length of fixing prices.

Perhaps it can't go so far as to prescribe by statute that flour shall be $4.85 a barrel, pen knives 40 cents apiece and sausage 15 cents a pound. It certainly can go so far as to prescribe that only a reasonable rate of interest shall be earned on an honest capitalization, which will necessarily involve a regulation of prices in effect.

Mr. Wickersham admits that "in almost every one of the great staple industries prices have for years been fixed by agreement between the principal producers, and not from free play of competition among the domestic producers or by the unfettered operation of the law of supply and demand." Also, he admits that the protective tariff, by barring out foreign competition, has made this possible.

In other words, prices have been fixed by agreement among those seeking all the profits they could get; yet there is doubt whether the public can regulate prices.

Either selfish private interests must continue to fix prices, since competition is dead beyond revival, or the public must step in to fix them, or at least to regulate them, in the public interest. The selfish private interest must govern, or the broad interest of the many.

There can't be any doubt which rule will govern in the long run. It will be the rule of the many, not the rule of the few.

EFFICIENT GAME PROTECTION.

Carlos Avery of Hutchinson, state game warden of Minnesota during the John A. Johnson administration, contributes to Recreation an illuminating discussion of "Game Protection vs. Politics and the People" in which he reaches the heart of the problem. This was to be expected, for the many who have said that Carlos Avery was the best game warden Minnesota ever had told the truth.

Mr. Avery's suggestions are along two lines: the creation of state game reserves, after the plan being successfully carried on in Minnesota, and the perfection of organizations that will co-operate with the state officials in law enforcement and game preservation.

After describing the Minnesota game reserves, which are five in number and cover 1,672,120 acres, and in each of which all hunting is prohibited for all time, Mr. Avery says: "Such preserves, I believe, offer the only means of saving the big game from extermination. Restrictive laws alone will not do it. The best authorities in the country are convinced of this, and the sooner this conviction reaches home everywhere the better for the game. It has been seen that the establishment of close seasons, the continual shortening of the same, the limiting of the bag year after year and the closing of the market, have not appreciably checked the rapid diminution of game. Should this continue, total annihilation will only be a matter of a few years. To avoid this sad calamity the game preserve, as an addition to the measures enumerated, affords the only sure remedy, and for all time to come such sanctuaries as wise legislation may now provide, maintained and protected through the years, will save for coming generations something at least of the delights of seeing these wild creatures in considerable numbers in their native haunts."

Mr. Avery also favors Federal protection of migratory birds, a very essential provision.

He touches on a very important matter when he criticizes the methods used in locating fish hatcheries for the artificial propagation of fish, though he says that these hatcheries, properly located and regulated, "should prevent depletion of inland waters without further restrictive legislation."

"The public should enlighten itself on this very important subject," he continues, "and insist that their fish hatcheries be conducted for the purpose intended, and not as places of public entertainment or political playgrounds, and be satisfied with nothing less than the utmost possible output of their fishing plants. Most fish hatcheries are established and located by legislative enactment without regard to the suitability of the site chosen, and often prove failures for that reason. Trained fish culturists should locate all fish hatcheries to insure against total waste of the investment."

It is unnecessary to go outside of Minnesota to prove the wisdom of this advice. The way fish hatcheries ought to be located is for an expert to select their sites with a view to suitability and nearness to the waters to be stocked. The way it is done is this: a member of the legislature determines to take a fish hatchery home with him, bends every effort to that end during the session, trades his vote on everything for fish hatchery votes, and then plants the hatchery in a place that is often utterly unsuitable from every point of view. Because of this practice Minnesota has one fish hatchery that is said to be an utter failure, and one or two others that are only moderately successful in serving the purpose for which the state invested its money.

DISCREPANCIES.

The Lorimer investigation is making one thing at least very evident: somebody isn't telling the truth. There are sharp conflicts of testimony at every session, and they are so sharp that there is less room than usual for the explanation of misunderstanding. Considering the interests of some of the witnesses, it oughtn't to be difficult to locate the truth.

If that "Dick to Dick" letter shows up, it may develop that Brother Charles is as great an embarrassment to the administration as Aldrich was lately.

ORATORY AND HISTORY

By SAVOYARD.

If there had been no such publication as the Congressional Record, Canadian reciprocity would have been enacted by the last congress, and God's patience would have been spared the present session of the Sixty-second congress. No other publication in the world contains so much misinformation, so much non-information. Abolish it, and congress will do its work much better than it does, and in half the time it takes. Such a thing as a buncombe speech would be left to the stump, and nobody would debate in either house who did not have something to say. Until our congress abolishes the Record, the British house of commons will remain "the first senate in the world." In England every speech in either house of parliament worth a rap is preserved in the public press; but with us, the cant of patriotism, the error of statecraft, the mendacity of statistics, the ridiculosity of eloquence, the hyperbole of rhetoric, and all the other fooleries and furbelows and concomitants of humbug and asshood remain and it makes little men actually believe that they are Pitts and Foxes, Burkes and Gladstones, Clays and Calhouns, Websters and Pinckneys.

Why, it is got to be so that a speech of "three-days-hand-runnin'" is a moderate address in the senate. Indeed, it sometimes takes La Follette a week to tell what he knows and amplify what he does not know about matters and things. Cummins is nearly as bad, and there are others. Nobody but the orator himself ever hears those speeches, and nobody but the orator and the proofreader ever reads them. I have long had the opinion that the greatest orator I ever heard was a predecessor in the senate of Mr. La Follette, and I am sure that Matt Carpenter never held the floor in that body as long as two hours. But when Carpenter spoke, everyone listened. Nobody made a point of order that there was no quorum present, a parliamentary expedient that is daily resorted to in the senate now days. However, that is a dignified and therefore senatorial way to filibuster, and eminently parliamentary. But abolish the Record and we will be rid of a deal of nonsense in the guise of congressional eloquence. L. Q. C. Lamar refused to have one of his greatest efforts printed in the Record, and at least two of Frank Hurd's splendid speeches that he delivered on the floor are missing therefrom.

In a torrential burst of eloquence and a tidal wave of ecstasy, the Hon. Champ Clark delivered himself of the following apostrophe in a speech in the national congress: "The greatest calamity that has overtaken mankind since the fall of Adam was the election of Grover Cleveland as president of the United States," or words of that import. It is rather an extravagant and an intemperate statement, and one that would probably provoke a challenge from some millions of men who belong to the party of which Mr. Clark is so conspicuous and distinguished a member. Of course it was merely a piece of hyperbole—sound, fury, nothing—called forth, doubtless, by some exigency more seeming than real.

But it is not of Grover Cleveland's election I would write, but of his defeat, and in my poor opinion that was an event simply stupendous for the calamities that succeeded. The campaign of 1888 was unskillfully and improvidently managed. There were knaveries and treacheries practiced. Attempts were made to carry Michigan that should have been directed to saving New York, where Quay plowed with Tammany and the other Democratic heifers.

Had Cleveland been re-elected in 1888 the Mills tariff would have been enacted. Instead we had the McKinley tariff, which was revision "up." Had Cleveland been re-elected the purchasing clause of the Bland-Allison silver law would have been repealed. Instead we had the Sherman silver law that diluted the currency with 5,000,000 silver dollars monthly and put everything but the United States treasury on the silver basis. Had Cleveland been re-elected no annual pension appropriation would have amounted to as much as $100,000,000 and thus enough on that account alone would have been saved to extinguish the national debt. Had Cleveland been re-elected he would have been succeeded by a Democrat in 1892 and in 1896. There would have been no war with Spain, and it is doubtful if we had reached the $1,000,000,000 congress by this time. There would have been no panic of 1893 and the present expenditures for the army, navy and pensions would be less than one-half what they are. Spain would have retired from this hemisphere without the fire of a gun, and by 1910 free trade would have given the American people the lion's share of most of the neutral markets, something that protection can never give us.

The successful politician, if he is a man of the people, is bound to have what, for want of a better name, may be called instinct. Abraham Lincoln had it, and so did Grover Cleveland. To anybody with the slightest tinge of this instinct it was manifest that the day after Ben Harrison was elected president in 1888 the American people went to bed penitent and waked up contrite. Then and there the Democratic party resolved to make Cleveland the nominee in 1892, and there never was a "look in" for anybody else in that contest. Now shrewd, cunning, astute, crafty, subtle as were Tammany, Dave Hill, Arthur P. Gorman and Jim Smith and that set, they were utterly ignorant of public opinion during all those years. They were without instinct and when the occasion arose they were engulfed because the American people had resolved that Grover Cleveland should have another term. We are too close to it to judge, but we all have a right to speculate, and I have no more doubt that I will get something to eat for dinner today than I have that history will decide that the second administration of Grover Cleveland was the man chosen by destiny to meet an awful situation. He grappled with it like a hero, he conquered it like a demi-god. What a fool he was when his party refused to follow him!

His mistake was in not convening congress immediately to revise the tariff down. Had he done so, the senate would not have dared to Gormanize it. Then he could have secured the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman silver law, and thus the panic, if not averted, would have been tempered. "It might have been" are sad words.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE CARNIVAL SPIRIT.

To The Editor of The Herald:

Just a line in your columns to urge the necessity of catching the carnival spirit.

The enjoyment of big gatherings like the present one, depends almost entirely upon the spirit of the person watching them. No matter how interesting a program may be offered, if a person is in bad humor or carries a grouch against the world, he will not get his share of pleasure out of it.

The carnival committee has provided a better program than I ever saw offered for such a fete, and if the weather permits it to carry out the program in full, every patron of the carnival should get his money's worth and much more.

But remember this. People who are not interested in water sports, and good, clean boat races, cannot expect to get much real enjoyment out of the carnival, although they will doubtless enjoy the big spectacles. Their enjoyment depends on themselves, and if there are any Duluthians carrying a grouch against humanity, I hope they will go bury themselves in the woods this week, and not make themselves and others miserable by hanging about the carnival and criticising. If you don't like water sports stay away. If you do like them, and are prepared to have a good time you won't be disappointed, I am sure. AN OPTIMIST.
Duluth, July 20.

A Lucky Clergyman.

Chicago Evening Post: A clergyman is not supposed to have his worldly sense developed to the point of making bargains, and, this being generally recognized, he is rarely neglected in the way of fees. Imposing upon a clergyman not only seems discreditable on the face of it, but is seldom undertaken on account of its ease.

Here is one of premedation. A marrying couple applied for the services of a minister, the man carrying a bird cage. At the conclusion of the ceremony the man said:

"I haven't any money to give you, but I would like to present you tomorrow with a fine parrot which can do most anything."

The minister expressed a satisfaction which he may not have felt, and the new husband continued:

"This parrot will have to have a cage. I have a brand new one here, which just suits and I will sell it for $5."

The parson bit and paid the price, and—usual windup—the bridegroom never came back with the parrot.

Yesterday.

I meant, each brimming hour to send
That promised letter to my friend;
The moments flashed and broke like spray
And I forgot that all things end,
That golden hour was yesterday—
I cannot reach my friend today.

The sunlight burns, an April whim,
In shadow I remember him;
The busy world hums merrily,
But as I work my eyes are dim—
He could have heard me yesterday,
He cannot answer me today!

He may have thought I did not care—
My friend so sensitive, so rare—
I failed him, I who loved him well!
Dear God, how do thy children dare
To trifle with thy gift, today—
That fades, so soon, to yesterday!

Beauty As a Business Asset.

Henry Oyen in The World's Work: A business man went to visit Memphis not long ago, to see what advantages that city offered as a place to establish a branch of his factory. The first thing he said to the two Memphis citizens who met him at the train was:

"Now, let us hop into a machine and go out and see how you are fixed for parks and boulevards and public buildings."

"Please explain," he was asked. "Do you mean to say that you are such a lover of the beautiful that you wouldn't locate in a city that has not it fair proportion of parks, or an artistic city hall, and that sort of thing?"

"'Lover of the beautiful,' nothing!" was the prompt reply. "I make furniture. I must have plenty of good, steady help to do it. No city is a good city for the man who must have good, steady help unless it has kept step with other cities and provided places for the help's sane and healthful recreation. That's just business. There is, also, a new day in the making of public buildings; and if a city hasn't kept step there, either, and hasn't started a movement for fine, artistic civic buildings it's a sign that something is wrong with that community. It isn't on its job."

It may be added that the manufacturer decided to establish his branch in Memphis.

A LOWLY TEACHER.

John Franklin Genung in Harper's Magazine: Some years ago one of our American bishops wrote a sonnet about his dog, who must have been a noble animal. I have forgotten how the sonnet ran; all I can recall is the first line:

"I well believe he thinks that I am God."

When I read it and some of the good bishop's personal traits came rather vividly to mind, my first mental response was that it was no wonder the dog thought so, if he had seen the bishop, as I had, in the dignity of full canonicals. Then I chided myself for being so impudently profane; and, of course, that was not the reason at all. The church vestments had nothing to do with it. I have seen dogs look up with equal devotion to men in overalls. We read of dogs that licked the sores of beggars; and we know what poor apologies for masters dogs will be faithful to, even though their worship goes wholly wasted. A very significant thing when you think of it; it became one of my first lessons in theology. For it seems to reveal that such an emotion exists in the core of creation, even in the strata below us. There are creatures in actual existence in whom has been put the instinct to look forward from their station to beings higher in the scale, to choose these for friends and masters, to stand by them and reverence them, not for what they can gain by it—for too often, abating no jot of fidelity, they get but kicks and hard words—but purely as a spontaneous, intrinsic outflow of dog nature. I like to contemplate a creation that is rich enough to include such a thing as this; to contain disinterested affection as a widespread elemental fact; it gives me a better opinion of the universe. Some things, scholars tell us, are more fully evolved in the animals than in man; the eye in the eagle, the swift foot in the stag. I should be sorry to think that, because the lord of creation gets things so tangled up with reason and selfishness, the dog should have got the start of us in true virtue. I am glad he is not self-conscious; that would spoil it all.

Many times a day Caleb comes to my armchair, as I sit studying, with no apparent purpose except just to say, "How do you do?" and, never without waiting for the word of permission, he jumps up on my knee, remains a minute, and then goes about his affairs. And many a time I have been half startled by a wondering yet wholly loving expression in the great brown eyes so inquiringly searching mine. Only asking me to drop the prosy book and go walking with him? No; that expression is quite different. Those eyes look as if they were searching for something that we two might hold in common and so have a silent understanding of each other. Is it something higher than can enter his dog consciousness? I am often moved to respond: "It's you and I, Caleb. We do know each other in some things, don't we?" And there comes a twinge of pathos in it, too, and, oddly enough, it sets me thinking of what an apostle once said about a whole creation groaning in pain and travail together, waiting for some adoption which should redeem the body. I am sometimes silly enough to ask him: "Do you too, Caleb, belong to that vast continuous line of upward-looking, onward-looking things? Are you, too, dimly conscious of waiting for something which is destined to come somehow by the way of the higher orders? Does the first-born of every creature make his relationship felt in some far-off way even as you?" He never answers me except by that wistful look, which vanishes as soon as I begin to theologize; but the look has on me the strange effect of worship, so that I am almost afraid to recall the bishop's sonnet. Who am I, to be scrutinized so? What is man's office in the sum of things, when such great liquid eyes are gazing up at him from below?

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

•••Mrs. Moses Stone is receiving a visit from her cousins, Ben Morse and Mrs. Jerome Floody of St. Paul. Mr. Stone, whose life has been despaired of, is recovering.

•••R. S. Munger has returned from St. Paul, where he, as defendant, won a suit brought against him by Senator Power of Montana for $12,000.

•••Miss Sadie Collins of Minneapolis is visiting Duluth and suburbs, and is the guest of Miss Susie Austin at Lester Park.

•••J. K. Reddington, the noted Washington land attorney, arrived in Duluth last night to take part in the legal squabble over the Hyde-McDonald land contest, in which hundreds of thousands of dollars are involved.

•••Col. John W. Crosby, uncle of George H. Crosby of this city, left Duluth yesterday after a few days' sojourn. Col. Crosby says he has seen nearly every drive of note in the world, but has seen none to equal Duluth's own terrace.

•••A large party of Eastern capitalists, creditors of the Minnesota Iron Car company, arrived this morning. They will remain here the greater part of a week to deliberate as to what shall be done in the way of reorganizing the car company. L. G. Matthews, who was here for several weeks recently, is at the head of the party. The scheme is for these gentlemen to organize a new company to operate the West Duluth works. They will also decide whether there shall be added to it a large blast furnace and a 100 or 150-ton, daily capacity, steel plant. If they decide favorably, at least 1,000 more men will be given employment at West Duluth in the near future.

•••R. H. Moore of the Ottumwa, Iowa, Democrat, was with the editorial party in Duluth yesterday. He visited Duluth once before in 1872, and when he gets home will correct the article he wrote at that time.

•••The result of the school election was to return all the old incumbents to office, and nearly a unanimous vote to issue $200,000 additional bonds to complete the erection of new school buildings. The following directors were elected for three years: H. W. Pearson, F. W. Paine and J. W. Phillips; for one year, Dr. Albert Rockwell. The election called out nearly 2,800 votes.

•••J. B. Gillis of West Duluth has returned from a six weeks' trip to Eastern cities.

•••E. J. Longyear has secured a five years' lease of iron lands near Grand Rapids from Wright & Davis. He is here to secure men and necessary outfit with which to establish prospecting camps.

ALL ABOUT GOV. EBERHART.

Shouldn't Do It.

Appleton Press: A Minnesotan can be pretty well satisfied with his governor so long as he keeps his mind on wheat and hogs and automobiles, but when he stops to compare Eberhart with Wilson of New Jersey, or Johnson of California he has to blush.

Can Be Spared.

Mahnomen Pioneer: The St. Cloud Journal-Press says that the state has not suffered through Governor Eberhart's absence from his office. That is undoubtedly true, nor will it suffer after he vacates it permanently—which should be at the first opportunity.

Does the State Service.

Rochester Post and Record: Some of the papers are making quite a fuss because Governor Eberhart has been absent from the state so much. They are careful not to state that on every trip he has made he has taken the greatest pains to set forth the many advantages this state has to offer settlers, and its great mining wealth. It's much better for the state to get the splendid advertising it receives through his efforts, than to perform routine duties only. Governor Eberhart has done the state great service, and should receive credit for it.

Falls Below the Mark.

Sauk Center Herald: The governor of Minnesota is having a time of it explaining why he spends much of his time away from the capitol. He should not take it so to heart; the people have no particular objection to their govenor appearing as a walking advertisement of the state; John A. Johnson did it with credit; the trouble with the present executive seems to be that he falls considerably below the mark set by his lamented predecessor.

A Political Ante Mortem.

Bemidji Pioneer: There is a growing suspicion that Governor Eberhart has a piece of putty where his backbone ought to be.

Why?

Ada Herald: If the 3-cent passenger rate will have a tendency to keep Governor Eberhart at home and on the job at least half the time the people may consider that there is some compensation to them in Judge Sanborn's decision.

"Floaters" Not Wanted.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: In an interview recently Governor Eberhart says "no one has asked me to call a special session of the legislature." It seems strange that this is necessary in this instance when the railroads are handing a package like the increase in passenger rates to the public. Of course, if Governor Eberhart did call a special session of the legislature to increase the gross earnings tax he would not have the pleasure of traveling in Louis Hill's private car, and this seems to be more acceptable to the governor than that the public should at least have a fair shake. It takes a man to stand for something that is right. Anyone can be a floater.

Didn't Hear a Murmur.

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: The governor says he has heard no demand for an extra session of the legislature to consider the increase of gross earnings taxes on railroads. Of course no such foolish twaddle would be allowed to interrupt the conservation and rural school discussion en route but we didn't know but the governor might have heard just a faint murmur between trips.

Ticklish.

Arlington Enterprise: Governor Eberhart says he is not in favor of an extra session of the legislature for the purpose of passing a new gross earnings tax, so long as the case is still in litigation. Now, if it was a new apportionment law, it might be different. Railroads are ticklish things for ambitious politicians to tackle, and it must be remembered that our governor is ambitious.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: When a man gets a swelled head there is no more in it than there is in a toy balloon.

Tomorrow never comes—unless it is the first of the month with its burden of annoying bills.

Formerly a bride knew how to keep house. Now she is lucky if she knows how to keep a cook.

If a man has no time to devote to public affairs it's a pretty good sign that his private graft is satisfactory.

Probably no other genius ever stirred up as much trouble for mankind in general as the one who invented the lawn mower.

Pointed Paragraphs.

It was a small boy who said: "A soft answer, sir, turneth away wrath."

A publication devoted to the interests of janitors would be rather flat.

A man may be in love without being quite insane enough for a padded cell.

Gradually Topped Mountain.

Pittsburg Press: Miss Annie S. Peck, the distinguished scholar and mountain climber, describes in one of her addresses in Boston on mountaineering the strange effect that some mountains have on some men.

"In a word," she said, "it is an effect of mendacity. Thus, in a Boston club one mountaineer said to another:

"'So Smith, fat Smith, actually climbed Mount Blanc?'

"'Smith? Not he!!' the other mountaineer replied.

"'But he said he did.'

"'True; but in September, on his return from Chamonix, he only said he'd been to the foot of Mount Blanc. Since then he's gradually lied himself all the way up to the top.'"

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Mamma, the doctor's boy next door made faces at me."

"And what did you do?"

"I stuck out my tongue at him."

"Dear, dear! And what did he do then?"

"He just said it was badly coated."

Houston Post: "Mamma, may I carry the poodle?"

"No, dear; you are too little and too careless, but you may carry the baby a little ways."

Christian Intelligencer: The Friend—I suppose it was hard to lose your daughter?

The Father—Well, it did seem as if it would be at one time, but she landed this fellow just as we were beginning to give up hope.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "Ranterby Roarer has appeared 999 times in the same play."

"How do you account for such an unprecedented run?"

"He dies in the first act."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Plague take that woman!"

"My friend, she is the most beautiful girl in this town."

"That may be. But she obstructs my view of second base."

Buck: The only one whose way seems to be getting any easier in this world is the transgressor.

Fliegende Blaetter: She—You needn't put on such airs. You're only two noughts in the "upper ten" after all.

Boston Transcript: "Ma, do cows and bees go to heaven?"

"Mercy, child, what a question! Why?"

"'Cause if they don't the milk and honey the preacher said was up there must be all canned stuff."

Commercial Bulletin: Wife (excitedly)—If you go on like this I shall certainly lose my temper.

Husband—No danger, my dear. A thing of that size is not easily lost.

M. A. P.: Mistress—Mary, another knife, please. This one is not clean.

Mary—Not clean, mum? I'm sure it ought to be. The last thing it cut was soap.

Fliegende Blaetter: "Every time I see you, Fraulein Bertha, it makes me more furious."

"Good gracious, doctor, what about?"

"That I am already married."

Judge: Willis—I said I'd make our cook get up early in the morning.

Gillis—Did you?

Willis—Yes, she left on the early train yesterday.

Its Place of Business.

Lippincott's Magazine: In the absence of any accurate information, the imagination of our pupils sometimes take a curiously amusing turn," says an instructor in a Philadelphia institution. "The boy who defined a mountain rainge as a 'large-sized cook stove' was recently eclipsed by the answer returned by a lad from Altoona.

"'What is the office of the gastric juice?' was the question put to this boy.

"His written response, no doubt struck off in the hurry of the examination, was: 'The stomach.'"

WATER IS NOT PURE

Samples From West Duluth Reservoir Show Presence of Bacilli.

Health Commissioner States That There Is No Occasion for Alarm.

Chemical analysis of the water in the West Duluth reservoir has shown that it contains colon bacilli. This indicates that it might contain typhoid germs, but not that the water is infected.

The presence of the bacilli make the water much more susceptible to the typhoid germs. The bacilli are caused by decayed matter of some kind and might be from the dead bodies of dogs or cats. Dr. H. E. Webster, health commissioner, stated this morning that immediate steps should be taken to clean out the reservoir. He said that it should be completely drained and then thoroughly cleaned. He explained that there is no cause for alarm, but that residents should be informed of conditions in order that they might take necessary precautions in order to protect themselves.

He believes that the contamination is entirely local to the West Duluth reservoir. The department has taken samples from the well at the pumping station and all of the tests have shown that the water is pure. The samples have been analyzed by Dr. E. L. Tuohy.

WIRE FENCES NO HELP.

Coyotes Go Through Them to Tackle North Dakota Sheep.

Dickinson, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coyotes are the only pests the sheep raiser of western North Dakota have to contend with according to George Golding of Gladstone, one of the well known sheep growers of the district. He declares that the coyotes, once fearful of the woven wire fence, have lost their fear of that barrier, and are now able to make their way into the sheep droves and work damage. An organized war against them by the sheep men is the plan of action that he proposes for protection.

COAL STILL COMING.

Thirteen Big Cargoes Received During Last Twenty-Four Hours.

Although there has been some curtailment in the shipment of coal from the lower lakes to Duluth, as a result of the local docks being well filled, nevertheless the receipts during the twenty-four hours ending at 12 o'clock today, were heavy. During this time thirteen of the bigger freighters brought in full cargos of coal, for the docks of this city.

Shipments of iron ore are about the same this week as earlier, there being no increase, and no indications that more will be sent. In the movement of merchandise there is no improvement, while the shipments of grain are exceedingly light. Grain movement is not expected for at least six weeks, when the shipments are expected to be very heavy, the season probably being a record breaker.

Inspect Vessels.

The local United States vessel inspectors examined the freighters Odanah and the Verona, of the Lackawanna Steamship company, of which Pickands, Mather & Co. are the agents. These boats have been in service all season.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Forbes' Stock company in "Brewster's Millions."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

"Brewster's Millions" was played yesterday afternoon at the first matinee of the season before a crowded house at the Lyceum theater, and this popular comedy is proving the most popular bill yet presented by the Gus A. Forbes Stock company. The advance sale for all of the remaining performances has been large.

The famous scene on the yacht during a storm at sea is being splendidly presented in this performance and the audiences have been hearty in their approval. Few people realize the difficulties of presenting such a scene, although the splendid results which have been attained this week by the Forbes company stage management is being duly appreciated. With the thoughts of Duluth on carnivals and fetes this scene is particularly apropos for the blue waters of the Mediterranean and the lights of Italy on the far shore make a regular carnival picture. The calmness of the scene is interrupted later, however, by a most realistic storm.

Mr. Forbes is proving a most engaging young spendthrift and he dissipates a million at every performance gaily and strenuously, and up to date hundreds of Duluthions have shared the pleasure with him.

"Brewster's Millions" will be repeated every evening this week and Sunday evening and there will be Saturday and Sunday matinees.

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" guished success at Terry's theater, London, in Anne Warner's characterization of her novel of the same name. Miss Robson has achieved an international reputation in this play, and has given the theater-going public a distinct characterization of an eccentric woman of New England, and who is uproariously funny and yet occasionally blends the humorous and pathetic so evenly that one appears to be laughing at one moment and silent the next in noting these changes in "Aunt Mary." The supporting company is admirable, and evidently selected with due consideration for their special ability. L. S. Sire, under whose management Miss Robson is starring, has surrounded her with an excellent company of players and a special scenic production.

The giant, Mexican Merimba, which is played by the four Solis brothers at the Empress this week, is attracting considerable attention. This instrument is a very novel one and was designed and constructed by the Solis brothers themselves. It resembles the xylophone in design and has a similar keyboard, but the tones produced by it are very different and seem to be a combination of the tones produced by a xylophone, a harp and a piano. A great many people imagine that strings have been used in its construction and are the cause of the Merimba sounding like a harp, but such is not the case. The boxes which are placed under the reeds are of peculiar construction and cause this sound and there is no wire whatever used in the construction. The Solis brothers are all able musicians, each being able to play upon several instruments, but they now confine themselves to the Merimba exclusively and practice upon this instrument three or four hours daily outside of their regular performance. Their repertoire is extensive and they do not play the same selections at any two performances. Since they opened at the Empress, the boys have become favorites, and at each performance they are compelled to play several numbers in addition to their regular program.

Carnival visitors are welcomed to the Auditorium.

Special preparations have been made for carnival week. The big building is gay with decorations on the outside and the entire interior of the rink has been gone over and redecorated in Japanese style in preparation for the entertainment of the carnival visitors and the regular patrons.

Special programs will be the rule today, Friday and Saturday. The beautiful creation of moonlight staged by the sciopticon, a machine that throws electrical lights through the big rink, will be the special program on for this evening.

There will be three programs today. One this morning for the carnival visitors, one this afternoon and a big brilliant display this evening, when the beautiful moonlight effect will be put on.

HOW TO REMOVE A BAD COMPLEXION

(From London Fashions.)

Cosmetics can never really help a poor complexion; often they are positively harmful. The sensible, rational way is to actually remove the thin veil of stilling, half-dead scarf skin from the face and give the fresh, vigorous and beautiful young skin underneath a chance to show itself and to breathe.

This is best done in a very simple way, by merely applying mercolized wax at night, like cold cream, and washing it off in the morning. Good mercolized wax can be obtained from any well stocked druggist. It absorbs the disfiguring cuticle gradually and harmlessly, leaving a brilliant natural complexion. Of course this also takes with it all such facial blemishes as red blotches, tan, moth patches, sallowness, liver spots, pimples, etc. As a freckle remover and general complexion beautifier this old-fashioned remedy is unequaled.

GLOBE TROTTER VISITS DULUTH

C. A. Rice, Former Minnesotan, Called From Cuba to Mother's Sick Bed.

Capt. Cushman A. Rice, of Camayuga, Cuba, is in the city, en route to his parents' home in Willmar, Minn., where his mother is seriously ill. The captain will remain in the city until the arrival of his automobile, when he, with H. E. Thomas, a California railroad man, will drive to Willmar.

Captain Rice is a soldier of fortune, an adventurer of no mean degree, having traveled to almost every section of the globe. He is also a veteran if the Spanish-American war, having been actively in service as captain in the Thirty-fourth United States infantry in the Philippines.

He was born in Willmar, the son of A. E. Rice, ex-lieutenant governor, and a member of the board of regents of the university. The captain himself is well known in the state, having resided in Kandiyohi county until he reached manhood.

He is the owner of several fine pieces of land in Cuba, is enthusiastic about it, and sees big prospects for the little island. He states that the Spanish-American Iron company, which owns large iron mines in that country, is doing much toward the development of the island, as is also the American Sugar company.

THREATENED CLOUDBURST

Terrific Downpour Comes Almost on Anniversary of Great Storm.

Just two years ago, July 21, 1909, Duluth was visited by a cloudburst which resulted in several streets being washed out and thousands of dollars' worth of property destroyed.

A queer coincidence is that today, almost two years to a day after the cloudburst, Duluth was again threatened with another equally as bad.

For a short time this afternoon the angry clouds rolled up and formed one great pall overhead. The lightning showed in angry flashes and the thunder rolled. The water came down in torrents and for a few minutes it looked as though Duluth was again in danger of a cloudburst and washout which would rival that of two years ago.

Another peculiar fact is that the Duluth Boat club had also arranged a program of water sports which had to be postponed, two years ago.

As the result of the washout of two years ago two children lost their lives at Ninth avenue east and the repairs to the streets cost the city thousands of dollars.

Nearly one half an inch of rain fell during the short shower this afternoon, according to the local weather bureau. Local showers are also predicted for later this afternoon and tonight. Tomorrow will be fair, it is stated. The rain formed up in Manitoba and drifted almost due south to Duluth.

The rain damaged the decorations in the city, but the sun came out after the storm, and unless it is raining tonight the Venetian fete will not be postponed.

LIQUOR APPETITE IS NOT INHERITED

It Is Acquired Through Alcoholic Poisoning Which Neal Treatment Eradicates in Three Days.

Wonderful Work In the Redemption of Men at the Superior Neal Institute.

There is no such thing as an "inherited appetite" for liquor. This old fallacy has been exploded. The excessive drinker is a victim of alcoholic poisoning. He needs efficient medical help as badly as does a victim of fever. His intense, continuous craving and desire for liquor, which is only temporarily relieved by more drink, is simply the result of an accumulated store of alcoholic poison in the system. When the excessive drinker tries to stop without medical aid he suffers torment. It is the alcoholic poison in his system which is responsible for his physical and mental torture, which overwhelms all will power, however earnest the unfortunate's desire may be to quit drinking.

The Neal Treatment has brought relief to thousands of these unfortunates. In three days they have rid themselves for all time of the old craving and gnawing desire for drink.

Marvelous, indeed, have been the results to the credit of the Neal Treatment. Men who for years have been steady and heavy drinkers—who really believed the appetites they possessed were the heritage from past drinking generations—after only three days at the Neal Institute have found desire supplanted by aversion.

The Neal Treatment neutralizes and eliminates all the stored-up alcoholic poisoning in the system of the excessive drinker. This is accomplished in three days, immediately after which the former drinker finds himself in the same physical and mental condition that he was in before he ever started his drinking career.

It is the stored-up alcoholic poison in the system which causes the insatiable appetite for liquor, and once the alcoholic poisoning is eliminated, the old appetite is also eliminated, no matter how long this appetite has mastered the one possessing it.

The earlier successes of the Neal Treatment were demonstrated years ago and now it is a national necessity—helping redeem drinkers at Neal Institutes all over the country.

At the Neal Institute, Superior, Wis., guests enjoy all the comforts and privacy of home, club or hotel. Names are never divulged.

The Neal Treatment consists of a perfectly harmless vegetable medicine, ethically administered by regular physicans, who are in constant attendance. This medicine is taken internally; there are no hypodermic injections.

Home treatment can be arranged for those who prefer it.

If you have a friend who drinks to excess and you would like to help save him from the drink habit, write, wire or 'phone the Neal Institute, corner Belknap and West Seventh street, Superior, Wis.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JULY 23.

II Chron. xxxiv, 1-13: Josiah's Devotion to God.

THE CONNECTION.

Josiah reigned from 639 to 608 B. C. and he was one of the three perfect kings, according to the rabbis—David, Hezekiah and Josiah. Strange, too, when he was the son of a very wicked king, Amon, and grandson of a still wickeder king, Manasseh; when he began his reign at the immature and perilous age of eight years, and when idolatrous vices were rooted deeply in their history and habits, for the good Hezekiah had been dead seventy-five years.

But it was not so very strange, for 1. His mother, Jedah, seems to have been a good woman. 2. His was a case of "reversion to type," for he was like his remote father, David. No telling which one of our ancestors reappears in us. 3. He might have felt the influence of his grandfather, Manasseh, in his penitent and pious old age. 4. His father Amon's violent death at the hands of his nobles, was an effective object lesson of the folly of vice. 5. The spirit of reform was in the air. Isaiah's words about the fall of Assyria were coming true. Some great reformers were preaching, such as Zephaniah, Jeremiah, Nahum, and Josiah must have constantly received their instruction and caught their spirit. The books of these three writers and preachers should be read in connection with these lessons. 6. About this time the startling news was spreading that the terrible Scythians from the north, were sweeping along the coast of the Mediterranean, threatening Judah.

THE LESSON.

I.

His Reformation Work, 1-7.

"Josiah was 8 years old when he began to reign; and he reigned thirty and one years in Jerusalem. And he did that which was right in the eyes of Jehovah, and walked in the ways of David his father, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left. For in the eighth year of his reign, while he was yet young, he began to seek after the God of David his father: and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jerusalem from the high places, and the Asherim, and the graven images, and the molten images. And they brake down the altars of the Baalim in his presence; and the sun-images, and the molten images, he brake in pieces, and made dust of them, and strewed it upon the graves of them that had sacrificed unto them. And he burnt the bones of the priests upon their altars, and purged Judah and Jerusalem. And so did he in the cities of Manasseh and Ephraim and Simeon, even unto Naphtali, in their ruins round about. And he brake down the altars, and beat the Asherim and the graven images into powder, and hewed down all the sun-images throughout all the land of Israel, and returned to Jerusalem."

1. MODEL BOY.—He showed that while heridity and environment are mighty, one's choice is mightier still. Both were mixed in his case. He is more to be admired for his early choice than for his subsequent splendid deeds. He never swerved from the chosen path in his reign of thirty-one years. That choice of God's way meant wisdom as well as consistency, for he had the power of instant and accurate decision. Reverence for worthy ancestors was prominent. Fiery and impetuous, he avoided the extremes of severity and compromise. Yet with his independence he sought and accepted advice from older and wiser people. That was all due to his conversion which took place when he was 16. He was probably a boyhood friend of Jeremiah, who helped him seek God no doubt. He felt responsibilities that drew him to God. That corrected and directed his own life.

2. REFORMER.—His first attack on idolatry was in the twelfth year of his reign. He studied, planned and waited till he had the reins well in his hands and maturity of power. The instincts of the reformer were growing. The task was tremendous "to purge Judah and Jerusalem" from their accumulated sins and it required all his accumulations of power. He faced the national habit of idolatry and smote it, for the people preferred it to the severe restraints which God placed on their wilfulness and self-indulgence. To undo the work of his fathers required courage. He made a clean sweep, removed the obscene symbols of idolatry, erected to Astarte, the Venus of the Canaanites, and their "molten images," destroyed Baal's altars and the sun images.

He did the most heroic deed of all, in burning those implements and sprinkling the ashes on the graves of those who had sacrificed to them, in contempt for them. His violation of the sanctity of the grave in digging up the bones of the idolatrous priests, burning them and strewing them on the altars was terrible but was justifiable. His extension of his work of reform up into the defunct northern kingdom, where some Judeans were living was an indication of his thorough religious and his broad political purpose.

II.

His Formative Work, 8-13.

"Now in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purged the land and the house, he sent Saphan the son of Azaliah, and Maaseiah the governor of the city, and Joah the son of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the house of Jehovah his God. And they came to Hilkiah the high priest, and delivered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Levites, the keepers of the threshold, had gathered of the hand of Manasseh and Ephraim, and of all the remnant of Israel, and of all Judah and Benjamin, and of the inhabitants of Jerusalem. And they delivered it unto the hand of the workmen that had the oversight of the house of Jehovah, and the workmen that wrought in the house of Jehovah gave it to mend and repair the house; even to the carpenters and to the builders gave they it, to buy hewn stone, and timber for couplings, and to make beams for the houses which the kings of Judah had destroyed. And the men did the work faithfully; and the overseers of them were Jahath and Obadiah, the Levites, of the sons of Merari; and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to set it forward; and others of the Levites, all that were skilful with instruments of music. Also they were over the bearers of burdens, and set forward all that did the work in every manner of service; and of the Levites there were scribes, and officers, and porters.

1. RELIGION.—They will lapse back into idolatry unless they are trained in the worship of Jehovah. That worship depends on the temple. The temple is dilapidated, through age, neglect and abuse. It must be repaired and then the ceremonials of the true faith can be established in their supremacy.

2. METHOD.—He chose the secretary of state, the mayor of the city, and the official historian to do the work—a wise choice. They had collected money from all the people—also a wise thing. Hilkiah, the priest, was treasurer and director. To appeal to their honor and stimulate them with music was shrewd as well as wise.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The heads of the clans and the royal family, in all its wide ramifications, were devoted to heathenism. New follies, introduced from different nations, were constantly coming into vogue. High places to the goat god of Egypt, or to the hairy satyrs, thought to inhabit the deserts, were built at the gates of Jerusalem. Violence and license prevailed. The powerful oppressed the meak, perverted justice, mocked at innocence and sought by craft what they could not attain by force.—Geike.

In the days of Josiah and long before, sun-worship was most popular in Egypt and the Orient, and offerings including horses, etc. (II Kings 23:11), were made to the sun. More than twenty ruins in the region of Mount Lebanon have been identified as ancient temples for the worship of the sun; and Oriental Christians today take scrupulous care to face the rising of the sun when they pray, while Parsees in India and elsewhere may still be seen in lines silently worshiping and praying towards the sinking or the rising sun.—Howie.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Why is there such a difference between the two boy kings, Josiah and Manassah?
2. Which is the stronger, heredity or environment?
3. Why should responsibility drive one to God?
4. Why is religion essential to morality and both required in good citizenship?
5. What place has compromise in a true life?
6. Why is conversion in one's youth the best equipment for life?
7. Why does confidence in a man usually make him conscientious?

SECOND OPEN AIR CONCERT

Third Regiment Band Will Be at Chester Park Next Sunday.

Bring a Basket Lunch and the Children for a Day's Outing.

The second open air band concert of the present season will be given by The Herald next Sunday afternoon between 3 and 5 o'clock at Chester park, Fourteenth avenue east above Fourth street.

The music will be furnished by the Third Regiment band, which has carried off all honors in the state in competitive contests and has won an enviable name for itself in many different parts of the country. Bandmaster Jens Flaaten will act as director of the thirty trained musicians and soloists.

The concert at Lincoln park last Sunday was attended by thousands from all sections of the city. The grounds surrounding the bandstand were black with people, while thirty or forty automobiles were parked along the driveways. The attendance showed beyond doubt the deep appreciation of the public and demonstrated that the residents of Duluth enjoy band concerts in the parks.

Every park in the city has scenic features and attractions special to itself. Chester park is one of the prettiest and is well adapted for band concerts. With hills rolling away on either side the public will have a most excellent opportunity to hear every selection rendered, whether it be by the entire band or a solo. Any East Fourth street car goes direct to the park. It may also be reached on East Superior street lines by walking four blocks up Fourteenth avenue east. All cars transfer to the East Fourth street car line at Third avenue west.

With the music as a special attraction a most pleasant day's outing could be enjoyed at Chester park by taking a picnic lunch and bringing the children. There is a fine stream for them to wade in and lots of trees and ground on which they can romp to their hearts' content.

DRIVEN TO EUROPE BY MAIL THREATS

Trustee of Chicago Stockyards Benefit Fund Fears Assassination.

New York, July 20.—Threatening letters which drove Harlow N. Higginbotham of Chicago to Europe two weeks ago, met him again when he returned on the steamer Olympic yesterday.

Mr. Higginbotham is custodian of the funds raised for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the firemen killed in the stockyards fire last December. He said he has received several anonymous threats because some of the beneficiaries of the latter fund were not satisfied with the income, and demanded the division of the entire fund among them.

"I really believe," Mr. Higginbotham said, "that they will try to kill me when I return to Chicago."

He said that these threats came to him first on July 5, when he came here to see his daughter off on the Mauretania. As a result he decided to sail on the same steamer. He reached the other side just in time to return on the Olympic, and more threatening letters were in the mail handed to him as the vessel steamed up the bay.

Matter of Litigation.

Chicago, July 20.—Harlow N. Higginbotham said before leaving Chicago he had received letters making threats of violence because of his course in insisting that the income and not the principal of the firemen's relief fund be paid to the widows and orphans.

April 11 the beneficiaries of the fund filed a bill in the superior court asking for the appointment of a receiver for the fund and a distribution of the money. The case was argued before Judge Cooper, who still has the matter under advisement.

Attorney John J. Coburn, who represents the widows and orphans in the pending litigation, said:

"I am sure that none of my clients has written any threatening letters. They are not inclined to deeds of violence. They are poor widows with large families, who simply want Mr. Higginbotham to give them the money the people of Chicago so generously contributed to their relief. I think the letters were written by some crank."

Many others who suffer similarly will be glad to benefit by Mr. Stewart's experience. For sale by all druggists.

WALL PAPER TRUST MEN ARE INDICTED

Accused of Dictating to Whom Wholesale Men Should Sell.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 20.—Four indictments were returned late yesterday afternoon by the federal grand jury which has been investigating an alleged wall paper trust. The indictments charge a conspiracy in restraint of trade under the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indicted parties are all officials of wall paper jobbing houses. They are: J. B. Pearce, president of the J. B. Pearce Wall Paper company of Cleveland; Norton Newcomb of St. Louis, Edward E. Maxwell of Chicago and C. C. Aler of Columbus, Ohio. Bond was fixed at $5,000 in each case.

The specific charge against the indicted men is that they met in Cleveland in May 30, 1910, and after a secret session notified wall paper manufacturers of the country that if they sold wall paper to 5 and 10 cent stores the jobbers would boycott the manufacturers.

The significance of this action, the government alleges, is that the four men constitute the executive committee of the National Association of Wall Paper Jobbers.

Affected 300 Stores.

According to federal officers, more than 300 5 and 10 cent stores throughout the country were affected by the alleged order of the jobbers.

C. C. Aler is president of the C. C. Aler Wall Paper company of Columbus, Ohio. Norton Newcomb is president of the Newcomb Brothers Wall Paper company of St. Louis, and E. F. Maxwell is a member of S. A. Maxwell & Co., Chicago.

OBJECTS TO IMPROVEMENT

George N. Messick Wants Sixth Avenue More Than Thirty Feet Wide.

At the meeting of the Central Hillside Improvement club last night the most important subject for discussion was that of the grading of Sixth avenue east.

George N. Messick objected to the proposed plan for grading the avenue. He claimed that the plan does not call for a permanent improvement.

The petition circulated for the improvement calls for a roadway thirty feet wide. Mr. Messick objects to this plan, claiming that after street car tracks have been laid on the avenue, the street would not be wide enough for practical teaming purposes.

Mr. Messick owns nearly a block on one side of the avenue which it is proposed to improve and he maintained that if the street is to be improved, it should be made the regulation width.

The petition is said to have nearly the number of signatures necessary. It asks for the grading of the avenue from Fifth to Tenth street. The cost is estimated at from $50 to $75 a lot.

HAD AN EYE FOR BUSINESS

"Two Rays" Organize Company and Decorate Superior Street for Carnival.

Under the name of "The Two Rays Decorating company" Ray Johns and Ray Fenton have decorated a great part of Superior street with national and carnival colors.

Both Mr. Fenton and Mr. Johns are Duluth young men and both have a keen eye to business. When the dates of the carnival drew near, they busied themselves drawing sketches of buildings showing how they would look properly decorated. These they submitted to local merchants and in spite of the fact that a strong decorating firm from Minneapolis was early on the job, "The Two Rays" had most of it cinched.

Many favorable comments are being made on the handsome building decorations put in place under the auspices of the "Two Rays." A great part of the Superior street work was done by the Duluth young men.

TELLS OF ARSON "TRUST" IN CITIES

Illinois Fire Marshal Makes Statements in Chicago Speech.

Chicago, July 20.—That there exists a gigantic, country-wide arson trust with headquarters in Kansas City and representatives in nearly all large cities, the members of which make a business of setting fire to buildings in order to enable the owners to collect insurance, is the sensational charge made by State Fire Marshal C. J. Doyle in an address delivered before the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"The country is facing one of the most ginantic organized arson conspiracies the world has ever known," said Mr. Doyle. "The state fire marshal department of Illinois has united with the state fire marshals of Kentucky, Tennessee and Ohio to wipe out the band of fifteen men at the head of this arson conspiracy.

"The head of the firebug trust is in Kansas City, from which city the operations of the entire gang is directed. They have been found at work in Pittsburg, New York, St. Louis, Chicago and other cities."

NO INTENTION OF AN INTERVENTION IN CUBA.

Havana, July 20.—Rumors which have been current recently that the American government was considering another intervention in Cuba were dissipated when the American minister, John B. Jackson, visited Senor Sanguily, the Cuban secretary of state, and delivered a message from Mr. Knox, the American secretary of state, in which the secretary declared that the American government had not the least intention of intervention. Senor Sanguily expressed his warmest appreciation and said he was convinced that nothing would disturb the present friendly and intimate relations between the two countries.

New York Has $500,000 Fire.

New York, July 20.—A damage estimated at nearly $500,000 was caused by a fire which last night practically destroyed the five-story brick building in Brooklyn occupied by the Cowperthwaite company, furniture dealers.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

PLANS LAID FOR EXHIBIT

Carlton County Will Make Adequate Display at Minnesota State Fair.

Organization Perfected at Carlton to Gather and Forward Exhibits.

Carlton, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enthusiastic meeting of representative citizens of Carlton county held a meeting at the court house here yesterday and perfected an organization whose object will be to place an exhibit of Carlton county products at the Minnesota state fair this year.

The meeting was called primarily by Principal Peter Olson and Prof. R. C. Shiftlet of the Cloquet public schools, who are much interested in the advancement of agriculture in this county. F. B. McLeran of Wrenshall was elected president of the organization, R. C. Shiftlet secretary and William Gallagher, treasurer. An auxiliary board is to be appointed by the president, consisting of ten men from over the county.

Want Representative Exhibit.

Everybody who has an article of Carlton county growth that would be presentable at the fair, is requested to at once notify one of the officers of the association. Glass jars will be provided for the purpose of preserving the exhibits, and it is expected to also place some of them in the exhibition car that the Northern Pacific Railroad company proposes to run down through other states advertising Northern Minnesota. The exhibits can be brought back and exhibited at the county fair which takes place on Sept. 13, 14 and 15.

Those present at the meeting yesterday were: Dr. W. G. Dolan, L. D. Runkle, Peter Olson, F. B. Vibert, J. A. Diesen, R. C. Shiftlet, J. W. Dunlevy, Albert Cox and others of Cloquet; F. P. Thompson H. C. Hanson, Barnum; F. B. McLeran, John Habhegger, Wrenshall; William Gallagher, August R. Norman, W. M. Cain, Gus Ulinz, W. H. Hassing, Miss N. E. Barnard and others from Carlton. The secretary was given full authority together with the president to advertise the exhibit throughout the county and make up the list necessary. A fund of $50 was raised at this meeting to pay the entry fee at the state fair.

NORTH DAKOTA SILVER SERVICE

Handsome Gift By Flickertail State to the Battleship.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Citizens of North Dakota, through the work of the state silver service commission, will present to the United States battleship North Dakota a beautiful silver service purchased through popular subscription, the laws of the state prohibiting the making of a state appropriation for that purpose.

The silver service is valued at over $10,000 and comprises forty-three splendid pieces. It weighs 338 pounds—solid silver—and the punch bowl is as large as an ordinary wash tub.

This service is of the colonial type. Simplicity and elegance of form rather than over-elaborateness prevail.

The border used in the set is a varient of the historic laurel border prevalent in colonial patterns, wheat being introduced as emblematic of North Dakota's agriculture. With the border appears the head of the American bison. The wild rose, the state flower, is used as a decorative feature also the eagle, emblematic of the nation; the dolphin, emblematic of the ocean, sea weed and shells, and the corn and other products of the state, are to be found.

More conventional features of the decorative scheme are the seal of the state of North Dakota, of the United States and of the navy department.

The silver service is here, having being brought to the city for the purpose of being placed on exhibit at the North Dakota state fair next week. A model of the United States battleship North Dakota is also being brought to the city to be shown at the same time.

One of the features will be the serving of frappe from the great punch bowl during the fair week.

HANDS WOULD BURN LIKE FIRE

Could Lay Pin in Cracks. Four Long Years of Eczema. Only Relief in Scratching. Used One Set of Cuticura Remedies. Hands Entirely Well.

"I can truthfully say Cuticura Remedies have cured me of four long years of eczema. About four years ago I noticed some little pimples coming on my little finger, and not giving it any attention, it soon became worse and spread all over my hands. If I would have them in water for a long time, they would burn like fire and large cracks would come. I could lay a pin in them. After using all the salves I could think of, I went to three different doctors, but all did me no good. The only relief I got was scratching.

"So after hearing so much about the wonderful Cuticura Remedies, I purchased one complete set, and after using them three days my hands were much better. To-day my hands are entirely well, one set being all I used." (Signed) Miss Etta Narber, R. F. D. 2, Spring Lake, Mich., Sept. 26, 1910.

No stronger evidence than this could be given of the success and economy of the Cuticura Remedies in the treatment of torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin. A single hot bath with Cuticura Soap and a gentle anointing with Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing cases and permit rest and sleep when all else fails. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are equally effective in preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole propa., 139 Columbus Ave., Boston.

Mailed free, samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, with 32-p. book.

HILL CITY, MINN., PLANT THAT EMPLOYS MANY MEN

IS GIVEN LESS THAN TENDERED

Plaintiff in Damage Case Against Railroad Loses By Declining Offer.

Crookston, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury was excused for the present term of district court last evening after the conclusion of two cases tried during the day. The first was the case of Nels Peterson vs. The Great Northern Rawlay to recover $1,200 for the destruction of a farm house on defendant's farm near Mentor last spring. The Great Northern offered $300 in settlement, but this was refused and the jury returned a verdict for $275.

The second suit was brought by E. A. Webster of McIntosh to recover on a note for $98 given for a drill. The defense contended that regardless of the indorsement on the note of the fact that the note was given for a Tiger drill, a verbal agreement was made to the effect that the Tiger drill was to be returned and exchanged for a Kentucky drill as soon as one was provided by the plaintiff. The jury found for the defendant farmer.

The term was a long and important one, the fire cases against the Canadian Northern being specially important, all being won by the plaintiffs, and the Simpson laurder trial was also a feature because of its importance and brevity. There still remain a considerable number of court cases.

ROBBERY STORY IS NOT PROVEN

Wrenshall Brickyard Hand Fails to Fasten Crime on Fellow Worker.

Carlton, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A peculiar mixup was thrashed out in Judge Skemp's court at Cloquet yesterday, having its origin here. On Sunday Andrew Andros, a Bohemian, was picked up beside the railroad track between here and Wrenshall in a bloody and bruised condition. His head was cut and he showed marks of severe handling. He was taken to the Cloquet hospital and after being revived said he had been riding in a car with another man, and that the latter slugged him and threw him off the car. He also claimed the man had robbed him at Carlton. He gave the name of the suspect as George Gardner, and said the two had been working in the brick yard at Wrenshall. Gardner left the town and was arrested at Superior Monday and brought back for trial. He told a straight story of what he had been doing at the time and denied any knowledge of Andros' injury. Andros, on examination, was rambling in his testimony and was not sure he had been slugged or even in a car at all. It was decided that he been walking along the tracks and fell off the bridge. Gardner was released.

ASKS GOVERNOR TO RETURN DATA

Chairman of Beltrami County Board to Proceed Against Sheriff Hazen.

Bemidji, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—After having waited since May 27, when he filed a petition with Governor Eberhart asking for the removal of Sheriff Alvin B. Hazen, Viggo Peterson, chairman of the county board, has written to the governor asking for the return of affidavits filed with the petition so as to be in a position to push criminal prosecution against the sheriff. The petition filed with the governor, which alleges nonfeasance and malfeasance in office, never has been acted on. The governor turned it over to Attorney General Simpson for an opinion as to its legality, but the attorney general never has given a written opinion on the subject and the governor refuses to act until he does.

Mr. Peterson's letter to the governor follows:

"Will you please return to me the affidavits attached to the Hazen petition, in event you have concluded to take no action on the charges preferred. I desire to make use of the affidavits and if the petition is not to receive consideration at your hands I presume you will have no objection to returning them to me."

If the affidavits are returned, as Mr. Peterson expects, he will swear out a warrant for the sheriff whom he has accused of fraudulently obtaining money from the county and of gross negligence in his duties as sheriff.

ATTORNEY FILES REPORT.

Prosecutor Claims That John Dietz Secured a Fair Trial.

Haywood, Wis., July 20.—District Attorney Sam Williams of Sawyer county, who prosecuted John Dietz, has filed with Judge Reid, who presided at the trial an extended report or statement refuting the charges made by Dietz's attorneys that the defender of Cameron dam did not receive a fair trial. The attorney endeavors to vindicate his every action in the trial. In summing up his statement the district attorney says: "The result of my inquiries then is—that after Deitz got bail, and was subjected to the attention of curiosity-seekers at close range, he was possessed with the idea that he did not need a lawyer, that he would try his case, that he would not let any lawyer have any of the credit of his acquittal—or of the money which he was collecting from the public for a defense fund on the representation that he was going to have a lawyer.

"He evidently believed that he could clear himself, before a Sawyer county jury, and keep the defense money paid to him as his own.

"Deitz needed a pretext for dispensing with a lawyer. The money gain was a certainty. And he counted also on the prejudice against the bar as a possible ally with the jury.

"I am satisfied that the subject needs no further attention and I file this paper to show that it has not been neglected, and to give notice that if there is any further evidence—when shown it, I shall act."

ONE IS DISCHARGED; OTHER ONE IS HELD.

Crosby, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The preliminary hearing of Frank Duggan and William Lindsey, charged with horse stealing, resulted in the discharge of Lindsey and holding Duggan to the next term of district court. Being unable to furnish the required bond of $800 he was taken to Minot and placed in the county jail to await trial.

In the hearing it developed that Lindsey had only accompanied Duggan to Ambrose and was not an accomplice to the alleged theft. He owned the horse which he rode. Duggan, however, is accused of having stolen a horse at Outlook, Mont., some time last spring and was arrested but a few days ago when he rode into Ambrose riding a horse answering the description which had been sent out to all livery barns last spring at the time of the theft.

HOMER WINS FINAL GAME

Snyder Puts Pill Over the Fence, Defeating Sox, 4 to 2.

Doc Miller's Batting and General Work Feature the Game.

(BY BRUCE.)

La Crosse yesterday registered the second defeat to the White Sox in the present series, winning the game by the score of 4 to 2, through the timely agency of a home run wallop by noisy Snyder, the German scoring a man ahead of him and breaking up the tie.

Young Mr. Weidel, who is known as "Bugs" because of a somewhat erratic mental disposition, was on the mound for the Outcasts and was extremely hard to hit when hits would be effective. On the other hand Red Worman was not as strong as usual, which accounts for the second defeat of the series.

In the second inning Kernan doubled with one down and scored when Wals followed with another double, almost in the same spot in the left garden. The next two runners went out and the damage was held low.

Duluth followed with one in its half of the second. Miller tripled over Bond's bean in right and scored when Johnson hit a sacrifice fly to left field.

The Sox scored one in the fifth and the fans began to hope for a victory. In this round, with two down, Menelce doubled to center and was scored by O'Brien's sparkling single up against the left field paling. The Orator tried to stretch the hit into a double and was caught between first and second.

In the seventh, just as we had begun to think that the enemy were nice and harmless, Snyder upset the calculations by hitting the ball over the left field fence, scoring Black, who had singled. The one run lead looks big with Weidel breezing along nicely, but in the next inning one more was added and the victory cinched.

In the eighth Kelly singled with one down, was advanced when Walliser erred on Safford's offering, and came across on Kernan's rap to the left field fence.

The hitting and general demeanor of "Doc" Miller, the herb specialist, featured the game. The long boy got three hits and in addition handled himself in the field with the finished grace of a big league veteran.

RAIN BREAKS IN ON RACE MEET

Postponement of Grand Circuit Events at Kalamazoo Made Necessary.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 20. — What promised to be a great contest for the $10,000 paper mills stake for 2:14 trotters at the Kalamazoo Grand Circuit meeting was cut short yesterday afternoon by a heavy downpour just after the first heat had been raced. The rain made the track unfit for fast, their racing yesterday and all wires to the park were put out of commission by the wind.

The first heat of the big race demonstrated that there was an immense amount of speed in the field. Aero Leyburn, the topheavy favorite, made a poor showing. R. T. C., which last year earned his keep by drawing a delivery wagon and therefore was a despised outsider, surprised everybody by winning the heat rather easily.

One heat was run off also in the 2:24 trot and tne 2:14 race. Anvil won the trot in a jig, while Game Maid had things pretty much her own way in the pacing event. In the latter Peter the Second broke badly at the head of the stretch. Hal Akin broke his hobbles and Bertha A. Went off her stride near ...e finishes making it easy for the winner.

CHICK EVANS BRINGS TROPHIES FROM EUROPE.

Boston, Mass., July 20.—Charles (Chick) Evans, the Chicago golfer, who failed in his efforts to capture the British amateur championship, landed here yesterday after an interesting European trip with two prizes in his grip and another following across the ocean.

Evans won the principal prize at Stoke-Pogues in the Royal golf competition. He also captured the Bennett cup in the French amateur tournament at Paris. This trophy will be sent to him.

Mr. Evans left here yesterday for Detroit where he expects to participate in the Western Amateur championship.

NED HANLON MAY BUY BOSTON NATIONALS.

New York, July 20.—Rumors of the proposed sale of the Boston National league baseball club were strengthened last night by the fact that the owner, William Hepburn Russell, held a long conference with "Ned" Hanlon, the former Baltimore, Brooklyn and Cincinnati manager, in which it is understood Hanlon made proposals to purchase the Boston club.

At the meeting were also Manager Fred Tenney and another stockholder in the Boston club, but it was not admitted after the meeting that anything had been decided upon.

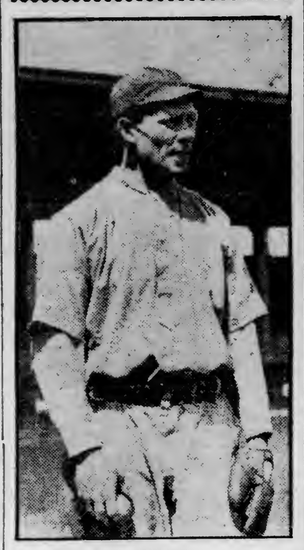

Mr. Russell went back to Boston at midnight on a trip which is said to be for the purpose of reaching a final understanding with other stockholders of the team before action is taken.

QUINN IS STANDBY OF HIGHLANDERS

QUINN.

Jack Quinn, next to Russell Ford, made the best record last year on the staff of the New York Americans. Quinn won eighteen games last season and lost thirteen. Fisher had a better percentage, but he only took part in eight games, winning five. Quinn has been with the Yankees for several seasons and is going better than ever this year. Quinn is one of the few Poles taking part in the national pastime.

VISITING CREWS HERE AND INTEREST GROWS

Both St. Paul and Winnipeg arrived in the city this morning and were out on the bay for practice spins. Each of the clubs sent a large delegation. Both Winnipeg and the Apostles are considered very strong in the senior eight events, but until their crews are sized up, not so much will be known about their chances in the junior events.

With their shells taken from the union depot to the main house, it is very likely that all of the visiting oarsmen will get out and have two final rows today. Both Winnipeg and St. Paul will want to go over the course and get the general lay of it, while Jimmy Ottis of St. Paul and Con Riley of Winnipeg will keep their men on edge by just enough work to keep them from worrying.

The course has been marked out by flags and the stake piling will be placed today. The course slants diagonally from a point a mile and a half up the bay, coming by the end of the tennis court, the finish line, at a slight angle.

At one point near the finish line one of the government beacon lights is stationed and this obstacle may cause some trouble in the four oared races.

There is very high interest in the two days' racing card. For the first time in many years it is conceded that the Duluth crews have a very strong chance for victory. Just how strong this chance is, will be better known after some line is secured on the visitors.

There will be an interested crowd of spectators down at the float today trying to get a good line on the form and ability of the crews from Winnipeg and St. Paul.

CHAMPION MAY DESERT AMERICA

Li'l Artha Declares He May Become British Subject.

New York, July 20.—Jack Johnson's reception in Great Britain has been so enthusiastic and satisfying that the negro champion threatens to resign his citizenship in this country and transfer his allegiance to England. Declaring the Americans are an ungrateful nation and Uncle Sam a hard master, the pugilist makes his proposals for becoming an expatriate in an interview published in the Evening Herald of Dublin, marked copies of which have just reached a number of sporting men in this city. Mr. Johnson voiced his sentiments on the Fourth of July, the anniversary of his triumph at Reno.

"The English are treating me just dandy," begins the black pugilist in the interview. "No comparison at all to America. As for going back to the United States, not for mine. Not until they force me, and then I'm coming back as quickly as I can. England is sure a fine country."

Johnson says that if ever the time comes when America needs men to fight for her he will not be at home when his country calls. He will never shoulder a musket for America, but he would willingly go to the front for England.

MOTOR BOAT RACES FEATURE FOR DAY

Interest Centers in Contest Between Schell and Barnes Boats.

There will be three motor boat races at the boat club this afternoon. The twenty-six, thirty-two and forty foot class boats will race and in each of these classes the fastest boats at the Head of the Lakes are entered.

Richard Schell has a new boat here and this entry will start this afternoon against the "Little Bob," the Barnes boat, which is said to be capable of going better than thirty miles an hour.

This race is looked forward to with a great deal of interest and should furnish some of the best sport of the first day of the carnival.

In the twenty-six foot class there are several new local boats that have not started in any race the present season. It is also probable that a hydroplane from Superior may start, which would increase interest in the races.

SIGNAL SYSTEM WILL FOLLOW THE RACERS.

Preparations have been made for signaling the progress of the different races. Those in the grand stand at the boat club will be kept informed of the progress and position of the different crews by a signal system that will tell to those in the judges stand what crew is ahead at the different stages of the race, and the judges in turn will let the people in the grand stand know.

ZBYSZKO WINS BIG MATCH AT WARSAW.

This morning a letter comes to the sporting editor of The Herald from Jack Herman, written from far-off Warsaw. The hustling manager of Zbyszko, the world's famous Polish wrestler and one of the greatest athletes in the world, writes that Zbyszko won the big wrestling tournament held at Warsaw.

Herman writes that the great Pole will be back in America on the first of November and will be open to meet any wrestler in the world.

On his appearance in this city Zbyszko by his work on the mat and also by his gentlemanly demeanor made a great hit with his countrymen and also the fans of other nationalities. It is very likely that the giant Pole will be seen in Duluth the coming winter.

BALL GROUNDS READY FOR CARNIVAL CROWD.

Preparations for the entertainment of a large crowd at the new ball park, during the motor boat and rowing races have been completed by Manager J. J. Desmond.

The famous Rudd ski act, original and unique, will be an added feature of entertainment, and in addition to this one of the best views of the race course can be secured from the ball park.

The bleachers have been completed and all the seats are ready. The park is right on the race course and from it the races can be seen all along the course.

Good wives should see that their husbands secure a Permit to smoke.

STALLINGS MAY MANAGE REDS

Rumor Says Garry Herrmann Is After Former New York Leader.

New York, July 20.—A report in circulation here is to the effect that a change in the manager of the Cincinnati team will be made within the next three weeks. Garry Herrmann, owner of the Reds, in a visit here is supposed to have made this known, but not for publication, as he is now laying the wires for the securing of George Stallings, former manager of the New York Yankees.

It has been known for some time that Herrmann has anticipated making a change, but it was generally supposed Griffith would hold the reins until the close of the season. Griffith himself is dissatisfied with the present conditions, and presumably willing to step down at a moment's notice. Inability of Herrmann to find a suitable successor, however, has caused delay in the owner's action. Whether or not Stallings is able to land the job is a question, even though Herrmann is willing.

It is remembered that Stallings while manager of the Highlanders last season, was involved in the signal-tipping system which was uncovered at the Hilltop grounds. On the strength of this, President B. B. Johnson requested the immediate resignation of Stallings, and he dropped the reins quietly. Hal Chase assuming command. Now there is reason to believe that Johnson will make an effort to prevent Stallings again returning to major league duty, even though he will in no way be connected with the American league.

THREE I LEAGUE IS IN TROUBLE

Decatur Ready to Quit, But President Says League Is Safe.

Rock Island, Ill., July 20.—R. F. Kinsella, owner of the Springfield Three-I, league franchise, which he recently transferred to Decatur, was here yesterday sounding local directors on winding up the affairs of the league by Aug. 1.

"I am going to get the money out of baseball that I put into it," Kinsella said. "If I can't get it at the gate, I'll not be caught napping when the whole thing blows up. Any player on my team (Decatur) is for sale."

Kinsella says one club is ready to quit now. He says the attendance has been gradually falling off over the circuit. Rock Island will finish the season, it is said.

Kinsella issued a signed statement last night declaring he would turn his Decatur team over to the league on Aug. 6.

President Makes Denial.

Chicago, July 20.—President Tearney of the Three-I. league last night denied that plans are being formulated to end the league season Aug. 1. "The affairs of the league are in excellent condition," President Tearney said. "The attendance in every city has been splendid, although Decatur probably is not drawing as well as some of the larger cities. The league season will close Sept. 17, and not before, no matter what certain club owners want to do."

HEAVY GALE STIRS UP SEA AT PUT-IN-BAY.

Toledo, Ohio, July 20.—Owing to the heavy gale that blew across the waters of Put-In-Bay yesterday afternoon, the strong craft was forced to abandon participation in the grand parade of the nineteenth annual regatta of the Inter-Lake Yacht association. A heavy sea was running outside Gibraltar. Steam and power yacht, however, braved the weather, but they got a good shaking up before they returned to their moorings.

Last night the harbor presented a beautiful sight with all the boats lighted up. The smaller craft were decked out with lighted Japanese lanterns while the larger power boats and steam yacht had hundreds of miniature colored electric lights burning from every point. Bands aboard Commodore Winton's flagship and on Commodore S. O. Richardson's Jessamine furnished music.

Yesterday's races were a struggle on account of the heavy sea that was running. Practically since morning a thirty-mile gale had been blowing. Light rain fell during the day.

In the twenty-one-foot class, the Otsipeta of Detroit was first with Cammilla second in one of the greatest races ever witnessed on Lake Erie. Cammilla won over the Toledo boat by only two seconds.

In the Class D, for cruisers, the Thetis, a Cape Cod boat, abandoned the race shortly after the start and returned to her moorings.

SENSATIONAL TENNIS IN BOSTON TOURNEY.

Boston, Mass., July 20.—Championship tennis was displayed freely yesterday in the Longwood singles. Sensational matches were the order of things and several upsets added to the interest. G. F. Touchard of New York, after having been on the defense for the major part of three sets in his match with N. W. Miles of Boston, rallied and won in five sets. T. R. Pell of New York came within an ace of defeating M. F. McLoughlin of San Francisco.

There were no upsets in the Eastern doubles championship. Clothier and Larned's team work were a little better yesterday than the previous day, but the game of Long and Gardner appeared to be the more finished and precise. It is thought that the latter will meet Clothier and Larned in the semi-finals in the upper division of the draw.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drugs law in its relation to prepared medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to counteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by all druggists.

"I am surprised to find a bear suffering a confinement of some two years, and without even the most ordinary care. Neighbors realize the creature's sad, sad plight, but each dislikes to be the first to move in the matter. The owner, who is a woman, is reported to be cruel indeed."

Miss Martha McConnell, assistant secretary of the society says she would like to help the bear in its "sad, sad plight" but she doesn't see how she can do it.

Special Judge John W. Peterson is another candidate, and George A. Perham, a real estate man, former editor of the Eveleth News, is also one of the likely candidates.

MATT LAKE HELD TO GRAND JURY

He Must Answer for Assault Upon F. Lambella With Knife.

Eveleth, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Lake, who is alleged to have assaulted F. Lambella with a knife, after a preliminary hearing before Judge McInnis yesterday on a second degree assault charge, was held to the grand jury in $1,000 bonds. John Koukey, arrested on the same charge, was given his liberty, the evidence not implicating him.

Lambella, who it is alleged was cut about the arms and chest by Lake with a big pocket knife, was unable to appear but Dr. C. W. More, of the More hospital, stated that the knife wound was a serious one and that Lambella is still being treated at his hospital. The knife entered his chest and severed three cartilages of his ribs, which are as yet not united. His chances for recovery are good if complications do not set in.

Mrs. Lambella Also Cut.

Mrs. Lambella testified that Lake and Lambella, following a quarrel, scuffled, while Koukey stood by and did not interfere. She interfered and was cut about the hands, while her husband, who was about to lift a chair to defend himself from Lake, was badly cut. The defense offered no witnesses but contended that Lake struck Lambella with a knife in self defense, after being ordered to buy some liquor for Lambella, who was intoxicated.

The case of Walter F. McDonald, charged with resisting Chief of Police John J. Farley, on the Fourth of July, while the latter was placing him under arrest, will be tried tomorrow morning before Judge Neil McInnis.

REGULAR SWATFEST.

Gophers Take Last Hibbing Game By 9 to 2 Score.

Hibbing, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the last game of a series of eight played between the Colored Gophers and the Hibbing baseball team, the former defeated the latter yesterday afternoon by the lopsided score of 9 to 2. The contest took on the aspect of a swatfest, nearly every man on both teams getting one or more hits. Grady and Booth for the visitors, were hit freely, although the two former had the better of the argument in the matter of strike-outs. Marshall, manager for the colored boys, got two hits in the game, they being the second and third that he had made in the series. Cameron umpired the contest and his decisions were as raw as they have been throughout the series. Chisholm comes to Hibbing for a game Sunday afternoon.

The score by innings:

Gophers	0	0	2	2	0	0	1	0	4	9	12	1
Hibbing	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	2	9	3

MISTAKEN FOR DEER.

Steamer Engineer Said to Have Killed Farmer's Horses.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mistaking two horses belonging to Sam Martin, a farmer, living near Pokegama for deer, Harry Hill, engineer on the steamer Mayflower, running on Lake Pokegama, is said to have shot and killed the animals. He was arrested by Sheriff Riley. Runnells who is said to have participated in the slaughter of the horses is being sought. It is said the men were violating the law by hunting with headlights and that when the horses were attracted to the lights the men fired supposing they were deer and killed them.

Martin, whose horses were killed, is a poor farmer and without means of securing another team, being thus left in serious plight. Neighbors are planning to assist him.

CANADIAN SOO TO HAVE PAPER MILL

Superior Pulp & Paper Company Starts Work on $4,000,000 Plant.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—All doubts about this city securing the $4,000,000 paper mill of the Superior Pulp & Paper company were removed today when a force of workmen commenced the work of dismantling several buildings on the property recently purchased from the Lake Superior Corporation to make room for the mill.

The new building will be 500 by 180 and will take eighteen months to erect. A new cofferdam is being erected to augment the power which now supplies the pulp mill and the output of pulp will also be increased by another fifty tons per day to supply the paper plant. A battery of fourteen boilers is also to be installed in the old power house of the sulphite mill. The plant will employ about 300 hands. The bonds to the value of about $3,500,000 were floated in London several weeks ago. The industry when complete will represent an investment of nearly $8,000,000.

HAITIEN REBELS PILLAGE TOWN

French Consul Is Slightly Wounded Protecting Local Officers.

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, July 20.—The revolutionists occupied Cape Haitien last night.

The enemy also attacked Fort Liberte as President Simon and his troops withdrew.

The city is at the mercy of the revolutionists and is being pillaged. All the generals opposed to the revolution have found refuge in the foreign consulates. The French consul was slightly wounded while offering protection to the local authorities.

The last of the government's battalions embarked under a shower of lead. The division commanded by General Monpiaisar, governor of Port au Prince, and commander of the federal troops, fought valiantly, but the other forces of the government offered a feeble resistance.

The greater part of the defeated federals are now scattered through the north. The city and the southern districts are quiet.

WISCONSIN NEGRO MAY BE LYNCHED

Man Who Shot Farmer's Daughter Sought By Many Neighbors.

La Crosse, Wis., July 20.—The search for Edward Robinette, a young negro farmhand who last night shot and seriously wounded Sylvia Price, pretty daughter of his employer, who had repulsed his advances, went on all night without result.

In all the townships north of La Crosse on the Wisconsin side of the Mississippi as far as Winona, farm work has practically been suspended while the people have turned out by the thousands to hunt the negro. The district being scoured over covers a distance of thirty miles.

On account of the negro's being wounded and because a colored man is a rarity in this part of the country, it is expected that the fugitive will be captured today without doubt. The fate to be meted out to him depends on whether the officers or the farmers find him first.

Miss Price is better today and is expected to recover.

STOLEN SUGAR FOR PRIVILEGE TO EAT

Grand Forks Driver Alleged to Have Traded Wares for Meal Tickets.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—With possibilities of further arrests on charges of criminal conspiracy and the surrender of James Lambas, accused of being the fence in the case, by his bondsmen, the wholesale sugar stealing cases brought to light in this city by F. L. Colwell, a Minneapolis detective, promise some very interesting developments. Alec Murphy, the driver for the Nash Bros., a wholesale grocery firm, is in jail and has confessed to having stolen about 100 sacks of sugar which he sold to a Greek, Lambas, who runs a restaurant and confectionery store, while Manager W. G. McDonald of the firm claims to have signed confessions from Murphy and another employe which implicate others.

At a conference held yesterday afternoon when Lambas admitted that he had bought the stolen sugar, one of his bondsmen made a dash out the front door to arrange for the surrender and before he was hardly to the street Lambas had dashed through the back door and was speeding down the railroad track. He was apprehended later.

Murphy Needed the Money.

Murphy's arrest was the result of suspicions that had been entertained for nearly two years, ever since he came into the employ of the firm. In an interview he claimed that he needed more money and that the plan of the thievery was suggested by Lambas. At first the Greek exchanged meal tickets for the sugar but later he paid Murphy $2 per sack. He then sold it to almost every confectioner in the city at $5 per sack, instead of the market price, $6.85. Murphy is a young man of about 25 years and has been married but little over a year. He says he will plead guilty when given his hearing Saturday morning. The Lambas hearing has been set for Monday morning and he has already confessed to having bought eighty-five sacks of the sugar and disposed of it. Murphy delivered the sugar by throwing on an extra sack or two when making other loads and leaving it at the restaurant.

A warrant charging larceny was also issued in East Grand Forks for the arrest of Lambas.

URGES SUPPORT OF RECIPROCITY

Senator Stone Says It Means Much to the Nation.

Washington, July 20.—Vigorous support of the Canadian reciprocity by Senators Brown of Nebraska, Stone of Missouri and Works of California, and a short speech against the measure by Senator Kenyon of Iowa, made up yesterday's debate on the measure in the senate.

Senator Stone arraigned the interests, which he said, had been using the farmers for the purpose of attacking reciprocity. He asserted Democrats could find no excuse for not supporting the agreement as introduced by President Taft.

"This is part of a great progressive movement toward a closer commercial alliance with Canada, that will be for the lasting benefit of both countries," he added.

"The president is on the right side, the Democratic house of representatives is on the right side. It will be a pitiful spectacle if the senate should stand as a stumbling block."

He said he had been charged by some Democrats with being an ally of the Republican president.

"I am supporting the measure, not the president," he said. "As soon as it is disposed of, I am afraid my alliance with him will cease, unless he is willing to support some of the Democratic tariff bills."

CLOQUET BOX FACTORY HAS CHANGED HANDS.

Lillibridge of Muscatine having been the manager. C. A. Stafford of the Chicago firm, but formerly of Cloquet, was in Cloquet last week negotiating for the purchase, and the fore part of the week the factory shut down and paid off its help, suspending operations until the new owners shall have taken possession. O. H. Maatch of Chicago will be the resident manager.

FUEL SITUATION IN CANADA IS SERIOUS.

Winnipeg, Man., July 20.—Daily the fuel situation in Western Canada is becoming more alarming, and a serious coal and wood famine is inevitable. Each day's delay in the settlement of the coal miners' strike in Alberta and Eastern British Columbia, on since April, makes the situation more acute.

Many cities, towns and villages are studying the situation closely, for a fuel famine will mean much suffering during the coming winter.

The mines in which the men are on strike supplied a vast territory with coal, which now is being shipped in from Pennsylvania.

ALL HOTELS ARE FILLED

Nothing But Cots Now Left at the City's Hostelries.

Commercial Club Information Bureau Places Many in Private Homes.

The hotels are full to overflowing with people from as far east as Chicago and as far west as Denver, Colo.

They are here for the mid-summer water carnival now on at the Duluth Boat club. The event has been well advertised, for railroad officials say that never in the history of the city have their incoming trains been so crowded.

All the rooms at the local hotels have been taken and it is impossible to get any sort of accommodation at some of them. At the Holland cots in the halls are being given those who come in, but at the Spalding and St. Louis there are no accommodations to be had. Manager Lee of the Spalding has a long list of addresses where people may secure lodging, however, and there is another list at the Commercial club headquarters on East Superior street.

Whole families have come to Duluth to enjoy the carnival. One hotel man says that never in his time has the hotel housed so many families.

Many of those who live in the suburbs have come in and are staying at the hotels during the carnival days. The range has contributed a large number of visitors as have the smaller towns west of Duluth. Many are here from Winnipeg, St. Paul, Minneapolis and several instances of the wide advertising given the carnival are apparent in the presence here of families from Kansas City, Denver, Colo., Chicago and other distant cities.

CHARGES FAMOUS BUST IS A FAKE

MARTIN SCHAUSS.

Martin Schauss is one of the famous sculptors of Germany and an expert in art matters. He recently established a book to prove that the famous "Flora" bust which was bought by Dr. Bode for the Imperial museum in Berlin is bogus. He believes that the bust was not the work of Leonardo da Vinci, but was produced by R. C. Lucas of London from a model made by Torrini in 1845. This is an entirely new view of the subject. Those who had declared the bust to be other than the work of da Vinci have all believed that the model as well as the wax bust were made by Lucas.

Usher at Gould Wedding Captures American Heiress

MILDRED SHERMAN.

—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.
LORD CAMOYS.

Lord Camoys, who came over with Lord Decies for his wedding to Miss Gould, has captured an American heiress. She is Miss Mildred Sherman, the daughter of William Watts Sherman of New York and Newport. It was a great joke between Camoys and his fellow usher, Beresford, which of them had come over to get an heiress. Both have been reported attentive to rich American girls, but Lord Camoys has beaten Beresford in the race. Miss Sherman is one of the "Sherman twins." They are really not twins, but they are so much alike and so closely attached to one another that they suggest twins. Her mother, Mrs. W. W. Sherman, inherited a great fortune from her mother, Mrs. John Carter Brown, a few years ago.

HARD WORKING SPORTSMEN.

The famous Dr. W. F. Carver, who on the last day of August, 1890, broke 1,000 glass balls at Hamburg in 34 minutes, using six repeating rifles, is the holder of the record for having fired off the greatest number of cartridges in the day. It is doubtful, however, says Bailey's Magazine, if any man can claim to have eclipsed the feat of endurance accomplished by Lord Walsingham almost exactly two years before the aforementioned incident.

On Aug. 28, 1872, Lord Walsingham killed to his own gun 824 grouse, which occasioned in all probability, marvelous shot though he be, the use of 1,100 cartridges, but so many people questioned the accuracy of the figures that the famous sportsman resolved to repeat the feat, and this he did sixteen years later on the well known Blubberhouse Moor.

It is now a matter of history that in the course of fourteen hours and eighteen minutes he fired 1,550 cartridges, of which forty were signal shots, and brought down 1,058 grouse. What this feat meant in endurance alone can be gathered from the following calculation:

To fire off a gun with two barrels 1,500 times naturally entails the lifting of the weapon to the shoulder a little short of 800 times, and as the gun would weigh 6¼ pounds and would have to be raised something over two feet on each occasion it is easily ascertained that in the course of his fourteen hour day the record-holder must have exerted as much strength as would be required to raise 2½ tons two feet.

Nor was this all. The recoil of the powder he used, it has been ascertained, would be about thirty pounds a cartridge from which datum it will be perceived that in addition to his other labor he must have sustained an energy of recoil equivalent to lifting twenty tons one foot.

In the autumn of 1901 the kaiser, when shooting over Count Tiele-Winkler's property at Moschen, brought down 928 pheasants in a day out of a total bag of 6,256; that is to say, as the average pheasant weighs three pounds, with the expenditure of over 1,500 cartridges the Emperor William accounted for 1 ton 2 cwt. 92 lbs. of game.

But even this weight was exceeded on that famous occasion at Rudow when shooting over Deputy von Benda's ground he brought down 768 hares that in the aggregate tipped the scale at 2 tons 14 cwt.

It is impossible to refer to a tithe of the occasions upon which the kaiser has fired off over 1,500 cartridges in a day, but one of the most remarkable of his feats was performed in November, 1897. On this occasion he was shooting on Prince Lucknowsky's estate in Upper Silesia, and it was estimated that he killed five pheasants every minute during the day's shooting.

All told the imperial marksman must have fired considerably nearer 2,000 cartridges than one on this occasion, for out of a total bag of 4,244 pheasants falling to the shooting party, no fewer than 1,244 fell to the kaiser's gun. This feat, by the way, was recalled in 1905, when at Schloss Moschen the royal bag amounted to 1,136 pheasants and hares, representing one kill every seventeen seconds. It is not every sportsman who can say with the kaiser that he has in one day shot considerably over twenty times his own weight of pheasants.

Sir Victor Brooks in 1880 laid himself out to fire exactly 1,000 cartridges at the bunnies. This feat he accomplished in the day's shooting, firing one-half of the day from his right and during the other half from his left shoulder, and causing no fewer than 740 members of the rabbit race to bite the dust.

ONE WAY TO BUILD A ROAD.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Everybody is in favor of good roads as an abstract proposition, but when it comes down to the concrete—that is to say, to sand and gravel—there are differences of opinion. Some Kentuckians there are who declare themselves strongly for good roads, but say they do not know how to go about getting them.

One way to go about it has been exemplified recently by the Federated Woman's Club of Brandenburg. The members of that live organization felt the need of a good road from Brandenburg to Weldon, a station on the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railroad. Brandenburg has no railroad and when the citizens of that town go traveling they either take a steamboat or drive over to Weldon to take the train.

Meade county mud possibly is a few degrees worse than the mud anywhere else in Kentucky. The male citizens of Meade have been handling the road question in the same way that many other Kentucky counties have been handling it. Mud multiplied by mud produces more mud, but the male citizens of Meade didn't seem to know it.

The women woke up to the situation first and they determined to "pike" the road from Brandenburg to Weldon. They raised more than $1,200 by private subscription and they asked the fiscal court to do the rest.

The court came across with an appropriation of $3,000 as an evidence of good faith. The road will be completed this summer. Next winter it will be possible to travel from Brandenburg to Weldon without breaking a hamestring or straining a singletree. A wagon will not be a load for a four-horse team, and walking will not be an impossibility when a big thaw comes.

"THAIS."

Los Angeles Times: Frederick Townsend Martin, at a tea at the Hotel Gotham in New York referred with a smile to the many mispronunciations of the title of Massanet's popular opera, "Thais."

"Some pronounce it to rhyme with 'slay us,' he said. "Others make it rhyme with 'face,' with 'baize,' or with 'mice.'

"It all reminds me of a conversation between two young men at the Metropolitan Museum.

"'How do you pronounce that there?' said the first pointing to a statue of the bereaved Psyche. 'Is it "Fizz" or "Fisk?"'

"'It's "Fizz," of course,' said the other young man. 'You don't pronounce the "z" no more than in zink.'"

"But the first young man answered doubtfully:

"'Some, though, calls it "Sike."'"

GOATS IN THE WAY.

Fairbanks Times: Reports from Mineral Gulch are that the mountain goats which infest that section are becoming exceedingly troublesome to the miners. During stormy weather, it is said, they crowd into the tumble that are being driven on the claims well up on the mountains and it is only by throwing a dynamite cartridge into the tunnels in the morning that they can be driven out and the contractors get in to go to work.

It is also stated that they are likely to be the cause of considerable litigation among mine owners next year, as they have destroyed a number of location stakes by eating them. Owing to the fact that alder and willow comprise the only wood in the gulch nearly all the location stakes are of these woods, which in the absence of other food due to the deep snow the goats attack eagerly.

A large number of the animals have been killed by the men at work in the gulch, but the number seems to increase rather than diminish.

ASK PARSONS ABOUT SUGAR

Congressmen Hear His Story of Combine's Organization.

"Real Father of Trusts" Willing to "Take All the Blame."

New York, July 20.—John E. Parsons, former counsel for the American Sugar Refining company, today told the special congressional committee investigating the so-called trust his version of the formation of the sugar combine. He said at first that he was willing to share all the blame, "if there is any."

The mysterious resolution which H. O. Havemeyer put through the board of directors of the American Sugar Refining company in 1891 approving "applications made by political parties" is strangely lost. The committee instructed Secretary Freeman of the company to produce that resolution, but Freeman today opened the proceedings by saying his search for the important paper had been a failure.

"Real Father of Trusts."

Mr. Parsons followed Mr. Freeman on the stand.

"I am willing to take the blame for originating the idea of consolidating the sugar interests into the big company in 1887," said Mr. Parsons.

Mr. Parsons went further, and said that this was the first big combination, even preceding the Standard Oil, and Representative Madison of Kansas remarked:

"Ah, here is the real father of the trusts!"

SATISFIED IGNORANCE.

Los Angeles Times: At the recent French cooks' show in Duluth, Armand Guillenant, a veteran who once cooked for Baron Rothschild, said:

"American cooking would be better if American cooks would take lessons from France. But many American cooks are very independent. They rather remind me, in their independence, of the Senegalese who visited Paris.

"These men, on their return to Senegal, recounted, at a gathering of the tribe, what they had seen. An old woman said:

"'But, chiefs, were you not embarrassed by your ignorance of the language?'

"The head chief frowned and answered haughtily:

"'It's true, as ye say, woman, that we could make neither head nor tail of all their chatter. But what of that, what of that? They were as bad off with our tongue as we with theirs.'"

REMEMBERED THE FAVOR.

Boston Herald: When Senator Charlie Johnson of Maine took the arm of his feeble Republican colleague the other day in the senate and marched up to the clerk's desk, there was in his mind the thought of another meeting between them years ago. The new Democratic senator told about it afterward when seated in his large office across the way from the capitol.

In his early days, just as he was getting through college, Johnson taught school. He was home from a term of teaching, and over at Waterville met Jim Withee of the old Elmwood hotel.

"Want a job," Charlie?" said Jim.

"I certainly do," was the reply.

"Well, I need a night clerk at the Elmwood. Come over and try it," which the future senator did. He had been on the job but a few days when the late evening train brought a crowd of guests. Some pushed to the front and got the best available rooms, and when William P. Frye signed his name there were no good quarters left.

"Awfully sorry, senator," said Night Clerk Charlie Johnson. "We have no rooms such as you ought to have. There's a suite, however, which we keep reserved for the proprietor of the woolen mills. I believe I'll take a chance on putting you in there."

And so it came about that the future Democratic senator from Maine gave his future Republican colleague the best quarters in the house, and everything turned out merrily.

NEW USES FOR RUBBER

The uses of rubber are becoming so varied that the supply must constantly and largely increase in order to meet the demand. Aviation affords a new and ever augmenting field for the consumption of rubber. The tire industry is as yet in its infancy. Food and liquid preparations, which are ever increasing need rubber to keep the jars airtight.

Formerly balloon fabrics were manufactured solely of varnished silks; now rubber coated cottons are coming into use, three piles of which weigh less than five ounces per square yard and stand a far greater strain than varnished silks. The patent pipe lighters have rubber plugs. The shock absorber to reduce vibrations on all kinds of vehicles, as well as machinery, is made of rubber.

Ladies' dresses are trimmed with rubber beads and, according to Daily Consular and Trade Reports, white rubber shoes for evening toilet are becoming fashionable. We have rubber shoes and boots are being manufactured and widely sold. The fuses used in mining will be painted with a rubber solution to avoid misfiring because of dampness.

For taking nails from packing cases a rubber pad has been invented. Trays and dishes used in photography are being made of rubber, and many articles made of papier-mache are giving way to rubber substitutes. The printer and the laundryman are demanding more rubber in the various articles employed in their trades. In submarine vessels it has begun to play a large role, and in shipbuilding generally its use is constantly increasing; covering for the decks of vessels and compound rubber flooring for various buildings is a probability, and even an adulterated rubber is proposed for pavement. Rubber tips for chair legs and toe caps for boots will come into common use.

THE SCHOOL OF MATRIMONY.

Los Angeles Times: Justice Aspinwall of the supreme court of Brooklyn is a bachelor, and in a recent matrimonial case he uttered this bachelor-like epigram:

"If a bachelor contemplating marriage would sit here and listen to these cases, he would probably change his mind and go out and play football."

A married lawyer the other day took the bachelor justice to task.

"It is all right for you to talk about the dangers of matrimony," he said, "but marriage, let me tell you, is a liberal education. A man can learn a lot from his wife."

"Yes; no doubt of that," said Justice Aspinwall. "Many a man, after a year or so of marriage, can sew on buttons and darn socks like all creation."

HUSBAND MAY SPANK WIFE.

Baltimore Sun: After being out for almost twenty-four hours a jury in Judge Vandeventer's court in East St. Louis decided today that a husband has a right to spank his wife. The jury therefore refused to give a divorce to Mrs. Hannah Rebecca Yowell.

Yowell testified that at 2 a. m., July 5 last, he got up and gave his wife "a good spanking," because she had kept him awake for four hours talking to him. He then dressed and went to a neighbor's house and told about it.

"He called me 'red head' when he wanted to make me mad," said Mrs. Yowell, whose auburn locks attracted the eyes of many spectators.

Yowell said that the night he spanked his wife he asked her repeatedly to refrain from her hurricane of words, but the verbal storm lasted for four hours and he was unable to get a wink of sleep.

There is something more than coincidence back of the fact that it is the advertised businesses that succeed, and the unadvertised businesses that fail.

WHEAT HAS AN ADVANCE

Black Rust Reports From Northwest Send Prices Up in All Markets.

Gain in Duluth Is 2¼c--- Linseed Quiet and Strong.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 20.—Serious black rust reports from the Northwest, Minnesota particularly, gave the bulls a leverage today and they used it. July wheat closed 2¼c up in Duluth, while the September option also gained 2¼c. Gains of from 1c to 2c were made in other American markets also. The flurry revived interest in the market and the session was the most active in some time.

The demand for cash wheat continues good and the price holds up at 3c over September in Duluth. Minneapolis also reports a good cash demand, with the price ruling 1½c to 2½c over September.

There was no activity in July wheat on the Duluth board today, and the close was 2¼c up at $1.09½ bid, without trades. September wheat opened ¼c up at 95½c, advanced to 96¾c and then to 97½c, closing at 97½c bid.

The linseed market was quiet and strong. July linseed opened 1c off at $2.08 and jumped to $2.10, the close being $2.10 bid. September linseed opened 1c up at $2.09 and advanced to $2.09, closing at $2.09 asked. October linseed opened unchanged at $1.97 and jumped to $2.00, closing at $2.00 bid.

Durum wheat was 1¾c up, oats off at 42¾c, rye unchanged and corn 1⅞c up at 64¼c.

Wheat closed ¼d lower in Liverpool, unchanged in Antwerp, ⅛c to 2¼ higher in Paris and ¼c lower in Berlin. Broomhall's Argentine agent estimated the wheat shipments this week at 1,200,000 bu. Last week's shipments were 1,544,000 bu and last year they were 1,384,000 bu.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The effect of the late easiness in America was partially reflected with the opening with a decline of ⅛@¼d although the undertone was steady. Following the opening there was good support, especially in October which advanced ¾d and the other options ¼d. Support was induced by the unfavorable reports from India, less favorable political situation and continued bullish reports regarding the American spring wheat outlook. Later heaviness again developed on freer arrivals and pressure of coast cargoes with an absence of a French or German inquiry. Showers are expected in Argentine which will relieve the talk of drouth. At 1:30 p. the market was steady, unchanged to ¼d lower than yesterday.

"Corn opened ¼d lower in sympathy with America but later steadied on fewer speculative offers. The market after the opening was dull."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Firm on Reports of Frost in Canada.

Chicago, July 20.—Frosts alleged to have occurred in the Canadian Northwest hardened the wheat market today. A bullish impulse was also received from the fact that Liverpool showed no response to the previous decline of this side. British traders were reported as being influenced by unfavorable crop advices from India and by pessimistic views regarding the political situation and the American spring wheat outlook. Locally, the improved cash demand acted as an important factor against the bears. Opening prices were the same as last night to ⅛@⅜c higher. September started at 87⅛c to 87¼@87⅜c, a gain of ⅛c to ¼@⅜c, and rose to 87⅝@87⅝c.

Falling off of receipts Southwest developed additional strength. Export sales and better flour trade helped. So did Minnesota and North Dakota reports of black rust. The close was strong, with September 88⅜c a net gain of 1⅝c.

Grasshoppers threatening in Missouri tended to make the corn market stiff. Besides, receipts were light and there was an estimate current that the seven surplus states would yield 236,000,000 bu less than suggested by the latest figures from Washington. September opened ⅛@¼c to ½@⅝c up at 63c to 63¾c, and ascended to 63⅝c.

Further gains resulted from a showing that the season's moisture deficiency is now the greatest ever experienced. The close was strong at 64¾c for September, a net advance of 1⅞@2c.

In oats there was a period of weakness because of statements that thrashing results were exceeding by far what had been expected. Subsequently the market rallied in sympathy with other grain. September started ¼c to ⅝c off at 41c to 41⅜c, and recovered to 42@42⅛c.

Provisions though dull held firm. Initial sales varied from a shade lower to 5c advance, with January delivery $8.20 for lard and $8.00 for ribs. Little was done in pork.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Prices Weaken at Start, Recover, But Drop in Last Hour.

Losses in Some Cases Reach Full Point and Close Heavy.

New York, July 20.—Stocks were unsettled at the opening of the market today, most of the active issues falling well below yesterday's close. The most severe losses were in the local traction shares, which were affected adversely by the unsettlement of the situation after it had been announced that an agreement had been reached in regard to subway contracts. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred dropped 3¼, the common 2⅜ and the 4½ per cent bonds 3½. Manhattan Elevated receded 1½. The largest loss elsewhere was in Canadian Pacific, which fell back 1¼. Reading and Missouri, Kansas & Texas declined ¾, and Erie common and first preferred and Utah Copper ⅝. St. Louis Southwestern preferred advanced a point.

The lower range of prices at the opening attracted buying which stopped the decline and led to a substantial rise. A large part of the early losses was recovered, but the list soon gave way under the influence of a renewed outburst of selling. The movement was directed chiefly against the Interborough-Metropolitan issues. The former, which had rallied nearly 2 points, fell to 4 points below the opening. Brooklyn Rapid Transit, which opened at an advance of ¾ and soon lost its rise, showed renewed strength as Interborough-Metropolitan declined, and gained a point.

Excited trading in the local traction stocks upset the market this morning and was largely responsible for a general weakening of prices throughout the list. Definite announcement yesterday that the city and the Interborough-Metropolitan company had agreed on terms for the awarding of subway contracts strengthened the securities of the company. Over night developments completely changed the situation and the less favorable position of the Interborough was reflected in heavy selling of those securities.

London prices for Americans also were unsettled before the opening here, a factor which exercised a depressing influence. After some irregularity the list grew gradutlly stronger, and by noon most of the active stocks were slightly above yesterday's close. The Interborough securities and Canadian Pacific, however, continued heavy. Unusually large transactions in Interborough-Metropolitan 4½'s were the feature of the bond market. The general bond market was steady.

The market was dull and steady through the afternoon session. Trading fell to a small amount. International Steam Pump lost 1¼c.

The market closed heavy and dull. The list dropped in the last hour under moderate offerings. Declines were general and in some instances amounted to a full point while Canadian Pacific was down two. Final dealings brought slight recovery.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 20.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 to 8 points in response to better cables than expected, reports that continental spinners had been good buyers in Liverpool, continued trade buying in the local market, covering of shorts, and purchases for a reaction. July was relatively weak, while other months held about 6 to 8 points net higher during the middle of the morning.

Your Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, to which was referred petition of C. J. We therefore find that it is unadvisable to change the resolution.

By Alderman Barnes:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND AN ORDINANCE ENT

of one foot outside the outside rails of such tracks. If the company shall either fail or refuse so to fill, grade, pave, re-pave sweep, clean, sprinkle, or keep in repair and free from snow such highways for the respective widths aforesaid, such work may be done by the city, or under its direction, and the cost of expense thereof may, at the option of the city, either be recovered of the company in a civil action or be assessed upon the real or personal property of the company within the corporate limits of the city, and against the company, in the manner provided by law for special assessments against property benefited by public improvements.

Sec. 7. The company shall, at its own expense, construct any new bridges or culverts that may be needed by it in order to lay its tracks and operate its cars under this ordinance. Such bridges or culverts shall be so constructed on plans and specifications that shall be approved by the city engineer before such work of construction is commenced. In case, by reason of the establishment of a grade pursuant to the charter of the city, any bridge or culvert now in place or that may be constructed by the company before such grade is so established, must, in the opinion of the Common Council, be re-constructed to conform to such established grade, the company shall pay to the city such percentage of the total cost of the construction or re-construction of such bridge or culvert as fourteen bears to the total width of the highway in which such bridge or culvert is constructed. The company shall, at its own expense, pave, floor, repair, clean, sprinkle and keep free from snow the floor or pavement of each bridge crossed by its tracks, seven feet in width for each track laid on such bridge, subject to the same provisions and conditions in this ordinance contained in respect to like work or improvement on highways. The company shall provide and keep in repair for the use of the public a sidewalk at least four feet wide, with suitable approaches and railings, on each bridge constructed by the company on a public highway. In case any bridge or culvert needs to be strengthened in order for the company to operate any of its cars over such bridge or culvert, the entire expense of strengthening such bridge or culvert accordingly shall be paid for by the company; but the plans and specifications for the strengthening of such bridge or culvert shall be approved by the city engineer before such work is commenced.

Sec. 8. The city shall have a right to the free use of any poles of the company to carry the police and fire alarm telegraph and telephone system of the city now or hereafter owned by it.

Sec. 9. If the company shall cease to operate cars over any of its tracks or any portion thereof, it shall remove such tracks upon the order of the Common Council. In case such removal is ordered by the Common Council and not made by the company as ordered, the city may remove the same and collect the cost and expense of such removal from the company. In every case of removal of tracks, the company shall restore the highway to the condition of the adjacent portions thereof, at its own expense.

Sec. 10. Any other railway desiring to enter the city with its cars over the tracks of the company shall be given trackage and terminal facilities, equal in use and enjoyment to that of the company, upon such fair and reasonable terms as may be agreed upon by such companies and the city, or as may be determined by the district court of St. Louis county, Minn.; but no contract shall be made to furnish such trackage or terminal facilities to such other company, except with the consent of the Common Council; and a copy of any and all contracts by which the company agrees to furnish trackage or terminal facilities to any other such company shall be filed with the city clerk. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed to prevent the city granting a franchise to any other railway company on any highways of the city.

Sec. 11. The city shall not be held liable by the company for any damage that may be occasioned by the breakage of any gas or water pipes, or from any delays that may be occasioned by the laying or construction of sewers, water or gas pipes or conduits, or from the improvement or repair of any highways. There is reserved to said city the right to take up and remove the rails of said company whenever it shall be necessary for the repair or improvement of the highways, or for the construction or laying of water or gas pipes or conduits or sewers or for other public purposes, in, on or under the highways on which said rails may be laid, and the tracks of said company shall be taken up and re-laid by and at the cost of said company whenever the Common Council may require the same to be done for any of the purposes aforesaid.

Sec. 12. The company shall maintain an office within the business portion of the city at a location satisfactory to the Common Council, and shall not remove its principal office or any books, accounts, original vouchers of receipts and expenditures, or other records, beyond the limits of the city. The company shall continue to be a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Minnesota, and no assignment or transfer of this franchise shall ever be made to, nor shall said railway ever be operated by, any grantee or operator which is not a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Minnesota.

Sec. 13. The rights and privileges hereby granted, and all the provisions of this ordinance, are and shall be subject to the provisions of all ordinances now in force or which may be hereafter enacted by the Common Council of the City in the exercise of its police power; but, without intending to limit or restrict the exercise of such power in any manner or to any extent, the City hereby requires the company, and the company hereby agrees, to be bound by the following provisions, viz:

The fare to be charged for the carrying of either passengers or freight shall at all times be fair and reasonable.

Subject to the foregoing paragraph, the company shall be entitled to charge passengers, during the term of this ordinance, the following rates of fare, to-wit: for a continuous trip in one general direction within the present or future limits of the city, over any railway covered by this ordinance and all extensions thereof, whether owned, leased or operated by the company, the sum of five cents for each passenger five years of age or over; provided that children under five years of age, accompanied by a person paying fare, shall be permitted to ride free. Hand baggage in the possession of passengers and not of a size to obstruct seats or passageways of cars shall be carried free.

The Company shall be required to issue a transfer to each paying passenger demanding the same, so as to enable him to make a continuous trip to his destination to any point within the corporate limits of the city on any railway owned, leased or operated by the Company. Whenever and as soon as any company operating a street railway in the city of Duluth shall notify the Common Council that it is willing to issue transfers to the railway operated by the grantee of this franchise, either free or upon payment by the passenger of an additional fare of less than five cents, the company operating under this franchise shall, and by the acceptance of this ordinance does agree to issue transfers to such other street railway upon the same terms, except that said grantee of this ordinance shall not be obliged to give transfers to any passengers transferred to it.

All poles erected by the Company shall be neat and symmetrical, well painted in such color as the Common Council shall prescribe, and with no electrical apparatus, wire or other attachment thereto less than twenty feet above the surface of the ground.

The Company shall establish and maintain, at such place or places along its lines as the Common Council may direct, suitable passenger and freight stations.

The Council may prescribe the style of rail to be laid.

The Common Council shall have the right to determine the speed at which cars may be operated.

All cars shall be equipped with efficient and serviceable fender devices, head-lights and sand boxes.

Said cars shall at all times be kept clean and in good repair, and shall be thoroughly ventilated.

All cars shall be kept well heated, and illuminated in such manner as the Common Council may prescribe.

Each car shall bear appropriate and conspicuous signs upon both its sides and front end, so placed as to indicate, both day and night, the route and destination of such car.

Conductors shall distinctly announce to passengers the names of all highways crossed, as the cars approach the same, and they shall observe the same rule when nearing the track or station of any other railway company.

Cars shall run as often and at such hours as the Common Council may determine; but fares on cars operated after 12 o'clock midnight and before 5 o'clock a. m. may be double the ordinary maximum single fare rates.

After July 1, 1916, the inner rail of any track of the Company shall be within two feet nine inches of the center line of any highway in which it is laid, and in case any such rail is laid in a different location prior to said date, the Common Council shall, after said date, have the power to cause the same to be changed in order to comply with this provision.

After July 1, 1916, all poles, wires, rails, cars, and other equipment of the Company shall be of first class material and workmanship and of the best style and class used by street railways in other cities.

The Company is hereby authorized and permitted to operate funeral cars, and separate cars for the use of the United States Postoffice department for the carriage of mail, and chartered cars for private parties.

No freight train consisting of more than two cars in addition to the motor shall be permitted to run on any highway, except between the hours of 8 p. m. and 6 a. m. Freight cars will not be permitted at any time to stop on highway crossings. The carrying of mail or freight shall not in any manner hinder or delay passenger cars, and places for the delivery of mail and freight must be so situated that the stopping of the cars used for such purposes while loading and unloading will not needlessly obstruct highways or hinder or delay traffic.

Sec. 14. The company shall furnish to the Common Council a full and complete statement of its plant and appliances and of the cost and value of the same, verified by two of its general officers, within sixty days after the completion of said plant. The company shall file annually, on the first Monday in February of each year, in the office of the city comptroller, a statement subscribed and sworn to by two general officers of said company setting forth in detail for the preceding calendar year, the then actual cost of the plant or business operated by said company, the actual encumbrances, debts and obligations of said company, if any, the amount of stock issued and to whom issued and the consideration thereof, the gross earnings, the expenses and nature thereof, the net income after deducting all proper costs and expenses, the names and residences and the amount of stock of all stockholders of the company; if any bonds have been redeemed and not cancelled, that fact shall also be stated. The city shall at all times have right of access to the books, papers and records of the company, and the Common Council may from time to time designate, by resolution, representatives of the city to make examination of the books, papers and records of the company, that the Common Council may be able to verify the statement hereinabove required to be made by the company.

Sec. 15. In case said company is now or shall at any time hereafter become amendable or subject to any state law relative to interurban or other railways, the company by the acceptance of this ordinance and franchise, agrees to also be bound by all of the provisions of this ordinance and subject to the supervision and control of the city, as provided for by the terms of this ordinance. In the event that the rights, franchises and privileges granted to the company by this ordinance shall hereafter be extended by act of the legislature, or any other authority superior to the city, beyond the term herein fixed and defined, or the company shall be authorized to continue to operate its railway within the corporate limits of the city beyond the restrictions and limitations of this ordinance, all rights, privileges and reservations of and to said city contained in this ordinance shall continue in full force and effect during the period that said company may be authorized to or shall operate a street railway within the corporate limits of the city beyond the term for which said rights, franchises and privileges are authorized by the provisions of this ordinance.

Sec. 16. No sale or assignment shall be made of the franchise herein provided for to any person, firm or corporation, nor shall any purchase by or transfer to said company, its successors or assigns, be made of any other street railway plant, franchise or right in operation in said city, without the consent of the City of Duluth, duly expressed by ordinance; and in the event of any such sale, assignment, purchase or transfer being made, without such consent as aforesaid, or of the making of any assignment for the benefit of creditors, or of becoming the subject of any insolvency or bankrupt proceedings, or the allowing of a judgment to remain unsatisfied of record against the company for the period of sixty days without any appeal being taken therefrom, or if an appeal shall be taken and such judgment, affirmed, the allowing of such judgment to remain unsatisfied for the period of sixty days from the date of such affirmance, then and in any such case, the franchises, rights and privileges hereby granted shall terminate and become void at the option of the Common Council.

Sec. 17. The company shall forever indemnify and save harmless the city against and from all damages, judgments, decrees, costs and expenses which the said city may suffer, or which may be recoverable from or obtained against the city by or by reason of the granting of the rights and privileges hereby conferred upon the company, or for or by reason of or growing out of or resulting from the exercise by the company of the rights and privileges hereby granted or any of them, or from any act or acts of the company, its servants or agents, under or by virtue of the provisions of this ordinance; and to secure the performance of this section the city shall have a first and paramount lien on all the property of the company.

Sec. 18. The company, by the acceptance of this ordinance, agrees to faithfully observe and perform, all and singular, the covenants and conditions required to be kept and performed by it. If the company shall wilfully fail, neglect or refuse to observe and perform the conditions imposed by this ordinance, or shall not comply with the reasonable regulations of the city in respect to the operation of its street railway, or shall fail to maintain said street railway in a good state of efficiency, and such failure, neglect, refusal or default shall continue for a period of ninety days from and after the adoption of a resolution by the Common Council declaring said default, neglect or refusal on the part of the company, then and in such event the city shall have the right to immediately institute legal proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction within and for St. Louis county, Minnesota, to have a forfeiture declared and enforced against the company, and all rights of the company granted under this ordinance or exercised by it shall be terminated by proper decree of forfeiture, and the rights of the city reserved in this ordinance fully conserved.

Sec. 19. Wherever the words "the company" are used in this ordinance the Suburban Traction company is referred to, and wherever the words "the city" are used the city of Duluth is referred to.

Sec. 20. This ordinance shall take effect thirty days after the publication thereof, as provided by Sections 460 and 461 of the charter of the city.

ELEVEN MONTHS AGO

Who has not read that charming and quaintly told tale of Dutch life, "Rip Van Winkle," from the pen of Washington Irving?

"Rip" fell asleep in the Katskill Mountains, awakening twenty years later; and, after picking his way painfully back, found the village changed almost beyond recognition, nearly every landmark gone.

If one had fallen asleep eleven months ago in Colman's Addition at Woodland, and awakened today, the senses would be astounded at the marvelous changes wrought here in this short time.

Where, less than a year ago, virgin forest and tangled brush grew in wildest confusion, today many comfortable homes are picturesquely set; where then solemn silence was unbroken save for the sound of forest creatures, today the voices of children in gleeful play, and the sounds of a hundred men at work, fill the air with gladness and vibrant activity.

Twenty Thousand Dollars are being spent now, for home building, water and gas-main laying. Being most favorably situated—no lot lying more than three blocks from the car line—it will be only a very short while before home-builders, wishing to locate in this ideal, desirable home-center, will be too late. Arrangements with us must be made at once. Come today.

FORCEFUL FACTS WORTH REMEMBERING:
Colman's Addition is the Fastest Growing Addition in Duluth. A wilderness less than a year ago—today the site of many new homes. Graded Streets.. Water. Sewer. Telephone. Electric Light. No lot lies more than three blocks from the street car line.

Prices, $175 to $300. Easy terms, $1.50 to $2.50 a week. No interest—no payments when sick.

HOW TO GO:
Take Woodland car, get off at Winona Street, walk two blocks West.

Call at the log cottage and we will gladly show you over the addition.

THE SCENE OF DULUTH'S GREAT WATER FESTIVAL

MAIN HOUSE OF THE DULUTH BOAT CLUB WHE RE MAIN FEATURES OF CARNIVAL TAKE PLACE.

WINNIPEG AND ST. PAUL OARSMEN ARRIVE IN CITY

Canadian City Sends a Delegation of Sixty-Five Men.

St. Paul Club Has Thirty-Five —Fort William Crew Coming.

(BY BRUCE.)

One of the chief matters of interest today with those who follow rowing was the arrival of the big delegations of visiting oarsmen from the Winnipeg Rowing club and the Minnesota Boat club.

The Winnipeg men came in on a special sleeper over the Canadian Northern and the Messabe. The St. Paul athletes arrived at 6:30 this morning.

There is confidence in the camps of the two big delegations. Lateness in getting their shell off the train and into the boat house, and also an accident to one of the St. Paul shells, accounted for the failure of any of the visitors to get on the water until very late this afternoon and so far there has been very little chance to get a line on the visitors.

The Winnipeg men say they have a very strong junior eight. St. Paul men are conservative, but say that the juniors are a scrappy bunch, are up to the standard and should give a good account of themselves.

The St. Paul men count on Monty Cochran to win the senior singles. They also believe that the senior eight and the senior four will make the boat that beats them travel awfully fast.

Strong Senior Eight.

From all the information that could be gathered this morning, Winnipeg has a well trained and well balanced senior boat. The boat is made up of men famous in the Northwestern rowing circles, and in some instances internationally famous. Without being in the least over-confident, it is very easy to see by the manner of the Winnipeg men, that they are counting on their senior eight for first place on Saturday.

St. Paul has some fast bantams, if the statement of the rowing men is correct. The bantles are light but have been going very well. The St. Paul men expect their little boys to row a good race.

Simmering the general dope in the air, though it is nothing but dope pure and simple at the present time, it is generally believed that the race in the junior eight event is going to be between Duluth and Winnipeg.

It is also generally believed that the Winnipeg senior eight should win the senior race, though this does not mean that there is not a lot of confidence that Duluth has a great show for first place in this event.

Winnipeg will go to the mark favorite in the senior four event. Duluth's banties will carry a lot of confidence in their race, and outside oarsmen are also inclined to think they should win.

Winnipeg has fifty men here all told with fifteen more coming tomorrow, and St. Paul has thirty-five. Fort William will be down tomorrow, and report says that the four from there is very fast.

Predictions on all sides point to faster races and greater interest than was the case last season at Kenora. It is believed that the crews in general are faster and that the races will be the best contested for years.

One of the Canadian clubs will get the 1912 regatta, it being the rule of the association to alternate between Canada and the United States, so that the place of the next regatta will probably lie between Winnipeg and Fort William.

There is a reunion of the old boys today. Oarsmen and officials from the various clubs are greeting each other on the big float in front of the boat house. The colors of the clubs mingle and bargains for trading shirts are already being made.

It is the same old spirit of clean and gentlemanly athletics. They are a fine lot of men represented in the various clubs, and the races of Friday and Saturday promise to evoke a wonderful amount of enthusiasm.

ADHESIVE STAMPS CANNOT BE USED

Postal Department Will Not Deliver Letters With Imitation Stamp on Envelope.

The local postal authorities have received notice from the department at Washington that hereafter no letters bearing adhesive stamps other than postal stamps on the address side of the envelope will be received for delivery.

Letters with stamps of any design or form other than the regular postage stamps on the front of an envelope will be returned to the sender if he is known, otherwise they will be turned over to the dead letter office at Washington.

Adhesive stamps of any kind, as long as they are not a menace to the department, can be pasted on the back of the envelope, and the letter will be delivered. It is claimed that many stamps are made and pasted on the front of the envelopes, which are imitations of the regular United States stamps, of one denomination or another, and these are confusing to the mail clerks who handle them.

MUCH MEAT IS CONDEMNED

Inspector Orders Over Half a Ton Sent to the Local Incinerator.

Meat Inspector Leo Bernhardt yesterday condemned slightly over 1,000 pounds of meat which was found to be unfit for human consumption. This is the largest amount of meat which has been condemned in a single day in the city this year.

Part of it came from the wholesale houses and part from the retailers. All of it was sent to the incinerator. Some of it was veal, some beef trimmings used for sausage and some corned beef.

Inspector Bernhardt states that conditions in local shops have shown a great improvement since last summer. More attention is being paid to keeping out flies with close fitting screen doors and the meats are being protected with netting. The blocks and the tools are being kept better, while in several shops new ice boxes are being installed.

NO DANGER OF CHOLERA HERE

All Possible Cases Being Closely Watched By State and City Officials.

The local health officials will watch carefully for any possible cases of cholera which might come into Duluth from the infected European districts. In case any one entering the country on ships from those districts embarks for Duluth the local officials will be notified of the fact, with the name, description and the names of the persons whom they are to meet here. In this way it will be possible to keep close track of them. If they become affected by the disease it will have developed before they reach this city. The health authorities say that there is not the slightest cause for apprehension.

Dr. Bracken of the state board of health is also keeping posted as to the situation and is working in conjunction with the city and federal authorities.

HERALD EXCURSIONS FOR NEXT WEEK

Trips to Fond du Lac Monday, and to Two Harbors on Wednesday.

Next Monday The Herald will offer the public another opportunity to enjoy a bargain excursion. The trip is the regular Monday ride up the beautiful St. Louis river to Fond du Lac, the famous Indian trading post, the magnificent resort where every summer thousands spend their vacations.

The excursion will be made on the new steamer Columbia, one of the handsomest excursion boats on the Great Lakes. It is of solid steel, and is swift and safe, and will accommodate 1,000 passengers without crowding or inconvenience. The boat will leave the dock at the foot of Fifth avenue west at 9 o'clock in the morning and returning, leave Fond du Lac at 4 in the afternoon.

For a family gathering at Fond du Lac on a week day no better offer could be made than that from The Herald. The round trip, if the tickets are secured in advance from The Herald office, is only 25 cents, or one half of the regular fare. This gives the people of Duluth and vicinity and the many visitors, a chance to enjoy a great recreation at a very moderate price.

The regular trip to Two Harbors on the Steamer Easton, of the Booth line, will be made on Wednesday next week instead of Thursday as heretofore. The boat will leave at 4 o'clock in the afternoon from Booth's dock, at the foot of Lake avenue, and will return by moonlight at 9 o'clock.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF LANDS

Indians Benefited By Work of Forest Reserve, According to Report.

The annual report of Capt. William O'Neil, superintendent of logging, located at Cass Lake, brings forth the evidence that the Indian of today is receiving his full share from the United States government. The report includes information regarding work done in timber business since the passing of the Morris bill in the session of 1903-1904.

The cost of cutting the timber, and all other necessary work in connection with lumbering industry there since the bill was passed, amounted to $253,496.44, or 4.3 per cent of the total receipts, which were $5,891,052.86. This cost was borne by the Indians, the balance going to their credit.

An interesting fact developed from the report is that the overrun in excess o fthe government estimate amounted to 312,578,136 feet, which the Indians would not have been paid for had the lumbermen secured the right to cut it.

Since the passage of the bill to July 1, this year, 903,389,213 feet of timber have been cut, there remaining about 350,000,000 feet standing. The government forest reserve, for which the Indians will be paid, is estimated at 100,000,000 feet. The timber cut for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1911, was 80,666,600 feet.

WOULD RAISE RED RIVER.

Two Cities Favor Dam to Insure Adequate Water Supply.

East Grand Forks, Minn., July 20.—At a meeting held in this city yesterday afternoon, preliminary plans were laid for the co-operation of this city and Grand Forks in a plan that will bring about the construction of a dam across the mouth of the Red Lake river to raise the level of the water to such a point where uniform supply for both cities will be insured. Both East Grand Forks and Grand Forks gain their water from the Red Lake river, and the two waterworks committees of the cities held a joint session to consider the proposition and lay plans for the proposed work. These plans were agreed to and will be carried out within the next few weeks if possible.

BIG COMBINES TO BE SPLIT UP, DECLARES ATTORNEY GENERAL

Wickersham Says Trusts Cannot Reorganize and Proceed as Before.

Supreme Court Decisions Mean That All Monopolies Must Cease.

Tells of Fight Waged Against the White Slave Traffic.

Hancock, Mich., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big trusts, whose dissolution was ordered by the decisions of the United States supreme court, will not be reorganized and continue business as before, asserted Attorney General Wickersham in his address here this afternoon. No one should be led to believe any talk to the contrary, he said emphatically.

The department of justice interprets the decisions to mean that the Standard Oil and Tobacco trusts must be split into a number of separate and distinct parts, and no one part shall have so large a percentage of the business as to be anything like a monopoly. Nothing less, he asserted, will meet his interpretation of the supreme court's decisions, which means that the department of justice will see that the trusts obey the court's orders in that respect.

The attorney general's speech was delivered at the Hancock home-coming celebration, which brought many former Hancock people to the city, and was listened to by a large gathering.

Goes Down Into Mine.

On his way here, Mr. Wickersham stopped at Calumet and visited the mines and smelters, going underground at the Calumet & Hecla mine. In an interview he expressed himself as pleased at the stand taken in Northern Michigan in favor of Canadian reciprocity and expressed confidence that after a year's trial the country would not desire to repeal the measure, which is certain to be passed by the senate. He declined to discuss the situation regarding Dr. Wiley, claiming that he had no knowledge of the case.

Mr. Wickersham's address this afternoon was as follows:

Fellow-Citizens of Hancock: I have just been to Duluth to talk to the Minnesota lawyers. It is always comparatively easy to talk to men of one's own craft. We speak a common language and deal in similar problems. But it is

McMANIGAL IS DESERTED

Wife and Relatives Refuse to Have More Talks With Him.

Effort to Call Strike of Miners During Trial Fails.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 21.—Ortie E McManigal, alleged confessed dynamiter and informer against the McNamara brothers, has been abandoned by some of his relatives because he repeats all their conversations with him to the prosecution, according to a statement made yesterday by his uncle, George Behm.

Behm, who is a locomotive engineer of Portage, Wis., and who cared for McManigal from the time he was an infant until he was 18 years old, has visited his nephew only once since he arrived in Los Angeles. Behm declared his intention of not visiting him again in his cell in the county jail because "he tells all that's said to him to the detectives for the prosecution."

Behm's stand has been taken also by Mrs. McManigal, who has not called upon her husband for weeks. It is said that she and her children will remain away from him.

Behm Tells of Visit.

Of his visit to his nephew, Behm said:

"When I went up to see him I did not make any reference to his alleged confession. He brought the subject up, but said little about it. He seemed to be in fear for his life after the trial, and said he feared he might be shot by some union men or by detectives. He seemed doped or crazy."

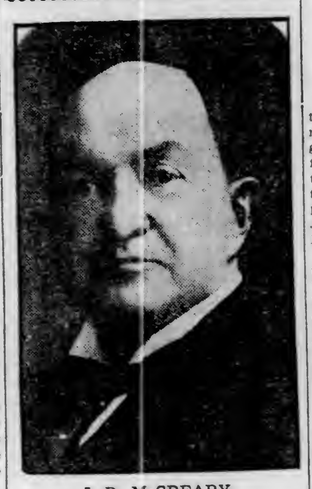

Behm was called before the grand jury for a few minutes yesterday, but was excused until July 31, as the inquisitors were busy with investigations of other matters.

Strike Plan Fails.

Butte, Mont., July 21. — The proposal to declare a general strike in this country and Canada on the day the trial of the McNamara brothers opens in Los Angeles, was voted down 172 to 124 after a heated discussion at the convention of the Western Federation of Miners.

It was finally voted to levy a monthly assessment of 25 cents on each member, the assessments to continue as long as the executive board deemed the money necessary, for the purpose of a defense fund.

BOOMED AS MATE FOR WOODROW WILSON

J. B. McCREARY.

Lexington, Ky., July 21.—Former Senator J. B. McCreary has been nominated by the Democrats for governor, and now they are discussing him as a possible nominee for vice president on the ticket with Woodrow Wilson Bryan, in his list of possible candidates, has named McCreary, but he has also named Beckham, Watterson, and James of that state as presidential timber. Wilson recently was in Lexington in consultation with McCreary.

CLASP HANDS AT BULL RUN

Blue and Gray Together Celebrate Jubilee of First Battle.

Recall Day When Washington Lay at Enemies' Mercy.

Manassas, Va., July 21.—The Blue and the Gray marched across the fields of Manassas to meet each other again today. This incident, unique in history, the meeting of Federal and Confederate veterans on the field where they fought a mighty battle just fifty years ago, attracted as witnesses visitors from many states.

It was the crowning feature of the Manassas peace jubilee and reunion, which began last Sunday with a sermon on the court house lawn by Rev. H. N. Couden, chaplain of the house of representatives, who lost his sight while serving in the Union ranks.

President Taft and Governor Mann long ago had accepted invitations to be the guests of honor of the day, to review the lines of gray haired veterans and make addresses in the afternoon. In the evening they will meet the old soldiers and other visitors at a public reception.

Program for the Day.

The following program had been ar-

NO NEW CHOLERA CASES ARE FOUND

Conditions at Port of New York Are Much More Hopeful.

New York, July 21.—The federal and state physicians and bacteriologists down the harbor guarding the country from a threatened invasion of cholera were encouraged today by the fact that no cases of the disease have been found thus far among the latest arrivals from Italy. Twenty-four hours have elapsed since the steamer Principe Di Piemont, from Genoa and Naples, entered quarantine, and the official report today said no further developments of the disease had appeared.

In preparation for two more ships soon to arrive from the Mediterranean, Health Officer Doty is increasing his force of experts, for under the latest government order every arrival from Italy must undergo bacteriological examination.

Dr. Doty today denied charges made at the state investigation of his administration that he had failed to report cases of cholera when they first appeared here.

"I want the people to know all about the cholera situation," he said.

At Swinburne island, where the cholera patients are confined, no further deaths have been reported since that of Francesca Arcordia, which occurred yesterday afternoon. She was an Italian immigrant and a steerage passenger on the steamer Moltke.

"TREATY OF BEVERLY"

Arbitration Pact May Be Signed at Summer Capital.

President Hopes to Have France Included in Its Terms.

Washington, July 21.—For the second time within a decade New England may claim the birthplace of one of the great treaties that make world history, for it may be that the general arbitration treaty will be known as the treaty of Beverly, just as the peace pact concluded between Russia and Japan was known as the treaty of Portsmouth.

It was intended that the arbitration convention should be signed in Washington, and, indeed, hope has not been abandoned that this may be the case. But events are shaping so that it would not be surprising if the delays arising in the closing days of the negotiations should make it impossible to conclude them before President Taft leaves for his summer home in Massachusetts.

Seek French Assent.

Although the British government has already practically given its assent to the treaty, it is the wish of the president and Secretary Knox that this important agreement be given a truly international character, which can be had only by the adherence of more than two of the great powers. This desire has been made known to the French government, and Ambassador Jusserand, now in Paris, is laboring to induce his foreign office to give its assent to the adherence of France. If this is assured in the immediate future, it is entirely possible that the ceremony of signing the treaty will be deferred long enough to permit Mr. Jusserand to hasten to America to place his name upon it.

The president has shown so much interest in the subject that he doubtless would be desirous of witnessing the conclusion of the treaty.

ELECTRICAL STORMS BURST IN NEW YORK.

New York, July 21.—Two electrical storms burst over New York early today. Several buildings were struck by lightning and there were calls for the fire department, but there was no serious damage.

When lightning ran through a big apartment house in Brooklyn it caused a panic and drove nearly 100 occupants out into the rain, many in their night clothes. Physicians were called to attend several hysterical women.

SECRETARY NAGEL IS TO GO TO HOUGHTON.

Washington, July 21.—President Taft today designated Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel to represent the administration at the celebration of the school of mines at Houghton, Mich., Aug. 8.

C. F. WIEHE IS QUIZZED ABOUT HINES, COOK, O'BRIEN AND LORIMER

Admits He May Have Said Hines Talked Too Much.

Taft Campaign Fund Dragged Into the Senate Hearing.

Shields of Superior Named as Affidavit Collector for Hines.

Washington, July 21.—C. F. Wiehe, secretary of the Edward Hines Lumber company of Chicago and brother-in-law of Edward Hines, was subjected to a detailed cross-examination today before the senate Lorimer committee as to the part he and Edward Hines, president of the company, took in the Lorimer election.

Attorney J. H. Marble, for the committee, directed attention to the night when Wiehe asked W. H. Cook and William O'Brien, at Hines' request, to keep out of the way while the grand jury was in session in Chicago.

"Did you know it was a violation of the law to advise persons to avoid subpoenas?" asked the attorney.

"I didn't think about it at that time, I was just a messenger for Mr. Hines."

Asks About Subpoenaes.

Chairman Dillingham wanted to know whether, as a matter of fact, subpoenaes for Cook and O'Brien had been issued. Attorneys for Hines stated they had not been, but Senator Kern led the witness to say that Hines said to him that night that he was advised subpoenaes had been issued.

"Did you say that night that Mr Hines was talking too much about the

AGAIN WIDOW OF SUICIDE

Mrs. James T. Dunn's Second Husband Takes His Own Life.

Head of Novelty Concern Said to Have Worried Over Marital Troubles.

Philadelphia, July 21.—A man identified by the police as James T. Dunn, head of a novelty concern bearing his name, with offices in this city, committed suicide last night in an Atlantic City hotel. Dunn was married to Mrs. "Dixie" Rosenbaum of San Francisco, whose first husband killed himself some years ago.

Dunn went to the resort yesterday and registered at a hotel on Pacific avenue. He failed to appear during the day and a hotel attache was sent to investigate. The door of his room was forced and Dunn was found lying fully dressed on the bed. He had shot himself.

While no definite cause for his suicide is known, it is believed that matrimonial difficulties were responsible. He had been separated from his wife, Mrs. Sarah M. Dunn of New York, since October, 1909. A suit for the alienation of her husband's affections against

WILEY CASE MAY GO OVER SUNDAY

Secretary Wilson Says He Will Not Hurry to Decide It.

Washington, July 21.—The Wiley case probably will not be settled until next week. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson declared before the cabinet meeting today that it would take him several days more to go through the papers in the case.

"This is a highly important matter and one which I am not going to hurry through. I may make a report this week, but I doubt it."

"SMELTER TRUST" IS NO TRUST AT ALL

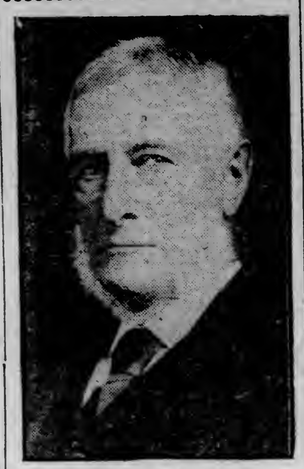

New York, July 21.—The investigation into the affairs of the American Smelting & Refining company, to determine whether the so-called "Smelter trust" is in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, has been dropped.

United States District Attorney Wise said today that he had investigated the complaints against the "Smelter trust" and found them without foundation.

ADVISES LETTING THE TRUSTS ALONE

JOHN E. PARSONS,
Former President of the American Bar Association, Former Counsel for the Sugar Trust and "Father of all American Trusts."

DON'T WORRY OVER TRUSTS

Parsons Tells Congressmen They Will Take Care of Themselves.

Opposes Regulation and Limit on Capital—Scores Gary's Theories.

New York, July 21.—"All such wrongs right themselves," was the reassurance John E. Parsons gave the sugar trust investigators today when they asked him how to curb the big corporations.

When the former attorney of the American Sugar Refining company took the stand again, Representative Asher C. Hinds inquired:

"As probably the world's most eminent expert on these matters, what would you suggest that a sovereign government can do to prevent these great combinations of capital from the extravagances they have exhibited in the past?"

"My theory is, and it is supported by the greatest economic writers, that all such wrongs right themselves," replied Mr. Parsons. "If there is too much water in the stock, that will take care of itself. The government cannot in equity interfere in private affairs. There should be no limit to capitalization so long as it is not injurious or fraudulent."

Proud of Trust Work.

"I certainly claim to be the pioneer in the formation of the American trust," said Mr. Parsons in answer to another question. "I am very proud of it."

At the start of the congressional investigation today, Charles R. Heike, former secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, declared his ignorance of the mysterious resolution passed by the board of directors in which H. O. Havemeyer said the company should take action relative to "injurious litigation and hurtful legislation and appeals from each of the political parties."

Heike said that the late John E. Searles was the secretary, and did not

CRUISER RUSHED TO HAITI PORTS

Government Forces at Port au Prince Are Reinforced.

Washington, July 21.—Impressed with the need of quick action to protect American interests in Haiti, Commander Benton C. Decker had his scout cruiser Chester coaled during the night and sailed from Bradford, R. I., for Cape Haitien at 3 o'clock this morning, less than twelve hours after he had received orders detaching the Chester from the war game in Long Island sound. The Chester will maintain an average speed of twenty knots an hour and is expected to arrive at Cape Haitien Monday night.

Get Reinforcements.

Port au Prince, Haiti, July 21.—The government, strengthened by 1,000 men who arrived during the night from the South on a German steamer, has organized a resistance to the revolutionists, who are threatening the capital from the North.

President Simon is directing the defence of the palace. Gen. Sylvain, the new secretary of the interior, has taken command the government troops concentrated at the port of Archahale, several miles northwest of Port au Prince, and into which district the rebels are swarming.

The towns that are in arms are forming revolutionary committees composed chiefly of the following of Gen. Antenor Firmin, leader of the revolt of 1902, who recently fell out with President Simon and has since been suggested as the next incumbent of the presidential chair.

The American gunboat Petrel arrived here today.

The foreign residents have raised the colors of their respective countries over their homes.

PROGRAM IS CARRIED OUT AS PLANNED

Rough Water Keeps Down Number of Entries in Motor Boat Races.

Venetian Fete in Evening a Scene of Wondrous Beauty.

Ideal Weather and Tremendous Crowd for Big Spectacle.

TODAY'S BIG FEATURES.

Afternoon—Sailing races and opening of rowing regatta.
Evening—Marine spectacle.

Starting yesterday afternoon under a fearful handicap imposed by the stern and intractable weather man, the first day of the Duluth carnival and water fete terminated in a blaze of glory last evening.

Perhaps those occupying the seats in the grand stand and along the line of the finish may have been rather disappointed because of the failure to pull off the full program. The adverse weather conditions and not the officials of the carnival should be held responsible for any failure to carry out the full program, however.

All three of the motor boat races were started, but because of the high sea all of the entrants did not start. It required grit and nerve and perseverence, not to mention a seaworthy boat to weather the high sea of yesterday afternoon, and it was quite impossible to hold the canoe races and some of the other sports.

With the going down of the wind with the sinking of the sun, the evening program was carried out in all its glory, far outstripping all previous efforts of the club.

With the splendid success achieved by the club last evening, the Venetian parade would have been even larger and more imposing had the wind and rain of the afternoon not spoiled the

CAMORRISTS SEE EXCITING DOINGS

Lawyers Disagree, Others Run, Witnesses Are Ousted and One Man Has Fit.

Viterbo, Italy, July 21.—The most violent scene of the Camorrist trial to date was provoked today by a personal dispute between Capt. Fabroni and Lawyer Lioy. In the tumult all the other lawyers fled from the room, Enrico Alfano and Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer, were thrown out bodily by the carabineers, Giovanni Bartolozzi fell in a fit, and President Bianchi, helpless to maintain order, declared the session adjourned.

COUNTY WILL GET $4,300

State Highway Commission Will Divide $100,000 in March.

St. Louis County Among Those That Get Generous Amounts.

St. Paul, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the disbursement through the state highway commission of $100,000 next March to fifty-four counties of the state, the famous "pork barrel" appropriations for 1908-1909 will be cleaned up.

The 1907 legislature appropriated $400,000, of which $200,000 was to have been paid out of the revnue fund in 1908 and a similar amount in 1909, to aid certain counties in the building of roads and bridges. This appropriation was attacked at the time most bitterly by part of the press of the state

Counties receiving generous appropriations are:

Beltrami, $3,225
Blue Earth, $6,000.
Dakota, $4,050.
Jackson, $4,700.
Mille Lacs, $4,200.
St. Louis, $4,300.

The balance of the fifty-four counties will receive amounts ranging from $3,000 to $4,000. Swift county had $4 coming when the supreme court clamped the lid on the "pork barrel."

This $100,000 will be expended for road and bridge work under the supervision of the state highway commission.

CANADIANS IN PRACTICE

Winnipeg Crews Get Boats on Water for Morning Row.

Visitors Are Freely Backing Their Crews for Afternoon Races.

(BY BRUCE.)

Early this afternoon a high pitch of interest developed in the outcome of the battle between the junior eights of Duluth, St. Paul and Winnipeg.

Always willing to back their crews, the Winnipeg men are this morning freely offering money on the chances of their junior eight either against the Duluth crew or the men from the Minnesota Boat club.

Shortly before noon the Peggers got their eight out on the water and rowed out through the canal and into the lake, thus avoiding the heavy and choppy going which, unless the wind goes down before the races of this afternoon, will make the race a severe test of good watermanship.

The Canadians sure do look like one of the best junior eights the men from the Winnipeg Rowing club have sent to any of the Northwestern regattas for some years.

Their catch is strong and there is a lot of power in the boat. They swing together and the boat seems to travel very smoothly. As the Winnipeg crew swung from the float this morning it won the admiration of the dope gatherers lounging on the float in front of the boat house.

Going out from the new shell house, the Duluth junior eight this morning took a final row before the big race of this afternoon.

The men looked well, better than any crew the Duluth Boat club has sent to a regatta for some years, and judging from the going of the two boats there is little to choose between Duluth and Winnipeg.

St. Paul men are betting on their eight against both Duluth and Winnipeg and seem confident that at least the Minnesota Boat club oarsmen have a very excellent chance for first place.

There are few bets being made against Riley and Aldous in the senior doubles. The Winnipeg men are confident that this pair will cop over Davis and Cochran and there are apparently few willing to risk good American dollars against this opinion.

Backing Bantams.

The St. Paulites are backing their bantams, though in this race the opinion seems to prevail that the Duluth boys have a most excellent chance to win.

Foley continues to rule the favorite in the junior singles. McGuckin and Taylor were out this morning, but Foley didn't like the looks of the water and didn't take his shell out.

There is a schedule meeting of the executive committee of the regatta association this afternoon. The annual meeting of the officials may also come up sometime this afternoon. In the event of the annual meeting taking place the selection will be made for the place of the next annual regatta.

There is a possibility that the races this afternoon may be delayed until late because of the rough water. The troublesome wind of yesterday was in evidence shortly after 10 o'clock and at noon had showed little signs of abating.

Rough water should favor the local oarsmen. They are used to rowing in choppy water, while the Winnipeg and St. Paul men, rowing on the river courses, have been trained on smooth going.

St. Paul and Winnipeg officials went over the course this morning in the launch and mapped out in their minds the best way to row the mile-and-a-half course that slants slightly in from a point out in the bay to the angle formed by the corner of the tennis court.

While both St. Paul and Winnipeg are praying for a calm course of water, it is a strange fact that the Duluth men also would rather row the race on an unruffled surface.

While conditions are always dissimilar on rough and smooth water, the Duluth eight has gone comparatively better in the smooth water, and for that reason the members of the boat would rather start this afternoon with the wind and roll of the bay at the minimum.

While the races are being rowed this afternoon there will be a number of water sports. The canoe races and swimming races will be pulled off, and weather permitting, the program for this afternoon promises to be much more satisfactory than the one of yesterday.

The events of this evening should surpass in spectacular display the Venetian fete of last evening. The battle and destruction of the miniature vessels promises to hold much interest and should cap the climax of the carnival.

Officials of the carnival look for a larger crowd this evening than was present last night.

The freighters have been shifted closer to the course, in order to give a better view.

GAMBLER CANNOT RECOVER MONEY

Supreme Court Rules in Minneapolis Newspaper Man's Case.

St. Paul, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Money lost at gambling cannot be recovered from the keeper of the place or the lessee or owner of the building unless such person was playing or betting and so won the money, or unless he had some arrangement by which he shared in the "rakeoff."

Justice Bunn, who wrote the opinion handed down by the supreme court today, digresses to make the following comment:

"Without doubt, the man who gets a small but certain percentage of the stakes put up by the players and does not play himself, will ride in an automobile, while the players walk the ties, and in this sense may be considered a winner."

The suit was brought in Hennepin county by John W. Nagle, a Minneapolis newspaper man, against Edward Randall et al, to recover $1,500 lost at poker and roulette.

Shipping Strikers Now Face to Face With 500 Armed Men.

Cardiff, Wales, July 21.—Five hundred Lancashire Fusiliers arrived here today and occupy the buildings in the dock district. There was rioting by the shipping strikers throughout the night. The streets were strewn with wreckage and the hospitals are filled with victims of mob violence.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

After the weather man had threatened, by the heavy shower early yesterday afternoon, to nip carnival at its very opening, he relented, and last night he entered the carnival spirit by sending one of the most beautiful evenings that Duluth, famed for its beautiful summer weather, has had this year. There wasn't a marring feature, and everybody may join in and give him a rousing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Today is fair and cool and continued fair weather is the cheering word sent out from the citadel on the hill.

Fair, warm weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:34 and it will set at 7:54 this evening, giving fifteen hours and twenty minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours low pressure areas centered over Eastern Canada and the region west of the Rocky Mountains have caused light to copious showers over Lakes Superior and Michigan, Eastern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Alberta, Middle Atlantic and Southern states and the Southwest. Temperatures are a little cooler over the Dakotas and Minnesota due to higher pressures there, while over British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan the temperature is rising in connection with falling pressures. At the Head of the Lakes fair weather is indicated during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 21.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Saturday.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Saturday.

Minnesota—Fair tonight; Saturday fair; slightly warmer in west and south portions.

South Dakota—Fair tonight; Saturday fair, warmer in east portion.

Montana—Local showers tonight or Saturday.

Iowa—Fair tonight, slightly cooler in east portion; Saturday fair, warmer in northwest portion.

North Dakota—Fair tonight, slightly warmer in west portion; Saturday fair, warmer in east portion.

Upper Lakes—Light to moderate west and northwest winds, probably becoming variable Saturday. Fair tonight and probably Saturday.

ENJOY TRIP AROUND HORN

Delegates to Loyal Liberty Protective League Have Outing.

The delegates of the Loyal Liberty Protective League of Minnesota, started the second day of a three days' convention in Duluth this morning with a trip down the lake and around the horn.

One of the objects of the league is to raise the standard of the retail liquor business and to help drive out the illegal places of business, such as blind pigs. This evening there will be a social session at Eagles' hall, where the meetings are being held. Among the speakers will be Mayor Cullum, Alderman Shartel, president of the council, County Attorney Norton and John Dwiker of Minneapolis.

The meeting yesterday was attended by about 150 delegates. The meeting was called to order by President Bart O'Connor and the report of State Secretary F. G. Bohlig was enthusiastically received, following which other business was transacted. The other state officers are: F. G. Standstedt of Duluth, vice president, and George Mahone of Minneapolis, treasurer. The local league officers are: M. J. Gleason, president; Julius Dworshak, vice president; and W. A. Kehtel, secretary.

World Gaining Dirt Yearly.

It has been humorously remarked that people have a right to get dirtier because there is more dirt every year on the earth. Science tells us that a hundred tons a day of meteoric shower falls on the earth, enough to make an inch in just a billion years. That being the case, it is as well to have added effort to cleanliness, and pattern could be taken after the making of golden grain belt beers, brewed in the most perfect brewery in the world, and absolutely free from any germ, bacteria, parasite, microbe or live organism. Order of dealer or duluth branch of minneapolis brewing company.

They left yesterday for their home in Fargo, N. D. Ross Kiefer, who is also located at Fargo, is in the city and will remain a few weeks. He is just recovering from an attack of typhoid fever.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 21.—While asleep in a berth on an Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe train bound for this city, Mrs. H. G. Seymour of Kansas City was robbed of a bag of diamonds worth $4,000 and nearly $100 in cash.

As a precaution against thieves, Mrs. Seymour, upon retiring, pinned the chamois bag containing the jewels inside her night gown. The thief took the bag from its hiding place without awakening Mrs. Seymour. She did not discover the theft until the train reached Fort Dodge.

HITCHCOCK'S PLAN GOOD

Duluth District Postmasters Like Postmaster General's Parcels Post Scheme.

Also Advocate Placing of All Postmasters Under Classified Rules.

REFORMS FAVORED BY POSTMASTERS.

The abolition of the order requiring postmasters to account for excess postage.
Furnishing printed facing slips to postmasters free of charge.
Furnishing printed facing slips free of charge.
The recognition of the merit system as the proper method to procure more efficient service.
The local parcels post as recommended by Postmaster General Hitchcock.
Placing all postmasters under classified rules.

Besides the indorsement of the reforms proposed by the committee on resolutions, as above, the Duluth district postmasters in session at the courthouse yesterday, listened to an address of welcome by Mayor Cullum, an address by Postmaster A. P. Cook, and a paper by Postmaster Gillespie of Carlton on "The Model Postmaster." At the election of officers for the coming year, the following were chosen: President, A. L. Vanderpoel, Aurora; vice presidents, J. A. Gillespie, Carlton; Arthur B. Paul, Big Falls; Ira H. Williams, Brook Park; A. McPhee, Knife River; Charles J. Johnson, Grand Marais; Max Shuirman, Keewatin; and H. L. Johnson, Buhl.

Mr. Gillespie in his paper outlined briefly the requirements of a postmaster today. A good business head, promptness and accuracy in reports, a close study of the postal laws were mentioned as requisites. Mr. Gillespie recommended prompt posting of all bulletins of the department and pointed out that as 75 per cent of all the errors in the postal department were due to ignorance on the part of the senders, every effort should be made to educate the public on the methods of addressing and wrapping mail matter. Mr. Gillespie also mentioned the importance of impressing on all connected with the department the necessity for politeness and courtesy to patrons, and concluded by saying that "even though the postmaster's collar wilts in the back, he must have the spirit of accommodation in his make-up, as there is no institution on earth where the opportunities for showing courtesies and accommodations are so ample as in the postoffice."

W. S. Bartholomew, president of the state league, concluded the program with an address in which he gave the history of postmasters' organizations and discussed the good results which they have accomplished.

Those present at the session yesterday were: E. B. Robinson, Floodwood; J. A. Gillespie, Carlton; S. Swanson, Moose Lake; F. D. Vibert, Cloquet; James Harrell, Harrell; F. B. Hamre, Carson Lake; A. Organ Recital.

A fair-sized and appreciative audience heard the splendid organ recital at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church last evening, by Prof. Eyvind Alnaes. The affair was given under the auspices of the Young People's society of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church. He expects to realize $35,000 from the property now.

TAILORED CLOTHES

It is true that today a man can buy cheap shoes, a cheap hat, a cheap suit of clothes, and to all outward appearances he will be, for the moment, reasonably well dressed.

But in buying cheaply, he has gotten "cheap" merchandise. It soon loses its outward gloss, and in a very little while the wearer presents a mightly unattractive appearance.

When you add to exclusive designs in fabrics the high quality of merchandise and workmanship that goes into every garment we turn out, you have the just measure of our charges, which, while they may seem advanced, are really very modest.

Our tailored clothes range from $30 to $50.

MARINE ENGINEER IS EXONERATED

G. E. Blauvelt of Steamer Augustus Freed of Fine By Inspectors.

Charged With Operating Vessel After Its Certificate Had Expired.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 21.—A ruling has been made by Captains F. L. R. Pope and William P. Nolan, local United States steamboat inspectors, in the case of the steamer A. A. Augustus operating on May 6th between Cleveland, Fort William and Buffalo with an expired certificate of inspection. Owing to extenuating circumstances brought out in the hearing, George E. Blauvelt, chief engineer on the vessel, the local inspectors have withheld enforcing any penalty for his offense. The case of Emil Detlefs, master of the craft, is still pending.

When the season of navigation opened this spring, it is alleged a number of boats made their first trip on an expired certificate of inspection. The government preferred charges against a number of the officers on the boats and their cases are now pending. The master and the chief engineer of the steamer Clifford F. Moll were recently exonerated by the local inspectors on the charge of operating their vessel on an expired certificate of inspection.

It is alleged several boats loaded coal at this port last spring before their hulls had been examined by the government officials and then the owners of the boats wanted the inspection made after the cargoes had been taken aboard. This the inspectors refused to do. The inspection rules specifically state that hulls should be inspected before cargoes are taken aboard.

The ruling made by the local government inspectors yesterday in the case of the steamer A. A. Augustus follows:

"Referring to charges preferred against you (George E. Blauvelt as chief engineer of the steamer A. A. Augustus) by the board under date of May 6, 1911, for having acted as chief engineer of the steamer A. A. Augustus when said steamer was navigated on an expired certificate of inspection as noted in the charges.

"We have received your answer to the charges and explanation of the matter and after a careful review of the circumstances connected with the same we consider that the responsibility should be placed against the owners of the steamer for loading the vessel in violation of a ruling of the supervising inspector general by placing a cargo in the said vessel before an inspection was made of the hull, when inspection of the steamer was refused.

"There being no means to unload the cargo, the owners instructed the license officers to leave port on an expired certificate of inspection which was done. The department having taken cognizance of the offense by placing a fine against the steamer and you having acknowledged being guilty of the charge preferred, we consider that there are extenuating circumstances connected with this violation and therefore withhold enforcing any penalty for your offense."

The ruling is signed by Capt. F. L. R. Pope and Capt. William P. Nolan, local United States steamboat inspectors.

PASSENGERS ARE SENT ON BY RAIL

Steamer Huron Not So Badly Damaged as at First Thought.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—With many of her passengers having left for their homes by rail, the steamer Huron, which struck a rock off Roberts landing yesterday, cleared from here for Detroit this morning.

An examination of her bottom by a diver proved that two plates had been sprung, but that her condition is not as serious as at first thought.

A pump is being kept on her, and there was but four inches of water in her this morning.

The crew refused to divulge the identity of the passengers.

CLEMENT'S MASTER MUST FACE TRIAL

Capt. Townsend Under Charges Based on Sinking of Fisher.

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. H. H. Townsend, master of the steamer Stephen M. Clement of the Mitchell fleet, has been summoned to appear before Capt. Fred J. Meno and George M. Milne, United States local inspectors of steam vessels here, next Monday, for trial on charges resulting from the collision of his vessel with the steamer Erwin L. Fisher. The Fisher, Capt. George L. Cottrell, Cleveland, master, was sunk below Mamajuda light, Detroit river, the night of May 4, with the loss of three lives, those of W. W. Auhl, engineer, Lakewood, Ohio, and Louis and Mrs. Sudgen, Buffalo.

The charges against Capt. Townsend allege violation of pilot rules I, II, III, and V, and No. 17 of the rules of navigation, all of which relate to exchange of signals and regulation of vessels attempting to pass each other. The notice to Capt. Townsend was delivered by one of the river men of the J. W. Westcott company when the Clement passed down Monday evening.

Since the accident the local inspectors of steam vessels have spent much time in their investigation. This included the securing of statements from most of the officers and crews of both vessels and from men on other vessels, which were in the vicinity at the time the accident happened. In several instances is was necessary to secure the statements desired through the local inspectors at other ports. This was done in the case of the Clement, whose officers and crew were questioned in Buffalo, and several of whom were given a later examination here.

The testimony of the people on the Fisher was taken by the local inspectors here within a day or two after the accident.

FOURTH FINE FOR RUNNING WITHOUT LIGHTS IMPOSED.

A fine of $100 was imposed upon F. Robinson last evening by L. M. Willcuts, collector of customs in the local harbor, for running his gasoline launch without a light. He was caught about 10 o'clock in the evening by one of the inspectors, who reported the matter to Collector Willcuts.

This is the fourth fine for running without lights that has been reported this season, three having been imposed last week in one day. Mr. Willcuts had given special warning at the opening of the season that any violations of the motor boat laws would be punishable by a heavy fine. Last evening, the opening night of the midsummer carnival, drew out every craft in the harbor, and boats violating the rules endangered many.

INDIAN STABS WIFE.

Then Self Because Woman Would Not Prepare His Meal.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., July 21.—Because his wife would not go home and cook a meal for him, Charles Chaboillez, gandson of the famous Hudson Bay trader, drew a pocketknife and stabbed the woman five times and then plunged the crimsoned blade into his own throat, missing the jugular vein by the closest possible margin. The attempt at murder and suicide was made at her brother's home, David Dickinzon on the Red Lake agency.

Mrs Chaboillez was first felled with a blow from the first of her husband and was unconscious when the murderous assault began. Agency policemen ran to the rescue of the wounded woman and placed the man under arrest.

Dr. R. J. Cullard, agency physician was called, and found that the injuries of both were serious, a deep gash in the small of the woman's back being particularly alarming in her case while the flow of blood from the man's wound made his condition critical.

Chaboillez, who is 38 years old, is said to have been drinking. He has been employed as a clerk in the Chippewa store at Red Lake ever since the store started and is considered an honest and trustworthy employe when sober. His wife is 32. They have one child.

GOOD ROADS WILL GREET AUTO PARTY.

Williston, N. D., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Williston autoists are determined that the Minnesota Automobile club shall find the best of roads in this section and during the week they have been busily engaged in fixing up the roads. There is hardly an automobile owner in the city, but what has raised blisters in handling a pick and shovel, removing stones and leveling the road here and there. The plan of campaign extends over a goodly number of miles in Williams county.

HOT WEATHER DYSPEPSIA

It is a well known fact that it is harder to digest cold food than warm food, and as most of the food eaten in hot weather is iced, a great amount of digestive suffering results. It is well to be careful about what you eat in hot weather, and not to over-eat, but it is more important still if you are suffering from indigestion to have it cured promptly. It is hard enough at best to bear up under terrible heat, but when the stomach is loaded with food it cannot digest and the bowels are clogged with decaying matter, the whole system becomes congested. You become subject to headaches, colds, fever, constipation and dozen and one ailments that make life a burden. Take a few doses of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will find immediate relief and in a short time a permanent cure. It will cleanse the stomach and bowels and give your system a new start. Appetite, good spirit, sound sleep and energy will soon return and your dyspepsia will have vanished. The cost is only 50 cents or $1.00 a bottle, and there is sufficient for you and your family. Joe Derosia, a Blueberry farmer, in the dusk last evening shot at what he thought was a wolf and killed his brother Frank. Joe had a 30-30 rifle and the ball struck the boy in the right shoulder. Coroner Gelsen has been notified. It is not thought that an inquest will be held.

The Derosia family resides on a farm two miles southwest of Blueberry. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Derosia are the parents of the young men. Joe is 24 years old and Frank was aged 21. They have lived in the vicinity of Blueberry for the past ten years.

Joe was out with a rifle about dusk last evening in search of wolves, a number having been seen on the roads in that vicinity recently. He saw a crouching form ahead of him, and taking aim fired at it.

"My God, Joe, you've shot me!" came back to Joe as an answer to his shot, and he rushed to the side of his dying brother. He tried to revive him, then half carried, half dragged him along the road for about 100 feet. Overcome with grief, his strength failed him. He left the wounded boy there and ran for assistance. When he returned the young man was dead.

The funeral will be held at Blueberry.

THREE ROBBED IN HOTEL ROOM

One of Log Birlers for Carnival Is Among Victims.

Three men, including one of the log birling experts on the program for the water carnival were robbed last night at the Sixth Avenue hotel on Michigan street, while they slept.

The men are John Stephens, John Mattson and Frank Park, the log riding expert. Park lost $11.50, Stephens $3 and Mattson $15. Mattson woke up just as the man got through going through his trousers, and the thief made a quick get-away via the door and secreted himself in one of the other rooms of the hotel. Mattson got a glimpse of the intruder as he dodged into the lighted hallway and says he was a small man with a dark moustache, clad in dark trousers and a light shirt and was either barefooted or in his stockings.

Park had left his door unlocked, but Stephens had locked his door, and the robber is thought to have gone over the transom. Mattson is not sure whether his door was locked or not. The matter was reported to the police this morning. The proprietor of the hotel is John Kerns.

DULUTH ENTERTAINS YOUNG TRAVELER.

Among the many thousands of strangers in Duluth last evening was Master James Johnson, 9-years-old, who, unaccompanied, is making a trip from Spokane to Marquette. He arrived yesterday afternoon and registered at the Lenox hotel. This morning he left for Marquette, where he will visit his grandparents. Master Johnson lost his mother some time ago and his father is a stationary engineer at Loon Lake. While at the hotel he proved himself a popular guest and a very genial fellow.

also a pleasure for a lawyer to talk to his clients. That is, sometimes it is a pleasure. When their cases have gone well and the lawyer has won out for them, then he likes to talk to his clients. It is a somewhat different matter when counsel has to explain to his client why he has not won his lawsuit for him.

Well, I am fortunate in the fact that I come to meet you—some of the clients whose legal affairs I have been endeavoring to attend to—able to report a very large measure of success in the matters entrusted to me on your behalf.

Great Victories Scored.

First of all, there are the great trust cases, in which you, in common with the whole country, have been so much interested. The government scored great victories there. Do not let anybody deceive you as to that. If the court had held that every contract that put any restraint of any kind upon commerce among the states, however slight, was a violation of the Sherman law, the department of justice would have had to illustrate the truth of what Edmund Burke said: "You can't draw an indictment against a nation." For there are not lawyers enough in the government, nor for that matter in the country, to draw indictments against everybody who makes any contract that in any respect operates in some measure to restrain interstate commerce. But when the supreme court said we must read this statute as reasonable men and give it an interpretation that will not strangle all trade, but which will prevent an undue restraint, prohibit all contracts and combinations that are intended to interfere with the natural course of trade, or which will have that necessary effect—then the court gave us a means of preventing those evils which led to the enactment of the law. And this is especially so in view of the fact that the court gave full force to the prohibition of monopolies, and by its decrees has ordered the breaking up of the two largest and most successful monopolies or trusts which ever have appeared in this country.

Combines to Be Split Up.

But some people are saying that these decisions don't really mean anything; that the big trusts will simply reorganize under other forms and go on just as before. Don't believe any such talk. Take my assurance for it that those big combinations are going to be split up into a number of separate and distinct parts, no one of which shall have any connection with or control over any other, and no one of which shall have so large a percentage of the business as to be anything like a monopoly. That is what I understand the court to require, and nothing less will meet my interpretation of the decisions of the supreme court.

Well, you have just put in the hands of your department of justice a great many other laws to enforce, and we have been enforcing them, and we shall go on enforcing them unless congress next fall shall fail to give us money enough to do so. For you can't work up evidence and punish violations of law all over the United States and keep a general supervision of it all from Washington, and meet the opposition of the ablest lawyers and the highest priced lawyers of the United States, and win out, without spending money. And yet, even so, we collected more money as a result of the suits brought and prosecuted by the department of justice during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910, than it cost Uncle Sam to run the entire legal department of the government—the department at Washington and all the district attorneys' offices in the whole country put together; besides all the special counsel employed to assist the district attorneys and the attorney general. And while the final figures are not in for the last fiscal year, I believe we shall make an equally good showing for that year. And while there has been recently some criticism of some of the fees paid, it has largely come from lawyers who have not had any experience with large, complicated cases, or from political opponents, and it has utterly ignored the splendid achievements of the lawyers who received what are referred to as large fees, but which are really very small fees for the work they did, and it also ignores the fact that private clients would have paid their lawyers many times as much had they been equally successful, and, indeed, I miss my guess badly if the government's lawyers in the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust cases, successful as they were, got fees one-quarter the size of those that were paid to the counsel for the unsuccessful parties in those suits.

Fighting White Slave Traffic.

Then there are laws the value of the enforcement of which can't be measured by money. Take the act to prevent the infamous white slave traffic—that vile traffic in human bodies and that destruction of human souls which congress investigated a year or two ago. It was found that there was a regularly organized system extending throughout the country with agencies abroad, by which innocent young girls were enticed or kidnaped, and by persuasion or deceit or force, committed to a life of shame, and consigned from one city to another like cattle. Congress had the decisions sustaining the laws against sending lottery tickets from one state to another as a precedent in the exercise of the power to regulate interstate commerce, and so it passed an act making it a crime to transport or aid in transporting women from one state to another for purposes of prostitution. As soon as that act was put on the statute books, we organized in the department of justice a plan of campaign for its enforcement which embraced the whole country. The results of the year's work have not yet been garnered up and I cannot tell you just how many of the men engaged in this vile traffic have been sent to the penitentiary, but it is a very large number, and we have just got well started.

Fraudulent Use of Mails.

Then we have devoted a great deal of time with much success to prosecutions for the use of the mails for fraudulent purposes. Usually the facts about these cases are worked up in the first instance by inspectors of the postoffice department, but sometimes they have been ferreted out by the agents of the department of justice, and the representatives of the two departments have worked together in complete harmony to accomplish the end in view—namely to break up concerns which are engaged in getting money out of the pockets of the people by alluring them with all sorts of lying statements and circulars sent through the mails, telling them of impossible short cuts to wealth.

Well, I could go on for much longer telling you about the work of the people's law office. It is a busy place. Every man there is a live, active man who is doing the best he can to discharge his duty. It isn't always a pleasant duty. There are few things harder than to direct indictments to be sought which will bring to the bar of a criminal court men of good standing in their community, whom one may perhaps know personally, or who may even be one's friends.

People Who Criticize.

Then, too, in enforcing the statutes that affect business conditions, several classes of people are sure to be offended: First, those whose pecuniary interests are adversely affected by the prosecution, and those who consider the policy of the law mistaken, and are unwilling to concede the duty of the law officers of the government to enforce its law even though such enforcement in their opinion will lead to business depression or unrest, and, secondly, those who wish not only radical results but results which would produce panic or disaster, either, first, because they have nothing themselves to lose and therefore don't care so long as those who have anything are deprived of it, or, secondly, those who, because of partisan hostility, would like to see the administration embarrassed by the sort of general assault upon all business which would compel every business man to turn to the other party for relief. The criticisms which seek to minimize the value of the recent supreme court decisions in the trust cases come largely from this latter class.

But under the wise control and guidance of President Taft, no other course than that which the department of justice has followed during the past two years could have been pursued. Under him, the law has been enforced to the best of the abilities of those to whom he has entrusted its enforcement, with the sincere effort to make that enforcement thorough, dispassionate and without undue discrimination. It has been sought to make the administration of justice effective without being clamorous. No matter who should be at the head of that department, so long as William H. Taft is president no other policy could obtain.

Just Fifty Years Ago.

It was on July 21, 1861, just fifty years ago today, that Bull Run, or the First Battle of Manassas, was fought. The Confederates, under Johnson, were accredited with a decisive victory over the Union forces under McDowell, the retreat of the Federals leaving practically a clear road to Washington for the Confederates, it is said, had they chosen to continue their advance on the capital. This was the first real battle of the war, and its result awakened the North for the first time to a realization of what the secession of the Southern states meant. It was here that "Stonewall" Jackson gained the name which will be associated with his memory for all time.

In August, 1862, Manassas was again the scene of a bloody battle, Lee and Longstreet and Sykes, Reno and Reynolds fought to a draw, the battle lines being exactly the reverse of what they were the year before.

Planned by Veterans.

The jubilee reunion was planned by committees of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans. Interesting events have taken place each day this week, sessions of the national organization of "The Blue and the Gray and Their Sons" being held today.

The Manassas National Anthem, adopted by the committee, was written by Mrs. Mary Speed Mercer of Elm City, N. C. This is the chorus:

"America, all hail to thee,
Thanks be to God who made us free.
North, South, East, West, hand clasped in hand,
United we, thy children, stand."

Reply to Critics.

Reply was made last night to those who have criticized the peace jubilee re-union by a number of speakers at the camp fire which closed the program for the day. Among the speakers were veterans on both sides in the Civil war, and Albert Kern of Dayton, Ohio, was cheered when he declared that the Southern people deplored the attitude of those in the North "who never smelled gunpowder" but who strove to keep alive the animosities of the 'sixties.

The organization of the "Society of the Blue and Gray and their Sons" was completed, a large number of Union and Confederate veterans being enrolled as members.

turn over to him records of the action taken on that resolution.

Gary's Plan "Socialistic."

In an academic discussion of governmental relations to corporations, Mr. Parsons yesterday declared to the committee that the proposition of E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, for government control of business combinations was socialistic. He added that in his opinion congress should place no restriction whatever on trade.

"Government should permit commerce to take its course," he said. "A great corporation cannot be organized merely on the valuation in dollars and cents of its properties—the men behind it must be capitalized. They are worth something to the investor. The capitalization must be on the properties, the prospects of the business and the men who are to manage it. That is not water.

Harlan's Opinion Criticized.

"If congress should pass a law conforming to Justice Harlan's dissenting opinion in the Standard Oil case and the Tobacco trust cases, it would cause the country's greatest disaster. If Justice Harlan's opinion stood as the ruling opinion of the court, our jails would be filled to overflowing with stockholders and officers of corporations. No two businesses could combine to increase their trade."

Mr. Parsons was very positive that there should be no government control of corporations, that they should be permitted a free hand, and that then the ultimate consumer would profit.

This afternoon the committee will visit a number of refineries in New York as the guests of William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port.

John Arbuckle's testimony as to the agreement with H. O. Havemeyer, which is supposed to have ended the big sugar war, will be taken at New Paltz, N. Y., Monday, by a sub-committee.

STREET RAILWAY MADE A RECORD

Handled Carnival Crowds as Fast as Bridge Delivered Them.

Thanks to a little foresight and some planning ahead, the Duluth Street Railway company last evening handled the carnival crowds in a most efficient manner, and incidentally won many words of approbation from those who essayed the trip across the canal.

Anticipating the carnival crowds, the company lengthened its "Y" at the bridge, in order to accommodate as many extra cars as possible. Yesterday all the available extras were placed on the aerial bridge run, and the cars ran as close together as the single track on Lake avenue would permit. There were seventeen extra cars on the run, all told, in addition to the regular service, and each car averaged about five trips during the evening, making eighty-five extra trips in all.

The cars handled the crows as fast as the bridge delivered them. The crowd was so large it swamped the bridge, but the street railway kept it "cleaned up" on this side of the bridge.

FOUND GRAVE OF MONSTER

California Mastodon's Teeth Discovered in Earth Beneath Huge Trees.

Probably Embedded There During Upward of Ten Thousand Years.

San Francisco, Cal., July 21.—Five gigantic teeth, which in some prehistoric period probably graced the cavernous mouth of a mastodon, predecessor of the mammoth and one of the most colossal creatures that has ever inhabited the earth, have been unearthed in the old Doggett mine on the banks of the Klamath river, near Walker, Siskiyou county. The three largest of these stupendous molars contain four cuspids each, each tooth measuring seven inches across from the first to the last cuspid and a little over six inches from the tip of the root, or that part of it which remains, to the top of the center cuspid. The teeth measure four and a half inches in width. In a remarkable state of preservation, they were found in a pocket of sand and gravel eighteen feet under the surface of the earth.

A better idea of the size of the teeth may be gathered from the fact that they are about fifteen times the size of the tooth of the modern horse and about eight times the size of the molar of the lion or tiger. The size of the jaw of this giant creature may be imagined, therefore, to have been eight to ten times the size of that of the lion or tiger and about fifteen times the size of a horse's mouth.

That the teeth were those of a herbivorous animal seems evident from their evenness. They are too large to have belonged to the mammoth. This would seem to indicate that they belonged to the mastodon, which towered in size over the mammoth as that creature did over the modern elephant.

There Were Men Then, too.

Close to the teeth was found an ancient stone hatchet which is believed to belong to a period co-existant with that in which the animal to which the teeth belonged is believed to have lived. Indians of the Klamath river tribes on being shown the hatchet declared that they had never seen or heard of anything resembling it, and the medicine men and chiefs stated that the traditions of their people contained no account to show that the hatchet had ever been made or used by them.

In the same pocket where the teeth were found was a horn seven and a half feet long, which crumbled in the hands of the shovelmen when they attempted to take it up. The horn measured at the butt fourteen inches in diameter, but, according to Frost, who has spent some time in Alaska, where he saw several specimens of the horn of the prehistoric mammoth unearthed, it bore no resemblance to the horn of that animal. The horn, Frost states, was of the same contour as that of ordinary cattle and contained a core and a thin shell similar to that of the ox.

These relics were found in a stratum of earth which bears evidence of being the ancient channel of the Klamath or some other river from which the Klamath was evolved. The spot is fully 200 feet from the present bed of the river, but runs about parallel to the present channel.

Laid There 10,000 Years.

The general formation of the earth gives every indication of having been massed ages and ages ago, and from the trees and the partly petrified trunks of trees which were found at bedrock twelve feet under where the relics were unearthed there is every reason to believe that the teeth have lain embedded where they were found upward of 10,000 years.

That the teeth and horn could not have traveled far from the spot where the animal met its death is the belief of Frost. He bases this on the fact that the gravel would grind to a powder anything that was caught in it as it slowly moved along as a mighty mass in the process of creating some new geologic formation. This, he states, is partly proved by the quick disintegration of the horn once it was touched by the hand of man.

The country abounds in quicksands, particularly along the banks of the river and adjacent to them. It is possible to assume, therefore, that the monster was probably caught in one of these quicksands, its huge bulk and weight only increasing the rapidity with which the sand parted and buried it to remain until gold-hunting men should come to tear it from its ancient grave. Or was there a fight, and the stone axe, being indigestible, is all that is left of the man?

Arsenic Prevents Petrifaction.

How long ago that grave was formed may be gathered from the fact that on the surface of the earth over the spot where the teeth were found are growing oak trees five to six feet in diameter and under the spot, on bedrock some twelve feet below, are trunks of trees that have turned to coal. The ground is strongly impregnated with arsenic, or else it is probable that petrifaction would have set in long ago in which case the horn might have been preserved.

That the teeth are those of a herbivorous animal belonging to one of the great lizard or mastodonic species seems certain. If the horn belonged to the same creature as the teeth, this would dispel the dinosaur or lizard theory. Plant remains, leaves, fruits and wood found with the fossilized bones of prehistoric creatures in this country show that the climate of the United States as far north as Canada was from temperate to sub-tropical. According to scientists, California would therefore at the close of the period in which this creature probably lived be a sub-tropical country.

Inhabiting the sub-tropical earth of that period was a creature which combined some of the characteristics of the mammoth and the modern elephant. The teeth might have belonged to such an animal. These ancient creatures reached a height of from seventeen to thirty feet. Their monstrous bodies enabled them to overtower the jungles and morasses in which they sought their food.

The enamel of the teeth is in a splendid state of preservation and is green in color. On the tip of several of the cuspids are cavities such as might be found in the teeth of an ordinary animal. Savants at the University of California are to be asked to try and fix the identity of the creature that possessed the teeth. The teeth themselves will be presented to the university by Frost.

RIGHT OF ELMER SWOPE

To Philanthropist's Millions Hinges on Pair of Earrings.

Kansas City, Mo., July 21.—A pair of old-fashioned gold earrings, said to have been given by the late Col. Thomas H. Swope to a Kansas City woman, is relied upon by the attorneys for Elmer Swope to prove the West Virginian's right to the millions left by the Kansas City philanthropist.

When this woman, whose name is now being withheld, appears upon the witness stand, said one of Elmer Swope's attorneys, she will testify that the earrings in question were given to her by Col. Swope some years ago, with the remark that they had belonged to his wife, who had since died. An attempt will then be made to prove that Alonzo Jones of Kansas City sold the earrings to Thomas H. Swope in 1861.

Jones already has testified that he saw Thomas H. Swope in Kansas City in 1903 and that he was the same Swope who kept the hotel in Mount Pleasant, and with whom he had had business transactions while representing a wholesale jewelry house. One of these transactions, it is alleged, was the sale of the earrings in question.

TO TOW GIANT DOCK ACROSS ATLANTIC

Canadian Vickers Will Try to Outdo U. S. Navy's Feat.

Ottawa, Ont., July 21.—The record of the United States in towing a huge floating dock to Manila, under a convoy of warships, is to be paralleled by the Canadian Vickers, limited, a concern which was recently incorporated and which is to construct a great ship building plant at Montreal.

A floating dock of the first class, 950 feet in length, and larger than the one towed to Manila, is to be constructed by the Vickers people at their works in England and brought across the Atlantic by three powerful Dutch tugs. This is the first time such a feat has been attempted without a convoy of big ships. The dock, which will have a lifting capacity of 25,000 tons, will be built during the coming fall and winter months, and towed over to Canada next summer.

In connection with the big new shipbuilding projects that have been launched during the last few months in Canada, it is persistently rumored in official circles here, although no authentic statement is obtainable owing to the absence of the minister of marine, that the British-Canadian Shipbuilding and Dock company of Sydney, Nova Scotia, has secured the contract for the ships of the Canadian navy. This is the company with which the John Brown company, builders of the Lusitania, and the Fairfields, are associated. Sir Henry M. Pellatt, of Toronto, is head of the company, along with the governor of Ontario and Mr. Grant Hugh Brown of New York.

No contract, of course, will be ratified until the return of the several cabinet ministers who have been absent in England. It is expected that the plant will be ready in two years, and will cost $6,000,000. It will give a great impetus to the steel industry in Canada.

RUNS 43 MILES TO SEE FATHER

Lad Faints When He Is Told Parent Would Recover.

Centralia, Wash., July 21.—To reach the bedside of his father, whom he believed to be dying, 14-year-old Royal Eubanks raced on foot from Morton to Centralia, forty-three miles in thirteen and a half hours. When the little fellow, utterly worn out by his terrific exertions, threw himself into his mother's arms he fainted away after hearing the news that his father was safely on the road to recovery.

The lad is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Eubanks of Centralia and a grandson of ex-Mayor Wood. With his father and his brother, Bernie, he went fishing up the North Fork of the Tilton river early in the week. As his father was standing on two logs, with his legs wide apart, one of the logs swung out and he was thrown backward violently across the other.

The impact of his fall knocked him unconscious, and the two little lads, at the imminent risk of falling in the water themselves, rushed out on the log and caught him just as he was slipping into the river. They managed to hold him there until their frantic shouts brought help. The injured man, still insensible, was carried to Morton and from there hurried to Centralia.

There was room for only one of the boys in the buggy, and it fell to Bernie, as the elder, to accompany his father on the trip home. Undeterred by the fact that he would have to make part of the lonely journey in the dark, Royal followed on foot as fast as his legs could carry him. Speed and strength were lent to his wiry little limbs by the prospect that his father might be dead before he arrived.

When he reached home, he had just strength enough left to cry: "Gee, whiz! I'm glad papa is going to live!" before he fainted.

SERVIAN ROYALTY SHORT OF CHANGE

Crown Prince Is Going to Be Allowed $26,800 a Year.

Belgrade, Servia, July 21.—Some of the sons and daughters of rich Americans who are provided with large allowances would laugh at a bill just presented to the skouptchina, or Servian parliament, to give the royal family a better civil list. The bill provides that Alexander, the crown prince, is to have $26,800 per year; Prince George, $11,400, and Princess Helen $11,400—not enough to buy many Paris frocks. Her establishment when here consists of a bedroom and sitting room and one Russian "companion," for all of which her father pays. Prince George has debts which several years' allowance could not cancel, but the bill does not mention them.

As a matter of fact, the Serbs have never bound themselves to give the royal princes a separate allowance. The king's civil list, amounting to $228,000, is supposed to cover all family expenses. The idea of the present bill is to make up for early days when the present king, previous to his accession to the throne in 1903, was very poor. At one time he kept a cheap boarding house in Switzerland; at another he eked out a precarious living in Paris by giving lessons to Serbs who happened to have made money there. It was only after the murder of Alexander Obrenovitch that fortune began to smile on him. Then the income of $228,000 seemed a fortune.

During the first few years of his reign he managed to save enough to speculate on the Paris stock exchange. He was tremendously successful at this in the scare of 1909, when the Servians swore they would go to war against Austria. Those who were behind the scenes, the king being one of the number, knew they would do nothing of the sort. King Peter played the market well. He raked in $600,000.

Officially King Peter has nothing but his civil list, and his pleadings have resulted in the present bill, which is almost sure to pass.

These figures seem small to an American, but Servia is the poor man's paradise. While there are no millionaires, there are also no beggars and no unemployed. In a country where pork, the favorite food staple, costs under 9 cents a pound and almost every peasant cultivates his own freehold, varying in size from ten to thirty acres; where education is free and house rent low, a fortune of $600 is considered very snug indeed. None of the Servians are overworked. The cafes are always full and the rural folk have plenty of leisure and there is no aristocracy.

This is why the skouptchina thinks it is treating the royal family handsomely by an addition of $49,600 to the civil list.

MUSIC FOR THE CONVICTS.

Orchestra Director Appointed at Atlanta Federal Prison.

Atlanta, Ga., July 21.—Believing that music has the power to work a reformation in the hearts of convicts, the United States department of justice is trying an experiment at the Atlanta federal prison. J. P. Matthiessen of Atlanta, a director of several orchestras in the city and a composer, has recently been appointed by Attorney General Wickersham to take charge of the musical feature of the prison work.

For some time past there has been an orchestra at the prison, but there was no trained man to lead it. The men were deeply interested in the work of the orchestra, however, and it seemed to give them so much pleasure that Warden Moyer believed it would eventually aid at least in bringing them to a better kind of life. With this end in view he asked for the appointment of an orchestra leader.

An examination was held under civil service rules and Matthiessen was given the place. He has been at work for over a week and has found the interest intense. He intends to organize a band in the near future, as well as the orchestra. New music is being secured every day. Warden Moyer is well pleased with the progress up to date.

STOLEN AND RETURNED.

Missing Diamonds Make Mysterious Reappearance in Ohio.

Columbia, Ohio, July 21.—What strange, mysterious thief stole the Cantlon jewels and then put them back again? That question is wrinkling the brows of many a city Sherlock Holmes. It forms one of the vaguest puzzles city police have had to deal with. It is giving the Cantlon household a problem apparently impossible of solution.

One night recently a thief entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Cantlon and stole beside $225 in cash, jewels estimated to be worth nearly $1,000. They comprised two diamond rings, one a wedding ring, a valuable brooch and two diamond pins.

When hope of recovering the jewelry practically had been abandoned by the Cantlon household, they appeared. Mrs. Cantlon and her daughter were cutting the grass in the back yard of their home nearly a week later. Nearing the side of a board fence during her operations, Mrs. Cantlon suddenly espied several bright glistening objects in the grass and dirt at her feet. At first she says she thought they were glass. But stooping, she saw the gleam of gold and the sparkle of diamonds. There at her feet was every bit of jewelry that had been so mysteriously taken by an unknown thief six days before.

PRESENTED AUTO TO A BOY.

Disgusted New Yorker Gave Away $2,000 Touring Car.

Hammond, Ind., July 21.—Cecil Hancock, a 12-year old boy, was presented with a $2,000 touring car by an exasperated New York transcontinental auto tourist, who met with an accident near the farm owned by William Hancock, the boy's father. The tourist refused to give his name, but the automobile license bore the legend, "8605 New York."

While descending a hill near the farm the New Yorker, who was en route to Chicago and was the sole occupant of the car, lost control of the machine when the steering knuckle broke. The car landed in a ditch bottom side up.

After young Hancock had helped the occupant out of the wreck the disgusted driver announced that he would be glad to give the car away and be rid of it.

Hancock said: "Give it to me."

"Take the d—d nuisance and welcome," responded the man from New York. He then hired the boy to drive him to the nearest railroad station, where he boarded a train for Chicago.

Young Hancock sold the car for a round figure to an auto dealer. He will invest the proceeds in a college education.

HAS CONTROL OF ORE LANDS

Steel Corporation's Position Is Outlined By Chairman Stanley.

Congressional Committee Hears Extract From Gary Speech.

Washington, July 21.—The United States Steel corporation, in obtaining the Tennessee Iron & Coal company and its Southern ore lands, "cinched" its monopoly of the ores of the American continent and tied up available fields for independent concerns, declared Chairman Stanley of the house "steel trust" investigating committee at yesterday's hearing.

Mr. Stanley made the surprising admission that he had discovered from his own investigation that the United States Steel corporation has no monopoly of coking coal, but, addressing his remarks particularly to Richard A. Linbury, counsel for the Steel corporation, he said that if he could say the same of the ore and transportation facilities controlled by the "trust," he would frankly do so.

The committee ineffectually sought light from Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, whose bureau has been investigating the Steel corporation since 1906 and has made public only a part of its report. The commissioner, standing on the attorney general's interpretation of the law that no information could be made public without the president's authority, flatly refused to give the committee facts contained in a report not yet completed, relating particularly to cost sheets furnished by the Steel corporation. He agreed that when the report is ready he would urge the president to make it public as soon as possible.

Read Gary Speech.

Chairman Stanley read a speech of Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the Steel corporation made to the board at a meeting in 1908, relating to the government's investigation. In this Mr. Gary said:

"Our finance committee has been in close touch with this matter all the time. We have been in frequent and almost immediate touch with Mr. Garfield, or more or less with the president himself, with regard to these matters. Up to date, they have made no complaint of us whatever, but we do not know better than you what will be the future We are trying to be frank and accommodating to the department, and we suppose we have an understanding that we will not be unnecessarily injured and that we will not wrongfully be charged without having an opportunity to show the facts."

Mr. Smith said he knew nothing about this matter.

Representative Gardiner of Massachusetts, Republican, asked if Mr. Stanley meant to imply that President Roosevelt and Commissioner Garfield had been in collusion with Steel trust officials. Mr. Stanley replied he meant to imply "unseemly activity" of the Steel trust.

Of Coking Coal.

Discussing the steel trust's control of coking coal, Mr. Stanley said:

"I have found on personal investigation that the firm of Jones & Laughlin controls nearly as much of the coking coal in the Connellsville district as the Steel "trust" does. I am also informed that M. V. Thompson owns a greater acreage of that coal than does the Steel corporation, and that he holds it for sale to independents as well as to the trust.

"My investigation does not lead me to believe that the United States Steel corporation has a monopoly of coking coal, but I am inclined to agree with the conclusion of the bureau of corporations that the corporation has a practical monopoly of the ores of this country."

Mr. Stanley referred to what he termed the "act of God" to relieve the independents in the discovery of self-fluidling ores in the South which developed the open hearth system and opened the way for competition with the Bessemer ores of the Lake Superior region controlled by the trust. He said 80 per cent of the open hearth ores were controlled by the Tennessee Coal & Iron company.

The committee will resume its hearing next Wednesday.

Girls, see that your sweetheart secures a Permit to smoke.

FARM LANDS HAVE DOUBLED IN VALUE

Washington, July 21.—Of marked interest because of many statements made during the Canadian reciprocity debate, is the census bureau's announcement of the latest general farm statistics of the United States, showing that land in farms more than doubled in value during the last ten years, having increased $15,252,788,000 or 118 per cent. In 1900 they were valued at $13,051,033,000, and returns of the thirteenth census show they are now worth $28,384,821,000.

Farm lands, farm buildings and farm implements of the country are valued at $35,859,663,000 compared with $17,357,425,000 ten years ago.

Number of Farms.

The number of farms in 1910 was 6,340,120 as compared with 5,737,372 in 1900, an increase of 11 per cent. The land increased in 1900 from 835,092,000 acres to 873,703,000 in 1910, or 5 per cent, but a larger increase, 15 per cent, is noted in improved acreage, which in 1900 was 414,490,000 acres and in 1910 was 477,424,000 acres.

More conspicuous than the increase in the number of acreage of farms has been the increase in the value of farm property. The land in farms rose in value from $13,051,033,000 in 1900 to $28,383,821,000 in 1910, an increase of 118 per cent, and during the same period the average value per acre of all land in farms rose from $15.60 to $32.50 or 108 per cent.

Farm buildings, which in 1900 were valued at $3,556,614,000 were reported in 1910 as worth $6,294,025,000, an increase of 77 per cent. Farm implements and machinery reported in 1910 as worth $1,261,817,000 and ten years previously as worth $749,778,000, show an increase of 68 per cent.

CANADA CROP HEAVY.

Winnipeg Men Say Harvest May Yield 2,500,000 Bushels.

Canadians who are visiting in Duluth now claim that the crops this year from the dominion will be the heaviest ever raised and George E. Houghton of Winnipeg estimates that the crops will at least be 200,000,000 bushels, while it may run to 250,000,000 bushels if the weather conditions remain good up to the time of the harvesting.

Mr. Houghton, E. H. Houghton and William Reid, all of Winnipeg, bear the distinction of being the first men to make the trip from the Canadian city to Duluth in an automobile. They report that some of the roads were in poor condition, but that the run was thoroughly enjoyable. They are stopping at the Spalding.

STUDYING IN EUROPE

Ninety American Business Men Are Abroad on Special Mission.

Visit Big English Cities and Impressed By Their Enterprise.

London, July 21.—Intent on finding out everything practical relating to commercial and economic problems that the great centers of the Old World have to show, a party of ninety representative American business and professional men arrived in England recently on the Carmania and left a few days later for Paris. The tour is made in connection with and in a sense under the auspices of the International Association of Chambers of Commerce, which is an organization of business men throughout the entire world whose purpose is to facilitate the commercial intercourse of nations and to promote cordial relationship between them. Incidentally, the association will have something emphatic to say in connection with the great peace problem. One of the most important planks in its platform as explained by the secretary of the touring party, James McKibbin of Boston, is the theory that the extension of commerce means the elimination of war and bloodshed.

The International Congress of Chambers of Commerce, which held its first biennial session in Liege in 1904, will hold its first American meeting in Boston in 1912, and it is partly for the purpose of extending an invitation to foreign delegates that the present party has come to Europe. It includes solid men from every section of the United States, representatives of business and the practical professions who stand high in their respective communities.

Leading Members of the Party.

Among them are R. W. Speer, mayor of Denver; E. J. Stackpole, editor-in-chief of the Harrisburg, Pa., Telegraph; Charles W. Roble of Boston, a high official of the American Express company; William A. Potter, a leading wholesale grocer of Boston; John Martin, a publicist whose home is in Stapleton, N. Y., but who accompanies the party as special representative of the New York board of education; Charles E. Julin, secretary of the New Haven chamber of commerce; Frederick C. Horne, a lawyer of Cleveland, Ohio; William Hudson Harper, editor of Chicago Commerce; John H. Fahey, newspaper publisher of Boston and chairman of the delegation; Durand C. Alexander of Washington, the official delegate of the bureau of manufactures; Charles E. Paten, a big lumber merchant of Seattle; Amos R. Little, a prominent member of the Good Government association of Boston; William Fortune, who holds many important executive positions in Indianapolis and accompanies the tour as the official delegate both of his city and state; J. Pinckney Adams of Fair Haven, Vt., a large quarry owner who is an active searcher after truth connected with the labor problem, and Lincoln Steffens, who holds a special commission from Everybody's Magazine.

"What we are looking for," said Mr. McKibbin, "is the unusual thing, and the thing done especially well—better than we can do it at home. We also desire to bring about closer industrial and commercial relations between European countries and our own. The delegation and every chamber of commerce which it represents has but one motive, and that is to bind the nations together in one close bond of peace. Mr. Steffens' article in Everybody's Magazine will employ this idea as a leading motive.

Hospitably Received.

"As to our reception I can only say it has been most hospitable everywhere. We have been met in the three leading cities we have visited here by delegations from the chambers of commerce, who are members of the international congress, men who understand us, and are working to the same end as ourselves—the general bettering and expansion of business, and the perfect solution of economic problems. And we have seen some wonderful things. At Liverpool the docks and the admirable working out of the housing problem; at Port Sunlight the great Lever soap works; at Manchester the marvelous ship canal; and in London the various wonderful municipal improvements especially. The system of automatic electric lighting is wonderful in Liverpool.

"We are all traveling together and yet each man is seeing what he specializes in, and incidentally we are getting a good deal of pleasure out of the trip. Every hour of it has its apportionment for nearly two solid months, but it is not all work and no play."

The visit to Manchester seems to be the most striking episode of the tour just commenced. All the members of the delegation are loud in praise of the enterprise displayed in turning a great inland manufacturing city into a great seaport and wonder if the feat could not be duplicated. Amos R. Little of Boston, a prominent member of the bar, and civic organization there, believes that Worcester, fifty miles from Boston, could be brought to the sea in this way.

Unload Boats by Electricity.

"It is true we have no international commerce," he said, "to back us like Manchester has, but there is a wide and splendid country behind us, including the Canadian Northwest. At Manchester I saw them unloading boats by electricity, and one man doing it all, too, by pressing a button. We haven't got that far yet. That Manchester ship canal has made me a firm believer in municipal ownership."

Mayor Speer of Denver said what particularly struck him over here was the respect invariably shown for superiors everywhere in officialdom.

"It is not like our free and easy way," he said—and the big man sighed. Asked his opinion of municipal ownership based on what he had seen so far he said it seemed to work very well here, although he was not ready to form a final opinion about it—but that he did not believe we were ready for it in America.

"There seems to be very little graft here, indeed," he said. "But there; what is the use of emphasizing graft, or even referring to it. Over here they look for the good. That's one great difference between us—while we always seem to be looking for the bad."

Fifteen members of the party are accompanied by their wives.

INTERNATIONAL FALLS LOGGER IS HERE.

William G. Randolph, of International Falls, who ten years ago achieved considerable notoriety following the shooting and killing of "One Armed" Sullivan at Rainy Lake City, is in Duluth for a short visit. Mrs. Randolph also came to the city, and is now visiting relatives and friends in Superior, her former home. Mr. Randolph is a logger and owner of boats operating on the Rainy river and Rainy lake.

The Randolph-Sullivan emnity was one of the bitterest and resulted in probably the most sensational gun fight that ever took place in Minnesota. It was shown that Sullivan avowed several weeks before the gun fight occurred that he intended to kill Randolph if they met. In the fight Sullivan was killed and Randolph seriously wounded. After his recovery he was tried twice and acquitted.

WRECK OF MAINE IS PUMPED DRY

Removal of Mud Covering of Parts Remains to Be Accomplished.

Havana, July 21.—All the water in the cofferdam surrounding the Maine has been removed, showing the wreck embedded in the mud from an estimated depth of thirty-seven feet around the after-part of the vessel to an indeterminable depth. That portion of the ship immediately forward of the central superstructure, which was demolished, has completely disappeared except for some jagged pieces of rusted steel protruding above the slime.

The engineers intend to begin at once the work of drawing out the soft mud by suction, but they probably soon will be compelled to resort to the slow process of digging and hoisting the material out in buckets. Simultaneously they will begin the work of dissecting the great confused mass of metal. The bow section, represented by the plates and beams of the bottom of the ship, now stands upwards of twenty feet high. All portions of this section have been fully identified, including the remains of water tanks originally located on the lowest deck, and apparently not affected by the explosion.

Will Direct Wreckage.

All these parts have been photographed for future examination and to confirm the identification prior to the dissecting of the wreckage, which will be accomplished by hydro-acetelene blasts as soon as the apparatus is installed and derricks for the removal of the dismembered parts are erected.

Some fire-scorched bones were discovered in the vicinity of the overturned conning tower, where the remains of probably four bodies were previously found. All of the men are believed to have perished instantly. The remains offer no hope of identification. In view of the total demolition of the crew-berthing space, hope is diminished that any considerable number of remains would be recovered. From present indications three or four months will elapse before the mud surrounding the wreck is removed and all portions of the ship made visible.

LANDSLIDE STARTS TO FILL UP CULEBRA CUT.

Washington, July 21.—While the crew of a big steam shovel in the Culebra cut were enjoying a holiday July 4, a mass of earth and soft rock immediately north of Gold Hill fell into the cut and buried shovel No. 225. Another shovel is now trying to dig it out. Six days later there was another bad slide in the cut at Las Cascandas. The engineers, however, declare that the total amount of material in motion or about to move into the cut does not exceed the estimate of excavation yet to be done there.

The grand total of excavation on the canal to July 1, was 142,967,554 cubic yards, leaving to be excavated 39,570,212 or less than one-fourth of the entire amount for the completed ditch.

Akeley Lumber Concern Will Place Markers Along Public Roads.

Boon to Automobilists to Be Established Along All Highways.

Akeley, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow morning an automobile with a driver and two men will be sent to Brainerd by the Red River Lumber company of this city for the purpose of placing guide boards at regular intervals.

The boards will give the mileage to Akeley and indicate the direction. Akeley is the natural automobile gateway from the Twin Cities to the Itasca state park, Park Rapids, Walker, Bemidji and other beautiful playgrounds of the state, located in this vicinity. The road from Akeley to Walker, located on the shores of the historic Leech lake, have been placed in excellent condition, and automobile parties will have no trouble in getting through, as heretofore.

New Creamery Nearly Completed.

The new creamery building of the Akeley Creamery company is nearly completed, and the new machinery and equipment will be installed shortly. The creamery building is one of the largest and most modern in Northern Minnesota. It is practically fireproof. The officers will procure a first-class butter maker and send him out among the farmers tributary to this city for the purpose of giving lectures and demonstrating to them the best method of caring for their cream, how to care for and feed cows, and other matters incident to the successful operation of a creamery for both farmer and creamery.

The work on the new city hall and jail has begun. The basement is nearly ready for the cement. The building will be of brick and cement and will cost about $5,000.

Building High School Addition.

The Akeley high school addition of four rooms and basement is in course of construction. The building will be of brick and will cost about $7,000. A well-equipped gymnasium will occupy the basement. The inauguration of the domestic science and industrial science departments made the additional rooms necessary. When the new addition is completed, Akeley will have one of the most up-to-date schools in the state, for a town of its size, and a very creditable building, although there has been no lavish amounts expended upon the building. It is substantially and plainly finished both on the interior and exterior.

LAYS GRAFT TO HENNEPIN MEN

Amended Changes Are Made By Attorneys for Stringer.

St. Paul, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorneys for Alfred Stringer, who preferred charges against the commissioners of Hennepin county, have filed an amended petition, this time charging the commissioners directly with graft. Commissioner C. M. E. Carlson is accused of accepting $750 for his vote for C. J. Minor as county supervisor of taxes. The charge reads:

"That in the year 1911, Commissioners Upton, Knight and Carlson were induced to elect C. J. Minor, county supervisor of taxes by the undue influence brought to bear upon the commissioners by Fred Briggs, C. C. Jones, one Putnam and one Joyce, and that $750 was paid to Commissioner Carlson by persons to this complaint unknown, to vote for the election of said Minor."

The Fred Briggs mentioned is the same Briggs under arrest in Minneapolis, charged with being in conspiracy with Jerry McCarthy, the bandit slain there last Saturday night.

Another charge is that Commissioner Knight bought valuable cows, horses and harness for the poor farm, converted them to his own use and replaced them with old and useless ones. Other junkets and questionable deals such as building roads and ditches for political capital, also are alleged.

REGULAR "HOLE IN WALL."

Novel Method of Conducting North Dakota Blind Pig.

Minot, N. D., July 21.—Special to The Herald.)—About as unique a plan as has ever been devised for the sale of beer in North Dakota has been brought to light by Sheriff Kelly in Ward county. The pigger in question, already under arrest virtually did business through a "hole in the wall." In a livery barn a small hole had been cut in the wall.

Three taps was the signal for a sale, the money would be deposited on the inside of the hole by the customer and then two bottles of beer would be shoved out. At no time did the customer have an opportunity of seeing with whom he was doing business.

Sheriff Kelly, after the arrest, tried the plan. Standing on the inside he waited only a short time before the raps came, and with them several silver dollars. But the shop was closed.

Langdon, N. D., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. J. J. Reilly of Milton, convicted in the district court of murder in the second degree and sentenced to the state penitentiary for ten years, has been released under a bond of $10,000 and immediate steps will be taken to present an application for a new trial. Failure in this motion will send the case directly to the supreme court, where a bitter fight to keep the accused physician from the prison will be made.

Dr. Reilly refuses to make any statement with reference to his conviction.

SARGENT COUNTY OFFICIALS SUED

North Dakota Officials Alleged to Have Illegally Withheld Fees.

Forman, N. D., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—That six different county officials of Sargent county have retained to their own personal use approximately $3,600, collected by them as fees and alleged to be rightfully the funds of the county, is the claim that is set up by the board of county commissioners in actions that have been brought. Recovery of this amount is sought, while the county also seeks to definitely establish the right of any county officer to any fees that might be covered into his office.

What Is Wanted.

County Treasurer C. H. Cooper is sued for $700; former Treasurer Ed B. Johnson is sued for $500; Auditor R. P. Irving is asked to return $1,000 and former Auditor Charles Marcellus is sued for $1,300. Register of Deeds E. L. Warriner and County Judge S. A. Sweetman are each made defendants in actions for much smaller amounts.

The question has been a live one in Sargent county for several years and has caused a great deal of trouble at various times. The officials contend that the law intends that such fees shall go to the officers, but the county commissioners now contend that the money does in fact belong to the county.

SHOENER WAS NOT DROWNED.

Menominee Man Who Disappeared From Boat Caused Scare.

Menominee, Mich., July 21.—Special to The Herald.)—While police and others were dragging the bottom of his body, Fred Schoener, a former employe of the Pine Hill farm, was at home changing his clothes.

Schoener went from the sugar factory dock to the Carpenter-Cook dock in a raw boat shortly after dinner. About 1 o'clock his brother found the boat half full of water and was convinced that his brother had been drowned. He gave the alarm and the police soon set to work with grappling irons. Fred learned over the telephone that he was dead and that an active search for his body was in progress and went down to the river and called it off.

MOOSE LAKERS STUNG.

Smooth Strangers Work Them for Traveling Money.

Moose Lake, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several local merchants are looking for a smooth individual who worked them cleverly for about $10 on the theory that he was dying and must get to the mountains in Colorado to receive treatment.

It is said the swindler secured a letter head of Editor C. F. Mahnke, who is also president of the village council and borrowed the latter's typewriter, and with this forged the signature of business men to recommendations for himself and asked donations of others to secure money to take him to Colorado for his health. When Mr. Mahnke learned of what was going on the stranger could not be found.

ASSESSMENTS RAISED.

Beltrami County Board Has Hoisted Assessor's Figures.

Bemidji, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county board of equalization adjourned yesterday until Aug. 10, after equalizing the assessments of the county as returned by the various assessors. There was a wide variance of placing values in different localities.

The board adopted a motion raising the assessments of the stocks of local merchants, as well as the stock and fixtures of Bemidji saloonkeepers 50 per cent over the returns made by the city assessor. Several merchants were called before the board and gave information desired, prior to the raise of 50 per cent.

In the matter of the assessments of the Crookston Lumber company, the Bemidji Lumber company and the Douglas Lumber company, the assessments as returned by the assessor were raised, in every instance, as follows:

The original assessment of the Crookston company was $233,450, which was raised $28,005, making the present assessment $261,455. Original assessment of Bemidji company $93,360, raised $17,350, present assessment, $110,710. Douglas company, original assessment, $2,290, raised $298, now, $2,588.

The assessed valuation of the companies as fixed last year was as follows: Crookston company, $261,700; Bemidji company, $84,620. Douglas company, $4,342. The Douglas company has greatly reduced its stocks since last year, according to official information given out.

BOY'S DEATH PROBED.

Learning How Minneapolis Youth Was Killed in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., July 21.—At the coroner's inquest held here in the case of Franklin Heath, the Minneapolis boy, who was killed by being crushed under a Northern Pacific train, Thomas Duggan, the brakeman, who was forcing the victim and his brother to go over a load of telegraph poles from whence the boy fell under the wheels, was a witness.

Wilbur Heath, who was with his brother, declared there were two men in the car which they were forced to leave, but that they gave the brakeman money and were allowed to remain unmolested. Thomas Duggan denied. He refused to answer questions at first and later became confused in his answers.

The burden of the boy's testimony was that his brother's life might have been spared had they had money to give to the brakeman to induce him to permit them to continue their ride. They were stealing their way from Montana to Minneapolis.

Practically every west bound freight and passenger train is loaded to the trucks with this class of people and the railroad men are having some trouble in preventing them from taking complete possession of the trains.

Bemidji — Anton Erickson, 33 years old, a resident of Eland township, was committed Wednesday to the Fergus Falls hospital for the insane by Judge of Probate M. A. Clark, and an examining board made up of Dr. A. A. Henderson and Dr. L. A. Ward. For the past—three or four years Erickson has not been in good health, his actions at times have not been those of a sane man.

Winona—Two dozen fly nets, a shipment of the Minnesota Harness company, were stolen from a box on the St. Paul tracks, about a week ago. Several pairs have been recovered and the police are working on the case. An East Third street saloonkeeper bought the nets in good faith, he says, from a stranger and sold them to local horse owners.

Fergus Falls — The city council on Monday evening passed an ordinance providing that the saloons in this city shall close at 10 o'clock p. m., instead of at 11 o'clock as provided by the state law. This ordinance had been pending for some time and was finally passed by a vote of 5 to 2.

Stillwater—The St. Croix boom resumed operations Thursday morning. Some work of preparation was done this afternoon. Recent rains made it possible for a driving crew to get 9,000,000 feet of logs into Nevers dam. There was a sluicing Wednesday morning which resulted in a lot of logs being made available at the boom near this city.

Little Falls—W. J. Munro, a post-office inspector, arrived in the city Wednesday morning and spent the day at the local postoffice giving the necessary instruction as to the operation of the postal savings depository which will be established here Saturday, Mr. Munro will be here again on July 22 and will assist in opening the depository.

He had but recently gone to Halstad to work, having been employed at various places and at one time was employed here. He was taken ill a day or so ago with a severe attack of pleurisy, to which he succumbed last evening. It is understood that his parents reside in Canada.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Aberdeen, S. D.—"Cropple," the famous outlaw horse of Ziebach county, who has thrown countless dozens of cowboys who attempted to master him, has at last been conquered. At a celebration at Isabel, in Dewey county, a cowboy whose name has not yet been made known to the world, tempted by the standing offer of $50 for the person who would ride the animal, made the attempt, and with the assistance of a strap tied around the staddle horn and then looped around his waist, succeeded in maintaining his seat on the dashing "outlaw" pony, and won the $50.

Fargo, N. D.—As a result of the escape of a big baboon at the fair grounds, Monday afternoon, and the assault of the animal upon the person of Mrs. Louise Campbell, daughter of A. N. Hathaway, a suit for $500 is now pending against Joe Edwards, the owner of the animal show with the Parker shows at the Interstate fair.

Kenmare, N. D.—James Stokes, aged 18, forged a check for $52 on the Farmers & Merchants bank, signed the name of Peter Bertleson, a merchant, and was caught while attempting to board the flyer east by the chief of police. He had part of the money when captured. He admits his guilt and implicates a partner, who got away on the train.

Grand Forks, N. D.—F. F. Burchard, secretary of the board of education, has returned from New York, where he was called by the illness of his wife, who is visiting her parents. Mrs. Burchard is now much improved.

Minot, N. D.—Andrew Jensen of Burlington, charged with making an assault with a deadly weapon upon John Rose, his son-in-law, will be the first to be placed on trial at the July term of the district court. Judge Leighton called the criminal calendar and the Jensen case will be the first to be tried.

Fargo, N. D.—As a result of the work of the county commissioners and Supt. J. W. Riley in giving the town of Chaffee some additional sections of land in its school district, the little Cass county town will erect a new schoolhouse.

Bathgate, N. D.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Carson received from the Children's home at Fargo on Wednesday last, a bright 4-month-old baby boy with bright blue eyes and a fascinating baby smile.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Frank Pitcher is reported cutting a field of winter wheat south of the city, which it is believed will yield in the neighborhood of twenty to twenty-five bushels to the acre when thrashed out. Winter wheat is considerable of a venture in North Dakota. An argument is offered in its favor that the possibility of not receiving sufficient moisture in winter wheat season is less than with spring wheat.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Sheboygan—Slipping away to Chicago, Charles O. Fairweather, a confirmed bachelor and one of the leading business men of this city, and Miss Gertrude Bonard were married in Chicago and are now on their honeymoon. Gustav Hensel, Atlanta, Ga., met them in Chicago and made the arrangements for a quiet wedding. Mr. Fairweather is one of the heavy real estate holders of this county and has been active in politics.

La Crosse—J. M. Fearstiman, city health commissioner, who has been empowered to close up theaters that do not comply with city and state ordinances regarding ventilation, has called on all local theatrical men to tell why they have been putting on shows under insanitary conditions.

Madison—State Forester E. M. Griffith, who returned on Wednesday from a trip through the northern counties, where he appointed forest patrols and inspected the state reserves, said that the country is dry but that the state is taking every precaution to prevent forest fires.

Madison—The state railroad commission on Wednesday issued an order requiring the Beloit Water, Gas and Electric company to lower its rates for gas and electric service about 20 per cent and to readjust its rates for water and install meters. The order contains a detailed schedule of water, gas and electric rates.

Algoma—The Van Camp Packing company's plant here on Tuesday finished canning the shortest crop known here since the canning industry opened in Northeastern Wisconsin. Excessive early spring rains followed by a protracted withering dry spell reduced the pea crop 60 per cent. No beans were put up.

Milwaukee—Bakers here will observe the spirit of the new Sunday closing law and bake no more breadstuffs Saturday nights. This was decided at the last meeting of the Milwaukee Master Bakers' association. All bread, cake, rolls and cookies for Sunday consumption will be baked on Friday nights, according to Albert Holl, secretary of the association.

Waukesha—Edward Merry, aged 38, while working on a pole on Barstow street, accidentally took hold of an electric wire containing 2,500 volts. He was instantly killed.

TEACH THRIFT TO THE WORKERS

Doctor of Poverty Thinks That the Children Should Learn.

Boston, Mass., July 21.—A doctor of poverty has come to Boston to remedy financial ills by showing the poor man how he can borrow from other poor men.

He also will teach mechanics and all salaried workers how they can band together into "bill paying clubs," pay their tradesmen and without hardship change from living on a credit basis to living on a cash payment plan.

This doctor of poverty, who places thrift as the root of human happiness, is Alphonse des Jardines of Levis, Que., who founded the Peoples bank system of Canada and who comes here at the invitation of the commonwealth and with the approval of Governor Foss to explain to Bay state workingmen his credit union system and incidentally to witness the starting of a number of these unions in Boston and other Bay state cities.

The importance of these credit unions to women as well as to men is dwelt upon by M. des Jardines, who makes the interesting point that experience in Canada has shown that it is not wise to loan to a man whose wife is "boss," unless the wife is pledged to see that the payments will be made as agreed.

Although M. des Jardines is chivalrous enough to say that women make good members of these bill-paying clubs, he still notes cases where wives, he says, inspire their husbands to negotiate loans for frivolous purposes, such as expensive gowns, excursions and similar luxuries.

More than this, the doctor of poverty thinks thrift should be taught to young children in the public schools, and he has done his share to put his idea into practice by founding school children's banks in Canadian towns where his credit union idea has been adopted.

It is a lack of education in thrift, he holds, that is the cause of poverty in later years. The average man, says M. des Jardines, makes about enough to live on, and if he expects to have anything laid by for use in later life he must be taught thrift.

HIS INTENDED BRIDE ELOPES

Memphis Girl Changes Mind Almost on Steps of Altar.

Memphis, Tenn., July 21.—One girl made the boast that there is always something doing in the Bluff city by exercising a woman's privilege of changing her mind. Not for many years has the ultra-fashionable set in this city been so stirred as it was Monday afternoon when rumors were circulated that the marriage of Miss Aileen Caldwell to Elmore Lowell Staples of Wyckliffe, B. C., which was announced to take place Wednesday evening had been cancelled.

At first no explanation was given at the bride's home, and immediately rumor ran riot. Miss Caldwell, a recent debutante, had been popular and the marriage was to be one of the notably brilliant nuptials of the season.

A large bridal party had been arranged, every detail completed, every plan announced and several smart luncheons and dinner parties already given for the bride and her attendants.

Early Monday morning Miss Caldwell left her home, ostensibly for the purpose of shopping. Nothing further was heard from her until her father, T. B. Caldwell, received a message from her, saying she was in Corinth, Miss., and had a few moments before been married to Gillindo St. Keleather of Asheville, N. C.

Mr. Caldwell was shocked, the mother of the bride prostrated. Meantime efforts to reach and stop Mr. Staples, en route to Memphis to claim his bride, were futile, and later in the day the gentleman arrived at the Peabody hotel in this city, only to be told by Bartlett Tully, who was to have served as best man, that his bride had gone as the wife of another man.

Mr. Staples, the unfortunate man in the case, is a resident of Wyckliffe, B. C., a man of means and culture, and had in waiting for his intended bride a handsome home in that city.

You will get more enjoyment from the Water Carnival if you have a case of Fitger's Beer in your cellar—always ready for a light lunch or refreshment.

TO BE CLOSE TO NATURE

Girls' Colony in a Colorado Canyon Is an Artist's Plan.

Corsets, Cigarettes and Cock tails Are Barred in This Community.

Grand Junction, Colo., July 21.—No more bartering of American heiresses for foreign titles; an end to loveless marriages; the discarding of the cigarette and cocktail as necessities for the up-to-date society girls; an end of the follies of the "Four Hundred."

The above are some of the reforms which Beatrice Farnham Otto, the Boston and San Francisco artist and sculptress, expects to bring about by the establishment of an "Independence Colony" in Monument Park, near here, where the girls of high society and the daughters of workingmen will be brought together to be taught new ideals of a sane American life.

Mrs. Otto says that the girl in the East today is a "mere doll," and that she does not altogether blame them for their attitude toward life because of the way they are brought up from babyhood.

Mrs. Otto has been interesting some of her wealthy Eastern friends in her ideas, and they are enthusiastically in favor of it. She intends to use her own private fortune to carry out the scheme for making the American girl again the independent creature she should be.

Within a few weeks Mrs. Otto expects to start the colony with about a score of girls with whom she is acquainted in the East—not only heiresses, but poor working girls—who, she believes, will benefit by a life in the open. Mrs. Otto, as Beatrice Farnham, left her home in South Weymouth and the Boston Art school more than five years ago because she was disgusted with modern society. She has spent the intervening years in San Francisco art schools, and the major part of her time among the Indians of New Mexico and Arizona, living their life and putting behind her the education she received in Boston society.

Prefers Indian to Gilded Youth.

"I would sooner trust the lowest type of Indian whom I have seen than the gilded youth who rank high in the 'Four Hundred' of either New York, Chicago or Boston. The woman of today has more chance to maintain herself respect in the West, where man is supposed to be rough and uneducated and uncultured, than in the drawing rooms of the millionaire of the East," said Mrs. Otto, in talking about her new scheme.

"I believe there are but few people who disagree with me when I say the attitude of the American woman toward marriage is all wrong. The girls of today are brought up with the idea firmly fixed in their minds that they are the drones of society.

"How can you expect a girl reared under such conditions to be anything but a silly doll? She is brought up under such enervating conditions that naturally, if she is a child of wealth, she will turn to the cigarette and the cocktail as a stimulant for her jaded nerves. And if this sort of thing were confined to our heiresses—our members of the exclusive set—it wouldn't be so bad. But the ways of society are aped by the daughters of the poor. The girls are allowed to take life easy, while their mothers slave day and night to give them this life of idleness and laziness.

"So what they have in their youth they want when they marry. The girls of the poor do not want to work, if circumstances should compel it, and they do not want to marry the men of their same class. They are always looking for princes in disguise—some men who will promise them a life of idleness in the future, as they have been accustomed to since childhood. That is one reason why we hear of so many girls of poor parents being wronged by sleek villains. They are brought up to it. Loveless marriages are the rule rather than the exception both among the poor and the rich."

"If some of our modern society girls, who are imbued with the crazy notion of marrying a title, will join with me in 'Independence Colony,' I will guarantee that they will soon forget what environment taught them and take a sane, common-sense American view of life," she continued. "I propose, first of all, that the members of the colony shall return to nature—that the girls shall live the natural life which has made the Western-bred girl the self-reliant young woman she is today.

No Corsets, Rats or Puffs.

We will discard corsets, and rats, and puffs, and powder, and give the girls the real complexion. Tan is a good asset for any one, man or woman. It betokens health—and health is wealth. We will live in the open in Monument canyon, and try to forget the false notions which have meant so much to many of our young women. Cigarettes and cocktails will be tabooed. Colorado air and sunshine are exhilarating enough for any one and quite as intoxicating for some.

"We have no idea of establishing a free-love colony, as some have suggested. Marriage today is a mockery, and not founded on love except in exceptional instances. The West is freer from loveless marriages than the East, and it is our idea to change all of this by an open-air life, which will get the poison of years of false environment out of the minds of the members of the colony.

"I also intend to invite poor girls, who need Colorado climate for their health, to join the colony. It will be a mutual concern, all sharing the expense, excepting, of course, those unable to do so. In those cases I shall use my own fortune to make the colony pay its way until it becomes self-supporting. Eventually there will be thousands of girls from all over the East who will be anxious to take a course in Independence Colony, and as soon as the first set of my friends have become thoroughly imbued with the new idea of seeing life, I shall expect them to start other colonies in different parts of the West. It might be possible to have some of these colonies in the East, but I fear the contaminating influence of Eastern cities."

POLYGAMIST DEFINED

As a Republican By Candidate for Naturalization Papers.

New York, July 21.—"Polygamist, a Republican," was the definition given by an applicant the other day in response to a question put him by Robert Wallace, clerk of the supreme court naturalization bureau. Wallace, who is a Republican, was so shocked he applied to County Clerk Schneider for a vacation of two days to recover his mental equilibrium.

When Wallace asked Giuseppe Antonelli the first question about organized government, Antonelli said he did not understand.

"Are you an anarchist?" Wallace inquired.

"Well, I don't know," replied Antonelli.

"Can you tell me what a polygamist is?" pursued Wallace.

"Sure," said Antonelli, confidently, "a polygamist is a Republican."

"According to your lights, then, an anarchist must be a Democrat," retorted Wallace disgustedly. He advised Antonelli to go home and learn a little more about anarchy and polygamy before seeking again to be naturalized.

AGED MAN WOULD REMOVE STIGMA

Served Twenty-Five Years for Murder He Never Committed.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 21. — A story of twenty-five years spent in the Indiana state prison with a stigma of murder against him, of which many believe him innocent, was brought before the state board of pardons a few days ago by Andrew Koerner, who was paroled from the prison two years ago and now is seeking an absolute pardon.

At the conclusion of Koerner's story, which was told between sobs, there was no one who would deny that he had made a favorable impression and that, in seeking his pardon, his chief desire was to be technically relieved from the stigma of having been a convict.

Koerner was sent to state prison for life from Marion county following his conviction for the murder of his wife in 1884. He first was sentenced to be hanged, but that sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Porter. Koerner was convicted on circumstantial evidence, it having been proved at the trial that a pair of wooden sandals, similar to those worn by him, had been tracked in the snow from his wife's bedroom, where she was found dead. A hired man had a pair of shoes similar to those worn by Koerner, it is said, and he was arrested, but he died in jail before the trial.

Appearing before the board with the paroled prisoner were his two daughters, a nephew and Koerner's attorneys, John W. Claypool and Richard M. Coleman. It was not a prepared speech that Koerner made to the board, but it was one that appealed to them, apparently.

"I spent twenty-five years in prison for a crime that I never committed, and I think I am entitled to this much—a pardon—now," said Koerner. "I am an old man and I know that every one knows be as a convict, but all I ask is to be given a pardon and permitted to live with my daughters, knowing that I have been pardoned."

One of his daughters, a young woman, sobbed out a plea for her father's pardon, saying she had always believed him innocent; that if she believed him guilty she would not own him as her father, and ending by saying she believed the board knew best, and if it saw fit to deny the request she could do no more than abide by its decision.

W. M. Fogarty, president of the Fidelity Trust company, appeared in behalf of Koerner to show that he had a bank account and that he had earned the money by working since his release from prison on parole.

WIDOW OF IRISH PEER,

Who Housed Hundred Dogs and Was Otherwise Eccentric, Dies.

Atlanta, Ga., July 21.—Mrs. Sarah E. Grabbett, one of the wealthiest and most ecentric women of Atlanta, and widely known as the "Irish Peeress," is dead here, at the age of 77.

Mrs. Gabbett before her marriage was a Miss Richardson of Savannah, daughter of a prominent physician of that place years ago. She married Henry G. Gabbett, who was an Irishman, and about whom there was much mystery. It was said that Gabbett was an Irish nobleman who had sworn never to live in Ireland or assume his title as long as the island was under British rule. Gabbett was wealthy, and he and his wife took frequent trips to Europe but never visited England, Scotland or Ireland. Years ago Gabbett died, and since then Mrs. Gabbett resided alone in a mansion in Atlanta, with more than 100 dogs for companions. She dressed in costly attire and made a great display of jewels.

Frequently she was seen on the streets of Atlanta, always accompanied by her dogs. The dogs were of all sizes and of all breeds, and were devoted to their mistress. When one died Mrs. Gabbett had it interred as though it were a human being, and it is said that she went into mourning. She owned a great deal of Atlanta real estate, and so far as known had no relatives. It is believed that she bequeathed her property to the Episcopal church, of which she was a devout communicant.

WEARS POLAR CLOTHES ON HOT DAY TO WIN BET.

Greeley, Colo., July 21.—Serious illness threatens E. O. Martin, employed in the office of the Great Western Sugar company here, as the result of a freak bet made with one of his fellow employes, who contended that it was too hot to work.

Martin declared that the temperature was very comfortable and should not be objected to by a reasonable man. In the argument that ensued Martin bet $5 that he could ride around the outskirts of Greeley clad in a fur overcoat and fur cap, on a bicycle, without suffering any ill effects.

When he left the sugar factory the thermometer registered 101. In the blazing sun of the early afternoon he rode several miles, clad in his polar costume, but he was badly overheated when he returned to the factory. That night he became quite ill and is now suffering considerably as the result of winning his wager.

HEALTHY NERVES

Impossible Without Pure, Rich, Red Blood.

A Cure Which Proves the Value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the Treatment of Even Severe Nervous Diseases.

Mrs. Donald Galloway, of No. 1516 Hardesty avenue, Kansas City, Mo., suffered from nervous prostration without relief until she tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"I suffered for a year from what the doctors called nervous prostration, due to overwork. I was dizzy all of the time and very nervous. I would get short of breath and felt as though I would fall at each step. At times I would be so nervous that I would shake all over and it seemed as though I was being pricked with needles. I could not hold a plate for fear of dropping it. There were severe pains in my side. I was reduced in weight, could not work and was confined to bed for a month. I had sick headaches twice a week and could not sleep nights.

"The doctors did not seem to help me and they said it would be a long time before I would get well. I also tried many medicines but without help and had given up hope of getting well. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to my husband. I did not see much of an improvement until I had taken three boxes of the pills. From then on I began to sleep and eat better and felt better in every way. The pills did me so much good that I kept on taking them until cured and I have been well ever since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the most direct cure for nervous troubles because they remove the cause of these diseases by building up and purifying the blood. The pure blood which they make furnishes the nerves with needed elements until they are restored to their normal strength. The pills have made so many remarkable cures in nervous disorders that no sufferer can afford to neglect giving them a trial.

They can be obtained at any drug store or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50. While so promptly effective, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful stimulants or opiates. They are perfectly safe and create no drug habit. Write for a free copy of our new booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System." The booklet describes symptoms and gives much useful information. It will be sent on postal card request.

This morning weather conditions were ideal for the shooting on the Park Point range. On the east side of the Point the trees broke the rather heavy wind, and while some of the marksmen complained about the light, the consensus of opinion was that the situation could not be much bettered.

CHANDLER GETS ANOTHER LEGACY

One More Million Received By the "Million-Dollar Kid."

Manchester, N. H., July 21.—Byron Chandler, "the million dollar kid" of Manchester and New York, who has made the white lights blink some in Boston, New York, London and Paris, and gained notoriety by his sensational marriage to Grace La Rue, actress, will have $1,000,000 more to spend.

This new block of money comes from the estate of his grandmother, Mrs. Benjamin F. Martin of Manchester, whose death was announced last week. Mrs. Martin, who was 90 years of age, was Byron's maternal grandmother, and Byron was her favorite grandson. It is expected that Benjamin M. Chandler, brother of Byron, will also inherit a part of the estate.

Byron Chandler is 31 years old. When his father died a few years ago and left him a large fortune he went to the Amoskeag bank here, drew $10,000, and as he came gayly down the bank steps waved the huge wad of bills in his fist and shouted:

"Now for joy!"

Since then he has had joy and plenty of it. He has been married, divorced and married again, and he has had two breach of promise suits filed against him.

In 1905 he bought Red Mills farm, a beautiful estate at Reading, Mass., and set himself up as a country gentleman. He furnished it lavishly, installed kennels, bought a string of horses and tried to have Reading society come to him. But the conservative society people of Reading held back and at the end of three years he sold his estate to the New England Kennel club.

In the fall of 1908 Chandler attended a performance of Sam Bernard's musical comedy, "Nearly a Hero," and became enamored of Grace La Rue, the leading woman, when she appeared in a gauzy Oriental costume and sang "My Sahara Bell." He followed the show and finally married the actress.

New Dynamite Indictments.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 21.—New indictments have been returned against Bert H. Connors, E. Ira Bender and A. B. Maple, accused of having conspired to dynamite the new county hall of records. Bail was fixed at $25,000 each. The men are still in prison in default of bonds.

MONOPOLY IN SUGAR? NO!

John E. Parsons Says Such a Thing Is Impossible.

Insists Trust Is Not Like Oil and Tobacco Combine.

New York, July 21.—In the course of his testimony here today before the congressional committee that is investigating the American Sugar Refining company, John E. Parsons, former attorney for the big firm, insisted that the American Sugar Refining company is not a trust similar to Standard Oil and the American Tobacco company.

He scouted the idea that it was a monopoly. "There is no such thing as a monopoly possible," he said.

Representative Madison read into the record that after the American had absorbed the Philadelphia refineries there were three independent refineries in New York.

"Who organized those three refineries into the National Refinery company?"

"Mr. Havemeyer planned it, I believe."

"And he was then president of the American?"

"Yes."

He Couldn't Remember.

"Were not these three companies to exchange all of their corporate stock for the preferred stock of the National, there being $10,000,000 of preferred and $10,000,000 of common?"

Mr. Parsons hesitated.

"And did not the American later acquire that preferred stock or a majority of it?"

"I believe so, I don't remember perfectly."

"The American did not acquire any of the National's $10,000,000 of common stock?"

"No."

"Mr. Havemeyer acquired possession of that $10,000,000 common stock. Do you know what he paid for or how he acquired it?"

"I do not know. The American had nothing to do with this deal with Mr. Havemeyer."

SENSATION IN PITTSBURG.

Big Crowd Follows Man Wearing Trouserettes and Silk Waist.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 21.—When the late Mark Twain declared that the "peg-top" trousers was a monument to the genius of man, little did he think that before the rains had obliterated the simple epitaph from his tombstone the stronger sex would adopt a style that would have the "peg-toppers" beaten to a frazzle.

A few days ago Count Burgoise Berwert, noted French fashion plate, arrived in Pittsburg with the ladylike dress which is man's very latest thing in wearing apparel. He calls it the "parachute" trousers, and to introduce it in a practical way he appeared in Fifth avenue in full regalia in the evening. A crowd of people followed him up the street, and he had to appeal to Captain of Police John Dean for protection.

The count's new trouserette is absolutely hipless, with a corset-shaped waist of the princess or empire type, extending almost to the chest. The waist is drawn closely about the body with silk ties, a bow of which is made at the sternum. The waist that is worn with the trousers is of silk, with collar and jabot attached.

To make the new attire more effeminate, it is absolutely pocketless, the wearer being obliged to carry his money in his stocking. None of the Pittsburg stores would entertain the count with his new fad in ladylike trousers, and he says he will leave for the East, where people appreciate style.

INSECT'S STING

So Indisposed Bishop That a Wedding Was Postponed.

Wilmington, Del., July 21.—The sting of an insect so indisposed Episcopal Bishop Kinsman as to compel postponement of the wedding of Rev. Guy Emery Shipler of St. Louis, and Miss Margaret Strong of Chicago. The ceremony was to have been performed by the bishop in his private chapel adjoining his residence in Wilmington.

The bishop was bitten on the knee by an insect near Cooperstown, N. Y., several weeks ago, necessitating treatment at the Thanksgiving hospital at Cooperstown. He returned home a week ago and the trouble broke out afresh. He went to a Maine summer resort, where he will remain until Sept. 1.

It is expected that the wedding will take place upon the bishop's return.

LAD BECOMES EXPERT IN AVIATION FEATS.

Allentown, Pa., July 21.—When Glen Curtiss flew a flying machine here last September at the Allentown fair, one of the spectators most interested was Howard Levan, then 16 years old. The boy at that time had a job as attendant at a billiard room as only a few dollars a week. He was so interested that he introduced himself to Curtiss, who answered his questions and explained his flying machine with characteristic kindness, but told him he could not give him a job. A week or two later young Levan disappeared, and he was not heard from until about three months ago, when at Toledo he made a very successful flight in a Strobel machine, carrying as a passenger a colonel of the Ohio National Guard.

Last week the officers of the Allentown fair entered into a contract with young Levan for flights during the fair here next September, which, if carried out successfully, will cost the association upward of $5,000. Levan, after running away, secured a job with Strobel, selling postcards. He was so impatient to fly that he began to take the machine out secretly at night, and before his employer discovered that he was flying at all, was quite an accomplished aviator.

PETTICOAT CAMPAIGN

Kansas Women Show the Politicians Some Genuine Politics.

Organization Methods Are Eye-Openers to Old Party Wheelhorses.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 21.—Old politicians who smiled when the legislature passed the act submitting the suffrage question to a vote in Kansas and spoke with toleration of the efforts of the women to attain equal political rights are becoming alarmed now and are realizing that they are going to have a stiff fight to keep the women from winning. The way the women are going about the work of perfecting an organization is a continual marvel to the old politicians and more than one of them has admitted that he didn't believe it was possible.

The politicians are against suffrage because they fear that when the women vote the little power left to them after the primary law was passed will be swept away. This was strongly hinted when the women began to vote in municipal and school elections years ago. The so-called liberal element also is against suffrage because of a fear that when the women can vote there never will be a chance to resubmit the prohibitory law, for which an organization now is at work in Kansas. Neither the politicians nor the liberals had any doubts that they could defeat suffrage at the polls in November, 1912, but doubt is here to stay.

Organization Complete in Detail.

The women are carrying the organization into every home in the state. Nothing is being done hurriedly. They have taken "Slow but sure" for their motto and nothing is being attempted without a certainty that it can be carried out. The general organization already has been perfected and the county organizations are well under way. In some counties the work of organizing the townships and city wards already has begun.

The organization plan of the suffrage movement provides for a general state organization in each county. Under the county organization will be township and ward organizations, and these again will be divided into block and school district committees, so that the organization is carried into practically every home in the state.

Neither of the old political parties in the state ever at one time had anything that approached it for completeness. In organizing the counties and cities mass conventions are held. These conventions appoint vice presidents for each ward or township, whose duty it is to call a meeting in her district, organize and appoint ward and block or township and school district captains. These captains will pool their districts and untimately there will be turned into the state committee a report upon how every voter in Kansas stands on the suffrage question.

Papers Treat Cause With Dignity.

Later on, when the last precinct is organized, the women will begin both by public meetings and by personal appeals to convert voters opposing the constitutional amendment. In the mean time the women are overlooking to get arguments favorable to suffrage into the newspapers and the leaders are surprised at the large number of papers which have come out actively in support of their cause. They expected jibes and jeers, but instead the newspapers, even those most strongly opposed to suffrage, have been treating them with marked courtesy.

"If these women were jeered at," an old politician remarked, "they would win in a walk and for that reason we have to be mighty nice to them. If they succeed in getting a campaign fund, I'm afraid it is all off with us anyway. It is a source of continual surprise to me to see the political sagacity they exhibit. Strong as I am against suffrage, I have to admire their business-like way of going after what they want. If the Populists had exhibited half as much sense twenty years ago they would have swept every state west if the Alleghenies.

As a matter of fact, a large number of the women who are now interested in the suffrage organization were identified with the Populist party and many of the ideas being acted upon by the women are theirs. Numbers of others were identified with ths suffrage campaign of 1896.

Because of their experience in that campaign most of these old leaders were elected officers in the state association. The officers of the association are:

President, Mrs. W. A. Johnson, Topeka; first vice president, Mrs. W. R. Stubbs, Lawrence; second vice president, Mrs. Cora Wellhouse Bullard, Tonganoxie; secretary, Miss Helen Backer, Lawrence; treasurer, Mrs. S. A. Thurston, Topeka; auditor, Mrs. W. A. White, Emporia. The congressional district vice presidents are: First district, Mrs. Cora W. Bullard, Tonganoxie; Second district, Mrs. Genevieve Chalkey, Lawrence; Third district, Mrs. P. H. Albright, Winfield; Fourth district, Mrs. L. C. Wooster, Emporia; Fifth district, Mrs. Mattie Kimball, Manhattan; Sixth district, Mrs. Anna C. Waite, Lincoln; Seventh district, Mrs. W. Y. Morgan, Hutchinson; Eighth district, Mrs. Ann Garrett, Wichita.

EASILY EXPLAINED.

Los Angeles Times: "Big Bill" Edwards, New York's popular street commissioner, said on a December day of sleet and snow:

"This is the kind of weather that made Tommy Greene late for school.

"'Tommy,' said his teacher, 'you're nearly twenty minutes late. Why is it?'

"'It's the walkin' ma'am,' said Tommy. 'The walkin' is that bad down where I live that, for every step forward on the way to school this mornin', I took two steps backward.'

"The teacher smiled scornfully.

"'At that rate, Tommy,' she said, 'you'd never reached school at all.'

"'No more I would, ma'am,' said Tommy Greene, 'so I turned round to go home again, and in a little while here I was at the schoolhouse.'"

A BISHOP'S BUSY DAY.

Philadelphia Record: Discarding his horse and buggy, Bishop Abram Herr of New Danville, Lancaster county, found it necessary to procure the service of an automobile in order to marry five pairs who lived in different sections of the county. Bishop Herr is a minister of the Mennonite faith, and the weddings were so scheduled that he scarcely had the time to eat a morsel of food at the big feasts that always follow a country wedding.

He married the first pair at his home and then jumped into the auto and was driven to Salunga, where he performed another wedding ceremony. From there the marrying parson was whisked to East Lampeter township, where two pairs were married. He solemnized the last wedding in the evening at Mountville.

THREE OF EVERYTHING IN THIS CHURCH.

Strand: A freakish place of worship is the Church of the Holy Trinity at Baura, in Upper Austria. It is built in the form of a triangle and stands on a little hill approached by a winding ascent. If you examine it you will find that everything possible has been done to glorify and commemorate the Three in One. It has three fronts, three towers, three doors and three windows. Inside there are three sacrisaltars, three organs, and three sacristies. The walls are decorated with three different kinds of marble, and the church cost three hundred and thirty-three thousand three hundred and thirty-three florins to build.

KILLING TIME.

Chicago News: "I've been reading Gibbon's 'Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire' the last few days," said the retired merchant, "and I find it wonderful. Gibbon was a marvelous man—"

"He wasn't anything of the kind," remarked the hotelkeeper. "He was just an ordinary old jay. He spent nearly all his life writing that silly history. He never tried to do anything else. He had plenty of money and didn't have to worry about the grocery bills or the house rent or anything. All he had to do was to cock himself up in an easy chair and write that decline and fall tommyrot. Who couldn't write history under such conditions? Doggone it, I could write a better history than Gibbon ever heard of if I didn't have to stay up day and night to see that none of the guests of this hotel leave their rooms by way of the fire escape.

"The fact that you are reading such stuff shows what idleness will do for a man. Before you retired from business you were an ideal citizen. You had plenty to occupy your mind and you seldom had ten minutes to spare. When you did drop into this hotel you discussed things worth while. You talked about the price of basic slag or the spelter market in St. Louis or the output of prunes in California. Your talk had reference to present-day conditions, to the business world, and it was a pleasure to listen to you.

"Since you retired from business your mind is a shoreless vacuum. You are bored to death, and you think it your duty to bore your friends to death, so that everything may be made unanimous. One day you come in here and tell me that you're going to start a bee farm; the next day you're going into the dairy business, and then you figure on raising asparagus for the market. Instead of doing any of these things you merely talk about them for a while and then forget them. Then you buy a motor car and ride in it a few times and bore people with stories of its wonderful speed and you tire of that. Next thing you begin reading that Gibbon dope, and you come in here expecting to tell me all about Rome and why it declined and fell, but I won't stand for it. I had enough decline and fall in mine when I lost $50 on Jim Jeffries.

"Sooner or later you'll have to get back into some sort of business, and the sooner the better for yourself and your friends. When a man gets down to talking Gibbon at 10 o'clock in the morning he's in a bad way. One of these days somebody will hit you with a spiked club for your own good, and when you recover consciousness you'll realize that the man who wastes his own time wastes other's time, and that's a crime.

"A man is a chump if he retires from business as long as he can stand on his legs and eat victuals. Here I stand, almost as old the constitution of the United States and with enough money in the bank to keep me in comfort the rest of my days, and people are always asking me why I don't retire and spend my declining years fooling around under vines and fig trees.

"I always have been used to doing something, and if I had to loaf around yawning and wondering what fool thing to do next to pass the time I wouldn't last long. In a few weeks I'd be mooning around talking about old Gibbon and his declining and falling graft, and the next thing you'd see my friends putting me in an iron cage and hauling me off to the booby hatch.

"This town is full of retired farmers. Most of them are husky men not much over 50 years of age. They made their pile out on the stubborn glebe and then they moved into town, thinking they were going to be as happy as a box of monkeys, with nothing to do and lots of money to do it with. And now they sit around the groceries and blacksmith shops playing checkers and yawning the tops of their fool heads off and wishing they were dead and in their graves. Every man jack of them would give his whiskers to be back on the farm but he's ashamed to go. And you're troubled with the same complaint, my friend."

FIRST AID TO THE FAINTING.

National Magazine: Fainting is a loss of consciousness due to the diminution of blood supply to the brain. It occurs most frequently in weak, sensitive women, but may occur also to men as well. It usually occurs in crowds or in crowded halls, theaters and churches, where the atmosphere is close and the air foul.

Fainting usually lasts only a few minutes and the person recovers immediately when taken out into the fresh air, but there are cases in which it lasts much longer, sometimes for an hour or more. The first aid treatment of fainting is usually very simple. Take the person out into the fresh air, lay him flat on the back with the head lower than the feet.

This can be done by grasping the feet and holding the body so that the head hangs down, or take an ordinary straight back chair, turn it over so that the back forms an angle with the floor and place the person on the back of the chair with the head hanging down. This position with the head hanging down favors the flow of the blood back to the brain.

All tight clothing about the neck and waist should be loosened. Smelling salts or armatic spirits of ammonia applied to the nostrils and cold water sprinkled on the face, chest and hands help to restore consciousness.

COSTUMES OF FISH SKINS.

Christian Herald. Among the most wonderful garments worn at the present day are the curious fish skin dresses of the wealthy women of the Gold tribe living along the Amur river, East Siberia. Though they can neither read nor write, these people are producing astonishing ornaments, designs and embroidery work.

The dress is composed of several layers of fish skin, the undermost representing the skin of the garment proper, the uppermost showing the ornaments in their cut out forms. Between these two layers is inserted a middle layer, which serves as a background, throwing out distinctly all parts of the ornaments. The pieces of fish skin forming the ornaments are generally colored blue. The front and back of the dress is adorned with these cut out pieces of fish skin sewed with fish skin thread.

THE CARNIVAL IN FULL SWING.

In spite of the weather man's little fluke just before the opening events, the Duluth Water Carnival opened most auspiciously yesterday. The miniature cloudburst that cast gloom over the spirits of those who had worked so hard to make the fete a success was succeeded by weather that was absolute perfection, and last night's entertainment was like a dream of fairyland. The town turned out en masse to mingle with the visitors, and not only every available viewpoint near the carnival grounds —if anything so wet as the bay can be called "grounds"— but the uptown streets were crowded. Everybody entered into the swing of it, and the carnival spirit pervaded everything. Nevertheless, there was order and good nature, and everybody did his part nobly, including the street railway company in its most important function of getting folks home after the show.

It was a beautiful beginning, and highly creditable to the town and to the promoters of the carnival.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK.

Government attorneys call attention to the fact that in the case against the so-called wall paper trust the proceedings are against individuals instead of the companies involved. If the government succeeds the effect will not be to command some corporation to walk three times around a stump or dye its hair. It will be to send the guilty men to jail.

There is some sense to that, and if the policy is continued it will have the effect desired. One guilty corporation manager in prison is worth more to the people than forty corporations slapped on the wrist.

SUNDAY'S HERALD BAND CONCERT.

And after the water carnival is over you'll be tired, and you'll want a good place to rest and enjoy yourself in a different way.

That's provided for, too. Go out to Chester park and attend the second Herald band concert by the Third Regiment band. Stretch yourself out in the shade somewhere on the amphitheater of hills that surrounds the park, through which the creek babbles its merry way to the lake, and luxuriate in the scenery, the glorious air and the good music.

It's free to everybody, and everybody is welcome. These concerts are held to give the people good music and a good time, and all that is needed to make them successful and worth while is for the people to attend them. And the experience of last Sunday, when the first concert of the series was given at Lincoln park, shows that the people will do that.

THE WAY OF A LEGISLATURE.

State legislatures, from all reports, are pretty much alike. They waste the early weeks of the session, let bills accumulate, and then crowd them through at lightning speed at the close without giving them decent consideration. And the last night of the session, pretty nearly everywhere, is a good deal of an orgy. Minnesota is not so bad as some, and is much better than many, but even eminently respectable Minnesota has witnessed the closing of its legislative sessions in scenes of revelry and disorder.

Says the Chicago Tribune: "A national organization is endeavoring to obtain uniform legislation in the various states. It is just becoming generally known that we have uniform legislatures.

"A Pennsylvania assemblyman who saw the brazen disregard of decencies in the closing hours of the Pennsylvania legislature writes of his disgust in the Equity Series. It would have been impossible, he says, for any conservative man, no matter how strongly he held to the idea that legislation directly by the people was unsafe, to witness the behavior of the legislators and retain the confidence that they could be trusted to arrive at just conclusions in legislation.

"Roll calls on bills were 'faked' openly. Measures which did not get more than twenty votes were announced as passed with 150 and more. The legislators were carousing, they were not voting. As a happy, profitable session comes to a close, and as the statesmen hear the rumble of the pay wagon approaching, they grow ebullient, noisy, rowdy and disorderly.

"Statesmen with water pistols were deluging their happy associates. A successful shot clear across the hall would be greeted with applause and glad noises. Books made more dangerous missiles, paper wads more amiable ones. The chief clerk was hit in the eye and an oculist had to be called.

"There will be laws on the Pennsylvania statute books enacted by this assemblage of inebriates, rowdies and grown-up children.

"In Ohio, is spite of the fact that some of the members had been trapped as they grafted, statesmen displayed themselves in a lighter mood as the session came to its end. Three representatives of the people stood on the floor in full view drinking from a bottle of champagne and singing 'Nobody Knows How Dry I Am.' With certain modifications these are the scenes in the Illinois legislature. If the various state assemblies had a national organization and a national code of conduct they could not be much more alike both in externals and essentials."

In Minnesota the last session closed with the embattled brewers surrounding the house clock to prevent its being turned back to let the session run past the midnight hour, while they were besieged by a mob of enraged statesmen. It was very close to riot.

Anybody who has witnessed the close of a legislative session almost anywhere will recognize these pictures. Varying slightly in degree and in details, they happen in nearly every state—in every state, so far as we know.

It would be very hard indeed for one who held representative government in high regard and direct legislation in great dread to witness the end of a legislative session and come out of it with his ideas intact.

THE QUESTION OF CONTROL.

Mr. Parsons, former counsel for the sugar trust, said in New York yesterday that government control of business corporations is Socialistic. "Government," he said, "should let commerce take its course."

That means the course which the few who have come into control of commerce choose to make it take. Not the course that competition or the law of supply and demand bid it take, but the course that Morgan commands.

And that, of course, means big business conducted for the purpose of profiting its captains as liberally as possible, not for the purpose of serving the people as well and as cheaply as it can be done with reasonable returns on the energy and capital invested in this public service.

Government control of corporations may be Socialistic. People don't shy at that adjective so skittishly as they used to, largely because they have pronounced good so many things that have been so anathematized.

But private control of industry, without check or regulation, is anarchy. And that's something really to be afraid of.

THE RECALL.

It is rather absurd to oppose the recall when we have had it for many years. Before the grip of Special Privilege began to be shaken off the throttle of government, it was possible for special interests affronted by the faithful activities of a public servant to bring about his recall.

That's the way Pinchot and Glavis and Shaw were gotten rid of. They were recalled.

The trouble has been that the people had no way of recalling unfaithful public servants except at elections, and many of those in the best positions to betray the people were appointive officers, not elective.

Special interests, just now, are trying to exercise the recall on Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the backbone of the pure food law enforcement. They probably will not succeed because the people are aroused and on guard.

But why shouldn't the people have as good a chance to recall unfaithful servants as special interests have to recall faithful public servants that displease them?

BEARING FALSE WITNESS.

Minnesota came nearer than it realized, during the recent session of the legislature, to having woman suffrage changed from a mere basis for academic discussion to an actual living issue, to be determined by the voters of the state at the next election.

The proposed amendment to the Constitution giving women the right to vote lacked only one vote of passing the senate. Had it passed the senate it would probably have passed the house, though it would have been opposed by every special interest concerned in fighting progressive legislation. One of the best arguments we know of for votes for women is the character of the opposition it arouses.

Being defeated by so narrow a margin, it is certain to come up again and again, and some time it is going to be passed by the legislature. Then it will be up to the male voters of the state. What they will do with it is another question, but we believe that some time they, too, will approve it, and that the women of Minnesota will vote on equal terms with men. There is a comfortable sense of security in having the prediction thus vaguely unlimited as to time.

In this connection the Los Angeles Express offers some interesting testimony. First it places on the stand one E. C. Lindemann, former dean of the University of Technology of Colorado, who says: "Woman's suffrage has been the bane of Colorado, has desecrated the homes of the state, debauched its fair womanhood and is one of the greatest evils of the age."

But here are others who bring different testimony:

Omar E. Garwood, deputy district attorney of Denver: "The Colorado Equal Suffrage Aid associatoin recently asked opinions from leading men of the state. But one adverse opinion was received; the uniform testimony of all those remaining was that the great majority of Colorado women voters cast their ballots wisely and conscientiously and that their influence has tended to a decided betterment in public affairs."

John F. Shafroth, governor of Colorado: "The experiment has demonstrated that the vast majority of Colorado women voters cast their ballots with wisdom and intelligence and that their influence has tended toward a betterment of our moral, political and civic environment."

Alva Adams, ex-governor of Colorado: "Woman suffrage has passed beyond the experimental stage in Colorado. No one can seriously question that it has been a success."

Congressman John H. Martin of Colorado: "Since the enfranchisement of women in Colorado their influence has tended decidedly to the betterment of political conditions."

Edward P. Costigan, leading Denver attorney: "To the women voters Denver and Colorado, in my judgment, owe a distinct debt for a perceptible raising of our general political and moral standards which it would be blindness or absurd misrepresentation to deny."

All of which leaves Prof. Lindemann subject to the suspicion that for reasons of his own he is bearing false witness against his state and against the women of that state.

Our own opinion of it is that woman suffrage will do neither the great harm that its opponents predict nor the enormous good that its advocates confidently claim; that there is no good reason why women are not as much entitled to vote as men; that to permit them to vote will not hurt them and will tend to better conditions in public life; and that, therefore, the certain coming of woman suffrage may be awaited without alarm.

And don't forget that the Water Carnival will be given again next year, bigger and better than ever.

Just because the heated term is on is no reason why anybody should cease boosting Northern Minnesota.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE

To the Editor of The Herald:

If compliments could make the promoters of the Duluth mid-summer carnival rich, they could retire independently wealthy for the rest of their lives. Carnival is hardly an appropriate name for the beautiful scene of last evening. It speaks volumes for the enterprising citizens, who all helped to make it such an enormous success. The committee worked hard, but look at the results, how gratifying it must be. It was the grandest sight from the water, and everyone could hardly find adjectives enough to qualify his expressions.

AN OBSERVER.

Duluth, July 21.

The Beauty of the World.

Ralph Waldo Emerson: In this refulgent summer, it has been a luxury to draw the breath of life. The grass grows, the buds burst, the meadow is spotted with fire and gold in the tint of flowers. The air is full of birds, and sweet with the breath of the pine, the balm-of-Gilead, and the new hay. Night brings no gloom to the heart with its welcome shade. Through the transparent darkness the stars pour their almost spiritual rays. Man under them seems a good young child, and this huge globe a toy. The cool night bathes the world as with a river, and prepares his eyes again for the crimson dawn. The mystery of nature was never displayed more happily. The corn and the wine have been freely dealt to all creatures, and the never-broken silence with which the old bounty goes forward, has not yielded yet one word of explanation. One is constrained to respect the perfection of this world, in which our senses converse. How wide; how rich; what invitations from every property it gives to every faculty of man! In its fruitful soils; in its navigable sea; in its mountains of metal and stone; in its forests of all woods; in its animals; in its chemical ingredients; in the power and path of light, heat, attraction, and life, it is well worth the toil and heart of great men to subdue and enjoy it. The planters, the mechanics, the inventors, the astronomers, the builders of cities, and the captains, history delights to honor.

But when the mind opens, and reveals the laws which traverse the universe, and make things what they are, then shrinks the great world at once into a mere illustration and fable of this mind. What am I? and What is? asks the human spirit with a curiosity new-kindled, but never to be quenched. Behold these outrunning laws, which our imperfect apprehension can see tend this way and that, but not come full circle. Behold these infinite relations, so like, so unlike; many, yet one. I would study, I would know, I would admire forever. These works of thought have been the entertainments of the human spirit in all ages.

A more secret, sweet and overpowering beauty appears to man when his heart and mind open to the sentiment of virtue. Then he is instructed in what is above him. He learns that his being is without bound; that, to the good, to the perfect, he is born, low as he now lies in evil and weakness. That which he venerates is still his own, though he has not realized it yet. He ought. He knows the sense of that grand word, though his analysis fails entirely to render account of it. When in innocency, or when by intellectual perception, he attains to say—"I love the Right; Truth is beautiful within and without, forevermore. Virtue, am thine; save me: use me: thee will I serve, day and night, in great, in small, that I may be not virtuous, but virtue;"—then is the end of the creation answered, and God is well pleased.

Inherited Wealth As a Handicap.

Christian Science Monitor: Samuel W. Allerton, one of the very wealthy men of the Middle West, is quoted as saying that he is sorry that his son will inherit a fortune. In his opinion, the young men who do not have to make their way in the world are more to be pitied than envied; they miss something in life that money cannot buy; they are handicapped at the start. Yet Mr. Allerton and scores of other American self-made men who have been through the fight and have come out victorious may be a trifle too ready to measure success by their own standards. They would have their sons continue a fight for which there has ceased to be an incentive. The fathers entered the contest, poor boys for the most part, with a determination to win a place in the world, to acquire wealth, to be accounted captains of industry, to rank as multimillionaires. They were carried along by a zest for the pursuit of gain. The chase was everything to them while it lasted. They are sometimes surprised, sometimes grieved, because their sons do not follow in their footsteps. Why should they be? If the sons have not the same passion for wealth as their fathers, they may have a wish for something even better.

The real handicap of the young man who inherits wealth is not so much the wealth itself as the popular belief that he should display the peculiar characteristics, the peculiar qualities and tastes of his progenitor. The sons of statesmen are seldom political geniuses, the sons of orators are seldom eloquent, the sons of poets seldom write good poetry. Why, then, should it be expected that the sons of millionaires shall be money-makers?

As a matter of fact, should not better things be expected of them than that, having enough or more than enough, they should be seeking more? Why should there be disappointment in any quarter because the young man who has inherited wealth does not immediately exhibit a passion for increasing it?

If all young men followed the parental bent, the sons of farmers, blacksmiths, carpenters, tailors, shoemakers, grocers, laborers, would not rise, as they are constantly rising, to positions of the highest prominence and consequence in this and other lands. Inherited wealth is perhaps less harmful than would be an inherited zest for accumulating wealth. It is just as well that the sons of multimillionaires do not carry on the work of acquisition from the point where their fathers left off. It is just as well that the sons are often moved by an ambition and a taste very different from those that moved their fathers.

It does not follow that because a rich man's son has not his father's business talents he is therefore a nonentity. There are thousands of rich men's sons that inherited wealth has not handicapped, that money could not spoil. They are to be found in every community making the best use of their great opportunities and contributing their full share to movements that make for the upbuilding of citizenship and the moral and material advancement of the citizen.

Probably Astray.

Lippincott's: The editor of a country newspaper in Iowa always impressed upon his assistants the necessity of exercising caution in the statements of events. That one young man finally learned his lesson well was indicated one day when he handed in the following:

"When Mr. Samuel Parker entered the bedroom on the ground floor of his farmhouse one day last week, he found that a cow, probably astray, had made her way there from the open door."

Something Novel.

Pittsburg Post: "I'll have a show next season that ought to do good."

"Going to star some ball player?"

"Nix."

"Prominent pugilist?"

"Nix."

"What's your grand idea?"

"I'm going to take out a company of actors."

HIGHER RAILROAD RATES.

'Rah for Eberhart.

Appleton Press: How do you like to pay 3 cents a mile? You wouldn't have to do it if you knew how to vote.

Fool Railroad Managers.

Crookston Times: In another column will be found a little news item in which, piled on top of the 3-cent passenger fare, is to be found what the advance in freight rates means to those who are shipping out of Crookston. Every other place is similarly affected and it will be seen that the increase in freight rates now in effect amounts on an average to over 33 1-3 per cent. A slight variation, 5 per cent, or such a matter, would not be noticed much, though it would aggregate an immense sum, but an increase of one-third will give the merchants and eventually the people a jolt they will remember.

We confidently believe that the railroad companies are over-reaching themselves in the matter of rates, and there will be a time of reckoning which they will long remember. They may have won temporarily over the people, but the time is not far distant when they will pay dearly for their rapacity. Their attitude at present shows a disposition to extort every penny of tribute within their power. But the people will not remain passive, and when their turn at bat comes around, the railroad companies will get theirs, and get it plenty.

How Long?

Warren Sheaf: By raising passenger rates from 2 cents to 3 cents a mile in Minnesota, while continuing the 2½-cent rate in North Dakota and the 2-cent rate in Wisconsin and Iowa, the railroads are evidently trying to "get even" with the people of this state for attempts made through its legislature to regulate railway rates. Since the Judge Sanborn decision there is no railway legislation of this state nor order of the state railway commission that the railroads feel themselves bound to respect, and they can do as they please.

Oh, Dearly!

Grand Rapids Independent: It costs 3 cents a mile to ride on the toot-toot cars since July 1. Gee, how we love the railroads now!

Pay or Walk.

Montevideo Leader: You can pay 3 cents a mile to ride on the cars or you can foot it.

Stir Up Feeling.

Sandstone Courier: The people have had the privilege of paying 3 cents per mile for riding on the railroads since last Saturday and the coaches have not been overcrowded. The Duluth Herald in a very excellent editorial shows that the railroads are guilty of the rankest kind of discrimination in their present rates of travel. They are kept from giving cheaper rates to the large shippers, but they now give the big travelers a rate of 2 cents while the common people are compelled to pay 3 cents. The rate should be the same whether a man travels one mile or 10,000. Such things only tend to stir up the ill feeling of the people against the railroads.

Ouch!

Pine City Pine Poker: Ouch! That 3-cent fare.

The Poor Man Is the Goat.

Long Prairie Leader: When you step to the window and plank down 3 cents per mile for your railroad ticket, it may improve your temper (?) to recollect that the fellow with money enough to buy a mileage book is travelling to the same place and on the same train for 2 cents per mile. It's the same old story of railroad discrimination against the man of limited means.

A Mortgage on the House.

VanAlen in his racing car is very hard to beat;
The car is French, a most expensive kind.
And so, although the creditor be fleetest of the fleet,
VanAlen always leaves him far behind.
The sport's exhilarating; how the blood leaps through one's veins
When life is merely one long speed-carouse.
The cost? That's hardly reckoned; but VanAlen, just a second
Remember there's a mortgage on the house!

VanAlen's wife is silent on her husband's latest fad;
The groc'ry man has asked her to remit;
The home is growing shabby, but of course John's health is bad;
It's best that he should recreate a bit
Then three speeds on, VanAlen, leave carking care behind
To wrestle with an anxious little spouse
With wide roads stretched before you be it far from us to bore you
By recalling there's a mortgage on the house.

VanAlen lives next door to Smith, a rather prosy sort;
Makes garden, cuts the grass, that kind of thing.
Smith wishes ever and anon he, too, could be a sport—
His house received a coat of paint last spring.
But who cares for plain living when one can make a splurge?
To blaze with expenses, let's arouse
Our neighbors' admiration. What a paltry compensation
To feel that they've no mortgage on the house.

Then crank 'er up, VanAlen, for the roads are beckoning,
The powerful engine wakens at your touch.
On such a day, with such a car, why count the reckoning?
Why think of bills and creditors and such?
You're only one of many speeding down the primrose path
A trifle faster than the law allows;
So let the good wife worry, you're a young man in a hurry—
And a young man with a mortgage on the house!

—Arthur D. Pratt in Puck.

Handicapped.

Puck: "No, I am afraid you will never win fame and fortune as a song-writer," remarked the publisher, as he handed back the manuscript composition.

"But I have made other 'moon' rime with 'tomb,' and 'kiss' rime with 'wish,'" expostulated the youthful composer. "What more do you want?"

"True," admitted the publisher, "but you know entirely too much about the rules of grammar."

Then did the young man curse the day wherein he had been given a common school education.

A Girl's Superiority.

Atchison Globe: No man loafer seems to put the job over with such thorough enjoyment as a girl lolling in a hammock and reading a cheap novel.

Society Item.

Miss Humming Bird and Mr. Bee
Were married in a poplar tree.
By Parson Bug the knot was tied,
And for his fee, he kissed the bride,
But Mr. Bee, so jealous he,
Was just as mad as he could be.
He drew a knife, prepared for strife
And swore he'd take the parson's life.
But Mrs. Humming calmed his fears
And sweetly dried his angry tears.
She said the parson stole the smack,
But she would go and get it back.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

Henry W. Friedland, formerly trimmer for Panton & Watson, who was hurt by one of the Duluth policemen several months ago while technically disobeying an order, was in the city yesterday on his way to St. Paul, where Mrs. Friedland is with her mother. He has been in Chicago receiving medical treatment, but is still in very feeble health.

The board of education has received from the Alumni association of the Central high school of Philadelphia, through F. M. Zellar, an alumnus, a resolution of congratulation on the early completion of Duluth's very fine and well appointed high school. The letter is signed by Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania, president of the Alumni association.

W. E. Worden left yesterday for Connelly, Wash., to be gone a month.

Mrs. H. R. Crocker and daughter, Mrs. Andrews of St. Paul, are guests of Mrs. J. H. Darbig.

J. W. Bruner, the manufacturing confectioner, whose stock was severely injured by water in the St. Louis hotel fire, is going out of business.

Walter J. Johnson has returned from a two weeks' visit in New York city. His sister, Mrs. Benjamin Wells, will remain for a month longer.

Fond du Lac had a big fire at 1:15 this morning, and as a result the finest residence in the hamlet is in ruins. It was the residence of M. E. Chambers and the building was completely gutted. The loss is between $12,000 and $15,000, and the insurance only $2,000. It is believed that incendiaries are responsible for the blaze.

The Duluth Boat club representatives at the Winnipeg regatta will leave here on July 31. The crews selected are as follows: Junior four, H. D. Pearson, bow; C. J. Kelshaw, No 2; D. Mahoney, No 3; Ned H. Smith, stroke. Junior single, C. J. Kelshaw, Jr. Senior single, H. D. Pearson.

During the past few days, Maj. Moses O'Brien, who has been suffering from blood poisoning, has been getting worse and yesterday afternoon it was decided that a third amputation was necessary. His left leg was taken off just below the knee.

They had a great fight at Fond du Lac over the school election. The New Duluth people wanted to elect Manager Lind of the Atlas Brass & Iron Works, and the Fond du Lac people voted for A. P. Anderson. Anderson received 131 votes and Lind 61, and the Fond du Lac people are wild over their success.

The hearing in the famous Hyde & McDonald land case was begun this morning at the local land office before Register Colvill. The fight will continue for at least two weeks.

About a hundred covers were laid at the Spalding last night for citizens and guests, the occasion being a sumptuous banquet to the members of the rivers and harbors committee of the last congress who are visiting Duluth.

OUR HERO.

Whom shall we call our heroes?
To whom our praises sing?
The pampered child of fortune,
The titled lord or king?
They live by others' labor
Give nothing and take all.
The noblest type of manhood
Are they who play baseball.

Who sets the country ringing
From York to Frisco's bay?
Who'd rather play for glory
Than work for princely pay?
It is the baseball player.
More power to him, then;
The hope of this great nation
Is in her baseball men.

Who marches to the ball field
Beneath the summer sky,
And still plays on and on and on
Though many grandmas die?
It is the grand base-ballist,
Our finest citizen
The pride of this great nation
Is in her baseball men.

Who loosens up our feelings
Until we shout and roar?
Who makes us yell with pleasure
Or with resentment sore?
It is the baseball player,
Our hero now and then,
We shall dispense with dignity
But give us baseball men.

Habits of a Literary Man.

By Bill Nye: I rise from bed the first thing in the morning, leaving my couch not because I am dissatisfied with it, but because I cannot carry it with me during the day.

I then seat myself on the edge of the bed and devote a few moments to thought. Literary men who have never set aside a few moments on rising for thought will do well to try it.

I then insert myself into a pair of middle-aged pantaloons.

Other clothing is added to the above from time to time. I then bathe myself. Still, this is not absolutely essential to a literary life. Others who do not do so have been equally successful.

Some literary people bathe before dressing.

I then go down stairs and out to the barn, where I feed the horse. Some literary men feel above taking care of a horse, because there is really nothing in common between the care of a horse and literature, but simplicity is my watchword. T. Jefferson would have to rise early in the day to eclipse me in simplicity. I wish I had as many dollars I have got simplicity.

I then go in to breakfast. This meal consists almost wholly of food. I am passionately fond of food, and I may truly say, with my hand on my heart, that I owe much of my great success in life to this inward craving, this constant yearning for something better.

During this meal I frequently converse with my family. I do not feel above my family; at least, if I do, I try to conceal it as much as possible. Buckwheat pancakes in a heated state, with maple syrup on the upper side, are extremely conducive to literature. Nothing jerks the mental faculties around with greater rapidity than buckwheat pancakes.

After breakfast the time is put in to good advantage looking forward to the time when dinner will be ready. From 8 to 10 a. m., however, I frequently retire to my private library hot-bed in the hay-mow and write 1,200 words in my forthcoming book, the price of which will be $2.50 in cloth and $4 with Russia back.

I then play Copenhagen with some little girls, 21 years of age, who live nearby, and of whom I am passionately fond.

After that I dig some worms, with a view to angling. I then angle. After this I return home, waiting until dusk, however, as I do not like to attract attention. Nothing is more distasteful to a truly good man of wonderful literary acquirements, and yet with singular modesty, than the coarse and rude scrutiny of the vulgar herd.

In winter I do not angle. I read the "Pirate Prince" or the "Missourian's Mash," or some other work, not so much for the plot as the style, that I may get my mind into correct channels of thought. I then play "old sledge" in a rambling sort of manner. I sometimes spend an evening at home, in order to excite remark and draw attention to my wonderful eccentricity.

Waiting for More Ammunition.

Kansas City Star: Margaret, the 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. C. H. Southard, was very impudent the other day and her mother shut her up in a closet. After a few minutes of silence she went to the door.

"Margaret," she said, "are you ready to be good and come out?"

"No, I am not ready yet," Margaret responded.

"Why not?"

"I 'pit on your coat, and I 'pit or your dress, and now I'm waiting for more 'pit to 'pit on your hat."

The Old Nutmeg Days.

Kansas City Times: With aniline dyes in the soda pop, hayseed in the jam, trefoil (whatever that is) in the clover seed, water in the gas, imagination in the fifty-pound chunk of ice, coal tar in the candy, and heaven knows what in the syrup—

With these ingredients in the stirring times of the twentieth century, the plain citizen is disposed to sigh for the good old days when there was nothing to disturb the digestion except sand in the sugar, alum in the bread, and wood in the nutmegs.

Success.

The secret of success in life
So the successful say,
Is to perform with faithful care
Each task that comes your way;
To try to do things better than
They have been done before;
To do all your employer asks,
And then a little more.
That's what they say, successful men,
Who talk as if they knew;
And if they're right, it shows us why
Successful men are few;
For I have been observing, and
The average man, I guess,
Plots out how little he can do—
Then does a little less.

Mose Jackson—Ah knows two hundred ways mahself. Wot troubles me is getting rid of 'em!

Milwaukee News: De Playwright—I will never submit to the vulgar demands of modern commercialism.

Mrs. De Playwright—Reginald, O! Reginald! Do not tell me that you cannot pay the butcher bill this month.

Mr. Posey—O' course, Jerusha. Hain't you heard th't, in the soshul swim, th' wimmen try to outstrip each other?

Life: Pedanticus—It is one of physic's laws that the effect cannot exceed the cause.

Cynicus—Pshaw! I've seen eight pounds of baby transform 350 pounds of father and mother into driving idiocy.

Fliegende Blaetter: Messenger Boy (to stranger)—I suppose, sir, you are visiting the baron in his castle over there.

Stranger—I am; and are you going to the castle, too?

Messenger Boy—Certainly. I'm taking your telegram telling him you are coming.

Puck: Lawyer—Now, sir; you say the burglar, after creeping in through the front window, began to walk slowly up the stairs, and yet you did not see him, although you were standing at the head of the stairs at the time. May I venture to inquire why you did not see him?

Principal Witness—Certainly, sir. The fact is, my wife was in the way.

Bettering of Weather Conditions Has No Effect on Produce Markets.

Lettuce From Hartley Farm Supplying Duluth Market Among Others.

The market on fruits and fresh vegetables is about the same this week in all respects as last week. Red raspberries at 20 cents a box, black raspberries at two boxes for 25 cents, blackberries at two boxes for 25 cents and blueberries at 15 cents a box comprise the items in the berry market. Strawberries are not on the market today. Lettuce, celery, beans, peas, radishes, onions, beets, carrots, and other small vegetables are all priced about the same as they have been rated for several weeks.

The muskmelons are rather scarce at present and have been advanced in price to 20 cents apiece or $2.25 a case. Watermelons are 50 cents apiece.

Pears have made their appearance among the larger fruits and are selling for 50 cents a dozen. Peaches are still 30 cents a dozen with plums and apricots at 60 cents a basket. Currants have been pretty plentiful this season and are selling at 15 cents a quart at present. They will probably become cheaper soon.

Rains and the breaking of the recent drouth to some extent, have had no appreciate effect on the produce markets here. Extreme hot weather in the southern districts have resulted in scarcity of green vegetable products there, and prices are not falling anywhere.

The potato market is firm, new potatoes selling at $1.80 per bushel. Tomatoes are very scarce owing to the extreme heat in the South.

Navel oranges are out of the market and Valencias at $5.00 a crate are all that are to be had. Duchess apples at $6.50 per barrel are all that are to be had, box apples being unobtainable.

Perhaps the feature of the local market this week is the Hartley head lettuce which is supplying the Duluth market exclusively, besides large quantities which are being shipped out. This produce is going at $1.75 per hamper.

Watermelons are plentiful at 35 to 40 cents. Grape fruit is off the market.

Cheese prices are unchanged, but butter and eggs are up, fresh creamery being worth 25 cents on Michigan street, while the dairy product is worth 17 and 18 cents.

As to dried fruits, the cleaning up process in spot stocks continues. Present supplies in jobbers and packers hands is the smallest it has been in years. The 1911 pack will come in on well swept floors, as even apple, prune and peach will have been used. Prices on new crop, while considered abnormally high, are apparently warranted, considering there is no carry-over of last year's crops. The heavy demand from European countries and the fact that this year's crop based on present prospects is not an average yield, opening prices will undoubtedly be maintained.

There have been few times, if any, in the history of the business when the canned fruit and vegetable situation was so unsettled as at present. The drouth is the East made it impossible in many sections of the tomato growing districts to get the plants in the ground, thus the usual acreage has been materially reduced. The packers are very confident at this time that prices will rule much higher than for several years past.

REAL ESTATE MEN ELECT S. S. THORPE

National Association Will Meet Next Year in Louisville, Ky.

Denver, Colo., July 21.—Louisville was chosen as the convention city for 1912 and Samuel S. Thorpe of Minneapolis was elected president at the closing session of the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges.

Competition between several cities which sought next year's meeting was keen, Atlanta and Louisville both contending vigorously for the honor. Memphis and Winnipeg extended invitations for 1913 and Seattle and Portland for 1915. Officers elected for the ensuing year follow:

Before adjournment the convention adopted a resolution favoring immediate and permanent improvement of the main public highways throughout the country. The resolution urges that the question be taken up by federal, state and county government.

The work of the national rivers and harbors congress was given hearty indorsement, as was the plan and purpose of the National Soil Fertility league. The convention pledged its best efforts to have inquiry made into city planning and housing problems.

Burlington, Iowa, July 21.—The steamer Dubuque of the Diamond Jo line, with 100 passengers on board, struck a snag while en route from St. Louis to Burlington last night and sank in four feet of water. Coolness of the crew kept the passengers from panic and no one was injured. The hole was temporarily bulk headed and the vessel was floated and steamed to a dry dock near at hand.

Grant's Pass, Or., July 21.—The once famous town of Waldo, with all its stores, hotels and other buildogs, including the old Decker homestead, has been sold to Col. Leland for $3,000.

In old time mining days the Sailor diggings in Waldo made hundreds of men's pockets bulge with gold dug there. Since then fire and elements have played havoc with the best part of the property. Today the street lines are marked by charred buildings that were burned three years ago after an aged Chinaman let his fire burn through the floor of his shack. A store built of cement, a landmark, is still in good shape.

It is understood that Col. Leland obtained the property to connect his gravel pits on each side of the old town. A ditch will be extended through the property.

SLEEPY EYE MAN IS ELECTED TREASURER.

Detroit, Mich, July 21.—R. E. Dowdell of Artesian, S. The other officers named were: First vice president, A. D. Moffett, Elwood, Ind.; secretary, W. F. Parrott, Waterloo, Iowa; treasurer, W. R. Hodges, Sleepy Eye, Minn. The national council will later select the 1912 meeting place.

Late yesterday the delegates left on an all-water trip to Montreal and Quebec. They contemplate visiting the Muskata and Cobalt regions of the Northern Ontario country.

LYCEUM — Forbes Stock company in "Brewster's Millions."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

The members of the Gus A. Forbes Stock company have been in the city long enough to become very enthusiastic over Duluth and there are no more loyal boosters of the carnival spirit than Mr. Forbes and his associates. Miss Stuart has apartments at the St. Louis overlooking the bay and she was hostess this afternoon in her rooms, at a carnival party to other members of the company who weren't out in launches watching the races and cheering for Duluth. Her guests wore yachting clothes and boat club pennants and carried binoculars and from that vantage point they were most interested spectators. Other members of the company were nearer the scene of the races.

"It's Cool in Duluth" is a motto that the stock workers love with a particular and lasting love. It is unpleasant to work or live under any circumstances when the mercury is bounding merrily higher but to act under such conditions, approaches, Mr. Forbes says, what a noted general thought war was. "To thrill and be excited, to make love and maybe be repulsed all takes heet," says Mr. Forbes and to sweiter under a layer of grease paint and work at that is a peculiar sort of torture. In Duluth it's unnecessary. You have the finest summer climate here of any place in the world I've ever heard of. You should tell the world about it and this carnival business is a splendid beginning. Duluth should double her efforts next year."

All of the members of the company participated in the carnival yesterday and today. They will add to the gaiety of the city tonight by appearing in "Brewster's Millions," which will be repeated tomorrow afternoon and night an dtwo special Sunday performances.

The bill next week will be a new play "A Man and His Wife," the first performance to be given Monday evening.

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" was certainly a surprise," said the London Standard. "Pathetic and dramatic incidents follow, unfolding the story, while May Robson as the New England spinster dominates and holds the humor; occasionally little bits of pathos creep in here and there as a relief from excessive laughter. Perhaps the picture of an eccentric old woman enjoying for the first time a sumptuous dinner in a first-class hotel is funny, but the mistakes are pathetic and Miss Robson develops and holds interest as the play progresses. At Terry's theater last night there was almost a continuous ripple of laughter and yet at the moment Aunt Mary became serious, she compelled absolute silence. Miss Robson is certainly a clever woman and her sense of comedy is enormous and being supported by a clever company of English actors, all London should see this very funny play under the fun producing, May Robson." Miss Robson will be at the Lyceum in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" Thursday, July 27.

With visitors packing the city, the big Auditorium roller skating rink is getting its share of the patronage of the various places of amusement and interest the present week.

During the morning and afternoon sessions, not to mention the evening session, the big rink has been packed with visitors. Carnival visitors from the East have been guests of the rink the present week, and they have enjoyed the unique and original programs that have been put on.

The grand march is one of the most popular of all the numbers put on at the rink, and this evening, as well as this morning and afternoon, great crowds are expected.

In connection with the grand march the sciopticon will have some extra features in the form of beautiful electrical illuminations. There will be the aurora borealis rays and some other illuminations that have not been shown, will be on the program.

Visitors to the carnival are taking advantage of the morning programs and are crowding the rink. Women and children are especially welcome and are visiting the big rink the present week as one of the features of the carnival.

The Auditorium rink is the coolest and most comfortable place in the city.

ETHEL BARRYMORE HAS GONE TO CANADA.

New York, July 21.—Ethel Barrymore, who, it was reported from Los Angeles early in the month, was about to bring legal proceedings in this city against her husband, Russell Griswold Colt, arrived here yesterday and then dropped from sight. In fact Miss Barrymore, who was accompanied by her cousins, Louise Drew and Georgia Drew Mendrum, did not come into the Grand Central station, but dropped off at the 125th street station and took a taxicab for an address that is at present unknown.

The theatrical firm under whose management Miss Barrymore plays, stated later that she had left for Canada, where she will rest until her new season opens.

OTTUMWA WOMAN CURED

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms; shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to you for my cure."—Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

SMELTER TRUST IS SUED FOR $2,500,000

Conspiracy and Fraud Are Charged in Getting Colorado Land.

Denver, Colo., July 21.—Suit for $2,500,000 damages for alleged conspiracy and fraud in acquiring 2,415 acres in the Trinidad coal fields in Southern Colorado, was filed in the federal court late yesterday against the American Smelting & Refining company.

In order that innocent purchasers of the lands may not suffer, the action is brought in law for damages, and not in equity to set aside the patents. The suit is the culmination of several years investigation by special land agents. Besides the name of Special Assistant Attorney General B. D. Townsend, formerly of Montana and North Dakota, who filed the suit, the complaint bears the signatures of Attorney General Wickersham and Acting United States Attorney Ralph Hartsel.

Allege Dummy Entrymen.

It is recited that the land was acquired by means of sixteen dummy entrymen, filings thereon being made in July, 1902. The complaint alleges that Samuel R. Richie of Denver furnished the money with which the lands were bought, he being cashier of the American Smelting & Refining company at the time. When patent lands were conveyed to A. S. Boothe, S. R. Rice, John W. Hutty and Henry A. Dubes, who in turn, in August, 1903, deeded the property to Thomas Tacher and William N. Barnum of New York city, attorney for the defendant company.

In January, 1908, the property was conveyed to Charles V. Stewart, a Kansas City capitalist, who subsequently signed a transfer to the Columbia Coal Mines company, a Colorado corporation owned by Stewart. The bill admitted that Stewart purchased the land in good faith, and does not intend to deprive the present holders of their title to the property.

JEALOUS LOVER SAYS WOMAN IS MURDERESS.

Chicago, July 21.—Berayed by a jealous admirer, Miss Fannie Grinsley, 30 years old, was arrested here yesterday charged with the murder of Charles Patterson three years ago at Tompkinsville, Ky. Patterson's death has been a mystery. Miss Grinsley denies the murder charge.

Ex-Bank President Arrested.

New York, July 21.—David S. Mills, until recently president of the Audubon National bank, a small upper Broadway institution, was arrested last night on a federal warrant charging misapplication of $49,000 of the bank's funds. He furnished $25,000 bail for his appearance before the federal grand jury.

McKENZIE BOY GONE.

Searching in Vain for Youth Who Dropped From Sight.

McKenzie, N. D., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Western North Dakota is being searched in vain for Peter McCurdy, aged 19, the son of a prominent Schafer farmer, who has been missing since the night of the Fourth of July. Within the last three days the search, first of a local nature, has been extended over a wide section of the western part of the state, and over Eastern Montana.

The last seen of the young man was at a bowery dance about midnight, and from that time absolutely no trace of him has been secured. Foul play is feared.

W. C. WHITNEY'S DAUGHTER TO MARRY W. D. STRAIGHT.

New York, July 21.—The engagement of Willard D. Straight of Oswego, N. Y., and Miss Dorothy P. Whitney, youngest daughter of the late William C. Whitney, is announced. Mr. Straight was graduated from Cornell in 1901 and served in the Chinese customs service under Sir Robert Hart. As representative of American bankers he gained prominence recently in the negotiations of the Chinese loan.

BRIDGE GETS SEVERE TEST

Aerial Car Moves Thousands and Stands the Strain Remarkably Well.

Big Carnival Crowd Swamps Bridge Even With Automobiles Barred.

The aerial bridge had the most severe test last evening it has had since it was put in operation several years ago. Never before has it been called upon to handle such a tremendous crowd of people. Although hundreds had to wait what seemed an unnecessarily long time, the bridge stood the strain remarkably well. Between 500 and 600 persons were taken across on each trip, and it was operated as rapidly as possible. There were no delays at either side, except to take on and discharge passengers. When the bridge was built it was not expected that it would be called upon to handle any such crowd, which was by far the biggest which it has ever transferred in any one day or night. Bearing that in mind, it can be stated that the bridge showed up exceptionally well. Each trip it was packed from end to end. Every available foot of space was occupied, inside the cabins as well as outside. The wisdom of barring automobiles after 2 o'clock in the afternoon was also demonstrated. Had a number of them been waiting for the bridge they would seriously have interfered with the handling of the hundreds of pedestrians.

In spite of the frequent trips and the barring of the automobiles, however, the bridge was overtaxed, and many had to wait until it took four or five trips before they could get aboard.

FIRST DAY OF THE WATER CARNIVAL ENDS IN BLAZE OF GLORY

plans of many of those intending to enter gayly decorated canoes.

The Races.

Starting promptly at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the motor boat races furnished the sport feature of the daylight portion of the first day of the carnival.

In the 32-foot class President Barnes' Little Bob ploughed through heavy seas a handy winner over the Dupont second, the Earnie Larson boat of West Duluth.

The time was 41:09 for the fifteen miles of the race, three times around the kite-shaped course of the club. The Larson boat finished in 43:09, riding stoutly over the heavy wash that was thrown up by the heavy wind. Following the race the Barnes boat rammed the dock, and several planks in her bow were broken.

It was expected that Richard Schell's new boat would make a great race against the Little Bob, but Mr. Schell could not get his boat ready in time and perhaps a great contest of speed was spoiled.

In the 26-foot class the Dixie owned by H. V. Gard won out over the Nance owned by Frank Wade of West Duluth. The time of the winner was 35:17 and that of the loser 36:49.

The last motor boat race of the day was the 40-foot class contest. Earnie Larson won this race with his Dupont 11, the Buster, owned by J. A. Todd, finishing second. This race was for twenty miles, the winners time being 1:05:09, and the loser's time being 1:10:05.

Girls' Canoe Race.

Shipmate Chauncey Colton made a miscalculation or something in steering the "blues" girls' war canoe in the race against the deadly rivals, the "reds," the two boats coming together. The "reds," captained by Miss Frances Burris, won out, but the race was protested and may be paddled over again.

The water baseball game between the two picked teams was won by Bethel Robinson's nine by the score of 3 o 0.

The free-for-all event in the motor boat class will be run off tomorrow. This will bring together, it was announced last evening, the Schell boat and the Little Bob, which will have a new prow.

Harry M. Breslin of the Fairbanks Morse company is here today, his company offering the engine for the first prize. Mr. Breslin will be one of the interested spectators of the contest for the trophy offered by his company.

The program for this evening will be the spectacular battle between the famous Merrimac and Monitor. This is one of the features of the carnival.

In addition to the rowing races this afternoon, several sailing races will be pulled off.

The Venetian Fete.

Before thousands of people who occupied every available point from which the spectacle could be seen, the Venetian fete was given successfully last night.

Long before the first brilliantly lighted and decorated canoe shoved its nose out from behind the boathouse, the big stands and verandas of the boathouse were crowded with spectators. It was estimated that more than 5,000 onlookers viewed the pageant from the boat club alone.

Winding in and out, circling in a huge serpentine figure and then doubling back again in front of the grandstand, the lighted canoes, silhouetted against the blackness of the waters of the bay, presented a picturesque effect that has probably never been equaled in Duluth.

Only Duluth, with its vast expanse of water, with its outline of natural harbor and its countless vessels, large and small, could have presented such a picture.

The carnival to date has surpassed expectations and has paved the way for an annual event typical of Duluth, that will each season spread the fame of the Zenith City from coast to coast.

All Duluth was there and all the visitors that Duluth can care for with comfort, were there. It was one big, happy joyous crowd of people on pleasure bent and all felt on their return that they had been well repaid for the trip.

It was a scene that will live for long in the pleasant memory of everyone who saw it. The main clubhouse was one bank of bright lights and artistic electric decoration. The course on which the main spectacle, the decorated canoes, motor boats and sailboats, showed, was kept free of boats not taking part and with the exception of the burning of the decorations of one of the boats, there were no accidents.

Crowding close to the line, hundreds of pleasure boats all filled to overflowing with people anxious to witness the spectacle from the water, huddled together. Every pleasure boat, large and small, was in use on the bay last night.

Alvina a Pretty Sight.

Setting off the scene on the water to good advantage the Gopher and the private yacht Alvina were trimmed in colored lights. The decoration of the Alvina which was in red, white and blue lights was most effective. Mr. Cole, her owner, entertained a large party of friends aboard, and the beautiful yacht made a most effective picture, outlined against the sky with long rows of lights, and a string of lights over the masts from bow to stern.

As soon after dark as the scene could be made striking, the celebration began. The lights were turned on and "ahs" and "ohs" were heard on all sides. The brilliant scene made with the turning on of the lights was only a hint of what was to come, however, for when the lighted boats began their parade, the real beauty of the sight became apparent.

Now and then fireworks were set off from different points of the water and intermingled with the fireworks were colored powders which threw a ruddy glow over the vast assemblage. At times the whole harbor was lighted up and it was made as light as day.

Band Concert.

During the progress of it all, band music floated over the water from the bandstand, located at the corner of the tennis court. Most people found the scene beyond words and they simply settled back in silent admiration. It was with silence that the great crowd witnessed the show for a time. Then came the climax of the evening. The Gopher started it. Then every boat in the harbor took it up and the noise of the screaming whistles was deafening. The people, too, woke up and cheers from both land and water rent the air in the intervals between the whistling.

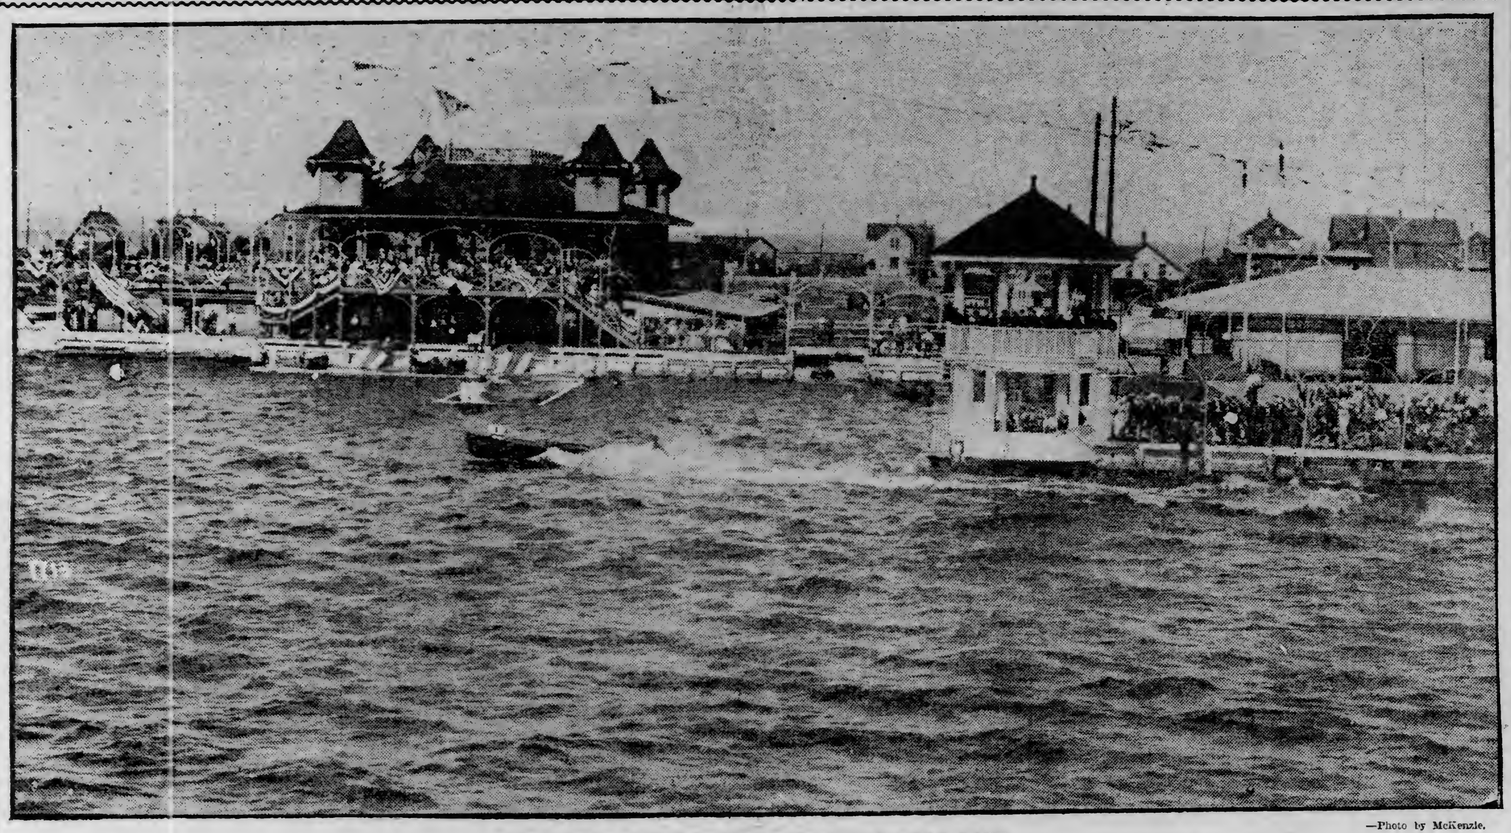

Before the main performance of the evening, diving exhibitions were given by a number of young men from a lighted stand. Some beautiful dives were made and from quite a height and for their ability and daring they were cheered by thousands.

Arthur Dunning with his butterfly idea won the prize for the best decorated canoe. Mr. Dunning's design, that of a butterfly, was well planned. The canoe as it came first into view created something of a sensation. The decoration was most elaborate and the smallest details were carried out.

Dr. G. H. Jones with his novel combination of white and green effects, won the second prize.

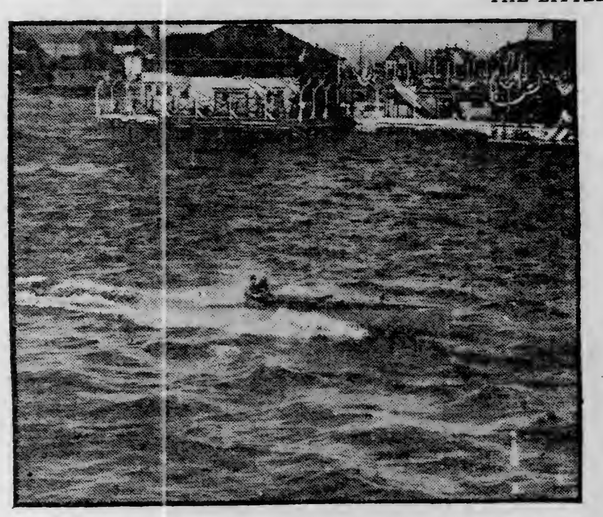

Walter Jamar took the prize for the best decorated sailboat. With the Thistle, Allen Trux took second prize.

LEWIS MUST TURN OVER HIS PROPERTY

Receivers for St. Louis Man to Control His Business.

St. Louis, Mo., July 21.—Supplementary orders, placed on the records of the United States circuit court today, require E. G. Lewis, whose properties were placed in receivership, and his wife, to deed to the receivers all their property which has connection with the Lewis enterprises, capitalized at more than $5,000,000.

According to attorneys for the creditors, the orders include the Lewis home in University City, the suburb in which most of the Lewis concerns are located.

It has been definitely decided that the property of the American Woman's league, which has chapter houses scattered from Ohio to Colorado, is not included in the court's order.

The record on the docket shows that after the decision was read the judges scratched reference to the University City art building, known officially as the Art Institute of the American Women's league, and it will not be included in the property to be controlled by the receiver.

ACCUSE SPAIN OF HELPING REBELS

Portuguese Papers Aroused By Presence of Monarchists on Border.

Lisbon, Portugal, July 20, via Badajos, Spanish Frontier, July 21.—An invasion by Capt. Couciere at the head of the royalist forces appears imminent. All attention is now fixed on the north. The Portuguese monarchists possesses thousands of rifles of the latest pattern smuggled into Galicia, Spain, from Germany and Belgium; and also many field guns and Maxims.

The monarchists remain upon the Spanish frontier, conspiring openly against the republic. Notwithstanding the continued assurances of the Spanish government the royalists daily hold military drills and practice rifle shooting in the large private estates and among the hills of Galicia. The press has begun a bitter campaign against Spain, alleging bad faith.

Make Peace With Buck.

La Crosse, Wis., July 21.—A letter from the Buck's Stove & Range company of St. Louis, asking that the company, which appeared as the complainant in the Gompers anti-boycott and contempt proceedings, be reinstated in the good graces of union labor, provoked considerable debate at the state convention of the American Federation of Labor today. A number of delegates argued that if the company wished to show its good faith, it should put the union label on its product. Finally, however, a motion prevailed to send notice to all Wisconsin unions that the St. Louis concern was no longer antagonistic to union labor.

WOMAN'S REALM.

A polo coat and a felt hat. Just give most any girl these two articles of wearing apparel and she will be happy. The lovely loose warm polo coats made of the outing goods similar to the mackinaw goods are both stunning and about the most comfortable thing which a girl can wear for club or outing. Many of the girls are already wearing them and the rest are "simply crazy about them."

The felt hats too are taking the girls by storm and many were worn at the carnival yesterday and today. They are just the thing for club or water as they fit snugly to the head and are durable yet becoming.

Another fashion adopted this summer is that of wearing white. The season has been strongly "white" in almost all lines. Nearly every frock, simple of elaborate, for summer wear has been of this color or rather lack of color. Shoes and hats of white nearly always are worn with the white frocks, and there has been such a heavy demand for white shoes and white silk gloves that the shops have been experiencing considerable difficulty in keeping their stocks up in these lines.

Especially with the children Miss Mathiesen makes a hit. As a means of getting acquainted she has arranged to give low special rates to the people of Duluth.

"Queen of the Miners" Does Not Like Life in the City

SILVER DOLLAR TABOR.

Silver Dollar Tabor comes from the mining country, where she is used to living in men's clothing and handling a pistol. She is known out there as "the queen of the miners." She has just visited Chicago and she does not like the city. She does not like dodging street cars or taxi-cabs. She doesn't like the impure air of the city. She thinks money is the god of the city and that manhood and womanhood and character do not count for as much as they should. Finally she does not like the way Chicago women devote their lives to amusements. She believes in work and she says that out West work is fun.

THE EVENING STORY

Just Like the Queen

By Hilda M. Nield.

"And there will be soldiers come, and the boats all lighted up at night like fairy ships, and the firing, and—"

"Get along with your chattering, do. It fair makes me sick to hear folks goin' on as if here had never been a coronation afore in the world. Old Fred Mansfield, or "Old Grumps, as he was commonly called in the tiny isle of Wight village where he lived, scowled heavily as he spoke. Thomas Carpenter looked up with a quaintly old-fashioned look for 7 years old.

"I'm afraid I've been tiring you," he said anxiously. "Only, you see, I got excited like, and forgot that you might not be interested. I do sometimes with mother. I will run home now. Good morning!"

"Good mornin'!" was the gruff reply.

Thomas gave a little sigh. It was evidently one of Grumps' bad days; and he did think that as an old sailor who had had his leg shot off in a war, Grumps would have been interested in hearing about the coronation.

Before he had got far, Thomas discovered that he had left his handkerchief in Grumps' room, and retraced his steps to fetch it. Outside the door, when he reached it, the boy paused irresolute.

From within there came strange sounds—if Grumps had been 7 years old Thomas would have thought that he was trying not to cry. Then he noticed that Grumps was speaking in a broken, thin voice, very unlike his usual tones. By some instinct which he could not explain, Thomas crouched still and quiet against the door to listen.

"Dear Lord," he heard, "It do seem hard, an' I'll never see another coronation for sure. But if 'tis the will of the Almighty I'll not be complainin' much, though it do rile one to hear 'em talkin' about it an' have to lie here an' see nothing. 'Twill be somethin' to hear the salutin', though; but if the Almighty pleased so send me a bit o' a cheer as could be wheeled down—"

Thomas did not hear what followed. He crept softly away, forgetful of his handkerchief, after all. He had only room for one thing in his mind—Grumps really did want to see the boats lighted up, and all the rest. The rest was just make believe; he had pretended the same about not caring for parties when he had had measles; if Grumps had but a wheel chair! Thomas stuck his hands in his pockets, and stared out to where the Haslar coast stood out clear against the sky. Grumps must have a chair by Aug. 8, as originally planned. The Northern Michigan troops of the Michigan National Guard and the Third Regiment band, stationed at Menominee, will not likely come to Houghton since the president, whom they were to escort, is not coming. The troops will leave their home towns, Menominee, Houghton, Sault Ste. Marie and Calumet, the night of Aug. 8 for Port Huron, where they will go into camp with the remainder of the Third regiment, the First and Second regiments, the artillery, cavalry and artillery and the Signal and Engineering corps. The Engineers are stationed at Calumet.

The Naval Reserves of Hancock and Escanaba will take part with their ship, the Yantic, which is stationed at Hancock, in the Lake Michigan naval maneuvers, also to be held during August. President McNair of the College of Mines is now at Washington in an endeavor to arrange another date for a visit to Houghton of the president. The president likely will be represented at the college reunion by one or two of his cabinet officers. Governor Chase S. Osborn and United States Senators William Alden Smith and Charles Townsend will also attend the reunion.

FAKE BOOK AGENT WORKING IN CITY

Claims That He Is Student at the University of Princeton.

Chief Troyer this morning received a letter from A. C. Imbrie, financial secretary of the trustees of Princeton university, stating that any agent selling a book entitled "A Library of American History," is not a student of the university and has no authority to represent himself as connected with it in any way.

It appears from the communication that at least one agent has been working in Duluth under that pretense. He evidently claims that he will sell the book to a few of the more influential residents of the city at a very low price and collects $5 on account.

The letter states that a similar game was worked in the South last year and that all that stopped it was the publicity given it by the newspapers.

FEDERAL COURT CREATES CITIZENS

Five Men Declare Their Allegiance to Uncle Sam.

Four new citizens were made yesterday afternoon in the United States district court, by Judge Morris, and one in the United States circuit court by the same judge. Those admitted to citizenship in the former court were Carl August Anderson of Sweden; Martin Leonard, Nels Johnson and Peter Johnson Rulmer, all of Norway; Gustaf Maurits Mandelin of Finland was made a citizen by the circuit court.

The district court dismissed the case of Tom Gannette of Italy, while the circuit court dismissed the case of Aro Asalja Haitto of Finland, because they showed such utter ignorance as to the form of government and the officers in executive power. The district court continued the case of Salo Hill, while the circuit court continued the cases of Peter Bisrella of Italy, until Oct. 3, and of Ole Mathias Olson until Oct. 19, in order to give them an opportunity to learn more regarding the officials, their names and their duties.

FORMER MICHIGAN MEN PERISHED AT PORCUPINE.

Houghton, Mich., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many Michigan Copper country mining people, including several graduate mining engineers from the Michigan College of Mines, were in the Porcupine district of Ontario at the time that district was swept by disastrous fires which took toll of at least 100 lives. R. E. Dwyer, formerly of Atlantic, this county, and Nathan Haas, a former resident of Houghton, both lost their lives in the fire and it is feared that others from this district also failed to escape. Little news has been received here from the Porcupine district since the fire.

FOREST FIRES DESTROY GAME

WILL GO INTO BENZOATE OF SODA INVESTIGATION.

Washington, July 21.—In connection with the charges against Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the chemistry bureau, the committee on agricultural department expenditures has called on the secretary of agriculture for complete information regarding the cost and the work of the Remsen board experts on pure food matters. Part of the papers asked for last week in connection with the Wiley charges were received yesterday. The others are with President Taft, and if these are available before the Remsen papers, the committee will immediately proceed with the Wiley charges.

The Remsen board was appointed by President Roosevelt especially to decide the famous benzoate of soda case. Dr. Wiley held that it was injurious to health and that its use in food preparations and preservation should not be allowed. The Remsen board held that when used in certain small quantities benzoate of soda could not be considered harmful.

ON THE IRON RANGES

QUICK WORK BY FIREMEN

Hibbing No. 2 Firehouse Men Fairly Fly to Brooklyn Fire.

Cover Distance in Four and One-Half Minutes, Extinguishing Fire.

Hibbing, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the locations and surrounding villages which rely on Hibbing for their fire protection are amply protected was demonstrated by a run made by the department from No. 2 fire house at 207 Superior street yesterday afternoon. In response to an alarm the combination wagon made the run and had the water on to a cottage at the corner of Third avenue and Granite street, Brooklyn, in four and a half minutes.

It had been advanced that if the fire department was able to make the run to Brooklyn in six minutes then the insurance companies need have no fear of insufficient fire protection. The company made the run yesterday in the stated time and with a minute or so to spare.

Should Understand Boxes.

Chief McIlhargy of the fire department says that it is his earnest wish that citizens generally familiarize themselves to a greater extent with the fire alarm boxes. He says that very often but half the alarm is turned in by reason of the person giving the alarm not pulling the lever on the box clear down and then letting it spring back. They pull it a little ways, about half, and let it go at that. Consequently but half the alarm is turned in at headquarters.

The fire yesterday was inconsequential. A three-room frame cottage occupied by a Montenegrin miner and his family, was damaged to the extent of $100. No one seems to know how the fire started, as none of the family were home at the time.

PICNIC SUNDAY AT ADAMS HILL

Slovak Societies of Eveleth Will Have Big Outing With Much Doing.

Eveleth, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Slovak societies of this city will hold a big picnic Sunday at Adams Hill. Music will be furnished throughout the day by the City band of twenty pieces under the direction of Professor Morini. Games will be played and prizes awarded. Dancing will be held during the evening.

Next month picnics will be held by the Eagles and the Owls, the latter lodge being assisted by Virginia and Aurora Owls. A tug-of-war between the Virginia and Eveleth Owls will feature the Owls' gathering to be held at Ely lake.

LARGE CHISHOLM FILL BEING MADE

Biggest Contract of Kind in Village's History Will Better Street.

Chisholm, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the biggest and fastest street filling jobs ever undertaken since Chisholm became a village is now going on at Maple street between Second and Third avenues.

The distance covers a long block and the fill is from ten to fifteen feet in depth, getting deeper as it approaches Third avenue.

About ten teams, all local, are on the job and they are hauling the dirt from the big hill near the Monroe location at a contract price of 60 cents per cubic yard. While the job lasts the owners of teams are making good money.

This fill, when completed will be a decided improvement to that section of the village (not only for the matter of appearance), for it will afford the residents on either side of Maple street a direct walk to the business portion of town instead of having to go around at least one block as heretofore.

The job of replanking the bridge across Lake Longyear is moving along very satisfactorily. The distance is a long one-half mile, and 2½-inch by 12 foot planks of hemlock are replacing the old and worn-out boards. The crew is already more than half way across the lake. Pedestrians, cyclists, autoists as well as teamsters, appreciate the smoothness and evenness of the bridge as it is now over the rough, humpy old crossing it was before the new planks were laid. Mr. Harrington, street commissioner is in charge of the work.

Enjoyed Duluth Visit.

Miss Winifred Beek, daughter of C. N. Beek, station agent at the Missabe depot, who for the last two weeks has been visiting an uncle of the family in Duluth, returned home on Tuesday night, having had a delightful time in the Zenith City.

The Cummings and Casey families, who have been enjoying a two weeks' outing near Sturgeon lake, a pleasure resort twelve miles north of Chisholm, broke camp and came back to town during the early part of the week. The cool weather of the last two weeks has had the effect of rendering camp-life somewhat less attractive than it was during the sweltering days of the latter part of June.

Take Notice.

My wife having left my bed and board, I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by her in my name after this date.

Member of Eveleth Force to Try Hand at Agriculture.

Eveleth, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arthur Salmi, a former miner, yesterday sold his St. Louis river farm of eighty acres to Edward Williams, a Finnish miner for $800. Salmi has made a success in agriculture here but desires to spend his remaining days in his old home in Finland.

William F. Haenke, who is now dairying on a large scale, recently added fifteen cows to his dairy and now has a herd of thirty cows.

Patrolman Jacob Kentta, is making arrangements for the purchase of 160 acres of farm land near Zim at $8 per acre. He also conducts a large boarding house here and will raise his own produce at Zim, selling the remainder here.

ICE CREAM WAS FATAL

Two Harbors Man Suddenly Stricken While Attending Lodge Celebration.

Dies Later in Hospital—Banquet Postponed By Fellow Members.

Stricken down while attending a lodge initiation at Superior last evening, Edward Barrett, aged 44, a switchman of Two Harbors, died at 4:30 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's hospital. Ice cream, which he had eaten at 8:30 o'clock brought on acute indigestion and subsequent heart failure.

Al Sirat temple, No. 135, of the Dramatic Order of Knights Korassan which was holding its ceremonial at the time when Mr. Barrett, one of the members, was taken unconscious from the lodge room, discontinued the initiation. The festivities were in full swing at the time he was stricken.

A big banquet was planned to wind up the affair, but the unfortunate occurrence caused its postponement. Mr. Barrett complained of being sick shortly after eating some ice cream and at 10 o'clock fainted. He was removed to St. Mary's hospital.

Mr. Barrett was unmarried and as far as can be learned has no relatives in this part of the country. Only one known relative is living, a sister residing in Wyoming. He had lived in Two Harbors snce 1903 and most of that time had worked as a switchman in the Duluth & Iron Range yards.

Mr. Barrett was a member of the Masonic lodge at Two Harbors and also belonged to the Knights of Pythias, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Dramatic Order of Knights Korassan. He was well liked and especially popular among the railroaders.

The body is at the LeSage undertaking rooms, awaiting funeral arrangements.

BEAT THEM TO IT.

Grand Rapids Commission Too Late to Buy Lots.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While J. S. Schultz was boring a well for the village water and light commission he struck what appeared to be iron ore. Some property belonging to J. D. O'Donnell, held in trust by W. F. McKay of Duluth adjoined, and at once there began a scramble by local people to get hold of these lots.

On the evening of the discovery of the ore, W. C. Gilbert, E. N. Remer and D. F. Farrell telephoned to Duluth and had their representative there buy the lots of Mr. McKay. Mr. Finnegan, of the water and light commission, and Mr. King, of the village council, left for Duluth on the night train. When they sought to interview Mr. McKay they found he was busy, and when finally admitted to his office, were informed that they were just a minute too late as the sale had just been consummated to the other parties.

It is said Messrs. Farrell, Remer and Gilbert have offered to sell the commission the lots they require, reserving, however, the mineral rights.

C. F. WIEHE IS QUIZZED ABOUT HINES, COOK, O'BRIEN AND LORIMER

Lorimer cash?" asked Mr. Marble.

"I might have. I knew Mr. Hines felt that by his message to Governor Deneen he believed he had been influential in the election of Lorimer, and I thought, as has been shown, that if he kept repeating his part in the election he would get Lorimer's enemies down on him."

Harks Back to Shields.

After thinking of the matter over night Wiehe declared that one of the reasons why he asked R. J. Shields, the affidavit collector of Superior, Wis., to meet him in Chicago, about ten days ago, was to discuss sending him to Albany, N. Y.

"Why didn't you recall that yesterday?" asked Mr. Marble.

"I don't know."

Wiehe explained that the Hines company desired to ascertain if Cyrus McCormick contributed anything to the Taft campaign in 1908, and that he had been advised the list of contributors was on file with with the secretary of state at Albany.

"I had wired the secretary of state and had got a reply that the list was destroyed, only being retained for fifteen months," said the witness. "Since coming here I have received a wire from Albany saying the list would be furnished for $1,000."

Taft's Campaign Fund.

Wiehe did not think the charge was solely for copying the 128 pages of contributors.

"Do you mean to say there are 128 pages of contributors to the Taft campaign fund?" asked Senator Kern, late vice presidential candidate on the ticket opposed to Mr. Taft.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"I see how it happened, then," responded the defeated candidate.

Wiehe was asked why he had called in Shields about the Albany matter. He said Shields claimed to know someone at Albany that might help him get the list.

"Haven't you men in your office who could get this list without calling a man all the way from Superior, Wis.?" Wiehe was asked.

"Yes, but I talked over the matter with Shields," he replied.

That Talk With Burgess.

Senator Kern asked Wiehe many questions about the Winnipeg Flyer incident when Wiehe is credited with saying he contributed to a Lorimer fund. Wiehe testified that at first he had been unable to tell the manner in which seven or eight men were seated in the smoker "until we all got together and talked it over."

In reply to a question from Senator Kenyon, Wiehe said he thought Shields would come to Washington to testify if requested to do so.

Chairman Dillingham interrupted to say that several inquiries had been made recently as to whether Shields was in hiding. He stated that not until yesterday was a suggestion made to summon him.

"I think he should be a witness," declared Senator Kenyon.

"So do I, and we will be obliged for information as to where Mr. Shields can be reached," said Mr. Dillingham.

No one, however, was able to state his whereabouts.

Shields Hines' Agent.

The story of the administration's attitude toward the election of Senator Lorimer, as told by Former Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, and the activities of R. J. Shields of Superior, Wis., an insurance agent, in collecting affidavits from witnesses in the investigation, featured the committee hearing yesterday.

Instead of sending Edward Hines, the Chicago lumberman, to Springfield with word from the Washington administration that Lorimer should be elected, Mr. Aldrich testified that he told Hines that President Taft was not supporting the candidacy of anyone, but that Lorimer was not objectionable to him.

A statement from the White House last March in regard to the election was read to the witness. The only point concerning which he said he knew nothing was the declaration that a request had been made on the president to sign a telegram stating his views on Lorimer's candidacy.

White House Statement.

The White House statement, given out March 29, was as follows:

"The fact with reference to the president's relation to Senator Lorimer's election is this:

"That during the tariff fight, gentlemen came to him and expressed their interest in passing the tariff bill, and said that it had been suggested from Illinois that it would be wise for the president to express an opinion in favor of the election of Mr. Lorimer. He did not know Mr. Lorimer well, although he knew that he was an influential member of congress, but he did know Mr. Hopkins. He knew very little about Illinois politics, but expressed a desire that there should be two Republican senators from Illinois, but when asked to put that in the form of a telegram urging the election of Mr. Lorimer, he declined to do so.

"The statement by Mr. Hines that the president was anxious for and was urging the election of Mr. Lorimer, is wholly unfounded."

Asked Shields to Do It.

C. F. Wiehe, secretary of the Edward Hines Lumber company, said Shields had collected the affidavits of witnesses who testified that Wiehe did not remark to William Burgess of Duluth, on the Winnipeg Flyer last March, that he subscribed $10,000 to a Lorimer election fund. Wiehe stated that no arrangement had been made to pay Shields anything, but that he had asked him to collect the affidavits "just as I would ask a senator to hand me a fan."

He said that Shields spent two weeks traveling in Kansas, Iowa, Northwest Canada and Washington to locate the witnesses The witness said that Shields had drawn upon the lumber company for his expenses, but he did not know how much they were. He offered to furnish the information later.

For an hour Wiehe was questioned as to whether Shields represented the Hines company in Wisconsin politics and finally how it happened that Shields would leave his own business to hunt up evidence for others without some kind of an arrangement about compensation. Wiehe knew nothing of Shields' political activities for the company, but called attention repeatedly to the statement that Shields got about $4,000 out of the Hines company as insurance payments. He said he expected to pay Shields if he presented a bill.

Could Not Locate Him.

Wiehe said he had Shields come to Chicago about ten days ago in order to ask him if he had had much trouble in locating the witnesses. Wiehe denied that he wanted more information as to what the men would testify, because, he explained, he had their affidavits. Wiehe said he could not assist the company in locating Shields.

AGAIN WIDOW OF SUICIDE

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Holmes, a wealthy New York woman, is now pending in the New York supreme court.

Trailed by His Wife.

Dunn first came into the limelight in July, 1908, when his wife made an attack on Mrs. Holmes on the board walk at Atlantic City, after she had followed the woman and Dunn across the continent from San Francisco. Dunn was then acting as secretary to Mrs. Holmes.

Mrs. Dunn was arrested for assault and battery and was held under $500 bail for court. She then preferred counter-charges against Mrs. Holmes and the latter was also arrested and held under the same bail. Dunn resigned his position as secretary to Mrs. Holmes in October of that year and came to this city. His wife took up her residence in New York.

First Husband a Suicide.

Dunn first met his wife in San Francisco, when he went there shortly after the earthquake and took charge of a hotel. Mrs. Dunn was then a widow, having been married to a man named "Dixie" Rosenbaum, who had committed suicide several years previous. Rosenbaum was wealthy and left his widow a fortune of $300,000. By shrewd speculation she is said to have increased this to $1,000,000.

Superior Blanks La Crosse in Opening Game of Series.

Big Dunbar Pitches Great Game and Gets Errorless Backing.

The Taylorites came back in fine form yesterday with Big Dunbar on the slab and blanked La Crosse in the first game of the series by a 5 to 0 score. Dunbar pitched as classy an article of ball as has been seen in these parts this season, fanning six and not allowing a single walk. The big fellow was given errorless backing by his teammates and the visitors did not have a chance all through the game. The Superior bunch were there with the stick and found Price for twelve safe ones. Safford and Kernan were the only Outcasts who found Dunbar for safe hits.

STRANG'S CAR GOING SLOWLY

Not Over Four Miles an Hour When Automobilist Was Killed.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 21.—Lewis Strang, the automobile racing driver who was killed near Blue River, Wis., yesterday while piloting the machine of the technical committee on the Wisconsin Automobile association's reliability run from La Crosse to Lancaster, about 128 miles, was only going four miles an hour when the fatality happened, and not rapidly, as first reported.

Strang turned the car aside for a farmer who was going in the same direction, but the bank suddenly gave way and his car slid down the embankment, turning turtle, and Strang, reluctant to jump, went under to his death.

In the car with Strang were J. W. Tufts, 70; Joe Jaegersberger and L. A. Clark of Lancaster, Wis. The embankment was scarcely more than five feet high.

The remains were recovered by Jaegersberger and will be shipped to New York for burial. Jaegersberger could hardly contain himself as he pitifully cried over the corpse. "I can hardly realize that Lewis is dead," he said. "At Indianapolis I was spilled out on the track going eighty-five miles an hour and escaped without a scratch, while poor Lewis is killed in a reliability run in which he is not even a competitor."

Lewis Strang was 26 years of age and was born in New York, but has been connected with the Case company and manager of their team for a number of years. His fast drive was in Elkwood park track, and he has driven in practically every race of importance since 1907.

In 1907 he was the winner of the circular track mile at Birmingham, Ala., and made a mile record in Nashville. He was a winner in 1908 at Savannah in a road race, also at Lowell, Mass., Brighton Beach and Savannah, Ga. In 1909 he was a winner at Ormond Beach, making 100 miles in 94 minutes. In 1910, on the Indianapolis motor speedway, he made a quarter mile record in 8 seconds, making 119 miles an hour, one kilometer 22 sec.; five miles in 3 min. 17 sec.

DULUTH JUNIOR EIGHT IS FAVORITE IN BIG RACE

Is One of Fastest Crews Ever Turned Out By Club.

Bantams Also Likely Winners —Winnipeg Senior Four Picked to Win.

(BY BRUCE.)

With fair weather promised and the indications pointing to ideal conditions for rowing, this afternoon's events in the first day's racing of the Northwestern International regatta promise to be the best ever contested since the new association was formed in 1906.

Great interest will center in the junior eight event. Locally there is a very strong following for the Duluth junior eight, and with the Duluth boat having what is considered its best chance in years for a first place, there will be a big turnout of those who believe that the present season holds something in store in the way of first prizes for the Duluth eight.

Rough water prevented many of the oarsmen from getting out yesterday. In the latter part of the evening some of the oarsmen of the visiting clubs got out for a practice spin. In general there is a lot of speculation connected with most of the rowing contests of today and tomorrow, with Duluth perhaps a slight favorite for the junior eight event, the big event of this afternoon.

In the junior eight event it is conceded on all sides that the crew winning will be better than the eight of last season, though the junior eight of St. Paul the victor last season, was fully up to the standard and one of the neatest crews in speed and finish that has been turned out by the association in some years.

Foley is Picked.

Foley of St. Paul in the dope that is an interesting part of the interest attending all races, is the favorite for the junior singles of this afternoon Ralph McGuigan of the Minnesota Boat club, a team mate of Foley, is picked for place over big George Taylor of the Winnipeg club, though the race promises to be interesting from the crack of the starter's gun.

In the bantam four event, the Duluth bantam four, with Walker, St. Pierre, Refus and Mapp is the favorite, with Winnipeg conceded to have a fast performing four and St. Paul here with a faster four than represented the Mississippi river organization last season at Kenora.

The junior eight event will be the big race of the afternoon. Duluth will start its first and second eights in this event. Thompson, Grim, Kent, Summerville, Mahan, Lathrop, Forgette and Hare represent probably the fastest eight that has ever been turned out by the local club.

Winnipeg, finishing at the very throat of St. Paul last season, is the logical winner of the event. Logic does not always work in boat races or melodramas or after dinner speeches and for that reason the plain old dope, sometimes kicked under the waste basket in sheer disgust, is played for this afternoon's event stronger than the clear white reason of the logic stuff.

In the doubles, the famous Con Riley and Aldous of Winnipeg go to the stake piles the favorites over Holyoke Davis and Monty Cochran of the Minnesota Boat club.

Riley and Aldous have rowed together for some seasons and are perhaps, next to Hackett and DeBraisey, one of the best doubles ever developed in the Northwest.

The St. Paul men, always pretty game sports, are reported to be willing to bet money on the chances of the St. Paul junior eight against the Duluth junior eight.

In the senior four event, Con Riley's four should win, though it is a very matter of fact truism that a race is really never won until it is rowed.

The St. Paul four, in some quarters reported as very fast, is not generally considered the equal of the famous four from the big city on the North, and should dope be a very good child and play the narrow confines of the front yard of past performances, the Canadians will walk away with the medals in this event.

This is the dope as gathered right off the big float. Oarsmen as a rule tell the truth as they see it in their sporting light. Often dope runs like race horses in the fag end of a race meeting where the general public is played for the eager comeon party.

Dope is often an errant child and cuts up and astonishes close students of form. Time on different waters is useless as a guide to the outcome. The races should be close and some of the prettiest contests of recent seasons should result this afternoon.

PACKY AND AD IN SHORT BOUT

Chicagoan Will Meet Champion in Ten Rounds at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 21.—Late last night Emil Thiry, manager for Packey McFarland, and Matchmaker Mulkern of the National Athletic club of this city, matched Wolgast and McFarland for a ten-round battle here some time during September. The date has not been definitely set, but present plans indicate that the bout will take place on Sept. 11. The weight will be 133 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Wolgast will arrive here two weeks before the battle to prepare for the affair.

St. Paul Players Meet for Right to Challenge for Tennis Title.

H. Waidner of Chicago for the title of Northwestern champion. The summary of yesterday's play follows:

Semi-final round — Armstrong defeated L. H. Northrop, 6-0, 6-4, 6-0; Adams defeated Wheeler, 7-5, 6-4, 8-6.

LONG AND GARDNER LOSE AT LONGWOOD.

Boston, Mass., July 21.—Another upset occurred in the annual Longwood tennis tournament yesterday when Raymond D. Little and C. F. Touchard of New York defeated M. H. Long of San Francisco and C. R. Gardner of New York, in the fourth round of the Eastern doubles championship, 5-7; 6-4; 6-2; 3-6; 7-5.

Long and Gardner had been picked by many to win the title, but Little and Touchard ran away with the victory. They will meet W. J. Clothier and W. A. Larned in the semi-finals.

WELLS GETS DECISION OVER DICK HYLAND.

Albany, N. Y., July 21.—Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, won a popular decision over "Fighting Dick" Hyland of California in a fast 10-round bout last night. Wells held the lead in all but two rounds, the seventh and eighth, when Hyland had an advantage by landing hard body blows.

DRIVER IS SUSPENDED

Judges at Kalamazoo Say Valentine Held Up Peter The Second.

R. T. C., Former Delivery Horse, Wins $10,000 Paper Mills Stake.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 21.—After winning one heat of the Paper Mills $10,000 stake for 2:14 class trotters at the Grand Circuit meeting before rain put a stop to the program Wednesday, R. T. C. came back yesterday and proved conclusively that his victory was not a flash in the pan, as many horsemen had believed. Last year a delivery horse, R. T. C. again yesterday showed his heels to a high class field and never in the two heats necessary to decide the event, was he in danger of defeat.

Just as easily as he took the first heat Wednesday, Anvil won the first two heats of the 2:24 trot yesterday. He was never hard pressed and Lady Willow, who was second in the first and second heats, was never within striking distance. Hanna Louise in the final heat stepped out in the stretch and took second place.

Because Valentine, driver of Peter The Second, jockeyed in the first two heats of the 2:14 pace, and refused to let his horse make the time the judges declared he should, he was suspended from the track for ninety days. His suspension came to an end at the fourth heat of the race that required five heats to decide. His horse had won the third heat but in the fourth, Valentine allowed his horse to come jogging in away behind the field. He was distanced, Valentine claiming that the breaking of the horse's hobbles was the cause. All bets on the race and heat were also declared off. Dora J., which had won the second heat, easily took the last two and the money.

Kirby Star had it all his own way in the 2:22 pace, Major O'Dell being an easy winner of the second money. The race was featureless and only a small field finished.

BRAINERD MAN WINS STATE SHOOTING BADGE.

Austin, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Art White of Brainerd, with a score of forty-two out of a possible fifty, shooting against twenty-five of the best amateur shots of the state, won the state championship diamond badge. G. J. McGraw of Minneapolis, his nearest competitor, had a score of forty. With the honor of holding the badge for a year went also the honor of the next tournament going to Brainerd. The badge is made of solid gold and contains a large valuable diamond. It was originally awarded by the old board of trade of St. Paul thirty years ago and has been shot for annually since then. If won three times in succession it becomes the holder's property, but no one has been able to accomplish this.

The national commission has decided that a major league club desiring to recall any player must notify the secretary of the commission as well as the minor league club concerned on or before 6 p. m. Aug. 20 that it intends to exercise its adoption.

GITTINS BILL LOSES IN STATE ASSEMBLY.

Albany, N. Y., July 21.—Sportsmen's hopes of reviving horse racing in New York state this year received a decided set-back last night when the assembly by a vote 53 to 63 defeated the Gittins bill, designed to relieve directors of race tracks from liability for gambling at race tracks carried on without their knowledge. Another attempt probably will be made today to pass the measure.

S.S.S. CURES OLD BLOOD DISEASES

Contagious Blood Poison is responsible for a great many old blood troubles, such as scrofulous affections, skin eruptions, catarrhal troubles, Rheumatism, ulcerating sores, etc. There is no such thing as ridding the system of these effects by killing the poisonous germs. Any medicine powerful enough to accomplish this would also destroy many of the delicate linings and tissues, and wreck the constitution. The only way to cure old blood troubles is to REMOVE the cause from the circulation, and for this purpose nothing is equal to S. S. S. It goes into the blood

RELAYING OLD TRACK

Street Railway Putting Heavier Rails on Grand Avenue.

Double Track Will Permit Better Service for West Duluth.

Preparatory to the paving and permanent improvement of Grand avenue west between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues, the Duluth Street Railway company is relaying the double track between these points on the Grand avenue car line. The old track is being replaced with 91-pound steel.

In addition to the relaying of the track on that portion of Grand avenue which will be paved, the company will also make other improvements. The double track, which now extends to Fifty-seventh avenue west, is to be extended to Sixty-first avenue west. Between Sixty-first and Sixty-third there are two tracks, and the new extension will make it possible to install a quicker service.

At Fifty-seventh avenue a "Y" will be built. When installed, the extra cars on the West Third street line, which run from Twenty-fourth avenue east to Thirty-ninth avenue west, will run to Fifty-seventh avenue west and Grand avenue instead of turning around at the Thirty-ninth avenue "Y." This will mean that West Duluth will have a five-minute service on the Third street line during the rush hours.

In relaying the tracks the rails are welded together by a special process, the inventor of which, it is said, receives $1 a joint royalty. The welding of the joints does away with any possibility of trouble from a "dead" rail. The welded rail is equivalent to a continuous piece of steel and is a perfect conductor of electricity.

Most of the work preparatory to the paving has been done, and it is expected that within a week the laying of brick will be started. P. McDonnell has the contract on his bid of about $50,000.

FACTORIES FOR SUBURB.

Proposed Industries for West Duluth Will Be Considered.

New factories for West Duluth will be discussed at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club this evening. Owing to the water carnival and other attractions, the session will probably be a short one.

The principal matter of interest to be brought up will be an inspection of bed springs, which two Twin City men propose to manufacture here, providing that sufficient capital can be interested in the venture and other concessions allowed.

GOOD TEMPLAR PICNIC.

North Star Lodge, I. O. G. T., Will Hold Outing July 30.

JAMES McCAHILL DIES ON HIS LAKE CITY FARM

James McCahill, for many years one of the most prominent residents of this city and one of the pioneer settlers at the Head of the Lakes, died suddenly this morning at his home at Lake City, Minn.

Mr. McCahill's death was unexpected in spite of the fact that for a number of months he has been in poor health. Death was due to heart failure.

He removed to a large farm near Lake City two years ago in the hope that the change would be of benefit to his health. He was 58 years old. He leaves a widow and six children, who range in age from 6 to 18 years of age.

Mr. McCahill was the owner of the Shenango mine at Chisholm and a great deal of Duluth property. He owned the old Y. M. C. A. building on Superior street and other city property, and was considered very wealthy.

For a number of years after selling his Duluth residence he made his home at the Spalding and St. Louis hotels. He was very well known throughout the city by the older residents.

The funeral will be held at Lake City Monday morning.

Mr. McCahill came to Duluth originally from the state of Michigan, thirty years ago. He was one of the early settlers at the Head of the Lakes and was quick to take advantage of the discovery of iron ore on the range. The Shenango mine made him very wealthy.

Besides his widow he leaves the following children: Elinor, Francis, Eugene, Louis, Katherine and James R. McCahill.

COPPERS SAG IN QUIET MARKET

Slight Losses Shown on Day's Trading—Butte-Alex Scott Local Feature.

There was some profit-taking in the copper market today, but the trading was light and the market just sagged back slightly in a reaction from the advances of the past few days. The losses were fractional and the market has a strong undertone.

Amalgamated opened at $69, fell off to $68.87½ and closed at $69, North Butte opened at $33 12½, dropped to $33, advanced to $33.37½ and closed at $33.12½ bid and $33.50 asked. Butte Coalition opened at $18.25, and dropped to $18 bid and $18.25 asked at the close. Calumet & Arizona opened at $58 bid and $58.50 asked, and closed at $57.75 bid and $58 asked. Greene Cananea opened at $7.06¼ and closed at $7 bid and $7.25 asked. Giroux opened at $6.18¾ bid and $6.37 asked, and closed at $6.25.

Butte Alex Scott was the feature of the local market today. It was bid up from $6.62½ to $7.25. A few shares changed hands at the latter figure, but little stock came out on the bulge and the market closed with $7.25 bid. Calumet & Montana sold at 40c, 42c and 45c. Keating sold at $3 and $3.06¼. San Antonio at $4.18¾. Vermillion at $1.50 and Calumet Sonora at $7.06¼. Butte Ballaklava held at $4.50 bid and $5 asked, and Denn Arizona at $5 bid and $5.62½ asked.

At the suggestion of the executive committee of the Butte Alex-Scott Copper company, the next meeting of the board of directors will probably be held at Butte, Mont.

President N. F. Hugo of the company has sent out letters to the members of the board asking if it would not be possible to meet at Butte and getting a line on the time that it would be possible for the members to be present.

At the meeting, the future policy of the company as to operations and dividends will be decided upon.

RAILROADS

MINNESOTA'S CASE HELPS RAILROADS

Restoration of 3-Cent Fares Bolsters Position of Upper Michigan Roads.

Calumet, Mich., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mart Adson, general passenger agent of the Duluth, South Shore and the Mineral Range railways, both of which traverse Northern Michigan, the latter being largely held by the Calumet & Hecla Mining company, was here this week, but refused to make any statement in regard to the attitude of the railroads as regards the 2-cent passenger rate, which goes into effect in Northern Michigan on Aug. 1.

It is generally believed that the railroads will contest the rate, that they will continue to charge 3 cents per mile and will allow a test case to be taken into the court, for no new tariffs have been received, as yet, by local agents in this part of the state.

They believe, evidently, that they can as successfully fight the new rate law as they did in Minnesota, where the rate has gone back to the 3-cent per mile basis. The South Shore is reported to be earning in the neighborhood of $1,900 per mile on passenger business alone. Mr. Adson said the road is enjoying a very prosperous year and that general conditions throughout the country, as far as the railroads are concerned, are most excellent.

COLLECT EVIDENCE ON EXPRESS RATES

Railroad Commissioners of Several States to Meet at Chicago.

Chicago, July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special committee of railroad commissioners from the states that have railroad and utilities commissions will meet here beginning July 27 to collect evidence relative to express rates throughout the country, according to an announcement made today by Charles F. Staples, member of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission.

The committee will prepare a report on the desirability of greater co-operation between the several state commissions and the interstate commerce commission.

The special committee will be composed of Martin S. Decker, New York; C. F. Staples, Minnesota; O. P. Gothlin, Ohio; Halford Erickson, Wisconsin; L. B. Finn, Kentucky; E. S. Depass, Arizona, and Orville F. Berry of Illinois.

All parties who desire to give testimony or offer suggestions generally regarding railroad or express companies will be heard by the committee.

PICNIC ABANDONED.

Date Set for Annual Outing Conflicts With Water Carnival.

The committee on the July outing and picnic of the Northern Railway club, has decided not to have a picnic this year, as the date selected by the club at its last meeting conflicts with that of the water carnival. Tomorrow, July 22, was selected as the time.

The committee calls the attention of the members of the club to the next meeting to be held on Aug. 11 when a lecture on the subject, "The Bureau for the Safe Transportation of Explosives and Other Dangerous Articles," will be delivered by Special Agent Taylor, of this bureau. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon views, and promises to be an interesting one.

Enjoying the Carnival.

J. M. Hannaford, vice president of the Northern Pacific railroad, is in the city from St. Paul, on a business and pleasure trip. While here he is enjoying the water carnival, and expresses himself as being well pleased with the affair. He believes that this carnival is one of the best advertisements that Duluth could have devised, as it is attracting thousands who have never before visited the Zenith City.

AMONG RAILROAD MEN

F. M. Ruggs, Northwestern passenger agent of the Burlington, Mrs. Ruggs and daughter, of St. Paul, are in the city to attend the water carnival.

H. Johnson, general passenger agent of the Duluth & Iron Range road, returned this morning from an inspection trip of the new cottages at Lake Vermilion.

STEEL SUBSIDIARY TO BE INVESTIGATED.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 21.—Officials of the National Tube company, an underlying company of the United States Steel corporation, have been notified that investigators in the employ of the congressional committee will be here this week. Orders have been given to admit them to the plant at Mc Keesport at any time. The inquiries will deal largely with working conditions and wages.

ONLY ONE DEATH IN TYPHOID EPIDEMIC.

Norfolk, Va., July 21.—Out of forty-five typhoid fever patients transferred from the St. Helena naval reservation to the naval hospital at Portsmouth, there has been but one fatality thus far.

The situation at St. Helena is said to be well in hand. Innoculation has been extensive among the men, and the authorities assert that this has had the desired effect in checking the fever.

JOHN W. GATES IS NOT OUT OF DANGER.

Paris, July 21.—The physicians attending John W. Gates, although satisfied with the rate of improvement shown by the patient, were not prepared today to say that he was out of danger because the nephritis is still active. The malady must run its regular course, and it will be some days before a definite opinion as to the outcome will be justified.

DIVORCEE IS REFUSED PERMIT

Columbus, Ohio, Woman Cannot Marry in State of Minnesota.

Because Mrs. Anna Sullivan had been divorced from a former husband but a short time Jacob Shriner was denied a license by the clerk of the district court this morning to marry her.

It is the first instance of such an occurrence at the local clerk of courts office.

Mrs. Sullivan is from Columbus, Ohio, and Jacob Shriner is from Hay Point, Minn. They came to Duluth yesterday and at once made application for a marriage license. The license had been made out and the regular questions asked. When asked if either party had ever been divorced Mrs. Sullivan answered yes and volunteered the information that it was but three months before. The license was refused.

The law in Minnesota requires that six months must elapse before divorced persons may marry.

RIVER AND HARBOR MEN AT PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 21.—Members of the river and harbor commission, the guests of Pittsburg, were awakened today by the blowing of thousands of factory whistles, the welcome planned for them before they were to visit the leading mills of the immediate district. After a trip through the industrial section the commission will be ready for the journey over the route of the proposed Pittsburg and Lake Erie ship canal tomorrow, before starting on the river trip to Cairo and other down-the-Ohio river points.

8,884 ACRES ARE INCLUDED

Description of Land to Be Opened for Entry Aug. 22.

Official Announcement Is Received By Duluth Land Office Officials.

Information was received yesterday afternoon by the register and receiver of the local land office from the land department at Washington announcing the opening on Aug. 22 of the Chippewa lands, including the Red Lake Indian reservations, and of the Fond du Lac Indian reservation. The Chippewa lands include only two townships in the Red Lake reservations namely, 157-28 and 159-29, and 45,779 acres of cut-over lands, the opening to be made at Cass Lake land office.

The Fond du Lac lands include 8,884.39 acres in townships 49 and 50, range 17, and townships 49, 50 and 51, range 18, entry to be made at the Duluth office.

The time for the filing is 9 o'clock a. m. At this time the land is also open to actual settlers, who may enter the land on or after that time, with claims to it. Prior settlement, however, will not be recognized.

It is stated in the communication to the land officials here and Cass Lake, that the lands in Winnibigoshish, Cass Lake, Chippewa of the Mississippi, or the Leech Lake reservations, not included in this opening, will be opened to homestead entry when the timber upon them has been removed.

In all there are 91,104.47 acres opened for settlement, of which 82,220.08 are in the Cass Lake land district and 8,884.39 acres are in the Duluth district.

Besides making regular payments for fees for the filing upon the land, the entrymen must pay $1.25 per acre, in five equal payments at the end of each year. The requirements for entry upon the lands is the same as that required at other land openings.

The following are the descriptions of the lands opened in the Duluth district for filing or settlement on Aug. 22:

Judge Morris, this morning, set for trial the case of H. E. Speakes against the Duluth Street Railway company, in which the plaintiff is suing for personal injuries alleged to have been received.

Stipulations for the settlement of the case of Andrew R. Carlson against the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Mining company, were filed with the clerk of the United States court, and the case was dismissed.

ST. HENRY'S AEROPLANE CRASHES INTO FENCE.

Fargo, N. D., July 21.—"Bob" St. Henry rammed his flying machine into a fence around the race track in alighting after a successful flight. He landed with the wind, which gave his machine so much force he could not stop till he reached the fence, despite desperate efforts on his part.

The biplane was somewhat battered up, but was repaired in time for the evening flight. St. Henry was run over by the machine just before it struck the fence, but his injuries were not serious.

TOWNSEND AMENDMENT TO RECIPROCITY BILL BEATEN

La Follette Makes Final Speech Against the Agreement.

Penrose Promises President Pact Will Pass on Saturday.

Washington, July 21.—Senator Townsend's amendment to the reciprocity bill, providing for international improvement of the St. Lawrence river, was defeated in the senate today by a large vote.

Mr. Townsend spoke in favor of his amendment, which would have authorized the president to enter into an agreement with Canada for the improvement and deepening of the river from the Great Lakes to the ocean. He said it would greatly develop commerce, reduce freight rates and work toward closer commercial relations with Canada.

Senator Stone opposed putting waterway legislation upon the reciprocity bill. He said it should come up in congress as a separate proposition and as such it probably would be favorably acted upon.

La Follette Attacks Papers.

Assailing the press of the United States for its support of the Canadian reciprocity bill, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin made his closing speech against the bill today in the senate. He expressed the belief that newspapers would suffer in loss of influence for the support they have given to legislation in which, he said, they "have a direct money interest."

"The press has failed in its duty to the public in regard to this legislation," he said.

Mr. La Follette referred to testimony given before the finance committee of the senate that a newspaper organization had sent out a communication to many papers, urging them to treat favorably the reciprocity agreement. He deplored this attitude of the newspapers.

Warns the Press.

"We have senators on this floor who are bankers," said Senator La Follette; "senators who are woolen manufacturers and cotton manufacturers; senators who are interested in lumber mills. Let no newspaper hereafter assail any senator because he supports legislation in his own peculiar interest."

Senator La Follette referred to Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who had interrupted him, as a "newspaper owner" who had a direct interest at stake.

"Is it not just as fair for me to criticize the senator from Wisconsin?" retorted Hitchcock, "for advocating a duty on paper in the interests of the great mills of Wisconsin, to which the whole country pays tribute?"

Favors Free Paper.

Senator La Follette replied that he did not favor a duty on paper; that he was in favor of free print paper and would propose a measure in that interest as a direct tariff measure. He objected to the reciprocity bill, he said, because the newspapers would get free paper at the expense of the farmers whose duties on their products would be removed.

Mr. La Follette defended progressive Republicans from the charge that they have changed front on the tariff and now are opposing a partial tariff revision as embodied in the reciprocity bill. He said the Progressives stood just where they did in the tariff fight of 1909, but that the reciprocity bill was not a true Republican measure.

Calls Bill Un-Republican.

"I oppose this bill because it belies its title," said Senator La Follette. "It is not reciprocity. It violates every principle of reciprocity as defined by Republican presidents and Republican platforms."

Senator La Follette declared the Democratic party had violated its own principles in every vote it had cast in the senate on the reciprocity bill by aligning with the Republican high tariff forces.

"The Democrats will have to answer for their inconsistencies," said Mr. La Follette.

Promise by Penrose.

Chairman Penrose of the senate finance committee today promised President Taft to lay the Canadian reciprocity bill with the approval of both the senate and house, on the president's table by 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, more than three hours before the president plans to leave Washington for a week end stay at Beverly. Senator Penrose said that it might get through tomorrow morning and then would be brought immediately to the White House.

TO CLEAN ALL RESERVOIRS

Water Board Directs Emptying of Big Tanks Every Year.

Contracts for Many Extensions Throughout the City Are Let.

Following the agitation for better water conditions at West Duluth, the water board at its meeting last evening instructed Manager Case to have all of the cities' reservoirs cleaned once each year, and to proceed with the cleaning of the West Duluth reservoir in the near future. The work on the West Duluth reservoir will be postponed until there is time for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad to complete a shunt pipe from the reservoir supply pipe direct to the Proctor supply pipe so that the reservoir may be emptied without depriving the Proctor people of the water supply.

The following contracts for extension work were let:

E. A. Dahl, 16-inch water and 8-inch gas mains in Lake and Missabe avenues, $16,694.30; Emil Engel, 6-inch water and 4-inch gas mains in Seventh street east and Parkside avenue, $649.44; in Vista street from Woodland to Indiana avenues, $1,288.80; in West Fourth street from Thirty-ninth to Thirty-seventh avenues west, $631.67; Pastoret and Lawrence, 4-inch water and 3-inch gas in Second avenue east, $246.40; 6-inch water and 4-inch gas in Allendale avenue, east of Anoka street, $184.80; in Wabasha avenue, west from Allendale, $275.20; in West Fourth street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues west $759.60; in Fiftieth avenue west, between Ramsey and Wadena streets, $487.14; Adam McAdams, 4-inch gas main in the alley between Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth avenues west, $152.30; 6-inch water main and 4-inch gas in Eighth street, east of Fifth avenue east $53; in Chestnut street, west from Pacific avenue, $165; Samuel Johnson, 6-inch water and 4-inch gas mains in East Eighth street, east of Eighth avenue east, $204.20; in Cook street west of Forty-seventh avenue east, $256.10; in Minnesota avenue, between Portieth and Forty-first streets, $423.10; in Ninth avenue east, north of Ninth street, $427.55.

PROMISES TO CREATE PEERS

King George Has Told Asquith He Will Insure Veto Bill's Passage.

London, July 21.—King George has given Premier Asquith his promise to appoint as many new peers as will be necessary to pass the veto bill.

This was announced this afternoon by the premier in a letter addressed to A. J. Balfour and read at a caucus of Unionist peers at Lord Lansdowne's house.

The political problem has narrowed down now to differences between Lord Lansdowne and the cabinet of Balsbury as to the future Unionist action on the veto bill, and today's cabinet council had to make provision to meet a possible hostile demonstration on the part of the "last ditchers."

Lord Lansdowne seemingly would be satisfied with Premier Asquith's assurance that he has authority to create all the peers necessary, but the earl of Balsbury demands an ocular demonstration, and as his following is an unknown quantity the government cannot afford to take the risk of being out-voted, as they might be if they create only a small preliminary batch of peers.

The cabinet meeting lasted two hours and as a result of the conference the peers will be given no chance of wrecking the bill when it is sent back from the house of commons.

Unless Premier Asquith is assured that the government measure will be passed it will not be placed again at the mercy of the peers until sufficient radicals have been given patents of nobility to assure its acceptance.

FISHER GOING TO CONTROLLER BAY

Senate Committee Has Decided Not to Make the Trip.

Washington, July 21.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher will leave about Aug. 1 for Alaska to spend a month inquiring into conditions there, particularly with respect to Controller bay transactions. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is busy compiling a report of the records of his office bearing on the transactions of his department in that section for reply to a senate resolution calling for data.

Meantime a joint congressional committee created at the last session of congress—headed by Senator Nelson of Minnesota and Representative Gerald of New York—to go to Alaska and investigate conditions generally there, has concluded not to make the trip this summer on account of the protracted session.

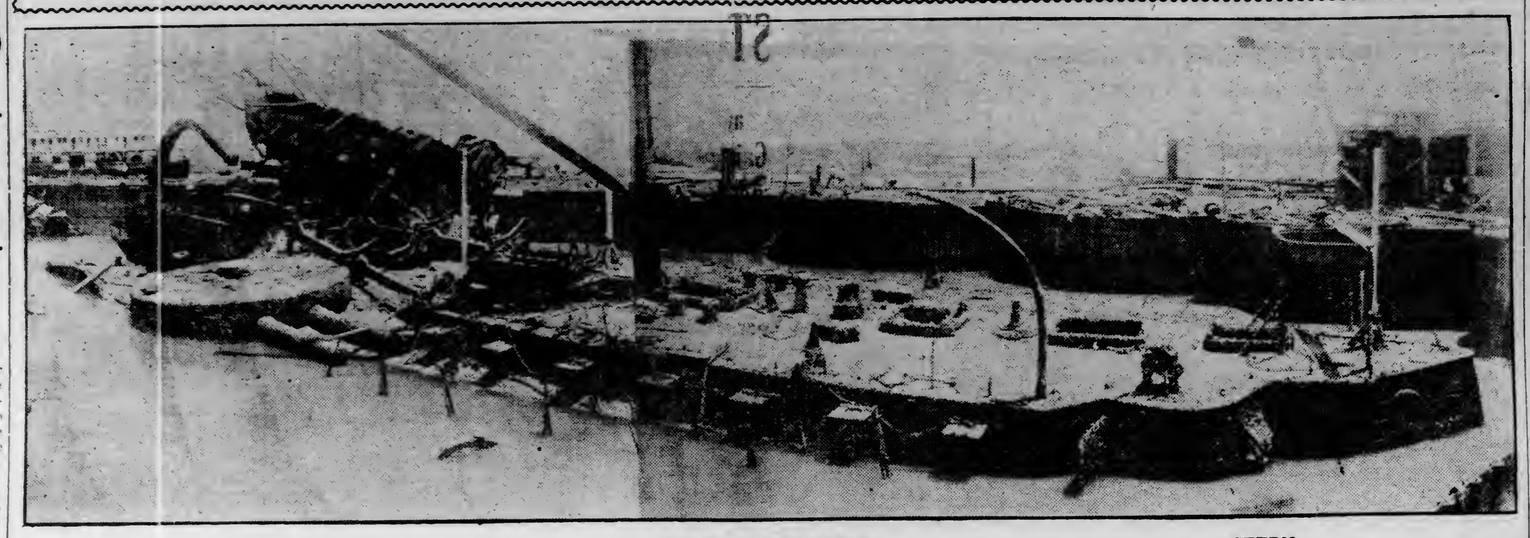

TWO SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN LARIMORE ROBBERY.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The arrest in this city of two suspects in connection with the burglarizing of the G. M. Naylor store at Larimore, in which about $200 worth of cutlery was secured is the only development in connection with the case. The men gained an entrance to the store through the smashing of a window, and they made a clean sweep of the cutlery stock. A number of watches were also stolen, although the exact number is uncertain.

WOULD TEACH SEX HYGIENE IN SCHOOLS.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 21.—The Ohio state board of health, in session here, adopted a resolution recommending the introduction of study of sex hygiene in the public schools. The Ohio board is said to be the first in the country to recommend fearless handling of this subject.

WRECK OF THE BATTLESHIP MAINE AS IT APPEARS INSIDE THE COFFERDAMS IN HAVANA HARBOR

BOW. HULK OF THE MAINE. STERN.

Although all the water has been pumped from the cofferdam built around the wreck of the battleship Maine, in Havana harbor, the engineers in charge of the work now face the most difficult part of their task—removal of the tons upon tons of mud that cover the wreck to various depths. Although the engineers refuse to give support to the theory, it is said that the position of the keel of the vessel, which was found bent upward, is evidence that the original explosion that ignited the magazines' contents occurred under the battleship. Hope of finding recognizable bodies of any of the men who lost their lives in the blowing up of the battleship has all but been abandoned. Some parts of skeletons have been found and other evidences of the sudden fate that overtook the bluejackets have been numerous. It is thought that many of the victims were blown some distance from the vessel and lie buried in mud at the bottom of the harbor.

ROGERS AND CLARK SUITS ARE DISMISSED

Judge Charles F Amidon of Fargo, of the federal court, acting in the famous Rogers and Clark cases, entered an order this afternoon for the dismissal of the complaints upon the merit of the defense, and also upon the ground that James Rogers, the original holder to the soldier's additional schip, was not entitled to these rights, as he was a Confederate soldier and not a Union soldier.

This judgment follows the argument made several weeks ago in the cases of Mary T. Rogers, widow of James Rogers; V. Eliar Fisher, Amanda Elizabeth Guinn, Narsis Jane Hickman and Dellar Greenwood against Wilson G. Crosby, John M. McClintock and Edward W. Barnes. A motion was then made by the defendants to have stricken the clause in the complaint which denied that James H. Baker, the man who purchased the scrip from Rogers, and made entry upon the land, and secured from the local land officials the certificate to the land, ever selected or located the land or caused a certificate to be issued. This motion was upheld by the court.

The second motion which was argued was for judgment upon the pleadings. This was also granted, and the court held that Rogers had no title to it. It is further stated by the court, that if it be conceded that Baker acquired the land by forged papers, he holds title to the land as against everybody except the government. In the court's judgment Baker paid $1.25 per acre in good faith, and the officials accepted the scrip and the payments, and delivered the certificate to him. The department at that time, the court claims, had a mistaken interpretation as to the assignability of the scrip, as to the soldier's additional land rights, and much scrip was transferred. Baker's right, the court holds, cannot be questioned now.

THEY DESIRE ENVY.

Los Angeles Times: "The ostentation of the idle rich of Europe," said H. K. Adair, the San Francisco detective, on his return from a trip of criminal investigation on the continent, "makes me think of a little Tommy Traddles.

"Tommy's mother gave him an apple one morning, and afterward, at lunch, she said:

"'Why, there's your apple in your pocket still! Why haven't you eaten it?'

"'I didn't see none of the fellers about,' Tommy answered. 'Apples taste best when there's another kid to watch you eat 'em.'"

THE HAPPY FRIENDS.

Los Angeles Times: That the humor of Mrs. Mary E. Wilkins Freeman is natural and unforced is shown by a little story that little Mary Wilkins wrote at the age of 8. This story, one of the treasures of a Boston autograph collector, runs, in a childish hand, as follows:

"THE TWO FRIENDS."

"Once upon a time there were two teeth, and they lived far back in a man's mouth. It was very dark and damp and dull there, and the two teeth were very sad, so they said: 'Let us ache.' So they ached. And the man said: 'I will go to the dentist's. And then the teeth were very glad, for now they knew they would see the world. The man went to the dentist's, and he said: 'These two teeth want to come out.' The teeth jumped for joy, and the dentist took them out and laid them on a plate, and the two teeth, as soon as they were alone, jumped up and ran like the wind down the street to the bakery, and stuck themselves into a splendid cake."

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL LUNCHES.

Boston Transcript: "Children do not like cereal foods but prefer fruits, ginger cookies and graham crackers," said Miss Madeline E. Torrey, teacher of cooking at the Winthrop school, in discussing the subject of penny lunches for the school children.

"I have given them carrot soup, potato chowder and every sort of cereal, but htey will skip them every time and jump for the sandwiches made with chopped raisins or the crackers upon which peanut butter has been spread. I find also that many children will prefer to buy the things which they can eat out of doors during the recess. For this purpose I have sandwiches wrapped in white paper."

She then told in detail of the menus which she arranged for each day in the week, giving the children one regular luncheon, and then having side combinations from which they might choose, such as gingerbread, oranges or peanuts.

"I am a thorough advocate of lunches for children during the forenoon," said Miss Torrey, "and find that in the children under my observation there has been a marked increase in their healthful appearance.

"As the lunch room is practically self-supporting all of the children are given tasks to do, such as cutting bread, preparing sandwishes and washing the dishes, and I find that they love to work, and what is most encouraging, will in time urge their mothers at home to adopt better methods in the kitchen. For 1 cent I give them a glass of skimmed milk with a sandwich or a cup of cocoa with three or four graham crackers, or if they tire of these a few dates, almonds or some fruit."

EATINGS OF OUR ANCESTORS.

New York Press: The Roll of Cury, the old name of cookery, comes down from the reign of Richard II, 1300, and was got up by the masters cooks of the king. It lets a light in upon the eatings of our ancestors. All the 196 dishes set forth in the Roll of Cury were probably eaten with the aid of a spoon only, or fingers, for joints and roasts were never served whole; time had to grow older before we learned to breed, feed and roast the mighty barons of beef.

Here is the old King Richard II way of making sausage: "Pyggs in sawse sawge," or pigs with sage sauce. "Take pyggs yskaldfd (scalded) and quarter them and seeth them in water and salt; take them and let them kele (cool); take parsel (parsley), sawge (sage) and grynde it with brede and yolkes of ayren ((eggs) harde ysode (boiled); temper it with vinegar somewhat thick, and lay the pyggs in a vessel and the sewe onnward (the sauce over them) and serve it forth." "Take pyggs" is pretty good, size or number seems of no consequence.

A receipt for making goose bodgepodge (hoggepot): "Take gees and smite them in pecys." The whikes of hard boiled eggs are "hewed." Take hares and "hewe" them to "gobetts." Take chyckens and boil them in gode brothe and "ramme" them up, stuffing. Fritters (fruters) are about the same now as in 1390. "Take flowre and ayren (eggs) and grind peper and safron and make thereof a batour (batter), and pare apples and kyt (cut) them to brode pecys and kest them theryn and fry them in the batour with fresh grees and serve forth." "For to make a loipster (lobster): "He shall be rostyd in his scalys in an ovyn or by the feer (fire) under a panne and etyn (eaten) with vinegar."

HEALTH.

Chicago Post: Health is the condition of the body that is secured by not living as we would wish.

Consequently, health is largely a theory.

Health is the state wherein we have no indigestion, no headache, no baldness, no corns, no fevers and no symtoms.

Therefore, we have little to talk about. People who do not have health can always discourse for hours on the way they tossed and tumbled and suffered all night.

People who are healthy can never get an audience to listen to the story of how good they feel.

Health is something which we will not keep when we have it and cannot buy when we lose it.

GRATITUDE.

Life: Gratitude is the nothing that we give for something. Anything more than that is compensation or restitution or reciprocity. But, as most people look upon gratitude as something more than nothing, we are usually satisfied with the gratitude we receive, and mistake it for no gratitude at all, and hence we look upon most people as ungrateful.

The best example of pure gratitude is a dog wagging his tail after receiving a bone or a pat or a back rub. This wag satisfies us because we know it's the best the dog can do.

HYPER-CHRITICISM.

Los Angeles Times: The late Frank Worthing, the well-known actor, was the subject of a recent discussion at the Pen and Pencil club in Philadelphia. A dramatic critic said:

"Worthing, though a superb actor, hated adverse criticism—hyper-criticism he always called it. To some adverse criticism of mine he reorted, one winter night at the Majestic, with a George Washington story.

"He said I reminded him in my critical remarks of a Scot named Saunders.

"'Saunders,' said an American, 'did you ever read the history of America?'

"'Aweel, I canna say I hev,' Saunders replied.

"'Then I'll lend you the book,' said the American. 'I'd like you to read about George Washington.'

"'What about him?' Saunders inquired coldly.

"'George Washington,' said the American, 'was celebrated in history as the boy who could not tell a lie.'

"'Could he no?' said Saunders. 'Man, there's no muckle to boast about in that. He couldna lie, ye say? Noo we Scot's hae a higher standahrd o' veracity. We can lie, but we won't.'"

A FAMOUS WISHING WELL.

Wide World: Near Boston Spa in Yorkshire, England, there is a so-called wishing well, which is probably nothing else than a survival of pagan tree worship. The place is called St. Helen's Well, and has been so named ever since the days of the Romans, but those who introduced Christianity into these islands frequently rebaptized the pagan shrines which they found on their path.

The legend runs that people visiting this dried up well to offer up prayers will have their wish granted if they leave an offering in the shape of a shred of their own clothing and observe strict secrecy in regard to the nature of their demands.

Not only lovers and superstitious country folk make pilgrimages to St. Helen's Well; the grove is frequented in summer time by quite serious people, who do not hesitate, when the backs of their companions are turned, to furtively tie some scrap from their clothing to the twisted roots and murmur their heart's desires.

FAIL TO CAPTURE SAN FRANCISCO

War Game on Pacific Coast Ends in Repulse of Enemy.

San Francisco, July 21.—San Francisco harbor defenses last night resisted a joint attack by land and sea in the war game being played here by national guard and regular troops and the naval militia. Following two hours' fighting umpires declared the "red" army of attack repulsed.

The attacking flotilla was picked up far out at sea by searchlights and theoretically sunk.

CROWDS WATCHING AUTOMOBILE TOUR

Natives Out to See Cars Pass in Twin City-Helena Run.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The automobiles in the Twin City to Helena tour made the run from Alexandria to this place in two hours and a half. A short control will be put in at Moorhead, and Fargo, N. D., will be reached by about 2:30 this afternoon.

Although the small cars had hard going at times, no penalties have been noted except one Flanders, which opened its tool bag. Rougher roads are expected this afternoon and it is probable by the time Fargo is reached several cars will be limiting.

People in this part of the country are watching the tourists pass through as if it were a circus parade. Children mount the trees and roofs of many houses and barns were covered with people.

ANOTHER INVESTIGATION.

House Committee on Agriculture to Probe Weather Man's Office.

Washington, July 21.—The charges against Ellis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, by James Bury, a former employe of the bureau, to the effect that money had been expended unlawfully for the employment of experts, will be investigated by the house committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture.

The charges are similar to those against Dr. Wiley, which the committee also is preparing to investigate. They alleged that Prof. Moore went beyond his authority in engaging the services of Rev. F. L. Odenbach, a seismographical expert of Cleveland, payment to be made out of the exigency fund of the bureau.

BELIEVE NEGRO WHO SHOT GIRL IS SUICIDE.

La Crosse, Wis., July 21.—That Edgar Robinette, would-be murderer of Sylvia Price, a white girl, with whom he was enamored, is dead by his own hand and that his body lies in the woods where the posses have been unable to find it, is the conclusion reached by searchers. The following letter, covered with blood, was found:

"Mrs. Mary Martin, 1211 Vine street, Kansas City, Mo.:

"Dear Aunt: I drop these few lines to you to let you know I will be dead next time you hear from me. I am heart-broken and can't get over it. I am going to kill the girl that has betrayed me. I am better off dead."

MACCABEES MAY MEET NEXT IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 21.—The concluding business session of the Knights of the Maccabees of the World in encampment here takes place today, with the choice of the next quadrennial convention city as the chief task before the supreme tent review. Indications favor San Francisco, as the gathering will take place while the Panama exposition is on.

A military parade this afternoon and exhibition drill this evening will conclude the day's program. The order re-elected D. P. Markey of Detroit supreme recorder, and the entire board of supreme trustees.

TACKS SUGAR SCHEDULE ON FREE LIST BILL.

Washington, July 21.—Senator Bristow introduced as an amendment to the free list bill the sugar tariff amendment which was defeated in the senate last week when offered as an amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill.

Alaskan Glaciers Melting.

Valdez, Alaska, July 21.—The hot spell continues in this vicinity and the glaciers are melting at a phenomenal rate, converting the glacial streams into torrents. A creek that flows through Valdez tore out forty feet of dykes, inundating four blocks in the southern portion of town. The damage thus far has been slight.

FACIAL EXPRESSIONS IN ANIMALS.

Strand Magazine: "Have you ever noticed," remarked a friend to Sir Edwin Landseer, "how much our dog Bowser's smile is like your cook's?"

"Yes," replied the great animal painter. "I have noticed it, but I didn't think any one else had. And if I dared to put that dog's smile in a picture the critics would declare I was guilty of an absurdity."

Not only was the charge frequently brought against Landseer, but it has been brought against numerous other animal painters that they endow their horses, dogs, and cats with human expressions.

"A dog expresses joy by wagging his tail," wrote a critic in the Examiner, "and not by the play of his facial muscles. Where Mr. Landseer commits a blunder is by seeking to portray emotion in brutes by the same signs that serve for the human animal."

Is this true? Has you dog or cat no power to express delight, sorrow, dejection, contentment, amusement, disappointment on its countenance in the same way, if not to the same degree, as its master and mistress can? Scientific observers seem to disagree on this question. Sir Charles Bell's statement that "the faces of animals seem chiefly capable of expressing rage and fear" has been flatly denied by Darwin, who says: "He who will look at a dog preparing to attack another dog or a man, and at the same animal when caressing its master, or will watch the countenance of a monkey when insulted and when fondled by its keeper, will be forced to admit that the movements of their features and their gestures are almost as expressive as those of man."

But, as another great naturalist points out, there will always be unobservant people who from lack of application will remain skeptical. They see the purely canine and feline expressions without noticing those which resemble the human. When, for instance, a dog is about to spring on his antagonist he utters a savage growl; the ears are pressed closely backward and the upper lip is retracted out of the way of his teeth. These movements may be observed with dogs and puppies at play. But if a dog is really savage in his play his expression immediately changes. This, however, is simply due to the lips and ears being drawn back with much greater energy. If a dog only snarls at another, the lip is generally retracted on one side alone—i. e., toward his enemy. All this is easily understood as is the expression of fear and disgust. But how many persons understand that, through centuries of association with man, dogs and cats have gradually assimilated, and are still further assimilating, to man's expressions?

Sir C. Pell, in his "The Anatomy of Expression," remarks: "Dogs, in their expression of fondness, have a slight eversion of the lips, and grin and sniff amidst their snarls in a way that resembles laughter. Some persons speak of the grin as a smile, but if it had been really a smile we should see a similar, though more pronounced, movement of the lips and ears when dogs utter their bark of joy; but this is not the case, although a bark of joy often follows a grin. On the other hand, dogs, when playing with their comrades or masters, almost always pretend to bite each other, and then retract—though not energetically—their lips and ears."

FARMERS AGAINST THE RABBIT.

Bridgeport Farmer: Most assuredly the proposed protection of rabbits by imposing a limit upon catches and by lessening the opening season will not be approved by farmers and fruit growers. Under present limitation rabbits have multiplied until they have become almost a plague.

Their principal offense is the girdling of fruit trees, to which they are strongly addicted even when the ground is not snow covered. So far as known they serve no useful purpose except as food; their pelts are next to valueless, bringing only a cent each and "slow sale" even at that price. Farmers bring the additional charge that rabbit hunters tear down and do not reconstruct their fences, and this complaint is founded upon facts.

WISE AND FRANK.

Los Angeles Times: Champ Clark, the Democratic leader, was condemning, in an after-dinner speech in Bowling Green, a political measure.

"It's a wrong measure," he said, "and our friends would do well to admit it is a wrong measure. To admit an error wins people over—to admit an error is almost as good as to retrieve it.

"Take the case of Parson Saunders: Parson Saunders, a little perturbed one Sunday morning over the high cost of living or some such worldly matter, made a mistake in the reading of the scriptural lessons. He read the second lesson where he should have read the first.

"As he neared the end of his reading, the parson saw he was in error. He saw that his congregation knew he was in error. How, then, to conclude?

"To conclude in the orthodox way. 'Here endeth the second lesson,' would hardly do, as it was not the second lesson, but the first; nor could it, on the other hand, be called the first lesson, since properly it was the second.

"Parson Saunders, after a moment's thought, wisely concluded:

"'Here endeth the wrong lesson.'"

OUR CRITICS.

Los Angeles Times: Prof. Brander Matthews, in one of his brilliant lectures at Columbia college on the drama, said:

"Then there is the auditor of another type.

"A famous actor, at a Christmas entertainment at a Fifth avenue millionaire's palace, rose to recite Mrs. Browning's 'Dead Pan.' As he announced his subject and prepared to begin, he heard a lady near him say distinctly:

"'What is the next piece? Something funny, I hope. Oh, yes—'The Dead Pan!' How odd! Of course it must be funny—something about bad cooking, I suppose.'"

A LONG WALK.

Los Angeles Times: Allan A. Ryan, the president of the Aero Club of America, said at a recent areonauts' banquet in New York:

"There's a chap in France who is getting remarkable results out of a study of the flight of the large soaring birds, the eagle, condor and vulture. He tames these huge creatures. They walk at his side like dogs. A condor of his at the Pau aerodrome narrowly escaped being run over by an automobile last month.

"There is always something funny about walking birds. You will remember that windy winter day when the blasts were so wild and strong that the crows all had to walk home. Can't you see those crows, black and grave, trudging sturdily homeward along the wind swept and snowy road?

"I heard the other day about a man who bet a pigeon fancier that he hadn't a pigeon that could make the trip from Philadelphia to New York. The pigeon fancier accepted this bet, and foolishly entrusted his best carrier pigeon to his opponent. The latter, though, before releasing the bird in Philadelphia, clipped its wings.

"The next day the fancier admitted sadly that his pigeon had not yet come home.

"'Then I win,' said the other man.

"'No; you must wait a bit,' objected the fancier.

"The second day the pigeon had still not returned. But the third day the fancier gaily demanded payment of his wager.

"'My bird is back,' he said, 'and in superb condition only his feet are sore.'"

CRUTCHES OR BIERS.

Los Angeles Times: Richard Croker, at a dinner in New York, expressed a distrust for aeroplanes.

"There's nothing underneath them," he said. "If the least thing goes wrong, down they drop.

"I said to a Londoner the other day: "'How is your son getting on since he bought a flying machine?"

"'On crutches, like the rest of them,' the Londoner replied."

SAYS PACT IS A "CON" GAME

La Follette Denounces Reciprocity Bill in Speech in Senate.

Claims It Will Cost Farmers of Three States Alone $40,000,000.

Washington, July 21.—That the whole reciprocity proposition is nothing but a "confidence game" that will cost the farmers of three states alone—Minnesota and North and South Dakota—something like $40,000,000, was the assertion of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin in his speech in the senate today in opposition to the passage of the bill.

Senator La Follette further denounced the reciprocity bill as a fraud and deception on the voters. He said he had always been taught to believe that one of the most reprehensible things in the category of politics was to cheat the voter, who had the opportunity to vote but few times for presidential candidates.

He arraigned the party for not living up to its creed as laid down in the Republican campaign text book. Holding up that document, he said that it had been conspicuously ignored by the senate.

He cited declarations of the party on reciprocity principles and excoriated the supporters of the pact for "not adhering to the party's expressed declarations on reciprocity."

EIGHT ARRESTS FOR HOLD UP

Many Suspects Corralled in Northern Pacific Affair.

St. Paul, Minn., July 21.—Three men suspected of being concerned in the holdup of the Northern Pacific North Coast Limited near Buffalo, N. D., are being held by the authorities at Melrose, Minn.; three others are detained at Tolna, N. D., and two are in jail at Fargo, N. D., awaiting investigation.

It was at first thought that the robbers had made their escape in an automobile from Buffalo, and posses chased a machine some miles, only to find that it contained a party of farmer boys.

Conductor Wheeler, in charge of the train, is certain the men were former employes of some railroad, as they used railroad technical terms and expressions, demanded switch keys and other things, demonstrating their complete familiarity with the operation of coast trains as differing from locals.

DISEASE DEVILS.

Chicago News: One of the lowest castes in India is the Mang, concerning whom a writer says: "Of all the practices in which the Mangs have a part perhaps the most significant is that which has reference to ceremonies of 'riddance' in connection with epidemics. Such ceremonies would seem to have been universal at one time or another among all primitive peoples and are apparently of two different kinds. Either the 'diseases devil' is driven forth by force with much uproar or he is persuaded by methods of kindness and propitiation to remove his unwelcomed presence. The latter method is employed in certain parts of the Deccan and on such occasions the Mangs play an important part.

"A male buffalo, purchased by the contributions of the village, is led to the temple of Mar Ai, the goddess specially associated with epidemic diseases. A Mang woman is then dressed to represent the goddess, red paint is applied to her forehead and the horns and flanks of the buffalo and a procession is formed, headed by the woman and by the buffalo, which is usually led by Mangs. In front of the buffalo walk seven Mangs, each bearing an earthenware pot containing a mixture of four intoxicating drugs and seven kinds of grain.

"The buffalo is cut with a sword and a hole is pierced in one after another of the jars so that as the procession circumambulates the village its passage is marked by a trail of blood and of the liquid dripping from the jars. On reaching once more the temple of the godess, the buffalo is killed and the woman, who all the time is forbidden to look behind her, drinks of its blood. The head of the buffalo is then buried before the goddess."

HEREDITARY LITERARY GENIUS.

London Evening Standard: Perhaps it is remarkable that instances of hereditary literary genius are not more common. Among recent examples in England we might add the Darwins, who have afforded a fine example of the family doctrine of evolution. But such examples are after all rare and one cannot recall any example of supreme literary genius being repeated in the second generation.

It was, I think, a phrase of Pater that there was always about genius "something of the blossoming of the aloe." In other words, there seems to be in the production of genius a long preparation and a sudden and final flowering of certain unique qualities. And to support this view of a flowering season of genius in families we have such examples as the Brontes and the Rossettis and the Tennysons, where literary talent is found in several members of the same family in a single generation. Perhaps one might add such modern instances as the Bensons and the Housmans.

Sometimes genius skips a generation, just as good fruit years are not commonly consecutive; and sometimes the genius takes a different form. Everybody knows the story of the Mendelssohn who came between the two famous Mendelssohns, the father, Moses Mendelssohn, the philosopher, and his son, Felix Mendelssohn, the musician. He complained that for the first half of his life he was known as Mendelssohn's son and for the second half as Mendelssohn's father.

WHALES IN A QUARREL.

Melbourne correspondence London Standard: A remarkable incident has taken place on the coast of Perkins Island (North Tasmania), no fewer than thirty-seven monster whales having been stranded there. The whales, among which there was only one cow, quarreled, and in chasing the female entered the shallows. All attempted to jump backward into deep water, only to fail in every effort. As the tide receded the huge animals were left floundering on the sands, in which they half buried themselves in their struggles. Unable to help themselves they perished in a short time.

A number of persons who saw the spectacle formed a syndicate with a capital of £300 to recover the ambergris from the carcases. They have already obtained 3,000 pounds of the valuable commodity.

DECLINES IN FACE OF NEWS

Wheat Lower in Spite of Report of Black Rust.

Duluth Option Loses 3/8 Cents—Linseed Is Inactive.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 21.—Wheat lost ⅜c in Duluth today and showed declines in other American markets on profit taking principally. Black rust reports continue to come in and the news from the Northwest fields is nearly all bullish, but in view of the heavy accumulation of wheat in Chicago, traders are a little wary of a bull market.

Trading was light on the Duluth board today and the losses here were principally a reflection of Minneapolis and Chicago where the weakness was more pronounced.

There was little activity in the linseed market, but some interest was aroused by the bidding up of July linseed, which showed a gain of 5c on the day's light trading.

The cash demand continues fair in Duluth and strong in Minneapolis. Cash holds in Duluth at 3c over September, while in Minneapolis it ranges from 1½c to 2¾c over September. Cash sales in Duluth today were a little lighter than on previous days this week, but the condition is normal.

Wheat stocks are estimated to decrease 175,000 bu. in Duluth for this week, while Minneapolis will also show a substantial decrease. Chicago stocks are unusually large, it being estimated that there are about 28,000,000 bu. in elevators with a capacity of 31,000 bu.

July wheat was lifeless in Duluth today and closed ⅜c off at $1.00⅛ bid. September wheat opened unchanged at 97½c, fell off to 97⅜c, advanced to 97½c again, dropped off to 97c, went to 97½c and closed at 97⅛c.

July linseed opened at $2.10 bid, unchanged, and advanced to $2.15, closing at $2.15 asked. September linseed closed unchanged at $2.09 nominal. October linseed opened 1c off at $1.99 bid, advanced to $2 bid and closed at that figure.

Durum wheat was ½c off at 89c for the September option. Oats were ¼c off at 42½c and corn was ⅜c off at 63⅞c. Rye was unchanged.

Liverpool wheat closed ¾d to ⅞d higher, Berlin wheat ⅝c higher, Buenos Ayres wheat 1c up and Paris wheat ¼c up.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The wheat market opened firm, 3½d to ½d higher and further advanced ¼d to ¾d on lighter Argentine shipments and favorable crop advices together with the strength in Buenos Ayres at the close. Receipts are light and there is an improved demand for spot and reduced crop prospects in Canada. At 1:30 p. m. the market was firm at ⅝d to ¾d higher with light speculative offers on the strength in coarse grains.

"After opening ¾d higher, corn further advanced ¾d with the undertone strong on the strength in America and a good inquiry for American parcels. Our Buenos Ayres agent cables that beneficial rains have fallen. The closing firmness was attributed entirely to speculative buying due to unfavorable crop advices from America. Corn continues strong on small supplies."

MARKET GOSSIP

"When the bulls get through killing the crops with drouth, black rust and other crop killers on the boards of trade throughout the country, the farmers of North Dakota will harvest a good big crop," said James Hackney, who owns one big farm at Rockford, N. D., and another at Fallon, Mont. Mr. Hackney was on the board of trade today.

He said that the crop will not be a bumper one by any means, but it will be a good-sized crop that will keep the wolves and other spectres of poverty away from the doors of the farmers of the Northwest.

The Dakota Farmer of Aberdeen says:

"South Dakota crop conditions have not changed materially since our last report. A very light crop of small grain was then indicated and late rains bettered it only in limited areas.

"No part of the state will harvest a normal crop of wheat, oats or barley while in some sections there will be a total failure. Every part of the state reports a few fields much better than the rest and usually attributed to better methods of tillage. Flax still gives promise of fair to good yields in nearly all sections. Corn is the best ever known and greatly in advance of any previous year in every particular. The fields are free of weeds and reasonable weather from now on will assure the best and largest crop in the history of the state.

"North Dakota crops, as a whole, have depreciated somewhat since our last report.

"Little moisture and excessive heat have had a deteriorating effect on the crop in general and some portions have suffered considerably. The extreme southern part of the state was most affected, though in many parts of the state a spotted condition is shown. Some sections report all small grain in excellent shape, but generally the condition is only fair. Corn is excellent and promises the greatest crop by more than double that the state ever produced. Flax is holding its earlier good condition well and all reports are encouraging.

"Montana crops are still in splendid condition, as a whole, and a record-breaking crop is anticipated. Some sections of the eastern part of the state will harvest light crops but the great bulk of the grain in Montana is in excellent shape. Alfalfa is heavy and the first crop is in the stack.

"Wyoming dry land crops are in fair condition and alfalfa heavy and native grass good. Pastures and meadows in North Dakota are better than normal in most of the state while South Dakota reports show the lightest hay crop and poorest pasture conditions ever known.

"More rain is needed for corn and flax. Harvest is about over in Southern South Dakota and will begin in all parts of our territory from a week to ten days earlier than usual."

These two counties have 515,000 acres and will average 8 to 10 bu along the north shore of the lake conditions are fine due partly to the light soil which failed to hold the moisture but largely to weeds and wild oats which have finished a section already weakened by drught. Eighty miles east to Grand Forks the crops are perfect and will easily average 15 bu per acre. A few fields will not make over 5 bu but a great many will go 25. Wheat and flax generally looking better than oats and barley."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Black Rust Reports Make Wheat Prices Turn Higher.

Chicago, July 21.—Black rust reports from the Northwest, particularly the Red river valley in North Dakota, made wheat prices today turn higher. One piece of news asserted that the damage would reduce the crop in the state mentioned one-fourth to one-half. The feeling of uneasiness was increased by other injury being reported, notably ravages by grasshoppers in the same region. Firm cables and continued export inquiry counted also in favor of the bulls. Opening prices were ¼c off to ¾c up. September started at 88⅜c to 88¾c, a range of ¼c to ¾c advance. After touching 88¼@88¾c, the option rose to 89c.

Subsequently, favorable weather reports from the Canadian Northwest relaxed prices in a surprising manner. The close was weak with September at 88@88¼c, a net loss of ⅛@⅝c.

Light receipts and scantiness of moisture strengthened the corn market. It was gossip that a large part of the local stock had been sold for shipment. September opened ⅛c to ¼c higher at 67¼c to 65c, and ascended to 65¼c.

The market later eased off under realizing. Closing figures were weak with September ⅝c down at 64¾c. Oats followed corn on the upgrade. There was a good deal of scattered commission buying. September started ¼c to ⅜c dearer at 42½c to 42¾c, reacted to 42¼@42⅜c and rallied to 42⅝c.

A fair demand kept provisions in the main firm. Initial sales were 2½@5c off to 7½c higher, with January delivery $15.50 for pork, $8.25 for lard and $8 for ribs.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Strong and Active and Good Gains Are Recorded.

Union Pacific Sells Up to Highest Figure of the Year.

New York, July 21.—Small gains were made in many of the active stocks at the opening today, but heaviness in Reading and the copper shares gave the list an appearance of irregularity. The local traction securities held steady. The Hill stocks made further gains, Great Northern preferred advancing 1¼ and Northern Pacific ½. Canadian Pacific rose 1¼.

The market grew firmer after the opening. The demand for railroad stocks was most pronounced, and a number of these issues made large gains. Canadian Pacific increased its rise to 2½, and the stocks of allied properties advanced with it. Wisconsin Central gaining 2⅝. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie preferred 1½, and the common 1. Northern Pacific rose 1¼. Union Pacific and Western Maryland preferred 1 and Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred 2½. Reading recovered from its early heaviness and scored a small gain.

Although special interest still centered largely today in the outcome of the local traction tangle, the stock market was less disturbed than yesterday. After an irregular opening, prices held fairly steady on a higher range with the Hill and Canadian stocks chief gainers. Canadian Pacific once more made a high record, touching 247. Trading in the traction issues was small until it was announced that the subway awards had all gone to the Brooklyn Rapid transit. That stock gained a point, while Interborough-Metropolitan preferred lost 1⅛ and the common stock and 4½ per cent bonds lesser amounts. The rest of the market shaded off with the interborough securities but at noon prices ranged well above the low point of the day. Brooklyn Rapid Transit convertible 4's rose nearly a point but aside from the traction issues, the bond market was quiet and firm.

A few issues lost ground in the afternoon, but the whole market as a whole held firm. Canadian Pacific sold at more than a point below its high price of the day.

The market closed strong. There was more activity in the last hour when best prices of the day were recorded. Union Pacific sold up 2 points to 191¾, the highest figure of the year. Pittsburg Coal preferred made a similar gain and marked strength was shown by Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific, Reading, Lehigh Valley, St. Paul and United States Steel. In the special class American Beet Sugar gained 1.

TRUE MAGIC POWERS.

Strand: A curious tree grows in the cemetery at Tanah-Abang at Weltevreden, Batavia, Isle of Java (Dutch East Indies), which is called the tree of "Father (or Captain) Jas." Father Jas, an officer of the old East India company, died in 1795, and was the first man whose remains were buried in the above named cemetery; or, as people in Batavia used to say, he was the first inhabitant of Tanah-Abang. In the course of time a wild fig tree commenced to grow on the grave, and is at the present time a large tree with a heavy trunk that embraces in its roots the original tombstone. Only a few portions of this stone are now visible. There is a strange superstition about this tree; people saving that when a lady makes a wish at the grave beneath it the wish is fulfilled, but the wisher ought to hang a garland on the tree. It seems, indeed, that many wishes are fulfilled, as a large number of garlands adorn the tree. At Christmas time, especially, the tree is decorated with many fresh garlands. In Batavia it is often said that a man "has gone to Father Jas," which means that he died and was buried at the Tanah-Abang cemetery.
